Chamber of Commerce CURRENTS By the Secretary

Last Thursday night was Sawyer night, but we failed to make it as two of the cars drowned out and we had no place to keep the drums out of the wet. But two of us went down to make excuses and found several hundred people waiting and enough food for five hundred. However we made a new date with them for August 12th and want everyone to get busy and be there on the dot.

Remember that on the afternoon of the 19th that President Duggan, Manager Wade, Publicity Manager Whitehead, and Exhibit Manager Whitaker will be here with their wives. They will speak at the court house if it is ready, but if not some other place will be used, probably the tabernacle.

They are the high officials of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and we want to secure a large crowd and farmers are especially invited.

The subjects to be covered by Mr. Duggan and Mr. Wade are "Tax Revision and Diversification."

The dates of the New Mexico trip have been changed to the 16th, 17th and 18th on account of interfering with District Court. We will also run into a big celebration at Carlsbad where large crowds will be congregated and we should secure much good publicity on that day and publicity and pleasure are the objects of the trip. All of those who expect to go should notify the secretary in order that badges may be printed for them. We want a large delegation or none. All are invited whether members of the Chamber of Commerce or not.

Up to this date we have not succeeded in getting our citizens interested in a county fair, but we will exhibit in Lubbock and Dallas. Save the best stuff for us.

Will give some potash news next week, have a letter from the Department of Interior but am expecting others.

There will be petitions at each bank and all drug stores requesting Commissioners Court to employ a County Demonstration Agent. All in favor of this please sign this petition so that they may be presented to the court at the next meeting.

BAPTIST MEETING UNDER WAY AT TABERNACLE

Owing to the fact that his mother was sick in Oklahoma, Rev. John G. Winsett did not arrive Sunday for the first day of the revival meeting for the Baptist church here, now under way at the City Tabernacle, but arrived Monday afternoon. Rev. C. E. Ball, local pastor did the preaching Sunday morning and evening.

They have the tabernacle well seated and lighted, and great crowds are hearing the evangelist especially at the evening services.

The meeting will go on until at least the third Sunday.

MARRIED

Mr. G. W. Hicks of this city, and Mrs. Exer Cason, of the Wellman section of this county, came in last Sunday afternoon about 7 o'clock, to the residence of Rev. C. E. Ball, the local Baptist pastor, and were united in marriage. We understand that they will continue to reside in Terry county.

Mr. George Snodgrass, head carpenter on the courthouse job, and Miss Ethel Walters, charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Walters, wrote to Tahoka Sunday, July 18th, where Squire Mevaille said the words that joined them together for life. The fact that they were married did not become generally known until last week, and then it was kind of a guessing contest, and the groom had to be interviewed for the facts.

Mr. Felix Proctor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Proctor, and Miss Grace Barret, charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Barret were quietly married last Saturday afternoon at the courthouse, Judge H. R. Winston officiating. The young couple left immediately for Roswell, N. M., where they will spend some time before returning to Brownfield, where they will be home to their friends. Mr. Proctor is employed as carpenter on the courthouse job.

Mr. L. H. Plain, prominent local business man, and Mrs. Myrtis McPhaul, charming young matron, also of this city, drove to Roswell last Friday and were married, returning to Brownfield, Tuesday of this week. They will be home to their friends on east Hardin street.

TERRY TO BE REPRESENTED AT LUBBOCK AND DALLAS

At a recent meeting of the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce, it was decided to send an exhibition to both Lubbock and Dallas fairs this fall, and every member of the Chamber is a committee of one to select stuff to be exhibited.

Secretary Shelton announces that this is one time Terry county will and can enter the exhibits with a full score card, and a big effort will be made to bring down some prizes or make the other fellow hump.

The Chamber of Commerce asks the co-operation of every farmer and business man of the county, to the end that old Terry can make the best showing of our history. We all love our county, and by working together we can show the world why we love it.

Mr. Jenkins had been ailing for several days and was being treated by local physicians. He married Mr. Bell's youngest sister, we understand, who was with him at the time of his death.

The body was prepared by the undertaking section of the Brownfield Hardware Co., and carried to Post, Saturday night, where it was put on board the midnight train in order to reach Dallas, Sunday. Besides the wife, Mr. and Mrs. Bell, accompanied the remains to Dallas.

IMPROVEMENTS UNDER WAY IN BROWNFIELD

Dock Powell is spending some $1,500 in improvements on the old Mercantile building, which includes stuccoing the outside and building a new concrete sidewalk on the Small street side of the building. This work is being done by Whisenant & Sons. He is also having the interior treated to a new coat of calsemine and varnish, which is being done by Green & Winston.

The beautiful new brick residence of M. V. Brownfield on Tahoka street is now almost ready for occupancy, and adds much to the looks of that section of the city.

The concrete and steel part of the A. M. Brownfield new brick residence in the eastern section of the city is finished and the brick masons are busy laying brick. This is going to be a very fine home when completed.

The old McAdams lumber yard office which has set in the street while the new Moore building was under construction, is being wrecked this week and the material will be used toward the construction of another new residence for the Moore boys.

Jim Moore has moved his produce business in the rear section of the new Moore building, and has a very neat and clean place to handle his business. He informed us that he was going to do his very best to keep a clean sanitary place all the time. H. H. Langston is also occupying a portion of the building with his boot and shoe shop, and looks much more at home in the new quarters.

Will and Charley Moore have decided to use their new building themselves and are putting in two gasoline pumps in the driveway section this week. They are making an effort also, to secure the agency of some popular car to carry along with other auto accessories, tires, tubes, etc. They are going to have a very nice place when it is finished.

Mr. Ross Berry, who owns several farms in the Union community has decided to put several of his farms on the market, to actual farmers, and has offered them on the unique crop payment plan.

BANKER BELIEVES BROWNFIELD SURE FOR 15000 BALES

One of our local bankers who has recently visited almost every section of Terry county, is of the opinion that Brownfield will get at least 15,000 bales of cotton with the present outlook, and would not be surprised at even more, possibly 20,000 bales. His opinion is also borne out by sundry other cotton men of the city who have recently toured the trade territory adjacent to Brownfield. They are also of the opinion that we are in for a bumper corn and feed crop.

The only thing now to worry about is the price, as only an unforeseen calamity now could destroy the crop already in sight. This also is worrying the farmers, for they realize that with another sixteen million bale crop nothing but a miracle could save us from 10 and 12 cent cotton.

However, there is one consolation in this, is if might be so classed, and that is, South Plains farmers can raise cotton cheaper than any other section of the state, but they are not looking for cheap, though.

BUSINESS MEN TRUBBS DOWN ON TRADES DAY

At a recent luncheon of the local Chamber of Commerce members, it was decided to discontinue First Monday Trades Day for the time being, to be revived later if conditions justify. It was pointed out that at this time of year the people were not only busy, but could easily manage to spend all the money they could spare on Saturdays, and there was no use adding another day until business conditions are better.

Another thing that has not heretofore been taken into consideration is the fact that people no longer go to town to trade horses; they all go in cars now, or practically all do, and if you want to trade broom-tail ponies with a farmer you'll have to go to his barn. The only unless some form of entertainment is provided, Trades Day is a summer at this stage of the world.

Members of the Chamber and Dick Stinson and family, are here visiting this week. Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Selman.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE NEWS

A large number at Roswell have watched closely the dispatches concerning the killing of a man by the name of Chipp by Rev. Frank Norris, the sensational Fort Worth preacher. The interest is occasioned by the fact that many of the observers have met Dr. Norris, and the novelty in the case of a preacher forgetting all about the commandment not to kill and blazing away just like an ordinary man. Of course there are many angles in the case. In the first place when the man Chipp invaded the premises of the preacher and abused him, he should have been thrown out by the scruff of the neck, with sundry kicks in the southeast quarter. The church house was Norris' property as catodian. But then again, there is no evidence to show that the parson was in any danger, though he claims that Chipp made as though to draw, when he might have been reaching for a cigarette, if in fact he was reaching at all. The most astounding thing of all is that we read that Miss Norris, the killer's daughter, rejoices in the deed, and he is rather proud of it than otherwise. This after twenty years of preaching the sixth commandment! The worst part of it all is that there are many men, who are looking for contradictions anyhow, who will say that if this is the modern conception of religion, they want none of it. They are the same class who base their estimates on the finest and most glorious thing in the world by the rantings and mouthings of professionals evangelists, instead of by the thousands and thousands of men and women who do their best to live the Golden Rule every day, and by the multitude of preachers and priests who are living examples of the doctrines they teach, overcoming the fact that the world is full of hypocrites, and that all who talk about heaven are not going there by a darn sight. Really the most regrettable thing of the Norris incident, therefore, is that both of the gentlemen were not armed and that they did not both shoot at the same time.—Roswell Dispatch.

Mrs. Chester Gore and children returned last week from Mineral Wells where she visited her mother, Mrs. Lee Walker.

Albert Endersen and family, Dube Pyeatt and Miss Lewis returned last week from their vacation in Colorado. They report a glorious time.

THERE IS NO SATURATION POINT FOR HONEST VALUE

Build a product that the world needs, better than the world expects, and mounting sales will answer those who are constantly predicting a saturated market.

During the first six months of this year, for instance, Dodge Brothers sold 207,115 motor cars and trucks. This represents a gain of 49.3 per cent over the first six months of 1925, and continues Dodge Brothers in the enviable position of THIRD IN THE INDUSTRY.

For the three weeks ending July 17th, 23,862 motor cars and trucks were delivered to customers—an increase of 62.4 per cent over the same period last year, and impressive evidence that Dodge Brothers great sales gain is continuing through the quiet weeks of mid-summer.

There may be a saturation point for mediocrity, but honest value will always command a great and ever expanding market.

BEING A CANDIDATE'S WIFE

Author's Note:—It seems that a few readers have mistaken the intent of my article, thinking it was written from true incidents. Permit me to say the whole fabric is purely fiction, including the characters, candidates, the county and state, no to say anything about the offices they seek. It has no connection whatever with any race my husband has ever been in, or any part I have taken in them. Nothing nor no incident mentioned ever really happened that we are aware. Too, the language used is not pure King's English; wasn't intended to be, but is the everyday language of most of us mortals. With this explanation, we proceed with the second installment.

"Say Old Boy, you made a rip roaring speech. If it hadn't been for the wife you wouldn't had much to tell us." This was intended for a joke, my husband laughed with him. But I took it for a jest. Inside me burned a fierce desire to punch the voter in the jaw. But instead I smiled in my best manner as we walked away arm in arm, leaving the man in a fit of high laughter.

Not many days later a neighbor moved in close by. She like the rest of us was eager to make her way into the social whirl. And what do you think, she didn't do one thing but come over and ask me to assist her in staging a big joint bridge party. This appealed to me. So I delved into it, without once consulting my husband which I never should have done. I was dreaming of the publicity. We had it all disposed of and we had acclaimed it a success. But I was to meet my husband yet. I stood at the door to welcome him. I was wearing my only new dress up to date. And when he saw me, he sensed something had happened or was going to happen.

"What's up Dear?" He asked as he kissed me. Coming into the house.

"Oh-er-you knew about our bridge party this evening?" I didn't get any further.

"Bridge!" He yelled. "Bridge!" For the moment I felt that I had come to a bridge that had been wrecked and I had fallen head first into the stream.

"Yes," I answered meekly, not exactly sure of my footing. By this time my husband was pacing the floor and running his fingers through his hair, troubled to death.

That old saying, "True Love Never Runs Smooth," came to my mind. If there was anything in it, we must be more than truly in love, for the places were getting rougher and rougher.

"Now haven't you played Hell! This came like a thunderbolt from the sky. I could not think that my husband was saying the like to me.

"Really I thought the friends would like to know that your wife could do such a thing—" But I didn't finish.

"Friends. We won't have any, if this gets out. Did you know that some people had as soon hear that we had robbed the National Bank as staged a bridge party in our home. Phone that neighbor to check the write up! Do it at once!" The commands came like torrents.

Well I had stood about all I wanted. I was ready to fight. I would have welcomed the idea of donning boxing gloves and settled it with a real bout. That was the proper way to do it. Then I realized where I was, who I was. Slowly I made my way to the telephone and called my neighbor. Then there was explaining and reexplaining. I hoped she understood. When it was through, I was obvious of one thing, I had obeyed the commands. Why? I was a candidate's wife, that was all.

Then came the revivals, camp meeting. We attended so many that my head was in a whirl as to the church I joined thirteen years ago. I remember very distinctly one big revival we attended. It was being held under a large tabernacle. I don't remember what denomination, maybe a union meeting of three or four churches. Anyhow it was drawing to a close and as you know the preachers, singers, players and everyone except the congregation demanded their pay. I was more than well pleased with the happenings up to this time. For one reason, we hadn't been called on for any money. It had come to the last day, last collection. Some fellow was taking the names, while two more took the money.

I was all smiles when my husband turned to me and said, "Dear we must give something." He whispered as though he had no intention of giving more than two and a half. I assured him in my best way. "Sure."

Then my husband made a sudden out burst and instead of holding his hand up as the rest had done, he rose from his seat and announced, "I'll give one hundred dollars." He spoke as calmly as though he was saying, pass me the salt or pepper which ever it might be. He sat down.

I was too stunned to look up. I felt that a streak of lightning had hit so close that I feared to move, I might be dead. Then I came to myself enough to look up into my husband's face. It seemed there was a halo of light encircled his head like you see

INSTITUTE TO BE HEID IN LUBBOCK SEPTEMBER 6 TO 10

At a recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the South Plains Teacher's Association held in Lubbock, final arrangements neared completion for the Institute to be held in that city September 6 to 10, inclusive.

Members of the faculty for the Institute have been selected, namely: Dr. P. W. Horn, conductor; A. W. Evans and C. L. Sone, assistant conductors; Dr. C. G. Judd, of Chicago University, general speaker; Miss Lila Baugh, director of primary section; Miss Carrie Nash, director of third and fourth grades section; Miss M. H. Duncan, director of superintendent and Principal section; Dean Liedigh, director of Rural section; Dr. J. M. Gordon, director of Intermediate section; Prof. A. W. Evans, director of High School section.

There will be many features of the Institute which will be very instructive and entertaining to those who attend. One of the most outstanding of these will be the work of Dr. Judd, who is recognized as one of the leading educators of the United States, and an able speaker. He will speak twice daily on the general program.

More than a thousand teachers are expected to be in attendance, among whom will be the teachers of Lamb county. The daily schedule will begin at 8:30 and go until 12, and will resume work from 1:30 until 4 o'clock.

Miss Kate Duke returned recently from Dallas where she took a special course, and obtained a certificate from the Marinello Beauty Culture School, and will be found at her old stand in the Sanitary Barber Shop. She is prepared to give all kinds of facials, scalp treatments and hair curling.

Last year Texas produced 2,695,400 bushels peaches, valued at $4,635,400.

above angel's heads. There was a broad smile on everyone else's face, but mine. I hoped the crowd didn't see what I did at this time. I nudged him good and hard. He faced me.

"Sh, Dear I intended to. We have a note coming in next month."

The very idea of him giving more than anyone else and saying he would have given it had he not been a candidate. I didn't believe it. But I hope the Lord accepts it as the truth.

But I was thinking of the bankers who being so nice to us. Never had they refused us one cent. Then to have my husband, a candidate, just to throw their money away, or to make it just as forcible say, give it away. I really and truly believe if a bank would carry on a profitable, safe business, they should have signs posted conspicuously about their lobbies reading like this, "If you are a Candidate, We don't want you, or We'll vote for you, but that's all."

I managed to be present on Sunday mornings before a class of young folks to try and teach them the simple walks of life. I loved them so much that I planned a nice surprise for them one Sunday morning. I told them to come to my house at four o'clock in the evening. It didn't take the time long to roll around.

I had picked my nicest melons and laid them in the shade on my porch. They were a tempting sight. My husband came in in the evening and failed to see them. There was a few minutes to spare, I ran over to my neighbor's house. I had no more than sat down when I heard honks of several cars. I glanced out the window and saw the cars lined up at the curb. "There's the folks, I must go."

As I neared the house I saw golf sticks in the cars. I thought this strange for my Sunday School class. Then my husband crawled out, a dozen or more men fell in line.

My husband caught sight of the melons. "Come on boys," I don't suppose there is anything he likes better unless it is fishing. He made a dive for them and from the way he acted he must have thought I had fixed for him and his gang.

My heart sank within me. I didn't think he would dare touch them without first asking me. By the time I reached the porch each man had a melon, spoon and salt. I wanted to cry out, scream or do anything to express my feelings. Hope died within me as I walked nearer, my husband took the last melon. He turned and faced me.

"Hello Wife, Many thanks for the surprise. Boys meet my little helpmate." The men nodded not once letting up in their eating.

I wanted to yell at them that it had not been fixed for them. That I hated all of them. My lips trembled in spite of it all. Well the odds were against me. I made my way slowly into the house and answered in a disappointed voice.

"You're more than welcome, I suspected you're coming." Then I thought, "That's the way with a darn candidate's wife."

Skunk's Combat With Crows Unequal Match

How one skunk staged a battle with a flock of crows and was worried by them on a floating cake of ice in Wabash river is told by a rancher living east of Weiser, Idaho. His attention was attracted by the uproar of the crows and he watched the battle for some time, says the Milwaukee Journal.

The birds were apparently excited by the skunk's proximity. Occasionally a crow would lose control of itself and fall into the water and drown. As the ice floe floated nearer the battle grew in intensity.

The crows were fierce in their attacks but the skunk was just as fierce using not only his claws but apparently also his poison gas equipment. He would dart his best weapon into the eyes of his assailants and there would be one less crow to combat.

Gas supplies finally gave out and the unequal battle ended when several of the birds alighted on the floe and picked out the skunk's eyes. As the floe drifted out of sight the skunk was stretched feebly on his side, with the crows picking vigorously at him. The rancher counted more than a dozen dead crows in the stream.

Water That Burns

Powder river is a fitting name for the stream which passes through the northeastern section of Wyoming—it burns.

"Burning water" exists in several places on the river where natural gas is found bubbling up through water. Some bubbles will ignite when a match is applied.

During the winter peculiar formations are caused by the gas seepages. When the river is frozen over, gas accumulates under the ice and as the pressure gathers, it forces thin sprays of water through the weaker spots in the ice and these sprays freeze in curious formations of arches and low pillars.

The gas does not make the water unpalatable for drinking. In Arvada there is a drinking fountain, the water of which can be set on fire at any time.

Inkfish That Blinds

Enemies With Light

A cuttlefish that confounds its enemies with light instead of darkness is the interesting creature described by Prof. E. Newton Harvey, student of what is popularly known as "cold light," who devoted eight months to research in the marine laboratories of Naples and Messina, Italy.

Ordinary squid or inkfish that live near the surface escape their pursuers by throwing out a cloud of black fluid, as a kind of submarine smoke screen. Professor Harvey explained this abnormal form, which lives at depths of probably ten thousand feet where no light ever penetrates, has only a rudimentary ink sac, which instead of the usual inky sepia contains a luminous substance. When disturbed it discharges a jet of this luminous material and thus blinds its enemy with light instead of darkness.

Professor Harvey is of the opinion that this deep-sea squid is a descendant of surface-living animals, but that as it evolved in darkness it found that this reversal of its ancestral mode of defense was useful in insuring its survival.

Vanity Cost Job

In the old days in the West, when saloons, instead of being blind pigs were saloons, a circus magician, down on his luck, obtained a job as bar tender. One day a traveling conjuror visited the saloon where the magician was employed, and in exchange for a few drinks did a number of tricks. The proprietor was greatly impressed and, after the conjuror left, remarked "That was a clever fellow. His color tricks were wonderful." The magician, who had said nothing of his true profession, but whose pride was now aroused, remarked, "I don't think much of them. I can do better myself." He thereupon took a dollar from his pocket, and made it disappear before the eyes of the proprietor. When he had recovered from his astonishment, the proprietor said, "You're too smart to handle my money. You're fired."—San Francisco Argonaut.

A Roughneck

Every real fellow I ever know was on occasion, something of a crank and roughneck. A real fellow will be agreeable until crowded; then it develops he has a punch.

The reliable old house dog will play prettily with the children and never growl at them, but observe him Sunday when fed at the kitchen door. Lo, another dog approach who is on the prowl and the old reliable will develop into a terror.

Note the captain of a ship. How agreeable he is to the passengers! How the ladies admire him. But in case of a panic or mutiny he is the worst roughneck on board.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

Hawaiian Legend

The natives of the Hawaiian Islands have a legend that many years ago the fire goddess, Pele, whose home they say, is now in Hawaii, lived on the island of Kauai, far to the west. According to the legend, the water god drove Pele from her western home, forcing her to take up her abode in the two mountains which are now controls. Undoubtedly this legend commemorates a condition when active volcanoes did exist on the island of Kauai.

We can supply one with beam and shovel equipment to suit your soil

Corn (cotton) and other tender, growing row crops demand careful, efficient cultivation. Neglect during the growing period will make itself known in reduced yield when the time comes to gather the crop. Surely it is poor economy to worry along without sufficient equipment or with cultivators that are badly worn when you can secure a new 1 or 2-row McCormick-Deering so easily. Remember that new tools that increase the yields or save labor are sure to be good investments. When you have gone over these McCormick-Deering Cultivators at our store you'll agree that they're winners.

"42" PARTY

A very delightful social event was given by Mrs. T. H. Wilson and Mrs. V. A. Bynum last Friday afternoon, when they entertained a number of friends with a "42" party, composing seven tables of players.

Beautiful garden flowers in pretty vases placed charmingly about the rooms presented a very lovely and refreshing atmosphere.

After several games of "42", Mrs. Cleve Austin, of Lamesa, a sister to Mrs. Wilson, in a very winsome manner read, "Tied Down," by Edgar A. Guest. A large basket of many lovely gifts was then presented to Mrs. Bynum, as a love token from her many friends.

Refreshments of Angel food cake

It is reported here that Governor Ferguson has doubled the reward for the capture of Tom Ross, yet it was reported some time back that she refused to pay the reward for the capture of Good. There must be a leak somewhere.

No, they did not beat Tom Blanton again this year, and the 17th Congressional District will probably have his services several more terms yet, unless his health fails, or death removes him from office. He beat his opponent more than three to one this time.

The eating places of the city report a good business with tourists now. The annual American ramble just about justifies itself all over the nation, and especially those places on the main highways, for while some of our citizens are off spending their dough with other cities and states, we are getting our share from their citizens. So just roll along.

If anybody thought to thank our druggists for their splendid effort in furnishing us the election news on the night of the primary, we have not learned of it, yet some probably did. The Herald however, acknowledges it did not, but here and now thanks them. We have a splendid set of druggists, who are willing to go to the limit for the accommodation of their friends and customers.

The hopes of our Republican friends to make Texas a two-party state seems to be blasted, if their vote in the recent primary means anything. While Texas Democrats were casting over 800,000 votes, they rolled up less than 12,000. Indeed, as a comparison, it is said the hindmost candidate for sheriff on the Democratic ticket in Dallas county, received more votes than both the Republican candidates for governor over the entire state.

One of our California readers of the feminine persuasion writes in to predict great retribution on Texas for its recent change of gubernatorial "hoses" in midstream. She asks why couldn't Texas take best or even second material, but closes by saying it was best for Ma, most of which with California we agree, except we wonder why Texas didn't take best instead of second best.

Lamesa is planning to stage a bathing revue. We understand both press and pulpit endorse it, as well as the citizenship in general in that section. Bathing revues have been criticised severely, but the affair proposed at Lamesa arouses no opposition. The Bathing Beauties are not to be more completely clothed than at like affairs, and there is no restriction on them parading and kicking up their heels all they want to, and yet nobody protests, because the bathing beauties are to be men.—Rotan Advance.

It certainly was a motley bunch of cohorts that met in conference with the governor-elect at Dallas recently, and included Oscar B. Colquit, Felix Robertson, and others of less note, including the representatives of some of the big corporations. However, Dan Moody has it in him to make us a good governor despite the phase of his chief advisors, and with his overwhelming popular vote, he will not be sincere with the people if he takes to much advice from the crowd mentioned above, or too little advice from the real people.

One of our exchanges reminds us not to disturb the dead, meaning the Fergusons. Alright, we shan't. But several years ago the Herald helped one by the name of Hobby bury Jim, but since that time circumstances have risen that brought Jim back to life, and one seldom hears of Hobby. Let us just remind our contemporary that things can spring up at Austin again that will resurrect Jim Ferguson, so let's pray that the incoming administration will tolerate nothing that might cause such a calamity.

UNNECESSARY EVILS

One of the most unnecessary evils and one of the greatest afflictions affecting present day society, and one of which we have records all down through history, is the fanatic.

Folks go hog wild and crazy. They can't see any good in anything or anybody except the thing they are lined up with.

Folks are living today who can't see anything good in their neighbors. Some of them can't see any good in any organization of which they are a member. They can't see any good in a person who does not handle his or her job, just as they (the fanatics) would handle it.

There is a great deal of difference between fanaticism and enthusiasm. There are many folks who think they are enthusiastic, when they are really fanatic.

They let their enthusiasm run away with them and get intolerant.

Some folks can't see anything good in other folks, just because they have found a little something wrong with the other fellow.

There are folks to be found who have an idea that the fellow who belongs to another church, or votes a different way, is all wrong.

If we could get rid of fanaticism and intolerance, the world would rock along in much better shape, for we can see that it has continued to go, all the centuries, despite the fact that fanatics have said that it was going to blow up, because things were not being run as they thought they should be.—Lamesa Journal.

Got Close to North Pole

On July 8, 1971, Charles Francis Hall sailed from New London in the Polaris in command of an expedition to the North pole. The Polaris passed through Smith sound into Kane sea, then through Kennedy and Robeson channels to the Polar sea, and August 30, 1871, reached the highest point then attained by any vessel. The expedition went into winter quarters at Thank God harbor, Greenland. Hall became ill October 24, 1871, on the return from a sledge journey to Cape Bevoort, and died of apoplexy, November 8, 1871.

"I suffered with my back so much. I was very nervous, couldn't rest good at night. I couldn't eat anything—I just wasn't hungry."

"I had read so much of Cardui, I thought best to use it. I took seven or eight bottles, and by the time I had taken them I was stronger than I had been in several years. I can highly recommend Cardui."

Thousands of other women have found that the tonic effects of the purely vegetable ingredients of Cardui were just what they needed to help restore their appetites, to help bring them easily and naturally back to normal health and strength. Its action has been found to be of great benefit in many common female ailments.

MEADOW BRIEFS

The annual trek of the great American people is now under way, and in the weeks to come the highways and byways of the East, West, North and South will be filled with tourist, sight-seers, homemakers and the fellows just on a visit to his own and his wife's kin.

The farmer who has just laid by his crop, the tired business man with the mighty host of other kinds have cranked the tin lizzie or truck or other kind of motor vehicle and hit the pike.

This is also the season of all kinds of conventions, various kind of camps, unions, clubs and big meetings where one can go and dispose of the filth of flesh get his soul cleansed and renewed for the coming winter and spring and return in the next four weeks a darned sight poorer, feeling worse than when he left, cursing all the garages between his domicile and the particular point he visited. If asked about his trip he will swear he had a glorious time and but for a few ifs the trip would have been perfect. We are a great people, and some liars in the bargain.

Dick Carruth and family are back among us again, after having failed to elect Ma, he got up and skipped. He says bottles nipples were arriving by the gross and he wishes to inform his friends and fellow sufferers that he doesn't need any more bottles, besides he is a Dan man anyhow.

We read with pleasure Mrs. Winston's article on being a Candidates Wife. It was indeed entertaining and we can now understand the Judge's success in his races for the various places filled in the past. Hope she will tell in her next the reason for his stage fright, for he was unquestionably as badly "skered" as the negroes coon. That last card of thanks was "Heart felt Religion."

The Stork didn't land in our territory the past week.

Commissioner Stewart is grading another road out East of Meadow. He is singularly happy and goes about his work in a more cheerful frame of mind than before the primary.

The papers especially of the farm variety continue to warn farmers of the various insect pests that are playing havoc in many of the counties east. If something don't happen to cut down the yield it will be a very low price. We don't grow all the fleecy staple used, as we did in the not very distant past. Other countries are rapidly coming to the front as competitors. Some sixty percent is the present amount raised by the southern farmer. We will be compelled to grow less or find other uses for the staple. If our women should only get patriotic and go to wearing clothes it would fill a great hiatus in the consumption of cotton. Where it once took ten and twelve yards to make a dress they now get on with one and two yards. Some difference.

Two of our young men while on their way to Brownfield, Sunday afternoon collided with another car and were overturned, one of them had his collar bone broken and other bruises about the body. The other one escaped with a few scratches. The car was badly wrecked. Defective steering gear is said to be the cause of the accident.

Thus the modern juggernaut of advanced civilization is becoming more dangerous to life and limb than any other contrivance devised by man since the world began. Having been in three wrecks I can appreciate the impossibility of avoiding collisions entirely. If everyone felt it his duty to look out for the other fellow and could be done to lessen the accidents of the road. But many go on the road with bad steering gear, no breaks, no lights, little discretion, and expecting the other fellow to get out of his way or to act sanely; we may expect accidents to increase as more cars come into use.

The Baptist brethren will begin a protracted meeting in Meadow, Saturday, August 7th. An arbor is to be provided north of the church for fair weather. Everybody is invited to come.

MRS. SAVAGE ENTERTAINS

The Intermediate Girls' Sunday School Class of 15 and 16 years of the Baptist Church and a number of their friends were given a party last Friday night at the home of Uncle Jimmie Green's, by their teacher, Mrs. Ivy Green Savage.

Games of various sorts were played and the young folks report it one of the most successful of the season and proclaim their teacher a most royal hostess as well as a lovable teacher.

The many friends of I. McClish are glad to see him back on the job much improved in health, after spending some six weeks at Mineral Wells.

W. C. Smith carried his boys to Lubbock last week to have a growth removed from Dolphus' nasal cavity. He will carry them back this week for further treatment.

Silvertip Showed He Could Cover Ground

Any one who has seen a bear walk knows how slowly he seems to move, and his run is a shuffling, lumbering gait that is comical to witness, unless he happens to be running after you. But a bear moves pretty fast, notwithstanding appearances, and the grizzly, which looks to be clumsier than the brown or the black bear, can cover ground faster than the average horse.

A western sheep rancher was riding in the foothills when he saw a big, awkward silvertip. He had a rifle, but was not certain he could kill the bear at one shot and knew that he would get into trouble if he missed. So he gave a regular cowboy yell, and the bear started away in alarm.

The man gave chase, at the same time keeping up the piercing yell, and he soon noticed that the grizzly was getting farther away. He continued the chase for nearly two miles, until the bear disappeared in the mountains, and he had not gained a foot.

In going back over the trail he noticed places where the bear had made jumps of 15 or 20 feet, and the ground had been cut up by his claws, so that it looked as if a harrow had been run over it.

No Longer Satisfied With Looker-On Role

Bobby, age five, sitting with majesty in the barber's chair, gazed with scorn upon his sister, age seven.

"I asked for you to come with us," he remarked haughtily, "so you could look at me while I have my hair cut. And you are not looking."

Oh, but there was accusation, dire reproach in his youthful fury.

"I am tired of looking. I don't want to look any more. I want my own hair cut," sniffed sister. "It is your turn to look at me."

Bobby's lip quivered. Traitorous, jealous sister. . . . Say, just wait till he got her home. He'd pull her hair.

It's happening all over the world in every age, in every walk of life. Sister is tired of looking. . . .

Genius Poorly Rewarded

The discovery of the correct position and physiological function of the heart, when announced by Andreas Vesalius, the Belgian master of anatomy, was received on the one hand with cold skepticism, and on the other with hot opposition. Slowly, grudgingly, the worth of it was recognized. Reward, in proper measure, was not given. But it provided the stepping-stone enabling William Harvey to discover the circulation of the blood.

Vesalius was a native of Antwerp, his period being 1514-1564. At fourteen he was a student of medicine in Louvain; at twenty he was in Venice, and the year following became public demonstrator at Padua. In Bologna he gained a professorship and in Pisa a similar chair. At twenty-eight his incomparable treatise on human anatomy appeared.—London Graphic.

Each Crop Grows Better

Most of the cork we make use of comes from Spain, although some other countries of southern Europe or northern Africa furnish some.

The first coat of bark to be removed is known as "virgin" cork, and is too coarse to be of much use except for tanning purposes. After the first stripping, the operation is repeated every eight or ten years, as the new bark forms, and cork of an improved quality is obtained each time. The second "crop" is good enough for making life belts, insulating material and the like, but is not sufficiently smooth and elastic for the manufacture of bottle stoppers, which are made from the best grades of cork only.

A mature tree will yield about 100 to 150 pounds of cork at each stripping.

Meant as "Slam" at Author?

What might be called a "reader's prize" was recently awarded a London book collector under conditions of the most perfect impartiality.

The reader in question, who is an inveterate hunter for bargains in first editions, had invested in an old copy of "Paul and Virginia," which he was attentively perusing. He read through the book and, somewhere toward the end, discovered that two pages were stuck together. Separating them with a penknife he found between them several French bank notes totaling 5,000 francs and the following note pencilled on the margin of the page: "Earnest reader and friend of this book who has read this far, thus doth merit this reward."—From La Bularie, Sofia. (Translated for the Kansas City Star.

Older Than History

An old encampment, so old that history has no record of when it was built, has been presented to the British nation.

This is Cissbury ring, near Worthing, high up on the South downs, within sight of both the Isle of Wight and Beachy head.

The camp covers 80 acres, but its greatest interest is not in its fortified earthworks, the finest in the district, but as a factory for flint instruments established by Stone age man. His factory consists of two shafts sunk to the level of the flint rock, and joined by a tunnel. Quantities of arrow heads and a number of tools have been found in these shafts.—Family Herald.

Service Quality Satisfaction

SHOWS HOW TELEPHONE CUTS SELLING COSTS

In a recent address at the annual meeting of the Washington State Press Association, Nathan Eckstein of Seattle, President of Schwabacher Bros. and Company, defined legitimate advertising as a saving in the cost of doing business, and made special reference to the time and expenses saved by use of the telephone as a result of advertising in local newspapers. Not only does such advertising promote the volume of sales but it also reduces the time required in making each sale. He illustrated his point as follows:

"When you use the telephone to order a definite brand or article you know exactly what you want and you obtain what you order. The time of the purchaser and of the merchant and his clerks is saved. The store space required for the accommodation of people moving in and out or tarrying on the floor is reduced. The room needed for display is diminished. The space which must be lighted and heated is less. There is a saving all around."

Miss Ethel Purnell, Linotype operator for the News, is taking a two weeks vacation, visiting home folks at Lewisville, Denton County, and Hon. Emmett L. Whitaker, Democratic nominee for Representative from the 119th district, is substituting for her during her absence. Mr. Whitaker preceded her as operator on the News force but left in order to spend the year in College.
 Closing out the campaign for Representative Friday night Whitaker rested Saturday and took care of his preaching appointments Sunday before coming to Tahoka Monday morning. He left Thursday noon for Seminole to issue the Seminole Sentinel and preach in Andrews county before returning for the next weeks run on the News.
 Heedless of the first returns on the race Rev. Whitaker expressed his desire and confidence for the best will of a democratic people to be carried out. Then when it appeared that he had accomplished what his friends called a miracle in defeating a man of age well known over West Texas and becoming one of the very youngest men ever elected to the Texas legislature he stated that friends that he had unconsciously made through the years were largely responsible for his success. However, he requested that rejoicing be deferred until every vote was counted. He appeared more enthusiastic over the success of Dan Moody than over his own returns.

 The Honorable Mr. Whitaker asked the News to express his appreciation and thanks for all the support that had been given and expressed his desire of making the best Representative the district has ever had. He has indicated his willingness to serve the people of the district in any way possible at every opportunity--Lynn Co. News.

Notebooks in Pockets

Have Banished String
 The man who tied a string around a finger to remind him of errands to be done for his wife has forever departed. The string has been banished by the notebook so effectively that if ten men were challenged to account for their good memories also would display notebooks and the tenth would confess that he made memoranda of his errands on the back of a letter.
 Even the farmer no longer drives to town with his finger tied around with a string. He may not have the businesslike notebook, but somewhere in a pocket there is a letter he intends to answer some time, or a bill of sale, or a notice from the road overseer, and on the back of one of these he writes down the errands he is to do for his wife. There hasn't been a string jogger of memory in his generation.
 "In the old days," explains an elderly man, "there were few pockets, no convenient scraps of paper and not always pen and ink or a pencil. But always in one of these pockets was a bit of string. The men of my days grew up with string in their pockets. People carry pencils nowadays instead."

Big "Scoop" Credited to Virginia Gazette

The Virginia Gazette is said to have been the first newspaper issued south of the Potomac river. It was also the first paper to publish the Declaration of Independence. The Gazette was established by a man named Parks at Williamsburg in 1736. It has recently been revived by the William Parks School of Journalism of William and Mary college. As established by Parks the Gazette was a single sheet, 12 by 6 inches, and was sold for 15 shillings a year. The first issue of the new series is in tabloid form and contains 12 pages. According to the first issue of this series, which was prepared by William and Mary students, one of the earliest numbers of the Gazette "scooped the world" on the Declaration of Independence. During the Revolutionary war three papers bearing the name Gazette were published in Williamsburg. One was edited and published by a woman, Mrs. Clementina Hind. She successfully conducted her paper for two years. She is given the credit of being the first woman in the United States to edit and publish a paper.--Pathfinder Magazine.

Biggest One-Piece Doors

The doors at the west entrance of St. Paul's cathedral in London are believed to be the biggest pair of one-piece doors in existence. There are, of course, bigger doors elsewhere, but not all in one piece like these. Each of the two leaves is of solid oak, about 30 feet high, and very massive.
 Because of their immense weight and unyieldiness, they are only opened on state occasions, and, very occasionally, in hot summer weather to air the cathedral. No nails enter into their construction, the various cross-pieces and panels being held together by bronze bolts. The doors are nearly as old as the cathedral itself, and have upon them the initials of the carpenter who made them.--Detroit News.

Improving Talking Machine

The raspy sound in any talking machine will at once disappear and a mellow, sweet tone take its place if to the little wire on the reproducer is added a simple device.
 Cut a medium-soft pencil eraser into a half-inch cube and on one side make a slit so that when slipped on to the metal strip already mentioned, it will hold well.
 Slip it on, that's all, and then play a record to see what a change it has made.

THERE IS NO FOOL'S PARADISE

It is a noticeable fact, that ease of living and prosperity often bring discontentment, while adversity strengthens the character and offers an incentive to accomplish seemingly impossible results. This phenomenon is witnessed in both family and national life. The wealthy individual with all the material things that should help bring contentment, is often not satisfied, when his poorer neighbor who has little of this world's goods and has to work hard for a living, finds peace and happiness.
 And so it is with nations and states. The United States which is probably the most prosperous country on the globe, and which has had the most free and democratic form of government for 150 years, is constantly attacked by political theorists who would exchange our governmental structure for a dangerous mess of pottage.
 When we were struggling for freedom, necessity forced us to devise and adopt a constitution which would protect the individual from oppressive officialism. In our day of prosperity and power we listen to schemes that undermine our constitution and detract from the liberty of the individual.
 We have seen North Dakota swing toward a socialistic form of government where the state competes with its own citizens in business, thus destroying personal opportunity and initiative. We have seen Iowa encouraging paternalistic experiments which run contrary to the law of sound economics, and promise to create a fool's paradise by legislative edict. We have seen the states of California, Oregon, Washington, New York, Wisconsin and others, as well as our national government itself, flirting with proposals which would put the government into business competition with private citizens and taxpayers. So far, the common sense of the people has generally repudiated any program which seemed to undermine constitutional rights and liberties.
 But the agitation continues, and wealth and prosperity have a tendency to breed envy, jealousy and hatred. Life insurance records show that the majority of people who receive the proceeds from an insurance policy have lost that money within a very few years. Lack of training and experience, and failure to consider the future is responsible for that sorry state of affairs. As a nation we are today like the beneficiary of a large insurance policy--we have the cash benefits which have resulted from certain economical conditions. In other words, the country is prosperous. It is prosperous because we have a sound government, because our money is worth its face value, because property rights are protected, because our workmen have good wages and because our nation has great consumptive power to offset its ability to produce.
 As a nation, we should recognize these facts and realize that any program, political policy or agitation which tends to interrupt or discourage sound government and safe business conditions will destroy our prosperity and our savings just as surely as unsound investments or profligate living will use up the insurance bequest.
 On everyone of us rests the responsibility for maintaining the happy conditions that exist in Our Country today. We cannot pass the buck to some one else. We cannot indulge in visionary political experiments, any more than we can indulge in wildcat stock speculations without paying the fiddler. We have thousands of years of experience to profit by, and if we fail to heed the lessons which are written on the pages of history, we will have no one but ourselves to blame for seeking a fool's paradise which exists only in the "rosy brain of some visionary dreamer."

The giant arena in the centre of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition site in Philadelphia was built in approximately 300 working days. It was completed and in use a month before the opening of the exposition which celebrates the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. This photograph, made from the air, shows nearly 3,000 boys on the playing field, massed there for the dedicatory exercises on May 1 which formally opened the structure. In the stands are seated 10,000 persons watching the program. A group of 10,000 persons is a large crowd but they are only a "drop in the bucket" in the big Philadelphia stadium. The boys paraded onto the field to the accompaniment of fourteen bands and there went through their drills and athletic exercises for the benefit of city officials and parents.

I desire to hereby express and assure you of my sincere appreciation of the confidence you have evidenced in me, and the honor you have bestowed on me, in naming me as the nominee of our party for the office of District Judge.

In August 1925, when the 106th Judicial District came into existence, I was appointed by the Governor as Judge thereof, to serve under such appointment until the following general election. Prior to this appointment I have served three terms as District Attorney of our old district, the 72nd. And on retiring from the office of District Attorney I had no intention or desire to further hold office, and I accepted the office of Judge only when some of our citizens insisted that I could be of service to our people, and only on the condition that I would make no effort to be appointed. And your nomination has come to me in the same manner, for I have never believed that the office of a Judge should be filled by a political scramble, but on the contrary, that the people should in a calm manner, select those they desired to pass on their legal rights, hence I have asked no person to cast a vote for me, and the nomination having come to me under such circumstances, I cannot but feel very grateful for the great confidence my people have in me.

With the hope of being of some service to the citizenship of my district, I have conducted and will continue while your Judge, to conduct your court to the best of my ability, towards the proper dispatch of the business coming therein.

Very Respectfully,
Gordon B. McGuire

RAIN LAST THURSDAY

A good rain of nearly an inch fell in the Brownfield section last Thursday, though it was lighter in some sections amounting to only a good cotton shower. In the vicinity south of Gomez, however, it almost reached flood dimensions, stalling many cars by flooding the carburetor for a time.

The rain as a whole was fine and will mean much to the county. Light hail was reported in some sections.

THEY FEED A BUNCH OF OLD TIMERS

Along toward noon Monday, the writer happened to be over at the postoffice, and Postmaster J. C. Bohannan asked us why we could not take dinner with him. Not having any excuse and not wanting one, we told him there was no earthly reason that we knew of, and we sauntered off to the Bohannan home, expecting to see only his wife and baby.

But there was a large crowd gathered and were being entertained by his wife, Mrs. Bill Cook, and their sister, Miss Bingham, including Noah Bell and family of Needmore, Brock Gist and family of Anaheim, Calif.

Mrs. Ima Johnson and Mr. Haley. Folks, you talk about a dinner, but that was one of them to be remembered a long, long time, and the articles too numerous to mention right there, but if you don't believe us, ask Noah Bell, for he is one of the greatest food experts in this section.
