SHALL WE CELEBRATE TEXAS INDEPENDENT

The centennial of Texas independence is now just five years ahead of us, a circumstance of which the people of the State were reminded by many speakers Monday, when the ninety-fifth anniversary of the Texan declaration of independence was celebrated. But while the day was generally observed throughout the State, it passed without any definite plans being evolved for the fitting celebration of the one hundredth anniversary five years hence. On last Wednesday, commenting on this circumstance, the Dallas Journal had the following to say: "If all Texans who foregathered Tuesday night in celebration of the anniversary of Texas independence had paraded in their discussions ways and means of tagging an adequate celebration of the Texas Centennial in 1936, such interest might have quickened as would soon yield a well-defined plan of procedure. Before another Independence Day arrives it is to be hoped that not only the many who make it a practice to celebrate the day, but all other loyal Texans will have become keenly concerned in this important matter. Centennial Year is just around the corner. Unless some ambitious plan is evolved and put through, such celebration as Texas may stage will not be in keeping with the anniversary's importance. The holding of a great exposition is now out of the question. It is too late to launch such a project. But a plan can be shaped that will make certain an impressive celebration. There is an urgent call to patriotic Texans that they join in shaping such a plan and in promoting it to success. Centennial Year will present an opportunity. If Texas citizens fail to make something of it, they will have occasion to regret it to the last of their days on this historic soil."—Texas Weekly.

A SHINE TO LANIER

(From the Denison Daily Herald)
Says Decca Lamar West in The Texas Weekly: "On February 14, 1873, Sidney Lanier, poet and musician, wrote a letter to his wife from San Antonio, Texas, where he had come in search of health. On February 14, 1931, the Texas Division, United Daughters of the Confederacy dedicated with fitting ceremony a bronze tablet in commemoration of the residence in Texas of Sidney Lanier, ex-Confederate soldier and America's greatest poet. I dare call him America's greatest poet, even though Lanier had not developed his fullest powers."
All Texas admirers of the sweet singer of the South will be pleased to know that a memorial is to be erected to him here in the State he resided for some time, and which ever had a warm place in his affections. There may be some who have academic objections to giving him first among American poets, as every individual has his favorite poet, but few would deny that he expressed the spirit of the South as no other has ever done, excepting possibly, Paul Hamilton Hayne, Edgar Allan Poe is usually credited which hardly qualifies it as American, much less Southern.
There is a depth and sweep to Lanier's poetry, a Catholic sympathy with humanity and an under-current of deep piety, which gives it greater weight than the mere lyrical offerings of the lesser poets. Some of his poems are almost pure music; they sing themselves into one's heart. Others, such as the "Marshes of Glynn," show a thoughtful philosophy of life clothed in colorful metaphors descriptive of typically Southern scenes.
Lanier's life was tragic throughout. Of fine ancestry, he laid his all on the altar of his country's cause, and accepted the verdict without bitterness. He fought a losing battle against poverty, misunderstanding and ill health, and must have felt, as Keats did near the end, that his "name was writ in water."
The Southland he loved and died for is just now beginning to lay belated wreaths on his bier.

ISOLATE DRUG THAT CAUSES JAKE PARALYSIS

Oklahoma City, Ok., March—The ingredient of substandard Jamaica ginger, that caused more than 1,000 drinkers in the Southwest to become afflicted with a mysterious partial paralysis, has been isolated by three Oklahoma City scientists.
After studying cases and taking hundreds of tests, they announced today that tricesyl phosphate is the chemical that caused the paralysis. Several have died from the affliction.
But the scientists, Dr. L. A. Turley and H. A. Shoemaker of the University of Oklahoma School of Medicine, and Dr. D. T. Bowden, former State Laboratories director, said no cure had been found for sufferers of the paralysis. They said the malady responds slightly to electrical treatment.
"The chemical destroys the nuclei or nerve cells permanently," the reports said. "In some cases a degree of normal recovery without treatment is reached."
The "jake leg" epidemic broke out here in February, 1930. Since that time it has spread throughout many Oklahoma towns, to Wichita, Kan., several places in Missouri, Tennessee and to the west coast.
The three scientists started tests in co-operation with New Orleans medical authorities. By giving the cheap intoxicating drug to chickens and dogs, controlling the degree of paralysis, the tricesyl phosphate was determined as the elements that deadened the motor nerves.
OLD TIME FIDDLERS CONTEST
The Tinker-Hill American Legion Post will stage their 2nd annual old time fiddlers contest on Thursday night April 2nd. Some of the most noted old time fiddlers in Texas have promised to be here and take part. There will be three premiums. First $15.00; 2nd, $10.00 and 3rd $5.00.
We have also arranged for some other very interesting numbers on this program, so don't forget the date. Watch for further announcements in regard to this contest.—Seagraves Signal.

MARRIED

Mr. James King, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. King of this city, and Miss Frances Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Carpenter, went to Tahoka Monday night, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ballard and Miss Bob Carpenter, where they were married. This happy young couple will make this their home.
Mr. A. V. Hill, line construction foreman for the State Telephone Co., and Miss Winnie Clare, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brit Clare of this city, went to New Mexico Sunday, where they were quietly married. Both of the above couples are very popular young people here, and the Herald offers congratulations.

A. M. Brownfield, Ike Bailey and Glen Webber will leave here Friday for St. Louis with 3 cars of cattle and 2 cars of sheep, all corn fed stuff. Bill Pool will load three cars of cattle but will stop in Kansas City with his stuff. All will return home in a few days except Mr. Brownfield who will remain in St. Louis for several weeks to take aviation lessons.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING FROM MOBLEY'S ADDRESS

The whole world is organized against the solitary producer. In the game of Solitaire you can win only once in many hundred times.
If co-operative marketing isn't worth the effort, don't complain. Just go on taking what you can get. Co-operative marketing is so successful in Denmark that farmers belong to five different organizations.
The solitary producer of raw material receives the least part of what he produces. The pearl diver wears no pearls.
Co-operative between business men and farmers in California has placed California farm products in the stores of every town and in the kitchens and on the tables of nearly every family in the United States.

Forced to adventure in the field of lower egg production costs, J. L. Hammond, poultry flock demonstrator at Arney in Castro county, cut out the mash in December and fed skim milk, scratch grain and sprouted oats to his 538 hens. They averaged 8.4 eggs each, which compared favorably with the production in flocks where mash was fed. The feed cost per dozen eggs was 12.2 cents.

Because his wife scolded him when he served oatmeal he had cooked, Enoch H. Biberson of Butte, Mont., after 17 years of married life, has filed suit for divorce.

FORD COMFORT

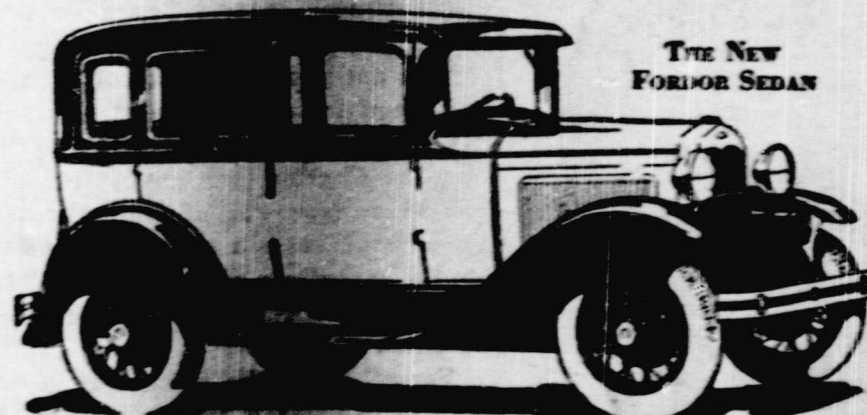

Every new Ford is equipped with four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers

ONE of the fine things about driving the new Ford is the way it takes you over the miles without strain or fatigue. No matter how long the trip, you know it will bring you safely, quickly, comfortably to the journey's end.
The seats are generously wide, deeply cushioned and carefully designed to conform to the curves of the body. Every new Ford has specially designed springs and four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers. These work both ways—up and down. They absorb the force of road shocks and also provide a cushion against the rebound of the springs.

Other features that make the new Ford a value far above the price are the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, silent, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, more than twenty ball and roller bearings, extensive use of fine steel forgings, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, torque-tube drive, Rustless Steel and unusual accuracy in manufacturing.

In addition, you save many dollars because of the low first cost of the new Ford, low cost of operation and up-keep, and low yearly depreciation.

Road Bond Issue to Be Up in Legislature

By J. F. Downley.

Austin, Texas, March—The battle of the bonds will soon be on. The long-talked-of issue, of which voters of Texas heard so much during the campaign which saw election of Ross Sterling as governor is soon to take the center of the stage in legislative affairs. Battle line now being drawn closely, Jim Ferguson's favorite expression will be true, "the die is sure to fly."

In the gubernatorial campaign of 1930, Governor Sterling and Senator Tom Love were the only advocates of the state bond issue mortgaging the state's tax funds to the extent of $400,000,000 for construction of a state-wide highway system. Opposition to the plan was so pronounced that the advocates promised that their intention was not to pledge the credit of the state to pay these bonds, but only the revenue from gasoline sale taxes.

As the measure appears in its real form, the amount is cut in half, $200,000,000 now being considered as much as can be safely asked for. Representative Hubbard, formerly chairman of the highway commission, and Fesch, floor leader for Moody during the latter's term, are the authors and leaders of the proposed amendment. These members of the House have as their main argument that the people should have the right to vote on a question of building state highways on the credit of the state pledged over a period of fifty years, and the legislature should pass the referendum measure.

Opponents have countered that in that case, the people should also vote on the matter of making the highway commission an elective position, and abolishment of the poll tax payment as a requisite to voting. In other words, let the people elect the personnel of the commission who spend the $200,000,000 and allow every citizen to vote, and the proposition becomes fair.

Further provided in the measure, and giving the proponents another strong argument, is the plan to equalize the funds, $100,000,000 for building of additional roads, and $100,000,000 to retire bond issues now outstanding in individual county bonds spent on state roads thus cutting down ad valorem taxes of counties.

Several weeks of bitter argument and political maneuvering is forecast before the bond issue is determined one way or the other.

ROSS SPEAKS TO J. WADDY

A man of spunk and determination is Ross Sterling—something like that other Ross who was governor forty years ago.

It was reported that two communists had been taken from Dallas into the country and thoroughly beaten. Most of Dallas officialdom said it never happened, that it was an attempt to create public sympathy martyrdom.

True or untrue, such a report need of investigating Governor Sterling sent two rangers into Dallas with instructions to look into the situation and report.

Mayor J. Waddy Tate of Dallas was indignant. He said the presence of the rangers was an insult to Dallas and to Texas. He demanded that they be withdrawn. He addressed his demand to Ross Sterling.

The governor came right back with the reply that the good name of Texas and of Dallas demanded protection.

"I will not recall the rangers," said Governor Sterling.

That was giving the mayor of Dallas the word with back attached. So far there has been no come-back from the right bank of the Trinity.—Abilene News.

Peggy and Pat—the listeners' representatives—have announced that they will dedicate this program, 17th of the series, to the Northwest. Songs typical of that section will be featured by the Conoco orchestra and the Bandoliers.

The program will be transmitted in this territory by station WFAA Dallas, at 6:30 p. m.

WORSE THAN WAR!

During 18 months of the World War, 34,310 members of the American Expeditionary Force were killed in action or died of wounds.

During the 18 months preceding January, 1931, 30,300 people were killed in automobile accidents in this country.

There could be no better illustration of the seriousness of the automobile accident situation.

According to a survey by the Travelers Insurance Company, the leading cause of accidents in 1930 was failure to give right of way, which accounted for 15 per cent of deaths and 21.5 per cent of injuries. Second was excessive speed, which was responsible for 21 per cent of all accidents, and third, driving on the wrong side of the road, which totaled 14 per cent.

Higher speed is a natural result of improved roads and cars. But the other two primary causes of accidents—which together accounted for 27 per cent of deaths and 47.7 per cent of injuries—amount to simple ignorance, recklessness or carelessness. They show improper training on the part of the motorist, coupled with inadequate enforcement of traffic laws. That such accidents could be at least partially curbed by examining and licensing laws, and by adequate enforcement of modernized traffic codes, is well within the limits of plausibility.

Every year complete and detailed resumes of the previous year's accident record are prepared. Study of them should show what enforcement is needed, what can be accomplished. A few states, in a period of rising hazards, have managed to appreciably decrease accident within their borders. All other states can do the same.

FEEDING HENS SAVED CULLING

Palaestine—It's an injustice to a hen to cull and can her until she has a chance to see what she can do on a better ration. Mrs. C. L. McKinney of Friendship community, Anderson county, will tell you. Late in January she had her 40 Silver Laced Wyandottes penned awaiting the arrival of Mack McConnell, county agent, but he refused to cull out the poor ones until all had had 30 days of good mash feeding. The previous ration had consisted of cracked corn and garden greens, a ration lacking in protein. One month later egg production had increased from 12 eggs to 50 eggs daily, and only five hens were culled out. Mrs. McKinney figures she is more than making expenses on a low egg market.

SOMEWHAT CONFUSING

A clergyman, slightly deaf asked his clerk to make an announcement after the sermon about the new hymn books. The clerk, having other notices also, first read one on baptism, saying, "All those with children to baptize will please send in their names at once." The clergyman supposing the notice read on babies was the one on hymn books, arose and added, "I want to say for the benefit of those who haven't any that they may be obtained from me any day between 3 and 4 o'clock, the ordinary little ones at 15 cents each and the special ones with red backs at 25 cents."

RETAIL MERCHANTS URGED TO UTILIZE BONDED WAREHOUSE

Austin, Tex., March—The possibility of the smaller retail merchant using a bonded and state regulated warehouse in the fight to retail in his independence was pointed out today by L. L. Shackelford, warehouse division chief in the state department of agriculture.

Use of the bonded warehouse, Shackelford said, would add to the small merchant's purchasing power, because his receipt from a bonded warehouse, is negotiable. He could buy in large quantities, thus affecting savings; store the surplus merchandise in a warehouse; and use his receipt as a negotiable instrument.

"The small merchant," Shackelford said, "soon will be put entirely out of business unless in some way he can buy merchandise on a basis to compete with the merchant able to buy in large quantities."

"The bonded warehouse offers one solution. The merchant, especially in the smaller towns, can buy his goods in carlots when he thinks the price is right, place the merchandise in a bonded warehouse and get a negotiable receipt. This he may take to his bank and borrow money when he hasn't sufficient capital to pay for the merchandise, and withdraw from time to time as his needs may require, paying the bank for the goods used."

"The warehouseman, of course, holds the merchandise subject to the receipt; and in all cases will be glad to cooperate with the merchant and banker by allowing merchandise to go out on order from the banker or person holding the receipt. In this manner the merchant is helped, the banker protected, and the warehouse is the instrument through which this operation is made feasible and practical."

There are about 700 bonded warehouses in the state, and more are being added to the list every day, the warehouse chief said.

The editor of the Matador paper called this week, but as we were not in, failed to get his name, and we are just too dense to remember it off-hand.

CHILD WELFARE LAW MAY BE ENACTED

Huey P. Long deposes and says that the proper way to absorb potlikker and cornpone is to dunk the latter into the former and proceed. But the Atlanta Constitution objects that dunking is no civilized way to take nourishment when potlikker and cornpone are available, averring instead that crumbling is de rigueur in such matters. The Hon. Huey, now widely known as the Hon. Hooie, responds in character: Editor, Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta Ga.:

In your paper of Feb. 13, you undertake to question my recipe for potlikker (sic). I will stand for your questioning my political sagacity and legal capacity, but my recipe for potlikker is given out from a source that can not be questioned. I do not want anybody misled in the State of Georgia about this matter, so I demand immediate correction. Huey P. Long, LL. D., Governor and United State Senator-Elect.

The Atlanta editor stands his ground and appeals to Gov. Ross Sterling of Texas for support in the maintenance of the mores of the Southland. The potlikker and cornpone editor of the Constitution is anxious that the controversy be allayed before the division within the camp comes to the ears of the outlanders beyond the potlikker and cornpone belt.

The facts are evidently with the Georgia view. Dunking involves an unseemly haste not consistent with due appreciation of the dish. Indeed, leisure is so much of the essence of enjoyment in the case that the only variant technique ever allowed in North Texas was formerly that of submerging the entire pone in potlikker and massaging it in situ with the bowl of a tablespoon until suitable viscosity was attained. It is true, however, that since the disappearance of the sweeping walrus mustachios of earlier days, spooning cornpone in the likker in this fashion has fallen into desuetude. But as for dunking, it sounds positively Pennsylvanian. Dunking! Hon. Hooie must have been thinking about biscuit and coffee of a morning or something—Dallas News.

NEW BODY ADDED TO CHEVROLET FAMILY

A new body style, the 5-passenger coupe, has been added to the 1931 line of Chevrolet Sixes, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager, announced this week.

The new model is Chevrolet's latest addition to its deluxe line, another of which, the convertible cabriolet, was brought out early in January, and through which Chevrolet is establishing a new order of quality, luxury and individuality in the low priced field. The new type, which brings the number of passenger models in the Chevrolet line to eleven, is priced at $595 f. o. b. Flint Mich.

The 5-passenger coupe is of the 2-door close-coupled type with the sport treatment carried throughout. Body is by Fisher. Finish is in new Duco combination of ember gray on body, with Copperstown green wheels, and the roof and rear quarters in Blackwood green. The trim is cream.

Interior arrangement is practically the same as that of the 2-door sedan, affording abundant leg room for all passengers. The front seats are separate, the driver's being adjustable. The car has a thin back and can be tilted forward. The rear seat holds three persons comfortably. The three hinged door is exceptionally wide, permitting easy entry for passengers.

The interior appointments are of the deluxe type throughout. The upholstery is optional in Bedford cord or mohair. The instrument board is specially designed. There are arm rests, an assist cord on the right side, ash tray and curtains on the rear side and rear windows.

Exterior treatment is in keeping with the interior. A package compartment in the rear deck has a large capacity and is easily accessible. Radiator grille and cowl lights in chrome plate are used. Chromium plating is also freely employed on headlamps and other exterior hardware. The regular Fisher VV windshield is used. Five wire wheels are standard equipment with the spare carried in the rear.

The new model is now in production and dealers throughout the country are being stocked for immediate delivery.

WHAT YOU EXPECT YOU GET

NEVADA vs. ARKANSAS

(From the Rotarian)

An anecdote of pioneer days which holds much wisdom for us today concerns two pioneer settlers pushing their way into the sparsely settled West. The first pulled up his team in front of a cabin and addressed an elderly man sitting on a stump and puffing contentedly a corn-cob pipe.

"Hey, Old Timer, what kind of folks are there around these parts?"

"What kind of folks were there where you came from?" countered the resident.

"Why, they were the meepest, alikest, most unpleasant people I ever saw."

"Well," drawled the old pioneer "I reckon you'll find the folks around here just about the same."

A few weeks later another settler came along, asked a similar question and was answered by the same counter interrogatory. He replied briskly, "Why the folks around about where I came from were the salt of the earth, the finest, fairest and most helpful folks you could find anywhere. They were neighbors we just lusted to leave."

"Well," answered the local sage, "I reckon you'll find the folks here just about the same."

To a large degree, we get from people just about what we expect from them. A negative attitude toward life brings correspondingly negative returns.

AN AMERICAN VIEW

"An agriculturist," ranted the speaker, "is a man who lives in town and has his farm cultivated by tenants, and the farmer is one who works his fields himself. Now I ask what is there between them?"

"Service stations, bill boards, hot dog stands and hard work," said a small voice in the rear of the hall.

Of the 7200 acres of land under county agent supervision in Williamson county in 1930, 2775 acres were surveyed by farmers trained to use the farm level.

Reno, Nev., is alarmed at the proposed competition on the part of Arkansas in creating a national supply of second-hand wives. Arkansas wants to get some of the divorce trade, and is lowering the length of time which wives or husbands have to spend in that State before they are legally freed to marry a second spouse (or a third or ninth one, as the case may be.) Reno asks Nevada to cut the time required in that State from three months to six weeks.

Reno, with her 18,000 population and her 130 lawyers, has 2,000 divorce suits a year, and makes $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 annually out of the business. In fact she makes her living off of this sort of tandem bigamy. By shaving the time, Reno hopes to double her custom.

If this measure is successful, Arkansas will have to put in another bid for primary as receiver of damaged marital goods. There are varying degrees of fame, but Arkansas is content, it seems, with nothing less. When a State has at last discovered an ambition of that altitude, only success seems to satisfy.—Dallas News.

WHAT TEXAS GROWS DOESN'T MAKE TEXAS

The city of Chicago boasts more factories than the entire state of Texas. With an investment of something like half-a-dollar in Texas hides, St. Louis manages to sell us $8 worth of shoes; and the frugal New Englander buys 15 cents' worth of Texas-grown wool and ships us back a $40 suit of clothes. Facts such as these do credit to the ingenuity and enterprise of other states, but they are a reflection upon Texas.—Richardson Echo.

TEXAS FARM LIVING ROOM IMPROVEMENT ON INCREASE

College Station—Hard times have increased rather than diminished interest in home improvement on Texas farms according to the enrollment of demonstrators in the 1931 improved living room contest of the Extension Service of Texas A. & M. College in cooperation with a State farm newspaper. Announcement by Mrs. Bernice Claytor, home improvement specialist, shows that 798 home demonstration club women in 85 counties are participating this year as compared to 695 last year. "The harder the times the more families need the comfort and good cheer of a pleasant living room and the modern home-makers are helping the men forget the grind of hard times during the family social hour," is her explanation of the increase.

In 1930, contest demonstrators and cooperators, of whom there were 6183, added 3846 pieces of furniture in 1900 living rooms, and 5843 pieces were refinished. Draperies were added in 1,623, walls were refinished in 1,966, wood work was refinished in 1,356, floors were improved in 1,794, the artificial light in 1,077 was improved and the natural lighting of 761 rooms was made better. In 3,410 living rooms improvement was made by a rearrangement of furniture to advantage.

ACREAGE MEASURE GETS ENDORSEMENT OF FARMERS UNION

Austin, Texas, March—Support of the McDonald-Olsen cotton and soil conservation bill, which would empower a commission to regulate cotton acreage, has been pledged by the Farmers Union of Texas.

At a meeting here, the organization adopted a resolution which said: "Apparent over-production, depletion of the soil, increasing taxation and kindred causes have rendered land values uncertain and destroyed the farmer's ability to continue in production unless relief is afforded. Therefore we urge the legislature to enact House Bill 46 by J. J. Olsen, with the firm conviction that it will work to the economic benefit of agriculture which in turn will distribute its beneficial benefits to all."

The Farmers Union also urged the legislature to be as liberal in its appropriations for the support of the agriculture department "as may be suggested by an equitable distribution of public funds."

OLTON PUTS IN ITS RAIL BID

Sympathies of The Morning Avalanche are decidedly with Olton in the Lamb county capital's effort to secure a railroad. In petitioning the Interstate Commerce commission to change the proposed route of the Texas & Pacific Northern—if construction of the line is approved—Olton is fighting for its rights and for the opportunity to go ahead.

About two years ago the Panhandle & Santa Fe proposed to build from Hale Center west to Parmerton, intersecting Olton. The proposal was defeated. Olton has made efforts to secure a branch line connecting it with Plainview, or a branch line connecting it with Amherst or Littlefield. These efforts have likewise come to naught.

But the cruelest blow of all came when, in the ambitious proposal of the Texas & Pacific-Northern to connect Big Spring with Vega, Olton was the only important point in the territory affected to be missed by the proposed line.

For the benefit of those who are not acquainted with Olton and the Olton territory, some of the finest farm land in the South Plains area is therein contained. It's a good cotton country, a fair wheat country, a good feed country—as well as being adapted to poultry raising, dairying and stock-raising. Lucious fruits and vegetables will abound in the Olton section and all in all it is hard to beat anywhere in this great section.

Despite its rail reversals, Olton has gone ahead. Its business men, its oldtimers and newcomers have builded, slowly, a commendable trading point with buildings, several churches and an especially fine school system. Olton proposes to go ahead—to build bigger and better—and it needs a railroad to do it.

The Morning Avalanche can see no reason why Olton shouldn't be included in the T & P-N route if that line is permitted. To be sure, the swing of the route would be a little wider, but we believe the added business at and through Olton would more than make up for the change.

And what appeals to us is Olton's stand in the matter of the T. & P.-N.—and every other line proposed to intersect it.

"We aren't trying to profit by bringing the railroad to Olton at the expense of some other town," the Oltonites say. "We don't want to profit that way. We want the road to go to every town on its proposed

FLU TIME STILL WITH US

Flu time isn't over yet, though Gentle Spring is just around the corner. Many are yet grappling with the monster, and a few have fought it and come off conquerors. The cold, uncharitable world will never appreciate and honor as it should the human being who has battled with and conquered this tyrannical king of monsters, but on the other shore a bevy of white-winged angels will sing a psalm of victory of his triumph. The origin of the flu is veiled in mystery, but in my humble opinion it was created by the barren plains of Siberia and the boggy marches of the Black Sea regions. The object of its creation was to reduce the population of the world and create a greater demand for drugs. It was first tried out on a bewildered Cossack, who, when asked how he felt when entertaining it, replied that he felt like he was sorry he hadn't emigrated to hell year before last.

Here are a few of the symptoms of the flu that are so sure and unmistakable that he or she who feels them need have no doubt: Your head feels like a cask of lighted combustibles with no air hole; your breast throbs with a sensation which leads you to believe that a hook is fastened in each side, and attached to the hooks are two big elephants striving for the largest half of you. Your stomach bounds and rebounds, seethes and sizzles like Mount Vesuvius on a Christmas tree. The line of treatment followed makes no difference. All the opiates and narcotics in Christendom won't induce sleep or palliate the arches, neither will a triple dose of arsenic or strychnine kill you.—Jim Lowery.

Like Tea... the best Gasoline is Blended

CONOCO
 THE BALANCED - BLEND GASOLINE

C. B. Quante
 CONOCO DISTRIBUTOR - - - BROWNFIELD, TEXAS

EVEN the Japanese maiden who laboriously picks the tea leaves knows that before you sip the delicate beverage from your cup, leaves of another type of tea must be added, for the best teas invariably are blended. When the tea merchant takes a quantity of Japanese tea, a bit of China tea, and a touch of Ceylonese, then blends them according to the dictates of his expert knowledge, he parallels the making of CONOCO Gasoline. For this is a blended gasoline. It is blended because this is the only method which brings together in one fuel the desirable properties of several types of gasoline. No one type of gasoline can contain them all.

CONOCO refiners use: Natural Gasoline, for quick starting; Straight-run Gasoline, for power and long mileage; Cracked Gasoline, for its anti-knock properties. There is no secret formula covering the elements which compose this triple-test gasoline. The secret is the knowledge behind the blending. Knowing how makes one tea blend better than all others... and knowing how places one gasoline in a distinct quality class. Experience the performance advantages of CONOCO Balanced-Blend Gasoline. You'll find it wherever the CONOCO Red Triangle is displayed.
