Hindered Gathering

Looks like we have had an unusual amount of drizzly foggy weather in our section of late, and perhaps all have complained more or less, the farmer mostly because it has held up his gathering. He had hoped to get the rest of his cotton out of his fields by Christmas. But the town people also tired of it because the streets, even the paved ones got sloppy and muddy.

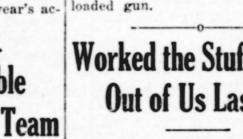

A slow rain never washes off the streets, but makes the unpaved ones muddy, and this mud is carried by all kinds of vehicles to the paved streets and dumped out until it gets near shoe mouth deep, the gutters become clogged and do not drain. But a few more days like Monday and Tuesday of this week will turn the mud to a dust again.

In the meantime, farmers tell us that we have the best season for the time of year in many, which augers Knocked Tradesday a good crop for 1937. However, we of the south Plains are apt to believe that it is raining everywhere. He is secretary of the Wyoming Stock Growers' association and chairman of a committee of the National Livestock association which recently was named to "wage war on cattle rustlers."

Compact Is Sought

Thorp wants a compact among the cattle states of the west to permit officers to trail the thieves from one state to another. Idaho and Nevada ave such an agreement, he said, and added he hoped to see it extended to cover Wyoming, Montana, the Dakotas, Colorado, Nebraska, California, New Mexico and Texas.

"State lines don't stop the rustlers and if we are going to effectively curb their activities, state lines must not stop the officers," he explained. Such a compact will be proposed by Thorp at the national association's convention in El Paso, Texas, January 12-14.

Gaines County Farmer Finds Goats Profitab'e

The past year has been a very prfitable one in the mohair business reports C. H. Wescott, a diversified farmer of Gaines county. In 1930 Mr. Wescott decided to try a few goats as an experiment, since he had a section of land which was covered with shinnery. He purchased eight good nannies which have been increasing and making him good money all along.

Through this experiment, Mr. Wescott has solved the problem of finding something that would do well on this shinnery. In grazing the shinnery the goats are gradually killing this shrub, thus permitting good grass to come where it has been killed out.

In April of this year 208 goats were sheared, shearing 1.044 pounds of mohair. Then again in September 280 head were sheared, shearing 1,-260 pounds of mohair, this making a total of 2.314 pounds.

The goats sheared on an average of 9.4 pounds per head. The mohair sold on an average of 54 cents per pound. The total returns were $1,133. Mr. Wescott was asked what was one of the most important factors in the goat business. He replied "Good sires."

OR many years Marelu had not been exactly happy on Christmas; somehow she had never received the pretty things bestowed upon other girls. "If they all only knew how I have secretly longed for those soft, dainty luxuries," thought Marelu, as she sat before the fireplace, just three days before Christmas.

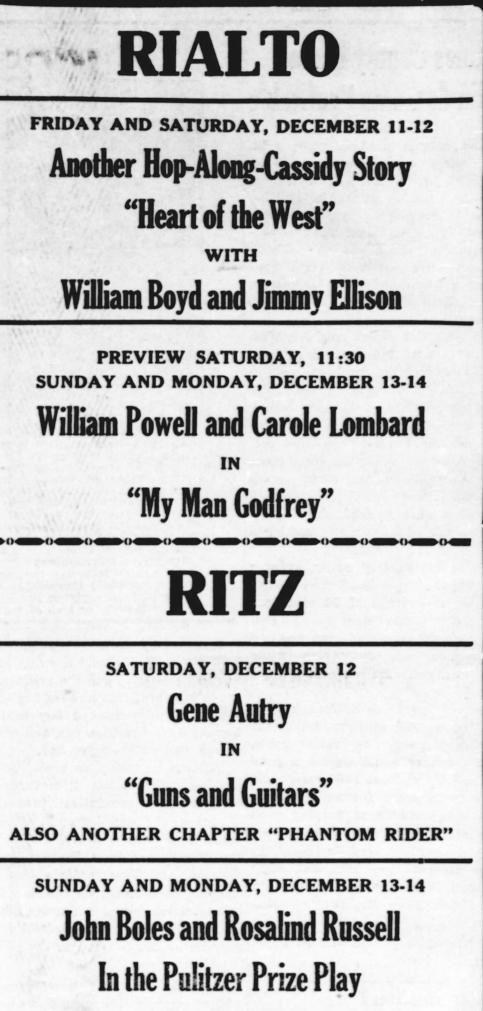

"There are those kitchen aprons, for instance, from dear old aunt Lucia. Every year, as far back as I can remember, it has always been aprons. I must have almost a dozen by now. Then there is cousin Marie, who has been sending the inevitable handkerchiefs right along, year after year. There must be quite a collection of them, too.' While she had
