Putting Some Money In Terry County

It is quite unusual in this section of the country to have a lot of new money turned loose at this time of the year, but in the next few weeks, Terry, as well as other counties in this section stands a good chance of having around $200,000 of new money put into circulation in this county. Usually, not until the first of October does the cotton begin to roll in, and the corn does not usually start to the market until the new year, so that July, August and most of September are the leanest months for the farmers and consequently the merchants.

But with this new money at this time and option on more than $200,000 worth of government cotton, to be sold later, it will put money in the country just when it is needed most, permitting some of our farmers to purchase their needs, liquidate debts and taxes of long standing. Then, later on in the year, with even a crop of cotton left of say 10,000 bales, it will, with the present price, put more money in the community than the last one did, for it will bring not less than $500,000 and a possibility of $600,000 to $700,000. Aside of that, what corn will be produced and the row crops will bring much more money than a bumper crop did last year, for there is a vast difference in 15c and 50c corn and $2.50 per ton heads and $15 per ton heads.

Then we must consider the road work that is planned for every county in the state. Terry will get its share, and no doubt the road from here to Ropes will be paved, with a good possibility that the one from here to the Gaines county line will be paved after the other is finished. By 1934, with still further federal aid in view, and a great increase in taxes from gas under the new law, we also stand a fine chance of getting 84 paved clear across the county. This is very probable, as Yoakum county will get its share of paving this year, and it is a safe bet that it will be used on 84, as that is their principal outlet, and in fact their only state road. Therefore it stands to reason that the State Highway department would not leave them with an unpaved road of 18 miles from Tokio to Brownfield, where it would make connection with a paved highway to Lubbock, and thence to other points. Therefore, Terry county is so situated that it stands a fine shot of getting at least 58 miles of paved roads. Aside from the road building, there will be the Recovery Act Projects that will be allotted to Terry county, which some estimate will amount to some $250,000. This will be used principally on projects that will give as much work as possible to the unemployed. If all these things are started in the next month or two, this will be a busy place, and money will be changing hands the like of which has not been seen since the early fall of 1929.

Our merchants inform us that they are preparing to hit the ball in the next few weeks with advertising the like of which they have not done since the great years of the late '20's, as they believe that prosperity will be restored, and also confidence, and that the people will be ready to buy as they have not bought in the last three years. For what family is it that does not need to buy many things they have been denying themselves of the past three years.

The only fly in the ointment is the dry spots where there is no cotton, but the late rains have assured them of feed crops, the great amount of public works to be undertaken will assure them of employment at fair wages.

Plainview Mill Sold To Dallas Company

Abilene, July 13.—Sale of the Harvest Queen Mill at Plainview to the Standard Tilson Milling Company of Dallas, was agreed to here today by Federal Judge James C. Wilson, following a conference with representatives of the Dallas company.

While not disclosing the amount of money involved, Judge Wilson stated that the bid was such that all secured creditors of the mill will be paid in full, and all unsecured creditors 85c on the dollar.

The mill went into federal receivership in November 1932. For a year's time prior it was in receivership of the state court at Plainview.

Two Banks Here Show Mighty Fine Statements

Despite the fact that old man depression has hung over this section like a great plague for the past 3 years, and during which it has been a tough go for the banks just the same as it has the rest of us, our two banks are, as heretofore, showing good statements. Prosperity of the people reflect on bank statements, but with care and conservatism, both have, throughout the depression, shown low loans and high cash reserves, and have at all times been in fine liquid condition, according to bank examiners. After all, it is not the bank's money that is loaned, but their depositors' money, and care must be exercised in loaning it.

We glean the following from the call of June 30th, which is being published in this issue of the Herald for the benefit of their customers, as well as the public in general. We advise that you peruse the statements as published in full elsewhere. But we are publishing this condensed summary that those who may be too busy to figure it out themselves, may be able to see it at a glance:

The combined statements of the Brownfield State Bank and the First National Bank show total resources of $503,634.92. Total loans of only $156,804.15. Total deposits, $397,168.94. Total cash and exchange, $276,431.30. Neither bank has any money borrowed or any rediscounts.

Good Showers Have Visited Most of County

When cloudy weather and the first of a series of showers reached us last Friday night, most of us were ready to throw up the sponge and seek the shade of the tall pines in the mountains. In fact, most of us guys with a surplus of flesh in our mid-section, felt as if you could have run us thru a clothes wringer and filled a wash tub with pure-dee sweat—not perspiration. Real refined people perspire. Us proletarians are the ones that sweat, and we don't mean perhaps. Anyway—

These showers have not only been a blessing to the crops that were beginning to burn badly, but had the effect of at least temporarily stopping the hottest weather in the history of the south Plains, at least since they have been known to civilized man. There were two or three nights last week that were as sultry as it sometimes gets in east Texas, and being used to cool nights here, it made the natives miserable. Those who glory in hot weather certainly got their fill.

During all these showers which lasted from last Friday until Tuesday of this week, something like 81-100 inch fell here, according to the government gauge. More in some sections of the county. Less in other sections.

This will be enough to keep the crops growing, and will permit feed planting in sections where they have not heretofore had enough rain to plant crops. We understand the rain was light in the Harmony and Johnson communities. Also heavy in some and light in other sections of the Meadow community.

Ladies Injured in a Car Wreck on No. 137

After receiving emergency medical treatment from a Seagraves physician, Mrs. Patterson, a nurse from Hobbs, N. M., and Mrs. Weller of California, enroute to Hobbs from points north, were carried to that city following wreck of the car in which they were traveling. The car overturned, and was a complete wreck caused by the steering gear becoming locked. The accident occurred about 5 miles south of Seagraves on Highway No. 137.—Seminole Sentinel.

Texas Democrats Get Share of the Deficit

Roy Miller, director of the drive for funds to help cover the immense deficit incurred by the National Democratic party in electing the ticket with sweeping victories last fall, announces that Texas has gloriously underwritten her share of the deficits, and they are now in the hands of a treasurer, to be used in wiping out the deficit. Of the more than a million dollar deficit, Texas was allotted $175,000. This was done by the contributions of 23,000 Texans, made up almost wholly of men and women who expect no favors nor would accept them if offered. They just wanted to be among those who wish to help put the Democratic party on a cash basis.

Mr. Miller, through the press, especially wishes to thank his co-director, State Senator Margie Neal, Frank Schofield, and W. H. Kittrell, Jr., for the good work they have done in helping to put Texas over the top. This finance committee was asked by the National Democratic party to stay organized until the deficit was wiped out, and since this has been done, they have now disbanded, and any communication intended for the Texas National Democratic party should be addressed to Jed C. Adams now a resident of Washington, D. C.

Youth's Neck Broken While Planting Wed.

Wm. F. Bloodworth, stepson of L. L. Cope, who lives about 8 miles southwest of town, was killed late Wednesday afternoon, while planting feed on the farm. He was immediately rushed to town and carried to the office of Dr. Graves, but never could be revived. Bloodworth was 17 years of age.

While another boy was in the field with him, it seems that no one actually saw the accident, but it is believed he was endeavoring to refill his planter at the end, and the team whirled, one of them being a bronc, and perhaps knocked him down in such a way that his neck was broken. He was not dragged, it was said.

At the time we go to press, no funeral arrangements have been announced, as he has some brothers who do not live here.

Employment in Texas On Rapid Increase

Washington, July 12.—C. C. Woodman, assistant director of the Farm Labor division of the United States Employment service, saw today a decided increase in Texas employment, in building, clerical and farm business.

Woodman had just returned from Texas to attend a gathering of state labor directors now in progress there. "In the last 30 days there has been a decided increase in Texas employment," said Woodman. "To my mind the most marked change and the most encouraging is restoration of confidence among both employers and workmen."

Woodman declined to say what recommendations he might make for expansion of the employment in Texas under the Wagner-Peyser act. At present, the employment service maintains three permanent offices, at Fort Worth, San Antonio and El Paso, and has seven men in the field.

Mrs. Emmett Whitaker and little son and daughter, of Abilene, called a few minutes at the Herald office Wednesday. They are visiting her parents at Lubbock, and Mr. Whitaker's parents at Seminole. Emmett is an employee of the Abilene Times, but was one time an employee of the Herald.

Don't Stop Living at Home Activities Now

College Station—There should be no let-up in living at home activities now that quick cotton money is in sight, points out Mildred Horton, state home demonstration agent and H. H. Williamson, vice-director and state agent of the Extension Service in a joint statement to farm families and to county farm and home demonstration agents.

"All that may be gained by cash cotton rentals this summer may be lost this fall and winter unless all the feed and food that can possibly be raised to advantage on the farm is put into storehouse and pantry," they say. "Texas farm families saved themselves the last three years by making their farms almost self-sustaining as far as feed and food are concerned. There is no reason now to stop feeding the hogs and beefs for winter killing, or to sell off most of the poultry flock, or to give up plans for a fall garden, or to give away the steam pressure cooker and sealer. Texas cotton farmers have gotten a 'break'. If they hang on to their depression life saver—living at home—they have a good chance to turn this 'break' into a permanently better future", the statement concludes.

Lamesan Drowned Near Paint Rock, Tex.

A Lamesa rural mail carrier, Bryan V. Cox, 35, was drowned at Paint Rock yesterday morning at about 10 o'clock.

Cox, with his two brothers, Audrey and W. E., jr., and his father, W. E. Cox, sr., went to Paint Rock Sunday on a fishing trip.

A wife and three children are immediate survivors. The body is being returned to Lamesa for burial, probably today.—Lubbock Avalanche.

Another Sharp Murder Suspect Brought Back

International Falls, Minn., July 13. Sheriff Tom Abel of Lubbock Co., Texas, left here Wed. night with Wm. E. Doupe, 34, wanted in connection with the killing of Robert Sharp, in Lubbock.

Doupe was arrested June 24 by immigration officers on charges of entering the United States illegally. He had been living at the home of an uncle at Stratton, Ontario, since last May.

He is alleged to have killed Sharp last October 15, according to Sheriff Abel.

Optimism Spreads Through Cotton Belt

Memphis, Tenn., July 15.—A new tone of optimism spread throughout the cotton belt today and leaders of the industry said for the first time since 1928 the cotton farmer is in a position to realize a good profit from his crop.

A general revival of business was predicted by C. G. Henry, manager of the Midlands Cotton Grower's Association, pointing out that the prosperity of the Memphis territory is dependent upon the price of cotton.

Plows Are to Start Turning Under Cotton

By Roy E. Hendrickson, Associated Press Staff Writer.

Washington, July 14.—The plows on about 700,000 farms in sixteen states next week will begin to turn back into the ground more than nine million acres of growing cotton as a result of the proclamation today by Secretary Wallace of adoption of the cotton acreage reduction program.

From what appeared to be a potential crop of about 13,000,000 bales, Wallace estimated there would be subtracted by the administration's program around 3,500,000 bales.

To Accept Offer The agricultural secretary said he would accept most of the contract-offers signed by growers to curtail their crop from 25 to 50 per cent in return for cash payments and options on 2,000,000 bales of government held cotton.

At the same time he announced approval by President Roosevelt of a tax of 4.2 cents on the pound on all processing of the staple beginning August 1. He estimated the yield of the levy at from $115,000,000 to $120,000,000, which would be used to finance the payment to farmers. No tax will be collected on the cotton exported—normally about one-half of the American crop.

At the same time a compensatory import tax equal to the processing tax will go into effect to put importations of cotton on the same basis as the domestic product. Taxes will be levied also on the processing of competing products, including rayon and silk and probably wool, linen and other materials to prevent the cotton tax from providing a special handicap to its sale and consumption.

Hearings to determine the extent of the tax on products competing with cotton will be held in a few days. The tax on these, as will the tax on cotton, would be paid by the processors who handle them in their first stages of development from raw materials to finished goods.

No Great Increase George N. Peek, chief administrator of the act, said that the processing tax should not greatly, if at all, increase present prices of cotton goods to consumers. He said that the prices of cotton goods have increased much faster in recent months than the prices of raw cotton and attributed this to "anticipation" by spinners and dealers of the proclamation of the tax.

At the same time that the processing tax on cotton becomes effective, a tax on cotton goods held by manufacturing establishments and wholesalers will go into effect, while retail dealers have 30 days in which to dispose of the stocks of cotton goods now on their floors.

In order to assess these, Wallace in his formal tax proclamation, fixed the conversion factor on finished products at 105.2 per cent of the tax on raw cotton, or 4.4184 cents per pound for finished or partly finished materials less allowances for the weight on buttons, sizing and other non-cotton materials.

Tax For 100 Pounds This means that 100 pounds of cotton cloth will be assessed a total of $4.4184.

Meanwhile, the census bureau reported that consumption of cotton by mills during June set a new record, 696,472 bales.

This was more than twice the consumption of mills during June last year, when they used 322,706 bales and when 20,646,966 spindles were active.

It was the highest consumption in any month since records have been kept, beginning in September, 1912. Prior to that, American mills were reported to have been lacking in facilities to consume the record amount of cotton. The highest total consumed in any previous month was in March 1927—693,081 bales.

Meadow Church of Christ Starts Revival

Eat Gypsum Weed by Mistake for Spinach

A rather peculiar sickness developed in the Lee Wilson home here Thursday last.

Following their first "mess" Thursday noon of what they believed to be spinach, and which they thought had grown in their garden from spinach seed purchased, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, daughter Margie, and Dick Porter, a boarder, became very sick, the disease effecting them both bodily and mentally. When Lee Wilson, who is a barber at the City Barber Shop, returned to his duties, following lunch Thursday, acting and talking "goofy," Beamon Phillips, one of the proprietors, took him home. On arriving at the Wilson home he found the rest of the family suffering the same as Mr. Wilson, so thereupon called Dr. J. D. Simpson, who treated the patients. The doctor pronounced it a poisoning and pumped the stomachs of the patients, who were unconscious part of the time. By Saturday, however, they were all fully recovered.

Upon investigation it was found to be Gypsum weed the family had eaten, which apparently had come up and been taken care of as spinach.

Cotton Mill Raises Pay, Shorten Hours

West Texas' only cotton mill, the Postex, at Post, will fit its operation into the national recovery program, its manager, Herbert Jones, told the Reporter-News last night.

Beginning Monday the Postex mill will start one 40-hour shift, replacing the present schedule of 55 hours weekly per worker, and the minimum wage will be raised from $8 to $12.

"Effect of the changeover," Jones said, "will be that our employees, about 170 in number, will work 27 per cent less time than at present without any reduction of pay. No one will be let out.

"We will try to organize a second 40-hour shift, which will greatly increase our personnel, but we are unable to say when that will be started because out here in West Texas, it is difficult to get skilled labor for our needs. Hundreds are applying to us for work, but they are not skilled, and we can't use any more common labor." Abilene News.

PASTOR SAYS GIRL OF TODAY BETTER

Denver, July 15.—All reports to the contrary, the dashing modern girl is really much better than her old-fashioned sister of 40 years ago.

Rev. Harold Scott, former state superintendent of Universalist Churches in Alabama, made this assertion. Rev. Mr. Scott, who recently became pastor of a Denver church, offered scant sympathy to those who sigh for the return of the old-fashioned girl.

"The old-fashioned girl was 'all wet' in spite of the fact that she took a bath only once a week and never manicured her finger nails," he declared. "She also was a poor sport. In the race of our times for husbands, careers or what-will-you-have she would be left so far behind nobody would even see her."

"The popular girl of today must be far more efficient than her mother was. Besides being pretty and reasonably capable in the domestic arts, she must be smartly dressed, well read, a good dancer, must know something of sports, the theater and music. And life is getting more and more complicated, the requirements higher, every year."

Chamber of Commerce

—By J. E. Shelton, Secretary

Last Wednesday night witnessed the dead line for applications to be made on cotton reduction, but the files were held open for such applications as had to be sent out of the county for signatures of mortgage holders and landlords and the limit for accepting these is set for Wednesday night of this week.

All told, nearly 70,000 acres of cotton was reported up and growing, with about 32,000 acres contracted for plowing up. But it is thought the sandstorm of last Saturday night put a lot of the young stuff out of business. But this will not effect the contract, as the grower executed in good faith and of course will not be penalized for destruction that was caused by the elements.

It is said that the Terry county organization handled the proposition in a very satisfactory manner, and much better than was done by some of the other counties, and naturally, the credit for this, or a great deal of it at least, should be given to Raymond C. Reed, special County Agent, for his ability as an organizer, and for his being able to secure the whole-hearted co-operation of the community committees and the county control committee. And it might be said in this connection that Mr. Reed is to become a citizen of Terry county, as he has been appointed county Agricultural Agent, and will be at the service of farmers in the various problems that are confronting them, and will be confronting them for the next few years. The county does not pay his salary, as it will be taken care of by the government.

Among the first of the activities that will be undertaken by Mr. Reed, is a canning program, and under the present arrangements, it is expected that in communities where a room can be secured and stoves and fuel arranged for, that canners and sealers will be installed and cans furnished to those who are willing to can upon a share basis. However, it may be decided that a general kitchen be located in Brownfield to serve the people to better advantage than would community kitchens, on account of fuel, water, light and storage. It is suggested that people who are interested in the establishment of community kitchens, take the matter up with Mr. Reed at his office, in order that he may determine the views of the majority and arrange his program accordingly.

People who have their own equipment and who prefer to do their canning at home, will be furnished cans on the same basis as if they used the public kitchen.

Persons who are furnished the cans, will be expected to return 40 percent of all vegetables and 20 percent of all meats canned, and the food accumulated by the activity, will be stored for distribution to those who are in need and are not able to supply themselves.

According to all information, it is expected that orders for plowing up of the cotton will be received about the last of this week and it is also said that an effort will be made to have payments reach all growers within the next three weeks.

Five Years Drunk in U. S. Says Pussyfoot

Binghamton, N. Y., July 11.—Returning to his home at McDonough, near here, after a four month's tour of the Northwest, William E. (Pussyfoot) Johnson, internationally known prohibitionist, Tuesday, said: "We are in for a five year drunk."

"There is no use sounding sacred conch shells, trying to lull ourselves into a sense of security," Johnson said. "We are not immune from poison, like the mongoose. The country is trying to execute a St. Vitus dance in the eagle's nest."

Discussing the legal advent of beer in the Northwest, Johnson said: "Most of the Northwestern states are wallowing in the same old beer that used to put us under the table in the old days. But after all, there is not much to marvel at in this great tidal wave of suds. Every great war has resulted in a temporary collapse of reform measures."

He explained that he was going to "kick around his farm for a couple of months."

"I made 200 dry speeches in the far Northwest States, but it did no particular good. The more speeches I made the wetter the country became, so I decided to beat it home while the going was good. This effort to make people good has no drawbacks."

"The devil often gets the best of it. Sometimes I feel like an old yam engine, rattling around with poor oil and no grease."

What was paid our farmers for their cotton had to be a five year average, and it just so happen that we caught two very poor years in the five. In 1928 we had a very early freeze, and last year practically half the county was hailed out in July and the late cotton didn't make. Poor luck, but not our fault.

The Brownfield Herald wants to know what has become of the old-fashioned man who "rid" into town on the ol' gray "meer." Saturday night, and hitched to the post at the rear of the "Blind Tiger." Why, bless your life, Steve, that "old man" has quit coming to town—the "Blind Tiger" has been moved to the country.—Lamesa Reporter.

Wasn't John Foster, recently kidnapped, the guy who swindled a lot of bloody Englishmen out of several million dollars a few years ago? If so, we shall shed no tears over this kidnapping. As a general thing, we have no great sympathy for our English cousins, but swindling is bad as well as kidnapping. Evil for evil has been returned.

The New Deal is finally reaching the "Forgotten Man." It has been reaching the men of the street who are without work for some time, providing a way for him to feed his hungry offspring. Now it is to reach the renter on the farms of the nation. Give this class of American some buying power, and you have restored prosperity. The trouble with the late administration was that they tried to build the house from the attic down instead of from cellar up.

Some of the good and deserving true and tried Democrats seem to be up in the air over the administration's proposal to put all postmasters on civil service. We know how badly some of them want to the pie counter, but we must remember that several million Republicans left the fold last year to help put a Democrat President in office. Sooner or later this great reform must be instituted, and it as well be the Democrats as anyone who institutes it. Postmasters above most every profession, should be qualified for the job. If not, the whole office work is rotten.

The Herald hates like smoke to admit that it has found one fault with the Roosevelt administration, not that we are expecting any pie—not a crust—but we can't see that repeal is a party matter. While the Democratic platform demanded repeal of the 18th amendment, many of the usual heavy voting Republican states dislike that much cussed and discussed amendment much more than some of the normally Democratic states. Let's not take on a lot of useless ballast that we may wish we had heaved over the sides, in the not very distant future.

Two more states, Arkansas and Alabama, joined the parade this week to knock the 18th amendment into a cocked hat. Both of these states may be considered as of the old South, Confederate and unregenerated Democratic states, which winced perhaps at Al Smith, but voted the ticket straight. They made the 18 states that have now passed on the 18th amendment, all favorable to its repeal, and puts the march to the half way mark. It will take 36 to kill the amendment, and it is believed now that will be reached before 1934 rolls around.

LIFE IS TOO SHORT

By Rev. Edward Worcester

Life is too short for me to spend any of it kicking my neighbor in the pants because he cannot see the difference in tweedle-dee and tweedle-dum. This is a free country; and besides that, the toe of my neighbor's boot may be sharper than mine!

Life is too short to waste it in growling and complaining. There are too many squeaking wheels already; so let me keep quiet and spread grease.

Life is too short for me to drop bones and snap at shadows. I had better gnaw contentedly on legitimate pleasures in hand than lose them all in jumping at things that only seem more desirable.

Life is too short for me to miss the joy of pouring oil in a painful wound, or of pulling a stone out of one's path. I am in the world to help, and I miss the best of life if I shirk the task!

Life is too short for me to keep my eyes closed to the glory and the beauty all continually around me. God has formed the hills, and hung the stars in the heavens; painted the sunsets and perfumed the roses!

Shall all this be in vain, so far as I am concerned? Let me open mine eyes and see! Let me stop often and listen!

Life is too short for me to forget that it may end at any moment! Am I filling my place and doing my work? Am I ready to render my account when called?

Oh, Lord, keep me awake and help me to fully live and do what I can today! I may have no tomorrow!

ANOTHER OLD TIMER PASSES OVER THE RIVER

Lee Cowan, 67 years of age, passed away Tuesday afternoon at 2 P. M. at the family residence two miles west of Ropes, after several days of suffering with a complication of diseases. Mr. Cowan was truly one of the pioneer settlers of this section, having settled on the narrow strip of offset land between Terry and Hockley county, and while his residence was in Hockley, like most people of that strip had land in both counties. And like all the other old pioneers, his home was always open to visitors and there seemed to be an invisible welcome sign up all the time. The writer has enjoyed the hospitality of this good home.

Other medical practitioners besides the Ropes physician were called in to combat disease, but it had too much of a grip on him. The body was laid to rest in the Ropes cemetery Wednesday, being the first person to be buried in the new cemetery donated to that little city by W. L. Ellwood, ranchman, Tuesday. Mr. Cowan came to this section from Erath county, Texas, thirty years ago and resided until his death on the place he settled. He was married to Miss Rebekah Runnels in that county when they were in their young manhood and womanhood, and his wife survives him. Surviving children are, Mrs. Sam Branch of Meadow, Charley of Ropes, Lee of Hollywood, Calif., and Mrs. Wayne Daniels of Wyoming, neither of which could attend the funeral, Weldon Cowan, Mrs. Edna Branch and John and Solon Cowan all of the Ropes section. The oldest child, Mrs. Lence Price, died in 1920.

NOT GUILTY

A pretty young woman stepped into a music shop in the city the other day. She tripped up to the counter where a new clerk was assorting music and in her sweetest tone asked: "Have you 'Kissed Me in the Moonlight'?"

The clerk turned, looked, and said: "It must have been the man at the other counter; I have only been here a week."

HIS CHRISTIAN NAME

"Speaking of signs," says a contributor. I remember once standing in front of a grocery store and noticing the sign: "A SWINDLER" on the window. Entering, I asked the proprietor if it wouldn't look better if, instead of 'A', he printed his full Christian name. "No," he said, "it would look worse. My first name is Adam."

Longhorns Lose Star

Henry S. (Oochy) Earle, star end of the University of Texas football squad, has inherited some money and bought a ranch near Pecos. Although he would have three more years at the university, and has a bright football future, he has decided to quit school and stick to stock-raising. He was also a track star at varsity and is a fine rodeo performer. His home was in Waco.

MANY MIDDLE AGE PERSONS HAVE DIABETES

Austin.—Among the prominent causes of death in middle aged group and older is the malady known as diabetes. Like many other diseases, it's power as a cause of death can be traced to the lack of early diagnosis, or in other words, to the carelessness of its victims. In Texas about five hundred citizens die of this disease each year and the number is steadily mounting.

The periodic physical examination will disclose the unsuspected facts at a time when diabetes is most susceptible to scientific attack. Why should one refuse to use this great weapon of proven power against diabetes and other diseases is difficult to understand. The three first noticeable symptoms are thirst, hunger, and the excessive elimination of the urine. These are accompanied by loss of vitality, strength and weight. In middle aged person boils and carbuncles are quite common.

The immediate cause of diabetes is a lack of a secretion of the pancreas, known as insulin. The main thing is to guard against the disease. Three simple rules, if reasonably applied, will go far toward the end:

1. If overweight, one should reduce by restricting the diet and by exercise, though both should be under the direction of a physician.

2. Infections of tonsils, teeth and other organs should receive professional attention.

3. Make the health examination an annual habit.

The reason the death rate from diabetes is rising is due to the fact that more people are living to middle age and beyond than has been true in the past and it is a disease of middle life. It is not contagious, it can be controlled by diet and insulin, along with common sense and exercise.

BAD ADVERTISING

Charles J. Finger, noted American author, in his "Footloose in the West," gives an earful to the obnoxious outdoor advertiser. He writes:

"Also there are advertisements, glaringly painted filling stations, people in a small way of business who erect signs calling attention to doubtful comestibles, amusement places, picture palace announcements, and all combine to make the auto driver's task as difficult as may be, as though commercial-minded men were in league to raise the fatality statistics. There are people in Colorado, as elsewhere, who have the child's belief that if they spend money in paint to be used in huge and ugly lettering, they will, by some magic, lay hold of commercial prosperity. They do not see that blatant advertising may become something very close to insult, just as shouting in a man's ear is an insult and an offense; and insult can not add or invite to business relations."

The advertiser who thrusts his invitation rudely upon people who are concerned with safety or pleasure on the highways, like the advertiser who litters housewife's front porches with handbills, helps his competitors business more than his own.—Star-Telegram.

CUT THE WAGE LAG

Maybe it's the inflation, maybe it's because so many shelves have been so long empty, but the fact is that throughout the United States there is a quickening of industry. The stock market shows it; so do reports released by official Washington. Concomitant with this development, there is an increase in prices for commodities. However, if history repeats itself, wages will lag.

This is not desirable. It is not sound, economically. If the machine age has taught us anything, it is that the success of mass production is contingent on buying by the masses. Money must be placed in the hands of the people before they can spend it for goods to turn over the merchant's inventories, to buy the jobber, to keep the manufacturer's wheels turning, to make a demand for raw materials. Hasty and unwarranted increase in wages, of course, are as illogical now as indiscriminate salary slashing was a year ago, but surely there is a point of reducing the lag of wages in an upward trending market that no employer should overlook.—Rotarian Magazine.

POPULATION OF TEXAS IS 6,023,000

Texas has an estimated population of 6,023,000, as announced last Friday by the Bureau of the Census. This is an increase of 198,285 over the official census taken April 1, 1930, when the total was established at 5,824,715.

The total is arrived at by estimating the increase since 1930, upon the basis of the available data regarding births, deaths, immigration and emigration.

The bureau's statement gives the estimated population of the United States as of July as being 125,693,000, compare with the official census in 1930 of 122,775,046.

TURNING CHINAMEN INTO CHRISTIANS IS SLOW

These statisticians who gaze off into space and then set down a figure on paper are engaging chaps. But don't depend on them too heavily. Sometimes what they read in space isn't so.

The laymen who returned with a fact finders report on Chinese missions said there were about 400,000 Chinese Christians and that the number was decreasing—to a decline of from 50,000 to 75,000 within recent years.

The last edition of the directory of Foreign Missions shows that between 1920 and 1930 the twenty-two largest Protestant denominations in China gained 50,000 members.

That is slow—too slow. Maybe it would have been faster if the Chinese had been quicker to grasp the reason why we have to present to them twenty-two different brands of Christianity. Or, do you think you could make that clear to the sons of Confucius yourself.—Dallas Journal.

Every bed was taken at one time at the Treadway Hospital last week, but the crowded condition has eased up a bit this week, according to the doctor.

Chicago Gang Tactics Used on Beer Parlors

Regular Chicago beer gangster war tactics were used on two San Antonio beer parlors last week when eight charges of buckshot shattered their plate glass windows. Police say the attack doubtless was made by the beer ring in an attempt to keep the price of 3.2 beer up to 25 cents. Both places had been selling it at 20 cents. This cafe now has a new sign: "32 STILL 20c."

TEXAS SHERIFFS FAVOR BEER SALE AND REPEAL

San Antonio, July 13.—Without a dissenting vote, the Sheriffs Association of Texas, Wednesday, adopted a resolution favoring the repeal of the 18th amendment and the legal sale of 3.2 per cent beer.

The action was taken by more than 200 delegates to the convention here after State Senator Willie Hopkins of Gonzales had delivered an address, urging the convention to go on record in favor of repealing the 18th amendment and legalizing sale of 3.2 per cent beer.

The convention went on record as favoring the four year term of office, for straight salaries for sheriffs and abolition of the fee system.

Melquiades Espinosa (left) has identified Pedro Holguin, with whom he is pictured, as one of five men who entered his home near El Paso on April 1, 1932, and shot to death his wife and six children. Holguin was arrested at Laredo, Texas. The men entered Espinosa's house and demanded $5,000 which they had heard Espinosa received on a cattle sale. Failing to get the money, they opened fire, killing seven and wounding the other three in the family. Holguin has been charged with murder at El Paso, where this photo was taken.

Killed by Dallas Negro

A negro arrested Saturday for killing a Dallas policeman, Sam Lanford, (right) confessed to the murder of Mrs. H. K. Buchanan (left) last December. He also confessed to the shooting of George Coffey, who found the negro prowling in his home, and to the robbery of a number of other homes. The death by strangulation of Mrs. Buchanan, whose nude body was found in her apartment with her stockings tied tightly around her neck, was one of the sensational murder mysteries of the year. The negro, R. T. Bennett, 25, is an ex-convict and a graduate of the Booker T. Washington high school. The policeman was shot and killed when he frustrated a robbery.

SIX MILK COWS DIE AFTER GRAZING BROOMCORN FIELD

Seagraves, July 15.—George Prindle, who lives on a farm between Seagraves and Seminole, recently lost six good milk cows when the animals ate too much green broomcorn.

Mr. Prindle turned eight of his dairy cattle into a field of broomcorn to graze. Two of the animals did not eat enough to hurt them. One theory was that the animals ate the corn too fast and it choked them and another is that a poison, which forms on green grain sorghums and other feeds at certain stages caused the deaths.

Austin.—Sam Sparks, 60, died Thursday at his home after a long illness. He had been a well known political leader and business man of Austin. At the time of his death he was chairman of the board of the Republic Bank and Trust Company. Sparks had been prominent in the dry cause in Texas.

FDR'S POSTMASTER PLAN DRAWS FIRE

Washington, July 13.—President Roosevelt's move to place all postmasters under civil service fell with a thud today on democrats in congress who realized suddenly that about 15,000 jobs thus would be taken out of the political patronage category.

Senator McKellar of Tennessee, chairman of the postoffice committee and ranking democrat on the civil service committee, predicted congress would reject a bill such as the president recommended to require all first, second and third class postmasters to be under civil service.

These appointments are now and have been by appointment by the president on recommendation of senators and representatives. Only 4th class postmasters are at present required to stand civil service examinations.

Pending submission of the bill at the next session, the president ordered all future applicants for postmastership now filled by political appointment to take examination, unless they are already qualified under civil service or regularly commissioned postmasters.

Advances in Oil Refining Result in Higher Mileage

Cars picked at random from the streets, lined up on Indianapolis Speedway before starting four-day test of new high-mileage motor oil.

BECAUSE the average motorist is becoming more and more concerned with motor oil performance, the refining industry has recently been turning its attention to improved refining methods designed to meet the public's demand for better lubrication from the medium-priced lubricants. For years the main problem confronting the industry was reduction of carbon deposits, and like matters, but today the important problem is how to provide better lubrication. Very definite and satisfactory progress has been made along this line, as shown recently in mileage tests conducted at the Indianapolis Speedway under supervision of the Contest Committee of the American Automobile Association. These tests showed that a new high-mileage oil, produced by the Gulf Refining Company, gives 28.5 per cent more miles to the quart than any of the other three popular, medium-priced oils tested against it. The cars used in the test were low and medium-priced cars picked at random from the streets of Indianapolis. Each car was run 450 miles with each of the four brands of oil, the test lasting for four days, during which time each car covered 1,800 miles. Oil consumption was carefully checked by contest officials of the A.A.A., and it was found that the new high-mileage oil was 28.5 per cent cheaper to use, the figure being an average based on the oil's performance in all the cars used in the test.

Red Goose-The Ojibwa

An Indian Story for Boys and Girls By Carlyle Emery

When Little Beaver was taken ill, Red Goose was worried, because the Medicine Man was up north with the Otter Tribe near the Lake of Pines. Although his father had told him it was too far and too cold to make the trip, Red Goose started out in a blizzard to get the Medicine Man and bring him back. After several hours of bitter cold, Red Goose fell unconscious in a big snow drift—Now go on with the story.

Phillip Reynolds and Dick Osborne were camping up north near the Lake of Pines, when a severe blizzard snowed them in, and kept them in their cabin for several days.

On the third night when the storm was at the height of its fury, Dick said:

"Say, Phil, this is one of the worst storms we have had this year."

"I'll say it is, Doc!" Phil replied. It's lucky for us that we got this old cabin fixed up before it started. We'll be able to weather the storm now without any trouble."

"Turn up that lamp a bit and we'll play a game of cards."

"Fine! You get the cards while I put some more wood on the fire."

"Boy! Listen to that wind howl. It's as sharp as a knife, and its drifting snow into banks ten feet high."

The two men seated themselves comfortably and were about to start a game of rummy, when Phil said:

"Listen, Doc! I thought I heard a shout above the wind just now."

"You're dreaming, Phil," Dick answered with a grin. "Nobody would be out on a night like this. You heard the wind, that's all."

"No—there it is again! Listen! "By gracious! that was a shout all right. Come on, we'd better investigate. Get a lantern and we'll look around."

Putting on their heavy fur coats, Dick and Phil opened the cabin door and the force of the wind almost blew them back. Then, ducking their heads low, and following the streak of light made on the snow by their lantern, they walked slowly right into the teeth of the gale.

Now they heard the shout again—this time very weak but nevertheless an unmistakable call for help.

"Over this way, Doc!" shouted Phil; and then, before they had taken a dozen more steps, they saw a still form lying in the snow.

"Well I'll be doggoned!" exclaimed Phil. It's an Indian kid!"

"Nearly frozen to death, too!" said Doc Osborne. Here take this lantern and lead the way. I'll carry him back to the cabin and see what we can do for him."

The Great Spirit must have been watching over Red Goose, for with his last call for help, he fell into the warm sleep that goes with freezing, and little did he know that he was being carried into the warmth of the cabin by a well known medical doctor.

CHALICE OF ANTIOCH, SACRED RELIC WHICH MAY HAVE BEEN USED AT LAST SUPPER, IS SHOWN AT WORLD'S FAIR

Chicago, July 20.—AN OBJECT of reverence to millions of Christians and one of the earliest relics of the faith is enshrined in the Hall of Religion at A Century of Progress, Chicago's 1933 Exposition.

It is the Great Chalice of Antioch, earliest existing vessel thought to have been connected with the Holy Eucharist. According to an outstanding authority on archaeology and early Christian art, Dr. Arthur E. Cook of Queen's College, Cambridge, England, it raises the presumption that the cup it contains might be the very vessel used at the Last Supper.

The Chalice, according to Dr. Gustavus A. Eison, to whom was entrusted the renovation and preliminary study of the vessel, dates from the first century A. D., and probably was constructed between 60 and 70 A. D. This opinion is concurred in by Dr. Cook, by Dr. A. T. Olmstead, president of the American Oriental Society, and by many other authorities. Some, however, hold that the Chalice is of a later date, probably of the Fourth century.

Constantly Guarded. The Chalice is the most important item of the Kouckaj silver treasure, which includes book covers, a plain silver cup and a ceremonial cross, all of silver. They were discovered in 1910 by Arabs digging a well or a cellar in the city of Antioch.

The Chalice is displayed in an appropriate setting at A Century of Progress Exposition, and is guarded night and day. It is an open-work container of silver, beautifully wrought, 7.56 inches high, standing on a pedestal and holding a cup which would contain about two quarts of liquid. This cup, likewise of silver, is a Jewish Passover bowl of great antiquity, identical with those used when Christ walked the earth.

Brought to New York. The Chalice was carried to Paris by its owner, together with the other objects of the discovery, in 1913. There Leon Andre, archaeological expert for the Louvre and other great museums, examined and cleaned them. Shortly before the battle of the Marne, when Paris was threatened by German armies, the Chalice and the other objects were removed to the City of New York, where they have remained for safety's sake in the vaults of a Fifth avenue bank.

The renovation and preliminary studies of the Chalice were begun by Dr. Eison, noted scientist and archaeologist, shortly after its arrival in New York. Day by day, as he worked on it, the relic gave up its secrets. The silver of the cup and its openwork container was heavily oxidized and would not permit ordinary methods of cleaning. Little by little, with infinite patience and care, it was restored and the beauties of its decoration made apparent.

The church at Antioch dates from 41 A. D. It was there that the followers of Jesus first became known as Christians, and thence for many years missionaries were sent to preach the gospel. As to the probable connection between the early Church and the Chalice, Dr. Cook writes:

"With the fall of Jerusalem, Antioch became the main center of Christianity in the East. And so the inner bowl of the Chalice may have been not improbably brought thither from Jerusalem, where it may have been the very vessel used in apostolic times by the infant Church. Indeed, a presumption that it was none other than the cup of the Last Supper is raised." Dr. Cook's words open up a field of speculation regarding the Chalice which embraces the whole legend of early knighthood. It has vessel chances to be the cup of the Last Supper, then that search which for years claimed the devotion of Europe's noblest blood, was never ended. Indeed, not to a Knight of the Grail, but to a humble Arab workman, would thus be given the honor of its recovery.

How All the People Played a Part In Building Nation's Credit Structure

Banker Describes the Way Loans and Securities of Banks Are Based on the Hopes and Plans of All Classes—Values Dependent on Public's Ability to Meet Obligations

By FRANCIS H. SISSON, President American Bankers Association in The Forum

CREDIT may be informally described as future hopes, plans and good intentions converted into present purchasing power.

F. H. SISSON

working people of the nation were fully employed, while wages and salaries were steady and generous, while prices of commodities were strong and while the minds of the people were dominated by faith in the future and confidence in one another.

Great Changes Came to the Nation Then suddenly, almost as if the sun itself had lost part of its vitality, everything changed. Foreign markets failed and disappeared. Industry slackened. A rapid drop in all kinds of commodity values set in.

These destructive changes cut right through the qualities and values of the loans and investments, the notes and securities in the banks. Business men and manufacturers could not repay their notes to the banks as due.

Property underlying real estate mortgages became worth less than the face of the mortgages. The market values of standard securities became less than the banks had paid for them as investments or accepted them as collateral for customers' loans.

It was in loans and investments, whose values thus became so unforeseeably impaired, that the banks, in all confidence, in all good faith, in all humanly reasonable care and good judgment had entrusted the billions of dollars of deposits which their customers had entrusted to them.

Those loans and investments were, under all normal conditions, as good as gold itself. Indeed, if the banks instead had filled their vaults with gold bars, and then some unknown cosmic ray had transmuted them into lead, the results would have been scarcely more startling than the depreciation that was caused in the assets of the banks by the unforeseeable economic forces which permeated and debased them.

The inevitable result was that, when the banks urgently needed the money they had entrusted to those assets, so that they could meet the unreasonable demands of their depositors, they could not get it back.

It was not that our banking system and methods were of themselves weak or reprehensible, apart from the rest of the life of the nation, as has so much been made to appear.

It was not that our banks were permeated with incompetency or dishonesty or with lower standards of business ethics than were the other forms of human activity which their own fate and activities were inextricably interwoven, as, it almost seemed at times, there was a concerted national conspiracy to lead our people to believe.

The great fact of American banking is that it shared fully in the plans and hopes and hazards of the American people, and when those plans went wrong, the banks carried their share of the burden and suffered their share of the misfortune.

FARM ACCOUNTING CONTEST LAUNCHED

Bankers Evolve Plan for Stimulating Important Aid to Farm Success

THE Cache county, Utah, bankers recently added a stimulus to banker-farmer cooperative work by launching a farm accounting contest. At a meeting of the Clearing House Association the project was put before the bankers, and methods and plans formulated.

Each bank in the county agreed to enroll a minimum of five farmers in the farm accounting project. The names of the farmers when enrolled will be sent to the Secretary of the Clearing House, and also to the Extension Division of the Utah State Agricultural College.

The contest will end December 31, 1933. The judges will be the County Agent, the County Key Banker, a representative of the Clearing House Association, and two representatives selected by the Extension Division of the College.

Recognition for Good Farming In addition to the cash prizes, every farmer customer enrolled, who scores sixty per cent or more, will be awarded a special certificate issued by the Clearing House Association and the Extension Service jointly in cooperation with the Agricultural Committee of the Utah Bankers Association.

The scoring will be done on the following basis: Farm and home account records (accurate and complete)50% Success of year's operations as brought out in the summary of the year's business25% General appearance of farm and improvements and condition of livestock and poultry, (judging to be done during the summer months)25%

Of all the oil and gas wells completed during 1932, 23.6 per cent were dry holes.

Tells How She Lost 15 Lbs. of FAT

Rheumatism Gone Too

Here is a woman who was rapidly putting on weight and who was troubled with rheumatism too. Read her letter:

"I started taking Kruschen Salts because of the good it had done for a friend of mine who had been crippled with rheumatism. At the end of the second bottle I was weighed and find I am now only 148 pounds (original weight 163 lbs.), at which I am so pleased. But I have also felt my rheumatism much less, which has been so troublesome in my knees. I must say I think Kruschen a splendid weight reducer." (Miss E. L. P.)
Overweight and rheumatism poisoning often go together. The six salts in Kruschen assist the internal organs to perform their functions properly—little by little that ugly fat goes; slowly, yes—but surely. You feel wonderfully healthy, youthful and energetic—more than ever before in your life!
Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all drug stores—a jar lasts four weeks and costs not more than 85c.

TEXAS CATTLEMAN PASSES IN HANNIBAL HOSPITAL

In view of the fact that we had little particulars of the time of his and the trouble that caused immediate death last week in the writup of the death of Martin G. Gordon, we are supplementing this week with an article taken from the Hannibal, (Mo.) Courier-Post of last Tuesday, July 11th, the day Mr. Gordon died.—Editor.

At the age of 69 years, Martin Griffith Gordon, member of an old Marion county family, and prominent ranchman at Brownfield, Texas, passed away at 4:00 o'clock this morning in Levering hospital, having become ill while visiting his sister, Mrs. Mary S. Givan of Harrison Hill. A coincidence in the death of Mr. Gordon is the fact that his death occurred at the same hour on the same day, 10 years after the death of his brother, John W. Gordon, with whom he was engaged in the ranching business in Texas. J. W. Gordon passed away on July 11, 1923, and his death also occurred at the age of 69, while he was here on 30 days' visit to his sister, Mrs. Givan. Neither of the brothers were married, and when young men, they went to Texas, where they took up land and finally became extensive ranch owners and ranchmen, some of their land being owned together. Following the death of J. W. Gordon, M. G. Gordon had carried on the ranching business there and was also a large landowner in Missouri.

A native of Marion County, Mr. Gordon was born January 7, 1864, on the old Gordon homestead near Palmyra, a son of the late William Martin and Elizabeth McWilliams Gordon, who were members of families that settled early in this county. At the age of about 21, he went to Texas with his brother and spent the remainder of his life in that state where he was very successful. Although living in Texas, Mr. Gordon frequently visited here, and was widely known throughout Marion county. Surviving him are his sister, Mrs. Mary S.
