Mayor's Proclamation

Once again the time has come for our community to demonstrate its concern for maintaining a very necessary part of our civic welfare program—the work maintained by the Brownfield Chapter of the American Red Cross.

It is not necessary for me to remind citizens of our community that the work of the Red Cross is a vital contribution to our community welfare. We have all seen, during the past year, how effective Red Cross work is, both from the standpoint of year-round program and that done during times of great national emergency. Perhaps never before has the work of this great national agency been so universally endorsed as in this year during the gigantic relief operation in the devastating floods of the Ohio and Mississippi River Valleys. It was a great work, done in an efficient manner, and truly deserves our most sincere commendation.

Our Community, I am pleased to say, though far removed from those great floods, carried its full share of responsibility in returning the people back to their homes, through your generous contributions.

The Annual Roll Call of the Red Cross, through which such fine work is supported, is from November 11 to Thanksgiving Day. Membership enrolled during that will support work for the year ahead of us. The Red Cross asks very little from the community, yet contributes much to the general welfare of our people.

It gives me great pleasure, as mayor of the City of Brownfield, to set aside the designated period as a time when all our good citizens will be asked to re-new their membership and those who have not enrolled before are urged to add their names to the ranks of the Red Cross members in our community.

Given this the 10th day of November, 1937.

L. C. Wines, Mayor.

Death Stalks Terry Highway Again

Ben Lee, 55, of Tahoka, who was killed three miles southwest of Brownfield on the Seagraves highway Sunday night in a collision, was an old time resident of Terry county, having come here some 20 years ago. He was in a car with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Burrows at the time of the accident. Burrows was slightly hurt.

The Burrows car ran into a cotton truck standing on the highway, belonging to S. W. Vestal, who said he was getting some gasoline for a man out of gas. A splinter from the truck or car pierced his chest near the heart. It is believed that he was instantly killed.

Ben had a host of old friends here as well as at Tahoka. He was a fine old time fiddler, and was always ready at any time to lend his talent toward any kind of entertainment. The body was carried to Tahoka late Monday in care of the Brownfield Funeral Home, where brief services were conducted. The body was then carried to Truscott, old home of the Lee family for burial.

ABANDON WILD CAT IN DAWSON COUNTY

The Herald has never been very frisky about putting on special editions, and even last year when it was Centennial Year and many newspapers were spreading themselves, the Herald layed low, thinking the time was not just right. But now that Prosperity seems to have really come, and L. D. Neal and his force, who have had years of experience in special edition work, offered to help us with the edition, we decided to put 'er on, and go the limit to make it worth while to everyone.

Really, who had some feeling that it might not strike the people here and the advertisers just like we would wish, but we find that before half the week of solicitation has been covered, that everyone is talking the Historical-Prosperity Edition of Herald, and has already created more interest than we anticipated for it at anytime.

Mayor Wines Commends Edition

For instance, as early as last Tuesday, Mayor L. C. Wines met us on the streets and with his usual cordial greeting, he said: "I hear you are going to put out a large Historical Edition of the county. Well, I told my informers that if there was anybody in Terry County that could readily handle such an edition, that lad was Jack Stricklin." Thanks, Mr. Mayor, for your confidence in us, and may it never be lessened. And we hope that you will be as proud of the Edition as we feel that you will.

Already the response of the business men of the section has been greater than we anticipated at the start. We knew that they would be just what it would mean to Brownfield and Terry county. And again, we are pleased to find that Mr. Neal and his force Eva Thurman, Martha Stephens, Francis Blake and Charles Cowden, who come to us with the "BIG O. K." of every newspaper they have worked with on such an edition, including the last one for the Dawson County Courier at Lamesa. Will state that Editor Alexander made the trip over here to personally recommend Mr. Neal and his force, know how to make people see and understand the great undertaking. Mrs. J. M. Telford, Carolyn Spencer, Mrs. A. D. Repp, and a number of others have been employed locally to aid in gathering the necessary material.

The response has been just as great among the old time business men, the old time farmers and the old time ranchmen, who came here and suffered the hardships in order to make it a fit place to live. Most of these men are now at the age when they must retire from active life, but the Herald is glad that many of them have accumulated enough of this world's goods that they can spend a leisurely life from this on. These good people have simply been thrilled to lend any assistance in their power to make the edition a go in a big way.

So far, there has not been a hitch or stop in the proceedings for one moment. If there should be, we know that it could be ironed out by some of the Herald regular force, or some of Mr. Neal's force, as virtually, they are just employees of the Herald while here themselves.

If you can think of anything that will be of advantage, a bit of history, an incident, the "first" of anything that happened, in Brownfield, Terry or Yoakum counties. Let some of us know. Judge Neill is handling the historical end for Terry county, and Atty. P. G. Stanford of Plains will give us the history of Yoakum county. This of course will only include the official history, and not the schools, churches, lodges, clubs, P. T. A.' or what have you. They will be handled by various and sundry writers.

Next week we hope to have a complete list of all contributors to the Herald from every angle.

Bub Smith was able to be taken home Tuesday from the hospital, after a very serious operation.

Mrs. Jim Lewis was in from the farm Tuesday.

Wes Key of Gomez was over Tuesday.

VETERANS, WE SALUTE YOU!

Today, (November 11) just nineteen years after you stacked arms across the pond after doing what you were sent "Over There" to do, we salute you. We not only salute you who came back and are still with us, but we salute those who fell or died in the line of duty, or have passed away since they came home. You have returned home and made us just as good citizens as you were good soldiers on the field of battle. The Herald joins the whole community in saluting you, and wishing you many more happy Armistice Days.

Cotton, Cotton, Cotton and Cotton

Cotton is all the talk all over the whole section. The big questions and there are several questions, is are we ever going to get enough hands here to gather the crop, and if so, where are we going to put all of it. Down in the older settled section, the towns are closer together, and more compresses and sheds, but when this section makes a crop equal to the black land section, with half its warehousing facilities, then that old question of storage comes up.

Yes, they are talking a crop on the south Plains equal to some of the best in the central Texas black lands. Some are placing the Lubbock county yield as high as 110,000 bales, Lynn and Dawson around 90,000, and Lamb 75,000 to 80,000, and few are guessing the Terry county crop less than 50,000 now, and some as high as 60,000, and we never had a crop much over 33,000 before. Well, that equals such cotton producing counties as Ellis, Navarro, Hill, McLennan, Collins and others on an average, or better than an average these days.

Cotton is now piled all over the Santa Fe addition blocks which do not have residences on them, clean out to the old Uncle Joe Hamilton residence. The Texas Compress & Warehouse Co., are building additional shed room to care for an additional 5,000 bales, so they can take care of 20,000 bales. The rest will have to be shipped to Houston, according to Compress Supt., A. D. Repp.

The government report came in Monday again raising their ante around a million bales from the last call, to 18,243,000 bales, giving Texas well over 5,000,000 or nearly a third of the south's entire production.

A shower Monday and Monday night stopped picking for 24 hours, which according to one local gin picker gave them a breathing spell. However, he went on to remark that it would take them all night to get all the cotton off the yards, and they had 100 bales in storage.

The Stalk of Cotton Got to Cleburne

Some few issues ago, the Herald told its readers about a brother of the editor being here from Johnson county, and that he took home a stalk of cotton with 360 odd bolls, blooms and squares on it. But we never did finish the story. So, here 'tis:

Our brother maintains a home in Cleburne, as well as out on the farm, but a druggist saw the stalk of cotton upon reaching Cleburne and made a display of it out in front of the store. Needless to say it attracted much attention.

It was stated that the druggist put a man out there to explain where the cotton came from, about how many

Extension Offer Brings Response

Additional Time to Obtain Fine Premium Appreciated by Herald Readers; Many More Sets Going Out

People of this section are showing a real appreciation of the Herald's Extension Offer of a fine Fountain Pen and Pencil Set free with each yearly subscription paid. Immediately after announcement that offer had been extended additional citizens began to take advantage of it and right now calls are sufficiently numerous to indicate that almost as many sets will be placed during the extension campaign as during the original time set for the offer.

The Herald is pleased that additional time could be granted on the offer. Frankly, we would like to see every family throughout the wide trade territory obtain one or more of these writing sets, for most certainly all find daily use for them. It takes time, of course, to make wide distribution of a premium, but our objective is now in sight. At the present rate there will be at close of the extension period very few homes in this section that will not have sent in a renewal or new subscription to the Herald and there obtained a set. A surprisingly large number have taken advantage of the offer in great fashion by securing two or more sets.

Meet Student's Favor One reason for the big success of the campaign is that the sets have proven so useful for school work. Many students heretofore denied the convenience of a first class writing set now have that decided advantage, thanks to the Herald's offer. More and more of these sets are going into daily use in all the schools nearby.

Still Time to Get Sets

To those (and they appear to be in the minority now) who haven't obtained a set or two, there is still time. The big offer, the most popular subscription effort ever attempted by the Herald, is scheduled to close on Saturday, November 27th. That date is only a short distance off and if you have a desire to "cash in" on this exceptional opportunity right now is the time to do so. Come in, see the beautiful display at the Herald office and make your pick.

SUICIDE VERDICT IN DEATH OF SHERIFF

Lubbock, Nov. 4.—A verdict of suicide in the death of former sheriff W. F. Cato was announced by Justice of the Peace M. L. Morris after a hearing late today.

Cato was found shot to death at his home early Tuesday but the final official inquiry was delayed until today.

acres the Terry county farmer had, and that it would make around a bale and a half per acre.

Thus, old Terry got a lot of good advertising out of that stalk of cotton, as that is primarily a cotton country, and good cotton will attract them.

Hugh Crowd Throng Stores Here Saturday

If there was a business house that did not have about all the business they could care for last Saturday, it must have been some one selling fleas or chiggers. All the business houses we visited were just about as full as they would hold, and the clerks, while jumping sideways had a lot more than they could care for.

And by the way, several of the stores reported several thefts, and one business man went so far as to say he didn't care a rap whether they got any more labor here except white labor or not, as they tried to steal his store out last Saturday. He was good and sore, and for a mighty good reason. He reported that he came near throwing some Mexicans out on their ears.

However, be as it may, they were here, with the sidewalks so crowded you could hardly pass up and down them, and City Marshall Brown reported that he had his hands full at busy intersections to keep the careless from being run down by cars.

The crowd hung on till well into the night, and a parking place was at a premium until late night. There were some drunks, but the officers got so close in after those who over indulge in liquor that they make themselves very scarce.

We have heard some say that they will be glad when the busy cotton season is over so they can lay down and rest, but when cotton gathering is over, there is a big corn crop to follow that will still bring in the kale and kale makes business.

Hospital Edition Goes to Many Places

Not only did we issue several hundred extra copies of the Hospital Edition last week to reach practically all local people, who had a box at the post office, or one of the routes out of Brownfield, Meadow, Seagraves, Plains and Tokio, but was remarkable the number of places they were sent out of the local area.

The local hospital used some 60 or 70 papers themselves, and many others called and purchased them Friday, Saturday and Monday until the edition was entirely exhausted, save a few that the Herald must keep for its files, and a few others spoken for and not delivered.

Not only did the edition go to many, many points in Texas and other states, but one went to the Panama Canal Zone, one to Puerto Rica.

So, Brownfield and area, as well as the hospital was advertised to the four points of the compass.

L. L. Cornelius of Amarillo is here visiting his brother, R. L. Carnenious.

Mrs. Walter Yeiser of Pleasant Valley was in Tuesday.

PANHANDLE CONSTRUCTION COMPANY HAS CONTRACT FOR THREE LARGE BUILDINGS

Texas Utilities Co. Running High Line to Plant. West Texas Gas Co. To Supply Fuel. In Operation by January 1, 1938, Is Aim.

The Panhandle Construction Co., are now erecting three large sheet iron plants out at the lake in the east Brownfield ranch, when machinery is installed is said will cost in the neighborhood of $300,000. Mr. Moxley, construction foreman of the Panhandle construction, has charge of the building operations, which are to be completed by January 1, 1938, at which time the plants, with a capacity of 80 tons of sodium sulphate per day will be in operation.

The Texas Utilities Company are building a high line out from Meadow, passing just east of Brownfield city limits, and down the Lamesa road until even east and west with the plant, when the line will turn east to it. The Panhandle Construction Co., also has a contract to build a gas line from the main West Texas Gas Co., line from Tahoka to Brownfield to the plant. The line leaves the Tahoka highway about 12 miles east of Brownfield and runs south six miles to the plant.

The owners of the plant are American Cyanamid Co., a New Jersey corporation with New York headquarters. As stated above, their daily capacity on the main product, sodium sulphate will be about 80 tons, and some five or six other products are to be extracted at the same time.

Sodium sulphate is used extensively in paper mills to bleach the paper, and it is said the lake in the Brownfield pasture is very rich in this product. We have it on quite reliable authority that around 150 people will be employed in the plant when it is finished.

There was a great deal of talk about extracting mineral and medicinal products from the lakes in this section before the war, but the world war and resumption of foreign trade seemed to have put a stop to the talk for the time being. But now actual work is under way and it will mean much to Brownfield and this entire section.

We understand that a similar plant is being built west of O'Donnell, Tex.

Apologizes To Some Of Our Friends

In the rush last week we left out some things that should have gone in by all means, and we made mistakes, naturally on such a large undertaking for the size of the shop owned by the Herald. Some of these mistakes we wish to rectify as much as possible in this issue, by offering our sincere apology.

One of these is to our good friend, Dennis Lilly, who is carrying one of the important governmental jobs here, and concerns the purchase of farms by share croppers and renters of their own farms with governmental aid. This is a very important article, and will appear in this issue of the Herald.

Another apology goes to the Fighting Cubs and their supporters in general, and while we seemed to ignore them last week, we did not forget them, and even though they suffered their first defeat with Lamesa and tied the Cowhards, we are still with them, lock, stock, barrel and ramrod. Don't two ex-Cubs work on the Herald force? Well they'd hardly let us forget.

Besides, we have been depending of late for the news to come from Supt Baze and Coach Bost, and as they were out of town, just at the time we were ready for press, we missed connection with any news from that source, and too late to prepare anything ourselves.

And, another thing, we promised Prof. Emmett Smith to put the article about the Lions play on the front page, but owing to the big run of hospital matter it failed to make the front page, even though we had two front pages. But we'll bet it was read anyway.

If there was anyone else we neglected, overlooked, or spoke short to after working four nights in a row until midnight and after, here's our apology.

Jeff Medford, former resident, has returned from an extended stay in east Texas.

Must Have More Homes For Cotton Picker

One of the Federal-State Employment men from south Texas, was in to see us this week and informed us that unless more housing can be provided here, he would be obliged to wire the district office at Abilene to stop labor from coming here, as all available shelter in Brownfield, as well as the area was taken already, and he had three truck loads of Mexicans that could find no shelter.

He stated that people coming here from south Texas were not used to the bitter cold we sometimes have here in fall and winter, and people from low altitudes and warm climates might be stricken with pneumonia, and really be a hindrance to the force they come with, as well as the employer.

He suggested that the Herald man contact the lumber dealers here and have them figure out two or three different sized shacks to house cotton pickers. It has been suggested that there need not be a floor put in, but of course a floor would be better.

The ad solicitor found all three of the local lumber yards ready to cooperate with such a move to the very best of their ability, and in ads found elsewhere in this newspaper you will find shacks such as may be required on your farm figured out to the penny.

Of course renters cannot afford to erect such houses on the place, but maybe the landlords can be prevailed on to erect such places. Cotton is cheap, it is true, but every bale is worth saving, as it gives the raiser a small profit and provides work for the unemployed.

Such houses can be put up near the other building on the farm or near the windmill, and can be used in summer for wash houses, and various and sundry other things.

And they will not be used just for one year. A man who has a cotton pickers shack has no trouble anytime getting help.

The Herald Thanks Those Who Helped Us

There are always many sides and angles in getting out a special edition, and a paper must always call on it's friends, if any, for more or less help. In getting up the data for the Hospital Edition last week, we had occasion to call on some friends for articles, and with not a single exception, they responded.

So, this week, we wish to use these columns not only to thank the hospital and staff for their splendid cooperation, but to especially thank Mesdames, J. L. Randal, W. G. Hardin and Will Adams for their splendid articles to go into the edition.

It is so nice to have your dwelling place amidst such people.

Tailor Shop Installs New Automatic Boiler

While in the City Tailor Shop one day this week, Syl Tankersley took great pride in showing us his new Automatic Boiler that he has just installed. This boiler is made in Los Angeles and is said to be the last word in tailor shop boilers.

And it is really automatic, taking care of the fuel (natural gas) flow, water flow, steam pressure, without the aid of human hands after it is started in the morning.

With this new machine installed, Syl remarked that he did not have an old or obsolete piece of machinery in the plant.

Mesdames John Inman and Kyle Graham of Odessa were up Monday to bring their father, Dr. M. C. Bell, of Quemado, N. M., who had been visiting them. Dr. Bell will be here several days.

Mrs. John Grosey was among the shoppers here Tuesday.

We want you to read our article about providing more houses, and then read what the lumber men say they can be built for. A man informed us this week that he had plenty room for pickers at his place, and never has to even get out and look for cotton pickers.

Again, some of the lambs have gotten mixed up with the wolves of Wall Street, and have been fleeced and eaten. Now, they are blaming it all on the government for some reason or other that a man far from the street can't understand. It appears to the Herald that such cry babies are not even the sports that a common crap shooting negro is. If they get skinned out of their money, pants and shirts, they are the last people on earth to appeal to the law. They just grin and endure it.

Some editorial writers, among them a few country weekly editors, write so as to leave the impression on their readers that the oil companies pay 42 percent of the state taxes, which is a fact in a way. But they fail to go on and explain that these taxes are all charged up by advancing the price of oil and gas and the people pay the taxes after all. The Herald has nothing against the major oil companies. Many times it takes their unlimited capital to develop unproven fields. Yet that does not excuse any writer in telling the truth about the matter of taxes. It is the consumer that pays and pays and pays.

Willard Bright, editor and publisher of the Seagraves News, announced in his Saturday Daily that he has taken in as partner, Mr. Shepherd of that city, and that they were installing up-to-date presses and had ordered a new linotype machine. It was stated that the Seagraves News would have the most up-to-date plant on the Plains outside of Amarillo,

A BOY'S ESSAY ON EDITORS
"I don't know how newspapers got into the world and I don't think God does for he ain't got nothing to say about them in the Bible. I think the editor is the missing link we read of, and stayed in the bushes after the flood, and then came out and wrote the thing up, and has been here ever since. If the editor makes mistakes, folks say he ought to be hung; but if the doctor makes mistakes, he buries them and people don't say nothing because they can't read and write Latin. When the editor makes mistakes there is a big law suit, and swearing and a big fuss, but if the doctor makes one there is a funeral cut flowers and perfect silence. A doctor can use a word a yard long without him or anyone else knowing what it means, but when the editor uses one he has to spell it. If the doctor goes to see another man's wife, he charges the man for the visit but if the editor goes he gets a charge of backshot. Any college can make doctors to order, but editors have to be born.—Southern Journal.

HIGHER RAILROAD FARES
The Eastern railroads have agreed to ask the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to increase their passenger fares from the flat two cents a mile, which went into effect last year, to two-and-a-half cents. The permission will probably be granted, since the one road which insisted on the lower rate has found that higher wages and increased cost of supplies have run up operating costs to where the two-cent rate no longer pays expenses.

of the people of Texas. It was a flat and utter failure. So—what shall we do? There is but one answer. This legislative system must be changed. It does not work for the people of Texas. We must try something else. The unicameral—one house—plan which Nebraska uses is the only suggestion so far, but anything would be better than this we have because it could be no worse. In a few months now men will begin to announce for the legisla-

Electricity from the plant just installed by F. F. Roberts and managed by his brother H. H.

The formal opening was delayed on account of the factory being short on transformers. These very necessary adjuncts to the lighting plant were ordered before the poles but they arrived only last Saturday and the men hastily put them up, and as the last one was put on at about six o'clock the engines were started and in just two or three minutes a sufficient speed was acquired to generate the juice for which we have been waiting so long. Only twelve places were prepared for the first juice but the morning found other places rushing preparations and by Wednesday evening over thirty places were enjoying the conveniences of the juice. The occasion was an event in the history of Plains, the county seat of Yoakum. This is the first time the town has had a standard plant capable of giving a satisfactory service. There has been a number of small family size plants with which the merchants managed to light their places of business, all of which were expensive and not satisfactory. We have been told several times that at several new businesses were just waiting for the electricity and that we may expect them to be started.—Yoakum County Review.

Scouting A Great Game

No better program was ever thought of than the Boy Scout Movement, which was started in England by Sir Robert Baden-Powell, now

Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell. The purpose of the movement has been character building and citizenship training, through activities based upon the legends of knighthood, chivalry and the lore of the plainsman and the Indian. The imagination of boys was fired and two years after the movement got under way in England the message of Scouting spread to America. Here it has grown with great rapidity and today there are two million men and boys in the United States who are actively playing the game of Scouting and over 7,000,000 who have played a part during the 27 years it has been actively organized in America.

In the early days it was impressed upon the world that "Scouting is a Game." And it is that—a leisure time, educational game in which boys learn "by doing." Every boy, when he becomes a Scout accepts as a part of his Scouting equipment a Scout Oath and a set of twelve laws upon which he may build ideals, and which may make an integral part of his daily life service to others as the Good Turn becomes part of the code. Scouts and leaders experience real joy and satisfaction in such service.

Scouting is a game in which Scouts and leaders alike participate voluntarily. Boys become Scouts because of their own desire to play the game, in search of adventure and thrills, and continue so long as they desire. What a contrast to the compulsion of the School room. It is this principle which causes leaders to promote effectively activities which will keep them interested and the game appealing and wholesome.

It is because Scouting is so truly a game that so many men of character and high ideals voluntarily answer this call for service to American Boyhood.

A boy's skillfully directed activity in the game of Scouting—things which harmoniously dovetail with the ideals and principles of the Scout Oath and Law, will build unconsciously into himself what specialists describe as "attitude of mind and habit of conduct."

Here are some of the things Scout learns to do: He can make a fire without matches, tell time by the sun and finds his way in the woods without a compass. He can cook a meal over an open fire, handle boats and canoes efficiently, and he learns about lifesaving. That is why Scouting has been such a huge success. It teaches them how to live with nature and their fellow beings. It makes available to a Scout a field of endeavor in nearly every profession and vocation, and urges a boy to Scout around among the merit badge subjects until he finds the vocation for which he is best fitted.

Think of a game that brings together the natural boy gangs of a community into a common useful activity. Scouting recognizes the gang spirit as an asset, and makes it possible for an organized gang to remain intact, ultimately producing friendly competition where battles once raged.

Most of all Scouting appeals to a boy's love of the out-of-doors, an ancient heritage from the ages when primitive man roamed the forest by day and crouched before his blazing fire at night.

Scouting is a great game, the greatest game in the world for a boy, a game which fathers and sons may play together with mutual satisfaction. It is the great adventure for which every boy is looking.

Mrs. Gaster Spencer came in Tuesday from Lubbock.

Mrs. Basil Webb was among the visitor Saturday.

THE METHODIST CHURCH

The pastor will preach Sunday morning after the communion service, which will be administered to all who wish to partake of the sacred symbols of the death of Our Lord. This will be the last Sunday before Conference, but the pastor expects to be back in town on the following Sunday and fill both the morning and evening preaching appointments. No move is expected by either the preacher or the people.

This has been an unusually good year and we all are looking forward to a better to come. Some few improvements have been made, and many others are contemplated for next year.

We are glad to have Brother W. B. Toone and his wife back with us after their year of absence in the Canal Zone. If Brother Toone will do so, we shall be glad to have him tell us some of his experiences on Sunday night. The public can come expecting to hear him at the evening hour. Everybody is and always will be welcome.

'BIRTHDAY BALLS' TO BE HELD AGAIN

Washington, Nov. 7.—President Roosevelt's birthday on Jan. 30—his fifty-fifth—will be used for the fight against infantile paralysis.

He authorized the newly created National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis today to continue the custom of recent years by conducting a fund-raising campaign.

Roosevelt approved the appointment of a committee headed by Keith Morgan, New York, to arrange for the birthday celebration. In the past, this has taken the form of a series of "birthday balls."

TWO PICTURES

Mrs. W. G. Hardin

Every time we see Old Glory; Hear My Country 'tis of thee; We with pride recall her story, In a land across the sea.

When the great World War was ended; This the thought that made us glad; That a grateful world commended; Them. Our heroes khaki clad.

Atta Boy! We're glad to greet them. And we're glad the war is done. With a country's blessing meet them. Every mothers gallant son.

They served nobly over yonder; And with honor sought release; May they choose a new commander. King Emmanuel. Prince of peace.

See that transport now appearing. She has gained her port at last. And our grand old flag she's bearing. Only floating at half mast.

What price war? and what price glory? Unknown soldier speak today. If mute lips could tell their story; This is what he'd doubtless say.

To preserve my country blameless And protect it I did fall; Fill a soldiers grave though nameless; Would to God that this was all.

But each day of fighting done; On the battle field all glory; Perished many a mothers son.

Some with victory's cry were greeted; Home and love their fondest dream; Others of this joy were cheated; Made the sacrifice supreme.

Poppies yonder, amongst the crosses. Flaunt on high your color crest. Tell the world your tale of losses. Soothe thou emblem of sweet rest.

And when comes each glad November, And you celebrate the day, Buddies all, may you remember, Those who sleep so far away.

Keep the blessed hope we cherished. Speed the day not know success. Till the cause for which we perished, Usher in a world wide peace.

Notice to Renters

First steps for the administration of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, wherein money will be loaned to competent farmers, farm laborers, and share-croppers for the purpose of purchasing family-sized farms, are now being taken, L. H. Hauter, Regional Director of the Farm Security Administration, announced this week.

Details of an order, signed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, provides that regional offices will be established with the Farm Security regional director as executive head and with one specialist in tenant farm purchase loans. The entire program will be handled through the regular Farm Security Administration.

Mr. Hauter said the Secretary of Agriculture is expected to announce state and county committees at an early date. Within each state the counties in which loans will be made will be determined by the Secretary of Agriculture after recommendations are received from these Farm Security Advisory Committees.

Pursant to the terms of the Act, distribution of the $9,500,000 is based on farm population and the prevalence of tenancy in each state and territory. Direct administrative costs will be limited to $500,000 of the amount provided by Congress to carry out the provisions of Title One during the current fiscal year. Loans will be made in approximately 300 counties during the fiscal year 1937-38, and the number of loans per county shall not be less than five nor more than 10, except in states in which the total number of loans shall be less than five.

Applications for tenant purchase loans shall be filed with County rural rehabilitation supervisors.

Mr. Hauter, however, has made an urgent request that all applications be withheld until the counties in which this program will be administered this year have been announced. He said this policy will protect would-be applicants from acquiring false hopes, and also save county rehabilitation supervisors much un-necessary work. Counties in which the program will be administered this year will be made public in the near future.

The above information was received from Mr. Hauter by Dennis Q. Lilly, rural rehabilitation supervisor, in Terry and Yoakum counties.

Mrs. Jay Barret was operated on Wednesday for appendicitis.

Cy Tankersley of Jud. Texas, was here Sunday night and Monday on business.

Rep. Penrose Metcalfe of San Angelo was named vice-chairman of the appropriations committee, a position Settle had filled.

Graves was appointed to the place of the late O. S. Lattimore.

Representative J. Doyle Settle, of the 119th district, is believed to be the youngest representative ever to be appointed to the chairmanship of the house appropriations committee in the history of Texas.

'OBITUARY

Uncle D. A. (Doc) Castleberry passed away at the ripe old age of 78 at the home of his daughter at Happy last Wednesday 3rd. He once lived here and was highly respected by every one, as he was a true gentleman from the crown of his head to the sole of his feet. In younger days he was said to be a very fine carpenter and finisher.

R. E. (Edd) Hamilton was born in Belton, Texas, in 1883. He was left an orphan early in life and made his home with his grandmother.

He, his wife and daughter, Christine) came to Brownfield in 1923. He was in the barber business here until 1929.

They moved to California and he worked for Associated Oil Co. one year.

They moved back to Brownfield in 1930 and for two years he bought and sold stock. Since then he has been working for the State highway department.

The large crowd and the beautiful floral offering alone bespeaks the love and appreciation the community held for the deceased.

Mahon Issues Statement Before Going To Capitol

Colorado — Congressman George Mahon, prior to his departure for Washington to attend the special session which convenes Monday, November 15th, made the following statement concerning the prospects for farm legislation:

"I think it is impossible to pre-just what kind of a bill will be passed. In our district a strong preference for a compulsory control bill has been expressed by a great majority of farmers with whom I have come in contact in farm meetings or otherwise. Most cotton producers favor adjusted payments equivalent to parity, 16 cents or above, on that portion of the crop produced for domestic consumption. They feel that a moderate reduction program is necessary, but that adjustment payments will be required in order to get a price for cotton domestic-ally consumed commensurate with the American standards of living. In view of the tremendous foreign production they realize that American cotton sold abroad will have to be sold in competition with the world at a low price. In each county they favor allotments to each farm on a uniform basis of equality regardless of the length of time the farm has been in cultivation. They favor no discrimination against new farms in areas where a normal development of agricultural land is taking place. They favor a program which will place the emphasis on a normal size farm in each locality. The favor a farm policy which will encourage operation of farms by tenants or occupant owners and which will discourage the displacement of tenants and large operations through hired labor methods.

"In the minds of the producers there is a wide variety of opinion as to what should be done. In Congress, which is made up of representatives from all sections of the nation, there will be even a greater diversity of opinion. However, I think it can be safely predicted that the new program will be an improvement over the old."

RUN, GOBLER, RUN

Wild or tame, old man turkey is in for it now. If he's wild his gloomy season starts November 16 and lasts through December 31, when both north and south zone hunters are welcome to make him a target, providing he don't kill more than three gobblers a season. However, there are 39 counties without any open season at any time, so he might try hiding.

The fate of tame turkeys is even more inevitable, especially in this state, which has the largest turkey crop in the world. Besides the home supply over 1600 carloads of this Thanksgiving favorite are shipped out annually. Cuero, center of the industry, has a yearly "Turkey Trot," when thousands of the birds are driven down the main street of town.

George M. Bugbee of Redlands, Calif., old friend of G. G. Gore, of this county, stopped off here Wednesday night on his way home to talk over old times. Both Georges used to work on the same ranch in the Memphis-Clarendon section, and so far as they know, they are the only hands living now that worked at that time.

The Public Is The Chief Engineer

"The public is the chief of all chief engineers of all motor companies," Stuart G. Baits, vice president and general manager of the Hudson Motor Car Company, said today. "The public is the final board of review of the entire industry. It may not have a formal title or its name on a door, but it does have almost unlimited power."

Mr. Baits stated that automotive engineers are asked at one time or another how they get about improving a car that is apparently an almost perfect machine. "When we men in the automotive industry set out to re-design and improve our cars," Mr. Baits said, "we do just what anyone else would do—we find out what the boss wants. And our boss is the public—our chief engineer."

"Each year the public judges everything that is new or different in the automotive field. Usually it shows its approval or disapproval in no uncertain manner. The following year these judgments influence the design of the new models. The innovations which have been disapproved by the public are discarded and quickly forgotten. Those which have been approved soon take their places in one form or another in all cars. The public has OK'd them, so they are adopted by all manufacturers."

What Will You Do To Aid the Red Cross?

In all the daily papers as well as in the leading magazines you are seeing headlines about the annual Red Cross membership drive, which will begin on November 11 and end Thanksgiving Day. The Brownfield Chapter of the American Red Cross has been doing a great work in our own county and neighboring counties for the past 20 years as well as supporting the National Red Cross in its work for the welfare of this nation. The need is very apparent this year that more members join this welfare organization, than in the past years, for more and more, the local Red Cross Chapter is trying to do more for the local people, and then the great distrust throughout the world prevailing as you know is liable to cause a great need for the National organization to perform a heavy task at any time.

The Brownfield Chapter of the American Red Cross would like to set up about three first aid stations in our territory, which is very badly needed on our highways, as you are aware. We are having many car accidents and these stations could be set up and maintained out from Brownfield in villages where there is no doctor available, to render first aid to persons suffering from these car wrecks.

Our committee has decided to make a special drive in the county on Saturday, November 20th and Monday, November 22nd. Please give your attention to this call and become a member for the good of your own community and the welfare of our great nation.

We wish to express our thanks to the Terry County Herald and the Brownfield News for publishing these items, as well as to the cooperation and help of L. C. Wines, Mayor of the city of Brownfield.

UNION

The home economics girls have started having lessons in the new building.

The Foster and Wellman outside teams played a basketball game in the Union gymnasium, Sunday afternoon. Foster won by a few points.

The two girls' teams played Meadow Thursday night. Our Junior team won, but the seniors lost. There wasn't many at the play Friday night.

Some of the folks got tangled up Sunday night about the singing. We have the 2nd and 4th Sunday nights and Foster the 1st and 3rd, and every time a 5th Sunday comes along, we begin having singing on the 1st Sunday.

The Union school bus driver and Mr. Day have to go after the children in their cars.

Did any of you ever see so much cotton at the gins and on the ground in the fields?

Statement of Rep. Marvin Jones of Texas

Chairman, Committee on Agriculture, U. S. House of Representatives.

Most of the members of the House committee on Agriculture seem to prefer a voluntary farm program as to most commodities.

Personally I favor the voluntary or premium method rather than penalty or compulsory control.

By using soil conservation payments and adding additional funds secured through tariff equalizing taxes, premiums can be paid to the farmer as an offset to the tariff, and he will then have a better income, and at the same time his products can flow into the markets at home and abroad.

On the other hand, the penalty or compulsory control method will tend to curtail our markets both here and in foreign countries by encouraging foreign competition and domestic substitution.

There are two extremes. Some favor production in unlimited quantities regardless of price. Others would undertake by compulsory control to gain a temporary high price regardless of its final effect on outlets and markets. A middle course that would undertake to secure a fair price and at the same time to produce all that the market will absorb both in this and other countries would seem to be desirable.

It is important that our foreign markets should not be surrendered. Any adjustment or control program should be shaped so these markets can be gradually regained.

The Harley Saddler Show, came, saw and conquered. He stated more people were turned away Monday night than at any place they had been. Had to put on two shows Tuesday night to accommodate the crowd.

PIANIST WITH SADDLER SHOWS FOUND DEAD

Members of the Harley Saddler show troupe, playing a two day engagement here, were shocked beyond words when a member of their troupe, Franklin R. Speed, was discovered dead in his bed in a local lodging house Tuesday afternoon, a heart attack being given as the cause.

Deceased was about fifty years of age, and so far as was known by co-workers had no living relatives. He was known to have been in poor health for several months, but kept on with his job as pianist with the show.

Quite funeral services were held at the cemetery at 4:00 p.m. the following day, conducted by Rev. Marvin Norwood, where the remains were laid at final rest. Mr. and Mrs. Sadler and several members of the company remained over and attended the funeral of their friend and co-worker.—Littlefield News.

TURKEY AND DEER CAN BE POTTED AFTER NOV. 15

Hunter are reminded that the dove season will close Nov. 15 according to the law, and open season on turkey and deer will begin Nov. 16, continuing through Dec. 31. Not many riflemen will go out to the mountains in search of bear but the laws says they can from Nov. 16 to Dec. 31.

The duck and geese season is from Nov. 27 to Dec. 26. Quail hunting becomes legal Dec. 1 and does not become prohibitive until Jan. 16.

The law has a few reminders. Two bucks are the limit on deer (only one mule or black tail deer west of the Pecos.) Turkey bag limit is three gobblers for the season. Bag limit on duck is 10, and on geese, 5.

MON AND ARCH MAKE TRIP TO EAST TEXAS

J. M. Telford and Arch Fowler were called to Woodville, Tyler county this week as witnesses in a case against one, Monroe Wise, once sent up here, on trial there as a habitual criminal. After making this 1200 mile trip the case was continued.

But you ought to hear Mon tell how Arch acted down among the tall pines. Haven't interviewed Arch yet; he may have something on Mon, too.

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

LAZY MOTHERS TO BLAME FOR INCREASING CRIME

Mrs. Marie O. Bauernschmidt, secretary of the Baltimore Public School Association, stated in a recent address before a Parent-Teacher Association chapter in the District of Columbia that lazy mothers are to blame for much of the crime prevalent in the United States today. Too many wives and mothers are having their breakfasts in bed, she declared, instead of eating with their husbands and children, and helping them to get off to work and to school.

Children obtain their greatest lessons from their home environment. Lazy and inept mothers are a bad influence in the lives of their children, who become wayward and indifferent because of the lack of proper motherly example and discipline, Mrs. Bauernschmidt insisted.

It was Mrs. Bauernschmidt's opinion that the success of Baltimore public schools during the past 18 years was due to the campaign to free the school boards, health officers and other educational agencies from politics, and to the frank discussions of the Baltimore Public School Association in their chapters of the need to emphasize the disciplinary, moral and social values of home life.

SAY! The Herald's big premium offer of a Fountain and Pencil Set absolutely free has been extended to Saturday, November 27. That's good news!

SANTA FE CARLOADING INCREASE OVER 1936

Santa Fe Railway System carloadings for the week ending October 30, were 7,746 compared with 24,680 for the same week in 1936. Received from connections were 7,552 cars, compared with 7,198 for the same week last year. Total cars moved were 35,298 compared with 31,788 for the same week 1936. The Santa Fe handled a total of 34,085 cars in the preceding week of this year.

"Of Human Bondage"

This story is that of the first thirty years of Philip Carey's life. Through Philip's intelligent and remarkably clear eyes one sees an English school, a German university, a colony of artistic failures in Paris, a dreary business house in London, a large hospital and a village on the British coast. All these places and many more, come as close to the reader as they did to Philip. It is an intensely personal story. One suffers with the sensitive boy the bitter realization of his physical handicaps, enjoys his friendships and shaves his problems. Like Philip, the personality through which the very real experience of the book is past, one realizes that if one has lived thoroughly, that life has a meaning and a pattern as rich, through as unsymmetrical, as those formed by the colors in an oriental rug.

"You did something of which you are ashamed," she said simply. "I didn't. Why should there be any question of forgiveness? If I did something—something wrong, tomorrow—you'd be sorry—you'd think a little the less of me; but you wouldn't be personally touched because I forged a check—your own honor would be just what it was! My life isn't yours. I'm me."

"I wish to the Lord you would do something dumb," Quentin said with ineffectual force, after a pause.

"I sound smug," Vicky said, "but I'm not. And I do dumb things every day. Thousands of them. There were months—there were actual years when your home life was nothing but mistakes, nerves, upbear, my crying and being tired and sick, the children going into mumps and whooping cough, bills piling up."

"But, good heavens, Vic, what's that!" the man said roughly, in impatience. "What's all that compared to the other thing, compared to hurting your pride, and killing your love for me, and putting the thought of another woman eternally between us? Why, lots of the fellows go home to women who are extravagant and nagging and nervous, and who don't have a houseful of gorgeous kids to show for it! There's no comparison between the two."

"I think there is. I think nagging and extravagance and nerves are serious things, too, and I think women who won't have children, who hate home, who are always running about with other men, are just as bad! Even if they don't go to the limit—even if they fool along, getting everything they can out of a man and then stopping short, never giving anything—it seems to me detestable," Vic said. "My own temptations are different," she added.

"I think maybe I'm a mother first and a wife afterward; I've never gone in for pink baby pillows and long-legged dolls!"

The words brought back with a moment of horror the memory of her last sight of Serena's bedroom, and she was still.

"Serena loved you," she said thoughtfully, in the silence.

"She never loved anyone but herself," Quentin said. "Everything she said and did revolved about that. She loved her own beauty and power. She used them to get what she wanted. I knew it, after a while. Morrison must have discovered it as soon as they were married. Her first husband tried twice to kill himself. She was cold and vain, poor girl! And she was the woman," he ended, "for whom I broke your heart!"

"No, you didn't break my heart."

"Breaking a person's heart is a cheap way of putting it," Quentin said. "It sounds romantic, when it wasn't anything but damn stupid and selfish. You said what it really did, a minute ago. It made you think less of me; that's the real price. We never can go back to that. You'll never be able to trust me again. There'll always be that feeling, somewhere, 'way back in your mind, that I failed you!"

Vicky, her elbows on the kitchen table, her chin in her hands, looked thoughtful.

"I suppose so," she said slowly. "But I don't know that it matters. You've seen me looking pretty horrible, ugly and crying and frightened and only anxious to be left off pain; it doesn't seem to make you like me any less when I'm all gotten up in my new Paris clothes. Luckily people forget those things, when—under it all—they love each other."

Quentin answered her with a long look.

"I think you really believe that," he said after a while. "You're not like anyone else in the world!"

Vicky in her turn was thoughtful.

"Perhaps we're both tired," she said.

"For that matter, what's happened tonight is enough to throw us into nervous breakdown. We don't often talk this way. But it's only fair to tell you something, Quentin, that may partly explain the way I feel, the way I act. When we were married, eleven years ago, I talked about marrying for reasons, about not being carried away by excitement, about not falling in love."

"I told you my idea of marriage was companionship, home, children. You were a widow now to think of Gwen as delicate, doesn't it?" she said.

"Women were making your life a burden, and you needed just what I had to give. I remember our talking of it once, and your saying that whatever the agreement was before marriage, however reasonable and dispassionate the feeling was, no man could have a young wife around and not come to love her, that is presuming that he didn't come to hate her. Do you remember that?"

"Vaguely."

"Well, the joke was on me," Vicky said, "for I had it—had it desperately, the whole time! I trembled and got silly when you spoke to me, I thought of you all day long and lay awake dreaming of you all night. I was the love-sickest woman who ever knelt down and thanked God that the most marvelous man in the world had deigned to look at her! I never told you, I was too proud. I tackled the big house and the servants and Gwen; I even went to the hospital and had your babies, Quent. But I never dared tell you! You never asked me to; you took me calmly for granted, meals and furniture and Gwen and babies and answering the telephone and buying you new shirts, and that was the way I wanted it to be. I didn't want to be the one to introduce the silly, the sentimental side of it, cry when you forgot my birthday, and expect you to compliment me every night on the way my hair was done! I'd said I wanted a certain kind of marriage—work and responsibility and companionship, and plenty of criticism if I didn't do my job, and I got it! But I've loved you all the time! Quent, when you come home tired at night and go to sleep with your big heavy head on my shoulder, I lie awake sometimes for joy. Juliet has nothing on me, nor Beatrice, nor Nicolette!"

She stood up, smiled at him.

"There!" she said. "That's my awful confession. I've made you a speech."

Quent took Victoria in his arms.

"You've made me a speech, Vic. I'll never forget it."

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By Julian Capers, Jr.

Austin—There is a classic newspaper story about a young reporter who was sent to write the details of a story involving the destruction of a town by a tornado. He surveyed the wreckage, and then spent several hours trying to think up an impressive opening of a sentence for his story, while his editors waited impatiently. Finally he produced this masterpiece: "All is confusion." And that phrase might aptly be used to describe the Texas political scene, in the wake of the taxless special session. Gov. Allred apparently is undecided what he will do. He insisted this week that he wouldn't call another session "until assured a tax bill will be passed." His closest advisers are telling him that he shouldn't try for a third term, but the governor seems reluctant to take their advice. This week a man who has been his closest political adviser told this reporter: "I don't think the governor has any idea of running for a third term."

Within an hour, the governor told another of his friends, who is supporting Col. Ernest Thompson for governor: "Don't count me out of the race too soon."

Thompson's Friends Active
Meanwhile, Col. Thompson's friends are pushing ahead steadily with organization of his campaign, and the colonel is expected to make a formal announcement soon after January 1, and launch a vigorous personal campaign soon thereafter. Attorney General Bill McGraw, who has been campaigning since the last election, is driving ahead with his speaking tours and publicity barrage. Meanwhile, politicians were intensely interested in a report that one of the Federal district Judges in the Western Texas district (in which Allred's home town Wichita Falls is located) is nearing the retirement age, and might step down soon, creating a vacancy upon which the governor has his eye. Allred has assiduously cultivated his already happy relationship with the White House in recent months, keeping alive the belief that a Federal Judgeship is his idea of how to get out of his present political dilemma.

Pensions to Continue

The political threat to suspend old-age pension payments if the Legislature failed to enact a tax bill blew out of the water this week—as predicted in this column—when the board of control, through John Wallace, its minority and retiring member, declared arrangements had been worked out with the Republic National Bank in Dallas to pay off the $1,600,000 of pension warrants the bank holds, on the installment plan. This, Wallace declared, assures pension payments for November, December, January and February.

A pretty little political drama was enacted behind the scenes. The Board of Control sent a letter to Harry Graves during the session, saying pensions would have to stop unless the tax bill passed. The Governor made the same declaration in his radio "fireside chat." When the tax bill failed, Wallace, who wasn't reappointed by Allred and retires January 1, was sent to Dallas by the board, to negotiate with the Bank. So well did he do the job that at least four month's additional pension payments were worked out. That left the Board of Control and the Governor out on a limb on their threat—but the old folks won't go hungry and Wallace gets the credit.

Nepotism Probe Goes On

The final report of the house investigation committee looking into employment of relatives of legislators, campaign contributions and other alleged mal-practices in State departments may contain some sensational matter developed through its questionnaires or in executive sessions, but the probe so far has not developed anything exciting. Under the chairmanship of judge Ben Cathey of Quitman, it has brought out testimony that employees in the treasury, the comptroller's office, the department of education and other state offices have contributed to the campaign funds of their bosses. But there was no evidence that these contributions were extorted. And, while everybody knows that it is a favorite trick of department heads to hire friends or relatives of legislators—therein being the chief strength of the official lobby—it is pretty difficult to get the legislators to work up much of a lather over a practice in which they are the chief beneficiaries. The committee also heard land commissioner Bill McDonald voice a stout defense of his policy of rejecting high cash bids for oil leases on state school lands, and awarding the leases to bidders who offer small cash sums, and large payments in oil royalty—if oil is found.

"It is, of course, a gamble either way," said McDonald. But I get the best information I can on the prospect of striking oil on each tract, and I think the schools will profit more in the long run by accepting the larger share of royalty, particularly on the tracts which look like they are sure to be oil producers." McDonald said he wouldn't oppose a bill vesting the purchasing power in a board, instead of himself alone, but admitted he opposed a bill by Coke Stevenson with such a provision, at the regular session.

"I opposed it because there were a lot of other things in that bill I didn't like," he said.

The Rest of The Record

JAMES V. ALLRED
Governor of Texas

A few of the big daily papers and Senator Shivers of Port Arthur have criticized me because I said over the radio that unless the legislature provided revenues, pension payments would be stopped after November 1st. Now that the Board of Control has announced that payments will be made at least for the next two months these papers and this Senator are trying to make it appear that I misrepresented things. If they wanted to be fair they would tell the people that before I made my radio speech the State Board of Control, which handles pensions, made a written statement to the Legislature that payments would be stopped unless the Legislature provided money. These papers and this Senator know that I relied upon the statement of the Board of Control in making my appeal for aid.

But, in any event, it doesn't make much difference who made the statement first. The rest of the record is this:

For over a year now the Board of Control has owed $1,626,000 to Dallas banks on warrants issued before the tax bills went into effect. I told the legislature last January this would have to be paid. No provision was made for it. I told the legislature again during the special session that this should be paid. Nothing was done about it. Meantime, however, the Dallas bank had been demanding its money and the Board of Control had agreed to pay it. They told the legislature positively that they would take care of it if the Legislature didn't act at the special session. This was the reason they issued the statement that payments would be stopped unless the Legislature provided more money. Now the Legislature didn't make provisions for paying this money, which simply meant that if the bank continued to insist upon its money then the Board of Control would have to cut payments out completely for at least two months, just as they said they would. However, the Board has prevailed upon them to accept payments of $100,000 for November and December so they can go ahead and make November and December payments. They are to work out other arrangements for paying the balance to the bank about January 1st.

Naturally I am pleased to know that according to the Board of Control's statement old age assistance can go on through the next two months. One member of the Board of Control, Mr. John Wallace testified that payments would not be stopped at all and there would be no reduction of the rolls. I had been hearing that they were going to cut off several thousand, and was not surprised yesterday when Mr. Little testified before a legislative committee that this was inevitable since the legislature had failed to provide more money.

Whether the board pays the debt of $1,626,000 to the banks in installments or all at once, any school boy could figure out that the board has got to cut the rolls or cut the average of $14 per month. For that reason, I regret the ray of false hope which has been held out to the old people when the day of reckoning is inevitable.

I am opposed to dropping any more needy aged from the rolls. I think that many of the so-called border line cases would be put on the rolls rather than lopping them off, particularly during the coming weeks when winter will be setting in. The present $14 a month payment is not enough for a pension especially with the added suffering from the board, instead of himself alone, but admitted he opposed a bill by Coke Stevenson with such a provision, at the regular session.

"I opposed it because there were a lot of other things in that bill I didn't like," he said.

Names and News

A strange parallel between the appointment of Harry Graves, Georgetown legislator, to the Court of Criminal Appeals, and the naming of Senator Hugo Black to the supreme court exists. Many lawyers claim Graves is not qualified, because he voted for a bill raising the pay of the judges at the regular session, resigned to accept appointment to the court at the hands of Gov. Allred, exactly as the claim was made that Black disqualified himself by increasing the emoluments of the Supreme Court as a Senator, before he was appointed. Lawyers are reluctant to discuss Graves' case openly, but most of the best ones privately say he is disqualified. Whether a court test will be made of the matter remains to be seen. . . . Contract for the first 22-mile section of the Kenedy county road will be let by the Highway Commission Nov. 23. The road was an issue in the last Governor's race, with Allred promising to get it started. The new road has been designated as a Federal route, and opens a shorter route to the Valley. . . . Sulphur taxes from Oct. 1, 1936 to Oct. 1, 1937 were $2,251,936, a jump of 89.45 per cent increase, due to larger production and increased tax rate. Liquor revenues also jumped in October to $674,552, an increase of $119,041 over Oct. last year. Pensions got $462,920 and schools $141,359 of the October liquor revenue.

Another angle of suffering is the relief problem which is linked with that of the old age assistance. The aged needy who are dropped from the rolls must be cared for by someone. If they turn to the relief rolls for help, they will find the lines swollen by an estimated 325,000 people. This figure according to the relief administrator compares unfavorably with the lesser number of 166,779 last January when public works projects removed many from indigent rolls.

Neither the state nor federal governments are able to supply money for direct relief but only relief in the form of surplus foodstuffs and some clothing. With the suffering of the aged people added to that of those unfortunates without employment, it is obvious the cry will be heard over Texas in the midst of the rainy, cold winter months.

With these will be the needy blind and destitute children left holding an empty bag by the Legislature.

When this situation comes to pass, the question "Why?" will be on the lips of every citizen.

That question will be directed at the corporation senators—Holbrook and company—whose job of scuttling the social security financing program cost the state a $200,000 but saved the wealthy natural resource groups from shouldering a humanitarian burden.

Their attitude "Am I my brother's keeper?" will be the target for those needy unfortunates whose faith was not kept.

Forrester Items

Well, cotton picking seems to be the order of the day since quite a few hands came into the community recently.

Mr. Jeff Riley came in Saturday from Arizona where he has been working.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mathis of Arizona came in on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Dave Mathis, Saturday. Arnold Baldwin and Darrold Zachary went to the show at town last Saturday night.

W. H. Hyatt of the Hunter community got married Saturday. Come to Sunday school and preaching.

There will be singing at the Forrester School house every first and third Sunday night. Every one invited to attend and hear the good singing.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Mathis of the Hunter community spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Baldwin of the Forrester community.

The health of Mrs. Zachary's mother, Mrs. Anderson, has improved. Since the last writing she is able to be up and around now.

Well, the weather looks as though it might be bad, which is to be regretted, as there is quite a bit of cotton out to be gathered yet.
