

Ask That Herring's Furlough Be Revoked

Seagraves, May 8.—Petitions have been circulated here opposing the recent three-month furlough from the state penitentiary granted to O. M. Herring, former city attorney here, who was convicted of robbing the First State bank here May 27 last. Herring was paroled by Governor Miram A. Ferguson and visited here later.

Within less than 75 persons signed the petitions. They were addressed to Governor Ferguson and asked that the executive clemency be rescinded. Also, the petitions opposed granting clemency to Jodie Edwards, alleged "gun man" in the bank holdup, who was given a 25 year sentence, and Elmer Slaughter, who received 10 years. Herring was given a 14-year term.

Two Pleaded Guilty
The three men, with James W. Baker, were tried at Brownfield last February. Edwards was the first tried and the jury assessed 25 years while Baker was on trial, Slaughter and Herring decided to enter a plea of guilty.

Local citizens, following Herring's visit here after his release from Huntsville, wrote Governor Ferguson and asked why the parole was granted. The following letter was received from J. H. Davis: "I am requested by the governor to acknowledge receipt of your letter of April 22 with reference to the 90-day furlough granted to O. M. Herring. The record on file in this case shows that recommendation for clemency was signed by the district judge, the sheriff and many citizens of Palo Pinto county, all of which are on file in the office of the secretary of state, subject to public inspection."

Herald Must be Paid In Advance to Get Free Pass to Theatre

For the past year it has been the custom of the Rialto Theatre and the Herald to jointly, each week, give a pass to some show at the Rialto, to some Terry county family. The names are drawn from a list of subscribers, which are cut in strips from the mailing list and put in a box. Each week when the Rialto ad is brought to the Herald office, a name is drawn for that week, by Mr. Jones. The first one drawn gets the free pass to the show, regardless of how far behind the reader is.

Within 120 Million of A Balanced Budget

Washington, May 3.—President Roosevelt and Lewis Douglas, director of the budget are within $120,000,000 of balancing. This disclosure was made today in high quarters, with the information that the President is relying on a "hard boiled" basis in making his calculations, assuming that taxes will bring in no more next year than they have this year.

Officers raided one of our cafes Monday, and we understand got a considerable lot of home brew.

Mrs. J. M. Tinkler and family are entitled to a pass to the Rialto Theatre to see Rider of Death Valley Be sure to present this clipping at the box office at the Rialto Theatre. Compliment: Rialto-Herald

Baptist Association Workers Here Tues.

Baptist workers of the Brownfield Association, representing the three counties of Lynn, Terry and Yoakum met here Tuesday at the first Baptist church for the regular conference. Rev. J. M. Hale and his church were hosts to the visiting preachers and lay delegates.

"Evangelism" was the general theme of the meeting, which started at ten o'clock with a song service led by Rev. Noah Phillips. The following was the remainder of the program: "Total Depravity or Man's Condition Without Christ," Rev. W. K. McCollough, of Plains; "The Way of Salvation," Rev. W. K. Horn, Meadow; Music by Tahoka Ladies Quartet, composed of Mesdames Caveness, Wells, Nelson and Durham; sermon by Rev. L. Hays, of Tahoka.

Lunch was served at noon by the ladies of the local church. At one o'clock, there was a meeting of the board and W.M.U. Rev. R. E. Key of Tahoka led the afternoon song service, followed by Mrs. O. D. Carter of Seagraves with special music. "Baptism, the duty of the Saved," was the subject of a sermon by Rev. J. P. McBeth of Ropes, and Rev. W. F. Fry of Lubbock, preached on "The Safety of the Saved."

State Lions Meet at Lubbock May 21-22-23

Lubbock, May.—Plans for the entertainment of every Texas Lion at the state convention here May 21, 22 and 23, are being formulated by the committees of the Lubbock Lions Club, host club to the convention.

With the convention two weeks away, preparations are being rushed by General Convention Chairman S. J. McFarland through a group of twelve committees. The Hilton hotel will be headquarters for the convention. Sessions will also be held in the Hotel Lubbock.

The convention will be featured by the presence of International President Chas. H. Hatton of Wichita, Kansas, immediate past president, Julien C. Hyer of Forth Worth and governors of the five districts of Texas.

A wide range of entertainment features have been arranged for visiting Lions and their ladies. Besides the usual round of breakfasts, luncheons and dinners, an old fashioned chuck-wagon barbecue will be given on Monday night, May 22 on the Texas Tech athletic field. An athletic show in the college gymnasium and a rodeo on the field will precede the dinner.

Committees are also planning a trip to the famous Carlsbad Caverns near Carlsbad, New Mexico, as one of the features of the entertainment, the trip to come at the close of the convention.

International President Hatton is to be presented a woolen suit manufactured by students of Texas Technological college. Wool for the suit was grown on the campus and the cloth made in the college textile department.

Terry Farmers Urged To Attend F. B. Meet

Those in charge of the Farm Bureau meeting to be held in Lubbock, tomorrow afternoon, are very insistent that there be as good attendance from this county as possible, and are asking that we give the matter more last minute publication.

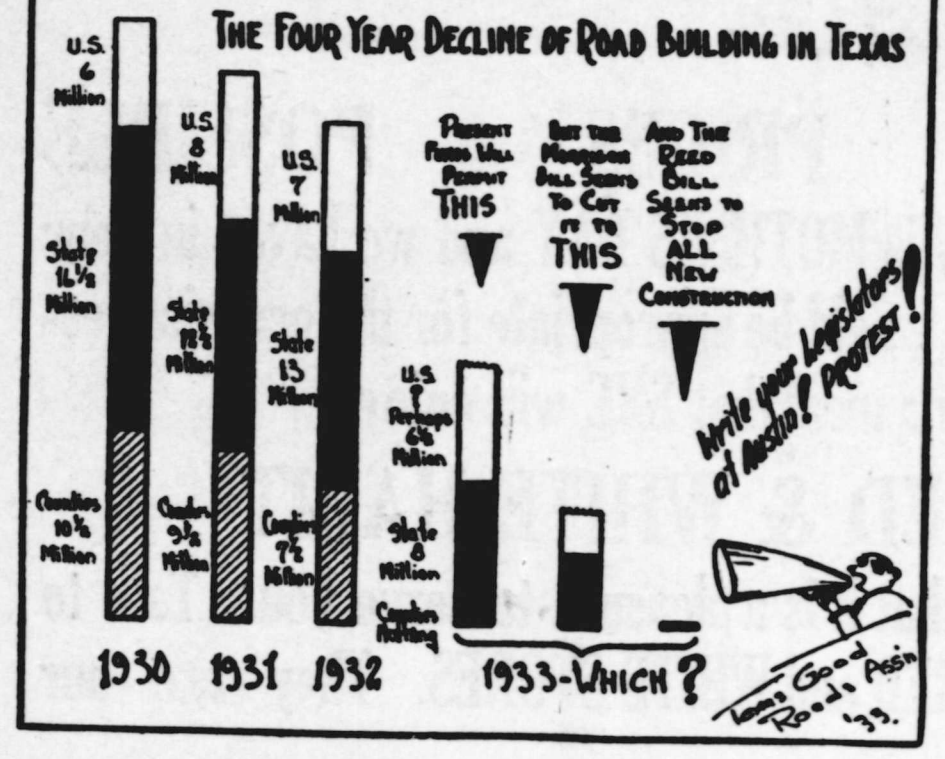

The feature speaker, of course will be Farmer Brown, and his address will explain the "New Deal" in agriculture. He is coming direct from Washington, and knows how to present the case of agriculture before any audience.

The meeting is called for Saturday May 13 at 2 o'clock in the district courtroom at the Lubbock county court house.

Lubbock Youth Dies From Self Poisoning

Lubbock, May 4.—Harold Hall, 20, unemployed and estranged from his 17-year-old wife, died of poisoning here last night. Justice of the Peace J.S. Connell, began an inquest. Hall was the son-in-law of Milt Good of Bronte. The young man had attempted to enroll in the citizens conservation corps here but was ineligible.

LO, THE POOR MOTORIST!

Two Important Conventions Here in Aug.

Brownfield and Terry county are entertaining three important conventions this year despite the fact that times are rather squally, or were just a few brief weeks ago, and the further fact that we do not have a very heavy population to care for these gatherings. However, what we lack in numbers are made up by a willingness to do our full duty of entertaining.

The first of these conventions is now history, that of entertaining the 14th district, P.T.A. and from our own feeling in the matter, as well as the private and public expressions of our visitors, that convention was a success from every angle, and this city and the community of the county are well pleased.

The next convention that will likely come will be the North and West Texas Harp Singers. They will be here for two days Saturday and Sunday, the 1st and 2nd of July. While it never has been definitely established just where this convention will be held, according to W. P. Elmore of this county, they were really invited here with the expectation that this being the center of the section, as well as the largest town, and with both a large school auditorium and city tabernacle, that Brownfield would make a bid for the convention. However, nothing much has been done toward it, and Mr. Elmore says that one of the rural communities have asked for it if Brownfield turns it down. This convention will bring hundreds to our town from Ft. Worth west and would mean much in an advertising way.

The last of these conventions will be the West Texas Primitive Baptist Association, who are coming here on the 3rd Sunday in August, but will also use the two days before this date. This convention will bring an estimated 1500 people, who will be easily cared for, as they generally bring their own camping equipment. Of course beavers are barbecued on the ground, and they mostly take care of themselves, according to Tom Bingham, one of that church's leaders in this county. But they must be provided with a camp site and a place to hold their conventions.

C. R. Nichols to Begin A Revival Here Sun.

Chas. R. Nichol, of Clifton, Texas, an Evangelist of National reputation, will begin a protracted meeting at the church of Christ, Sunday, May 14th, at 11:00 o'clock A. M. At 3:30 in the afternoon of the same day, he will give one of his lectures on the Holy Land, in which he has traveled extensively. We are fortunate in securing the services of this great man, and everyone is invited to hear him. Hours of services will be announced Sunday morning. Arrange your program so that you can hear him in each service. —Church of Christ.

Many Records Broken At the League Meet

Marlin Hayhurst returned Sunday from Austin, where he went to carry two of his track men, Jim Neill and Sawyer Graham, who were each eligible to compete, as well one boy from Meadow and one from Forrester who accompanied Mr. Hayhurst. The new superintendent, Mr. P. F. Lawlis, also accompanied Mr. Hayhurst and the other members of the party to the State Intercollegiate meet at Austin, but stopped over in Abilene on his return for a few days visit with his mother and sisters in Abilene.

In Abilene, L. Ledbetter, another member of the faculty here last term, was picked up, and accompanied them to Austin. "Tight" Graham and wife, who are attending Baylor U. at Waco, and Mrs. Graham's mother, Mrs. M. V. Brownfield, came down from Waco, so there was quite a few Brownfield people at the meet. Mr. Hayhurst informed us that records were broken time after time, during this meet. Indeed some ten or eleven of the probable fourteen events had previous records broken, and one was tied. The record javelin throw of "Tight" Graham last year was beaten by a few feet. It is said that Texas never had such a great throng of athletes there as was on hand this year, and it is believed they will be heard from in the national meet in Chicago in June.

The best we could do this year was to get a third place by Neill in the 120 yards high hurdles, and that was going some, according to those who witnessed the events, and the fact that Jim was handicapped by early closing of school here, and not a big lot of practice since. Sawyer was placed, but failed in the finals.

Ex-Farmer Moves to The Farm Again

Dear Editor: You can tell the Brownfield people to fire the nightwatchman, take the locks of the chicken house doors, and chain their dogs. We have moved to the country and won't be responsible for any more meanness done in town.

A sandstorm being in our favor, we left out two hours ahead of the "law." We feel under many obligations to the Work-No-More Club at the courthouse lawn as to their advice how the government should be run, and for a liberal supply of their good chewing tobacco.

We are in sympathy with all our town friends. They would all move to the country if the poor "rubes" were able to get away. Well, we have our feet planted safely on old terra firma once more. The loving of the cattle, squealing of the pigs and the cackling of the hens, and the chirp of the birds has the radio beat—and there you are. In our vision, we can see water-melons smiling on the vines as large as nail kegs, and tons of good things to eat growing, with a liberal mixture of ten cent cotton.

While living in town, Mr. Editor, our life was miserable. It took the most of our time to guard our dog for fear he might be dragged into police court and shot, for the sin of whetting his appetite on a town rabbit, or munching a stray chicken. Out dog seems to be well pleased with our move. Besides, he has ample room in our back yard to gnaw a bone.

Yours, —Campesino.

Fishing Party Returns From Old Mexico

The Herald family as well as many other families enjoyed a fine mess of cat fish and bass, complimentary of the Smith and Brownfield families who have just returned from a fishing trip to the Sabinas river in Old Mexico. Our mess or rather two or three "messes" was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Redford Smith in person, and they certainly were fine. The party consisted of A. M. Brownfield and family, or all those at home yet, A. R. Smith and wife, and Misses Vivian Winston and Kathleen Hardin. The party reports a fine trip; no trouble whatever, and very courteous treatment by the Mexican authorities. They were able to not only catch all the fish they wanted while down there, but had a real enjoyable time seeing sights that are not to be seen in this section.

Just across the river from where they were fishing there was a celebration of some event, birthday or otherwise, in Mexican history, and the party attended. They were shown every courtesy by the president or mayor as we would say of the town. Soon after their arrival on the grounds, they were provided with chairs and the mayor sent word that their belongings had a special guard placed about them. They were invited and partook of the picnic dinner when it was announced. Do we Americans show half this much courtesy to our neighbors to the south?

Of course, we spend lots of money with Mexico touring, fishing and hunting in their country, and they appreciate this American gold that is spent there. But we believe they just naturally like to see us have a good time when among them. And we should always show our appreciation by being nice to them and obeying their laws to the best of our ability. We are sure Brownfield and Terry county people do.

Texas Wool Clip Sets New High Record

The importance of Texas in the wool industry continues to grow, even if there is no processing of the raw wool done in the state. The 1932 Texas wool clip was 57,105,000 pounds, setting a new high record that is approximately twice as large as that of 1926, and three times the total of a decade ago.

The nation's clip, on the other hand, showed a material decrease, with a total of only 344,354,000 pounds, the Texas contribution to which was more than 16 per cent of the total as against 14.3 per cent in 1931.

How long Texas will continue the production of an increasing percentage of American wool with no development whatever in the processing of that product is a question. The entire Texas crop is shipped out of the state without even the rougher process of washing being given it to eliminate the thousands of pounds of grease and dirt on which the freight is paid to destination.

Wells to Broadcast Yellowstone Program

"Most people who tell you about a visit to Yellowstone National Park spend most of their time describing the natural freaks they have seen, and seldom mention the rare natural beauty which accompanies these oddities," says Carveth Wells, globe-trotting Continental Oil Company radio entertainer, who will deliver his second 1933 Yellowstone broadcast Wed. night, May 17, over 20 NBC stations. "In reality, the topography and vegetation to be found in Uncle Sam's largest playground provides equally good talking points," according to Wells. "Step off the beaten park trails awhile," Wells urges. The wealth of animal and plant life you encounter and the beauty of the high, secluded mountain scenery will leave impressions never to be forgotten."

The Conoco program may be heard by local listeners who tune in on station WFAA, Dallas, Wed night at 8:30 o'clock.

Mrs. E. A. Graham called in this week to put their Herald up another year.

The School Crisis Outlined at Lubbock

A crowd that swelled from about 35 persons to perhaps four times as many after the meeting began at 10 o'clock attended a South Plains educational rally in Lubbock High school auditorium Saturday morning. Business and professional men, school teachers and executives, and members of boards of education were there.

Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Technological College, was the principal speaker. His subject was "The Crisis of Public Education in Texas." Dr. J.T. Hutchinson, president of the board of trustees of the Lubbock Independent school district, presided at the meeting, which adjourned at noon.

Resolutions Adopted
The major object of the rally, one of 24 to be conducted in the state was accomplished: unanimous passage of a resolution asking the legislature to make possible a per capita student apportionment of $17.50 for 1933-34. Miss Mae Murfee, superintendent of Lubbock county schools, reported boards of trustees of all rural schools in the county had signed similar resolutions.

John L. Ratliff, a Lubbock lawyer submitted the resolution at Saturday morning's assembly. Two other resolutions also were proposed and passed. V.Z. Rogers, superintendent of Lamesa schools, suggested both. The first, expressing favor of a current administration equalization bill, incorporating principles of both rural aid and high school tuition, was passed unanimously. Mr. Rogers' second resolution, passed by a narrow margin, favored retention of the law as it is with references to six-year-old children in public schools, if the state can afford it. Mr. Rogers voiced opposition to a senatorial proposal to bar children from public schools until they are seven years old unless parents pay for the six-year-olds fees equal to state per capita apportionments.

"When industry's profits were going up fabulously, teachers' salaries were standing still," said Doctor Knapp. Teachers' salaries eventually began to climb, often slowly. Expressing faith in willingness of the teaching profession to sacrifice, and relating instances of it, Doctor Knapp expressed confidence in the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt, and that teaching with other vocations will emerge from the slough.

T. H. Holmes, secretary of the Ralls board of education, spoke dwelling chiefly upon problems of procuring revenue to support public schools. R. A. Simms of Brownfield, and Mr. Rogers spoke.

Mr. Holmes was elected secretary to send copies of the resolution to state legislators from districts in this region.

Tom Garrard, a member of the state board of education, of Lubbock, scheduled to speak, was unable to attend.—Lubbock Avalanche.

Sheriff Smith Brings in Burglars From Okla.

Sheriff Jess Smith of this county, went to Oklahoma the latter part of last week, where he returned with Van Haley and Claude (Chief) Howard, the latter part Indian, wanted in this county for robbing the Jones Dry Goods store at Meadow some time during the night or early morning of May 2. They were lodged in jail here, and their examining trial is to come up this week.

A number of hats, shirts, ties and underwear; also some cigars were taken. Some of these hats had the Jones brand and address in them, which led the Oklahoma officers to pick them up. Some of the brands had been cut out of the hats. The Oklahoma officers held them and wired Sheriff Smith, asking if any burglaries had happened in this county. Mr. Smith informed them that he would be up immediately after the prisoners.

Mr. Smith informed us that they had taken more than $50 worth of goods, and if this did not give them a turn in the pen, the burglarizing count would. Howard has lived in the Meadow section, according to Sheriff Smith.

Our old friend, J. M. Story, of Plains, sent in the cold cash the past week for the Herald again, and a new subscription to the Abilene Morning News.

C. C. Warren, out on route 3, send in a big brisket roast this week to be applied on his Herald.

Mothers Day and Childbirth Dangers

The great events of this world are not revolutions, and economic conferences and banking reforms. The great events of this world are babies. The most important people of the world are not soldiers, and statesmen and bankers. The most important people in the world are mothers, who are called to bring into existence a new generation.

So it is fitting that on Mother's Day we honor mothers. It is even more fitting that on this day that we should take steps to make motherhood safe for them, as it is agreed by leading authorities that at least half the 16,000 who die annually in childbirth could be saved by adequate maternity care.

A meeting aimed to help remedy the situation is scheduled to be held in New York City May 12th, with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, as principal speaker. A number of outstanding medical authorities and educational leaders are to be on the program. Emphasis is to be placed on two important steps to be taken. First, parents should understand that much depends on the choice of the doctor, and parents must trust his judgement, and not try to prevail upon him to make painless a process which cannot always be made free from pain without increasing the risk and other undesirable complications. Second, if a hospital is chosen, it should be one of high standards, such as those approved by the American College of Surgeons, for despite the fact that each year finds more women going to hospitals, there is no corresponding decrease in the mortality rate. In fact, many authorities believe it is safer for a woman to have her baby at home, if conditions there are suitable, unless the mother's condition requires special care.

The Maternity Center Association of New York, which is sponsoring the Mother's Day meeting, has made a notable contribution to knowledge of what adequate maternity care can do to save mothers' lives. Among 4,726 women under their care over a period of eight years in a certain section of New York City, the death rate was reduced two-thirds.

Among those to be present at the Mother's Day meeting are: Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor; Surgeon-General Hugh S. Cumming; Miss Grace Abbot, Chief of the Children's Bureau; Dr. Walter Chipman, noted obstetrician of Montreal; Dr. Linsley Williams, Managing Director of the New York Academy of Medicine; Dr. J. Allison Hodges, President of the Medical Society of the State of Virginia and Dr. S. S. Goldwater of the American Hospital Association.

With such an imposing array of well-informed and influential people behind this movement to "Make Motherhood Safe for Mothers," it is not too much to expect the new deal to include the "Forgotten Woman."

Chevrolet Building More Cars this Year

For the fourth consecutive month this year the number of cars and trucks built by the Chevrolet Motor Company for consumption in the domestic market exceeded the corresponding month last year when April production went 4,000 units ahead of April, 1932. W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager announced today.

Total production for the month just ended was 59,953 new cars and trucks, compared with 38,665 in April last year, Mr. Knudsen announced. Of this number, all but 5,000 units were shipped to dealers in the United States.

Up to the end of April his company had built 208,000 units this year, compared with 188,000 in the first four months of 1932, Mr. Knudsen announced.

Brownfield Tigers Take Game from Ralls

A good game of baseball, considering that it was among the first of the season between the Tigers, local colored team, and a team of negroes from Ralls. At the end of the hard fought game, the Brownfield boys had an edge on the score of 13 to 5. Local colored baseball leaders tell us that a great many games are now and will be matched with teams from other towns during the season.

Back to the Loom Says Tech Col. President Lubbock, Texas, May—The weaving of wool with a hand loom is a proposed new industry for West Texas by Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Technological College, and Dr. Knapp proposes to lend the assistance of the college in getting the industry started.

The textile department of the college has designed and now has in practical operation a hand loom which weaves beautiful and serviceable woolen cloth suitable for suits, overcoats, and other garments.

In ancient times plumed knights rode around redressing wrongs, but now the American people have only plugged hat statesmen. The housewives of Brownfield do not like boys' footprints on their nice floors, but anyway these prints show where the boys have been.

A mountaineer lad from old Kentucky joined the army, and without ever having seen an army rifle before hung up a new record for consecutive hits on the rifle range. He explained it to the Colonel this way: "Every maw'nin' for years pa's been handing me the old muzzle-loader with a charge of powder and just one bullet. And he says, 'Here boy, go get breakfast.' So you see I ain't used to missin' much."

To give some idea of the practical operation and efficiency of this hand loom, a skillful student is able to weave a yard an hour, or enough cloth in a day to make a suit or an overcoat.

Good idea to squeeze water out of stocks, but it doesn't help any when they also squeezed out the meat and the juice. Innumerable people are telling the world, which the world doesn't object to, providing it doesn't have to listen.

IN THE FARMER'S OWN HANDS

The farmers of the country are naturally encouraged by the fact that the present Administration, like the last, is giving every effort to stabilize their industry, raise prices, and broaden and improve markets. These efforts will doubtless meet with a degree of success.

President Knapp urges individuals and organizations interested in installing a loom to write him. He has ordered 20 yards of the cloth woven in the Tech textile department for his own use.

It will come through the buying and selling power that only collective action can give. Rubber Goods Not Molded
 Contrary to what seems to be the quite common impression, rubber goods are not cast by pouring the melted material into molds. Instead the crude rubber is worked between steam-heated rolls and at the same time the sulphur and other ingredients are mixed in. The warm, plastic mixture is then molded and heated to vulcanize the rubber—that is, to cause the sulphur to combine with it.

Farmer's Relief Must Come First, Says Industrial Leader

President of Goodrich Rubber Company Urges Support of Roosevelt.—Does Not Oppose Cotton Relief Program Although Company Is One of Largest Users of Cotton

JAMES D. Tew, president of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, one of the largest users of cotton in the United States, stated in a recent interview that his company will support wholeheartedly the efforts of President Roosevelt if the new farm bill accomplishes the purpose for which it is designed, it will increase the price of cotton as well as other farm products and so will act as a stimulus to the management of the rubber company. On the other hand Mr. Tew said that he felt strongly that this is the time when everyone should earnestly cooperate with the administration in its efforts to overcome the extraordinary trying conditions which have so long prevailed.

"We must all forget our selfish interests and inconveniences in the interest of prosperity for the country at large," Mr. Tew continued. "President Roosevelt is now in complete duty to back his leadership. We, of the B. F. Goodrich Company, propose to do so in spite of the fact that our production and distribution problems may become much more difficult.

"Few people realize," Mr. Tew stated, "that the tire and rubber industry is one of the largest users of cotton. Cotton is second in importance to rubber in the manufacture of tires, because, over shoes and scores of other products of the Goodrich Company. In dollar value it nearly equals our rubber cost.

The President's farm relief program is designed to increase the price of farm products, including raw cotton. The realization of this purpose will obviously increase the production cost of most rubber articles as the majority of such articles will incorporate a substantial percentage of cotton. We feel very strongly, however, that in the interest of the farmers and the welfare of the country as a whole, it is our duty to forget selfish interests and back up wholeheartedly the efforts of our President in restoring stability to the economic life of the nation.

The Goodrich Company recently restored the salaries of employees in all departments to the level in effect prior to March 6, with the expectation that constructive legislation in Washington will soon result in greater business activity.

Hurrah for Shaw. We endorse 95 percent of his castigations. If he is ambassadoring around here for old England, per se, we readily admit his tribe holds the blue ribbon, and are past grand masters with no rivals in the art and talent of deceit and cultural filching of upstart bushwhacking as he seems to see. We will lay one ground wire right up to his itching ear, with this message from the other end, England's filching is ending, and Gandhi is ascending. Why not with some of this culture passed to India's 316,055,341 inhabitants with only 22,623,651 barely able to read? Charity might as well begin at home, and we hope to hear of him doing some real egoing in India and Russia in the remote future. Farewell, Mr. Shaw, sleep this over.

SHAKESPEAREAN TOUCH IN PASSING OF "STONEWALL"

For a natural masterpiece of dying, nothing has ever impressed me so much as the death of Stonewall Jackson, writes Charles D. Stewart in the Atlantic Monthly.

The bullets had struck him down while he was reconnoitering after his successful attack at Chancellorsville came by mistake from some of his own men. Eight days after being wounded (having borne up under the amputation of an arm) he passed away in delirium; and history has recorded the things he said as he died.

It was a stubborn battle, a hot fight, with quick strategy and high and rapid thinking. And when it was over he crossed to the other side. He must have entered into peace riding at the head of a victorious army, for certainly if it had not been a victory he would not have given that order to cross the river and rest in the shade.

Here was truly a Shakespearean passing. It is great drama written by life itself. If Shakespeare had found it standing thus in Plutarch he would have kept it and made no alteration—a thing he was great enough to do.

Jackson's death was a greater shock to the south than is easy to conceive. It was an event that filled the Southerners not only with sorrow, but with forebodings of defeat; for his victories had been so notable, and so almost certain, that they had learned to depend on him as on some newly invented engine of war.

Texas Hopes for Much Federal Highway Aid

Houston Texas, May—Hope that Texas may share in the government's public works program through allotment of some of these federal funds for road-building is contained in late advices from Washington, W. O. Huggins, president of the Texas Good Roads Association, said today.

"That President Roosevelt and his administration would soon come to recognize the continuation, even the increase of highway construction, as the most important part of a general public works program, was really to be expected," the road leader said.

"Very recently it has been pressed upon the national administration that diminished highway construction would create a new unemployment situation for which we are wholly unprepared. It was urged that on the other hand it is the soundest of all expenditures for public works, and the only one of them which is self-liquidating in principle. Self-liquidating because the highways of the United States are the only government enterprise which is paying its own way. The are doing that and helping other things besides.

It was but natural that Texas should feel disappointment the it could not be included in the program for national parks and reforestation of government lands. It could not be because of the lack of national parks in Texas, and because in entering the the Union, Texas retained title to its own public lands.

"With determination and persistence, the Texas Good Roads Association and others interested in the highways and the unemployment situation in Texas have urged these facts upon our representatives in Washington, and other authority there. Our efforts are beginning to bear fruit.

"It is too soon to know what form the new federal highway appropriation will take. Heretofore, none has been made except to match dollars with the states in construction of federal highways traversing those states. The law now limits the federally-designated highways to 15% of the state-designated highways. Texas has, at this time, the limit of her federal quota. So whatever the form the new highway legislation takes in congress, we may be sure that those states which do not divert their own highway revenues away from highway building will be best prepared and first in line to receive the benefits."

And with this simple, easily con- recent statements by the Assistant Secretary of Agriculture that states which divert their own road-money will be regarded in Washington as having the least need of federal help.

May Day Celebrations Custom of Pagan Times

May day was first dedicated to the Goddess Maie—the goddess of fertility—many, many years ago. It was originally a pagan custom celebrating the return of spring. The Romans, too, as early as 238 B. C., because of a bad harvest instituted a similar custom of worship dedicated to their goddess Flora. The Roman festivities extended from April 28 to May 3 every year. This celebration was called Fioralia or Floral Games.

In England during the Middle ages we find literary allusions to their May day celebrations. Very early on May day morning the girls and boys went to the woods "to fetch the flowers fresh." The expedition was called "going a-Maying."

They picked armfuls of flowers and flowering branches and returned to the village with them about sunrise with great spirit and accompaniments of horn and tabor. The windows and doors were hung with the branches and bushes were planted in the streets. A young suitor could so honor the residence of his lady love. In addition, the fairest maid of the village was crowned queen. She was throned under a floral arch and presided over the jubilation. This custom of selecting a May queen was also a relic of the Roman days.

Professor Would Take Laurels From Ericsson

Another patriotic myth has been forced to lower its colors in the face of careful historical research, writes William E. Rae in a Boston paper. The popular conceit that the United States led the rest of the world in the introduction of ironclad warships and that the dramatic combat between the Monitor and the Merrimac began this revolution in naval architecture which transformed navies the world over, receives no countenance from Prof. James Phinney Baxter, assistant professor of history at Harvard and master of the seventh house to be built under Harvard's new house plan.

"The dramatic qualities of this first fight between ironclads have led Americans ever since to exaggerate the effects of the battles of Hampton Roads," Professor Baxter says. "An examination of manuscript material in Paris, London and Washington shows clearly that France, not the United States, played the leading role in the introduction of ironclads."—Detroit News.

Governors' Conferences

The factors which brought about the establishment of the governors' conference were the growing centralization of power at Washington, the shifting, uncertain status of state's rights, and the lack of uniform laws. The first meeting was held at the White House in 1908. It was called by President Roosevelt, and the principal subject considered was the conservation of natural resources. The functions of the governors' conference are officially declared to be: Exchange of views and experiences on subjects of general importance to the people of the several states, the promotion of greater uniformity in state legislation, and the attainment of greater efficiency in state administration.

Contractor's Luck

One Nevada contractor now believes in the old saying, "Gold is where you find it." He took a job for removing old timbers from an abandoned mine; the work proved more difficult than expected and it appeared he was going to lose money on the contract. Removing a section of logging from an old drift, two sacks of ore tumbled out, apparently concealed there by a "high-grader" in the boom days. The ore was some of the richest found in the region and the contractor says his contract turned out to be one of the most profitable he ever had.

Red Goose—The Ojibwa

An Indian Story for Boys and Girls By Carlyle Emery

Episode No. 27

The soldiers from Ft. Fidelity are on their way home from St. Louis, and have tied their boat to a tree stump near the river bank. Red Eagle had warned the Captain of danger from the Sioux, who are evidently on the war path. So his brave son, Red Goose is helping keep watch.—Now go on with the story.

Red Goose and Bear Cat were keeping watch—Red Goose on one side of the boat—Bear Cat on the other side.

About midnight, there can a sudden call of a Whippoorwill. "That's funny," thought Bear Cat. "It's pretty late in the season for Whippoorwill."

The next moment a dark form raised up behind him and struck with a tomahawk. The blow stunned Bear Cat, and as the treacherous Sioux raised his tomahawk again, a shot rang out and the red skin fell over the side of the boat into the water.

Red Goose too, had heard the call of the Whippoorwill, which was really a signal for attack, and going quickly to the other side of the boat, he had been just in time to save Bear Cat.

His rifle shot roused the soldiers, who jumped up quickly, seizing their guns and getting ready for a fight. "Quick, men!" said Captain Robert, "they'll be attacking us in force in a moment. One of them got Bear Cat from behind, but his heart is still beating. I think Red Goose saved his life. Drag him over behind those crates."

The Captain was interrupted by a chorus of yells and war whoops from the Indians on shore, who were preparing to climb on board.

Their rifle shots cut the night air crisp and sharp, and their deadly arrows began to fall in rapid succession.

"We've got to cut loose and get in midstream at once!" said Captain Roberts. "Any volunteers?" "I'll go, sir," said Smith, one of the men in the party, picking up a hatchet and starting out on deck.

But the moment the Red Skins saw him, their guns started a fresh volley and Smith fell forward on his face.

This was too much for Red Goose, who took out his hunting knife and started to crawl on his hands and knees to the big rope that held the boat fast to shore.

The Captain tried to call him back, but Red Goose knew that there was no time to lose. He reached the rope and with bullets whizzing past his head, and arrows falling all around him. With two or three swift strokes, he cut the rope into, but as he started back, he felt a hot flash in his right shoulder, and down he fell.

"He's down! They got him!" cried the Captain, as the boat swung toward midstream. "They've got Red Goose saved us all!"

Slowly the boat moved further and further away from the shore, while the Sioux left behind filled the night with yells of rage and disappointment.

Work of transforming nearly four hundred acres of barren, sandy, man-made land—erected from the bottom of Lake Michigan—into Chicago's World's Fair grounds is rapidly nearing completion. All the major buildings are either completed or nearly so as may be seen from the aerial view of A Century of Progress.

OUR 23 YEAR COLUMN

On the front page of our May 14th issue of 1910, we find a write-up of the results of the first Trades-day, which was the first Saturday instead of Monday. We reported that in spite of the week's grind of district court and a good rain, the farmers and ranchmen for miles came to the affair. Here is some of the deals and prizes: Bert Shepherd and M. K. Lindsey trades stallions, and Harry Braidfoot bought a $300 span of pink mules. Wood Paragon, imported English hackney horse was first in an all purpose, and Nero, belonging to Uncle Joe Fisher, was first draft stallion. Mr. Hanna, Mr. Lindsey won $2 each on their colts;

Holden on milch cow, and the prettiest baby, a high arm chair. It happened to be the Sheriff's baby (Hello Elwood). Gomez captured the ball game from Brownfield. An announcement on the first page, also, said that the Lubbock Ice Plant would be in operation that week.

On the second page, the trustees had a notice for bids to build an addition of two rooms (wing) to the school building, the work to be completed before school opened. Also, T. J. O'Donnell had announced as a candidate for representative of the 101st district, then composed of Lynn, Terry, Yoakum, Gaines, Loving, Winkler, Ward, Crane, Upton, Ector, Midland, Glasscock, Andrews, Martin, Howard Mitchell, Nolan, Fisher, Scurry, Borden, Kent, Dawson, Garza, Crosby, Lubbock, Hockley and Cochran. Some district. A statement of the Brownfield State Bank called for at the close of business on the 2nd day of May, gave resources of $110,495.45; cash and exchange, $29,295.29; Deposits, $70,656.35. Sworn to by M. V. Brownfield as president and Will Alf Bell, cashier, before W. R. Spencer, notary.

On the local page: J. R. Hill visited Lubbock. Mrs. Kinard and family were visiting in Sonewall county. Dr. Norris, of Lubbock, was here looking after his interests. Bob Kinard brought in a load of prospectors from Jones county. Miss Pearl Stewart left for Bell county to visit relatives. John Scuddy and family moved into their new home. Rev. Baggett, holiness minister, preached at the Methodist church. The district judge and attorney left for Tahoka to hold court. Dr. Ellis left for a visit with his parents in Bell county. A pair of boxing gloves had been received to start training future pugilists. J. W. Hill of San Angelo, was visiting his cousin, J. R. Mr. Francis, of Kansas was through to see his Yoakum county property. Mrs. C. P. Biles had been visiting at German, Texas. Mr. A. Judd, a member of the firm of DeShazo Bros., at Lubbock, was a visitor here. Cleve Holden purchased the barber shop from Homer Scott. J. W. Taylor and J. W. Peeler were here from Meadow. Chas. W. Weaver was here from Newark, Ohio, looking after his property. Arthur Alexander and Cummins had purchased the tailor shop from Royalty & Dupree. Will Ed Harris wrote in from the South-western U., Georgetown, that he was enjoying the Herald. Messrs. McKinley and Cheney of Lubbock had purchased the Brownfield Auto Shop from G. A. Pyron.

In District Court, Judge Robinson of Lubbock presided for Judge Kinder for some reason. The grand jury returned 9 bills. All cases were continued with the exception of Holden vs. Williams case, in which damages of $27 was given plaintiff.

In county court, Judge Neill was disqualified, as the commissioners court was being tried, and J. L. Randal made special judge. The commissioners were acquitted. All for this week.

ECONOMY BEGINS AT HOME

Moore Lynn, the State Auditor, who has proven to be practically the first state official in recent times able to speak with any precision at all as to the fiscal condition of governmental Texas, told the East Texas Chamber of Commerce the other day that 82 percent of ad valorem taxes in Texas are local. In figures the proportion is $121,000,000 local ad valorem as against $27,000,000 State ad valorem.

There is a double significance involved in this statement of ratio. The obvious one is that which Mr. Lynn himself developed, namely, that economy in taxation begins at home. Those who groan about the exactions of government and who at the same time constantly demand more service of government are the victims of their own vices.

The other indication is that there is proceeding a gradual separation of tax fields, so that the state is slowly abandoning the ad valorem type of levy to the subordinate taxing powers. This is not entirely without compensatory benefits—aside from the matter of tax load itself. For, should the time ever come when all ad valorem taxation is for county and city use alone, the inequalities of valuation for tax purposes would be harmless as between county and county or as between city and city. The clause in the Constitution commanding equal and uniform taxation would work automatically, whereas now the diversity of valuation scales is such as to make that clause virtually inoperative on a State-wide basis.—Dallas News.

And now we may expect to see "Legal Beer" signs at certain state lines.

Let's hope he doesn't lop off the appropriation for the poor house.

Prevention and Cure Of Pellagra is Easy

"Pellagra is a disease caused by not eating the right kind of food and shows itself usually by a strange kind of reddening and scaling of the skin," said Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. "The person with pellagra usually suffers loss of appetite, indigestion, diarrhea, soreness of the mouth and tongue, nervousness, low spirits, and more or less general weakness."

"Thousands of Texans suffer with this disease and approximately one thousand die each year. More cases appear in the spring and early summer months than any other time of the year. This is because more people live on a restricted diet during the winter. It comes to those whose diet does not contain all that is needed to keep one in good health. The missing essential in the diet is called the pellagra prevention factor or vitamin. We know this because people who eat the right kind of food do not have the disease, because all those who do have the disease and eat the right kind of food get well and remain well as long as they maintain a proper diet and because when people are fed the wrong kind of food they develop the disease. Pellagra is not a communicable disease. The treatment should be directed by your doctor and the main thing is diet. Do not rely on patent medicines."

"The prevention of pellagra depends on eating the right kind of food at all times. To make sure that the diet is right, it should always include plenty of milk daily, some fresh meat and as many fresh vegetables as possible. Tomatoes, whole wheat products, salmon, brewer's yeast, and fresh fruits are especially valuable. Having provided these essentials of a proper diet, the rest can be arranged according to family and personal likes. In this way you may avoid pellagra."

If business concerns used more printer's ink in advertising, they'd not need so much red ink to record losses.

When you put in good hard licks on your job, you help sell the products that Brownfield creates and distributes.

Cotton Market Is $11 Above Lowest

Washington, May 6—The cotton market is about $11 a bale above the low point touched late last March and the opinion is expressed that it is in a fairly healthy position because of heavy profit-taking at various stages of the advance.

Spot middling made and held a new 1933 top of 8.56 a cents a pound on the late trading at New Orleans but the average for the week was 8.36 cents compared with 7.27 a week ago and 5.58 for the corresponding time last year.

May future contracts for the week at New York advanced 108 points to 8.42 cents a pound, at New Orleans 105 points to 8.36 and at Chicago 96 points to 8.41. Last trading swept July contracts to 8.65 at New Orleans, October to 8.88 and December to 9.04 but profit-taking at those levels caused reactions of 20 to 30 cents a bale. The July option at New York soared to 8.70 cents a pound but closed at 8.59. There was a corresponding upswing in drygoods.

The command to "stick 'em up" is less frequently heard. Nothing in 'em these days.

Lynn-Garza County Line Case Settled

The supreme court of Texas recently over-ruled the motion filed by Garza county for a new hearing in the county boundary dispute recently decided by that body.

Lynn county won practically everything she was contending for in this suit. The over-ruling of the motion for a new hearing means that the matter is finally settled. Many counties in this section of the state were involved in this suit. Garza and Lynn counties were the original parties to the suit and are probably more vitally concerned than any other counties.

The last and final step to be taken is the setting up of markers on the boundary lines on all highways and at other places showing the location of these boundaries. Judge Smith contemplates that this will be done some time soon.—Tahoka News.

that community represents. The degree of risk, obviously, is determined by the number and extent of fires, in comparison to similar data obtained from a thousand similar communities. The town with poor fire protection thus pays twice... in property damage and the destruction of productive enterprise, and in insurance rates.

Are your town's water facilities adequate for any potential emergency? Is the department well trained and disciplined, under an experienced fire chief? And—perhaps most important of all—is the fire fighting apparatus the product of one of the three standard makers? Is it the kind of apparatus that time and experience has proven to be of the highest possible quality?

If the answer to those questions is Yes, your town is well protected against fire. If it is No, your life and your property are in danger, and it is time for a change.

It might be well, also, to balance the rubber stamps.

CAN YOUR TOWN ANSWER "YES?"

Periodically newspapers carry accounts of some community's "fire rating" being changed to another class. This means that the insurance rate is either going up or down in accordance with the risk property in

AGED LADY OF UNION DIED LAST FRIDAY

Mrs. O. H. Garner, aged 77 years, six months and ten days, passed to her reward at the family residence in the Union community last Friday afternoon late. She was a fine lady, a friend to all mankind, a true helpmeet, a loving mother and an incomparable neighbor.

We are informed that when she learned that she was passing, she was very happy and so expressed herself. She and her husband had long been members of the Methodist church, and Rev. Ed Tharp, pastor of that church here, assisted by Rev. J. M. Hale, the Baptist pastor, conducted the funeral services at the Union Baptist church, following which, the body was laid to rest in the Union cemetery.

All near relatives except the eldest son in California and a niece of Amarillo, were in attendance at the funeral. Those that attended the funeral besides her husband, were, J. H. Garner of Kirkland, T. C. and H. G. Garner of Union, Mrs. W. E. Robinson of Plainview, and Mrs. J. C. Bond of Brownfield.

EX-SETH WARD STUDENTS TO HOLD A REUNION

Mrs. J. E. Moore went to Lubbock Sunday afternoon to meet with other members of a committee to plan a reunion of ex-Seth Ward students. The first reunion since the school burned was held in Plainview last summer. About 100 were present.

It is planned to have another meeting August 25, this year, at the same place, and it is hoped that a larger delegation will attend.

REUNITED CHURCH HERE BRINGS MUCH REJOICING

Sunday, May 7th, will long be remembered by members of the Church of Christ in Brownfield, as a happy day with the reuniting of brethren. The two bodies were reunited Sunday after months of meeting in separate places, during which time some were constantly working to remove the difficulties of reuniting that stood in the way.

Finally through the persistent and prayerful efforts, and wise counsel of leaders on either side, it was announced that all misunderstandings and difficulties had been removed, and that the two bodies would meet together at the church building Sunday night, and would continue to meet for work and worship together. It was a happy meeting, and amidst much rejoicing, great things are being planned. Bro. Fisher of Seminole preached a great sermon at the night service.

With greater zeal, an increased determination, and larger possibilities, we press the battle for Right and Truth in united strength, with God's help, to the accomplishing of worthwhile things in the service of the Lord.

—M. O. Daley.

MOTHERS DAY TO BE OBSERVED AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday is Mother's Day and we are urging every member of the Baptist church to be present, and any others that will. Those that do not have a conveyance and will indicate this fact to the Pastor, a way will be provided. A nice program has been arranged by the Sunday School.

We are pulling for 300 in Sunday School and church. Please try to be with us. The pastor's subject for the morning hour will be, "More Than Conquerors Through Christ."

—J. M. Hale, Pastor.

MIGHT BE A FUNERAL FOR SPECIAL INTERESTS

The special interest fellows, the officials who have not been attentive to looking after the interests of the people, and a lot of other folks who may be more or less innocent, including the rich, had better look out for the temper of the people. They may get aroused in a hurry, and then explosions may follow. Remember about the mule:

Religious and Secular Stories That Parallel

All the great religions have stories that parallel each other in some degree. For instance, Jephthah, one of the Judges of Israel, made a remarkable vow before he marched against the Ammonites, that if he proved victorious he would offer to the Lord the first living thing which should come to meet him on his return. This happened to be his only daughter, whom he sacrificed to fulfill his rash vow. The history of Jephthah is contained in the second book of Judges. Idomeneus, in Homeric legend, king of Crete, succeeded his father Deucalion on the throne, and accompanied the Greeks to the Trojan war with a fleet of 90 ships. During this war he rendered himself famous by his valor. While returning, he made a vow to Neptune in a dangerous tempest that if he escaped he would offer to the god whatever living creature first presented itself to his eye on the Cretan shore. This was his son, who came to congratulate him on his safe return. Idomeneus redeemed his promise, but the inhumanity of this sacrifice rendered him so odious to his subjects that he was exiled from his country.—Montreal Family Herald.

Insignia of Royalty in Ancient Egyptian Tomb

A tomb discovered near Cairo, by Prof. Selim Hassan, containing a mummy adorned with a gold crown and a complete set of jewelry, is perhaps the only tomb in this area untouched by thieves. The gold crown was 24 inches in circumference. It was kept in position by two gold lotus flowers, joined by a chalice. Each flower was topped by a bird with a long beak, named in hieroglyphics "Yakhu." In the middle of the crown in front was a disk studded with colored stones set in another lotus flower. The large necklace was composed of 50 pieces of gold in the shape of some insects threaded on a gold string. Gold bracelets having the form of the hieroglyphic letter "N"; a number of silver bracelets—it is believed that this is the first time silver bracelets have been discovered in a tomb of the fourth dynasty—and two pure gold anklets also were found.

Curiosity From the Bog

Uncovering the bog at Ralaghan, in the county of Sherecock, Ireland, a curious bit of wood carving was brought to light which is perplexing the archeologists and scientists of Ireland and England. The specimen is evidently of great age, 500 years at least, and probably much more. It is about 3 feet in length and represents a woman, but the arms are missing, and it is the work of a skilled carver. There are some curious inscriptions upon it which are legible. The specimen has been placed on exhibition at the Dublin museum with the hope that some student may offer some explanation of the origin and use.

No Tennessee Pygmies

The existence of a pygmy race in Tennessee is believed to be a fallacy by modern ethnologists. The story owes its origin to the discovery in the early half of the Nineteenth century of numerous small stone coffins containing skeletons, the largest of which measured 24 inches in length and 9 inches in depth. These were assumed to be the remains of a race of pygmies. However, they have proved to be in many cases the skeletons of children. Those of adults were deprived of flesh according to the common custom in the mound region, then disjunct and the bones packed into a very small space.

Hens Busy

The treasurer of the Ladies Aid society of a Greensburg church made a deposit for her organization in a Greensburg bank recently. At the deposit window she spoke to the teller, whom she knew.

The deposit was a considerable one for a church organization and as she passed in the money she said: "Here's the aid money."

The teller understood her to say, "Here's the egg money." Then came the break.

"Well, it looks as though the old hens have been laying pretty good lately," was his comment.—Indianapolis News.

Matching Shade

At a soiree Dumas was wearing the ribbon of a certain order, having recently been made a commandant, and an envious friend remarked upon it.

"My dear fellow," he said, "that cord is a wretched color! One would think it was your woolen vest that was showing!"

"Oh, no, my dear d'E—," replied Dumas with a smile, "you're mistaken; it's not a bad color; it is exactly the shade of the sour grapes in the fable."—Golden Book.

Houses Like Towns

One of those great dwelling houses which are like small towns has been opened in Vienna. It is built round grassy courtyards set with trees, and will house 5,000 people in 1,382 flats. It has cost $4,200,000. In the building are two electric laundries, two bathing establishments, two kindergartens, a dental clinic, a "mother's advice center," a library, a post office, a chemist's, and 25 other shops. The baths are heated by the steam which is electrically generated for the laundries.

Watch Fires Closely—Fire-Wind Dangerous

It appears to us that we are having too many fires these windy days. Of course the Herald does not accuse anyone of being careless with fires, but as dry as it is getting, and with the high winds we are having, they easily get out of control before we can think.

A small residence belonging to O. E. Johnson in the north part of town and occupied by a renter, was destroyed the later part of last week, and the fire department was called Tuesday to a pile of stumps near the Braetlon home across the railroad from the business section and in the block between Broadway and Tate.

Let's be very careful with our fires as whole cities have been burned that started from some fire that was considered insignificant at the beginning of it.

HERE IT GOES AGAIN

Every time a question of importance bobs up some poorly-informed individual gets up on his hind legs and takes a jab at the press, and many times both sides to a question hammer the press at the same time, each accusing the newspapers of catering to the other.

The latest offender is the Rev. J. W. Hendricks of White Deer, who charges that the press dares not tell the truth about the number of intoxications through drinking 3.2 per cent beer.

Just why anyone should make such a statement is a difficult question. The press would dare tell the truth and has dared to tell the truth at all times and had it not been for the influence of the press there would never have been the 18th amendment or a Volstead act, and the only force in America today that can absolutely outlaw booze is the press.

But owing to the mouthings of such individuals as the Rev. Hendricks the press is becoming lethargic about fostering public questions, and since credit is not given when it is due, why waste space moulding public sentiment one way or the other.

The press has fought every major moral battle which has faced America and is still doing so to the best of its ability, and it is unfair to take a pot shot at the newspapers of the country.

Just because some obscure individual may feel that way about it does not make it a fact, and people should be careful in their statements about the greatest force for good in the world today—the newspapers.—Southwestern Plainsman.

The Herald is glad to add the Gulf Refining Co., to its advertisers this week, with quite a schedule in the future. Many of the small county papers would have had to suspend during the depression had it not been for this so-called "foreign" advertising of oil companies, automobile manufacturers, utility companies, and medicine companies.

Times are only as hard as you think they are.

MOVE IS STARTED FOR ANOTHER BONUS ARMY

From Washington comes the news that another bonus army is to be formed to storm the halls of congress in an attempt to force payment of the soldiers bonus during this session of congress.

Veterans active in the effort last year are said to be back of the move to recruit another army to invade Washington, and literature is being mailed out from a Washington office.

Veterans should be very careful in this matter, and refrain from any such demonstrations. More harm than good resulted from the last march on Washington and the American Legion is in splendid position to handle legislative matters for the ex-service men, and in such a manner that they will have a fair chance of success.

There are already too many enemies of the ex-service men in Washington and any such move as is contemplated will only add to the number, rather than influence legislation favorably.

What the ex-service men need right now is orderly procedure and a straightforward presentation of the justice of their position. Such a course will come nearer influencing congress than any demonstration could. There is no questioning but that the ex-service men have some just grievances, but there is a question of the advisability of raising a lot of hell about it now. When things have calmed down a trifle and the legislative wheels begin to grind in a normal manner is the time for them to get busy in a well-timed effort to get what is justly theirs. Armies of semi-hoboes will not get the results that will attend the efforts of men trained in matters of legislative action presenting their claims logically and concisely.

Bolshevistic demonstrations never won anything and never will—Southwest Plainsman.

SILVER WILL BE FEATURED

It is reported that one of the world problems in which the Administration is especially interested is that of silver. It will be a featured subject in the forthcoming economic conferences.

Any plan to restore world trade and international economic stability, must take account of silver. It has been called, and justly, the poor man's gold. It represents the medium of exchange of countries with a majority of the world's population. Its present low price has deprived these people of billions in buying power—much of which would have normally purchased the products of American farms and factories.

Restoration of silver will be a long step in the march of recovery.
