

STRAW HAT DAY WAS A REAL SUCCESS SATURDAY

Those Who Threw Them Off: Those Who Tried to Catch 'Em, As Well As Those on the Side Lines Just Rooting—All Enjoyed the Wild Scramble to the Limit.

To those of us who sat on the side lines and yelled and laughed, Straw Hat Day was a decided success, and there were more instances of action seemed to get an even more walloping kick out of the affair. The Big Scramble was not confined to the men and boys alone, for fully a third of the crowd was made up of ladies and girls, and we want you to know they got their share of the falling hats, too. While the ladies appeared to us to be just as modest as ever, they are no longer the little cringing weaklings of their grandmother's time. Get in the game now and play it. Well, they are voters, and perhaps too often are the real bread winners of the family. Why should they stand back and expect some gallant knight to get a hat for them? They just don't do it, but get in and get their share on their own hook.

All dry goods men responded liberally with sky pieces. Of course none of them were expensive hats. It would have been foolhardy to have thrown very costly hats into that scrambling crowd. A stiff hat would have looked like Ned of the First Reader when they finally got through with it. Then, too, hats were given to be thrown off the building that could be adjusted to different size heads owing to the fact that no exchanges were to be made. Exchange was allowed last year, and several hats were kinder disappated in the scramble, which in some cases left the merchant with a torn hat on his hands, and the fellow with a good free hat.

Saturday the writer, together with W. A. Bell, went into the office of Dr. George Washington Graves where he could view the whole performance with as little damage to ourselves as possible. However, we turned over an electrical outfit up there that might have cost us a pretty penny if it had not been well made. It did not break, and George forgave us.

W. E. Legg and Ralph Bynum were the chief performers. W. E. made the address in which he told the milling crowd below how much the merchants here appreciated their trade and their coming to this city, after which, the hats began to fall the solid below, and the fun started. Many of the merchants left their stores for a while to see the fun. Thus another official hat day in Brownfield passed into history.

We talked with several merchants, and most of them said they sold very few hats that afternoon, but it looked like it might rain before night. Yet they will sell them as soon as old sol gets a little fiercer, and those who were in the scramble Saturday but failed to get a hat will buy them eventually from the home merchants in Brownfield.

Men Missing From the Crowd Here Saturday

The ladies and children were here Saturday, and were trading freely with our merchants. In fact the grocery, dry goods and department stores were real busy all afternoon and most of the forenoon, but it was noticeable that most of the shoppers were ladies. What has become of all the men was a question asked frequently Saturday. Well, to our notion, they were in the fields, planting corn, maize or sorghum.

Of course it was rather wet all over the county, and especially north of here where regular gully washers had fallen forenoon Saturday, but in some portions of the county, one could have planted in the sandier soils, and we have a fool notion that lots of men were running plowshares Saturday afternoon, and sent the wife and children to town to buy the cookables for this week.

Showers have continued to fall over most of the county since the big rains of Monday and Tuesday last week, with two big ones that filled the barpits and overflowed the roads in the Meadow section. Those who went to Seagraves Sunday reported the slickest roads in that section they ever saw. One party told us that Sunday morning water was standing in lakes over some of the sandiest fields in that section and around Wellman in this county.

There never was a better season at the time of year than right now, and the prospects of a bumper crop is expected over the entire south Plains section.

Joe Enly Selling Lots Of Fine Cane Seed

Joe Enly of the Challis community was in Monday trying to trade the Herald some cane seed for subscription, but we didn't let him put it by on us as he failed to guarantee we could pop it like pop corn, and that would be all the use we could put it to. So we advised Joe to sell it to some fellow that had some land and some cows and horses to feed, and then pay his subscription in the regular way. He left, but we heard no more from him.

We asked him why he didn't go over in the dry belt and sell his seed. They haven't got the money to pay for them, says Joe. I've been over there. They want them, but just can't pay cash and Joe didn't talk like he wanted a lot of little accounts scattered over that section.

Joe says he planted 50 acres in cane last year and headed and threshed about half the acreage, which netted him some 1000 pounds per acre. So if we are able to figure at all, Joe had on hand at one time some 25,000 pounds of cane seed.

Woman's place was in the home, but don't waste too much valuable time trying to find her there.

Dietrich Proves Versatility in 3rd Film Role

Intriguing Actress Gives Free Reign To Amazing Characterization in "Dishonored"

Marlene Dietrich's gift for portrayal, marvelous to watch, almost uncanny to realize, is given free reign in her latest motion picture appearance, in "Dishonored," the Rialto theatre attraction for the first part of the week, in which she is costarred with Victor McLaglen, whose own talents, displayed in "What Price Glory?" and "The Cook-Eyed World," have given him a great American moving picture following.

"Dishonored," the real dramatic romance of one of the world's most intriguing women, an international secret service agent of wartime fame, requires of Dietrich almost constant change of character, of personality, throughout its action. Presented first as the bitter and discouraged woman of the Vienna slums, she blossoms forth as the magnet of Vienna's drawing rooms and cafes. Her character changes again, and she is seen as a Russian peasant woman, giggling and coy before the advances of the gay officers of the general staff. Indifference, scorn, uncertainty, alertness succeed each other quickly in her attitudes.

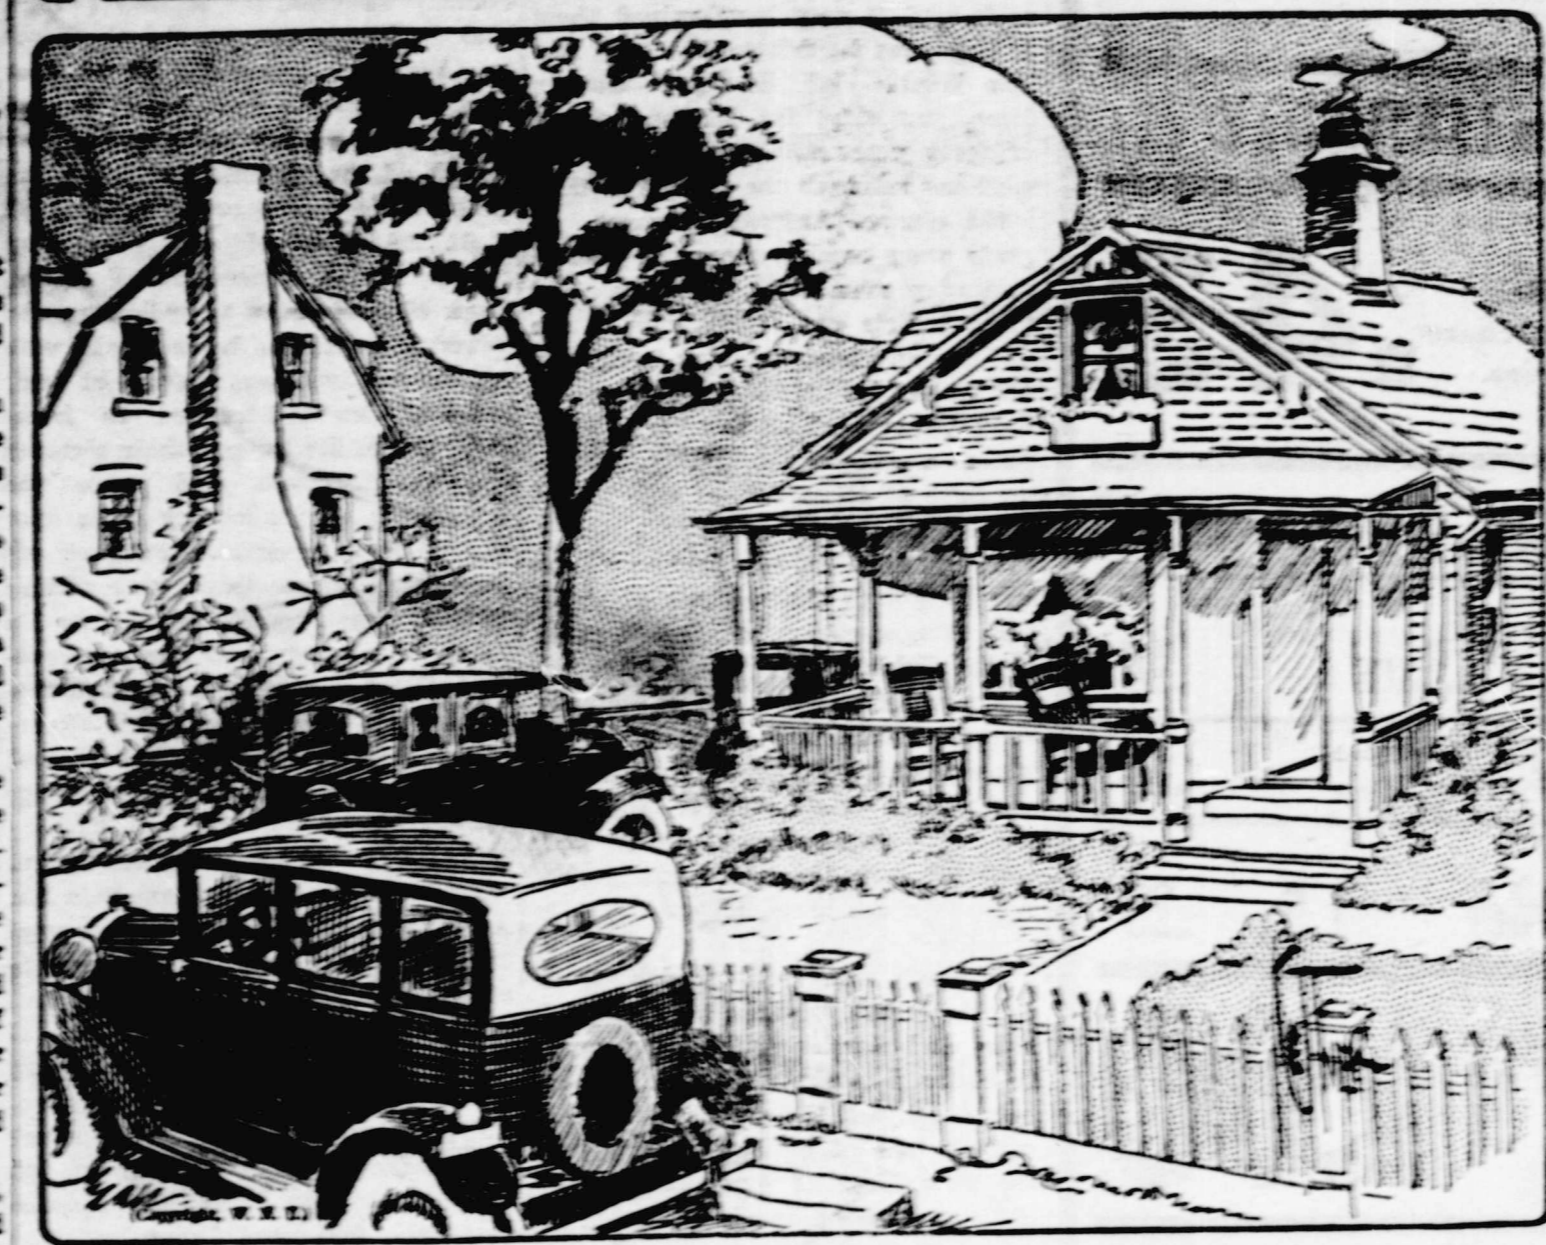

"Dishonored" traces the remarkable career of a woman, having little interest in life itself, who dedicates her life to her country, and, as a spy, pursues her country's enemies in high places. Her ruthlessness in pursuit brings her up against a rival, McLaglen, a tricky, handsome young officer, who scorns her woman's intelligence but succumbs to her feminine charm. In spite of herself, in the game of hide and seek they play over half of Europe, Dietrich is drawn under the influence of this strange lover—until, in the dramatic climax of the picture, she admits defeat and accepts a new victory.

F. G. Bourland Will Frame Your Pictures

Mr. F. G. Bourland and wife landed in Brownfield last November to make this their home. Mr. Bourland had been suffering with asthma for several years, and had always wanted to come here, he kept thinking he would get better down there, so last fall he cut the bridges and came on after renting out their home. He is well acquainted with Judge Price and Bruce Knight.

Mr. Bourland is a carpenter and contractor by trade, but is unable any more to follow his trade, but has recovered sufficiently to do light work, such as framing pictures, sharpening tools, etc., and his prices are reasonable and his work guaranteed to please you. He remarked that he had not had a bad spell since he came here. Note his ad under professional card.

Mother's Day

Rotarians and Anns Banquet Friday Night

A great time was had last Friday night around the banquet boards at the Hancock Cafe, when the Rotarians and their wives met there in celebration of their semi-annual gathering together with the Rotary-Anns, as has been their custom. Places were found by a little hunting, or rather by following a bit of decorating tissue to your place, where you found your name on which was tied a bit of Life-Savers in case you gorged your stomach. Well, the eats were fine and well cooked, so the Life-Savers were not needed. The cooks as well as the decorators did a fine job of it.

After the meal was over, Mrs. Bob Bowers took charge of the program, and each person, guests and all were called upon to do what the little strip along with your name said. All made a stab at it, but being caught unaware, it was rather trying on the most of us. The next contest was to blow up a balloon sausage. It was a close contest between Mrs. Dick McDuffie and Mrs. Homer Nelson, the latter winning. Many bursted to the accompaniment of the screams of the ladies. A package of sticks was passed that most of us took to be candy which turned out to be chewing gum, which so filled our mouths that we had to spit it out to make our talks.

Winding up the program, Homer Nelson was installed president by the retiring president, Dick McDuffie, and Mrs. Nelson was crowned queen of the Anns by Mrs. Bowers.

Red and White Stores Open With Big Days

To say the Red and White stores here, Chisholm Bros., and Hudgens & Knight were well pleased with their opening as Red and White stores, would be putting it mildly. They were pleased, surprised, elated. Pleased with the quick response, surprised at the volume of trade and elated over the reception their customers gave their opening date. As early as Friday afternoon, when the Herald had gone into the homes of the city and nearby people on the routes, every clerk at both places were rushed from then until closing, and Saturday afternoon they were almost swamped.

There was plenty bargains for their customers, even better than usual, and a good lot of them were here and took advantage of them. In conversation with the managers of both places, they expressed thanks to their trade for making their opening day the red letter day of their business career. They ask that you watch their space for all future grocery announcements.

WATCH FOR THIS CROOK

Restaurants, hotels and confectioneries are warned to be on the lookout for this swindler. Food and drug inspectors of the state health department do not charge for nor issue grade cards.—Big Spring News.

Write on One Side—Must Know the Writer

We had a communication last week from a neighborhood in Terry county that was well written and very interesting. But it violated three rules of any printing office and therefore had to be rejected. We have written time after time just what we expected of our community correspondents. On top of this, we have just as many times copied articles from other papers until we had hoped that we had about educated our people into what was required. But we want to give our rules just once more.

The writer of the above was late. This necessarily rejected the letter last week, and it was of no especial news value this week. In the second place, it was written on both sides of the paper. Linotype operators only look at one side of paper, and when that is finished it is hung on his copy hook. Therefore part of your letter will be left out nine chances to one. But this can kinder be overlooked. In the third place, he or she failed to sign any name, real or fictitious. We require both: your real name for purpose of identity and good faith only and will not be signed unless you want it. An assumed name may be used to articles if we know your real name.

Lots of time correspondents have said things in their items that have caused the paper to get in bad with readers in that community, and not knowing the name of the writer, they had to assume all responsibility of the item appearing in their paper. The paper that practices such sooner or later has trouble or a law suit on their hands.

It is better unless you know a person very, very well to refrain from joking them, especially in public print. What they may take in the best of spirits personally may go against the grain in print. Then, too, they are not prepared to catch your intonations, your smile or wink in print, and may misconstrue an effort to joke as an effort on your part to get even with them. The editor indulges occasionally in joking in these columns, but we are pretty sure of our man and how he will take it.

Don't misunderstand us. We appreciate our fine lot of country correspondents. They are filling a place in the makeup of the Herald that cannot be filled without them. They are making the paper appreciated throughout the length and breadth of the county. We want them, surely, but we have a few simple rules that are not hard to comply with, and we insist that they be observed. WE CANNOT USE NEWS IN THESE COLUMNS AFTER WEDNESDAY NOON EACH WEEK. Get it here before that time to insure publicity.

TO MY FRIENDS

I take this means of thanking the Sheriff's Dept., also the city officers in helping me locate my car that was driven from the streets of Brownfield Saturday night. Also my neighbors for the use of their cars while mine was at large. I hope I may be able to return the favor to each of you, but not, I trust, in the same manner.

Sincerely,
L. L. Beck.

We Are Off of Poetry—Pretty Near, Anyway

We almost always try to finish everything we start out to do. But sometimes we don't especially if the ladies get in after us. This week you will find in this journal two criticisms, both from lady editors. One from the Southwest Plainman, of Amarillo, and the other from the Youkum County Review, Plains. When the ladies get in after you with their sharpened shafts, it's time to crawl in bed and pull the blankets over you. We're not pointing, however, just vacating our efforts toward being a Longpoet.

As long as the men folks were after us we felt that we could hold our own, but a woman will have the last word and in order to save words we just "unlazed" and threw our pen under the woodpile. We'll write poetry against any Arkansas preacher that ever existed, but we have too much sense and too much respect for the ladies to start an argument with them.

Besides that, we just ain't in the right humor some way to elucidate much this week. True, everything is lovely. Fine rains have visited. Farmers are farming, the fairymen are milking, hen are cackling, eggs are hatching, and the birds are twittering as of yore. But we have had so many backfires lately that we are all snort to pieces over when to expect spring—if any. If we were to venture any poetry at all, it would be of some sad timbre such as for instance:

"The melancholly day are here, the saddest of the year,
It was midnight on the ocean and a storm was on the deep—quote the raven."

Boy, you talk about seeing red; our favorite now is black, very black as concerns spring poetry. Is there no help, no sympathy for a broken soured poet?

Rev. May Appreciates Herald at Mercedes

Dear Friend Jack: The Herald has at last found where we live and is a welcome weekly visitor to our home. Really, it is just like getting a letter from home, to get the Herald each week. However, we hope you will soon cease to have so many tragedies to report, and deaths of good citizens there.

We are liking the "Magic Valley" better all of the time. These people sure know how to make a fellow and his family feel welcome, whether he is a prospective land buyer or not. Then with this fruit, and all of the vegetables grown here, we are assured of a living. Might say that the church gave us a shower soon after we came here, of groceries enough to go with the fruit and vegetables, to feed us for a good while.

Our church work is moving along in an encouraging way too. We have had thirty-six additions in the two months, an increase in attendance at all of the services.

Sincerely,
E. V. May.

MANY RESPONSES TO OUR REQUEST FOR MARKER

Terry and Youkum County Folks, as Well as Some Outdoorsmen Send in Addresses to Us. Shows the Herald is a Well Read Paper. Be Sure to Preserve Address.

The people of Terry county responded nobly to our request for chicken markers or brands last week. Before the ink had hardly become cold on the paper, Dr. G. W. Graves had phoned in where to get the instruments. Then that afternoon late, G. N. Couchman phoned in from the South side of the county. So we have plenty of information for Mr. Snicker and others this week, if he or they have not found out from others.

We find that most of our readers who responded for the request that they can be obtained from the Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman, Oklahoma City. So don't lose this address, for you do not know how soon it will be until you may need one. In conversation Saturday with farmers from various parts of the county, we find that thieves are not entirely confining their depredations to chickens, but are taking things from plow tools that can be carried away easily, as well as cottonseed and such like. We hope a lot of these undesirable will be apprehended before the next term of court and sent over the road where they belong. Such cattle don't belong with civilized, law abiding people.

Mrs. Kelly Sears sent in some advertising matter from the Farmer-Stockman also, as well as a Chicago address. But one can obtain them just as well from Oklahoma City, and get them here much sooner. According to her husband, who brought the matter to the Herald office, it is a kind of instrument that takes numbers into the wing of the small birds, when it is reinked with indelible ink and is ready for another bird. He says it doesn't take long to mark an entire flock. He has one, and has his numbers registered with the county clerk. From he as well as others, we find that a reward is offered for chickens found stolen that has been branded, by the manufacturers of this instrument. For the sum of $2.50 one can get a marker and enough ink to mark 500 chickens.

Miss Jean Harvey, of route 4 brought in one of her papers she had finished reading with a lot of advertising of this marker, as well as the recommendations of people who were using it. Also some information about the screen or alarm that can now be purchased and put up in the hen house. When a thief touches any of the wiring about the place, it sets off this screen, and alarms the family. We understand that a protective association is also behind this instrument to pay for losses. The picture shows this alarm which is very much like those on an automobile in set off when the chicken house door is opened.

From Youkum county, we had a letter from Mrs. S. J. Hinkle. She incloses a clipping about the alarm, and informs us that the markers can also be obtained from the Farmer-Stockman. She closes by saying the whole family looks forward eagerly each week to the Herald. It is a dandy paper, she says, and is thoroughly read in their home.

G. W. Alexander from South Terry was in Monday and brought the address of the same paper where the markers can be purchased. He intimated that he might take the agency in his community for them and buy in large quantities to be distributed among his neighbors.

There is a law now or the statute books that makes chicken thievery a felony, and this law should be allowed to take its course when one is brought to the seat of justice. In a few instances, however, we have noted lately that there has been some crooked produce men. One such was caught at Floydala with a lot of chickens from Dickens county. He should be given the firm, as it is said that it can be proven that he conspired with the other thieves to bring birds to him. But we just don't believe we have any crooked produce men in Brownfield. But you don't know where your birds will be sold.

Fire Dept. Called to Put Out a Shirt

Just before most of our people were ready for bed Friday night last, or a few others were perhaps settling down over their evening paper, the fire siren rang or sang whatever you want to call it, and coming in that time of night, most people went to the fire as they were pretty sure it was not a practice alarm. It was found to be in the jail ward on the third floor of the courthouse.

It seems that a prisoner being held here for another county, had gotten lonesome, scared or sick and failing to attract any attention he put fire to his shirt, some say his bed blanket and hung it out of the jail window to attract attention! The flames were quickly subdued and the prisoner put in his cell.

Some think the prisoner lacks some in the upper story, perhaps was the main trouble.

Lubbock Libel Case Set For This Week

Hearing of motions for the $200,000 libel action of Fred Spikes against the Capitol Syndicate, J. Everett Haley, et al. is to be started in 99th district court Monday, according to plans completed last week. "The case will probably be ready for a jury the following week and I hope that we can start securing a jury, May 11," Judge Clark Sullivan presiding judge, said.

The case is the first of five for the county, each for the same amount, by members of the Spikes family, over the publication of a book written by Haley for the trustees of the syndicate. The book was "History of the XII Ranch," and it related the story of that organization.—Lubbock Avalanche.

W. P. CLARK PASSES TUESDAY

Mr. W. P. Clark, aged 75, of the Tokio community, passed away Tuesday afternoon. His death, we understand has been expected for some time, and was therefore a lesser shock to his immediate family. The remains were brought to the Methodist church here Wednesday morning and funeral services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. C. H. Curry, following which were held at the Brownfield cemetery.

Feeders Meeting at Big Spring Today

Announcement is made by J. M. Jones, Chief, Division of Range Animal Husbandry, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, that a "Livestock Field Day" will be held at the U. S. Dry Land Experiment Station at Big Spring, Friday, May 8th, beginning at 9:30 A. M. for the inspection of three lots of yearling steers, which have been on feed during a period of 140 days. One lot has received a ration of ground milo heads, cottonseed meal, and cane fodder and alfalfa hay; and the third lot has received ground milo heads, cottonseed meal, cottonseed hulls, and alfalfa hay.

Beginning at one o'clock, the program will include a statement of the feed lot performance of the three lots of cattle, as well as some brief discussions upon the subject of beef cattle feeding by livestock specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and Texas A. & M. College, and by prominent citizens.

During the forenoon, the 4-H club members of Howard County will display the calves and make reports on the feeding work they have conducted during the past several months. In addition, a meat cutting demonstration will be given by Mr. Roy W. Snyder, meat specialist, Texas A. & M. College Extension Service and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This demonstration should be of special interest to housewives and meat dealers.

Local Boys in Jail On Car Theft Charge

County Commissioner L. L. Brock drove into the city Saturday afternoon, and parked near the postoffice, and when he went to look for it, it had disappeared. Officers were at once notified and it was found down near Wellman where it had been abandoned.

Three local boys were arrested Sunday morning charged with the offense, and are now in jail here where they will await the action of the coming grand jury, unless bailed out by friends.

The portion of the country is taking on the habits and the weather of East Texas. We are now treated to two or three showers every twenty four hours. They say it is not good form to talk and write about the weather but it is quite a lively topic just now. In fact it is pretty much the most distinguishing feature of the otherwise hum drum life we have been leading the past few months.

The frogs have also emigrated to these parts. Just when they came I can't say. It may have rained then or they may be related to Old Rip Van Winkle of Eastland County fame, just slept for the past thirty of forty years and the recent wet spell has softened the ground so they could escape. Anyway swarms of gnats were coming from the ground yesterday even and if gnats and other insects can rendezvous in the soil for an interminable time, why not frogs? Its refreshing to see the East Texas part of our population put on a smile at the nightly concerts we have of these tailless web footed amphibians.

Pretty soon the idle farmer will be wrestling with the myriads of weeds that is now giving a tinge of green to the fields. I would be glad to see this gang of men and boys once more wrestling with the plow and hoe wiping the sweat from their brow with finger or shirt sleeve, fulfilling the curse or more truthfully the promise "That in the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread all the days of thy life."

If every man had a job there would be less lawlessness, fewer suicides and murder and robbery would be reduced to the minimum. The so-called Communism would not be so much talked of in the large cities of the East. None of us want communism but we have an abundance of its twin evil Capitalism. Personally one is quite as undesirable and hateful, hurtful and unnecessary as the other.

Just now its the vogue to cuss Russia with its Soviets and Communists. Many undesirable things have happened and will continue to happen over there but it transpires that the Eastern manufacturer and speculator is afraid that the markets will in a few years, be largely in the hands of these people. Our government continues to refuse them recognition and try to ignore their stupendous efforts to enter the industrial field, but they just keep on making hay while this and other countries continue to snarl at them. This will get them nowhere.

Over there travelers tell us that every man has a job. There is no unemployment, this is really phenomenal. For none of the countries of Europe—not even France was shattered by war as was Russia. Every semblance of government as we understand it was wiped out, the slaughter of citizens to the higher classes as in Russia.

Living in a land where there is religious freedom and where religion plays such a conspicuous part in our daily lives, we can but frown on the efforts of that country to set up by force a civilization in which God is mocked. I do not regard the driving from power and place the old Medieval Greek Church as hurtful but the enthronement of so-called Reason by force is wrong. Sooner or later this propaganda will have to be met in all countries and bayonets will not meet it. On the other hand could we not reform our own so that the under dog will have at least a fighting chance in the race for life. Men are coming to regard labor saving machinery as the principal cause of unemployment. It is doubtless true that it has much to do with it. How will we remedy it. The problem will call for the best brains of the country.

"At time there was when Englands griefs began. When every rod of ground maintained its man. His best companion, innocent and health. And his best riches, ignorance of wealth."

There was such time here but it is no longer true here as in England of the Eighteenth Century.

The infant boy of Jake Beall died rather suddenly Friday morning. It was only a few days old. This makes three deaths of infants in this community the past month.

While I have kept no account of deaths in the county it appears to me that we have had more deaths in the past eight months than the two previous years. The aged have suffered worse in this respect than other periods of life.

The Seniors and Juniors of our public school gave a Banquet Friday night at the School building. For fifty cents I secured an invitation to be on hand. The spread was excellent and the talks were entertaining and instructive.

Sunday morning the Seniors raised a flag over the building which the Juniors proceeded to take down and tail to a car. This brought on a struggle in which both sides wallowed each other in the mud and water to their hearts content. "Lay on McDuff and damned be he or she who first cries hold enough."

BACK TO THE SMALL TOWN

(An editorial from The Rotarian)

That cheerful spokesman of small town life called the country newspaper has of late been receiving some warm commendation at the hands of Sherwood Anderson, the novelist, words which may be applied with equal pertinency to any business institution which stoutly resists the depersonalizing stamp of the machines.

It will be recalled that about three years ago, Mr. Anderson bought two country weeklies, the Marion (Virginia) Democrat and the Smyth County (Virginia) News, and in association with his son has been having the time of his life as he weaves the wealth of his personality into the fabric of town and countryside.

At the outset of his newspaper career, Mr. Anderson did all of the work himself, even to collecting the advertisements. As he mingled with his fellow-townsmen, he caught their point of view and learned to know their needs. He hung artistic pictures on his office walls and made the newspaper shop a cheery place for groups to congregate. Acting on his suggestion, a lot used as a village "dump" was transformed into a place of greenery and happy recreation. Citizens named the park "Sherwood Park" in token of their appreciation of this stranger who showed them in what favored surroundings they lived and worked.

So successful and invigorating has been his newspaper venture that Mr. Anderson is emboldened to urge talented young men and women to turn their backs on the big cities and to stay by the small towns where their energies and capabilities may have abundant opportunity to flower and develop, and where rewards are not measured in bank balances, but in a genuine joy of friendly associations and full-orbed living.

The preservation of that rich personal equation in community life—all but crowded out in the present era of standardization, is a battle well worth fighting. Mr. Anderson does well to indicate how success may come to a man in any small field he makes his own by reason of his special gifts of personality, and his own blend of enthusiasm, competence, and good cheer.

RAIL RIGHTS

The Burlington is getting tired of motorists knocking their trains around, and when a fellow headed into a freight broadside and knocked three box cars into the ditch near Weeping Water, Nebraska, the railroad brought suit for $239.

Some courts have decided that a train has the right-of-way over its own tracks, but a number of autoists have not yet been convinced of this fact and keep right on bumping trains when they don't get out of the way.—Clarendon Leader.

FORD BRAKES ARE UNUSUALLY EFFECTIVE

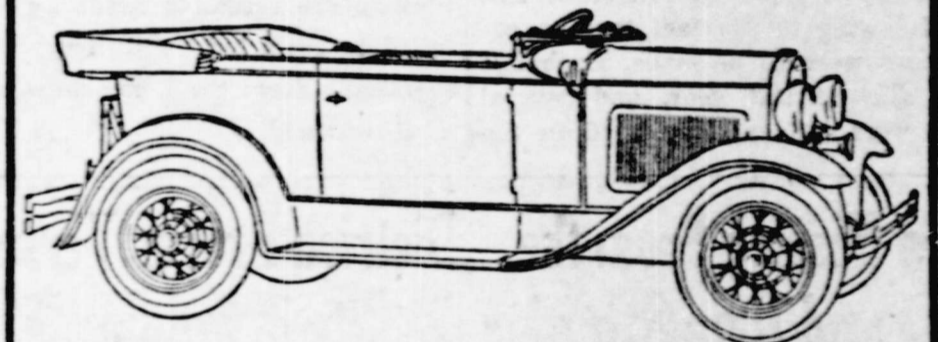

Reliability and safety due to simple design and careful construction

ONE OF the first things you will notice when you drive the Ford is the quick, effective action of its four-wheel brakes.

They are unusually safe and reliable because they are mechanical, internal expanding, with all braking surfaces fully enclosed. This prevents mud, water, sand, etc., from getting between the band and drum and interfering with brake action.

Other outstanding features of the Ford are the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, torque-tube drive, more than twenty ball and roller bearings, Rustless Steel, reliability, economy, and long life.

You save when you buy the Ford and you save every mile you drive.

COUNTRY PRINTER PROTESTS

The Tulia, Texas, Herald of April 9, took exception to a legislative measure proposed in that state to permit the state prison printing plant to file bids for state printing contracts, thereby permitting a tax-created and tax-maintained institution to compete with taxpayers. It said this would be a "dangerous law."

"Private enterprises possibly would not have invested millions and millions of dollars in Texas printing industries had they any reason to expect that the state would use tax dollars to establish competitive printing plants, manned by men who would receive little or nothing for their services. Private enterprises must pay printers and pressmen rather high wages for their services and the private concerns could not hope to compete with the prison plants, as any fair-minded person can see."

There is as much logic and justice in a bill which would permit convict labor to use a state-owned plant to compete with private printers, as there is in the law which now permits the Federal Government to print return addresses on envelopes and sell them at prices which small printers throughout the nation cannot hope to meet.

In either case government property, supported by all the taxpayers, is used in a competitive manner to injure a particular branch of business which is itself taxed to establish or maintain tax-free competition with which it cannot compete. Regardless of all finespun socialistic and political theories, this doctrine is contrary to the fundamentals of our government and should not be tolerated in any form.

It's indeed a good thing that the Texas legislature did not place a tax upon snuff and the Governor did not approve any such bill. Some of those East Texas ladies would have stormed the legislative halls and the governor's mansion had that been done, and would have forced a repeal of the law.

New Mexico tried the tobacco tax law in its efforts to find something new under the sun to tax. But fortunately for the tobacco users this state has the referendum and a petition was filed calling for an election upon the subject. The tax was defeated by an overwhelming majority.

The moral to all this is: Come to New Mexico, Texas tobacco users. Here you cannot have this character of tax placed upon your smokes without giving you the opportunity of voting it down.—Lovington (N. M.) Leader.

"Where is my wandering boy tonight?" people used to sing, but in these times he can usually be depended upon to show up by breakfast time.

Hi-School Happenings

Signs of Spring:

North door of building open.
Space under campus shade trees occupied.
Young hoboes on pilgrimages.
Boys wear slickers instead of overcoats.
More and louder snores in classrooms.
Planting grass.
Mr. Lawlis wears his other suit.

Mr. Toome says that he doesn't mind the students looking at their watches in class, but when they glance at them, wake up with a start, look again, shake the watch and hold it up to their ear to see if it is still running, it gets on his nerves.

Mr. Graham has been contemplating putting a side car on Gillam's lawn mower, so the "operator" won't have to stop so often to talk to Frances.

Mr. Lawlis recently stated that a certain student in Biology had been writing notes in class, copying experiments, bluffing at answers and not studying. After class twenty-three students went up to apologize.

When the track team went to the district meet at Lubbock, Coach Hayhurst woke up and heard Lewis Parker moaning, "backward turn backward, O time in you first. Put me in Brownfield just for tonight." We wonder why.

One of the most pathetic sights the writer has witnessed recently is Gordon Yates attempt to prove his loyalty to the school. If you don't recognize him by his cognomen he is the guy that walks with a gangster swagger, wears his belt and hat on the side in true Ethiopian fashion, his nose mashed in, wears the Big Spring Steer coat and strives to sing love songs in his rich bass monotone.

A strange malady seemed to affect some of the boys last week-end. They went around with an expression which seemed to say: "My sorrow is more than I can bear". Finally some of us cornered R. L. and Tight and asked them what was wrong. They said: "Why don't you know? The girls have gone to some kind of home Economics convention at Lubbock, and won't be home till Saturday.

Elder Vance came in Tuesday from Crosbyton, to conduct the meeting at the Church of Christ. He was to have arrived Monday but on account of heavy rains in the Meadow and Ropes sections, he could not get here. He came on the train Tuesday.

Mrs. A. L. Burnett underwent a major operation at the Lubbock Sanitarium last week. We understand that she is doing as nicely as could be expected.

Mrs. B. F. Condra was shopping in the city Saturday.

Harmony Happenings

Bro. Richards preached a very uplifting sermon Sunday morning. There was a good attendance at both Sunday school and preaching. Next Sunday is Mother's Day. The Sunday school classes will render a program, so everyone come and bring your dinner.

Mrs. J. W. Carroll returned home Thursday from Houston and other points where she had been visiting for two weeks. She reports a very enjoyable trip.

Mrs. Leo Campbell was visited by her mother, Mrs. Gragg and a cousin from Shamrock last week. We have this from our poet this week.

We see that our editor has mentioned us as a competitor, which is now the cause of us coming back again. So here we are:

I do not for any laurels wish to compete,
Nor, strive, a composer of rhyme to defeat.

For we know we are not a Shakespeare,
Nor do we wish to seem, to so appear.

And would not pluck a flower from the grave,
Of one who to the world so much gave.

But should we come near his silent tomb;
While the roses are sweetly in bloom;

And catch their fragrance from the scented air,
And as we go, scatter its sweetness somewhere.

Touching some soul and making it sublime,
He to giving you thought in beautiful rhyme.

This we feel that we have now already done:
As other poets now into the field has come.

Telling us of accents, stanzas, phrases and bars,
But our method we know is easier by far.

What do we care for bars, phrases and stanzas or accents,
When we are full, we have no time for measurements:

For if we should stop to meter out a line,
Our sweetest thought might escape our mind.

Thereby, losing all the sweetness of our rhyme,
So just let her flow in the easy way, we find.

And too, we see a poet from the hills of Arkansas,
Is now vying with our editor so we'll withdraw.

Leaving the poetical battle with them,
Wondering who the greatest will win.

HAS THE LOST HERD BEEN FOUND?

Not long ago some of the daily papers of the State carried an item regarding the finding of a great cave containing many acres on the Texas-Mexican border by an East Texas man who was searching for a lost silver mine. As the report went this great cave was literally covered with the bones of cattle, and that the man bought out a pair of steer horns measuring eight feet from tip to tip. Many believe that in the finding of this cave and the great sea of cattle bones a great mystery has been solved.

Whether it is a fact or not we dare not say, but it has long been a part of the early history that a herd of five thousand cattle disappeared mysteriously in that region long before Texas was a State. As the story goes, in 1812 a man named John Loner was driving his herd of five thousand cattle to the Mexican border, and one night following a great storm of wind, rain and snow, the cattle became stampeded and were never seen or heard of again, though long and diligent search was made for them. The opinion has been advanced since the late find that the cattle wandered into this cave and died, and that the bones were of this lost herd.—Exchange.

DOUGLAS LETTERS IN OLD BARN

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Discovery in a barn of more than 20,000 letters to and from Stephen A. Douglas was announced by George Felt Milton April 24, the one hundred eighteenth anniversary of Douglas' birth.

Mr. Milton, editor of the Chattanooga News, who is engaged in writing a biography of Douglas, said the correspondence indicated that had the Illinois statesman been elected President in 1860 instead of Abraham Lincoln "the Civil War would have been postponed and possibly altogether averted."

REFORMING THE WORLD

Some time since the writer was seized with the idea that he ought to do something toward reforming the world, and for a time was as bold in the work as Don Quixote. While reading a daily paper I found on account of a man who was drunk shooting and killing a useful citizen who was quietly eating his lunch in a cafe in one of our cities. Here was the text for a powerful sermon on the evils of drunkenness, and I longed for words and thoughts that I might say. But I continued to read, and in the next column found a story on how two men had had a difference over a school trustee election and one had killed the other. These men were not drunk—they were just mad—mean mad. Here was food for a story on the evils of uncontrolled temper, and I craved words that I might persuade men to never again let their angry passions rise. But I read on, and the same paper was an account of a Kentucky youth killing his grandfather and himself. This youth was not drunk, neither was he mad, he was just a fool. And on the same page I read that a young man had killed another young man for no other reason than that the latter had spoiled the former's sister. Here I gave up the work of reform. If the reader to story killings, I must warn all men not to marry any other man's sister, then paint such an ugly picture for those columns on the evils of intoxicants that no reader would ever get drunk. Some other fellow may have the job of reforming the world.—Jim Lowrey.

Not satisfied with pilfering just about all the good offices in the U. S. A., the GOP of Spain have recently voted our good Democratic friend, Alfonso Burbon, and made him leave the country. The Republicans beat us voting over here too, but we hang on just the same, expecting better luck next time. The Republicans are persistent winners and we poor but honest Democrats are persistent losers, but we never lose heart. We always think we are going to win next time. Just so over there. The Alfonso family, we understand, only took a few grips and a light trunk or two with them, leaving all the heavy furniture, as he like we American Democrats, expects the next election to go his way.

A John Hopkins university professor says the only way to stop malaria in the south is to fight it by foods rich in vitamin G., such as yeast, eggs, lean meats and milk. In sections of the south where this disease is prevalent, the people have been living for ages on foods not conducive to a battle against this disease, but like their ancestors have accepted the foods of their fathers, or the ones most plentiful and easily obtained. Fat bacon, beans, potatoes, sorghum molasses and corn pone were considered fattening and strengthening, and if good enough for pa was good enough for son. Of course most people kept one cow and a few hens, but the cow was generally "dry" half the year and no effort was made to get winter eggs. If they did get eggs, they were too high to eat and were traded for "koffie."

The weather was quite warm Tuesday afternoon, and we strolled out the back way where some mesquite bushes grow, and oozed down among them unseen to other people who might be about, for we were looking for buds or leaves. Boy! they were there—lots of buds and a few leaves out a good piece. We clipped one with the old barlow and brought it into the office to show the boys. All rejoiced—spring was actually here! Who had ever heard of them getting it in the neck? Arne't they the only native scrubs here except shinery and catchaw? Don't you suppose they know when to come out safely in the Spring? We kinder got poetical but held our fire as we couldn't see the sights of the weatherman's eyes, very well. Good thing too. A cold wind whistled in from the northeast Wednesday morning. We lit our stove again and wished we had of had sense enough not to throw our old fur hat into that crowd Saturday.

The "Short Steeple" fellows got all over this editor after the Herald came out last week about an article in there that advised the people to raise a better staple. We had to tell a half dozen or more that we were not responsible for the article. However, we have a personal opinion about the matter, and that personal opinion is that people are going to have to raise better staple cotton here or quit the business, as there is going to be no demand for any kind of cotton under 15-16 inch long. The Herald has no seed of any kind to sell; we are in the newspaper business only. We don't even have any special kind to recommend to farmers, for we hardly know one kind from another. It has been about 23 years since we raised any of the weed, and in those days it was just mostly cotton. Folks had just begun to talk Russell, Rowden and Mebane when we quit farming. But we can see by the papers that the world has a big supply of untenderable cotton already on hand.

Pessimism Pete says that every fellow lowdown enough to steal his neighbor's milk from his porch ought to be forced to drink with the other hogs for a few weeks. On second thought, he opines that would be mighty hard on the hogs.—Snyder Times.

With only two cities in Texas under 100,000 inhabitants, with two daily papers under different ownerships, it is a pertinent commentary in economics. There is no more need for two newspapers in small towns than there is a need for two electric light plants, two gas systems or two water systems. It may be possible for two to exit, but there is no question but that it costs more in the long run, and no good purpose is served as far as the general public is concerned.—McLean News.

Rain, rain, how it rains! All because of the Brownfield Herald's man's poetry we fear. If he would only let up long enough for us to make it over to Brownfield we would gladly make the number of cigars "SIX" in order to stop this tinkering with the weather man's business. If the unpleasantness of conditions were confined to Terry County alone we would feel like it was no affair of ours, but since Yoakum continues to suffer also we beseech our readers to help us make the number "SIX" lest a greater plague befall us. Yours for better weather conditions.—Plains Review.

The Abilene Reporter-News criticise the city commission of Abilene in a recent issue for devoting so much time to consideration of whether or not fishing is to be permitted in the city lakes, when there are other more important matters needing attention. The Reporter should remember that about this time of year fishing is considered by some to be the most important thing in the world. If Abilene has elected a commission of fishermen she had better turn in and elect another bunch to attend to the business of the city, for enthusiastic fishermen are usually very busy with private affairs during the fishing season.—Rotan Advance.

Another perfectly good editor has gone hay-wire! Not content with pulling down upon the Plains country the severest spring freeze experienced in history, A. J. Stricklin, who publishes the Brownfield Herald and is old enough and has lived here long enough to know better, which resulted in another freeze. Something ought to be done for the "soul" of that man, since he contends that it is his soul that causes him to burst into these poetic effusions which have raised hob with our spring weather. We were getting along pretty well up to last Friday when the Herald came out. Now we can't tell what may happen. This whole week has been cold and cloudy and disagreeable and Stricklin's come on to Gentle Spring sure fell flat with that lady.

In an effort at rehabilitation following the depression that has had the entire country in its grasp, many of the state legislatures have recently enacted tax laws designed to protect products which their citizens produce in excess of home consumption but which are likely to add to the economic ills from which the people are suffering. States like Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas, finding their markets curtailed by reason of the retaliatory tariffs of the European import countries, have sought to "get even" by placing prohibitive taxes on products that compete with their own. For many years past, the manufacturer of cottonseed oil has provided the southern cotton grower with a market for his cottonseed but in trying to protect hog lard from the competition of the cooking compounds, these states have already tax on the vegetable shortening. The south has always been a heavy consumer of hog lard; suppose it should retaliate by putting a confiscatory tax on that commodity, forcing its citizens to use its home-grown product instead? Southern farmers have grossly neglected cattle raising and dairying, preferring to grow cotton exclusively and buy their beef, lard, butter, cheese, etc., from the northern states. All of these things can be produced in the south—are being produced more and more under the direction of the extension workers—and farmers who produce them, doubtless find their markets cut off at times by reason of the supplies imported from the north. Possibly, it might be a good thing for the south, in some ways, to impose such a heavy tax on grain and hay, beef and lamb, butter and cheese and would compel its own farmers to give more of their acreage to the production of feed and food and less to cotton but would it be a wise thing to do? The framers of our Constitution did their best to insure absolute freedom of trade between the states but such measures, if indulged in by east against west, north against south, would defeat this purpose and bring about a condition of economic isolation with the people living as far as possible, on home-grown substitutes for articles that had previously been bought in another state. Such consequences may seem somewhat far-fetched but once started, who can tell where a tariff war among the states might end?—Southwest Plainsman.

LEARNING FROM CHAIN STORES

Chain stores have taught independent merchants the necessity of budgeting newspaper advertising throughout the year and other modern methods of merchandising, according to W. L. Brintnall, the proprietor of a store at Marshalltown, Iowa, that has doubled its business in ten years in face of chain competition.

"Many an old-time merchant," Mr. Brintnall writes in the May "Rotarian," "came down to his store in the morning and suddenly decided to run an advertisement that day. About twenty minutes would be spent in listing merchandises and another twenty or thirty would be devoted to writing the advertisement.

"This was then sent posthaste to the newspaper. Sometimes these advertisements were fortunate enough to sell merchandise. Generally the newspaper was blamed because the advertisement failed to pull. The progressive independent merchant took a big step in the right direction when he learned to appropriate his advertising budget for the entire year."

Chain-store methods and competition have also taught the independent merchant that he bought too much and not often enough. Small purchases reduce the investment and interest charges, and cut down on the soiled and obsolete goods that used to be left over at the end of the year.

"Chain stores and the income tax," Mr. Brintnall continues, "have probably saved the independent merchants of the United States millions of dollars by literally forcing better methods of accounting. The total of accounts receivable and accounts payable no longer constitutes an accounting system. Nowadays, even a small store can know by sections if not by individual departments the gross margin, expense, and net gain or loss."

Talk On Beautifying The Home Grounds

(Lantern slide talk by J. M. Hannon)

Fifty-eight lantern slides, many of them in natural colors, were used by Mr. J. M. Hannon in his talk on "Beautifying the Home Grounds."

These slides illustrated, among other things, the good and bad methods of landscaping. Several of them showed foundation and border planting always used by the best landscape gardeners. Foundation planting are composed of flowers or shrubbery so placed as to screen the unsightly foundation of buildings. Border planting, as the name indicates, are plants placed along the borders of walks or driveways.

The slides graphically brought out the beauty of placing trees and shrubbery along the edges of the grounds, walks and drives and leaving the lawns open. Open lawns, Mr. Hannon explained, appear larger than those that are covered with trees or shrubbery.

Some of the slides illustrated the pyramid planting of plants, that is, with the highest growing plants in the rear, the next tallest immediately in front of them and the smallest or lowest plants in front.

The slides also illustrated the best methods of planting trees, shrubs, and flowers on the farm, especially along driveways and to screen out buildings, feed lots and other unattractive places.

While the slides were being shown, Mr. Hannon explained the pictures, pointing out the good or bad features of the method of landscaping illustrated.

THE TERRY COUNTY HERALD

WELLMAN

Wellman has been blessed with splendid rains for the past week. Just as the farmers were ready to plant the seeds for their bumper crops, these fine rains came. Now there should be no more talk of "hard times" but more "counting of blessings."

Several met for singing Sunday afternoon but due to the threatening weather the pianists were not there so there was no singing. Let's remember singing third Sunday afternoon.

There was not any B. Y. P. U. services Sunday evening. The B. Y. P. U. carried the play "An Old Fashioned Mother" to Seagraves last Friday night. They hope to carry it to Harmony sometime soon, probably Friday, May 7.

The B. Y. P. U. went on a picnic Saturday evening and regardless of the weather enjoyed a pleasant evening.

"An Old Fashioned Mother," was given at the school house Wednesday night with a good attendance.

The High school students were entertained with a party at the home of Mrs. S. Z. Paul, with Mrs. Paul and Mrs. Wilkins as joint hostesses.

School is progressing nicely now, with pupils working hard on the last lap of the year's work. Some are failing, some are passing as the grown-ups are doing about us every day, and there's no one to blame for this except self.

UNION MAKE-UPS

Well, since it has started raining, it can't stop. We have certainly had a good rain and are kinda wishing it would clear off for a spell.

We are sorry to say L. I. Brock had the misfortune of getting his car stolen Saturday night. His son, Stephen had gone to the show. No trace has yet been found, but we are hoping he will soon find it.

Brownfield boys came out Thursday afternoon and played baseball. The score was 9-8 in their favor. One score isn't much, but they can't do it again.

The school girls beat the outsiders Friday, the score being 18-6. The school boys and old men played after the girls got through. The score was 4-5 in the boys favor.

The old men and boys played again Saturday afternoon. The score was 6-7 in the boys favor again.

Forrester came over Sunday and played ball. The scores were 3-1 in our favor. Who says Union doesn't have ball players!

The Junior S. S. class ended their contest Sunday. Chas. Floyd won first place and received a Testament. Gladys Johnson won second place, and received a pair of beads.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Duke spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Monta Simpson.

Mrs. Owens, teacher of the Junior Sunday school class entertained her pupils in her home Sunday. They all report a lively time.

Ed Thompson was in Monday afternoon and informed us that he had corn, maize and sudan up.

Walls were built last week squaring up the Chisholm Bros., building. We believe it looks better.

Claud Allen said the words that made them one, at his residence. The happy young couple will make this their home, and both, we understand will be employed at the Taylor Cafe.

I. T. GEORGE PASSES SUNDAY MORNING

I. T. George, age 77, after a lingering illness of over four months, died at his home Sunday morning at 8:30.

The writer having known Mr. George now going on three years and during that time we have found him to be a man of excellent habit, fine moral character, and sturdy constitution, and he continued to be active in his accustomed pursuits till long past the age which men ordinarily drop out of the rank of workers. To this end there's no doubt this his sunny disposition largely contributed.

He was of the Methodist faith. He was not only faithful to his duty as a member of that church, but just as faithful in believing that it was his duty as a Christian to do the will of the Master.

Besides a devoted wife he leaves six daughters and 4 sons.—Ropes Hustler.

A HEALTH TALK

Dr. Bernice Weldon of Brownfield gave a splendid health talk at the High School Building last Monday afternoon. She was accompanied by the noted evangelist singer, H. M. Goodpaster and family. Bro. Goodpaster spoke shortly on the importance of preparation for future work, after which he sang sweetly "My Mother's Bible" and "Tis Good Night Here Good Morning Over There."

We only wish that more people had been there to hear the worthwhile talks and the songs that were truly sung with the spirit and the understanding.—Plains Review.

ON CIGARET STAMPS

Austin, May 4.—How would the picture of Sam Houston or David Crockett enclosed in a wreath of Texas blue bonnets appear as the pictorial part of the stamp which is to go on your package of cigars after August.

Charlie Lockhart, state treasurer, given the task of designating an emblem, said he felt sure the first stamps would bear the blue bonnet wreath, and that either Sam Houston's or David Crockett's picture would be enclosed in the wreath.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

I will speak in Brownfield from the band stand at the courthouse Saturday evening at 2 o'clock. Subject: "Depression and Crises" upon the farmers and laborers. All are invited to attend.

Rev. A. P. Price.

A Night Game With House of David IX.

Lubbock, May. (Special)—Something unusual in the form of athletic entertainment is in store for the fans of Lubbock and the South Plains when the House of David baseball club from Benton Harbor, Michigan, comes to Lubbock to introduce night baseball to this section Friday night, May 8, at 8:30 o'clock. The House of David team will meet a crack aggregation of Tech college players on the Texas Tech field in the first night baseball game ever played on the Plains.

The House of David team, the most famous travelling club in the world and composed of some of the best semi-professional players outside of organized baseball, carries its own portable lighting plant, representing an investment of $30,000, and capable of illuminating a field so that every detail of the game may be seen as clearly as in daytime. The plant has successfully lighted American and National League parks over the country.

Heading the cast of star players is none other than Grover Cleveland Alexander, major league veteran and hero of more than one World's Series. "Old Pete," with the Dallas club of the Texas League last year, has promised to pitch the game here. He was recently named manager of the House of David club.

Austin, Texas, May.—A House joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution to limit the number of Representatives from any one county to five unless the county shall have a population of more than 500,000 was reported out favorably by the Senate Committee on Constitutional Amendments Tuesday.

The committee also reported favorably a House joint resolution for exemption from taxation of homesteads of the value of $2,000 with an amendment to conform to the Senate's joint resolution exempting values of $5,000.

GOVERNOR'S SALARY OF $12,000 IS FAVORED

Austin, Texas, May.—The Senate passed finally Saturday a joint resolution by Walter Woodul proposing an amendment to the Constitution to authorize a salary of $12,000 for the Governor. The present salary, as fixed by the Constitution, is $4,000. The resolution was adopted without an opposing vote.

Chevrolet

has struck a popular new note in motor-car styling

Chevrolet's famous Six is a fine example of the latest trend in modern design.

Many factors have contributed to the remarkably widespread popularity of the new Chevrolet Six. Among these are smooth performance, low price, matchless economy, exceptional riding ease and driving comfort. But no feature has been more strikingly evident in the enthusiastic public reception of the car than its smart new style.

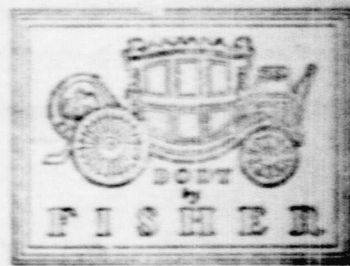

lines, sweeping fenders and massive wire wheels strikingly suggest the car's fitness and power. And the appeal of Chevrolet's beauty is made more pronounced by the fact that all models are available in a variety of colors.

Interiors, too, are unusual in every way. The upholstery is carefully tailored. Seats are roomy, deeply cushioned and invitingly soft. And the interiors are tastefully appointed.

An important factor in Chevrolet's recent appearance is the use of wire wheels and massive chrome-plated hub caps.

Fisher Body craftsmen, with their background of fine-car designing, have made this new Chevrolet an exceptionally attractive automobile. Study it from any angle and you find it extremely pleasing. Look at it from the front and you are impressed by the modish ensemble of deep radiator, large headlamps and arched tie bar—all gleaming in rich chromium plate. Viewed from the side, the long hood, low-swinging body

This machine—built by Fisher—is a symbol of superior body craftsmanship—exclusive with Chevrolet in the United States.

In fact, the new Chevrolet Six is such a thoroughly fine-looking automobile that it has become a very popular choice with every type of buyer. You find it not only the smart family car, but the smart personal car as well—a worthy companion to the expensive automobiles of the two- and three-car household.

MOTHER'S DAY MAY 10TH

The following poem by an unknown author expresses the delightful sentiment of Mother's Day as nothing else can:

Who fed me from her gentle breast
And hushed me in her arms to rest
And on my cheek sweet kisses prest?
My mother.

When sleep forsook my open eye,
Who was it sung sweet lullaby
And rocked me that I should not cry?
My mother.

Who sat and watched my infant head
When sleeping in my cradle bed,
And tears of sweet affection shed?
My mother.

When pain and sickness made me cry,
Who gazed upon my heavy eye,
And wept, for fear that I should die?
My mother.

Who ran to help me when I fell?
And would some pretty story tell,
Or kiss the part to make it well?
My mother.

Who taught my infant lips to pray,
To love God's holy word and day,
And walk in wisdom's pleasant way?
My mother.

And can I ever cease to be
Affectionate and kind to thee,
Who waste so kind to me?
My mother.

Oh no, the thought I cannot bear;
And if God please my life to spare,
I hope I shall reward thy care,
My mother.

When thou art feeble, old and gray,
My healthy arms shall be thy stay,
And I will soothe thy pains away,
My mother.

And when I see thee hang thy head,
'Twill be my turn to watch thy bed,
And tears of sweet affection shed—
My mother.

NO BAND CONTEST BUT MANY BANDS

Lubbock, May.—Although there will be no band contests here in connection with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce annual convention, May 14, 15 and 16, people who enjoy band music and the parades that accompany it at conventions will be well provided for, reports coming to convention headquarters indicate. Bands will come to the convention with the delegations from Fort Worth, Dallas, Amarillo, Denton and several other towns. The Fort Worth group, which is coming on a special train, will likely have two bands along—the Fort Worth All-Ladies band, official WTCC music makers for 1930-31 and the Texas Christian University Horned Frog Band—according to information received by Maury Hopkins, convention manager.

Miss Julia Burns who has charge of the Bob Owens store here visited her parents at Rotan last week. Miss Headstream had charge of the store while she was away.

SEMINOLE CITIZENS INVESTIGATE HOBBS SCHOOL BONDS

County Judge Kendrick and County Commissioner W. W. Childress of Seminole were in Lovington Monday making investigations in regard to the legality of the Hobbs certificates of indebtedness and of the recent school bond issue of that place. They stated that the future fate of the Seminole bank will be largely determined by the question of whether these certificates can be realized upon. That bank was the holder of a large block of these certificates, said to have been approximately $80,000. Its failure to be able to realize upon them was largely responsible for the closing of the bank, and if they can be paid from the recent school bond issue of the Hobbs district the depositors of that institution will be able to realize something from the assets of the bank, and there is a possibility of the bank's being re-organized.—Lovington Leader.

Dr. R. B. Parish was a visitor in Lubbock Sunday and Monday.

Packs of Mad Wolves Terrorize 5 Counties

San Angelo, May.—Through a wilderness of uneasy sand dunes, in a land of shadowy oil derricks, in a country with bleak ranch homes hiding behind hills where rattle snakes and cacti fight for possession, a new menace howls at midnight. It is a wild cry, sharp staccato, ending in a wail, a symphony of terror.

In five counties of Western Texas, the land of quick riches and often quick despair, packs of mad coyotes and wolves suffering from rabies, are wandering looking for victims. Their toll thus far is many head of livestock and several human beings have been bitten.

Know No Fear
Courageous ranchmen are riding the ranges with rifles, fearing attacks of wolf bands, headed by giant leader that know no fear and die fighting. So serious is the menace that C. R. Landon, head of the department of predatory animal control of Texas, has asked the Federal Government to furnish it ten best trappers for a period of three months. The commissioners court of Ector County, has asked for aid and four adjoining counties reported these mad marauders.

Trappers have expressed their dislike of like such assignments, but declare that other instances have been known of such bands of rabid wolves. The trappers are unable to account for the epidemic, but explained that it occurs at times among wolves, but that never before had it been so far reaching.

The mad wolves have attacked grown cattle as well as defenceless sheep and killed them.

The wolf is always a menace in the sheep country. He will go through a flock of sheep at night killing 10 or 15 and eating the heart. But when he is mad he kills as long as he is able—he has all the venom in the world piled into a 60 pound body of lightning ferocity.

Often as many as fifty traps are set to catch one wolf and unusually smart wolves have been the object of two years efforts at capture. Often when taken they have been trapped several times, chewing off their feet to escape the trap.

RADIO BOARD REFUSES TO CENSOR PROFANITY

Washington, April.—The modern tendency of some of our best-known orators to slip an occasional "hell" or "damn" into their public utterances has brought a demand from the more circumspect of the Nation's radio listeners that the Federal Radio Commission assume the role of censor of the air.

The answer, it was made clear at the commission's offices today, is a firm, though gentle "no."

The commission does not wish to become involved in any controversy which would necessitate defining just what constitutes profanity. The commission feels it to be a debatable question of the radio act prohibiting any such broadcasts, and then go on to say that the stations themselves must be the judges.

If there is a sufficient volume of protests against any one station, or against any one speaker, however, the commission will step in to arbitrate the matter and possibly revoke a license.

SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

With the approach of the high school commencement season some editors of small town newspapers will be called upon for commencement addresses, others for lots of front page news of school events, and a few will get the job of printing the senior class announcements.

Too often, however, this school printing goes out of town along with the order for senior class jewelry.

The local jeweler is entitled to first consideration for the senior class jewelry order because he has been paying local taxes for many years, thus contributing to the upkeep of the schools. He has probably contributed time and again to buy the high school team football uniforms or to pay the expenses of the school glee club to the high school day competitions at the state university.—Exchange.

Fremendous Power from the Wind

THE Aermotor Co. is now making a self-oiling windmill 20 feet in diameter. If you have a well 1000 feet deep, or if you want to raise a large quantity of water from a shallower well, this is the windmill you need. This new Auto-Oiled Aermotor weighs nearly 2 1/2 tons without the tower. It is a giant for power.

Whatever your water requirements may be there is an Auto-Oiled Aermotor of the right size for the work. They are made from 6 feet to 20 feet in diameter. Use the smaller sizes for the shallow wells and the larger ones for the deep wells or large quantities of water. Our tables, sent upon request, tell you just what each size will do.

The Improved Auto-Oiled Aermotor, the genuine self-oiling windmill, is the most economical and the most reliable device for pumping water. It works every day and will last a lifetime. Every size of Auto-Oiled Aermotor has double gears running in oil. All moving parts are fully and constantly oiled. One oiling a year is all that is required.

The Auto-Oiled Aermotor is made by the company which originated the steel windmill business. For full information write AERMOTOR CO. 2500 Roosevelt Rd. CHICAGO
