Dr. Atticus Webb Spoke Here Sunday

Rev. Atticus Webb of Dallas, Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Texas, spoke at a well filled house at the Baptist church of Brownfield, at 11 A. M., Sunday, April 5th. His topic was the enforcement of the laws and support of the people in helping to enforce all laws and most especially the Volstead Act, which is the enforcement law of the 18th Amendment.

Dr. Webb stated that the trouble with the enforcement of the 18th Amendment was that the people had relinquished their fight, thinking that when the government passed the 18th Amendment the law would be enforced and that the prohibition fight was at an end, and that the law would be enforced without the people taking any further steps in the matter, but that the anti-prohibitionists had been trying their best to tear down the law and resisted these attempts. He stated that the prohibitionists had not properly proven that the country was overwhelmingly "dry" as was demonstrated at the ballot box at the last out of 6 senators elected were "drys", had elected a president, 3 out of 4 congressmen elected were "dry", 5 out of 6 senators elected were "drys", and 10 out of 11 of the newly elected senators and congressmen were prohibitionists. He brought very forcibly to the minds of the people that if they wanted the prohibition laws enforced that they must defend the law and help the officers enforce them. He said that the man who opposed the enforcement of the law was not a good American citizen, and the man who opposed the enforcement of any law or all laws was a traitor, and was attempting to tear down our government. He stated that the question of modification was a thing of the past, and that the law will be strengthened from time to time, and that those who attack the law cannot hope to get rid of it, but only shows a desire to assist the law breakers and ruin the morals of the younger generation by defying the law and throwing obstacles in the way of law enforcers. He asked can a man or woman who wants to be regarded as good citizens of a community afford to defend lawlessness, stating that it was time for the opposition to the law to cease, and every good citizen to help see that the laws are enforced. That every loyal American citizen was called to arms against the law breakers, and that the attack of the whiskey ring was only calculated to put the young men at the mercy of the bootleggers, for if the bootlegger can't recruit his ranks in a short while, he won't have any patrons. He advised the people to clean out their own communities and demand respect for the law and demand that the opposition to law enforcement cease in each community. He said "We must impress upon the conscience of the younger people and the children the respect for the law and the worth of the prohibition law to them," putting on really worth while educational programs and campaigns.

Rev. Webb has been connected with the Anti Saloon League for the past eighteen years, and has done a great work in helping rid the state of the saloon, and is now doing a great work in helping to rid the state of the illicit liquor dealer.—Contributed.

Dairy Specialist to Be in Brownfield Sat.

Prof. K. M. Renner dairy specialist from the Tech College will be in Brownfield Saturday afternoon and speak in the district court room at 3:00 P. M.

"The Value of Testing Cows for Butterfat" will be Mr. Renner's subject. He will explain in detail the plan of testing by mail which the Tech College and Extension Service of A. & M. propose to do.

Prof. W. L. Stangel will talk upon feeding the dairy cow. Mr. Stangel has had considerable experience in feeding cows on home grown rations and has produced milk as cheaply as probably can be produced in this section of Texas.

Wind Storm Played Hovic Here Past Week

One of the severest wind and sandstorms in the history of the county visited us last week, much to the discomfort of the citizenship in general, and the young crops and the orchards in general. In fact, there is no such thing as young crops now, and about forty percent of the fruit crop is on the ground. The storm was comparative only to the big Thanksgiving storm of two years ago, and that of March about four or five years ago. However, the one in March several years ago, blew for two days and two nights, while that of two years ago, and the one last Wednesday were of only one day duration.

One thing that may be said for the "ring-tailed tooter" of last Wednesday, was that a very small percent of the farmers had anything planted, and there was more fruit left on the trees here than the trees can possibly mature, generally speaking. It is true that lots of farmers had done some planting, but it was a very small percent of their whole crop, and many had not planted a seed. One farmer, Lee Lyon said he had about 90 percent of his cotton planted, and while he had his land deep broke, it did not cover up, but the electricity in the wind seemed to have just burned it up. Henry Franklin said he had some cotton up and looking well until Wednesday. There were other farmers like J. J. Gaston who said all his seed were still in sacks, waiting for spring to come. C. H. Hester remarked that out here he was sorter like he used to be in Navarro county; he used to tell the folks he did not have enough seed back there to do winter planting, and here he had none to waste on the sandstorms early in the spring.

But the damage was not confined to Terry county, nor the South Plains. It is said that the wheat on the North Plains gives the appearance of having had a huge gasoline torch run over the fields. Those who made a trip down to Dublin last Wednesday said it not only blew hard down there Wednesday, but that Thursday was almost as bad, and damaged the crops badly. According to dispatches from that section, almost all the fruit was blown from the trees. Further on east the country was visited by cyclones and hail storms. Almost the entire south and middle west, clear to the Atlantic seaboard felt the touch of this huge storm that seems to have originated at the foot of the Rockies.

We never have one of these hard hitters, but that we hear of the results next day in the shape of twisters further east. In fact, their storm really occur first, and our straight winds follow in their wake to fill the void left by their storms. This is hoping they have had the last of their this year, as we don't have bad ones unless they have them first.

Don't Forget the Old Fiddlers Contest Tonite

One of the biggest old Fiddlers contests in the history of this entire section will be held here tonight at the Rialto Theatre, in connection with a mighty good picture show, and your ticket to the show will entitle you to stay for the fiddling contest. Prizes totaling $50.00 will be given, and they are going to be here from the four quarters of the Plains section.

Representing this city will be S. L. (Arkansas) Ferris, Ben Lee and Uncle Bill Crowder, possibly others.

Lubbock will be represented by A. C. Robertson, Mr. Flannagan, and Mr. Micheal; Tahoka by Allen Whittington, Mr. Tegg, and Mr. Lane.

Forrest Copland will represent Amarillo; Dad Hunter, Lamesa; Pat Hooker, Amarillo and F. C. Beck, Plainview.

So if you are given to old time fiddling music, you are in for the treat of your life, for some of these men are noted all over the southwest, and are holders of many prizes.

The management of the Theatre are not expecting to make one penny out of this contest, and probably will not. It is just their intention to give their patronage the treat of their lives at cost. In fact, children will go in at the same old price, 10c each and the adult will be only 15c more than for regular Friday night picture shows.

The Radio, probably more than anything else, has brought old fiddlers contests to the fore again, for not a wheel passes now but one can hear them over the radio, and what is more natural than the people wanting to have these contests in their own communities.

4-H Club Members Have Splendid Pigs

"The best pigs I have seen on the Plains," was the statement made by Mr. Shaver after looking at a number of club litters. Mr. Shaver who is the county agent of Lynn county was over a few days ago with the prospect of buying several Poland China and Duroc pigs for his club members. He was very much pleased with the quality of the pigs that are to be found in Terry county. The 4-H club boys of this county are in a position to furnish the best stock that can be found in Poland China, Durocs, Hampshire and O. I. C. hogs. The adjoining counties are taking advantage of these excellent pigs that are priced very reasonable. While we like to sell good pigs to everybody, yet we need to keep most of these pigs for breeding gilts in our own county.

Texas to Have Super Radio Broadcast Sta.

If everything works out as it now seems, Texas is to soon have one of the most powerful radio stations in the nation, when the Dallas News and the Ft. Worth Star-Telegram combine in what is expected to be a 50,000 watt station, the present limit of power in the United States. It is said that there are some capable of 100,000 watt power, but that the Federal Radio Commission will not permit them to use that much power.

At the present time, the Dallas News is swapping time with KRLD, Dallas Times-Herald station which arrangement has been in vogue since last November when the general shake up occurred. The Times-Herald station can easily be heard in this city, having a 10,000 watt station, but the News has been so cut down in power, it is not heard here except on the most favorable weather conditions. The Star-Telegram WBAP and Hot Springs, Ark. KTHS, have been on the same wave length with a division of time, each with fairly large stations, some 10,000 watts, we believe. On the 21st of April, the Federal Commission will put KTHS, Hot Springs, and KRLD Dallas on the same wave length, and WBAP Fort Worth, and WFAA Dallas on the same length, with permission to operate 24 hours between them, and with permission to build a powerful station for the benefit of the people of Texas and the Southwest. This was agreeable to the Hot Spring Station, but so far KRLD has not given consent for the change, and applicants must appear before the commission again on the 20th of this month at Washington, at which KRLD will probably give its objections. But the commission is by reason of laws governing its decisions, to rule for the benefit of most people, and it is thought there will be quick work when the facts are given them.

Personally, the Herald can see no reason why the Times-Herald objects, in view of the fact that they will be allowed the same time as formerly, and on the same wave length, and with the same powered station. The only change is that they will just swap time with a station in another city instead of with one in their own. It might have the tendency to lead people to suspect they were trying to overshadow the radio station of a rival paper. However, they may have perfectly legitimate reasons which they have not revealed to the public.

But with such a powerful station as the Star-Telegram and News propose to construct, presumably half way between the two cities, people of this section can almost always get good programs, as they will be so powerful that radios may be so cut down that states will not interfere. Then two, these two big papers have agreed to in broadcasting national hookup to obscure their own identity in that one will not know which station is giving it in order to give Texas people good programs. It would not be amiss for radio fans of this city to write either of these stations WBAP, Star-Telegram, Fort Worth or Dallas News, Dallas, Station WFAA encouraging them in the undertaking. Later: KRLD has agreed to share time with KTHS at Hot Springs.

Looses Brooder and 600 Chicks in Fire

The fire alarm sounded about 2:30 Friday night with a call from the Brownfield Hatchery, operated by Bob Holgate in the east part of the city. Mr. Holgate said the building was wrapped in flames when he discovered it, and as it was far enough away from other building not to damage them, he decided once not to call the fire department, as there was no chance of saving it, then he thought about his trees and decided to turn in the alarm, and despite the fact that the firemen were then sound asleep, he said they made the more than a mile run, strung out more than 1,000 feet of fire hose in a very short time.

Of course it was impossible to save the building and some 700 baby chicks, but the fire was extinguished without further loss. Mr. Holgate carried no insurance on the brooder.

City Dads Negotiating For New Gas Engine

Knowing that the city will be obliged to have another unit to the power and light plant this fall, when the zinc start up again, the city council has held meetings for several nights recently negotiating with the West Texas Gas Co., for the purchase of one of their natural gas engines, to be installed here at an early date. The engine under consideration will easily develop near 300 horse power, although rated at about 250. With the installation of this engine, the city will have two complete units, each capable of caring for the power and light of the city independent of the other. This will give the city something like 700 horse power, which is a far reach from the little 80 horse power plant which started here in 1923 and that some of the wise old timers said would play out in a year or two, and we would then go back to our oil lights. None of them wish any such thing to happen, now, however.

Our informant, one of the officials also informed us that by purchasing this engine, they would thereby guarantee the city to have gas by the first of August, this year, as the gas company informed them that they would sign a guarantee to that effect, and would begin the construction of a line from Tahoka over here in time to take care of the engine when it arrived. Otherwise, we have no assurance that the gas company will come until they are good and ready to do so. Some people seem to think that because they have a franchise to build a gas line into Brownfield, they will have to come, but they do not, but they are willing to come if one of these engines are purchased to use gas, which is the cheapest fuel by far that can be burned in an engine. They maintain that these engines will last just as long or longer than fuel oil engines, and at the same time develop a greater horse power per rating. It is said that they will save the city quite a nice sum each year in fuel cost per gallon.

The rate to householders as well as commercial plants offered by the gas company if they come here is very reasonable, indeed, and is said to be a great deal lower than cities like Dallas and Fort Worth are getting, their minimums starting some 15c per thousand cubic feet of gas used higher than we will have to pay here when gas arrives. Therefore in order to kill two birds with one stone, the city will very likely buy one of these engines, in fact we understand the deal is practically closed. One of these stones will be to get a new engine and increase our power plant capacity, which must be done anyway in the near future. The other stone is to assure gas here before cold weather comes again, thus saving the people of Brownfield heavy coal bills this winter. We understand that the dealers in coal here have agreed to use gas at their places of business if by doing so they can help Brownfield get gas. This is indeed a very unselfish move on their part.

Knowing these facts, let us speak to our city council who represent us, asking them to do the very best they can to get gas here before winter, for practically all the new homes now being built are laying gas pipes in them with this expectation.

The "Human Fly" to be Here Saturday P. M.

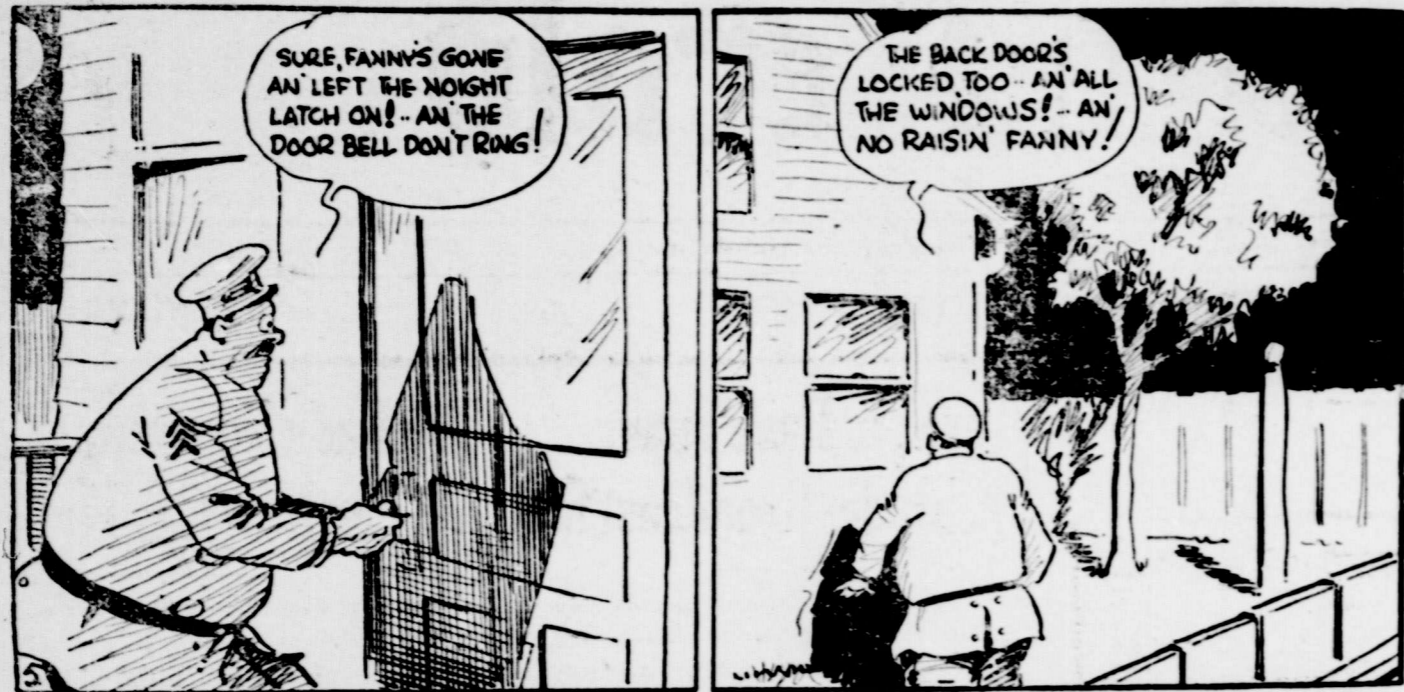

As announced in these advertising columns of this issue, Mr. D. E. Roland, known all over America as "The Human Fly," will climb the outside of the courthouse here Saturday afternoon at 3:30. He will use nothing save his bare hands in accomplishing this stunt. After ascending to the roof, he will do some table and chair balancing stunts on the edge of the building.

Mr. Roland has not only climbed many buildings in this immediate section, but in all parts of the United States. The tallest building he has ever climbed in Texas was in Houston, which is 31 stories, and the tallest in the United States was a building in Seattle, Wash., which was more than 40 stories.

Mr. Roland depends for his living and expenses on a collection from the audience who watch his stunts.

A Breath From Happy Hollywood

I HAVE often told the truthful tale of the distinguished New York theatrical magnate who told a well-known playwright that he didn't care to consider putting on the latter's newest piece called "The Dauphin," because he was sure the American people would never care for a play about a fish.

Then of course there is the tale told of that other and equally prominent manager who, on hearing a synopsis of a dramatization of "David Copperfield," said he liked the story and asked who the original author of the story might have been; and then, when the adaptor told him this honor had belonged to Charles Dickens, said promptly:

"Well, you better get in touch with this here Charley Dickens and bring him in to see me and we'll talk over the royalties, and if the guy ain't unreasonable, why we'll fix it up a contract and go ahead with the production."

But the contemporary authorities agree that for a wide and comprehensive and all-embracing ignorance of the classics these dignitaries in the realm of the spoken drama are not to be mentioned in the same admiring breath with some of the leaders of the moving-pictures industry. A man lately back from sinless Hollywood brings with him two anecdotes regarding a strictly self-made gentleman who holds an important, indeed a commanding position, in one of the biggest of the studios. This gentleman chooses subjects for screening; he casts the companies; he passes on details of location, of costuming and of treatment; he bosses the directors and he issues orders to the actors.

Not so very long ago he was told that the editorial department of his plant looked with an eye of favor on the project of making a film version of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." Promptly he put his foot down on it. "Nix," he said; "we positively wouldn't do it. The public is fed up on these here college plays with football players for heroes."

A few days later he personally was supervising the taking of certain scenes of a comedy. In the script prepared from the author's scenario by the continuity writer, he came upon a line to the effect that the leading woman should be pictured as seated alone in a deep reverie.

"Come with me, you," he said indicating the assistant director, the leading lady and the cameraman. "I know just the place for taking this here piece of business."

He loaded the three of them into an automobile, got in himself and bade the driver take them along a certain road winding into the foothills above Los Angeles. After an hour or so of steady travel they came to where a narrow but precipitous canyon cut into the contours of the landscape. Here the leader of the expedition gave orders to halt.

"There you are," he stated, with a wave of his arm, "you could look for a week and nowhere you wouldn't find no deeper reverie for her to be setting in than what this one is."

"SACRED GRASS"

Bermuda grass is known in India as "Sacred Grass," the belief being that it is a gift from some benevolent deity for the cows, but in parts of the United States it is called the "devil grass," on account of the difficulty in eradicating it when desired. On the whole, Bermuda grass is a decided blessing as pasture in the South. Many claim that it is less palatable and nutritious than other standard pasture grasses, but this idea is usually the result of poor management of the crop, the U. S. Department of Agriculture believes. Three things make for success in handling Bermuda grass. First, legumes should be sown with it. It grows well in combination with white clover and lespedeza and these legumes lengthen the grazing season and increase the nutritive value of the pasture. Second, the grass should not be allowed to get too large and stemmy; if the stock do not graze it closely enough, it should be mowed. Third, light applications of fertilizer, such as cotton seed meal or superphosphate, will keep the grass in a growing condition and are usually profitable.

County Court in Session Here This Week

The May Term of the County Court is grinding away this week, with Judge H. R. Winston on the bench and County Attorney W. W. Price at the bat with the violators of the peace and dignity of the county. From our few visits in the vicinity of the Court House, it seems to be quite a lively session, with Meadow as one of the main sections of the county in the contests.

It seems that quite a number of the local Meadow crap shooters and poker players are having to face the music here this week with case against them, and besides them a number of witnesses from there to testify for them or the State.

ELEGY WRITTEN AT RECITING TIME

(With Apologies to Gray)

The question marks the sign of rising fear.
The perspiration wets my quivering brow;
The answers seldom come in briskly here;
Before the many queries I do bow.
Now fades the glimmering gladness from my eye
And all the air a solemn quietness holds,
Save when some pupil sighs a wistful sigh,
And coughing caused by terror and by colds.
Save that from yonder pencil covered table
The teacher does now to the moon complain
Of those whom dolts and dunces she does label.

But tries to assist, shine or rain.
Beneath these rugged desks in drawers laid
There lie the notes in many a growing heap,
Each in its narrow cell does ever fade;
They rudely tell of "puppy love" so deep.
The beck'ning call of incense-breathing morn.
The swallow twittering from some straw-built shed.
The out-of-doors call, and the hunting horn
All keep the brain from working in each head.
For us no more the shining grades shall show
Or busy teachers mark our cards, "well done."
No bands shall run to celebrate our zero
Or bow their knees and beg to share our fun.
Oft work to teachers we did ever yield;

Assignments oft the weary "stude" has done.
How jocund do they cheer their team afield,
How many scores beneath their study run.

Let not oblivion mark the students work,
Their tiring toil and rank in class obscure,
Nor proudly hear with a disdainful smirk
Of great exhausting hardships they endure.

The boast of leadership, the pomp of power,
And all that work, that midnight oil ever gave,
Awaits alike the inevitable hour,
The paths of study lead but to the grave.

No not, ye scribes, defame the 'rep' of these,
If memory o'er their work no trophies raise,
Although no praise is borne upon the breeze.

At all, in either spring or winter days,
Can football games or programs fine
Back to its dwelling call the fleeting joy?
Can pupils, names upon the printed line
Or cheering soothe each girl and boy?

Perhaps in some forgotten school is found
Some heart that's burning with celestial fire,
Whose names through many ages will resound
Or wake to ecstasy the living lyre.

But knowledge to their eyes with ample page,
Rich with the spoil of time, they'll ne'er unroll;
They love too well the joys of this, their age,
Which awakens genial currents of the soul.

Full many a "stude" with genial face serene
The dark unfathomed halls of schools do bear;
Full many a pupil is born to blush unseen
And waste his knowledge in the school room air.

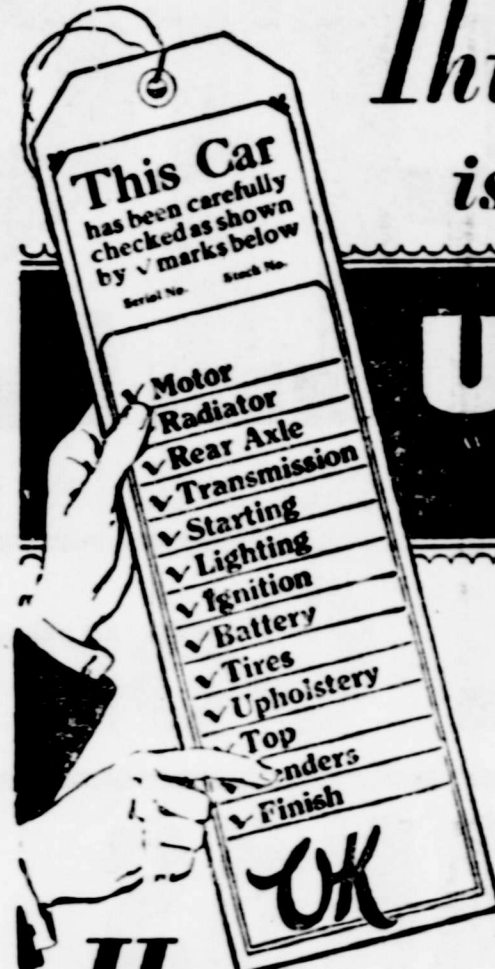

Some noble Plato, who, with all the rest,
Does envy little birdies in the wood;
Some mute, in glorious Milton here may jest;
One who'll lead armies for the nations good.

AVERY TWIN-JACK CULTIVATOR

Easy on both man and team

Avery engineers did a big job in eliminating strain on the operator and lightening the work of the team when they designed the famous Jack Rabbit Cultivator. In the Twin-Jack they have repeated their success, this time in a two-row cultivator that is simple to operate—and easy on both man and team.

The Twin-Jack is sturdy, durable, flexible, easy to handle and comfortable to ride. It has a strong, rigid main frame that will not twist or sag under the hardest conditions. The frame is in perfect balance at all times, with the result that manipulation requires but minimum effort, the horses are spared sore shoulders, and more ground is covered per day with less fatigue.

Each pair of gangs is controlled by two independent levers, the inside lever raising or lowering the pair simultaneously, when desired. By means of an easy pressure on the stirrups the wheels may be angled to right or to left.

We will be glad to explain the many efficient, time-saving features of the Twin-Jack—or demonstrate at your convenience. There is no obligation.

IMPORTANCE OF LACE IS STRESSED IN EVERY PHASE OF THE MODE

One cannot be a true follower of fashion and leave lace out of the spring and summer picture. The importance of lace cannot be overdrawn. Lace of every color and description has inveigled itself into every phase of the mode.

For tea, bridge and dinner, lace frocks in vivid colorings are fashion's favorite theme. Most of them are styled with little jackets or capelets and in some instances lace wraps stress the ensemble idea.

We are wont to think of the "cocktail" jacket as strictly formal, but the illustration suggests its adaptability, when made of all-over lace, to afternoon wear. Most too cunning for words is this jacket topped with a lace-covered felt hat, the entire carried out on the very popular sunburn coloring. When Mary Philbin, one of movieland's most winsome stars, donned this lace "set," she started a vogue which is sure to capture the fancy of every woman who loves beautiful clothes.

The hat in this outfit is as unique and as beguiling as the wee jacket. It is a sunburn colored felt, covered with lace which is stretched that smoothly the effect is almost like an embossed patterning. Miss Philbin wears this jacket and hat with a simple black satin frock. A very good idea this! It is a suggestion worth keeping in mind, for even the most unpretentious frock becomes distingue in company with such an enchanting lace ensemble as this.

A lace dress of many parts is an other worthwhile suggestion which fashion offers this season. This includes a frock with detachable long sleeves with either a matching jacket or three-quarter-length wrap. The wearableness of such a frock is at once recognized, as it can be tuned to both evening and afternoon occasion.

Color gives to the lace frock an emphasized interest. A gown of bright red lace, or in the so-popular chartreuse green or in bright independence blue is indeed good to look upon, and the modern lace frock is in just such enchanting colors.

tiful molded character lasts as long as the spirit is in the body. And no character can be called beautiful that does not count among its dearest possessions a fine set of moral principles.

In choosing your wife, it must be remembered that you are also choosing the mother of your children, and unfortunately this is not always given enough consideration. Your wife should be fitted to bring into the world children of whom you can be proud. They should be a living, lusty, glowing tribute to your love. Scrawny, spindle-legged, knock-kneed bow-legged children are anything but this.

But even though you agree heartily to this advice—watch out. Many a bright young man has said: "Oh, I'm just killing a little time. I have no serious intentions." But how about the girl's intentions? She may be serious and if she does not measure up to your ideals, you are in danger.

Sometimes it is painful in the extreme to break off an association of this kind; like a painful surgical operation. But if you do not break it off now, it will break you up later on—when your hopes and dreams of a missful marriage life have gone to pieces on the rocks of disillusion.

DISCOVERS VALUABLE LOOKING ORE IN ROTAN COUNTRY

Pedro Gonzales, alias Peter La Aurora, a Mexican of advanced age, brought some valuable looking ore to town Tuesday, but was unable to find anyone who could tell him what it was. The ore was unearthed in this territory, though he would not give the location, but said there was a rich mine of it underground where he found the nuggets.

The ore is imbedded in rock and hard gravel and the exposed particles of ore shine and glisten in the sun like gold. It is the opinion of the Advance geologist that the ore is copper, with probably a mixture of iron. It is rich in whatever mineral it contains, and may be found in sufficient quantities to make mining profitable.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

The State of Texas, To the Sheriff or any Constable of Yoakum County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Casimir Andel, Louise K. Andel, George Andel, William C. Andel, Coleman Andel, Gisella Schuchardt, and her husband, C. W. Schuchardt, Joseph Osterhaus, L. R. Osterhaus her husband, Ethel Andel, Mary Helen Andel, and Katherine Louise Andel, Defendants and the heirs and legal representatives of said named Defendants, whose names and residences are unknown, by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if a newspaper is not published therein, then in the nearest County where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Yoakum County, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Plains on the Second Monday in June A. D. 1929, the same being the tenth day of June A. D. 1929, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 25th day of April A. D. 1929, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court as No. 219, wherein First National Bank of Belleville, Illinois is Plaintiff, and Casimir Andel, Louise K. Andel, George Andel, William C. Andel, Coleman Andel, Gisella Schuchardt and her husband, C. W. Schuchardt, Joseph Osterhaus, L. R. Osterhaus her husband, Ethel Andel, Mary Helen Andel, and Katherine Louise Andel, Defendants and the heirs and legal representatives of said named Defendants, whose names and residences are unknown, are Defendants, and said petition alleging that on the 16th day of November 1908, Plaintiff was the legal holder and owner and entitled to the possession of Section 10, Block P, laying in Yoakum and Cochran County, Texas, containing 640 acres of land, and has since said time been the owner thereof and at all times entitled to its possession, and that on January 1, 1928 the Defendants entered into possession of said property and disposed of this Plaintiff and now withhold from it the use and possession thereof to Plaintiff's damage.

Wherefore, Plaintiff prays that after service and upon hearing it have its judgement for title and ready possession and such other relief as at law and equity it is entitled to have.

For second count, Plaintiff shows to the Court that on November 16, 1908, Defendant Casimir Andel obtained title to the property, above described, being Section 10, Block P, Yoakum and Cochran Counties, Texas by conveyance from Alice B. Glaser and husband, and that the said conveyance was in settlement of an indebtedness from the grantors in said deed to the Plaintiff in this action, and the grantee in such deed was to and did hold the title of such property in trust for this Plaintiff, and he always recognized the same.

That the said Casimir Andel died about February 6, 1918 intestate with no administration upon his estate and surviving him was his widow, Louise K. Andel, and the following children: George, William C., Coleman, Gisella and Josepha, which were all the children born to him, and that the son, George, died about December 10, 1918 leaving surviving him his wife, Ethel and two daughters, who are now minors, Mary Helen and Katherine Louise; that he died intestate with no other descendants surviving him; that Louise K. Andel died about April 9, 1919 leaving as her surviving children and descendants of children the persons just named; that during the lifetime of said Casimir Andel he recognized the trust, aforesaid, but never made formal conveyance of the property to cestue que trust.

That by reason of the foregoing, there having been no administration of the said estate, there exists a cloud upon the Plaintiff's title to the property, which Plaintiff seeks to have removed.

Plaintiff prays for process upon all the Defendants, that upon hearing it have its judgement quieting its title to the said Survey of land against them and removing the cloud therefrom, and for such other and further relief as at law and equity it may be entitled under the facts shown.

Herein filed not, and have you before said Court, at its aforesaid next

SELECTING A WIFE

Young men like to think that they select their wives; it caters to their vanity. But actually, it is often the wives who do the selecting. For example: A girl decides she wants a certain chap for her husband—and she sets out to get him. He may be willing, or he may not, but girls have a way of knowing how to win over the reluctant male, and in the end he usually succumbs.

But there are young men who really do select their wives, and it is to them that this little talk is directed.

There are many standards of course by which the ideal wife can be measured; tastes vary. But there are already certain innate qualities that a regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said Court, at office in Plains, Texas this the 25th day of April A. D. 1929.

girl must possess in order to be a good wife to any man. And these are among them:

First of all, she must possess a splendid vigorous body. The more vital she is the better your chance for marital happiness.

She should be a natural, wholesome, vivacious girl, who will be honest and above-board in all her dealings with you. The painted sexy little vamp is not one to chose for your life partner; she is usually a "fair-weather" friend.

She should love you for what you are and not for what you have.

She should have a background of wholesome family life in which she has learned to respect the rights of others along with unselfishness and loyalty. And she must have reverence for its divine associations.

"Handsome is as handsome does" is a trite old saying, but like many old sayings it has its foundation in truth. Beautifully molded features while pleasant to look upon, are not all-important because the impaaceable march of Times changes them. But a beau-

Over in Russia, that land of the benighted, where atheism runs rife, the church people were mocked and hooted recently while trying to celebrate the Easter season as best they have the light. These hoodlums, who have just about enough sense to be the dupes of those of "higher" learning, are showing what the whole world will come to if Christianity is ever blotted from this footstool of Jehovah. The most highly civilized, the most desirable places to make our homes in this old world are the states, the counties, the communities where the most God fearing people dwell. We'd as soon go on to torment now as to be sentenced to dwell in modern Russia the balance of our days.

Well, as we have nothing else particularly to grumble about this week, we are just going to ache a little at one of our exchanges which sends us a paper each week folded backward. The head lines of this paper are invariably folded inside. We can tell most of our exchanges by the part of the headline sticking out of the wrapper before opening it up, but not this one, although we can now tell it by its oddity. We have a chromo laid up for this publisher, and the first one of his papers that comes to us folded right, we are going to send it to him even if he cuts us off, and we'd regret that, honestly, for we certainly appreciate his paper. None of our business, sure, but it just gives us the creeps to see his fine little paper always folded the wrong way.

We said it some time ago, and it has come to pass. Recently the board of directors of the State Fair at Dallas, met and greatly revised the conditions imposed upon counties or communities who wish to exhibit there. A county can now exhibit from 25 to 50 products in any quantity from their counties, but two main crops must be stressed, and with neatness of display, arrangement, etc., can make 1,000 percent. The directors of the State Fair are wise men, and they saw the finish of the old score card idea, and figured rightly that they were either driving exhibitors away from the fair entirely, or that they would just come on their own hook with what they wanted without the expectation of any prize money. The main reason for county exhibits at the State Fair is advertising, and one just can't get away from it, but when the score card of the past few years was rigidly adhered to, there was very little advertising worth in the arrangement. In fact, some of them last year was not worth a second glance.

We very often hear a complaint that we are paying too much for our schools, and really our taxes do seem high, for we have to pay them in a lump sum, and all of them come due the same month, January. These include, auto, dog—if any—State and County, Poll, School and City. In fact we can't see, smell, hear, taste or feel anything in January except taxes. In some of the cities, they are spreading the collections over some months, thus relieving the situation, and there is some talk of collecting city taxes here in the fall. A good move. But back to the schools. Some fellow who is a worm for statistics informs us that the average man spends 6 cents for autos, 3 cents for luxuries for each one copper penny that he spends on schools. We may say that is our business, and it is, but on second thought we are bound to reflect that it may be dinged poor business. Certainly we can ride in our neighbor's car; we can dispense with chewing tobacco, cigars, candy and "wax" and live to tell the tale, but we must have schools or turn our kids out with the wild animals one or the two. Take your choice, brother.

The Herald has recently received a copy of The Big Idea, published at Messillon, Ohio, by the famous "Gen." Jacob S. Coxey, Sr., of the once "army" fame back in the good old panicky days of 1894, when he and a host of farmers and laborers who were out of employment marched on Washington to demand better treatment at the hand of the government for the farmer and laboring man, and especially to ask for non-interest bearing bonds for the construction of market roads. The Big Idea gave a number of pictures of the Grangers on the march, together with the mess wagons, the camps in the woods, and the rude barber shops set up in camp. Some were in wagons and buggies, a few horse back, some on bicycles, and great hosts afoot, but narry an auto in sight. The paper gives a view of the arrest of the leaders for tramping on the grass and breaking down the shrubbery on the capitol grounds, and one of the "Gen." and his chief lieutenant languishing in the Washington jail. Coxey is planning another campaign in favor of the laboring man, but this time instead of an army, he and his daughter are going to tout the country, speaking in a huge tent of their own which will seat some 5,000 people, according to The Big Idea.

THAT FARM RELIEF CRAZE

(Richard H. McCarty—Albany News)
The Hugh and cry of the nation for Farm Relief, and the politicians and demagogues are making political capital of it, and all along down the ages this stripe of folks have ever catered to the crowd who want the government to go into the boarding house business—Man by nature is a weakling, he's the smartest and strongest animal of all and yet the weakest if indulged—Yes, likes a hand out, something for nothing, wants to milk the government cow, but wants the government to furnish the hay and bran, forgetting the fact that the government in order to feed the cow will have to slip its hand in your grain bin, and its pitch fork in your hay stack to supply the feed—Now briefly, let's see about this farm relief—Driving along down a country lane the other day, on one side of the road was a one horse farm, following a mule and a bulltongue plow down a cotton row, just the same old methods of his grandfather—Ten acres of cotton and five acres of corn lives in a shack, a starved gut and a starved mind—Now that fellow wants a government donation—On the side of the road, just opposite this one horse farmer was the modern day farmer, sitting on a gasoline tractor, same hooked onto a bunch of gang plows and a four row planter, plowing up the earth and seeding it, forty and fifty acres per day. Now that fellow raises too much stuff, floods the markets, hence he wants the government to go into the price fixing business—It's not government interference that either one of them need—What that one mule farmer needs is a mix gray matter with muscle, by capitalizing and using the tools that science has laid on his door step, just like his neighbor on the other side of the road, gasoline tractors and four row planters—It's not government regulation that either one of them need, but a marketing system, the proper distribution of farm products—Now maybeso, the Federal and state governments might help in the matter, show the way, but as to price fixing, putting a fictitious price on cotton, why doggone this southland with its modern methods of farming could also fifty or sixty million bales of cotton, likewise with the wheat farmers—Going to put the government in the farming business eh? Laws and regulation governing same, made by legged politicians up there in the nation's capitol who don't know as much about farming and finance as a rat knows about side pockets—Now couldn't it be a dirty filthy mess? Government ware houses flooded with farm products—Crazy socialism of the first sort, fictitious price making eh? Supply and demand is the balance wheel of commerce.—(Copyright by McVeigh Country Newspaper Syndicate.)

Work has started on a white water lighting system for Tahoka's business section. By reducing the city water pumping rates approximately 30 percent the whiteway will be practically no expense to the city. The West Texas Utilities Company will bear the expense of installation.

Construction has started on Hamlin's large lake, and the site for the big iron reservoir has been cleared. Digging of the ditch and laying of the main to town is under way. This lake will hold sufficient water to furnish a city of 25,000 people, and supply Hamlin three years if necessary, without rain.

More than $35,000 is being spent in changes and additions to the telephone system in the Pecos-Northwestern Telephone Company. Changing over to the common battery system is expected to be complete by May 1. Pecos has one of the four transcontinental repeater stations in Texas.

MEADOW BRIEFS

(By Aesculapias)

The Herald certainly had that picture of "Miss May Arriving" prepared some time before that event materialized. I am pretty sure she could not have discovered Brownfield nor any other South Plains town without a guide, and that smile she wears wouldn't have lasted until she had crossed the street.

Her paraphernalia would have come in quite handy the following day if she had carried along a two horse scraper or a road grader to move the sand from kitchen or other rooms on the North side of the dwelling.

Jack may be correct in preferring our sand storms to the tornados and cyclones that have ravaged the east and southeast but I could enjoy robust health without either.

Now I don't know what happened in other sections of the Plains but when night came vegetation looked like mid winter here. Crops that were up were literally moped off the face of the earth or buried so deep that there will never be a resurrection.

I heard a fellow say it was God's will and all for the best, but I am quite sure there was something the matter with his head. The Convulsions and Gyri and Sulci were full of sand.

However I guess I'll stay just to see if there is anything worse going to happen.

Meadow was crowded Saturday and it was not possible to find parking room on the street. Business of all kinds seemed to be active.

The prospects for oil in this country must look good to some people as there was a fellow here the past week trying to buy royalty. Don't know how much he landed, but I am told that he bought some. A few more May days will uncover the stuff without the intervention of a drill.

I had a card yesterday from Dr. J. T. Krueger, who is now in the East, saying "I have enjoyed the Clinics in Rochester, Chicago, Cleveland, Boston, New Haven, New York and now go to Philadelphia. Home the 10th." Krueger is a great surgeon and a mighty fine fellow besides. Guess he will show us guys some new kinks when he gets back.

Borned to Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Jeter, on the 6th, a little girl. The girls seem to be in the ascendancy just now—this is perhaps the reason so much dust is flying.

FARM LIFE STILL LURES

Marion Talley, world famous, the cynosure of all eyes, the youngest prima donna ever to grace the stage of the great Metropolitan Opera House—

Marion Talley, possessed of wealth and fame—

Marion Talley, envied by farm girls, has made a firm decision to take up life on the farm and leave her career behind.

No more for her the glamour of bright lights, first nights, and the applause of the multitude.

Of her own accord, she is going with her family to operate a farm for the sake of happiness.

What a wonderful example for all the boys and girls who are on the farms and feel that their opportunities are limited thereby. Marion Talley has tasted everything that the city has to offer, and has made her decision in the face of it all.

This strikes us as very significant in view of the decreasing farm population. It shows that the farm still has a definite lure—that always and ever people will be turning to the farm for the sake of health and happiness.

This action of Marion Talley is sure to have a tremendous influence in turning people's attention to the many advantages of life on the farm-lands of America.—Portales Herald.

THE TELEPHONE GIRL

"Thank you." That's exactly what the telephone girl said the other day when I rang and told her "two-five-nine." And I thought why should that pretty, sweet girl say "thank you" to me. I had rendered no service, had performed no courtesy to deserve a thanks. But anyway that "thank you" sounded good, and I just felt a little more friendly, a little more sympathetic, a little more considerate for the telephone girl who said "thank you." And then I thought how much brighter and happier this old world would be if everybody, Son-of-a-Gun included would make a practice of saying "thank you" more often. And musing along it occurred to me that there had been possibly a thousand opportunities that very day for me to say "thank you" and I forgot to say it. That gentle "thank you" will command what money cannot buy. Money can't buy friendship. Oh, it can command flattery, fawning and make believe. But genuine friendship and respect is unpurchasable with filthy lucre. But at this counter "thank you" is the coin of the realm. Every day, in every way it is "cash-on-the-barrel-head" currency undepreciated and undepreciated, undepreciable and undepreciable. If there is anybody in this world who deserves the good will of the public more than others, that is the telephone girl. All day and all night it is the same grind, and always kind, always courteous. Most people can be grouchy if they want to, and are not afraid to, but the telephone girl never. And then she is a long ways off and a lot of uncouth, uncivil, unkind, ungenerous people sometimes seem to take a delight in "bawling" her out. Folk's let's be more considerate with the telephone girl. She says "thank you."—San Saba News.

AMERICAN OUTPUT OF MOHAIR INCREASES 8 PERCENT

Mohair production in the six important producing states of the United States in 1928 amounted to 14,522,000 pounds.

The full text of the statement follows:

This was an increase of 1,052,000 pounds or about 8 percent over the production of 1927. Nearly all of the increase was in Texas, which produces over 80 percent of the total.

The estimated production in the different states in 1928 was as follows: Texas, 12,330,000 pounds; Arizona 684,000 pounds; California, 176,000 pounds; Oregon, 525,000 pounds; Missouri, 178,000 pounds.

In the schools of one city it was found that three and one-half as many hard of hearing children as normal children had to repeat grades.

TEXAS HOLDS RECORD FOR HEAVIEST PIGS

Farmers of 30 states competing in the 1928 hog-raising contest produced 492 litters of pigs, that weighed a ton or more at six months of age, according to figures compiled in Washington.

Pennsylvania, with 65 ton litters, produced a larger number than any other state, holding the same position as last year. Ohio was next with 48 ton litters, followed by Indiana with 41, and Tennessee with 40.

Idaho produced the heaviest litter in this year's contest, a litter of 14 pigs totaling 4,156 pounds at six months of age.

Texas holds the record for the heaviest weight of individual pigs in a litter, an eight-pig litter having reached an average weight of 390 pounds in 180 days.

Breckenridge school children are taking part in the Cleaning-Up program being observed in the town this week. They spent their time beautifying the school campuses and buildings, along with the rest of the town. The observation was started off with a parade in which every school was represented.

Felix Proctor and wife of Roswell, were over last week visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Proctor, and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Barrett.

Mr. C. D. Knight, representing the Intertype Corporation branch at New Orleans in West Texas and New Mexico, paid the Herald a short call this week.

Paint Demonstration at At Cicero Smith Yard

Mr. H. T. Cooper, of Childress, Texas, was here Monday and Tuesday of this week in the interest of the Patterson-Sargeant Paint Co., branch house of Fort Worth, demonstrating the famous line of BPS paints, varnishes and lacquers that are stocked by the Cicero Smith yard of this city. Mr. Cooper is an expert on paints, and took delight in showing the customers just what can be accomplished with brush and paint. He also showed some original effects that can be accomplished with paints by rolling newspapers over the surface before the paints are dry.

No one was asked to buy anything, but each caller holding a coupon were given a free sample can large enough to paint any small article of furniture, such as a table, chair, etc., about the place, and all who asked were given a demonstration of just what the paint they were receiving would do and for what purpose it was intended. There was generally several ladies or men on hand throughout the two days, and all showed great interest in the demonstration.

SILK "UNDIES" TABOOED IN TALKIE STUDIOS

After a desperate battle with temperamental women stars, silk underclothes have been ruled out of the talking picture studios of Hollywood. They are too noisy.

Peter Vischer, noted movie critic, writing of the difficulties of the new industry in Farm & Fireside, relates how one film was continually harassed by noises appearing in a drawing room scene. One expedient after another was tried but that harsh, hissing noise continued to mar the picture. A research man who was called in finally pointed to the woman star and declared that she must be wearing silk underclothes. The star admitted that she was wearing silk underclothes and said she would like to see the director, manager or president of a company who could make her stop wearing them. She insisted that it was ridiculous to think that silk undergarments could make noise enough to spoil a picture.

The incident served to show, however, the keenness of the "ears" of the modern talkie camera. The microphones are especially sensitive to the rustle of silk, and it is magnified to tremendous proportions in comparisons with other sounds. Recently in a picture with Jeanne Eagels playing the murderer two days were required to figure out a method by which she could light a cigarette. The scratch of a match or the click of a lighter came out with the violence of explosions.

Other films have found it necessary to make their stars wear rubber jewelry, as the clicking of a bracelet or of friction between two stones are magnified to the most grotesque proportions. In a recent picture, "The Letter," a cat was made to paw gently at a door. To the ears of the company and the director this made no sound. Reproduced, it sounded like a thunderstorm. Composition gears for the cameras are the latest invention in the fight against sound.

VETERAN EDITOR WILL GIVE TIME TO OWN BUSINESS

James L. Dow, pioneer West Texas and South Plains newspaperman and for nearly 24 years editor of the Lubbock Avalanche, yesterday announced his resignation from the local newspaper field. In announcing his resignation from the staff of the Avalanche-Journal publications Mr. Dow gave as his reasons the necessity of attending to personal business matters and his wish to give more attention to the management and editing of the Ralls Banner, which paper he recently purchased.

Starting at the age of 14 years as a "printers devil" on the Colorado City Spokesman in 1892 Mr. Dow has been engaged in the newspaper and printing business in this section continuously since his entry into the profession.—Avalanche.

Bring Their Porkers
Here For Good Market

George Carter and son-in-law, Aubrey Thomas, of Ropes were here Friday with a truck load of porkers, which they put on the local market at what they considered fully three-fourth cent above the market in the town where they had been marketing their pigs heretofore. These butcher pigs were purchased by the firm of Howell & Lovelace at ten cents.

These gentlemen informed the Herald that they were going to patronize the Brownfield livestock markets more in the future, as they had some more pigs that would be ready for the market from time to time. They also are finding the dry goods, grocery and furniture markets well in line and better than other places in this section, and outside of their own town will, in the future, throw considerable of their trade to Brownfield. These men are substantial citizens, and their trade is worth catering to. Thus, by giving all for such products that the market will bear, the buyers are not only helping themselves, but are helping to reach out and bring buyers here which indirectly benefits the entire community.

Grading and graveling is almost complete on the two mile stretch of road between the Electra-Archer paving and the Iowa Park road. The new road will give a direct outlet from Electra to the oil field and irrigated valley communities, shortening the route with an all-weather road.

As this being written, a number of local Rotarians are making preparation to go to Levelland where they will put on a program for the host club. All are anticipating a great time.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD AVERAGES BOOK EVERY THREE DAYS

Precocious Precisian Corrects Playmates When Caught in Grammatical Errors.

Birmingham, Ala.—Just at the age when other children in the neighborhood are content with stories in colored pictures and Mother Goose rhymes, Howard Young, four, of Birmingham, is completing the reading of his thirtieth book. The book is a reader suitable for a fourth grade child and contains many words that would cause an older child to stumble. Howard has been reading since he was three, according to his parents. He reads aloud, pronouncing each word distinctly. When he hits an unfamiliar one he repeats it syllable by syllable until he has mastered it. When he comes to a word whose meaning he does not understand, it is explained to him with illustrations from every-day life.

In his father's library is stacked on a table a high pile of books. These are Howard's, and each is marked with the date it was begun and finished. Examination showed that Howard averaged a book every three days. The group includes a variety of primers recommended by school authorities for first, second and third-grade children, and numbers of supplementary readers. Among the titles are "Reynard Fox," "Windmill and the Wooden Shoes," and James Baldwin's "Fairy Readers." Howard's father estimates that the child has read 4,000 pages.

The "word method" was used in instructing the child. The first word in the primer was "flag," which appeared under a picture of a flag. When he had definitely learned the word and its meaning he was taught the separate letters of the word. After he had learned a number of words, his lessons were advanced to the study of sentences.

In his conversation Howard shows evidence of his unusual mental development. He seldom makes a grammatical error and he uses words that the average child of that age has not learned. When Howard hears his playmates make an error in speech he is quick to notice it.

When he recently heard a small child say "that's a good 'un," he informed him that he should have said "good one" instead. He even corrects his elders when necessary. Not long ago he was visiting with his parents, when his hostess used the word "ain't" he quickly remarked that there was no such word in the dictionary. Howard's parents hope that he will be ready to enter Harvard at the age of fourteen.

Fiji Islanders Lead Easy Life, No Rent

London.—The easy life of the Fiji islands brightens the heavy reading of the annual colonial report for 1927, which has just been issued by the British government. "Labor conditions do not exercise any considerable influence on the Fijians as a whole," declares the report, "apart from affording them a means of acquiring additional social amenities. Every Fijian is a member of a land-owning unit and has the right to use a portion of the tribal lands for planting crops for food and profit, or for raising cattle. "If he remains in his village he is provided with a house of native construction built by the community of which he is a member. Beyond performing his share of the work done for its own benefit by the community as a whole, he pays no rent either for his land or his house."

Boy's Letter on Graf
Zeppelin Is Worth $15

Monrovia, Calif.—A little ingenuity in using the mails netted Joe Elliott, high school student, more than 1,400 per cent on an investment in postage stamps. Joe wrote a letter ostensibly to his father but addressed it to a fictitious street number in Hamburg, Germany. The letter was placed aboard the Graf Zeppelin on its return flight to that country and bears the special stamps prepared for mail on the famous trans-oceanic trip.

Postage cost young Elliott $10. Collectors appraised the envelope and stamps, with cancellations and special marks placed there by both German and the United States government of officials, at no less than $15 present value. And, they declared, the value is destined to increase with each succeeding year.

Montana Revives Title,
"The Treasure State"

Butte, Mont.—Lacking only the glamour of gold rush days, Montana's mines with copper again selling at prewar level, again are justifying its claim to be "the Treasure State." For the first time since the postwar depression Montana copper properties are operating close to capacity, miners are in demand and wages at or near the peak.

Miners of the Anaconda Copper Mining company and other concerns at Butte, with correlated industries scattered over the state, have been rapidly restored to production during recent months. Eleven thousand miners in Butte, 3,000 smeltersmen at Anaconda and 1,500 more at Great Falls now are at work under wage scales increased twice within the last five months.

Was there ever a man who willingly admitted having shown poor judgment?

Because men learned to weave long before they learned to write down their experiences, it is difficult to determine the first kinds of cloth made by prehistoric people.

SANITARIUM MAY BE ENLARGED MORE

Having had a total of 38,257 patients registered during the past year, doctors of the Lubbock Sanitarium clinic are considering the addition of 50 rooms to the present structure, it was learned yesterday at the sanitarium. The new clinic building costing more than $100,000 was opened one year ago yesterday. An average of 105 persons have visited the institution daily during that time.

Officials of the sanitarium were reticent about definite plans and date of starting construction of the proposed addition. Two additional doctors will be employed on the staff within a short time, it was said.

Hudgens & Knight are installing an up to date meat market in the grocery section this week with one of the most modern cooling systems money can buy, operated with one of the latest model Kelvinators made for that purpose.

RECIPE BOOKS OBTAINED FROM FRIGIDAIRE COMPANY

A second edition of 250,000 copies of its new recipe book giving formulas for unusual desserts and salads never before possible to make in the home, has been sent to the printer by Frigidaire Corporation. The first edition, which ran 500,000 copies, was exhausted within sixty days after publication.

The book, which is being distributed through dealers everywhere features practical household applications of quick-freezing, according to its author, Miss Verna L. Miller, head of the corporation's experimental kitchens. Many of the recipes were devised in connection with engineering development of the Frigidaire cold control, acclaimed as the greatest single contribution to household refrigeration since the first ice box.

"The same kind of frozen desserts and salads usually enjoyed only in hotels and restaurants equipped with powerful refrigeration machinery, may now be made by the average housekeeper in her own kitchen with the help of these recipes and the aid of the cold control," says Miss Miller.

"We conducted lengthy and exacting tests covering each recipe before it was finally approved. Hundreds of visitors to the experimental kitchens tasted variations of each recipe and voted their preference. In some cases we tried more than eighty combinations of ingredients before the recipe was finally perfected.

"In addition, each separate recipe was checked for appearance. A dessert must not only be pleasing in taste but also attractive in appearance to win popular approval. The recipes were devised with an eye to economy and ease of preparation. Freezing tests were made under various conditions to insure uniform results.

"Besides giving the advantage of six freezing speeds in obtaining the varied temperatures necessary for freezing these new desserts, cold control cuts the freezing time of ice cubes almost in half."

JUDGE HOLDDS LAMESA CITY BUILDING LAW VOID

LAMESA—In the district court this week in the case of the city of Lamesa against the contractors of a Catholic Church here charged with failure to secure a building permit, Judge Gordon B. McGuire district Judge that that the building permit ordinance was invalid and no good. This leaves the city of Lamesa without a building ordinance and clearly demonstrates the need of a home rule and city manager form of government for Lamesa.

Mother—

When a fellow has a Mother
He's a mighty lucky man;
For he'll never have another,
Though he reach life's longest span.
She's the one thing in creation
That your money cannot buy;
She's beyond all calculation—
No matter how you try.
You may talk about the others
Who are near and dear and true,
But no cousins, aunts or brothers
Can approach her love for you.
Should the hand of Fate deprive me
Of this closest, dearest friend,
Others never could revive me,
Nor my broken heart could mend.
So I pray that God may leave her Free from troubles that would grieve her
And from aught that causes tears.

Mother's Day

Next Sunday, the second Sunday in May, is Mother's Day conceived by this "younger generation" called sinful, wild and selfish, yet this is one of the most reverent and beautiful suggestions of love and devotion the world has ever known.
In ancient times are recorded tales of the ceremonies by which Rhea, the "great mother of the gods" was worshipped in Asia Minor. These ceremonies were introduced to Rome from Greece and with the growth of Christianity the honor of Motherhood has increased. President Wilson issued the first Mother's Day Proclamation, May 9, 1914.
The emblem to be worn on Mother's Day is the white carnation typifying the beauty, truth and fidelity of Mother love.

A HUMOROUS EPISTLE

I have just picked up my pen to write you with a lead pencil. We don't live where we lived before we lived where we have moved.

Aunt Sallie, I am so sorry we are separated so far together and wish we were close apart.

We are having more weather this year than we had last year.

Aunt Catherine is dead she died on New Year's Day 15 minutes in front of 5. Her breath just leaked out. The doctor gave up all hope when she died. She left a family of 2 boys and 2 cows.

My sister has the mumps. She is having a SWELL time. She is near death's door and I hope the doctor pulls her through.

We have 3 hens and 1 cat. The hens lay eggs in a box and the cat lays on the floor.

My sweethearts have all appeared and if they disappear back I won't know how to look for them. They look so much apart I can't tell them alike.

I started to Dallas once to see you, Aunt Sallie, and I saw a sign in the road that says "This takes you to Dallas," so I got on it and sat there for 2 hours and the darn thing wouldn't move.

Aunt Sallie, I am mailing you a winter coat by express. It was too heavy to send by parcel post, so I cut the buttons off and put them in the right hand pocket. Hope you find them.

One of my neighbor's babies swallowed some straight pins and we fed it a pin cushion and it got all right.

Yours, 'till nightmares are used for saddle horses.—School Paper.

RADIO ASSURES SAFETY IN AIR

Engineer of Bureau of Standards Outlines Needs of Aviation Service.

New York.—The future development of commercial air travel is virtually dependent upon the use of radio, in the opinion of Dr. J. H. Dellinger, chief of the radio section of the United States bureau of standards, who addressed the winter convention of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers recently. Doctor Dellinger said the percentage of aviation accidents resulting from hazards of weather was due to the slowness with which radio aids to air navigation have been advancing.

"Radio seems the answer to those standards," Doctor Dellinger concluded, "and there is ground for hope that not only this percentage of accidents, but the whole number of accidents will become vanishingly small when the present possibilities of radio are realized in practice."

Destroying Fog Menace.

Doctor Dellinger pointed out that genuine service will not be available until the air traveler may count on schedules as regular as railway trains maintain. Independent of weather or other contingencies. All other limitations are in a fair way to be overcome, he said, yet air traffic comes to a standstill when low visibility prevents the pilot from seeing landmarks or lights on the ground. A pilot may continue to fly in a fog, Doctor Dellinger said, by use of such instruments as the altimeter, turn indicator and compass, but it is only by means of radio that he can be certain of keeping to a given course and find the landing field when the ground is invisible.

The radio beacon system which is being established on the airways of the United States is destroying the fog menace, Doctor Dellinger declared, and when this system is fully established, he pointed out, there is every reason to believe that the last great obstacle to safe flying will have been conquered, scheduled flights will be dependable, and passenger flying can be considered established as a serious service.

Doctor Dellinger described some of the means by which radio could be employed as an aid to air navigation for the flyer not traveling the regular airways. The first of these systems utilizes direction finding stations on the ground which determine the direction of radio waves transmitted by the airplane, combine their calculations and by triangulation determine the plane's position, which is then communicated to the pilot.

A second method is the use of a radio direction finder on the airplane. The pilot steers a course in the indicated direction of the radio station on the ground, and can be certain of reaching that point. The third method described by Doctor Dellinger employs the rotating radio beacon for the guidance of the independent flyer. A radio transmitting station, located preferably as an airport, sends forth a beam of radio waves which sweep constantly around. A special signal indicates when the beam sweeps through the north.

All Have Disadvantages.

A pilot listening for the beacon signal with his earphones determines his direction by the time elapsing between the north signal and the instant when the beam is heard with maximum intensity. The elapsed time is determined by means of a stop watch calibrated to read direction.

All of these methods have disadvantages which are not present in the operation of the radio beacon system employed for the United States airways, Doctor Dellinger said. All that is required on the plane now traveling a charted airway is a simple visual indicator on the instrument board, by reference to which the pilot can immediately tell whether or not he is on his course.

Well-Dressed Irishmen Adopt Novel Pajamas

Belfast.—The well-dressed young Irishman will sleep in very novel pajamas this year, according to orders received by Ulster shirt, collar and pajama manufacturers. Extra workers are necessary to meet the demand for fancy nightwear, and some firms report a 60 per cent increase in output. The day of the fancy shirt has gone, manufacturers say, as the jazzy patterns have given way to plain materials or neat stripes.

The Bigger Kids Are Harder They Think

Boston.—The bigger they are the harder they think, is the conclusion reached by Dr. Neil A. Dayton, director of the division of mental deficiency of the Massachusetts department of mental diseases, after mental research among 11,000 school children. "These studies revealed a positive association between over-average height and weight and high intelligence, and likewise a positive association between the same physical factors and higher school accomplishments," he reported.

PROWLERS BREAK IN LYNN CHURCH; DO MUCH DAMAGE

Prowlers last week broke into the Methodist church at Lynn and proceeded to tear things up in general, according to Rev. J. P. Thompson.

An ax was used on the piano, damaging it beyond repair, the lights were stolen, books and other literature were strowed promiscuously over the place, and to cap it all off liquor was poured over the pulpit.

Rev. Thompson stated that so far the offenders had not been arrested, but they hoped to clear it up soon.

This is a terrible thing to happen in this civilized country. Things like that happened in the dim and distant past, but it was excused on the ground that it was just the community toughs or another bender, but in this day and time there is no excuse under the sun and we hope they are speedily brought to trial and get what an act of this kind deserves.—Wilson Pointer.

Leila: "You, simp, why didn't you run behind a bus and you would have saved ten cents."
