CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The business map that was published by Dallas, Incorporated does not agree with the October and November map that is being circulated by the Texas Commercial News. The Dallas map shows all of east Texas as being in good territory and all of west Texas as being in bad territory, while the Commercial News map shows the south plains territory as being good and all of east Texas with the exception of a strip around Fort Worth and Dallas as being bad. Which is right?

The advertising campaign which is being sponsored by the Texas and New Mexico Bill Posters Association, aided by the various chambers of commerce is in full swing and stickers calling attention to it are pasted on windshields of automobiles. Together for Texas, is the slogan and it is expected that the publicity thus given will prove to be of much value to the state as a whole.

Just as soon as all schools in the country are opened it is our intention to undertake to put over that county wide rat killing campaign but in order for it to be effective it will be necessary to secure the active co-operation of teachers and students in every district and this will be attempted right after the first of the year. The chamber of commerce will offer some very substantial premiums to winners in each school district and a very attractive prize to the county champion. Poison for the killing will be furnished free of charge. Rats are very harmful to all food and we hope to make a success of the drive and if it goes over as anticipated, thousands of the pests will be eliminated at the end of the activity.

Things are getting right interesting out at the Brownfield oil test as it is understood that the drill has penetrated the lime to about seventy feet and that the oil bearing sand cannot be far away. It is possible that they may strike either oil or salt water which would mean no oil.

Well, Kids, Let's Go With Letters to Santa

The time of the year has arrived for the Terry and Youkum county kiddoes to begin yelling old Santa Claus just what they want for Christmas in time for the old boy to take the matter up with your parents to see just what they'll do about the matter. And, say, kids, old Santa is a whole of an arguifer, and if there is any convincing of your dads and mothers as to just what you desire is possible, our old friend Santa is the one who can put the proposition over with a bang. So for the next two weeks, our issue of the 14th and 21st, we'll be tickled to print all the letters that come in.

Now please don't send any in the week of Christmas, for our force will be tired and they'll want at least one day off, and besides the letters will be too late that week to reach Santa even if we send them by air mail. Make your little letters short and to the point, and abbreviate your words of affection for Santa Claus as much as possible. No need for a date line; just give your name and your address at the close of the letter.

Now, we understand each other thoroughly, we hope, so get busy as soon as you receive this paper and begin preparing your letter. We already have one letter from Plains and one from Brownfield we are holding until next week to put in with the rest of them. Come on kids and let old Santa know that we are going to have a real Christmas in Terry and Youkum counties this year, and that we are expecting to see him.

Prof. G. R. Stewart of Big Lake, Texas, who taught in our grade school the term of 1925-26, was a visitor here over the Thanksgiving period. He is now in the Big Lake schools. Prof. Stewart was a special favorite here with both students and parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Redford, of Claude, Texas, were visiting with the home folks over the holiday week end. Both are teachers in the Claude schools.

Says Property too Costly for Elevators

Mention was made in these columns last week that a large milling company owning mills at Dallas, Greenville, McKinney and probably other places in central and East Texas was very desirous of obtaining trackage here for erection of a large elevator to take care of their needs in the way of corn. This big mill of mills purchases tens of thousands of bushels of corn here each year and ships to their plants of which they make corn meal for the general market. They maintain that the best cream and pearl meals can be made of the corn produced in this section as it is somewhat harder than the corn produced in Central Texas. Besides, they can not always obtain corn of any kind down in that section.

But, they maintain that they offered what seemed to them a good price for trackage property, but owners wanted something about as much again for the property than they agreed to give, and as a consequence we are without elevator facilities for another year, while towns elsewhere that do not ship anything like the amount of corn we ship are supplied with all the elevator facilities they want. It would take a reasonable price for this vacant property on which they are probably paying quite a handsome sum in tax money, and thus procure more buildings in Brownfield, not to mention a slight increase in the payroll of the town.

We believe that this is a matter for the chamber of commerce to take up and when these men come here to look for property, lend all the assistance possible in helping them obtain sites. It is said that several years ago two north Texas cities vied with each other in obtaining new enterprises. One of them had a set of young men at the head of the Business Men's League, while the other had a bunch of old fellows who were rich but wanted to be richer, and asked big sums for their property, while the rival town sold reasonably or donated site and taxes for a year or two. There's no use for us to tell you which town has grown faster. But for the past year or two the progressive young men of the other town have come into power, and building activities are equalized between the two cities. In fact, the once slower town now shows building permits greater than its rival, and has gone so for the past several months.

A town can either build or tear down. Which are we going to do here in Brownfield?

Makes His First Visit To Brownfield

At an invitation of Murry Hargrave we accompanied him over to Brownfield last Friday. Murry was going over to attend to business matters. One of the three Head-Hargrave chain dry goods stores is located at Brownfield. This company has a dandy store over there in a good location and business is getting better for them all the time.

We enjoyed attending a meeting of the Brownfield Rotary Club at noon. They have a live club with a large membership.

This was the editor's first trip to Brownfield and it is really a larger town than we expected to see. We enjoyed a visit with Jack Strickland, editor of the Terry County Herald. Jack has a good shop and a big business. He publishes a good newspaper. And, say, if any of you folks ever want to go anywhere in a hurry, don't waste any time hunting for an airplane; just get Murry Hargrave to hook up his Chevy and take you.—Dick Hyatt in Ralls Banner.

The local "wild Irishman," J. D. McCullough, handed in another dollar recently on subscription. He says he doesn't want the Herald and family begging bread.

W. P. Forbes informed us recently that he had picked about twenty six bales of cotton, but would pull the rest of it amounting to some fifteen or twenty bales more.

Bill Cook had us send the Herald for a few issues to Sam Kelly of Manhattan, Montana, who is a prospective homeseeker here.

Christmas Month is Upon Us Once More

It may seem ages since last Christmas to the kiddies, but as far as the writer is concerned, it seems but yesterday. But we would be the last person in the world to deprive the younger generation of one iota of pleasure of an innocent nature they get out of life, and if the sudden appearance of Christmas, which seems to us of our age just around the corner all the time, does grate somewhat on our nerves, we'll just grin and endure for the sake of the young. We have had our filling; we cut our diddies in the days of our youth, and we hope we never reach the age of grouch when we forget it.

Our merchants have loaded up on holiday merchandise, both useful and frivolous; for the young, youth and mature not to say aged, as all must be satisfied. These merchants inform us that they are going to "pour it on" this month in advertising space as they must unload this merchandise before the end of the month. They are going to make a supreme endeavor to bring the largest crowd of holiday shoppers here in the history of this section, and with this big business and turnover which they aim to create with a lot of good conservative advertising, they aim to pass on to the customer with only one small profit added. In other words, it does not matter whether you come five or one hundred miles to do your Christmas shopping, our merchants guarantee to save you money on your purchases and sell you the best quality goods obtainable.

With the gay season of old St. Nicholas upon us and the feeling of good cheer in the bracing air, preparations and plans are already under way to have Christmas trees at most, if not all the local churches, and the communities are planning for Christmas trees in their school buildings.

Now the important thing to remember is that to the early shopper goes the choice of the stocks, and you and the clerks will have more time right now than you will on Saturday and Monday just before Christmas when other tardy shoppers like yourself are also demanding attention from the tired and worn out clerks—and then you'll get sore and spoil your feelings for the day. Also, remember that millions of other people are mailing packages just like you, and that the great central offices of the big distributing centers are going to become congested like they do each year, and your package may not arrive at its destination for a week or two after the holidays and disappoint not only you, but those you aim to please.

Some are planning to make trips to visit relatives or friends during the holidays, while others are expecting company. From now until the 25th there will be one grand rush. Shop Early!!!

Radio Artists at the Rialto For Two Nights

Toby Durnal, who for the past year has vied with Leland Johnson, "Whispering Baritone of Dallas," as the most popular singer of Dallas radio broadcast stations, will be here two nights of next week playing out an engagement at the Rialto.

Not only has Mr. Durnal a perfect entertainment but his wife will join him in his stage offering, singing some popular numbers which have made her a well known and enjoyed radio artist.

Behind Mr. Durnal is a group of 39 nationally known manufacturers and 15 local merchants, all of whom will give away free prizes to the audience. Among the prizes listed to be given away are those of dry goods, musical articles, gas range, restaurant dinners, automobile tires, toilet articles, groceries, bread and many others.

The Tuesday bill to be given at the theatre is: "When Toby Hits Kansas City." We Tuesday, brings strict features of Mr. Durnal's radio work with station W. R. R.

Mr. Durnal is trying to establish Brownfield as a regular point in his schedule through the southwest.

Reviews and press sheets and clippings from all over Texas show that their appearances are popular.

Auctioneer Puts on Big Sale Saturday

During the summer months when all the nickels, dimes, quarters half dollars and eventhe lowly penny seems to have crawled off in a rat hole, we never have any street criers bellowing their wares to the passing crowds on our main thoroughfares, but with the advent of some cotton money they suddenly appear from some mysterious quarter and vie with the tax paying merchants for business of the community. If it were not really serious, it would be amusing the way they sell stuff for more money than is asked by local dealers.

For distance, last Saturday, a man who knows his okra about the cost of blankets informed us that one man was heard to say that he did not understand how this visiting auctioneer could afford to sell some blankets at $3.00 each. Our informant told us the blankets were pure D cotton throughout and could be purchased in Kansas City at 69c each. Our local merchants are selling them at from $1.49 to $1.55 or half what this guy was asking. He could afford to sell them at this price alright and make money.

But there is another side to this matter and it pains us greatly to ever mention the matter. One farmer walked up to us and without any preliminaries said the Herald was always fighting the mail order houses and advising the farmers to trade with local merchants, but says he, they import east Texas Sorghum no better and no cheaper than we are offering them and they refuse to buy ours. We could hardly believe this or we have always believed that our merchants are the squarest shooting bunch in the world but another sorghum farmer informed us the same thing this week.

In fairness to these farmers, and in consideration of the business they give our merchants from time to time, if these things are true—we only have one side of the matter—they should reconsider the matter and everything else being equal, buy the local sorghum and recommend it to their customers. A great comradeship and understanding between the local merchants and farmers has been built up in the past several years through square dealing and money's worth justice, and let's not permit this optimistic attitude and understanding to go glimmering over something of this nature if we can help it. What say boys?

Presbyterians Building Sunday School Room

Carpenters are busily engaged this week under the direction of Mr. J. A. Miller in construction of a Sunday school building at the rear of the Presbyterian church which when completed will relieve the congestion as well as some confusion of classes when at work.

While the building is small, Mr. Dallas informed us that it would take care of two or three of the small classes of young folks and children. Churches in general these days are making preparation for Bible instruction for their children as well as for their literary schools in the week days a great deal more than when the writer was growing up.

Rialto to Have Sunday Afternoon Matinee

Because of the requests from our patrons who feel that the people of Brownfield should have some kind of Sunday afternoon entertainment we are starting Sunday, December 9th with matinees from 2:00 to 6 p. m.

Most of our neighboring towns are having Sunday matinees and our patrons feel that it should be given them here without having to drive thirty or forty miles for it.

Our matinees will not interfere with any regular church services. Our programs will be carefully selected, none but the very best and cleanest will be used.

Local Firemen Stage Their Monthly Banquet

There is not a more progressive, forward looking bunch of men in our city than our firemen, and we will not put in one exception. They are all young men, too; some of them barely past their first year in business here, but they have the welfare of the community at heart, and the protection of our property from raging fires is a second nature with them, although they do not draw a single penny for this duty, but risk their lives for us every time there is a fire.

The writer along with others were the invited guests of these splendid young men—and they are really all young—last Wednesday night at the Hotel Brownfield where a splendid repast with turkey as the chief piece de resistance and the other Thanksgiving accessories were spread temptingly upon the boards at this splendid festivity, and so far as the writer is concerned, if he had missed this feast we would have missed turkey entirely during the Thanksgiving passed.

After the feast, Ben Hurst, master of ceremonies, did himself proud with an address on the aims, ethics and accomplishments of Brownfield firemen in which he said among other things that "while the city gives them their names, it is up to the fire boys to make the fire department all that a fire department means to a town." H. R. Winston, Morgan L. Copeland and the writer were called upon by the master of ceremonies to say a few words of encouragement to the boys. All responded in their own way. The fire chief, Eunice Jones, then gave out some proposed changes and measures for the improvement of the department as well as some encouraging remarks and praise for the boys under him.

Two new members of the department were then called upon and responded in a few words. It developed that one of them had asked for the first opening available, and this was his first appearance as a member. We'll bet he makes a real fireman.

TWO OUTSTANDING WEST TEXAS 4-H CLUB BOYS

By making a profit of $106.30 in prizes and returns on a registered Duroc Jersey gilt, Herbert Chessir of Terry county announces his intention to "grow myself into the hog business and to pay my way through high school and college on my start with club pigs." He was one of the seventy one 4-H club boys who drew lots at Brownfield last spring for registered pigs in a club sponsored by the county agent. By feeding what was at hand, milo maize grain and skim milk, Herbert made his pig weigh 260 pounds when nearly seven months old, the cost of gain amounting to 6.8 cents per pound. The gilt won second in a class of seventeen at the county fair, but at Lubbock, competing in both club and open classes against good breeders, the pig took highest honors. This good record won for Herbert a Santa Fe prize trip to Chicago.

One of the best cotton growing records made by a West Texas 4-H club boy this year was that of John Nunn of Hale Center. This boy produced 1504 pounds of lint on four acres, nearly a bale to the acre, and his sales of lint and seed amounted to $297 after ginning costs were paid. He shows a net profit of $207.35 on this four acre tract.

"The biggest yield our place has ever made" is the statement made by James Potts of Lubbock County after making 21,600 pounds of head-higeri on three acres of land devoted to his 4-H club project this year. The neighbors all said the crop fine enough for seed, but James believes he needs all the crop for feed and so doesn't expect to sell. At market prices his three acres have netted him $200.40 this season.

Two of our local boys were arrested here this week and lodged in the jail accused of theft of a six shooter from the post office. Breaking into a post office is a serious offense and is likely to go hard with the boys despite their youth. Both are from splendid families.

Notes of Interest About Our Enterprises

The firm of Holgate-Endersen have moved into their beautiful new building, the equal of which is not found in many towns many times the size of Brownfield, and when they get straightened out, they are going to have something to be real proud of. While the front will be large and commodious, something like 50 x 60 feet, little but samples will be kept in front, and the main stock stored in the spacious ware rooms and balconies of the rear. They have added a huge stock of furniture to their hardware business.

Mr. D. C. Dajton has moved his barber shop from the old Holly building to a brick building on the east side of the square and is spending several hundred dollars in doling up and adding new materials. Mr. Dalton informed us that while in his crowded quarters and a shabby old building he made little effort to obtain new customers, but that he is now going out after business as soon as he gets his new shop in good shape.

Brick work has started on the new building for W. A. Bell on the northwest corner of the square, Roy Wiszard contractor, and work will be rushed with all haste possible on the building. Happy Jack Hart will do the finishing work on this building as he did on the Holgate-Endersen building, we understand, and that means that he'll work till you like the job—that's his way. We also might mention that Crane Bros. are kept with the paint and varnish jobs.

We have inspected gins in summer before the bur or bollie season came on, but only this week did we really see a bollie machine of the latest pattern in operation, when we visited the West Texas Gin. Before the cotton ever reaches the gin stands, it goes into an outfit about twenty feet long, by five wide that looks like a washing machine in operation that fairly whales the gizzards out of the cotton, and when it comes to the gin stands, it is eighty per cent free of burs, sticks and small pebbles. In fact it is pretty decent looking cotton. Mr. O. L. Jones, the manager, was good enough to say that all his competitors were similarly equipped with the same kind of machine or one of some other make to clean their cotton. Anyway, all our gins knock burs sky winding.

Rambo Car Hits and Wrecks Truck—2 Hurt

While on their way to Lubbock one day last week, C. R. Rambo and family ran up behind a truck which had several large pieces of timber on it. Both car and truck were hitting it up at a nice little gate, when the truck got to a by-road they aimed to turn left, and instead of slowing up, Mr. Rambo says the driver of the truck barely stuck out his hand and turned into the cross-road. Mrs. Rambo, who was driving, failed to see the signal entirely, but both Mr. Rambo and the boys yelled at her, when she applied all the brakes she had, but slid into the truck, toppling it over.

Both men in the truck were quite badly bruised and scratched up, and the truck pretty badly damaged. The injured men were picked up and rushed on to Lubbock, about twelve further, where medical attention was given them. Mr. Rambo had the truck brought to Brownfield and repaired in every way satisfactory to the men, as well as paying for medical services of both men. Mr. Rambo reports that both were in perfect good humor all the time and seemed to think they were about as much to blame for the collision as the Rambos.

Luther Moore, who is firing the gin for the West Texas people, got in with his dollar on subscription last week.

Mention was not made in these columns of the arrival of Clarence Richard Markham at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Markham on Nov. 9th, on account of the negligence of Dr. Stark. He's a real bouncing boy now.

"PENNY WISE" SHOULD NOT RULE THE FARM

"Penny wise and pound foolish" is the charge often hurled at the American farmer by students of economics. They contend that, in an effort to be thrifty, he often follows what appears to be the cheaper course only to discover that the "penny wise" policy is costing him money.

The poultry flock of the average farmer furnishes a good illustration of this. Figures from the United States Department of Agriculture reveal that the average farm hen produces about seventy eggs a year, when poultry experts agree that a hen must lay ninety eggs before it pays for the feed it eats.

Ninety eggs, at an average of 25c a dozen, will bring a revenue of about two dollars. It costs that much to feed and care for a hen for one year. Until the farm flock shows a higher average than ninety eggs to the hen, the farmer is not profiting on his chickens. The reason for the seventy egg average on the farm is due, of course, to lack of care in securing good stock for the flocks.

Since a high producing hen and a low producing hen consume about the same amount of feed, it is easy to see that the "lazybones" is a poor investment. Too often this poor stock is perpetuated on the farm because the farmer or his wife keeps on using eggs from their own poor stock to set under their hens.

A change for the better is indicated in statistics showing that 500,000,000 chicks were purchased from the hatcheries of this country last year. Since reliable hatcherymen sell only pure bred chicks, these figures show that the farmer is beginning to realize that his poultry flock is one of his best investments, if he uses the same care with it that he does with his corn or wheat.

Foremost hatcheries have recently united in an organization pledged to improve quality of chicks and to assist customers through personal service and advice. These hatcheries operating under the slogan, "Hatchery Chicks For Greater Profits," include some of the largest and most reliable hatcheries in the United States. They afford a convenient means of securing information for the farmer who is interested in checking up on the actual value of his barnyard "biddies."

DREYFUSS SAYS COLOR CRAZE SWEEPING COUNTRY

A color craze is sweeping the country, according to Sol Dreyfuss, of Dreyfuss and Son, Dallas, Texas.

"On every side," he said, "merchandise that normally led a quiet black and white existence is breaking forth in every shade of the spectrum. This is especially true of men's wearing apparel and furnishings and the end is not yet in sight. Not since the war have colors been so much in evidence. To be well dressed a man must wear colorful clothes in harmonious shades.

"This is a day of youth in business and the successful business man dresses, not in the raiment of old age, but to express youth and joy of life. Many of them feel with Lord Chesterfield that it is better for a young fellow to be too much rather than too little dressed."

"Likewise President Coolidge says: 'Good dress gives one a sense of self-respect and poise.' This from a man whose personal attire has often been commended.

"It is the attention to the details of dress that make a man's outfit smart—and it's the outward evidence of understanding and expectation of the better things that make it easier for a man to get along in his business affairs. A man need not dress like a mourner to be dignified—nor like a race track sport to look sprightly.

"Good grooming is no longer a question of geography—nor is proper apparel determined by population. The well dressed man of any Southwest city will be a well dressed man in any city he visits—and the careless man will look as careless everywhere as he does here at home—unless he reforms.

"And the matter of color has gone further than merely the suit, or the shirt, the tie and other garments. The man of retiring disposition, now eschewing colorful daytime attire, can adapt himself to brighter clothes, privately and without embarrassment, by wearing colorful pajamas—his mind will be awakened to style consciousness while his body is asleep."

Rev. B. W. Dodson, the new Methodist pastor, called on us Saturday and got his name on the mailing list. No long face hangs around this preacher. Welcome to Brownfield.

U. OF T. HAS NEW LIGHT TESTING APPARATUS

Modern equipment for measuring light intensity, light distribution and total amount of light given off from various light sources has been received and installed recently in the photometric laboratory of the department of electrical engineering at the University of Texas, according to Read Granberry, instructor in electrical engineering.

"The University now has one of the best equipped photometric laboratories in the South," Mr. Granberry said. "It is at the service of the people of Texas. A portion of its work in the past three years has been devoted to the testing of headlighting equipment."

Finishing work is being done on the basement of the new Methodist church at Woodson. The basement is divided into seven rooms, including kitchen, assembly room, and class rooms. Gas connections are in every room.

Building permits from Snyder have already exceeded the $200,000.00 mark up to November 15. The City Council is planning the installation of a new $18,000 sewage disposal plant to be erected within the next thirty days.

ALEXANDER DRUG STORE

—The Rexall Store—

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Roberts, of Coahoma came up this week to visit their son, Elmer and wife of Seagraves, and their sister here, Mrs. Jack Stricklin and family. They were accompanied by Mrs. Roberts' father, J. F. Holden, who will visit his daughter, Mrs. Stricklin for awhile.

Tom Glover wrote in this week to get his Herald changed to his new home at Plainview. We were informed by his dad here that the two Glover children had gone through a siege of dyptheria since moving to Plainview.

R. I. Cook was here Saturday afternoon and made out he wanted to start home by middle of the afternoon. We saw him some later than that, however.

LEGHORNS AND BARRED ROCKS MAKE RECORD

A summary of the Eleventh Texas National Egg Laying Contest conducted by the Poultry Husbandry Department of the A. & M. College contains several paragraphs of interest to poultrymen.

There were eighty pens of 1040 birds in contests. There were ten different breeds in the contest, fifty nine of which were Single Comb White Leghorns. The high hen of the year laid 312 eggs and is White Leghorn owned by H. M. Weathers of Woodlawn, Washington. Two of the highest twenty hens were Barred Plymouth Rocks owned by Golden Rule Poultry Farm of Bryan, Texas. One of these Barred Rocks laid 301 eggs and established a record for heavy hens in the Texas National Contest. Six hens in the contest produced 300 eggs or more, while 135 hens produced 200 eggs or more. The average production per bird of the entire contest was 202.25 eggs which is the first time that the average has reached 200.

The twenty high pens of the year were white Leghorns! The high pen was owned by George C. England of Inglewood, California. The second and third pens were owned by Texas breeders. The old record of 110 in consecutive daily production was broken by three Leghorns and a new record of 130 was set.

White Leghorn pens lead in production each month except in two. In January Rhode Island Reds were high while in February Barred Rocks lead.

The average consumption per hen was 33.7 pounds of grain, 37.8 pounds of mash, and 27 pounds miscellaneous feeds with a total feed cost per bird of $2.54. With an average price of 26.4 cents per dozen for eggs the receipts per hen amounted to $4.45 giving a profit above feed of $1.91.

R. B. Davis, County Agent.

Concrete is being poured for the fourth and last story of the new $80,000 hospital at Dalhart. B. C. Frohman, general contractor in charge of the work, expects to finish by April. This will give Dalhart one of the most complete hospitals in this part of the State.

The first baby beef show conducted in Swisher county will be held in Tulla February 2, 1929. C. B. Martin, county agent, now has 34 baby beeves on balanced rations in boys clubs, one of which won $544.84 in prizes recently.

Arlington's new city hall will soon be finished. Brick is being laid on the top story, and plumbers are at work in the basement. White face brick is being used in the exterior work of the building, and this will make it one of the most attractive in town.

We noted in a recent issue of the Faithful old Dallas Morning News that they had kindly put on the soft pedal on the knock given west Texas recently by Industrial Dallas, Incorporated. Of course the News was in no way to blame for what appears in its columns under the signature and by the authority of Industrial Dallas, Incor., but the News is big enough and broad enough to see that such a thrust at a proud and prosperous section of the state would mean only a hurt to Dallas wholesale interests. While no mention of the Industrial Dallas map has been made in the News that we have noticed, a nice editorial was recently printed which profusely complimented west Texas on its hospitality accorded the Dallas business men recently on their tour of the new railroad section of the south plains. They also made mention of the rapid growth of this entire section together with its general prosperity, and made it a point to advise Dallas business men to prepare a feast and invite representative merry with them. Well, the best of times of this section to come and make us sometimes say too much as well as too little.

That good wholesome and sane advertising by the merchants of this city is making the town what it is generally admitted by all who have even thought about the matter. They admit that advertising of special inducements in their several lines is bringing to Brownfield a new people almost every week that have perhaps been trading elsewhere and sometimes closer to them. But once they come and have the opportunity to compare prices and quality of goods here with the places they have been trading usually convinces them that they are able to save money by going just a few miles further to trade, and that makes them a regular customer. Then they generally become a reader of the Herald which keeps them well posted about these weekly special prices. They get acquainted with the merchants and other folks here and from then on feel perfectly at home among us even though they may live twenty five of fifty miles away. That is the reason our Saturday crowds are growing so fast.

Every once in awhile we read of some smart young man who wants to show off before his best girl and if possible give her such a thrill that she will scream for him to quit. About the last one to grace the pages of the dailies was a young silly who wanted to demonstrate how close he could hold a match to a dynamite cap without danger to himself. But he got it closer than he thought, and as a result he has no fingers on that hand and a great hole torn in his abdomen.

Day by day in every way people are learning that flying is still a very dangerous venture; and it takes some old terra firma to make a quick stop when something goes wrong with the machinery, and if that element happens to be 2,000 feet below, its just too bad. The Spur incident of the past few days is a fresh reminder.

RANGERS CLEAN TOUGH CITY

Wink, Texas, the sassy young oil town, was up to recently so tough that toughness was a civic virtue, a social necessity and the proudest boast of the municipality. Some of the more public spirited citizens often said most of his fellow townsmen were so hard they would have had to wear clothes while bathing to keep from scratching the bathtubs, except they had no bathtubs.

Now, however, the Texas Rangers are here with some businesslike clean-up orders from Governor Dan Moody. It necessarily follows that this little town of Wink, a rip-roaring, fire-snortin' place of damnation, which sprouted suddenly in a sandy spot in west Texas, near Odessa, as the result of an oil-boom, is becoming rather nice.

The 10,000 population has been decimated as if by great cataclysm. Four rangers, computed to be enough to clean up four towns, came in a few days ago. Immediately there followed a hifira of characters who would be at home in a western thriller, but who could not under any circumstances feel comfortable in the same town or in the same country with a ranger, much less with four rangers.

A few nights ago a hundred saloons gambling houses and allied resorts were lighted with lights and their floors were loaded with lit. Every joint appeared to have a convention of Texas despradoes with their ladies; all varnished but sadly unpolished.

Saloons ran openly—putting corn whiskey over the counter, bar table etc., at 50 cents per shot, and each shot guaranteed to hit the spot and hit hard, as becomes Texas corn whiskey. Tents, sheet-iron shacks, timber houses, and half-breed combinations of the three sheltered a heap of sin. Wink had been existent only two years; and, while her devilment is skilled, her houses have not the touch of finesse.

Estimates were that Wink contained and amply sustained at least 750 women of a kind that wink. The local peace officers, who have been of considerable popularity among the town people, were said to have collected $40,000 in small fines last year, mostly from these women, who are arrested often and fined on their ready pleas of guilty.

But now, oh, how the town has changed! The lights in the saloons, gambling houses and redlight joints have gone out, and so have their tenants and visitors. Most of the women have hauled their freight. Gunner have toted their artillery to better lands.

The best known characters of the town have aired out, most of them going to other oil towns where the red-headed governor hasn't cast his eye and got his dander up. This is the prescribed procedure in a Texas oil town clean-up.

When one town is made mild enough that a man can enter it wearing a clean shirt without risk of having playful residents mess the laundry up with six shooters, it can be taken for granted that another oil town has had an influx of the unregenerates and has become correspondingly tough. The railway and bus system get all the benefits, on ac-ount of the constant travel round the circuit.

On the outskirts of this town is a ude sign: "When the rangers get here come to Jim Foster's new oil town. There are no rangers."

Wink's last night of glory was not unworthy of the town. A woman, upon whom no trace of clothing was discernible upon even the closest inspection, of which there was an amplitude, gave a dance without advance notice, without shame and without charge, to the people who happened to be near the postoffice. She finally fell down through exhaustion and because of a hefty load of liquor. Some of the appreciative bystanders carried her into a hotel.

From this point the evening's entertainment the civic reputation was maintained with some degree of success by two young men. One of them in pajamas was thrown out of the principal hotel by the other young man.

But now there are no such Winkian ouches of life. Wink is in a fair way to become a Sunday school town. It has had a Sunday school all along, which, while not exercising a wide sphere of influence, has nevertheless been recognized by all hands as a factor in the civic life without which he town would not have been complete. If one of the former residents had been asked if the town had a Sunday school, he would have roared with pride, "You're right we've got a Sunday school and she's a good one."

—Roswell Dispatch.

SHE KNEW HER BIBLE

"Do you attend Sunday school regularly?" the minister asked of little Muriel.

"Oh, yes sir."

"And do you know your Bible?"

"Sure, I can tell you everything that's in it. There's sister's beau's photograph, ma's recipe for face cream, a lock of my hair when I was a baby and the ticket for pa's watch."

As the days become shorter, electric lights should be used in the poultry houses, so that the birds have about twelve hours of light, natural and artificial.

The "loafer hen", who eats more and lays little, is the greatest drag on farm poultry flock profits. Replace non-layers with good reliable stock, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and watch the profits grow.

TOKIC NEWS

School opened Monday, December 3rd with forty in attendance. This is the beginning of the second of the three laps of the term.

The new addition to the school building is finished. It adds much to the appearance of the building and ground.

We regret very much that some of our best pupils are moving away. We hope to gain others as good.

Mr. Duggan, Mr. and Mrs. Farris and their pianist from Lubbock, met with the Tokio Sunday night. They were on their way home from a singing convention in New Mexico. Anyway the excellent music was enjoyed by all present and we welcome them back at any time.

Mr. Sappenfield, president of the local class, was unable to attend singing Sunday night because of sickness in his family.

Miss Peal Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Day, has recently married a young man in Mangum, Oklahoma. Until her marriage Miss Day was employed in the foods department of a sanitarium there.

Sam Day and family are moving back to this community. Nothing new! People generally come back.

W. I. Lovelace is leaving this fall for some point yet unknown. We hate to lose this charter member of "Tokio, the place of Rest." He leaves many younger men who are well tutored and one capable of taking care of the corrected title and such honors as go with it.

Brother Allen of Plainview, pastor of the local Baptist church, filled his appointment here last week end.

The B. Y. P. U. is doing fine. The programs are improving steadily. An excellent program was rendered at Turner in Yoakum County the last Sunday in November.

We hear quite a bit of club talk. Some one whispering that an early start is essential to success.

The club members have accomplished much in the past eight months but we are expecting much more next year.

SLAUGHTER BY AUTOMOBILES APPALLING

Twenty two thousand dead and more than 1,000,000 injured was the 1928 record for automobiles in the United States. The 1928 record thus far indicates not only a larger number of deaths but a proportionate increase in the injured by the end of the twelve months. This gruesome record is largely the product of carelessness and indifference on the part of drivers. Very few can be charged with defective machinery or defective parts. Only occasionally is an accident due entirely to bad roads and lippery pavements, even though they may be contributory. In most cases careful driving and due regard for the rights of others would have saved a life or an injury and much property.

The publication of the daily record of deaths and injuries has no apparent effect on some drivers. A child may be killed in the presence of one of these speed fiends, and he will leave the place of accident and cross an intersection at forty miles an hour. Nothing but the firm and heavy hand of the law can stop him, and if he is not stopped, he will probably kill some other person tomorrow. He will plead unavoidable accident and get away with it.

It is true that many persons are the victims of their own recklessness, but even so, they are a constant danger to other drivers and to pedestrians until they either kill or cripple themselves.

Every person who drives should be equipped with a driver's license. This license should cost but a nominal fee, but the penalty for driving without a license should be heavy. If a person is habitually careless and indifferent to the rights of others, whether he meet with accident or not, his license should be taken away from him, and then, if found driving, he should be given the full penalty provided by the law. The fear of being prohibited from driving a motor car would do more to deter the careless driver than a fine of $10 or $25.—Farm and Ranch.

Andrew Copeland, vice president of the Brownfield State Bank, renewed the Herald for his nephew, Paul Campbell, at DeLeon, this week, and also had us send the young man the daily and Sunday Star-Telegram for one year.

J. T. Music of Alvord, Texas, dropped in this week to have his paper changed to Brownfield, as he says he is now a real citizen of old Terry. Welcome!

ENTHUSIASTIC CROWDS VIEW NEW CHEVROLET

Record crowds, highly enthusiastic over motordom's newest automobile, viewed the new line of Chevrolet six cylinder valve-in-head cars at the national premiers last week in New York and Detroit.

Thousands that crowded both exhibitions to inspect Chevrolet's greatest achievement—"a six in the price range of the four"—enthused over the streamline beauty of the new Fisher bodies, the latest accomplishment of this famous organization.

Visitors were open in their admiration of the "expensive big-car" appearance of the new models. They were pleased with the smart new colors that will distinguish the new Chevrolet from all others; the elegance of the fittings appealed to the most discriminating and the luxurious upholstery pleased the most exacting of the feminine showgoers.

They inspected the powerful new forty six horse power with its non-detonating high compression head. They were particularly interested in learning that it developed thirty two per cent more power than its predecessor which was world famous for power and its speed and acceleration has been stepped up to satisfy maximum requirements.

In the shimmering new cars they saw the final proved product of more than four years research and experimentation in the Chevrolet experimental laboratories, the General Motors Research laboratories and the General Motors proving ground.

WAS BARNUM RIGHT? "DO THE PEOPLE LOVE TO BE HUMBUGGED?"

At the Methodist church next Sunday night the sermon subject will be, "Was Barnum Right or Do the People Love to Be Humbugged?"

This sermon will bring a real message and will at the same time be interesting and entertaining. Don't fail to hear it.

At 11 a. m. the subject will be, "Losing to Save and Dying in Order to Live." This sermon will bring a real message interpreting it in an interesting way some strange statements of Jesus.

Let every member of the church make an earnest effort to be present. Let's make this a fine year. Everybody cordially invited and heartily welcomed.

SANDSTORMS NO TERROR

One of the good qualities of old Terry County.

One night I went to bed and left my window open. I was sleeping with my head right up in the window.

In the night it came up a sandstorm and I didn't wake up to put down my window. The next morning when I awoke I tried in vain to open my eyes and couldn't. I scratched the sand out of my face and of course I knew what had happened. I turned to see how my bed mate was faring and low and behold I couldn't see her. The only way I could tell that she was there was this: when she breathed two streams of sand would shoot up nearly to the ceiling.

I thought that was a mild sandstorm for "Terry."

WOULD FELLOWSHIP BOLTERS

November 11th has brought to our minds the closing of the great World War in which the mothers and fathers of America were called upon to give their sons—the flower of their homes—for a cause they were told would make the world safe for democracy. Those flowers of our country sailed to a strange and hellish land and prevented Old Glory from being trailed in the dust. They baptized it in a pool of blood; the good fathers and mothers bathed it in an ocean of tears. This was done to hold up and hold high the principles of Democracy, so said Wilson and Bryne and now for one to question anothers democracy because they did not support Govern- or Alfred E. Smith is in the writer's opinion the wrong thing to do. The writer has never scratched the name of a Democratic nominee, but has always accorded the same right to the other fellow as he claims for himself. If voting as one chooses as an independent vote is not Democracy the writer has the wrong opinion of the same.

We are wasting a great portion of our priceless heritage trying to lead everybody to the same way of thinking. No amount of abuse or argument will do it.

NEGRO IS KILLED SUNDAY IN A GAME NEAR LITTLEFIELD

Elihu Edwards, negro, was shot three times last Sunday evening, while in a game, about seven miles north-east of Littlefield. He was brought to Littlefield for medical attention, but died about two minutes after being placed on the operating table.

The doctor's examination showed one bullet, probably a .38 calibre, entered the back, lodging against the skin in front; the second entered the front, lodging against the skin at the back, while a third glanced through the skin on the right shoulder.

Little details are known of the shooting, though it is claimed another negro, by the nickname of "Slim" is responsible for the murder.—Lamb County Leader.

SANTA WANTS TO BUILD INTO LEA COUNTY, N. M.

Washington.—The South Plains and Santa Fe railway applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission today for permission to construct sixty six miles of new trackage from Sen-graves, Texas, into Lea County, New Mexico.

The construction will be financed by funds borrowed from the Atchison Topcka and Santa Fe Railroad. The new line will serve a farm territory in Gaines County, Texas and an oil field in Lea County, New Mexico.

It is believed that the termination of the proposed railroad will be at Jal in southeastern Lea County.

The railroad, when built, will furnish an outlet by rail for the Lea County oil fields. Lack of adequate railroad facilities has been one of the biggest drawbacks in development of the Lea County field.—The Roosevelt County Herald, Portales, N. M.

Emmett Whitaker is back on the job with the Herald after two weeks absence in Seminole editing the Sem-inel.

Will Winn of Gomez was noted among the heavy consignment of shoppers here Saturday.

J. S. Siddons, the happy man of the Challis community, was among those who renewed for the Herald last week.

George Bragg of Levelland was a Brownfield business visitor early in the week.

W. L. Bandy dropped down this week and renewed for his Herald and the Daily and Sunday Star-Telegram.
