What's The Matter With Texas? Shooting North Of Town Sunday Night

By S. W. Adams—Room 65, Driskill Hotel, Austin

I have said a great deal about lobbyists down here, and I want to say again that the thousands of well-dressed, well paid, sleek men and women coming here day after day, with the hundreds who maintain big hotels in the several hotels, where they usher the legislators into knowing by "indirection" what they want them to do, as wine, women and money makes hard times seem a picker, are destroying Texas.

As I watch the hotel procedure, as I watch the struggling legislators fighting for what they think is best for you at home, with lobbyists in the corridors of the capitol, in the reception rooms, before the committees, always with hypocrisy on their lips and a lie as their background—as I note the beaten forms of these 180 men, as they are buffeted about by the contending forces of evil, as they are washed hither and yon by the cross-current of greed, as I see hour after hour of their time fittered away with no noise, no quiet, no time for thoughtful meditation and consideration—I am not surprised to see men push the button to register their vote with this query on their lips: "What are we voting on, Tom? Nor to have three say to me this morning; "Sure you are right; I voted for a number of things this morning I did not know what it was all about."

As an illustration: A few weeks ago I sent a sample of the work of Capitol rats here, wherein I said that $3,000,000 were transferred from highway funds to Pension funds to pay off Confederate Warrants, and that the Capitol rats paid $260,000 for these warrants, and then used the $2,740,000 to pay off Capitol rats' warrants, and Treasurer Lockhart complained that I did him an injury, saying that the money was not transferred to Pension fund but to General fund, and that it had been used to pay both general and pension warrants. I went to the legislator who gave me the story, and he maintained that it was transferred to Pension fund, but on confronting him with the Bill, he then said: "Well that was the basis of all the pleas for the bill."

The designing lobbyists and proponents of bad bills always talk under the plea of helping the weak.

Legislation MUST be protected from lobbyists. The right to petition a government for redress does not carry the right to go in armies to harass the legislators until they are driven into doing foolish things with their legislative vote.

A man should have a right to listen in, but I am convinced that the committee hearing where men are allowed to come with their moss-grown facts and outworn lies, taking up the time of the members, ought to stop.

Our New President and Vice-President

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

JOHN NANCE GARNER

The Demos Are Now In The Saddle New Low Priced Chevrolet To Be Shown Saturday

For the first time since 1920 the Democratic donkey shoved the elephant away from the feed bag Saturday between twelve and one o'clock, our time when Franklin D. Roosevelt took the oath of office as President of the United States. Just before that time, our own Jack Garner of Texas, had, with tears in his eyes, bid the lower house farewell and went over to the senate chamber where he took the oath of office. It was one of the most impressive inaugurations in many years if not for all time, and the new president faces a crisis in our nation almost equal to that of Abe Lincoln, with the exception that his was a probable civil war, and this one is a war on depression and fear.

Listening to Mr. Roosevelt's address over the radio, we could not help but be impressed by his clear cut and concise methods of which he intends to handle the situation. There seems to be no fear in his voice, or any doubt in his mind that he would be able to turn the tide of fear and retreat into a wholesale charge, backed by the entire nation. Those present certainly were in with him to a man, for his impressive address was frequently punctuated by cheers. It was said that when he finished by invoking the blessings of God on his administration that there were few dry eyes in the audience.

Backing the president in his great undertaking are ten great men and women who will fill his cabinet. They are men who have made a high mark in the world; men in whom the nation has the utmost confidence, and toward whom not a breath of suspicion of graft has ever blown. At least three of them are Republicans or former Republicans. They are as follows: Cordell Hull, Secretary of State; Wm. H. Woodin, Treasury; Homer S. Cummings will take the place of the lamented Thos. J. Walsh as Atty. General; Geo. H. Dern, War; Claude S. Swanson, Navy; James A. Farley, P. M. Gen.; Harold L. Ickes, Interior; Henry A. Wallace, Agriculture; Daniel C. Roper, Commerce; and Miss Frances Perkins, Labor.

These women and men are drawn from every section of our country, north, south, east and west. No section was favored above the other, and they are people who will not only work well with their chief, but in perfect harmony with each other. May the grace of God rest with them and help them to get our great country once more in normal condition.

Bank Holiday Just A Bit Inconvenient Some Accommodative Trainsmen On This Run

This was one time that it was hard to borrow a nickel, dime or quarter from a friend to buy a paper, shine or shave. A lot of us got down to our last red penny, but stayed with that, for we did not want to go broke. Others would turn their pockets wrong side out to show their absolute lack of funds. We also learn that some of the boys who got hungry would approach the hamburger dealers with the old plea of Mr. Whimpy of "I'll gladly pay you Tuesday for a hamburger today."

If there was any real grouching about the matter we failed to hear it, and the old expression of "what are you using for money" could be heard on all sides. One reason it was hard on some of the merchants was the fact that they had cashed a lot of corn checks for farmers Thursday which was Texas Day and a state holiday, expecting of course to be able to get these checks in the bank next day.

There were many reasons why the moratorium was declared, principally because northern manufacturers were drawing funds from southern banks, and some we understand were taking their money in gold from the northern banks and were sending it to Europe. While this condition had not reached this section, we understand the Dallas and other large city banks had begun to feel these withdrawals.

So, after all, it may be one of the best things that could have happened, as it will now be impossible to ruin any solvent bank by heavy withdrawals, and business will go on just as usual when the banks are opened again.

Trades Day Crowd Despite The Moratorium

The farmers and wives were here by the thousands Monday despite the fact that the banks were closed and it was hard to do business. Merchants tell us, however, that they experienced little inconvenience in conducting business either Saturday or Monday. Of course, the money ran a little low, and cashing checks was out of the question, but if you had a checking account, it was taken on goods, or cream and corn checks could be traded for goods of any kind, but not much money changed hands except to make change.

The crowd was large and orderly. About all the farmers we talked with had no trouble getting what they wanted, and all expressed confidence in the local banks and bankers, and believed that when the time came, they would open and do business as usual, and they are right about that.

There was much trading of one sort then another, but not much cash was passed in the deals. Several brought their livestock or poultry to show, exchange or sell, and several went home feeling extra good as they got more money on their tickets than they had when they came.

To Help Make A Mortgage Refinancing Bill

W. H. Black, prominent farmer of the Gomez community, recently wrote Hon. Marvin Jones, congressman of this district concerning a law and appropriation for refinancing farm mortgages. Mr. Black believes that if something like this is not done, many farmers will lose their homes through foreclosure. After thanking Mr. Black for his suggestions, Mr. Jones replies as follows:

"In my opinion the refinancing of farm mortgages is one of the most vital problems facing the country today, and I hope that we may be able to secure effective legislation."

"I have been asked by some of those close to the new administration to assist in the drafting of some measures to be considered by the new Congress, and I trust that we may work out a real program."

What's the idea of teaching a boy to play golf before he's learned how to make a living?

Travelers on rail lines as well as buses often find much to commend in those in charge of the conveyance. It just won't do these days, for them to get hardboiled with the passengers. In the first place, the trainmen know that the passenger is paying for these accommodations; that they are guests of the railroad company, and are due every reasonable consideration. But it is sometimes remarkable the extremity of which trainmen will take to accommodate a passenger and make them comfortable, especially those who are ill or have had an operation.

Last Saturday we brought our wife down from Lubbock on the Santa Fe in order that she might lay down. A permit was obtained to put a cot in the baggage car. But after a few minutes it was seen that the cot done everything else but work, despite all we assisted by Conductor Geo. McCarty and brakeman Tom McCall could do. With some disgust, these two Irish-American lads pitched the cot aside and said they would make a bed. And they did—almost equal to a pullman bed. They put four cushion seats together, spread a few quilts over it leaving one or two for cover, and the Mrs. had a real comfortable bed and really seemed to enjoy the trip.

We have known Tom for a long time, but having a car, we hardly ever ride with him these days. This was our first time to meet George, but we got well acquainted with him on this trip. Every time he would come into the coach we would ask if the coach was warm enough, and was Mrs. Stricklin comfortable, was the glare of the sun bothering. Then too, while we did not meet the two lads who were pulling the train, they seemed to enter heartedly into plan to be as nice as possible. When they had to cut loose to switch or couple again, they did so, so quietly that one could hardly feel the jar.

Next time we meet up with John Santa Fe, we are going to tell him what a nice crew he has on his run, and to please not lay them off.

Girl Killed When Gun, Fired In Play, Bursts

Lamesa, March 4.—Mary Lee Turner, 15, met a tragic death last night while performing in a school play in the OK community near here, when the barrel of a shotgun burst and a sliver of the metal entered her breast, lodging near her heart.

The play was nearing a climax and a scene called for the firing of the gun. The shells had been filled with soap.

The injured girl was rushed to a physician in O'Donnell but died within 30 minutes.

Supt. Millard Webb of the school was shaken with grief over the accident. He had fired the gun.

Miss Turner was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Turner, long-time residents of this section. The Turners, who had lived in Lamesa since 1914, recently moved to a farm 10 miles north of town. Her parents were in Vernon at the time of the tragedy.

FARM INCREASE IN TEN YEARS 98 PERCENT IN WEST TEXAS

Lubbock, Texas, Feb.—The number of farms in 50 West Texas counties increased 98 percent from 1920 to 1930, according to Dr. J. O. Ellsworth, head of the department of agricultural economics of Texas Technological College. During the same period the number of farms in 50 East Texas counties of the same area increased six percent.

From 1920 to 1925 the increase in number of farms was 39 percent in West Texas and a decrease of six percent in East Texas. From 1925 to 1930 the increase was 42 percent in West Texas and 13 percent in East Texas.

Dorothy and Frances talking about a map they had to draw in Spanish.

Dorothy: "Do you all have to put Brazil and all those countries like that in your map?"

Frances: "No, we have to put all those things like 'Texes' in our map."

Red Goose—The Ojibwa

An Indian Story for Boys and Girls
By Carlyle Emery
Chapter Three Story No. 18
(Synopsis)

Red Goose had been held a captive for three days and nights by Raven Feather Chief, of the hostile Blackfeet Tribe. On the third night of the imprisonment, Blue Cloud, an Ojibwa squaw, captured many months previously, had given Red Goose a knife to cut his bonds, and told him where he would find a pony waiting to carry him to the railroad train, which the Indians called the Iron Horse. But just as Red Goose was getting away, he was seen and a cry went up, "Holla!" The Ojibwa captive is loose!—Now go on with the story.

There was great excitement in the Blackfeet camp when it was discovered that Red Goose had escaped.

The Blackfeet braves jumped up quickly from their sleep and, as Chief Raven Feather gave instructions, they divided into four groups which started off in pursuit in all directions.

Raven Feather, himself, guessed

Raven Feather Demands Red Goose

that Red Goose would try to reach the railroad, and although he was in mortal fear of the Iron Horse, he bent low over his horse's neck and started off toward the Silver Trail.

In the meanwhile, Stewart, the telegraph operator at the railroad station, was humming to himself as he prepared for another eventful night.

But suddenly he stopped short and listened. He could hear the cries and shouts of the Blackfeet, and the sound of many horses' hoofs pounding in the brush.

"Now, what are those pesky red skins up to tonight?" he said to himself; and almost at the same moment the door was flung open and Red Goose stumbled in, gasping for his breath.

"Well, of all things! If it isn't the little Indian kid! Thought you'd be part way home by this time."

"Red Goose captured by Blackfeet," gasped his sudden visitor. Red Goose escape. Blackfeet coming here fast to take Red Goose back to camp and kill him."

"Oh, no, they won't! Not as long as old Bill Stewart can stop 'em! Can you use a rifle?"

"Red Goose know. Learn at Fort Ridgley."

"Good! Then take this one. We can hold them off for a little while. The train is due here in ten minutes and if it is on time, we'll be alright when it arrives."

The next moment, a horse galloped right up to the door, and a rider could be heard dismounting.

"Raven Feather, is that you out there?" called Stewart, making sure the door was locked and bolted.

"Yes, Raven Feather here!"

"What's the idea of whooping up like this? Can't you let a fellow work without filling the night with your blamed war whoops?"

"Raven Feather and braves come for Ojibwa boy."

"Well, he's here with me and you can't have him."

Then Blackfeet take him from white man."

This remark from Raven Feather was followed by a blood curdling yell from his braves.

"No you won't! We're armed, so if you come any closer, we'll shoot to kill!"

"Then Blackfeet kill pale face too." "We're in a tight place, lad," Stewart whispered. May the Lord be merciful and bring that train in on time."

PREDICTS FROST ON SIXTH DAY OF APRIL

It thundered last year in February and our good friend John Ray out at Magnolia came in and told us that it would frost on a corresponding date in April. We published his prophecy and sure-enough along about that time in April old Jack Frost showed up.

So John was in again Tuesday. He says that since it thundered to beat the band on February 6, we will have a whopping big frost on April 6. If any of our readers have garden stuff or flowers up along about that time better prepare to protect them. John knows his okra.—Lynn Co. News.

Marlin Hayhurst was a visitor in the home of his brother, Warner and family, at Plains, Saturday night and Sunday.

Old Zero Played Heck With The Evergreens

When that old fossil, old man Zero Hoary Frost, behaved himself very nicely all during January, some of us kinder praised the old bag of deceit without knocking on wood soon after. But he was just waiting his day. Yes, says he, those balmy days and sunshine will make the sap come up in their nice trees and shrubs, and along about February first, I'll just play my trump card. I'll not only make those earthlings lose their pretty trees, but years of work besides.

So, painting his old nose a little red, running his fingers thru his flowing white locks and displaying his saw-tooth incisors to make himself look the part of a scary old witch, he summoned all the ice in the Arctic ocean, all the snow from Newfoundland to Alaska and all the cold wind from the Canadian and Dakato prairies and hit the air for the Plains of Texas.

You don't need to be told what happened; how you scrouged around the fire trying to keep warm, and was just a bit fearful of going to bed for fear you would freeze in your sleep. But in a few days it was over, and the sun shone again. And you found that with the exception that you had a big plumbers bill and your fruit was all winter killed, you had come thru alright.

But in a week or two, you saw all those pretty evergreens that you had nursed so carefully season after season turns a brownish color and the bark and wood a sickly yellow. You saw the pretty green leaves on the privet curl up and dry out. You saw your roses turn as pale as a stuck hog, and you perhaps murmured—hell. But it was everything but that, for that place is said to be hot.

Anyway, John King, local nurseryman says we may not have another warm January to be followed by sub-zero weather in February in 25 years again. But who in heck wants to spend 25 years on something he loves just to have it snatched from him overnight. Well, we'll just take the Old Pine Tree in ourn from this on.

The above article was written last week, but on account of the fact that we were crowded for space, we didn't get to use it. Since then, old man winter has backfired again, and we have had to use a lot of gas to keep warm when we thought that spring was almost here. But the old Ground Hog has not been in hiding six weeks yet, but that time will soon be up.

The weather tried to do everything imaginable over the week end, but flunked on everything except wind, and that made up well for failure of snow, sleet and rain.

Ham And Bacon Show At Lubbock Mar. 23-24

Lubbock, Texas, Mar.—“Good ole Ham” like “papa” used to have, will be available for sale at the Quality Meat Show at Lubbock March 23 and 24, this year.

From 150 to 200 hams and about the same number of bacons, country cured, under the standard principles indorsed by the Texas A. & M. College, will go into a sale, must pass inspection of Roy W. Snyder, Meats Specialist, of the Texas Extension Service and be pronounced a standard product. The hams and bacons will be wrapped with a ham rag, glassine and vegetable parchment paper, the same as any packer ham and will bear the standard label, “South Plains Ham” and “South Plains Bacon”.

Heretofore, only a limited number of hams and bacons have been available for sale, but due to the heavy demand at both the first show in 1931 and the second show in 1932, exhibitors of those years have prepared for this third show, and will come here with plenty of meat to sell.

Regular market prices will be charged for the hams and bacons, the market on country cured meats being slightly higher than premium packer hams. The hams and bacons winning first, second and third places in the show, will be sold in the auction sale with the calves and pigs on the afternoon of March 24. Last year, the grand champion ham was bought by the Garner for President Club at one dollar per pound and was then shipped to John Garner at Washington where a feed was prepared for the Texas delegation at the National Capitol—with turnip greens on the side.

These multitudes have gone their way to broadcast the marvels already achieved, and yet to come.

Building Ahead of Schedule

Favorable weather through the fall made it possible to place every major exposition building under construction. Eighteen buildings are completed or nearing completion. Thirteen other major structures are under way. On January 1 nine more were on the schedule for immediate construction, with contracts signed, sites chosen, architects' plans completed and approved, and costs of construction appropriated. There is an absolute assurance that the programs of these exhibitors will be completed in ample time.

Besides all these projects, about which there is no shadow of a doubt, there are seven more buildings planned that seem assured.

These are the Chinese, Japanese, Netherlands, India, French and Italian buildings and the Belgian village.

Lineup of the Building Program

These are the buildings already completed or nearly completed: Administration, Hall of Science, Chinese Llama Temple, Fort Dearborn group, Lincoln group, General Motors, Chrysler, Travel and Transport, Blue Ribbon Inn, Masonic house, Agriculture, Dairy, Electrical group, Social Science hall, Communications building, and three pavilions of general exhibits.

Building construction already under way before January 1, 1933, included: Sky Ride, Illinois Host, Sears Roebuck, Maya temple, Old Heidelberg, Enchanted island, Horticultural, Federal, and Hall of States buildings, and the Twenty-third street bridge, the north entrance and two pavilions of the General Exhibits building.

The nine buildings for which contracts have been let are the individual structures of the American Radiator and Sanitary corporation, Christian Science Publishing company, Firestone Tire & Rubber company, Johns-Manville corporations, National Poultry council, National Terrazzo and Mosaic association, Religious Exhibit committee, Southern Cypress Manufacturers' association, and Thomas A. Edison, Inc.

On Sound Financial Basis

The World's Fair of 1933 is solvent. Not only solvent to date, but on January 1 there was a cash balance of more than $1,000,000 after all obligations had been met. There is also a continual flow of receipts from exhibitors and other sources to insure full financial responsibility for the whole comprehensive program.

More than 230 of the greatest corporations and associations in the United States have signed contracts aggregating close to $5,000,000 for the purchase of exhibit space in Exposition buildings, or for the erection of special buildings of their own.

Concession contracts exceeding $4,000,000 already have been signed to provide for amusement devices, transportation facilities within the grounds, restaurants, and other features for the comfort and convenience of visitors.

Local Inspector Explains Basis of '33 Crop Loans

Three hundred dollars is the most that any farmer may borrow for crop production loans in 1933, Fred N. Warren, Field inspector for the Crop Production Loan Office in this community, says in announcing details on the proposed loans. Applicant who are in arrears on as many as two previous loans made by the Secretary of Agriculture may not borrow more than $100.

Loans for crop production in counties where fertilizer is not commonly used will be based on the approximate cost of the supplies needed, but can not exceed $3 an acre for general field crops and $12 an acre for truck crops, including potatoes and sweet potatoes. Loans for buying fertilizer will be made only in counties where a representative of the U. S. Department of Agriculture certifies that fertilizer necessary. In these counties loans for supplies, including fertilizers shall not be more than $6 an acre for general field crops, $10 an acre for tobacco, and $20 an acre for truck crops, including potatoes and sweet potatoes. Not more than $1 an acre of these amounts is to be used for repairs and miscellaneous expenses other than seed, fertilizer, feed for workstock and fuel and oil for tractors.

Additional sums (within the limit for each farmer) may be borrowed for fighting insect pests and plant diseases. These are not to be more than $2 an acre for spraying and dusting materials to protect cotton and tobacco, $4 an acre for spraying and dusting truck crops, and $25 an acre for fertilizer and spraying and dusting materials for bearing fruit trees and vineyards.

Farmers intending to apply for loans need not write to Washington or regional offices, but may secure the application forms from him, Mr. Warren says. Loans will be made only to farmers who cannot secure credit elsewhere, and who cannot farm unless they can secure the loan. Applications will be taken by J. E. Shelton, Secretary Chamber of Commerce in basement of Courthouse.

To have a loan application approved this year, a farmer must agree to reduce his acreage 30 per cent under that grown in 1932. The 30 per cent withheld from cultivation may be sown to soil-building crops. A first lien on the 1933 crop is required. Loans are due October 31, 1933.

The regulations make it unlawful for any person to dispose of or assist in disposing of any crops given as security for any crop loan, except for the account of the Secretary of Agriculture and provide for fine and imprisonment for violation of such regulation. The regulations require that each borrower agree to plant a garden for his home use and to plant sufficient acreage to provide necessary livestock feed.

THE SKY RIDE. "BIG THRILL" OF 1933 WORLD'S FAIR

Two great steel towers each 625 feet high are already mounting to the skies as work progresses on the spectacular feature of Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition, the Sky Ride. As this drawing shows, the towers, 1,850 feet apart, will be connected by cables at the 200-foot level. Over these cables rocket cars will carry passengers. From observation platforms atop the towers the visitor will be able to see Chicago and its surrounding area in all directions, south to the dunes of Indiana, and east across the blue lake to Michigan. High speed elevators will lift visitors to the rocket cars and to the observation platforms. One tower is being erected on the mainland north of the Hall of Science, the other on Northerly Island, north of Social Science Hall.

The Woodmen Circle will dedicate their new National Headquarters Office Building at Omaha next June. A good attendance is expected from every State.

Florida has shown quick action up to this time in dealing with Zangara who attempted the murder of Franklin D. Roosevelt. And now that his wild shooting has resulted in the death of Mayor Cermak of Chicago, we hope that good state will still continue to execute justice by giving this murderer plenty of hot juice.

The Abilene Times celebrated its eighteenth year by getting out an edition of some 24 pages. There is no mystery about celebrating birthdays, they come and they go, and we are glad that the Times is within three years of voting age. But what isn't clear to us is how they managed to get enough ads to fill a 24 page edition?

The State Health officer at Austin says that measles are quite prevalent over Texas, and issues a warning that children, and especially young children be kept away from it. He advises that the child that has developed the disease be put to bed and a doctor called, and that dieting be carried out while they have the disease. While measles, he adds, is regarded as a childhood disease and a matter of course, complicated with other things it becomes dangerous.

Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, will in all probability be the next speaker of the National house of representatives. He has been endorsed for Jack Garner's place by a Democratic caucus, and with their crushing majority of about 100 votes, the Republicans will not likely have a chance. For many years, Mr. Rainey has been a warhorse on the Democratic side of the aisle, and his elevation to the speakership was not unexpected. He has been majority leader the past session. Byrns of Tennessee will no doubt be the next majority floor leader.

Well, the jig-saw puzzle has hit the whole nation with a wham that promises to outdo the yoyo craze of a few years ago or even the cross word puzzle. Only the kids and a few of the more childish of the grownups would be caught with a yoyo outfit, but from childhood to grandparents, all alike, they play the jig-saw cut-outs. The lateness of the hour does not matter in the least. If it takes all night, the puzzle must be finished. It may be well that the people are so occupied, for they have plenty time to think about and talk the depression and moratorium in the daytime.

When a newspaper gets ready to make a bust, it can make the biggest ones on earth, and it is so glaring that everyone that can read will find it. Last week we wanted to tell the world and half the moon and mars that we were proud because the local gas company had found an error in our bill of some thirteen dollars the month before, and we just lacked a few cents of having any gas bill at the Herald office this month. We aimed to remark that it made us want to "hug" them, but the printer of course put it "hung" instead of "hug," and the proof reader of course did not find it. We hope they don't get mad and stop their ad.

Democracy has in the past two weeks lost two of its valuable Toms. First to go was Thomas W. Gregory of Texas, who was attorney general during the Wilson administration. While, like Col. House, Mr. Gregory had made his home in New York much of late, he nevertheless claimed Texas as home, with much interests here. He had done much for Texas in his day, and was an especial friend of education, and particularly of the university of Texas. He was buried in Houston. Coming close on the heels of his death was that of the veteran U.S. Senator, Thomas J. Walsh of Montana. Sen. Walsh has always stood high in the councils of the Democratic party, and his advise was at all times sought after by the other leaders. He was especially well trained in a legal way, both as to national and international laws, and was for this reason elevated to Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet as atty. general. His death took place on a train in North Carolina as he sped toward Washington to take that post. He had married a rich Cuban lady just a few days prior to that time. After laying in state for a few hours in the Senate Chamber, together with religious rites of the Catholic church of which he was a member, the body was shipped to Helena, Montana for burial.

The Outlook, official organ of Texas State Teachers Association, took two pages of its last issue to show how the world looked several million years ago. The guy that drew that picture sure had a wild imagination of what the denizens of this old terrestrial ball looked like, and personally this scribe is pleased that we were permitted to exist and publish this sheet in the good years 1909 and up. In fact, we are glad that several million years separates us from such monsters as this double page spread depicted. And if teaching broadens the imagination to such an extent as this, we are glad we never entered the profession, for we know we would see things in our dreams.

Over 50,000,000 to See World Fair

That's Most Conservative of the Estimates.

Accepting the minimum estimates of the most conservative experts in such matters, the 1933 World's Fair in Chicago will attract 350,000 visitors every day of the five months the gates are open, from June 1 to November 1. That would mean a total of 52,500,000 during the A Century of Progress Exposition. These experts refer to attendance at former world's fairs for statistics on which to base their estimates. Those statistics indicate an average daily attendance equaling about 10 per cent of the local population.

Basis for Estimates

Ten per cent of the population of Chicago alone—the city proper, without its far-reaching suburbs and the cities and towns included as the Chicago metropolitan area—would insure 350,000 visitors daily at the Fair.

Include merely the suburbs that are so close to Chicago that they are part of the city in all but their local governments, and the population total of 4,000,000 would give an estimate of 400,000 guests daily for the Fair.

Extend the areas to include what officials of Chicago, its newspapers and commerce chiefs call the metropolitan area, and the population jumps to around 5,000,000. That would mean 500,000 visitors every day at the World's Fair. It would mean that 75,000,000 persons will view the exposition between June 1 and November 1.

Youngest

Emery B. Camp of Rockdale, Texas, is probably the youngest member of the 43rd legislature of Texas. He is 23. Camp defeated two widely known citizens, both much older than he, to enter the legislature.

Mrs. J. A. Taylor underwent a major operation at the Treadaway Hospital Sunday and is doing nicely. Mrs. Comstock of that community also had a minor operation Tuesday and is convalescing splendidly.

OUR 23 YEAR COLUMN

Taken from the Herald of March 5th and 12th, 1910.

We see by our issue of March 5, 1910, that the Meadow people were getting about all their land broke, and that we were having some good old sandstorms. Also C. W. Dickinson, who lived just over in Hockley county, had passed away. Also, a letter from the Primrose community, which stood just a few miles west of where Ropes is now located, reported much illness and two deaths from pneumonia. A. W. Blankenship was on the sick list, and farmers had their land about ready to plant, but cautioned not to get too hasty. A man was in Midland making a proposition to build a railroad to Seminole from there for $100,000.

On the editorial page we note that the Dallas News reported that hogs were higher than since the Civil War with one exception, and that bacon was correspondingly high. On the local page we note that John C. Scud-day was on the sick list. That Ruben M. Ellerd of Plainview was here in the interest of his candidacy for district attorney. That Daniel Sparks carried a load of poultry to Lubbock. That Cleve Williams paid the Herald a call. That Mr. Pearce, a Lubbock attorney was down. That J. J. Lane was a Lubbock visitor. That L. W. McPhaul and Geo. E. Tiernan were Lubbock visitors. That G. E. Lockhart of Gomez was on the sick list; also Grandpa Shrock of this city, not to mention J. C. Green, was able to be up. J. R. Cook, local barber had returned from a trip to central Texas. Willow Wells school house had been completed and school started. The Masons and Odd Fellows were sitting up with Mr. Bragg of Gomez.

Wiley Bridges was in from the farm. Alvin Duke had made a trip to Lubbock after cold drink supplies. Mrs. J. L. Randal and Percy Spencer left for Austin to attend the Odd Fellow grand lodge. David Hering of the Soash school in Howard county, was visiting his brother, John. Jim Burse, ranch manager for John Slaughter, passed through. The Herald had received some new job type. Dolphus Robinson of Lubbock, was shaking hands here with old friends. Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Forrester of Lynn county, were visiting relatives here. Judge Copeland was busy gardening. Atty. L. W. Dalton of Plainview and W. D. Benson of Lubbock, had legal business in Plains. A meeting of the Terry County Fair Association was called for March 12th. Two young men were here advertising a movie show which they were bringing here for three nights. J. H. Pace had moved back to Terry county from Seymour. A letter was received by O. M. Daniels from J. R. Heflin, who had moved to Spur, stating that a two-headed calf was born to his cow and that he had been offered $500 for the calf. All for this week.

Mar. 12, 1910

On the front page we learn that the pneumonia epidemic was about over at Meadow. Judge and Percy Spencer, accompanied by Dolph Robinson had stopped off there a few minutes to discuss politics. Col. Luna, of Plains, had run out of oil on his way to Lubbock and failing to obtain any in either Brownfield or Meadow, obtained some from Albert Taylor. (We suppose it was lube for his car.) A big rabbit drive was held at Hope Timmon's, but few were killed. John Rix, a traveling salesman for a Fort Worth dry goods house, stopped off in Meadow to visit his sister, Mrs. J. W. Peeler.

On the editorial page, we note that we were preparing for a cleanup day. Fort Worth was celebrating the Fat Stock Show by erecting a gas pipe 72 feet in the air and illuminating the whole north side, which could be seen 20 miles away. The gas had been piped in from the Henfieta field. There were some items from Jones county in this issue.

On the third page: Tom Ivey was reported to be very ill. Uncle Chas. Lyon was flooring his cabinet shop. B. F. Nix was in the city. Dr. Ellis had ordered a new motor for his Buick. Neil H. Bigger made a trip to Plains. Howard James was building an addition to Will Alf Bell's residence. J. W. Cone was in from the Yoakum county ranch after lumber and supplies. Easter was right upon us, we reported, and the people were preparing to go on a parade with their new clothes. Mr. Underdown was in from west Terry. Ye Editor had treated himself to a new office chair. Allen Shepherd and wife were in shopping. Geo. McPherson had sold his Brownfield property to G. A. Pyron. Several were preparing to attend the Fat Stock Show at Ft. Worth. The Brownfield Auto Co. had bought the Cleve Holden Pope Toledo car for $900. H. H. Longbrake had purchased the W. W. Johnson residence, Arthur Moore, W. H. Cordell and Claude Criswell had left for a hunt in the New Mexico mountains. Rev. J. C. Lewis was in from the farm. D. T. Cates was over from Yoakum to help Mr. Ater carry a herd of mules over there. Mrs. M. E. Kinard called to pay her subscription. The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Randal had passed away the Saturday before. Carpenters were erecting a residence for Jno. C. Scud-day. Uncle Bill Howard and Jim Lewis carried 90 bushels of shelled corn to Lubbock and received 73c per bushel for it. Plains citizen were talking of establishing a paper in that city. After spending several weeks in old Mexico and Arizona J. F. Holden was returning to Brownfield to establish another grocery store.

Com. S. B. Johnson called to renew. Carl Forkel of Muskogee Okla., and brother, Curt of Waco, had been to Plains, where their mother had passed away of heart trouble. Miss Willa McCarty of Roscoe, was establishing a millinery department at the Merc. The Cordell addition was being plotted to be sold by its new owner, the Leard Lumber Co., of Lubbock. Texas Central Railroad surveyor were reported in the south part of the county, making the old O. B. R. ranch their headquarters. Some new library books had arrived, the M. & M. club announced. They were mostly by such authors as: Darwin, Huxley, Spencer, Tyndall, etc. Sam Lazarus, president of the Quanah, Acme & Pacific railroad, was running a notice of a stockholders meeting to be held on April 19th 1910, and in the general offices of the company at Quanah. All for this week.

A Virginia family was training a colored girl from the county in her duties as maid. On answering the telephone the first day she brought no message. "Who was that, Sara?" "Twasn't nobody, Mrs. Bailey, jes' a lady saying 'It's a long distant from New York' and I says, 'yes ma'am, it sho is!'"

"The Industrious Young Farmer"
Once upon a time there was a young farmer who lived on a forty-acre farm. One of his neighbors lived on an eighty-acre farm, and another on a hundred-acre farm. They always went to town, while the young farmer stayed at home and worked. He was called the "early bird," because he always got up so early to begin his work. He had ten cows to milk every morning and his forty-acre farm didn't have hardly a weed in it, while his neighbors farms weren't hoed. They were covered with weeds. The young farmer reaped good crops, while his neighbors farms went to ruin. So he plowed deep while the sluggards slept, and he had food to sell and to keep.

By a sixth grade pupil,
Mary Evelyn Green.

The Sophomores are presenting "Always in Trouble", Friday night at the High School auditorium. Everybody is invited. We promise you a full evening of good entertainment.

The inspector is expected to visit school Monday.

We are glad to report that J. O. Brock who has very ill is improving. The seventh grade has been corresponding with other pupils in other states, exchanging products with them and find it to be very interesting.

In history class last week, the seventh grade had a debate; the question being: "Should Slavery have Been Prohibited.. Negative—Thelma Lee, Frances Brock. Affirmative—Pearl Roe, Florence Brock. The negatives won 8 to 5. There was some good debating.

The basketball girls entered the tournament at Brownfield, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 24-25.

They played Wellman Fri. afternoon. The scores being 13 to 17 in favor of Wellman. This being the only game they played Fri., they returned Sat. morning, but did not play until 1:30, and then played Gomez. The scores were 13 to 27 in favor of Union. Playing another game Sat. night with Wellman, we were defeated by the scores of 8 and 11. But we are proud of our team.

A Fine Fellow

I know a person that's kind and true.

His hair is not yellow,
His eyes are not blue,
But all the same he's a jolly good fellow.

He may not live in castles in the sky.

Or on easy streets,
But don't you worry he'll get by,
For you see he is not a cheat.

This person has always a smile,
For those who are weary and sad.
I know he has helped to shorten many a mile,

And make many a life glad.
He always does his part
In everything that's right.

He helps to gladden every heart
And makes many a load light,
I know he will be the first person I meet

In that heavenly home above,
For no one will go to that place of greatness.

With out a heart of love.
Seventh grade student.
Hazel Day.

The Country Schoolhouse

On a stretch of sandy soil
The country schoolhouse stands;
The prof a mighty man is he,
Who welds an iron hand.

Week in, week out, from nine till four,

Our lessons we recite;
We pupils think we know it all
But are hardly ever right.

Playing,— studying,— reciting,
Onward through school we go;
Each morning sees a task begin
Which lasts till the sun is low.

Seventh grade student.
Fae Green.

ART TREASURE FOR CHICAGO FAIR

The greatest El Greco outside of Spain, "The Assumption of the Virgin," will be one of the outstanding attractions of the art exhibit at the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago. It is one of the world's greatest masterpieces. The numerous figures are life size. A remarkable golden glow from some mysterious source suffuses the whole upper part of the picture. For hundreds of years painters have wondered how the great Cretan achieved this awe inspiring glow, and how he managed to endow his figures with so much life and emotion.

WORLD FAIR INSPIRES NEW STYLES

With Chicago's 1933 World's Fair—A Century of Progress—introduce a new style of dress inspired by the exposition's modern architecture?

Recently seven of Chicago's most prominent architects sat down and designed a dozen women's costumes, calculated to express the spirit of the exposition and its daring and dynamic architecture.

The results, first worn at the fashionable Red, White and Blue club's supper dance in the Hotel Sherman, made such an impression that no one will be greatly surprised if next spring finds shop windows blossoming forth with Century of Progress designs, featuring metal cloths, bright colors, and geometrically simple lines.

The architects who designed the dozen costumes which may set a style revolution are: John Root, Alfred Shaw, Ernest Grunsfeld, Samuel Marx, Abel Faldy, Louis Skidmore and Walter Frazier.

No wonder Texas has a large immigrant population. With cow girls like this, who wouldn't "stick 'em up" and sing "I Surrender Dear." This is Bee Brenner, a Port Arthur girl now singing with Joe Candullo in the Adolphus Junior ballroom, Dallas.

For White Teeth and Sound Gums

Use this Oxygen Producing Tooth Powder!

A new way to clean teeth and protect gums has come to supplant old, ineffectual and harmful methods. It lies in the use of active oxygen liberated in the mouth. Dentists hail it as the greatest advance in oral hygiene. Calox tooth powder embodies this revolutionary principle. Upon contact with the teeth and gums Calox tooth powder releases active oxygen. You can actually feel it bubbling forth within your mouth. This active oxygen is antiseptic, penetrating, stimulating. It breaks up the mucoid coating on the teeth. It enables the powder to clean and polish teeth to a gleaming white. It combats acid mouth and retards formation of tartar. It stimulates and strengthens the gums and leaves your mouth wholesome and sweet. Try Calox tooth powder tomorrow morning and see how white your teeth can be and how good your mouth can feel. It is more economical and children just love it, for its taste and refreshing action in the mouth. 30c and 60c sizes. A McKesson & Robbins product.

Dramatic Moment in Woman-Attack Trial

"There is the man who beat me, threatened to kill me, and then criminally attacked and shot my wife," said G. W. Dillehay, left, pointing an accusing finger at J. M. Pickett, right. This dramatic moment occurred in the district court at San Antonio. Pickett was sentenced to 99 years for the crime. Mrs. Hazel Dillehay and her husband both were disappointed in the verdict, thinking that Pickett should have been sentenced to the electric chair.

John Wilkes Booth Died By His Own Hand

John Wilkes Booth, actor assassin of President Lincoln 68 years ago April 14, was not slain by Sergt. Boston Corbett, but died by his own hand nearly 38 years after he had killed the president. That is the story of F. S. Rountree, former ranger, who says he saw the embalmed body of Booth in Austin three years ago.

"Booth was not shot by the sergeant—it was another man who had Booth's papers on him," Mr. Rountree said. "Booth, after he shot the president, got across the river. When he arrived on the Virginia side he found he had forgotten some important papers. He got a man to go back after them. It was this man the soldiers shot in the Garret barn.

"The man was instructed by Booth to meet him at the Garret farm. He got there before Booth and when he had identified himself to Mr. Garret, was told to go and sleep in the barn. Later the younger Garret boy was sent to the barn to watch this man.

"Booth was told by two Confederate officers when he got to the Garret's place that the Yanks are close on your heels and you had better hide in the woods." He did so and got away. The man who had his papers refused to come out of the barn when ordered to by the soldiers and was shot and killed."

The fugitive made his way to Texas and lived for ten years at Granbury under the name of John St. Helen, according to Mr. Rountree. "He ran a store where he sold whisky and tobacco. He was indicted once by the federal grand jury for selling whisky without a license. An attorney by the name of Bates was secured to defend him and the two became friends.

"Once St. Helen, or Booth, became ill and was told by the doctors he would die. He sent for Bates and told him his name was Booth and the circumstances of the affair. Later he recovered, but always felt he was indebted to Bates because of the latter's knowledge of his past life

"Drifting to Old Mexico, Booth later went to California, to Wyoming and then down to Oklahoma. He stopped at Enid and bought a home and lived there. When he left Washington in 1865 Booth said he had $7,000 in cash in the bank.

"Booth's mind was troubled by the shooting of Lincoln," said Rountree. "He is said to have claimed to have taken 'enough poison to kill 30 men' before he died.

After Booth's death in Enid, June 13, 1903, Bates, then living in Tennessee, was sent for. The attorney had the body embalmed and it was exhibited for years, according to Mr. Rountree.

When a young man Booth was in a fight with another man and received a cut over an eye. It caused the eyebrow to arch a little. The body embalmed had this mark on the head, Mr. Rountree said.—Lubbock Avalanche.
