

Big 4-H Subscription Campaign Officially Starts Saturday P.M.

MERCHANTS PLEASSED WITH STRAW HAT DAY SAT.

There was a Thrill Every Moment of the Contest For Participants as Well as the Side Line Folks. Merchants All Well Pleased With the Advertising Value.

Except for an extra high wind for the time of year, Saturday was almost an ideal day here for early May, and the boys and girls and the kiddoes were here from every section of our great trade territory to meet their good friends, and to lay in a supply of the great bargains that the merchants had in store for them in the shape of every commodity used in the home. Even some of the drug stores had on bargains, which is unusual. And now folks, just let us intimate that something was carried away from here Saturday night, and don't forget it.

But we were aiming to tell you about the straw hat affair. The Herald had an idea that some fifteen or twenty would be sailed off the top of a building, and that perhaps two or three hundred people would participate or look on. But our merchants were feeling extra good Saturday following the rains, and they are not stingy any time. So the seven dry goods stores, Clyde Lewis, Jones, Baldwin's, M. G. Hargrave, Cobb's, W. E. Legg and Collins, gave Mr. Legg and Jap Baldwin 42 straw hats to be sailed off the top of the Hotel Brownfield, which would figure something like $75 or $100 worth of hats, as many of them were real high priced hats. If the merchants had not sold one hat each on the strength of the stunt, they figured that they got their money's worth, for they really wanted to give the people, their good customers of this section something anyway, and this appealed to them. Each of them were right in for it when the Herald suggested it to them, and spent good money advertising the event themselves in their ads. But they as well as others got a great kick out of watching the performance.

After a nice talk by Mr. Legg, which could be very well heard despite the high wind, in which he told all about each merchant participating, which was every dry goods merchant in town except the Acorn Stores, and they do not carry straw hats was the only reason they did not, and repeating the rules which were that they use all precautions not to tear up the hats, they were then sailed off in each portion of the crowd. They were also informed that if the hat failed to fit, it could be carried to the merchant whose name was on the band, and it would be exchanged. Then the fun started. For instance, a nice hat would seemingly be floating right down to a certain fellow, and he could almost see himself strutting next day with a new sky piece, but suddenly a gust of wind would catch it and carry it ten or fifteen feet in some other direction. Then the next one would hit in a crowd almost of the same height, and it would be tipped along on the ends of fingers for ten feet until it came to some tall guy or an extra high jumper, who would shoot through the air and take it in like an alligator gets a fly.

And right here we want to say that the huge crowd that packed the 100 foot street between the hotel and Cobb Dept. Store were real genteel. There was not a hat demolished or seriously dented. When one fellow got a hold on one, the others granted his right without a struggle over it. Some girl's sailors were thrown off too, and the men stood back and gave the girls a fair show. Some of the girl hats were real flimsy material, but they came down and were taken in good shape by some girl or young lady, and they enjoyed the contest just as well as the men and boys.

It was worth more than the dollars we put in it, was the unanimous verdict of every home merchant.

Terry County Shows Gain in Scholastics

The following is the scholastic census enumeration for Terry County for the year 1930-31:

Rural districts	1420
Brownfield	679
Meadow	297
Gomez	197
Union	178

TOTAL 2771

This shows an increase over last year, of 279 scholastics. When we take into consideration the fact that six year old children were rendered this year for the first time, the gain in scholastic population seems to be rather small, since there were 230 six year old children rendered in the county. In a few districts there was a decrease in scholastic population. Most districts had some increase. Brownfield and Forrester show a greater gain than any of the other districts. Several districts however have gained enough to entitle them to add an extra teacher for another year.

Brownfield showed an increase of 116 over last year. With 229 more pupils and Terry county will have to provide an office of county superintendent separate from that of County Judge.

H. R. Winston, Co. Judge.

Senior Class to Put On Their Play Tonight

You will spend a little money for a mighty good purpose tonight if you attend a play being put on by the seniors at the grade school auditorium, for every cent of the admission above actual expenses will go toward the curtain fund for the new high school building. Mrs. Dallas and her music girls gave such a benefit a few weeks ago that was good, but the people showed little appreciation, as few of them attended. Now don't do the same thing this time.

This play is entitled "Aaron Slick from Pumpkin Creek" and is said to be a riot from start to finish. Now if you are lean, see the play and grow fat. If fat, see it and laugh off some surplus flesh. Seniors, this little front page ad is donated by the Herald to help the cause.

Subscription Campaign Off to a Big Start

Well, the 4-H Clubs have taken on the big Herald subscription campaign in earnest, and will be off to a good start Saturday, which is the official opening day of the campaign. When this campaign is over, we hope to have near a 100 percent rural circulation, and every dollar of the money will remain here in Terry county, instead of a large percent of it going out to high pressure campaign managers.

Already the Gomez club has flung a challenge to the rest of the clubs, and reading between the lines the club that beats them will have to be going some. Let the good work go on and the best club be the winner. There are a few more things we want to make clear to the clubs before they start:

You are not confined to your club territory, or community. If the club or clubs in adjoining territory does not work, and the other fellow gets over on them, that is their business. You are not confined to the number of years you can get anyone to pay up on this paper, or how many they send out to relatives at other post offices. You can also take hens on subscription, and if the hen brings more than the price of subscription, the subscriber will be credited with time to the full amount the hen brings on the local market.

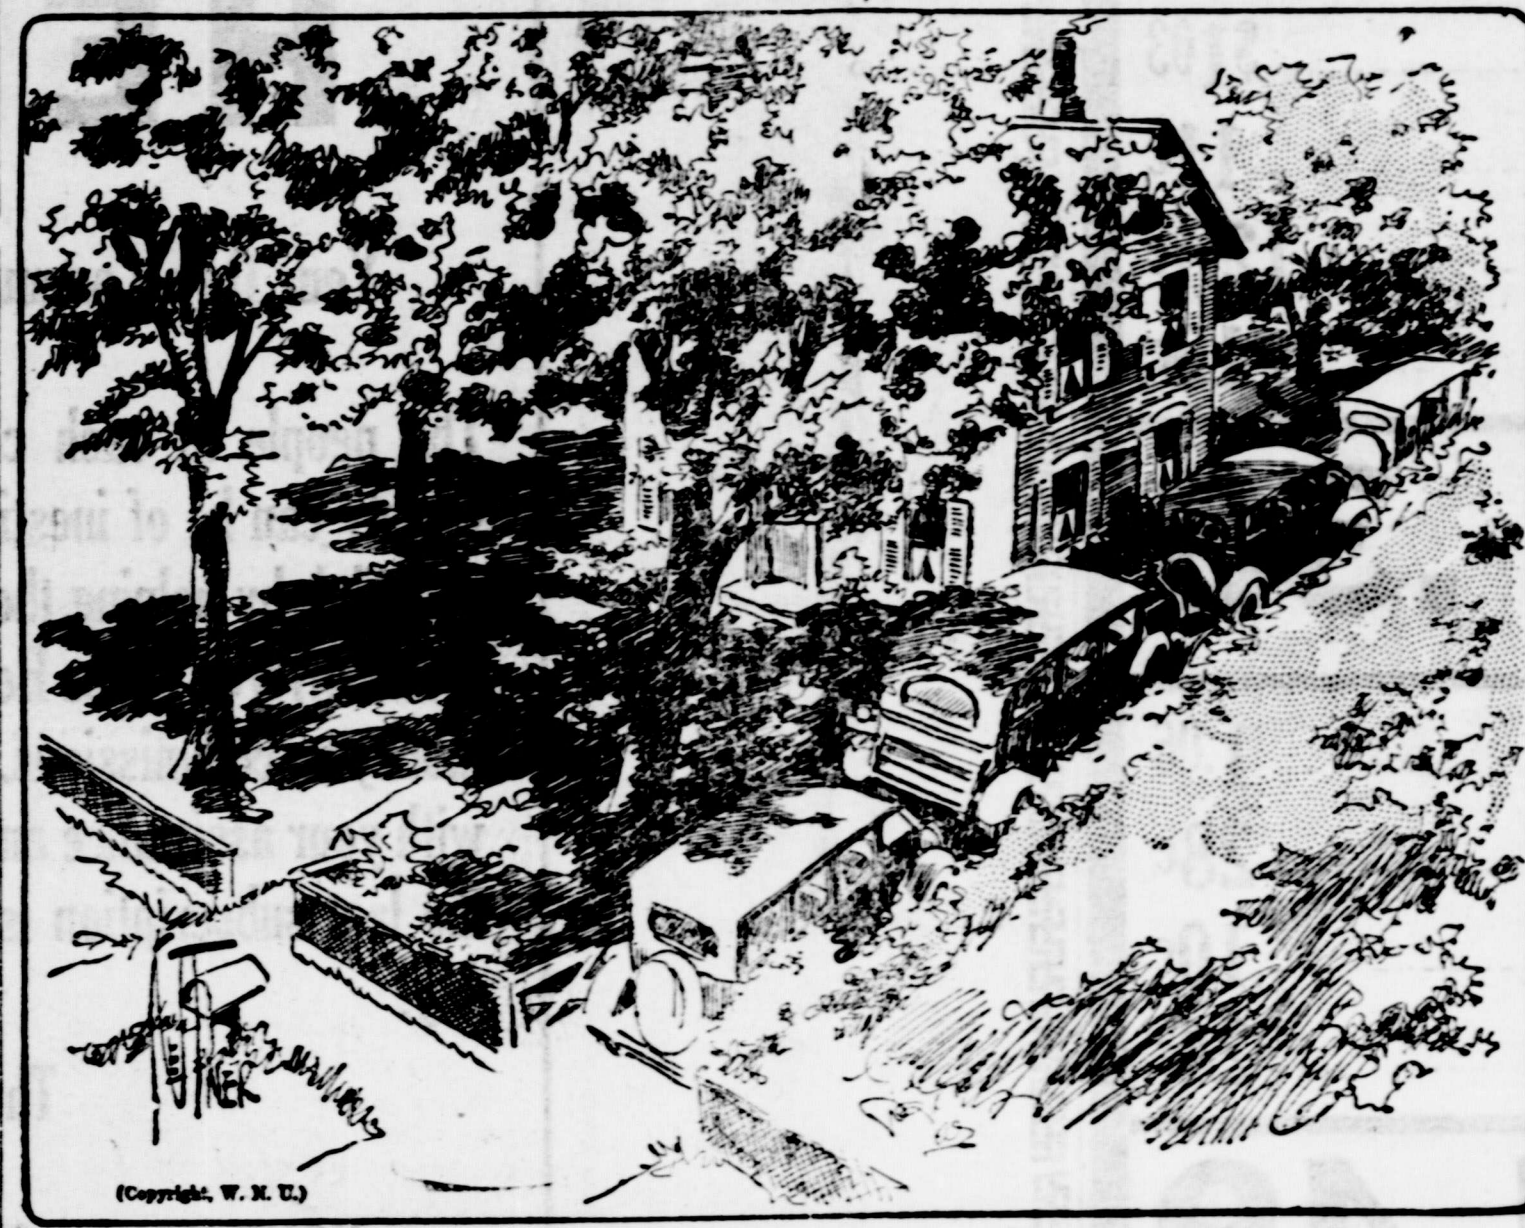

Now get busy lads and lassies, and lets cover old Terry with the Herald like the sunshine, and at the same time make some money for your club. Sample copies of the Herald will be given to the club members if they will call at this office Saturday.

Local Farmer Putting His Brand on Eggs

Geo. Black, one of our good farmers of the Gomez community came in last week and had us order an egg stamp, and ink pad, for his farm, with the wording in a circle, "Geo. Black, Brownfield, Texas, and the single word; "Infertile" horizontal across the stamp. In fact, George wants the egg buyers to know his eggs and that he stands behind eggs that bear his stamp, and he will also get a few cents the rise in price of just eggs. And this alone will more than pay him for his trouble.

When a shopper goes into a store and sees some eggs that the stamp of a farmer on it that are priced say 30c per dozen, then in another case there is just a lot of innocent looking eggs that come from this farm and that farm with no mark of identity on them, but are priced say 25c per dozen. In nine chances to ten, the shopper will select the eggs with the stamp of "approval" from the farmer put on them. He or she knows that if the eggs are not good that for instance comes from the Geo. Black farm, that Black will make good. In fact, the shopper is absolutely sure that they are taking no chances in buying the eggs from the Black farm.

If, on the other hand they take the eggs whose identity is not known, perhaps not even the grocery clerk who sells them, knows from what farm they came, and there shows up some three or four bad eggs, he had best bought the higher priced eggs, and they soon learn this lesson. The same can be said of butter or any other farm product that one cannot readily distinguish the good from the bad by looks. The shopper soon learns that it does not pay to take chances on butter or eggs at this season of the year, especially. Butter and eggs are very essential products to the diet and health of the family, but they must be good to the palate also. The writer of this article selects butter from the farm that he knows handles the product sanitarly, and most all people who buy this product does the same. The other is a drug on the market generally. Almost every week we hear people call for butter from a certain farm, and will hardly take any other unless the clerk insists that Mrs. So-and-so handles her butter nicely, and that it is always fresh and sweet.

We believe the time will come when every farm will have to stamp their products for protection, for no matter what kind of a general reputation you have for good products, if you do not have your stamp of approval on it, it is dumped into the general mixture from other farms where perhaps they think it no dishonor to put some tinning eggs, or those that have been in the hot sun for a week or more, and your eggs suffer along with the bad. A bunch of bad eggs will so disgust a consumer that they do not want any more on the place for weeks, and the whole egg market suffers alike. The family that thinks they are putting something over in offering the public spoiled eggs not only suffer from such

Dock Powell Leaves Hurriedly For La.

News came in this week from Tokio that Postmaster Casey was fixing to institute proceeding against Dock for appropriating his lodge name without a permit, and Dock left on the next bus for Louisiana, leaving Bond and Markham with the bag to hold. Now we understand that Mr. Casey talks of getting Gov. Moody to issue extradition papers on Gov. Long of La., to bring Dock back to Texas to face the music.

Another thing, just before Dock left, he got a few of his cohorts together against a certain musician that resides in a local wagon yard in this city, and is trying to resolute said singer from the city. The Herald refuses to take any part in excluding this citizen from the city, as he is a fixture and the head of quite a large family already. Personally, the Herald is of the opinion that Dock is jealous of the deep baritone voice of the gentleman, which Dock miscalls tenor. Also, Dock seems to hate him because his ears are some eight inches longer than Dock's little old stinky lobes.

Femmies to Stage A Ball Game Here Wed.

Folks, get ready to see the ball game of all times on the local diamond here next Wednesday afternoon, when the Presbyterian Ladies meet a team of the Methodist Ladies on the Brownfield ball park just outside the city limits in the east part of the city.

The leaders of each team say they are out for the championship and they mean business. It is expected that a number of "Baby Ruths" and "Tytrina Cobbs" will show up in this game. And the gate charges will only be a little old two-bit piece that you'll never miss. This ad is donated to the ladies by the Herald, and being a front page ad, it could not be bought at any price. Go see the game.

INCLUSIVE

During a holdup in Chicago according to S. H., a young stenographer was grazed by a bullet. Thinking she was dying, she dictated a farewell note.

"Write to Johnnie," she whispered. "Give him my true love and best regards. Carbon copies to Harold, Fred and William."

People who see men or boys prowling around their own or other people's cars, should immediately report it to officers.

We understand that several have paid fines for running over stop signs and cutting corners this week.

People who see men or boys prowling around their own or other people's cars, should immediately report it to officers.

City Fails to Get the Santa Fe Water Well

In order to give a reduction on the water rate through the summer in order to encourage the growing of trees, shrubs and vines, which add so much to the appearance of homes in the city, the city council have been making an effort to get the use of the Santa Fe well in the switch yards. Mayor McGowan informed us this week that the company had refused the city the use of this own pumping, but have depended on city water.

However, they have used their own water tank, having it filled from the city stand pipe. But they informed Mr. McGowan that all the towers and tanks belonging to them here would soon be dismantled and moved elsewhere, and that watering places like those used in cities and coming direct from the city reservoir would be installed here to take care of their needs. It is a great pity that this well cannot be used, as it is really stronger than the city well, as it pumped 500 gallons per minute for 24 hours on test before it was accepted by the Santa Fe company. The capacity of the city well is somewhere between 250 and 500, as it will carry one 250 gallon per minute pump, but two will lower the water if run for any length of time.

The council is making every effort possible to procure more water in order to lower the rate for the summer, but we imagine a new well will be the only remedy now in sight.

Man With Whiskey Nabbed Here Saturday

A man with a nice Buick car here Saturday became rather suspicious to the officers, and he was finally nabbed by Sheriff Mon Telford, and carried over to the courthouse, as some whiskey, a quart, we understand, of bottled in bond was found in his car. Later, we learned that he was a dentist or physician and maintained that he was allowed to carry liquor, and two of the local physicians went on his bond, and he was released. He gave his home as Breckenridge, we understand.

We Sure Are Glad Morris Found the Door

Due to parts to our Lino being lost in the mails, and which did not arrive until today (Friday), we have been hustling to get the Hustler out. We want to say now that we would have been in a mess-of-a-heck if it had not been for Jack Stricklin, that big-hearted editor of the Terry County Herald. The favor extended will be long remembered.

We would have kissed him if we had not missed him as we shuffled toward the office door.—Hopes Hustler.

J. B. Draper was in from the Union community Friday after supplies.

MUCH CORN MOVING OUT IN THE PAST FEW WEEKS

Huge Trucks Moving East Heavily Loaded With Terry's Favorite Product. Banks Help Farmers to Pitch Crops. No Danger of Over Cotton Cropping in Terry.

General rains have fallen over that section of the western part of Texas lying west of Fort Worth, and to the cap rock of the Plains, and as the prospects for a good crop looms, the bankers of Central West Texas have opened up their hearts to let the farmers of these erstwhile counties have a little cash, they are spending some of it for corn and other feeds to be had in this more favorable section, the "Bread Basket Section" of Texas. This can be noticed most any day now when one sees huge trucks loaded to the top side boards with corn in the ear, moving eastward to the dryer and harder land sections. You know those people love to laugh about the sand land farms of this section, but when a real dry year comes along, the laugh turns on the other side of their faces. But they are glad that there is an Egypt near them from which they can obtain victuals for their dumb beasts.

Until general rains came to Terry county, the corn and maize selling had almost let up, as many of our farmers have learned to keep plenty to run themselves another year if everything doesn't look just right at planting time. But if crop conditions look favorable about planting time, our farmers will turn loose all surplus feeds, except just enough to run the farm nicely until the new crop comes in. They don't even like to go into the fields to get corn or maize that has not cured out well, for lots of times it colics their teams, rendering them unfit for farm work. Therefore plenty is kept for all emergencies until the new crop is thoroughly matured.

Some of the buyers have an immense lot of corn and maize stored under the big warehouse in the west part of the city that will be shipped out in the next few weeks to the eastern part of the state to parts of the state too far away to come for our feeds in trucks, and which has to go in car load lots. Some of this corn and maize, as well as baled shucks go into Louisiana as well as east Texas. Our farmers have never talked much favorable of reducing the cotton acreage here for the reason that they have never overcropped on that product, for they have always planted just about as much corn and other feeds as they have cotton. The merchants have never insisted, nor the banks, nor the Chamber of Commerce, that they cut the cotton acreage here, for the reason that our farmers have always had a well balanced diversity of crops, and have always had a greater percent acreage of feeds in proportion to the cotton acreage than any other section of the state where cotton can actually be produced. Therefore, to ask that our farmers reduce acreage in cotton like other sections of the state, would be to ask them to plant about three acres in feed to each two acres of cotton, when the general average over the state would probably be on a basis of four in cotton to one in feed on the so-called out percentage. This would be unfair to our farmers.

Nevertheless, with the low price of cotton and the high price of feed, especially when put into the hides of steers, lambs and pigs, not to say anything about feeding it to poultry and dairy cows, we believe it will be safe to predict that our farmers in final wind up will have a less cotton acreage in proportion to the feed acreage than last year.

Trying to Make 1930 Banner 4H Club Year

In conversation with County Agent Davis this week, he stated: "I do not have anything definite to offer in regards to the progress in club work this year. We are just now reorganizing and it looks like we will have the greatest year that we have ever had in club work and that is saying a lot, for Terry County has certainly been to the front in 4-H club work."

"I am sure that there is not a county in the U. S. whose club members have registered as many pigs as has the club boys of Terry county. A Saturday never passes but what I help two or three boys make application for registration for pigs which they have sold within and out of the county. This is rather significant when you recall that two years ago it was difficult to find a registered sow or male in the county, but now you can find them on almost a majority of the farms. Not only are the club boys keeping up their papers but you will find a large number of farmers who have registered sows and they are having their breeding stock registered and keeping their blood pure. I dare say that within a year you find a greater percent of purebred hogs in Terry county than any on the Plains.

"The same progress is being made in pure seed. Fifty-four boys last year planted certified seed furnished to them by the Rotary Club and those boys have seed now for their fathers as well as for themselves. A club boy now will not think of planting anything but the best seed which he can find.

"The club boys have made a contribution to themselves and the county in material ways during the last two years and this year will see even a greater material gain as a result of club work.

"While the progress has been highly satisfactory in the above activities, yet the greatest benefit perhaps has come through their efforts with the County Fair, through their club meetings, trips to the A. & M. College, to the International Livestock Exposition and other fairs and in their judging contests. These things will go a long ways in making them better citizens in the years to come.

"But, what I strted out to tell is that club work is getting a mighty good start this year and I am expecting great results."

Miss Mabel Hansen, of Brownfield is the house guest of Mrs. [Name]

"Sky Hawk" Offers Thrilling Romance

Thrills galore and a romance of unusual charm were brilliantly photographed in "The Sky Hawk," the speaking screen's great all talking drama of wartime flying filmed in the sky, which will open a three day engagement at the Rialto Theatre, Sunday.

If any further proof of the value of speech in pictures were needed this Fox Movietone feature may be listed as a shining example. Its realism and the dramatic power of its dialog, as well as its many spectacular aerial and ground sequences makes this film tower far above all previous such productions. In fact it is a noteworthy contribution to screen history.

The Zeppelin raids over London form the background of the story. A young British aviator, unjustly branded as a coward when he crashes his plane on the eve of his departure for active service and is crippled for life, lies magnificently to release his fiancée from her engagement. Tinkering with an old condemned plane, he manages to put it in flying condition, goes aloft during a Zeppelin attack and brings the giant airship down in flames.

A simple enough story, but all the more human for its simplicity. "The Sky Hawk" has become one of the most impressive pictures of the year because of the excellence of its cast and the flawless direction of John Blystone. John Garrick, the youthful English actor-aviator, a real find, seems to have been born for just this role; and Helen Chandler, former dramatic star of the Theatre Guild who scored as the heroine of "Salute," gives a splendid performance as the girl in the case.

GOLF IS CROQUET

A golfer was considerably annoyed by the actions of a very slow player in front. And it happened that the latter was the owner of a perfect pair of bow legs. Finally his patience exhausted, the victim drove through the deliberate player in front, and his ball passed neatly between the wide spread bow legs.

This breach of etiquette enraged the gentleman with the arched underpinning, and he marched quickly back to the offender.

"Do you call that golf, sir?" he stormed.

"No," answered the other suavely, "but don't you think it was darned good croquet?"

SUCKERS ARE BITING ON MANY OLD BAITS

Never before has there been so many "rackets" being worked in the southwest as at the present time, according to the May 1 Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman. Agents ply the highways looking for suckers. And as always, the suckers are biting on about every kind of scheme that the fertile brains of the schemers think up.

One of these schemes is the spectacle racket. Folks will order spectacles by mail. Naturally, they don't fit one time in a hundred. The spectacles are sent back and they get others in return. When the buyers find they can't be fitted by mail, they want their money back. Rarely do they get it. The "doctor" who is perhaps some unscrupulous shark in Chicago probably laughs at them for even trying to get a refund of their money.

Another sucker told of the following experience:

"One day an agent came to our house saying he wanted just one person in our community to take his correspondence course at the very special price of $49. I told him I didn't have the money. He said to pay him $15 and the rest a little at a time as was convenient. The postage on the first shipment was to be 80 cents. When it came, there were collect charges of $35.65. I didn't pay it and the postmaster sent the book back. The agent had solicited the entire community on exactly the same basis."

Agents are often like that. And if you listen, you are lost.

There are also those who still fall for some work schemes. One woman told the story of how she spent $1.25 for materials to be made into articles for which she was to get well paid. She did the work; the

GOVERNOR GARNER OF NORTH CAROLINA

At a recent dinner in which nothing but North Carolina products were used, Gov. O. Max Gardner of North Carolina, himself a farmer, expressed himself as follows:

"This is potentially one of the richest agricultural regions in the world. There is no reason except our own disregard of familiar economic laws, why it should not be a land blossoming in prosperity. Is there any enchantment upon North Carolina's rich acres that prevents the growing of the many food and feed projects and the production of the great secondary crops of hogs, cattle and poultry?"

"The only evil enchantment that I know of is that of the so-called 'money crops.' Deserting the green acres of diversified farming, our people have followed the mirage of huge profits from cotton and tobacco into a trackless desert of uncertainty and gloom, and instead of an anticipated profits, they harvested deficits, and in a tragic number of instances, actual under-nourishment and want have resulted."

What Governor Gardner said about North Carolina is equally applicable to Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and other Southern and Southwestern States, as well as the one-crop States such as Kansas and Western Nebraska. A balanced farm program is needed in all agricultural communities. True, there is less chance for making a big killing in a single year, but the ten year average is far ahead of any single crop proposition ever undertaken.—Farm and Ranch.

A company refused the articles, saying they were not up to standard. That they would pay $4.25 for materials not used. There is no way to get money back.

IF IT WEREN'T SERIOUS, THIS WOULD BE FUNNY

Despite all the howl being sent to high heaven about mail order houses and keeping Lamesa money in Lamesa, advertising solicitors from three different cities "worked" Lamesa this week on various rackets and did mighty well. In fact, they cleaned up.

Now if the people of Lamesa like to throw good money after bad, it's O. K. by us. But, folks—just want to take this opportunity to remind you that whenever you have a stray dollar or two to spend for advertising where you can expect results—which no fly by night proposition in the world can offer—your home town paper is right on the job to help you. There, there, don't cry, it's all in fun.—Lamesa Reporter.

HE TOLD THE TRUTH

Did you notice any suspicious characters about the neighborhood?" the judge inquired.

"Sure, yer honor," replied the new cop. "I saw one man, and I asked him what he was doing there at that time of night. Sez he:

"I have no business here right now, but I expect to open a bank in the vicinity later on." At that I sez:

"I wish you success, sor."

"Yes," replied the magistrate heatedly, "and he did open a bank in the vicinity later on and stole $10,000."

"Begorra, yer honor," answered the cop after a pause, "the man may have been a thafe, but he was no liar."

Interesting Poultry Meeting Here Sat.

In the absence of the president of the Poultry Ass'n, Jno. S. Powell, the County Agent presided over a very interesting meeting of this association last Saturday. The question of the economy of setting hens was discussed thoroughly by the members. This question seemed to be largely a matter of opinion and hinged around the questions as to how long a hen was allowed to set and mother a brood of chickens and also as to whether a greater percentage of the chickens could be raised by using hens or by artificial brooding.

Another question that came up for a round table discussion was that of feeding milk to laying hens. The economy of milk and also the advisability of feeding milk where eggs were used for hatching purposes was discussed by the members. It was the general belief that skim milk, when not fed in excessive quantities and when fed in clean, sanitary troughs, is an economical and a good supplement in feeding the laying flock.

Some excellent egg records for April were given. Jno. S. Powell reports 1716 eggs from 100 of his Rhode Island hens and pullets. Pappy John has always contended that production and show birds should be the same and his records in the nests and in the Fairs backs up his contention.

C. L. E. Meils comes along with a record of 79 eggs in 89 consecutive days from one of the Rhode Island Red pullets which he purchased from Mahood this winter. It will be remembered that this pullet was one of the first prize pen at the recent poultry show held in Brownfield. Mr. Meils says that his pullets are laying heavy as well as being show birds of the first class. He has about thirty chicks from this championship pen.

Amos Montgomery is another Rhode Island Red man who watches his chickens. The fact that he had first prize breeders flock at the Poultry Show and that his monthly egg records have been averaging around 70% shows that his birds are producers. He reports that one of his hens has produced 121 eggs in 128 consecutive days. This is a 94.5% production for a little more than four months.

The Secretary of the Association, Mr. T. L. Verner, gave some interesting results and experiences which he has had this spring as a breeder of English White Leghorns and as a hatcheryman. He said "After my flock was culled I kept the 26 culls two days and they layed 8 eggs or 15.4% while the 190 hens that I kept back produced 320 eggs in the two days or 84.2%."

Mr. Verner is an experienced poultryman who is devoting practically all of his time to his flock and hatchery which he installed at Meadow. His birds were winners at the County Fair here last fall and at Lubbock. All of his breeding stock are pedigreed birds. His hens coming from trapnested birds with records from 240-307 eggs per year while his cockerels are from birds whose records range from 274-312 eggs per year. Believing in going up all the time, Mr. Verner has 72 out 75 early baby chicks which he ordered from S. E. Payne of Stephenville with records behind them of 290-315 eggs per year.

In addition to these pedigreed birds Mr. Verner is keeping 1400 of the 7500 chicks which he has hatched from his flock. From this number he expects to have a laying flock of around 1000 hens for another year. Mr. Verner stated that he had sold practically all of his baby chicks locally except for one order of 300 chicks which he sent to Young, Ariz.

A. L. BURNETT TO FILL PULPIT HERE SUNDAY

Elder A. L. Burnett will fill the pulpit at the church of Christ here Sunday, as the pulpit at this church is temporarily vacant, at the usual hours both morning and evening. He always has a good message for the church as well as others, and you are invited to hear him.

On the third Sunday, Elder Chas. E. Metcalfe, of Handley, Texas, but who is temporarily making his home with his son, Chas. Jr., at Lubbock, will be with this church morning and evening. Bro. Metcalfe is well known here to all the old timers, and this will be a real opportunity to shake hands with this ever smiling preacher again, and hear two of those wonderful messages for which he is justly famous.

Arrangements are being made to use him as much of the time as possible until September, when a regular man can be secured.

R. S. Heartsill was in Tuesday and says the moisture has not met at his place yet.

State Superintendent Marrs has announced for the fourth term in that office.

Car and Tire Thieves Getting Rampant Again

It seems that auto and tire thieves are getting rather rambunctious here of late, but what can be done about the matter is rather perplexing both to those who lose them as well as the local officers who seem to do the best they can to apprehend the thieves. But there are so many small cars just alike, as well as tires, it is a hard matter to trace them.

Roy Wingerd lost a Ford car here Sunday night, and the spare was taken from a Ford belonging to county agent, Roy Davis. So far neither have had any hearing from their car or tire. Some good stout pen sentences all over the country on such cattle would probably relieve the situation some, but they say that the pen is already full of thieves and bootleggers, and we wonder if there is room for any more.

For years there never was a car theft here, or any other kind much, but along with the many good people who come here to make a home and an honest living, arrive some of the skum of the earth. In reality, we rather think the most of the thievery of cars are not people who live here, however, but scamps who are passing through and find a car or tire loose where they can get it handy.

BUT NOT FOR ECONOMY

"Colleges may not add to the earning power of a student but they teach him to get along without a hat."

Mrs. Roy Wingerd, with her junior garden club, have cleaned up the city park and made it more presentable to tourists.

Terry County Making Poor Cotton Grade

By J. E. Shelton, C. of C. Sec.

The United States Department of Agriculture, has just completed a Grade, Staple Length and Tenderability report on the 1929 cotton that was ginned at Wellman, covering 1451 bales. The Wellman gin was selected by the Department for the reason that its location was such that it would probably handle a greater number of bales of Terry County grown cotton than any other. Following is the classification: 1451 bales ginned, 743 tenderable and 708 untenderable, 692 under 7-8 inch, 633, 7-8 to 29-32, 124, 15-16 to 31-32, 2 bales, 1 to 1 1-32. Just think of it! Only two bales that had more than one inch staple, and 708 for which there was not any market but which will be counted in the carry over and be used to effect the price of the present crop, which remains to be planted. The State average of untenderable cotton is 28 per cent and the Terry county average is 48 per cent. What is the answer?

Highways seem to be occupying the attention of many people of this section at this time and new routes from different places are being developed. The Carlsbad Cavern Highway Association, which is routed from Oklahoma City to El Paso by way of Brownfield and Carlsbad, is actively engaged in perfecting plans to secure Federal designation of the route. They have the approval of the Oklahoma and Texas Highway Commissions but have struck a snag with the commission of New Mexico, as that body has some ideas of its own as to where designation should be allowed. Much time and considerable money is being spent in getting the proposition before the powers that be and a letter reached this office today, asking for financial assistance, which we must allow, as we are on the route.

A meeting of the Fort Worth-Roswell Highway Association, has been called to meet at Roswell on the 20th of this month. It is the regular annual meeting of the association but very important business is to be transacted and every citizen of this town who is directly interested in highway development will be urged to attend.

On the next day, a meeting of the Arkansas, Texas and New Mexico Highway Association, will be held at Tahoka. This is a new proposition but is one which we have had in mind for two or three years, but action has been delayed upon it on account of some gaps which are now being closed. This highway is routed from Texarkana to California by way of Brownfield and Roswell and ties in with the Fort Worth-Roswell route at Clairmont. It also gives another connection out of Dallas and Fort Worth. It is a Federal route from Graham east, and strong efforts will be made to have extensions made to cover into Roswell. These matters require constant effort to get them over but it can be done if we stay on the job.

Next Saturday, a meeting of secretaries residing in division No. 2 of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce territory will be held in Lubbock for the purpose of discussing matters of interest to this immediate section.

The next monthly meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce will occur on Wednesday, May 14th. Several matters of general interest will come up for discussion and disposition that were passed from last meeting on account of inability to reach them.

A DIFFERENT KIND OF CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

A man has announced for Governor whose outlook on State affairs apparently is the same as that which animates and guides the policy of The Texas Weekly. I have been an intimate observer of Texas politics for about twenty years, and I do not recall such a thing having happened before. In view of this, I cannot fail to recognize it as an important event. It marks the introduction of a new note in Texas politics, and inasmuch as I verily believe the course of Texas politics must veer increasingly in the direction of this point of view, if the State Government is ever to reflect the trend of economic progress in the State and become a help instead of a hindrance to the material advance of our people, the significance of this event seems to me to be out of all proportion to the mere question of the particular candidate's chances of election or defeat.

The candidate to whom I refer is State Senator C. C. Small of Wellington. In setting forth the reasons which have impelled him to become a candidate, Senator Small made the following unusual statement: "I have announced for Governor after a careful study of conditions. I am prompted by the conviction that the people demand, and should have, relief from partisan strife and that in lieu thereof they shall be given a careful business administration. If I should be elected Governor, it will be my aim and ambition to adjourn politics in Texas and to inaugurate a constructive era devoted to building and developing Texas institutions. By thoughtful application of strong business policies it will be possible for the State to make substantial progress without additional cost of government. State government should so function as to make Texas an inviting field for new and diversified industries. To accomplish this end taxes must not be increased, but the tax dollar must be judiciously expended and made to yield a greater dividend. The most practical way to aid agriculture in all its branches is to make Texas an industrial State.—The Texas Weekly.

THE RACE QUESTION BOBS UP AGAIN

The editor of this paper has been a democrat all his life, and while it is true that the party has made numerous mistakes, and as one leader in the ranks of the republican party once said, "can be depended upon to make a miserable mistake at the right time."

But, regardless of the ideals that might be fostered by the G. O. P., we have always felt that it was a party whose very life depended upon to sanction of race equality. It is the party which, following the civil war, attempted to subject the white citizen of the conquered south to negro rule, and even today insists on rule.

Of course, our republican friends will say that is ancient history, but at intervals the true complexion of their party will come to surface in spite of the efforts of a few of its leaders in the south to submerge it.

This very thing is happening at this very time. President Hoover has appointed a southern man to a place on the Supreme Court of the United States. This appointment is subject to confirmation by the Senate, and the republican leaders of that body are fighting his confirmation with all their might. Their opposition is based solely on the fact that Judge Parker believes in white supremacy.

Regardless of the high ideals which may be held by the nominee of the party, remember that the republican party is committed to the policy of race equality, and it is not necessary to roll the pages of history back to civil war days to establish that fact. It is being established every day in these modern times.—Monday Times.

The cotton market is active, says a headline. Well, it is always that way about planting time, we notice. No news in that item.

Another sad tale comes to us about a fellow who got his auto smashed at a crossing, and contended that he had the right of way. He may have had it as stated, but it so happened that the other fellow had a truck.

According to a new law passed by the Philippine legislature, the Mohammedan population of those Islands will have to do with just one wife after 1930. Most married Americans decide they would be better off without any in 1930.

Five regular and three visiting District Judges are now busy trying to clear up the criminal and civil dockets of Dallas county, and more than 1000 jurors are in attendance. The cost of crime is a heavier burden on people than religion and education combined.

The question is asked in a recent issue of the Texas Outlook, the State Teachers' Ass'n paper, if German should be taught in our schools. Why not? We are not still mad with Germany, and it is just as live language as either French or Spanish, and a sight more alive than Latin.

The Dallas News radio station, WFAA, goes on the air Saturday night of this week as the first super power station in the South, with a power of 50,000 watts. They have a fine program and will run all night. Tune in around 800 kilocycles, and see how much better they come in than their present 5,000 capacity.

Good rains over West Texas have not only put smiles on the faces of the people, but have suddenly changed a lot of our exchanges from four and six page papers to eight and ten. Just why merchants in most towns drop their advertising when the weather gets dry is a mooted question. That is the time to try and get every cent of cash they possibly can, which is good business and mature judgement.

We note that mere man is thinking of asking equality in dress privileges with the women. The boys are going to ask dame fashion if they can go sleeveless, clip a foot or two off the top of the shirt in front, and panel the back of it, and leave some six inches of space between the undies and sox, and top it all off with knee pants. But who wants to see a man's old hairy chest and sunburned back?

Eggs, supposedly one of the most perishable of food products, are coming to the United States from all parts of the world. Recently, says a market report, eggs traveling from Russia, Poland, Denmark, South Africa and Belgium, have arrived in New York City. It is obviously true that the United States hen can supply the market with this favorable commodity without assistance of any foreign bird.—Ex.

Crime costs the people of this country 13 billion dollars a year, equal to one-seventh the total annual income of all our people. We have an average of 12,000 murders each year, 33 per day plus. That is fifty times the number recorded in Great Britain. Many, many people are allowed to beat justice by the technicalities permitted by the courts. In many states the courts are bogged down. There is too much delay in the courts. Justice gains great force when it is prompt and to the point. There is strong need for radical reform in judicial systems of both the nation and states to give the tax-ridden people the benefits of speedy justice and protection.—State Line Tribune.

Is the total figure of population in the United States more important than the total number of unemployed? . . . This seems to be a timely question that should be urged upon the federal government at this time in tabulating the 1930 census. . . It is said that the census bureau will do nothing with the unemployment figures collected in the recent census until the population statistics have been completely tabulated. . . We have the cage and the birds, what difference does it make as long as we have ample space for harbouring the birds? But, now, if ever, is the time to act in an unemployment situation, not one year from now. What was the use of wasting time to collect the unemployment figures if they are to be pigeon-holed for another year?—Ex.

Fake advertising schemes are having their run in south Texas at present. The high pressure salesman goes into a town and gets prominent men to ok them, promising a write-up of them, then canvass the town for advertising. The same reading matter is made to do the duty of advertising any number of nearby towns, with just a few changes to localize the matters, and only enough copies printed to go to each advertiser and other interested parties. A collection is made and the bird flags it from the scene before the merchants become wise. All advertising propositions should be carefully investigated, and put up to a committee of the Chamber of Commerce who are appointed for that purpose.

SOMEBODY GROWS IT FOR YOU

When a farmer goes to town and buys a can of milk, a slab of pork, canned tomatoes, dried beans and a dozen other kinds of foodstuffs, he is patronizing farmers who have produced them for him. If he were buying direct from these farmers and could exchange other products with him, the trade would be even and profitable, but when he buys of the merchant, he is paying from three to four profits. The grower gets the small end of it.

The moral in this comment is: It is not what you can sell an article for that counts most but what you must pay for it when you find it necessary to buy. When you sell pork on the hoof you get around 9 cents a pound. When you buy it, you pay from 25 to 40 cents per pound. You pay the commission merchant his profit; you pay railroad transportation to the packing house; you pay the packer a profit and your share of the wages and salaries of packing house employees; you pay transportation and icing back to your town on the prepared product and then you pay a profit to the retail merchant.

There are many items of food that a farmer can not produce to an advantage, but most farmers are so situated that by a little management, they can cut their food expense more than half; have more food; a greater variety and a better quality than they are able to purchase for cash or on store account. The cost of living is a large part of what any person is able to make, whether he live in the city or on the farm, and if this cost can be cut in half, or better, the money received from major crops means something more than just a means of paying the merchant and the banker for food already consumed or for money borrowed to carry one through until the crop is laid by.—Farm and Ranch.

SO THAT'S HOW IT IS

"Have you seen my girl anywhere?"
"What's she look like?"
"She's got brown hair, gray eyes and a nice mouth."
"Haven't seen her."
"She was wearing a blue dress and had my fraternity pin on it."
"Don't know who you mean."
"She stands about five feet four, and is of medium weight."
"Nope. She doesn't register."
"She had a run in her left stocking."
"Sure! Sure! She was standing over there just a minute ago. Why didn't you tell me who you meant?"

C. P. Buchanan was in from Tokio, Tuesday, on business.

No One Knew

there was a Woman in England

ABOUT fifty years ago an Englishman came to one of our large American cities. He built up a fortune in real estate. He sold large pieces of property and built hotels. He married. Both the Englishman and his wife died. All deeds and titles to the man's properties, conveyed and mortgaged, were, seemingly, in good order. His will was probated.

Everything appeared right. The purchasers of the properties slept in peace.

One morning a young Englishman appeared in a lawyer's office in the American city. He had come to "secure his grandmother's dower in the estate." No one had known of an English wife—still alive.

Innocent property owners were forced to pay thousands of dollars to an unknown woman across the sea—losses which could have been protected by title insurance.

Negro Citizens May Erect Church Building

Some of the leaders among the colored population here are figuring with local lumber yards for the erection of a 24x24 church building on their property in the northwest section of the city. We understand that they have secured an acre of land just west of the stock pens for this purpose, and if they succeed in financing the proposition, it can also be used as a school building when funds are provided for it.

Negro citizens of the South have always had an area to themselves in each town or city, and while segregation of the races is sometimes resented by them in the north, the colored people had rather have their own communities in the town or city rather than be mixed in among white citizens all over town. In fact, most negroes in the south no more desire social equality with whites than whites do. They want off to themselves where they can run their churches and schools according to their own notion, and they usually handle such things much better than if some white man butt into their affairs.

Rotary Club to Again Loan Seed to Club Boys

Last year the Brownfield Rotary Club loaned seed to 4-H club members who belonged to the corn and grain sorghum clubs. These seed were returned according to the agreement between the Club and 4-H boys. The club will loan seed again this year to club boys who do not have pure seed or who did not get seed last year. Members desiring seed should see the County Agent on Saturday afternoons.

Mrs. G. W. Payne and daughter, Miss Janna Gese, of Fort Worth, and Mrs. E. M. Chambers and daughters, Misses Margaret and Carrie, of Weatherford, were here the past week the guests of their sister and aunt, Mrs. Dr. DuBois.

Report of Gomez 4H Club Initial Meeting

Mr. R. B. Davis, our county agent, came out Monday, May 5 and organized our club for this year. Our officers are as thus elected:

Edward Walker—re-elected Pres.
Clayton Walker—Vice Pres.
Dollie McLeroy—Sec. Treas.
Vivian McLeroy—Reporter.
Robert Brown—Song and yell leader.

The motion was made, seconded and carried that we change the name of our club, although we have not decided what it will be, but will at the next meeting.

We have at present thirty members enrolled and are hoping to have more join later. Most of the members already have their projects and those that haven't will get theirs as soon as possible.

We are going to put all of our efforts into the Herald subscription campaign. We are out to win one of the prizes if not the first one.

We are going to make our club a standard one and the best yet. Come on club members and lets make this year better than the last.

Vivian McLeroy, reporter.

Southland Victors in Ball Game Sunday

The locals lost their first game here Sunday, when the town was invaded by a great team from Southland. It was the most interesting game played here this season, according to fans. The score was 8 to 4 in favor of the visitors.

It is reported that the Southland boys had a real team and worked together well, but the home boys promise to do some good practice and will likely take them on for another game in the near future, when the big end of the score may be for Brownfield. Anyway, the Southland boys are good players and good sports, according to the home team.

Visitor—"What's up? Had a bad day?"
Financier—"Yes, I've lost over $5,000, and the worst of it is that $20 of it was my own money!"

FRANCE HAS WORST FLOOD IN CENTURY

Beautiful Southland Swept by Deluge.

Washington, D. C.—France's worst flood in a century or more, which drowned scores of people, swept away villages and bridges many hundreds of years old, destroyed vineyards, and put hundreds of square miles of farming land under water, has been centered in the Gascony, Midi and Languedoc regions just north of the eastern Pyrenees mountains in southern France.

This country and its life under ordinary conditions is described in a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society based on a communication to the society from Melville Chater who traveled across the region of the recent floods, through the Lateral and Midi canals, in a canoe.

Molossac, Where Loss Was Heavy.
Mr. Chater writes thus of Molossac where a breaking dam caused the death of 150 persons and destroyed a large part of the town.

"We came to Molossac through a pretty countryside of haymaking scenes and red-roofed farmhouses. Here the stuporous canal hardly permitted even a canoe to squeeze between the monster barges pyramided with wine tuns for Bordeaux, the western Midi's wine center.

"Surely it was by a sheer prodigality of the religious art impulse that Molossac a mere rustic townlet, became dotted with Twelfth century cloisters which rival any in France! Their columns, capitals, groves, with many a scene in which popes and cardinals figure, constitute a veritable church history in stone.

"Long before we gained the Canal du Midi at Toulouse we had learned how vividly the French for 'midday' describes Pyrenean France. One's abiding recollections of the Midi are of the midday—withering heat, whitish, fast-shuttered houses, whitish roads, dust-blanching fields and foliage—all under a cloudless, turquoise sky whose fires light the peasant's bedtime hour.

"At Toulouse we left the Lateral canal and entered the much older Canal du Midi. The Canal du Midi is not only an important commerce carrier; it is among the most beautiful of French waterways. Immediately beyond Toulouse we found ourselves floating through a series of woodland vistas, a ceaseless interplay of lights, shadows and reflections, that changed with each turn of this endlessly twisting stream.

"Soon we left Gascony behind and were well into Languedoc. In the next, measured-out countryside through which we were passing, the day's work began at gray 5 o'clock. Then the large locks through, old crosses, marshy regiments of geese, and snow-white oxen drink at the canal side. At sweltering noon the clatter of the American baling machine ceases, men put cabbage leaves in their hats, and the oxen stand flank deep in the back-water.

"Field work and locking through continue until 8 o'clock. Then there is an hour of mandolin tinkling and beer drinking in the canal-side cafe whose placard begs 'the amiable clientele to wash well to regulate the commensurations before departing.' And so to bed. Such is life in the back-country.

Lowliest Stretch.
"Beyond Carassonne lay the canal's lowliest stretch, with the Black mountain's peaks rising higher and nearer, day by day, as we approached the foothills of the Pyrenees.

"From Carassonne to Belders the scene resembled one continuous vineyard 60 miles long.

"Finally our trip came to an end at Olette on the Mediterranean where hotel-fringed quays and busy ship basins lent a Venetian air to the scene. It was evening and we watched the sun sink over the Midi.

"The Midi! It is France's sun-burned southland whose fires coursed in the veins of Bernard de Pasquac, highwayman and troubadour; of dard-devil d'Aragnan; of Cyrano de Bergerac, duelist-poet supreme; of dashing Richard Plantagenet, the most mercurial of England's kings. It is France's man-of-love, bullfighting, southland, bled as its own wines, whose ragged revolutionaries marching into Paris first popularized the 'Marseillaise.'

"Quick loves, quick hates, quick laughter—of such is the Midi, the Land of the Midday Sun."

Find Japanese Beetle Causes Damage in U. S.

Washington, D. C.—The Japanese beetle thus far has been primarily a pest of fruits and ornamental plants, although lately it has shown a tendency to damage some of the staple crops, a report summarizing the activities of the insect for 1929 said. The damage of crops from the pest thus far has been serious only when the beetles have become very numerous. The injuries to economic plants have been local in occurrence even to the individual plants which are attacked owing to the gregarious habits of the adult beetles.

Chicago—Officials of the Sunday Evening club announced their thanks to the unknown churgones who dropped a thin dime into the collection plate. The officials discovered that the dime was minted in 1897, and is valued at $5 by coin collectors.

General Interest News With Terry Farmers

The County Agent assisted Mr. W. H. Steele and Mr. W. G. Carter in laying off rows on a water level on their cotton land, this week. The land on both these farms had been broken early in the year and was in excellent shape for cotton planting.

In addition to holding the water where it falls Mr. Carter said that putting the rows on a water level would assist in cultivating as land of the same nature would all be on the same rows, as the low land would all be in the same patch which would enable him to go ahead with the cultivating of the higher land while the lower dried off. Then, the land along the ridge which is blown off to clay can be planted to a patch of milt, making it possible to catch more sand there for another year. The weeds, too, follow the same water level to a great extent, making it possible to plow them out without covering a lot of land that is not weedy.

Clyde Bonham of the Willow Wells neighborhood, J. A. Parks of Tokio, and Mr. Grigg of Wellman were given a small sample can of weed killer by the County Agent last Saturday. These men will experiment on blue weeds, mesquite weeds, Johnson grass, and other obnoxious weeds and Bear grass also, in an effort find something that will eradicate them without injuring the land.

Mr. R. H. Wells, Vocational Agricultural Instructor of Seagraves, was up last week with one of his pupils. While here he purchased two nice Poland gilts from Curtis Bass of the Union Club. A number of fine blooded pigs have been sold to boys of adjoining counties by the Club boys of Terry. There is no doubt but these two will uphold the reputation being made by Terry county club pigs, for Curtis is credited with the raising of some of the best Polands in the county last year. He bred and showed the first prize male pig at the Fair last fall and the young bear which is now owned by Lee Walker of Gomez promises to develop into one of the best show bears on the Plains.

DRIVES 200 MILES TO FIND TEST MOUNTAIN

Located in the flat Tidewater Section of Virginia, eastward of the H. & W. Motor Corporation, Oakland-Pontiac dealers at Newport News, Va. found themselves unable to join in the Oakland Eight hill-climbing demonstrations which have established new records on America's most difficult grades.

They had a spot-on performer and nowhere to perform. Figuratively they "were all doped up and nowhere to go."

But being men of purpose they resolved to go and find a mountain. Loading a group of these prominent business men into an Oakland Eight sedan, they turned inland and drove northeast for more than 200 miles into the heart of the famous Blue Ridge Mountains.

Reaching Afghan Mountain in Albemarle County, and for its steep grades and abrupt turns, they put on a hill-climbing demonstration that compared favorably with the best of the many performance records achieved since the introduction of the Oakland Eight.

But the accuracy of the performance stories which the passengers related upon returning home was questioned by several motorists of Newport News. The same Oakland sedan, therefore, was loaded with the doubters and another 400-mile round trip was made to the mountain where the original performance was repeated.

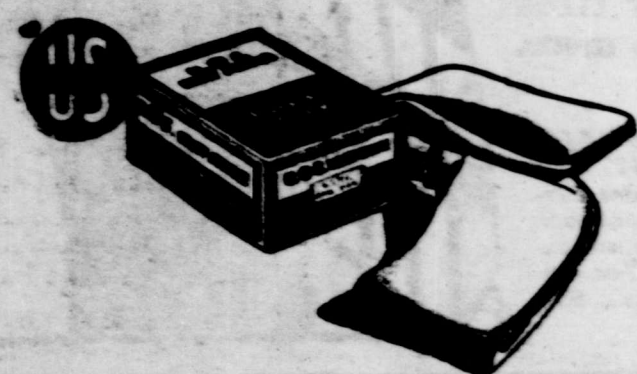

The janitor at the school buildings has put up signs warning people that it is a violation to drive across the grounds. If this does not stop traffic across the ground, the school board has authorized him to take car numbers and turn them in for prosecution. This of course does not include vehicles used by workmen or draymen on the new building.

TO ERECT BRONZE STATUE TO EARLY DISCOVERER

Chicago, Ill.—A striding figure of Leif Ericson, believed by many to be the discoverer of America, a giant statue flanked by pylons of skyscraper height, is to rise beside Chicago's new lake boulevard, which has been named in his honor. The announcement is made by the Norwegian National League, which will give the monument to the city.

Oskar J. W. Hansen, a Norwegian sculptor now a resident here, will execute the commission. A small model—or, rather, a comparatively small one—was completed by Mr. Hansen in his studio.

Mr. Hansen said that manuscripts almost contemporary with Ericson in libraries at Vienna and Copenhagen made it plain that the viking chief was the first European to touch these shores.

The monument is to be made of durable materials. The massive pylons, 92 feet high, will be of black granite, equal in height to a ten-story building, and the figure will be of bronze, perhaps nickel finished, certainly of a gleaming service. Four reliefs depicting the discovery of America are to adorn the upright granite. Mr. Hansen will carve these directly into stone, a method which was used by the sculptors of the Renaissance but which is rarely used today. The Leif Ericson statue is the outcome of four years' work on the part of the sculptor. The monument is to make its debut at the Chicago World Fair in 1933.

New Hampshire Citizen Surely Was Primitive

"Primitive!" exclaimed the New Hampshire man. "Primitive! Say, there was a man in our town—died five years ago—that couldn't read nor write. He made up his mind his boys were going to have a schooling, though, and sent the fust one off one day, with an almanac. The boy came home and brought back the almanac, said the teacher told him he'd have to have a primer.

"The old man says 'You go back to that teacher and tell her that when she's learned ye all there is in this almanac, I'll buy ye a primer.'"

"He was primitive," allowed the visitor.

"Say, one time he went into the store here, and he says to the man: 'See here! I'm tired of buyin' an almanac every year. Can't ye sell me one of these leather-covered almanacs, one that'll last me?'"

"Well, the storekeeper knew him and knew he couldn't read. So he sold him a leather-covered Testament.

"That, Oliver says, 'thar ye be. That's the kind of almanac I've wanted a long time.' And he went off home satisfied."—Boston Globe.

Abundant Proof That Animals Change Color

Though many an animal in the Arctic regions will change its coat to white for the winter months, there are few animals who turn gray, as human beings do, from old age. Animals are, however, susceptible to fright and shock, and this may cause their hair or fur to change to white, just as in the case of human beings. Domestic pets are naturally more susceptible to this than animals who are used to fending for themselves in the wild. The black coat of a dog will sometimes turn practically white if the dog has a fit or falls victim to a very bad bout of distemper. Cats are not immune from shock. Horses' coats often seem to change quite appreciably in color, but this may be only a matter of clipping. A horse that has been turned out for some time and then brought in to be clipped will become a light fawn color after the operation, when before it he seemed a dark chestnut. You wouldn't know he was the same horse!

Old Roman Road in England

The old Fosse way, which is to be reopened in its Warwickshire section, is the early English name for the Roman road that ran from Lincoln to Exeter, writes "Looker On" in the London Daily Chronicle. Practically the whole of the original Roman line is still in use, although in parts it has dwindled to a lane.

From Lincoln its course may be traced through Newark and Leicester to High Cross, where it is intersected by another famous Roman road, Watling street, at a point known as the "center of England." Then it proceeds through Cirencester and Bath to the half-forgotten Roman encampment of Ilchester, though the road itself lies here in fine condition. After Ilchester, the Fosse way crosses the hills near Chard into Devonshire and then enters Exeter.

Soldering Aluminum

Contrary to general opinion, soldered joints in aluminum are easily made and are as strong when first made as other metals. They fail, however, without exception a few weeks or even hours after exposure to mild corrosives, because during soldering, the solder dissolves some of the aluminum, forming alloys, generally of tin or zinc. These corrode so readily they even disintegrate in damp air, but where complete protection is afforded, as by painting, immersion in oil, etc., soldering is sometimes very useful. This protection is obviously rather impracticable in the case of utensils.

Tastes Differ

A farmer took his wife to a concert and after listening with apparent joy the pair suddenly became interested in one of the choruses: "All we, like sheep, have gone astray."

First a sharp soprano voice exclaimed, "All we, like sheep?" next a deep voice uttered in a most earnest tone, "All we, like sheep." Then all the singers at once asserted, "All we, like sheep."

"Well, I don't!" exclaimed the farmer to his wife. "I like beef and bacon, but I can't bear mutton."

Handy Turpentine

Turpentine is a useful commodity, which is not often found in the kitchen. These are some of its uses: The thinning of paint, cleansing glazed tiles, porcelain baths and sinks. Applied with a stiff brush it will keep the gas cooker clean outside. Removes grease instantly from all surfaces. Mixed with floor polish helps the polish to go twice as far and removes spots from the floors. Mixed with black enamel, it makes a good paint for grates and gas stoves.

Coined Living Phrase

"Almighty Dollar" is applied to money as the supposed object of worship in America. The phrase is attributed to Washington Irving, who is supposed to have been the first to use it. It appears twice in his "Creole Village," which was published in England in 1837. Irving wrote: "In a word, the almighty dollar, that great object of universal devotion throughout our land, seems to have no genuine devotees in these peculiar villages."

J. M. Tinkler of Fort Worth, brother-in-law of Arnett, Virgil, Travis and Ralph Bynum, of this city, died Tuesday A. M. at 6 o'clock, and was buried Thursday at 2 P. M. Virgil and Travis, from here, and their sister, Mrs. Floyd Stark, of Seminole, attended the funeral. Mr. Tinkler leaves his wife and two children.

George Washington Graves is attending the State Medical meet at Mansel Wells, this week.

Underweight Eggs Are A Drug on the Market

Egg marketing specialists in the past year or so have discovered that the "boss of the kitchen," the American housewife, is turning finicky about a lot of things and eggs is one of them. The result has been that small underweight, ill-shaped eggs are fast becoming a drug on the market, and command second class price.

This condition is beginning to react directly onto the farmer who is producing eggs from a respectable farm flock and depending upon his profits to supply a large part of his ready money. To get the top market prices for eggs, the farmer today must have, not only hens of high productive ability, but hens laying large, well-formed eggs.

Government breeding specialists have learned that it is much more difficult to breed into a flock of chickens the factors which are responsible for size and quality of eggs than it is to breed for greater numbers. Therefore, no matter how many eggs a hen may lay, she is not considered good stock unless her eggs come up to the minimum standard of two ounces per egg, or one and a half pounds to the dozen.

This is particularly true where the farmer is selling his eggs for hatching. Under-sized eggs do not hatch well, and the chicks are seldom satisfactory to their owners.

Hatcheries are doing much, thru their extensive breeding programs, to eliminate the hens laying small eggs from the flocks of the country. This is particularly true of the leading hatcheries of the country, who are operating under the slogan, "Hatchery Chicks For Greater Profits." Pledging fair dealing and constant improvement of quality, these hatcheries are leading the way to better farm flocks throughout the nation.

BACK TO BEARDS!

Brownfield Herald: E. W. Harlan was in town Tuesday, beard and all. State Press in The Dallas News points out that the reason men don't control their homes any longer is because they go clean-shaven. In the old days the word of the bearded lord and master was heard with fear and trembling in the home, but the beardless dad is just one of the family these days and is hardly noticed, according to this philosopher. By the way, Mr. Harlan says he has trace of his log chain advertised in these columns some time back, which shows again that advertising pays, and we are glad of it, but what he wants with a log chain in this settlement is beyond us.

State Press in Dallas News:

There, you have it. Mr. E. W. Harlan has a beard and he owns a log chain. The chain ownership proves that Mr. Harlan sometimes engages in heavy hauling, and it is men with beards who choose employments calling for rugged arms and hardy constitutions. The Brownfield contemporary refrains from saying Mr. Harlan is captain of the home ranch, and of course Mr. Harlan made no such claim for himself. Men with beards do not have to go around telling with words how they boss the domestic menage. Their whiskers speak for them. For long this column has sought to aid in restoring masculine authority in the family domicile. And it has known that beardless husbands and fathers were henpecked and ignored in the family group. Not until bearded men, men with paint-brush whiskers, lambrequins, bushy sideburns, merging with uncurled mustaches, expanded goatees and pendulous imperials—not until men discard their razors and encourage mossified faces will woman abdicate the throne she has usurped. It is time to call a prompt and imperious halt upon clean shaving. An unshaven man is no match for the modern woman. The element of fear departed from the women when the men began making themselves beautiful. Our masculine ancestors were not reluctant to lay down the law and see it abided by. They wore whiskers and women feared them. Fear must be restored. Either more whiskers in the home or a matriarchal government. The danger is here. It must be dissipated.

Postal Employee Enthusiastic About Konjola

Stomach and Bowel Troubles Soon Banished. He Says, "I Should Have Taken New Medicine Long Ago."

MR. FRANK B. NORMAN

"I suffered for a long time with stomach trouble," said Mr. Frank B. Norman, 528 Mississippi street, Amarillo. I had a very poor appetite and after eating I was subject to painful accumulations of gas. I was becoming very nervous and did not sleep well at night. I was troubled with constipation and found it necessary to take cathartics constantly. I was losing strength and energy and no matter what I tried in the way of medicine nothing seemed to help me. "I seemed to improve in health from the time I began taking Konjola. My appetite picked up and I was able to assimilate my food better. I did not have that tired out feeling in the morning and my work was easier and more pleasant. Constipation soon passed and cathartics were no longer necessary. After continuing the treatment for a time I realized that Konjola was the medicine I should have taken long ago. I am continuing to take Konjola and am recommending it to all my friends."

Given a real trial over a period of from six to eight weeks, Konjola has made a record without parallel in the history of medicines. Ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness readily yield to its power. Konjola is sold in Brownfield at Alexander Drug Co., and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

GOT $1,500 FOR OLD PRESS BY NOT ERASING AN "F"

HIGH POINT, N. C.—Because a southern newspaper editor was "too busy" to erase an "F" he got an extra $1,000 from Henry Ford for an ancient printing press!

The story has just been related by H. W. Kronheimer of High Point, formerly one of the editors of the Roanoke Valley News. His interest in the tale is that he once owned the press, but not appreciating its value to a collector, sold it for about $20.

Mr. Kronheimer originally purchased the press at auction for less than $10. Some of the parts were missing. He sold it, and it changed hands several times, finally going to Boynton, Va.

A typographer's salesman called on the Boynton editor.

"What's that?" he asked, peering at the old press, caked with ink and half covered with rubbish.

"Junk," said the editor. "It was part of the outfit when I took it over. The salesman rubbed off the maker's name plate and saw a date several centuries old. "Henry Ford wouldn't call this junk," he suggested.

The editor wrote to Henry Ford, and received an immediate reply, asking for particulars and the price. Particulars were easy, but the price perplexed the newspaper man. Fifty dollars? Perhaps. "Fif—," he wrote. Not enough. Five hundred. But he'd have to rub out that "F" and substitute a "v." Too much trouble. Make it fifteen hundred. He did. And Mr. Ford sent his check.

Tracing of the history of the old press disclosed that it was the second to be brought to the United States from England, being used for years at Williamsburg, Va., in the days when the colonies were young.

It now reposes in Mr. Ford's museum at Dearborn, Mich.—Publishers Auxiliary.

Tom May was on the sick list last week, but is up again. Last Friday was the first time we ever noticed Tom absent from the Rotary meeting if he was in town.

Russia, Italy, Peace Workers Live Longer Cheap at a Billion Anger Flouts Death

While it lasts, a dictatorship seems the simplest form of government. Everything is peaceful in Russia, where everybody is radical. Russia has a dictator.

Everything is peaceful in Italy, where nobody is allowed to be radical. Italy has a dictator.

In Russia, reversing the theories of Karl Marx, and managed by extremely able men, the people are quiet, obedient.

In Italy, where Karl Marx would not be publicly mentioned, a nation, naturally radical, is told that there has been too much talk about liberty, and people are obedient.

The question is, how long? A Frenchman, falling from the twentieth story, is said to have remarked as he passed the tenth floor: "It's all right as long as it lasts." How long will it last?

A report published by Mr. Frederick H. Ecker, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, concerning 19,000,000 industrial policy-holders in the United States and Canada, shows that workers are living longer than they used to.

Thanks to science and prosperity, the death rate among wage-earners has diminished. Mr. Ecker's statistical bureau shows a new low death rate of 94 per 1,000 during March. More adults that live, fewer babies that die, is a good program.

It is said that the new tariff will cost the United States $1,000,000,000 a year. It will, probably, and undoubtedly that tariff contains many jobs, deals and mistakes.

But if the tariff enables only 5,000,000 American workmen to earn $1.00 a day more than they would have earned without the tariff, that would repay the billion with a bonus of 50 per cent, to say nothing of added profit that would encourage business men to build up industry and national prosperity.

Many of our emotions, according to Francis Bacon, make us indifferent to death, anger among others.

Eng Fu Week, sixty-two, and Eng Loy, fifty-one, Chinese, and cousins, fought with heavy meat cleavers. When the police arrived both had fractured skulls and gashes on heads and bodies, yet the police were compelled to separate them by force. One will die surely, the other probably, and it was all about a blanket.

Cost of travel by air and rail between New York and the Southwest is reduced to less than regular railroad and pullman car travel.

Flying from New York to Dallas, Texas, or Oklahoma City, you save $6.24 in cash, 18 hours in time.

And these cuts are made by the Pennsylvania railroad itself. Wise General Albertury, head of the Pennsylvania, decides that if he must have air competition he will own the competition.

Mr. Lamont, our secretary of commerce, called up on the telephone recently by Sir Henry Thornton, had a pleasant talk.

Mr. Lamont was sitting in Washington. Sir Harry was traveling at high speed through Canada on the Canadian National Railway system.

Sir Henry sent his regards to President Hoover and the American cabinet. Seventy-one telephone calls were made from that Canadian train as it rolled along.

England, France and Belgium have reduced the discount rate, which means that you can get money more cheaply there.

You could get it in Paris under 4 per cent while American buyers of stocks were paying 15 per cent. Our federal reserve reduces its discount rate in the New York district to 3 per cent.

"Call money," with which stocks are bought, will be cheap for the present.

News from India reminds the British of Bacon's warning that nations with great possessions, far away, are always in danger.

A second son of Gandhi is imprisoned "rigorously" for one year.

Senator Wagner of New York starts a fight to bring back prosperity and solve the unemployment problem, which he says is serious.

He wants the country to "face the true facts." The government can help. A little, not very much.

Our national wage payroll is over $20,000,000,000 a year. Incomes of individuals, aside from wages, amount to $10,000,000,000. That gigantic sum depends on public confidence, energy, individual enterprise.

Jack Barstow establishes a new record in air gliding, remaining up more than fifteen hours in a plane, but no engine. The mark isn't official, but the Germans will start in to beat it. Their record is fourteen hours and forty five minutes.

Meanwhile, Mal T. C. Macnealey of San Diego sends news that Barstow did not immediately attempt to make a "hot record."

Mrs. Jackson and daughter were up over the week-end visiting her daughter, Mrs. Jack Jackson. They were accompanied home by all five local girls attending A. C. C. Misses Robbie M. Hardin, Vivian Winston, Bessie and Jessie Chisholm and Miss Woodard of Wellman. They spent the night in a lake of water in Lynn county Friday night.

AVERY TWIN-JACK CULTIVATOR

Easy on both man and team

Avery engineers did a big job in eliminating strain on the operator and lightening the work of the team when they designed the famous Jack Rabbit Cultivator. In the Twin-Jack they have repeated their success, this time in a two-row cultivator that is simple to operate—and easy on both man and team.

The Twin-Jack is sturdy, durable, flexible, easy to handle and comfortable to ride. It has a strong, rigid main frame that will not twist or sag under the hardest conditions. The frame is in perfect balance at all times, with the result that manipulation requires but minimum effort, the horses are spared sore shoulders, and more ground is covered per day with less fatigue.

Each pair of gangs is controlled by two independent levers, the inside lever raising or lowering the pair simultaneously, when desired. By means of an easy pressure on the struts the wheels may be angled to right or to left.

We will be glad to explain the many efficient, time-saving features of the Twin-Jack—or demonstrate at your convenience. There is no obligation.

There is a full line of famous Avery walking, riding and tractor plows, tillage implements and Champion harvesting and hay machines — it is worth hearing as it should be heard — the very foundation of musical appreciation — is a birthright whose development depends on its manner of nurturing. To attempt to get along with a radio set whose tone qualities are in the least questionable is unnecessary in this day when science has devised a set whose tonal attributes have been approved by leading authorities of music and which can be purchased at a cost of little more than that of an ordinary radio.

To hear the Brunswick Highboy eight-tube radio console Model S-21 with four screen grid tubes IS TO ENJOY a new musical thrill.

BREAK THE CHAIN

We note in an exchange that the old-time chain-letter nuisance is again bobbing up despite the numerous attempts made by the postoffice department to discourage such foolishness.

Anyone around Littlefield who gets a letter instructing him to write a certain number of letters just like it and to mail them on to that number of friends, along with a veiled warning that "bad luck will descend upon anyone who breaks this chain" should tear the letter up. No need to read it in full, after you've discovered what it is. Such nuisances are originated by people with more time than brains; they do not help anybody or any cause; they mean a waste of time, paper and stamps, and simply add to the burdens of hard-worked postal employes. You will show good judgment if you ignore the "chain-letter."

As far as having bad luck if you do so is concerned, that is too silly to even think about.—Littlefield Leader

AGRICULTURE IGNORED IN TARIFF SCHEDULE

Industrial South has joined Industrial North and East in its views on protective tariff, but Agricultural South and Agricultural West and North are as far apart as ever, politically speaking.

The people in the South have about reached the conclusion that the Protective Tariff policy in the United States is fixed and for that reason they are making a demand for increased duties on many commodities.

The South has joined the North and West in asking for protection on many agricultural products, or on commodities that influence the price of domestic production, but with a few slight and unimportant instances, the request has been refused by Congress.

While industry, other than agriculture, whether in the North, East or South, join on all important measures, those representing agriculture are still ruled by oldtime prejudices and vote for oldtime principles without regard or consideration of the fact that we are living in the present and not in the past. The Western and Northern farmers are faced with the same problems as those in the South, but when election day comes round, they ignore their own interests and vote the old ticket. Farmers everywhere are influenced more or less by local politics. When it comes time to vote, "Grandpa's ticket is good enough for them."

With industry making rapid development, the day may come when those engaged in agriculture, and the friends of agriculture, will go to the polls with the purpose of sending men to Congress who will give them more than mere lip service. The present Congress was called in special session to take care of agriculture. It passed the Federal Farm Board act and appropriated an immense sum of money to put its provisions in force. But, when it came to giving agriculture an even break as regards the tariff, Congress hesitated and then stopped. Congress is for a prosperous agriculture just so long as any plan to bring about that happy condition does not interfere in the least with the special privileges other industry is enjoying.—Farm and Ranch.

STOP TALKING

Probably, at some time or other, every American citizen complains about taxes. But not one citizen in a thousand ever gets beyond the talking stage.

If the stockholders of a business were as lax about its management as citizens are about the management of government, the business would probably go into bankruptcy. Government, on the other hand, having absolute power, merely digs deeper into the public pocketbook.

The best possible advice on the tax situation is: Quit talking and act—The Manufacturer.

New Bank Fixtures Being Installed Here

Workmen arrived last week and immediately began the installation of the new fixtures for the First National Bank, which when completed will be among the nicest in this section. These fixtures are a dark marble, and take the latest and most approved shape and carving to fit the building. All tables as well as desks and wainscoting around the wall will be of the same material and the wainscoting will come up even with the window sills.

There will be one office where customers can talk with the officials that will be open, and one inclosed with glass. The writer took a long guess on the different uses of the offices. We asked if one was not to be used to pay off notes in, and the inclosed one to renew. They laughed but gave no answer. So then silence gives consent. Anyway, this will be a thing of beauty and a joy forever to both bank and its customers.

CHEVROLETS TO BE USED BY GOV. FARM EXPERTS

Renewed vigor in the Government's co-operative battle with the farmer against injurious crop insects was promised for this month with the delivery of a fleet of Chevrolet Sedan Deliveries to the Western division of the department of Agriculture.

This particular fleet is to be used in the campaign against the corn borer and is to concentrate its work in West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. Similar fleets, enlisted in the war against the fruit fly, boll weevil, etc., are in operation in all parts of the United States.

Every car in the fleet recently delivered is a standard Chevrolet six, with sedan delivery body, in which equipment essential to a successful pursuit of the Government's war is transported. As the cars left the Flint plant of the Chevrolet Motor Company, they were paraded through the streets of that city with the national banner fluttering from either side of each car, as though mobilizing for "war" in which they were soon to take part.

Selection of Chevrolets for this work was made by the Government because of their dependability and economy of operation in transferring activities from one "battle sector" to another, it was explained.

SAFETY FIRST

A dapper young squirt came fussing into the drug store and demanded a good deal of attention for some trivial purchase. The lumbering old druggist stood for his impertinence good-naturedly. Finally the customer said: "And get me some insect powder—that'll work, mind you."

The druggist appeared to meditate, looking the young man over. "Fraid I can't sell that to you, sir. I don't want to get into trouble."

"Trouble?" shrilled the young man, "what do you mean, trouble?"

"Been an awful lot of suicides lately," was the reply.

Dr. Webber returned this week from Dallas and Fort Worth. He reports that Ike Bailey will be home in two weeks.

Miss Bessie Thompson returned this week from a visit at Cleburne and Gainesville.

More Rains in Terry During the Past Week

There were good rains accompanied by some hail here last Thursday afternoon and again Friday afternoon that covered practically all the east half of the county, but little fell in the west half of the county. Tokio and section got a good shower Sunday night. Tuesday morning a slow rain fell for several hours.

We understand that there are some places in the central west and south portions of the county where the top and bottom moisters have not met, lacking about two or three inches, but those farmers are planting as fast as possible.

LARGEST HYDRO PLANT IN TEXAS PROJECTED

Project for what would be the largest hydro-electric station in Texas is disclosed in the application of E. E. Neiswanger, president of the Central Power & Light Co., for a six-month right to investigate feasibility of tentative plans. They include a tunnel a half mile long in solid rock to connect the Pecos with the Rio Grande, through which the waters of the former would pour in a 73-foot drop to provide the necessary fall. The power plant would be located on the Rio Grande but would use only water from the Pecos, diverted from a point eight miles above its confluence with the Rio Grande. A 100-foot dam on the Pecos below the tunnel is a part of the plan.

LARGE TOLL EXACTED BY AUTOS LAST YEAR

Washington, D. C.—A total of 31,680 persons were killed by automobiles in the United States last year, according to revised figures of the American Motorists' Association. This represents an increase of approximately 12 per cent, or 6,780 deaths, over the total number killed in 1928, and brings the grand total of automobile fatalities in the United States, during the past ten years, up to 190,850.

A comparative analysis of the figures for last year shows that the number killed by automobiles is approximately three times the total homicides and twice the total of suicides in the United States, there being 10,650 homicides and 15,500 suicides.

Comparing the automobile deaths to the total number of accidental deaths annually in the United States, the figures show that approximately one-third of all such deaths are due to automobile accidents.

It was pointed out that the increase in automobile registrations last year was 8 per cent, while the increase in fatalities was approximately 12 per cent.

Copper Mines of Chile Worked by the Aztecs?

What is now the world's largest known copper ore deposit was worked by the prehistoric Incas. Judging by remains that have been found at and near the copper mines of Chuquibambilla, Chile. Within the mine, primitive tools have been found from time to time, such as stone hammers and wooden shovels, as well as mummified remains of early Indian miners, one of which is now at the American Museum of Natural History in New York.

The ruins of Pucaro, an ancient fortified city destroyed by the Spaniards during their first invasion of Chile, are 25 miles from Chuquibambilla. Ancient graves belonging to this prehistoric city have yielded bows and other utensils of copper as well as bead necklaces made from brochantite and atacamite, minerals characteristic of the Chuquibambilla deposits.

The Incas, reputed as pre-Columbian, America's best miners and metal workers, conquered this part of Chile about 1443. It is reliably estimated, and the old mines may, therefore, have been worked at least ninety years before the discovery of America.—Kansas City Star's Science Service.

Food "on the Hoof" Not What They Looked For Three unemployed miners having emigrated to South Africa, and not being successful in obtaining employment, decided to journey up country, where, far away from civilization, they came across an explorers' depot, fairly well stocked with food.

After a few days, when the stores had become exhausted, and all three fed up, yet very hungry, one of their number decided to go in search of food, with the avowed determination to bring back something to eat even if it were a lion. He had not searched far when he encountered a lion, which was also in search of food.

The lion at once bounded toward the man, who turned and sped as rapidly as humanly possible toward the hut. On nearing the hut door, which was open, he stumbled and fell, too precipitately for the lion to recover, which bounded into the hut. When the man picked himself up, he quickly pulled the hut door to, and shouted to his mates inside: "Here you are! Skin that whilst I fetch another!"—London Answers.

Ain't It 'Deuce?

The shipwrecked tourist had had terrible experiences on South Sea islands, so on this occasion he did not relish his fate. Faint with fatigue he dragged himself toward the distant voices. At last he caught a glimpse of the party—they were sitting in a circle on the sand and holding objects, unrecognizable at the distance, close to their noses.

"This is some hand!" snorted one.

"Aw, rats!" came the raucous voice of another. "I only pulled a couple of bones from that pot."

"Wot yuh grippin' fer?" grunted a third. "Yuh don't expect more'n a pair o' bones from a pair o' queens, do yuh?"

The tourist rolled over on the sand and just before he breathed his last he gasped: "Cannibals again!"—Pathfinder Magazine.

Graft

A colored man went to his pastor and handed him a letter to the Lord, which read: "Please send this old darkey $30 right away." The pastor called together several of his friends and said: "This poor man has so much faith in the Lord, and he don't let him be disappointed. Let's make a collection for him." They contributed $42 which was sent to the ingenious petitioner.

Next day the colored man gave the pastor another letter. This one ran: "Dear Lord: de nex' time you send dis darkey money, don't send it thru no parson—send it to me direct."—Forbes Magazine.

Women Become Special Sex

Women of England, especially professional women, have acquired a new virtue—alience. Newcomers into the profession are outdoing the men in their desire for professional etiquette and refuse to advertise. Many people have declared that successful professional women are less "human" than successful professional men. It is claimed that they suffer from a "superiority complex" and a sort of "divine right of queens," hemming themselves in impenetrable barriers of silence and self-importance.

Poison Arrows of Indians

The bureau of ethnology says that the arrow poison used by the Indians was of vegetable and animal origin. Among the vegetable poisons there were sap of the yucca angustifolia, a preparation of acornite and a plant called Mago, the milk of which was poison. Some tribes, such as the Shoshoni and Bannock Indians, obtained a deer and caused it to be bitten by a rattlesnake. The deer was then killed and allowed to rot. Then the arrows were dipped into the matter.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Holland Land of Flowers

No one, says a traveler, will ever forget his first sight of the acres and acres of myriad colored flowers in bloom in Holland. The spectacle is breath-taking and every season of the year sees the land in some new beauty. In spring the bulb fields near Haarlem hold carnival from February, when the crocus blooms, until August when the late gladioli are in flower. The vision of a square mile of tulips in full bloom, in every hue in the rainbow, is worth a visit to Holland from any distance.

Riches in Black Hills

The Black hills constitute one of the richest gold mining districts in the United States and have yielded over $100,000,000. Silver, copper, tin and iron ores also occur within their limits, besides coal, salt, petroleum, mica, gypsum and building stone. About one-third of the area is covered with dense dark forests of pine, whence the name, while deciduous trees are abundant. The climate is salubrious, the soil fertile, and the hills are well adapted to grazing purposes.

Famous Health Centers

For centuries the "baths" or health resorts, of Germany and central Europe have been famous for their medicinal powers of their spring waters and for the elaborate establishments that have been built up about these springs, where every comfort and luxury is provided for those who come for the cure and for those who are merely in search of rest or recreation. Hundreds of thousands of persons visit them each year, and many return annually to their favorite resorts.

Goes into the Highways

The pastor of a scattered parish near Reading, England, has discovered the way to obtain a good attendance at his church. Each Sunday before the service the preacher takes his car to regular calling places some distance from the church. Whether the day is stormy or fair, he never fails to gather enough people to fill his church. Every one who attends gets a free ride after the service to the point where he was picked up.

Origin of "Gazette"

MILLION DOLLAR ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN GETS RESULTS

DAYTON, OHIO.—All shipment records of Frigidaire Corporation were broken on April 30 when 214 carloads of electric refrigerators left the plants consigned to 46 states and five foreign countries. The best previous day's record was for May 31, 1929 when 121 carloads were shipped.

The new all-time record was established in less than two weeks after the company began a million dollar newspaper advertising campaign to supplement its spring field activity, according to E. G. Biechler, president and general manager. The increased advertising expenditure was predicated upon a record breaking first quarter, a 100 per cent increase in show room visitors, and a newspaper survey which showed an overwhelming preference on the part of the public for Frigidaire, it was stated.

Guy Hargrave says good rains came at Seymour while he was down there and he decided to leave the several hundred acres of wheat, that he went down to plow up.

HUNG JURY IN THE WIZZARD CASE

The suit of Wizzard Evans against the Austin American for $150,000 resulted in a hung jury in the Dallas court and jury discharged last Friday.

The Austin American published the speech of M. M. Cane in 1924 and the following paragraph in that speech was the basis of the claim of Wizzard Evans for damage:

"When they talk about honesty. No one dare say Mrs. Ferguson (candidate for governor) is not honest. What is the record of the Klan on honesty. Evans and Simmons (former Imperial Wizard) split $150,000 suckers' money. What would they do to the State Treasury?"

The jury stood 9 to 3 in favor of Evans it was reported.—Greenville Messenger.

DON'T NEED DRINK

Undoubtedly the modern inventions, particularly the automobile, airplane, radio, and talking pictures, have removed much of the reason for drinking liquor. Drinking is done to relieve the tedium, to get a thrill and forget oneself. The four inventions named will do all these things quite well. A few decades back drinking was the chief sport available, particularly to the poor. Today, the world is open to them, so to speak. On a nice Sunday who would not rather take a hundred mile drive, visit a lake and see some varied scenery than to get soused? A good radio program, or a good talking picture beat the mild exhilaration of drink. People still drink, but the need is far less.—Bryan Democrat.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. Alexander Drug Co.
