

HERALD HAVING MANY CALLS FOR PEN AND PENCIL SETS

Time Is Very Limited For You to Get In On this Offer. A Pen and Pencil Set Almost Worth the Price of the Herald.

Already the Herald has placed a good many more of the pen and pencil sets than we had anticipated at the opening of the campaign. We knew that we had a splendid premium and had obtained same on such favorable terms that we could offer it absolutely free. We did not know, however, how easy it would be to convince our readers that we are offering them something really worthwhile.

However, as soon as calls were made at this office to view the display and the sets started going out into the hands of subscribers the demand took on a very healthy color indeed. Neighbors told neighbors of the fine premium that could be obtained from the Herald free and this with our own efforts to advertise the offer have resulted in a splendid showing to date. And, of course, the peak of the demand is just now arriving. While hundreds have already been in to secure their premium, hundreds more are due to take advantage of the offer before end of the campaign.

Not Surprising
The fine results are really not surprising when one considers that the Herald is offering a premium with universal appeal, one adapted to the use of everyone and needed by every man, woman and child of school age. There is scarcely a reader of this paper who does not have daily use of writing equipment and rarely is there a home so well supplied that every member of the family has own individual pen and pencil sets. Hence, the premium we offer is one that can be utilized to an advantage in every home.

This universal need and adaptation along with the fact that the Herald is giving the sets away absolutely free explains very clearly why the offer is proving so highly successful.

Another factor is the high quality of these sets guaranteed. Each set carries a guarantee slip.

Sets Ideal for School
Children and parents are finding these sets ideal for school requirements and that is one reason why so many of these premiums are moving out. Parents can make a substantial saving by getting these sets for their children. More than one set easily obtainable, simply by paying for additional subscriptions for yourself, relatives or friends.

Easy to Obtain
The Herald has made it very easy to obtain one or more of these remarkable fine writing sets. The only requirement is to pay $1.50 for a year's subscription to this newspaper, the regular established price and a set is yours free. The payment can be for a renewal subscription or a new one. The offer is made on the same basis to everyone without any restrictions or stipulations and regardless of whether your subscription is now due or does not expire for several months. In the latter case your subscription will be extended a full year from the expiration date.

Reaves to Examine For Drivers License
Elsewhere in this issue, will be found an announcement from the State Highway department setting dates and time for examination here for tests for drivers' license. In this connection, Jack Reaves, a former citizen here, now headquartered in Lubbock, writes us that he "is the excuse to issue license in 14 counties of this section."
He and another patrolman will be here on Saturday of each week (doesn't state how many weeks) for this purpose. You will be able to see from the other article that inspection for driver's license is going to be very much more rigid than heretofore, and if you aim to drive any, better get fitted up, for if you figure in a wreck or accident and don't have a required paper from this on, it will just be too bad with you.
He intimated that Ches Gore, local sheriff, could be questioned for more information should we need it. But we are very sure that Ches and deputies, as well as the city force, will lend every co-operation to Jack and his man when they get here.

Offer Nearing End
While there is still ample time to take advantage of this very remarkable offer, the fact remains that it is drawing towards a close. Final date of offer is Saturday, November 21, a matter of only the remaining days of this week and next week.

Subscribers out of the trade area should remit $2.00 and 5c extra if they wish them mailed to them.
Better make arrangements now to get your set or sets. The offer will soon be over.

The Methodist people have erected a nice large sign, "Methodist Church" out in front of their building, so that no one will have a hard time finding the church.

$26,250,000 Cotton Crop on South Plains

700,000 Bales, All-Time Record, Is Expected; Army of Pickers Recruited.

By PRESLEY BRYANT
Staff Correspondent Star Telegram
LUBBOCK, Nov. 13.—Not content with one of the finest feed crops in its history, Lubbock's 17-county trade territory is hauling a $26,250,000 cotton crop to market.

Getting this tremendous crop out of the fields is just now an all-absorbing business. When it is done, it is expected, 700,000 bales will be counted—an all-time record for the South Plains.

An army of pickers, recruited from all sections of the country, will be paid $6,650,000 to $6,800,000, on an estimate assuming that about one-third of the crop will be picked. Picking prices run approximately $9 a bale, snapping $10.

Evidences of Race
All over this country are scenes of teeming activity, evidences of the race that is currently being run against time by the gins as the white tide breaks against their walls.

Flying over white-streaked green fields, dotted with pickers and wagons, Star-Telegram staff members received unforgettable impressions of what this great crop means to West Texas. Along the highways were caravans of loaded wagons, around the gins mounds of cotton dumped on the ground, because the ginners were behind on their handicap and the wagons could not wait, at all large centers long rows of bales waiting to be moved into storage.

Conditions in Lubbock County, where 34 gins can not cope with the flood of seed cotton and where highways are cluttered with cotton wagons and trucks and trailers, mirror those of other counties.
Never More Than 500,000
Hitherto in these 17 counties there never has been raised more than 500,000 bales and the average since the section became known as a cotton belt has been between 300,000 and 400,000 bales.

General business has been lined with lint and almost unprecedented activity may be observed in the downtown section of every population center.
As a rule, snappers and pickers are paid at the end of each day's work and they hasten to the stores.
Because accommodation in the field are the exceptions most of them are quartered in the towns and many farmers, particularly in Lubbock County, maintain free transportation to and from the fields.

One Lubbock street corner is an employment center. Trucks and shiny new automobiles pull up at the curb, an announcement is made relative to the number of pickers needed and those awaiting work load in and are off.
Billets Near Fair Grounds
At 6 p. m. they are brought back to the same corner and next day the process is repeated.
Billets for pickers are maintained near the Panhandle-South Plains Fair Grounds here. Water and sanitary conveniences are provided. Federal and state employment service officials give information.
A trip over the South Plains, especially by air, is revealing to the person who imagines he has seen great cotton production.
As many as five stacks of unginned cotton, several bales to the stack, may be found in a single field.
Two gins, one at Wolforth and one at Monroe, had more than 800 bales of cotton on the yards one day this week—some in trucks and trailers, some in wagons, a lot just heaped on the ground. But the record is claimed for O'Donnell, here recently between 4,000 and 4,500 bales were waiting to be ginned.

Running night and day, the Slaton gins on Nov. 6 had turned out 9,432, or 4,191 more than on the same date a year ago and more than 2,000 bales in excess of last year's entire output.

Gins Never Stop
All over the South Plains the gins never stop, except to allow time for necessary repairs.
Normal weather conditions from Aug. 31 and the fact that fewer farmers complied with the Government's agricultural program contributed to the great crop. Normally, first killing frosts about Nov. 2, but so far only three light frosts have occurred since Oct. 19.

Following are figures, by counties, of the last cotton estimate, which, like those before it, was found a bit too conservative. Other figures were unavailable:

Bailey, 20,000; Briscoe, 7,000; Castro, 4,000; Cochran, 12,000; Crosby, 50,000; Dawson, 85,000; Floyd, 25,000; Gaines, 6,000; Garza, 27,000; Hale, 35,000; Hockley, 55,000; Lamb, 60,000; Lubbock, 95,000; Lynn, 85,000; Farmer, 7,000; Swisher, 2,000; Terry, 50,000.

The Terry figure represents Yoakum as well, since Yoakum has no gin. "We frankly don't know how much cotton there is on the South Plains," said one of the cotton row buyers in this third largest inland cotton market. "And for the numbers of pickers—the Lord only knows."

Statement

To the membership of the First Baptist church, Brownfield, we the Building Committee and the Board of Deacons urge each and every one to be present at the services Sunday. We invite all other Baptists who are not members of the church and friends to attend the services.

Have Chance to Make Shallow Oil Well

The shallow well that has an oil and gas showing on the Brownfield ranch southeast of the city last week, has created some excitement, as well as some curiosity. It has been known ever since the deep test was drilled near this well several years ago, that there was a gas and oil showing in that test.

This offset from the deep test, around 700 feet deep, showed up again, so that the pool, which is bound to be there some where has been tested on two sides now. Ray Brownfield and Hutto Bros. are the only ones interested in this test.

Ray is perhaps as little excited about the matter as the average man on the streets. His opinion is that if the oil bearing strata is say from 15 inches to two or three feet thick, so that they will produce from 10 to 20 barrels of oil per day on pump, they will pay. Otherwise, they will not.
So, the only thing to be done is to run casing, and give this well a test. A shallow pool on pumps is the most paying oil field to be had, and generally last longer.

20,000 Sheep On Feed at Levelland

Snyder & Reed, ranchers and stockmen, now have 20,000 head of sheep and 250 head of cattle on feed at the yards just northwest of town. The feeding operations are under the direction of Wilton Glimp, who spent the summer buying them from ranches in San Angelo territory.

This feeding firm has purchased 6,500 tons of green feed which has been stored in trench silos as ensilage, which is now being fed together with lime and crushed cottonseed cake.

The green feed was purchased at $2 per ton, making a total of approximately $13,000 spent among the growers of this immediate section. Many farmers average ten tons of fodder per acre, while it is claimed that the average in the vicinity was in excess of seven tons, the feed bringing from $14 to $20 per acre.

This firm is also feeding a large number of sheep and cattle at their pens at Whiteface, fifteen miles west of here.—Levelland Herald.

Miss Joyce Phelps, music teacher in the schools at Andrews, was a week-end guest in the home of Elder and Mrs. Killion.

According to A. D. Repp, superintendent of the Texas Compress & Warehouse Co., there was Tuesday night the sum of 35,000 bales of ginned cotton on the yards and in the compress warehouse at that time. Even with recently built 5,000 bales capacity to the warehouse, making it a 20,000 bale warehouse, there is now, as this paper goes to press, around 20,000 bales on yards here.

Cubs Down Post Antelopes Armistice

Displaying an offense and manifesting a spirit that were just the opposite of that of the Cowhand and Lamesa games, in which they were tied and defeated respectively, the Brownfield Cubs ran over the Post Antelopes last Thursday to the tune of 56 to 0. The superiority of the locals might be imagined from the yardage gained from scrimmage. The Cubs gained a total of 472 yards from running and passing, while the opponents gained only 83 yards for the afternoon. At the same time the locals were drawing penalties for a total of 65 yards to the opponents 10 yards. Cubs scoring touchdowns were: Hill (2), Gracey, Fore (2), Phar, Chambliss, Ellis. In addition Fore carried the ball over for extra points twice, and Jenkins kicked four points after touchdown. Practically every man on the Cub team saw action, the midget members playing a good part of the game.

This game placed the locals well up in the running for district honors. It is likely that the district championship will be decided Thanksgiving day. A few regulars and all the "B" squad are playing in Eunice, N. M. Friday night in a game dedicating the new lighted stadium. Coach Bos is withholding his best men in the hopes that he can stop the driving thrusts of Levelland on Thanksgiving day. Levelland threw a scare into the locals when they defeated Littlefield by a score of 26 to 18. Most of the fans of the district had conceded the victory to Littlefield.

Wanted to Know If He Was In Mexico

Just as certain as Armistice Day rolls around since he left here several years ago to return to his old home in Fredrick, Okla., where he is looking after the property of his aged parents, Bill Palmer and wife can be expected to appear on the scene in Brownfield. Since they were here last year, they have lost a son of 12 years, but have a little daughter about three months of age, besides their small son.

Bill came to the Herald office Saturday to renew for the Herald and asked us if he was in old Mexico or Texas. From the jumble of jingoes as he came down the street, said he couldn't tell just where he was. Bill says he guesses he ought to be ashamed of himself. He belongs to a Legion Post at Fredrick, but when Armistice rolls around, he has an urge to spend it in Brownfield with the old boys here, and so long as he and family are well, he aims to continue to do so.

So, when the 11th comes, always put down an extra plate for Mr. and Mrs. Bill Palmer of Fredrick, Okla.

Scouts to Hold Big Court of Honor

Approximately 1500 Boy Scouts, Cubs, and Leaders from twenty South Plains Counties will participate in one of the greatest demonstrations of Scouting ever held in the South Plains Council on December 3 at the Lubbock High School auditorium, when they come together for a mammoth Court of Honor, according to Geo. W. Dupree, Lubbock Council Court of Honor Chairman.

Nine districts, with a total of 62 Scout Troops and 11 Cub packs from 40 towns will participate. Each district court of honor chairman will have a part on the program in the presentation of the awards.

A tableaux depicting various activities of the Scouts and Cubs will be dramatized along with impressive and entertaining ceremonies connected with the recognitions for achievement.

35,000 Bales Cotton On the Yards Here

According to A. D. Repp, superintendent of the Texas Compress & Warehouse Co., there was Tuesday night the sum of 35,000 bales of ginned cotton on the yards and in the compress warehouse at that time. Even with recently built 5,000 bales capacity to the warehouse, making it a 20,000 bale warehouse, there is now, as this paper goes to press, around 20,000 bales on yards here.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY TO PASS ON DRIVERS LICENSE SATURDAY

Headquarters at Courthouse. Must Furnish Own Vehicle. Test to Include Sight and Hearing, and Demonstrate Control of Car.

AUSTIN, Nov.—Two driver's license examiners of the Department of Public Safety will be in Brownfield on Saturday of each week, to conduct tests for drivers applying for their first license, according to Col. H. H. Carmichael, director of the public safety department.

Establishing headquarters at the courthouse the uniformed officers will give the examinations every Saturday of each week from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. In applying for the driving tests the applicant must furnish his own vehicle or one he proposes to operate after he secures a license, the safety director pointed out.

After oral quizzes are completed each applicant will be required to drive his car or truck over a designated route under the supervision of one of the trained examiners. During the drive the operator must demonstrate the use of his foot and hand brakes, stop for signals and perform other acts necessitated in ordinary traffic situations. Before the actual driving test is made the examiners will quiz the license applicants on safety regulations and signals, highway laws and make tests of their eyesight and hearing. Any physical deformities will be recorded on a grade card.

Not only will driver's license applicants be examined as to their ability to handle a vehicle with safety, but the vehicle itself will be tested for defects in brakes, horn, lights, rear-view mirror, and windshield wiper.

If a driver proves his ability to operate his vehicle with care and safety he will immediately receive his license at the examination headquarters. If a passing grade is not made after the test is completed, an instruction permit card will be issued which requires the applicant to return at a later date for another examination. Examiners of the Safety Department estimate that a complete test can be given in 12 minutes.

Truck, bus, and other commercial vehicle drivers will be issued licenses divided into three classes, A, B and C, according to the type of vehicle to be operated. Passenger and school bus drivers are issued a permit bearing a special endorsement of the department.

Col. Carmichael urged that drivers seeking their licenses verse themselves in safety regulation, rules of the highway and the mechanical operations of their vehicles in preparations for the tests.

Mr. Chesney Up From Colorado Last Week

W. J. Chesney, prominent citizen of Colorado, and former sheriff of Mitchell county, was a visitor in Terry last week to look after property interests here, and visit his daughter, Mrs. Geo. D. Couchman of the Union community. He was a pleasant caller at the Herald office and offered to pay up, but we found he was over a year up in advance, and didn't get a penny of old Mitchell county money.

But we are always glad to see Mr. Chesney. He seems to always be in a fine humor, no matter how the world wags. He says that old Mitchell, along with other west Texas counties, kinder stretched the blanket this year with a bumper crop of all kinds, and that while they are not getting a big price, there is lots of money in the community.

One for Believe It Or Not Ripley

Mrs. M. C. (Mack) Chamber of the Forrester community was the first patient in the new Hospital, being admitted Saturday, Nov. 13th, and was a patient of room 13. On the same day a son was born. But it so happens the day was not Friday.

A Mexican youth with an acute case of appendicitis was the first to undergo surgery in the main operating room. The formal opening was Sunday afternoon, and the youth was operated after midnight Sunday night. His appendage had already ruptured.

O. J. Daniel and wife and daughter of Seminole, were over last Wednesday night and Thursday.

Bill Harris of Plains was among the many shoppers here Saturday.

Crowd Mills Through Hospital Sunday

Officially 841 people passed through the Treadway-Daniell Hospital Sunday afternoon, as there were that many names on the register, but unofficially many more passed through, as during rush times many people and especially children passed the registration nurse's desk without being stopped to register. People with whom we have talked estimate the crowd that passed through the hospital, ranged from 1000 to 1200.

In conversation with people approaching the entrance, some remarked that if the hospital was as pretty on the inside as outside, it was a beauty. Talking with the same parties later, they were even more carried away with a view of the interior. Many Ahs! and Ohs! were heard from the visitors, who had their first view of the institution, and such expression as "it would be a credit to a city of 10,000 or more," or "that it was a credit to the entire section," and "that the builders deserved the compliments of the entire section."

The floral display, not only from individuals, but from firms and other sanitariums, hospitals and clinics in this section, were profuse, and were so scattered through the building that a huge basket of flowers or a spray or bouquet was to be seen on every hand. Drs. Treadway & Daniell and their staff certainly cannot be but highly pleased with their opening reception. The people who called were not confined to the city by no means, but many drove in from the rural communities to pay their respects. And many made trips from long distances to see the new institution.

The following are the out of county callers handed us Monday morning, and we are sure some were overlooked: Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ivey, of Lubbock; Miss Libby Emerced and Bill Collins, of Lubbock; Dr. and Mrs. Benson, Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Mast, and Miss Kathleen Hardin, Lubbock; Geo. Dishman, Minneapolis, Minn.; Juneal Houge, Kaufman, Tex; Mrs. A. J. Liles, Vernon, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Williams, and Mr. and Mrs. D. Williams, Lubbock; Misses Julia Harmon, nurse, and Miss Winnie Temple, Lubbock; Mrs. Phelps, Alpine.

Mrs. Hopkins, Dalhart; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cochran and daughter, Martha, Abilene; Dr. and Mrs. F. B. Malone, Lubbock; Mrs. R. C. Campbell, Dallas, Mr. Earl Isbell, Albany; Mrs. Bolton, Supt. nurses, Payne-Shotwell Clinic, Littlefield; Miss Wilkins, Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Hagerman, Lubbock; Mrs. R. K. Lindsey and daughter, Miss Irene, Ropes; Dr. Miller and Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Miller of Lubbock; Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Phillips, Lubbock; Mrs. Dan Cobb, Seminole.

Intruders in Some of The Homes Recently

Always with the bunch of "workers" comes a hive of "drones" to ply their nefarious trade on the innocent. This is all to be expected when a great cotton crop and feed crop like the one we have this year is in evidence. So, you as well prepare for eventualities, and make the most of it.

We have heard several complaints of late of intruders. One lady said that a man opened her door recently as if he owned the place, but a dog she had near put him to flight. As a precautionary measure, right through the rush season, better see that all doors are locked at night.

We know that this does not square with what the old timers, and lots of the new comers are used to in less growing towns back east, but a lock was made for the purpose of preserving your property against those who reap where they do not sow.

THE G. S. I. CREW MOVED TO LUBBOCK

The crew of G. S. I. who have been here since early last summer, with both sismograph and office force, left last week to make Lubbock their headquarters for the next few months.

This crew of men endeared themselves to everyone with whom they came in contact, and was with many regrets that Brownfield parted with them.

The Rotan Advance aptly states that the constant rising price of print paper is worrying both daily and weekly newspaper folks. Just how anyone can sell their papers the size of the Advance or Herald for less than $1.50 per year and break even, is beyond us, and we have figured the cost from every angle. Not only has paper advanced, but everything the publishers, printers and others connected with a paper, has had to meet advancing rents, taxes, as well as everything we eat, wear or use. No wonder business men and bankers are so prone to put newspaper folks' credit in such as B-minus instead of A-plus. They don't show enough business ability generally speaking to lead a blind goose to water.

Our admirable contemporary the Clarendon News, tells us that the people are getting tired of liur rule, and are setting Johnny Barley Corn back a notch or two. Then he cites the vote in Tennessee recently of 105,000 drys to 38,000 wets. Being an ex-Tennessean, perhaps we understand those people better than Mr. Braswell. They have had no legal liquor for 10 these many years, except beer, and that is sold all over the state. But the sons and daughters of the old Volunteer State, except in the larger cities perhaps, don't want your Paul Jones, Four Roses and what have you. They want and will have the kind of "kawn," licker that pap drunk or none, and they don't want any of Uncle Sam's seals on it, by gosh! No, the Tennesseans were voting against the Stamp Act and not against licker. And they want it in fruit jars and crock jugs, and not pint bottles. A pint of liquor would go just about as far among a bunch of Tennesseans as a snowball would in hell.

OUR WANT ADS GET RESULTS

Editor E. I. Hill is now peeved because magazine writers give the soil conservationists credit for the dust bowl comeback instead of God. Which reminds us of the little California lad, whose teacher asked several questions about who gave them their parks, boulevards, nice federal buildings, new schools and gyms. Each time, the answer had been Roosevelt, with the response, correct. But when the question of sunshine, rain and flowers came, there was a slight hesitancy, whereupon a little son of Mr. Milktoast answered, "God gave them." He was promptly nudged in the short ribs by a freckled faced son of old Ireland, who gave the little fellow a huge stage whisper, "shut up you d---n Republican." However, Mr. Hill, we have always believed that our particular brand of religion was just about as fundamental as anyone. Yet, we can never forget that we live in a dry country out here, with less than half the rainfall of the Mississippi valley, despite the fact that there is a God in heaven. Therefore, when one of our long drouths come, especially in the dust bowl proper to the north of us, they are usually accompanied by a lot of wind, and land will blow unless hindered by scientific methods empowered in man. God created the world, and it suited Him, but He turned it over to man, who has more or less abused his trust all over creation.

Replying to our little kidding article last week, Editor Willard Bright, sometimes referred to in his home town as Bright Willard, got on a real high hoss, and stewed and stewed and stewed. He put it all in his daily which we do not get, but a friend of ours in Seagraves saved us one of his daily papers, and Willard took nearly all his reading space to lambast The Herald for daring to make any remarks about his sheet. Here's a sample of some of it:

Our Saturday's statement still stands, Andy. The biggest and best paper does not necessarily mean one that has a "perfecting" press and such. It means the publishers who make the most of their opportunities, and put out the best paper. We think Seagraves is probably the smallest town in the world to have a daily news sheet, and we are planning a number of improvements for it just as soon as the new equipment can be put into use. About this shooting the bull—Terry is pretty good at that alright, but we usually have to look at the mast head of the paper to see whether we are reading the editorial column or The Yoakum County Review. Andrew Jackson Stricklin romped on us last week and as far as we are concerned everything is fair in love, war, or "country journalism." Jack says "Some editorial writers, among them a few country weekly editors, write so as to leave the impression on their readers that the oil companies pay 42 per cent of the state taxes, which is a fact in a way. But they all fail to go on and explain that these taxes are all charged up by advancing the price of oil and gas and the people pay the taxes after all . . . It is the consumer that pays and pays." Sure, Jack, it's the consumer who pays and pays. It was the dead old consumer who paid for the price rise in newsprint. When the paper went up the ladder, Andrew Jackson S. upped the price of the Herald 50c per year to take care of it. He also figures in his taxes at the same percentage of his selling price. But Jack, old boy, if newsprint was reduced twice as much as it went up, would you voluntarily, pass the saving along to your consumers?

Willard is a young man, and have always wished to see our young friends succeed in life. Willard, especially, as he is a close neighbor, and has helped us out here on several occasions. He knows the country newspaper shop from the composing rule to the rules of journalism mightily well for his years. There is just one item we wish to notice in reply. We upped the Herald to $1.50 two years ago, Willard. There has been two jumps in the price of paper since, and another big one is due after Jan. 1, 1938. Yet we know of good papers in this section now selling their papers for 50c per year. Undoubtedly they learned a different method of figuring in the schools they attended than the one we learned on our old slat. As for the comparison of the Herald to the Yoakum County Review, that suits us fine, but we are mailing your sheet to Editor Hale of that paper, who will do you up in a paper ball.

With a newspaper and printing establishment in most every town where there is a church, the minutes of the North Fork Baptist Association were printed outside the bounds of the association, with the newspapers cooperating with each pastor and church official in their towns, it would seem that it would only be common courtesy to have the minutes printed within the association.—McLean News.

Right, Editor Landers! Move over in the Canadian Baptist Association where they have their printing done at home. The Chief has been the successful bidder in printing the Baptist minutes for several years, and the clerk has always complimented the class of work turned out, in fact, the book of minutes just completed by this office for 1937, will be entered for first prize, we are informed by the Reverend W. A. Fite, of Canadian, clerk of the association.—Miami Chief.

You editors, both being Baptists, can say most anything you wish and get by with it. Anyway, for several years we printed the Brownfield Baptist Association minutes, but we wouldn't swear they print them now, as we haven't had a chance to even bid on them since the depression started.

SOLICITORS COMPLAINING

While we believe Rotan still merits its motto of "The Friendly Town", transient solicitors, salesmen, peddlers or whatever you care to call them complain that they are not always treated as courteously as they wish to be.

When a solicitor or peddler calls at your home he expects you to answer his knock promptly. Of course if the bread is about done you may have to turn out the fire to keep from burning the biscuits while you listen patiently and courteously to his explanation of why his book "Tribal Customs of Fiji Island Aborigines," is so essential to your happiness and cultural development, and soggy biscuits are not so bad.

Or if you are just getting the baby to sleep when the salesman calls, and the wash is on the line and the sand starting to blow, dinner not started and the children coming from school, you are expected to properly enthuse over the book on "How to Spend My Idle Time."

You may have to chloroform the baby or stuff a pillow in its mouth to keep it quiet, and you can wash the clothes over later, and it won't hurt the hungry children to miss one meal—you are expected to make any sacrifice.

If he should call at meal time it is courteous to ask him to share the meal with the family, but at other times simply a cup of tea and cakes coffee and doughnuts or wine and cake will be sufficient for the average peddler, though some may expect a more elaborate repast.

If you are careful to treat him courteously you will be amply repaid by having him remember you as an "easy mark," but if you don't, he will class you with the mass of people having "common sense," and steel wire instead of twine string for backbone support.

Of course this is a social problem for each individual to work out for himself, as Emily Post is eloquently quite on the subject.—Rotan Advance.

Maybe its our imagination but it appears to us that Editor Shelton is getting just a bit "sourcastic" with the peddlers.

PRESS COMMENTS ON OUR HOSPITAL EDITION

"Our editorials are limited this week," the written-out Andy Jack Stricklin says in the Terry County Herald, after getting out 16 big pages of a hospital edition. "We have written about doctors, nurses, hospitals, surgical instruments this week until we almost see crooked." "Cuse us till next week." (We will, Andy, and that was a fine edition.)—Lubbock Avalanche.

Congratulations are in order for the Terry County Herald and its editor Jack Stricklin on the recent hospital edition. The new hospital, we learn, from the sixteen page paper, is a modern up-to-the-minute structure costing around $26,000 and is to be known as the Treadway-Daniell Hospital. It is equipped with all the latest scientific equipment for diagnosing and curing diseases. Brownfield is indeed proud of the new hospital and the doctors who made it possible for such a structure to be built in their midst.—Post Dispatch. With the opening of the Brownfield hospital last week a great boost was given the institution with a special edition issued by the Brownfield Herald. The special edition carried many pictures of the hospital and congratulatory messages from business houses of Brownfield. We don't believe Editor Jack Stricklin has any personal interest in the operation of the hospital for he is a young man not a day over 80 and going like a two-year-old physically, and mentally is just a dashing young man. This appears to be a thoroughly modern hospital and credit to Brownfield. In fact it would be a credit to better towns than Brownfield, such as Rotan, for instance.—Rotan Advance.

LOCKNEY BEACON

Terry County Herald of Brownfield issued a sixteen page special edition last week in honor of the new Treadway-Daniell Hospital to open Nov. 14. Short bibliographies of the doctors in Brownfield were given accompanied by a cut of each. The entire edition was well displayed and the merchants responded almost unanimously in congratulating the new hospital and its staff. And now as one editor to another, the Beacon extends congratulations to A. J. Stricklin and son for their splendid work!

SCARLET FEVER WARNING

AUSTIN, Tex.—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, has just issued a warning in regard to scarlet fever, as the number of cases reported in Texas are increasing rapidly.

Scarlet fever is a very contagious and serious disease. Grown people may catch scarlet fever, but children under 15 years are most likely to have it, if exposed.

If your child is going to have scarlet fever, the first signs you may notice are that he seems tired, restless and out of sorts.

these early signs are followed in a day or two by a rash. Little flat red points, close together, appear first on the neck and chest.

The doctor is required by law to report the case to the local health officer. Do your part by following carefully the quarantine instructions which the health officer will give you.

DO A NEIGHBORLY TURN

The enterprising weekly publisher, with all good intentions, visits his merchants one or more times a week in an earnest endeavor to assist his merchant neighbor in getting more business.

the merchant without price—year handed to him with a smile.

Suppose the merchants return the neighborly act just one week. Let him study the trials and handicaps of his publisher, go to the printing plant and point out how he may cooperate with him in increasing his volume of business.

If the city is besought by any calamity, the merchant loses no time in calling upon the defender of public rights, the exponent of progress, the herald of glad tidings, in soliciting his support, because the merchant knows the publisher has the medium through which any message may be spread before the eyes of the public in short order.

It is time for the merchants and publishers to get closer together and talk trade—the exchange of ideas which always develop a more neighborly spirit in any town.

Mr. Aubrey Culp, commercial department teacher in the Meadow school, was a pleasant caller at the Herald office Tuesday afternoon.

CHURCH SCHOOL OF MISSIONS

"Ye have need again that some one teach you."

What is this School of Missions? Why, it is a real school with teachers, and pupils, and books. We will have classes for everybody from tiny children on up to men and women. "Do men go? Sure, all the men—old men, young men, deacons, lawyers, doctors, business men, laborers and all the rest. Of course, all the women—young, middle-aged and old—intermediates, juniors, and all the children—will be there.

Mission study books to fit all the grades will be used. From them you will get an inspiration never to be forgotten.

This School of Missions is a church affair beginning on Monday night, December 6, and running through Friday. You cannot afford to miss it.

Ten missionaries from foreign fields will be the chief attraction. Two will come each night.

All members are urged to attend, and one and all are given a cordial invitation to come to the Baptist church.

Noisy Notes

Martha Lou was found writing a letter in a certain class the other day. The name contained the following initials "C.G." I'll let you guess the rest.

Francille was found writing a letter in Bookkeeping to the once president of a certain class. (That class still remains in school).

Emma Lou was seen addressing an envelope to Brownfield, Emma Lou you know that isn't doing the home town fair.

Loyce is always asking if her name is going to appear in this column. The best way I know for you to find out Loyce is to read this column or be a real good girl.

We wonder if the fire between Noble and Christine is going to kindle or die.

We wonder who Nella V. really went with after the ball game at Frenship Saturday nite. Was it Scott or Lee?

Mr. Culp's heart really fluttered when he saw our new teacher, Miss Bane.

Loyd was trying awfully hard to date one of our soph girls Saturday nite. Could it be Duane?

We wonder why Steve is so interested in finding out who our Senior girls letters are to. Is it because he is jealous, or just wants to know?

Wonder how many uncles and cousins Leona has at Union? It seems that in the presence of Mr. Bell she has many, but in reality she only has one uncle.

Could it have been a frame-up when Emma Lou and Nettie Mae left from the ball game Thursday nite and two young men followed?

Mr. Culp seems to be a "tattler" for our column. How does he know so much if he isn't there?

Our handsome Cline doesn't seem to notice the girls, and this 33 worries some of them.

Wonder if any of our seniors will get married before school is out? Mr. Franklin seems to think so.

This gossip column seems to make some students mad, but they will just have to be "nice little boys and girls" if they do not want their name in it.

"Be Careful," MR. AND MRS. NOSEL.

Miss Stuart, left us Friday, and a gift was given to her by the high school pupils, and all the faculty members. The present was a pair of "pinking scissors." We hope that she will enjoy her new work at San Angelo.

We welcome our new teacher, Miss Bane, heartily, and sincerely hope that she enjoys her work here. We girls know that we are going to enjoy working with her.

"The Green Light" STOP, LOOK AND LISTEN! "THE GREEN LIGHT" is burning straight ahead, pointing the way to the Meadow High School Auditorium where the Meadow Faculty are going to present their play on November 23, 1937. It will be easy to find the place, for "THE GREEN LIGHT" is the name of the play, and it will be shining a welcome for a great many people who plan on being there early so as not to miss a single moment of this absorbing mystery comedy drama, which comes so highly recommended. "THE GREEN LIGHT" on the Stage, however, will not be so cheerful, for it is a spooky affair, with many hair-raising thrills to keep you alert throughout the performance. Some people like to laugh, others like to weep, still others prefer their entertainment highly flavored with romance. But everybody likes a good mystery play, and "THE GREEN LIGHT," besides being an exceptionally novel mystery, combines all the other ingredients as well. The price of admission is only 15c and 25c. It is a warning and a challenge. A warning to be prepared for a few scares, and a challenge to try and guess the identity of the guilty party. We'll bet a plugged nickel to a worn out toothbrush that you'll never be able to guess correctly.

Football News

The Bronchos "B" team played Plains last Wednesday week. They were beaten 24 to 0. The Plains team had improved greatly from the time Meadow played them at the first of the season.

The team rested over the last week-end and will be ready to do some good playing next Friday when they play Seagraves. The game will be next to the last one for this season. We do not know how strong this group from Seagraves is, but the rate that the Bronchos have been going, it is likely this will be a good game, with a chance for either team to win by a close margin. We are expecting you to come out of this fray with the largest end of the score, Bronchos, so don't disappoint us. Plains was defeated at the beginning of the season 13 to 0 by Meadow "A" so this game Friday simply evens things for them.

Short Schedule Ends

You should see the smiles on the faces of everyone when they hear that this Friday, Nov. 20, ends this year's period of short schedule. Although this has been very beneficial to everyone; it grows very tiresome to most of the school children. This ate to bed and early rising suits very few (only the very industrious ones). Yet, we have certainly had beautiful weather during these last few weeks, and hope that it continues for a few weeks more, as not all of the crops have been gathered thoroughly yet.

Meadow Enters South Plains Basket Ball League

Both boys and girls teams of Meadow High School will participate in the newly created league beginning games the first week in December. Each school will play the other on the home court, and losses will be kept on a percentage basis. There will be a championship for both boys and girls.

Some of the schools entered are:

Ropes, Shallowater, Southland, Frenship, Cooper, Roosevelt, Idalou, Abernathy, New Deal, Wilson, and Meadow.

Basketball

With all of our players really "on," the Golden Bronchettew scored a 34 to 11 victory over a near rival, Frenship, last Friday night.

They clash with them again tonight and are expecting a harder battle, because Frenship's best player, Helen Alexander, will be there to run up the score.

The girls have played seven games so far and have won six of them. The score was as follows:

Meadow 37	Ropes 43
Meadow 33	Ropes 21
Meadow 44	Union 11
Meadow 37	Union 9
Meadow 24	Wilson 14
Meadow 29	Frenship 24
Meadow 34	Frenship 11
Meadow ??	Frenship ??

(See this game tonight and find out for yourself who will win.)

The officers of the class being: Misses Ima George Warren, Vice-presidents—Laverne Mullins, Johnnie Jenkins, Evelyn Wall and Ruth Shepherd. The class extends a welcome to all younger ladies to come. Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Hyatt's son, Del, was seriously ill last week, probably from gas poison. Seems to be alright now.

Miss Marcella Bureson spent Armistice and the week-end with home folks.

Mr. Norris Norman was at home over the week-end with his parents.

Mrs. Warren Badly Hurt in Car Wreck

Mrs. C. C. Warren of this county figured in a serious car wreck up about Lubbock, Sunday, according to friends of the family here, but details were meagre.

While Mrs. Warren was said to have been painfully hurt, especially about the head, she was not necessarily dangerously hurt. It was learned here that 27 stitches were taken in her scalp at a Lubbock hospital.

We noticed on the streets that a Mexican was preaching. This is the first time we have seen this on our streets, however, the Mexicans we believe predominated Saturday and he had quite a few for his hearers as well as a few whites.

Armistice Celebrated Here Last Thursday

Armistice was celebrated as "she used to be" here last Thursday. All the flags were out, many places closed, and a long line of parades, including many attractive floats and school children along with the Legion post, Red Cross, Boy Scouts and others. Seemed more like old times than for years. The day was ideal for the occasion, and despite the fact that everybody and their dogs are busy, a good crowd was in to see the show and celebrate.

It was press day at the Herald office, and everyone busy, and we had little time to mix and mingle with the boys, many of which we saw board trains in 1917-18 for training camps, with fear in our heart that it would be the last time we would ever meet them on earth. This was true in many instances, but many returned, and not a one of them, but are good true citizens today.

Next year, the 11th will come on Friday, and if we are here, and they are here, we hope to see more of the celebration.

Chris Quante Gets A Bear and Two Deer

Chris Quante and son, Odell, returned this week from a hunt in Arizona, bringing back a black bear and two deer, several Arizona grey squirrels, and a few California topnot uail. The Arizona squirrel and the California quail were the first we have ever seen except in pictures, and even the squirrel have a sort of topnot too, but are about the size of east Texas grey squirrel. The quail were about like the blue quail of this section, except with more topnot on the males, and much brighter colors.

The bear, which was brought down by Odell had not been weighed at the time we saw it, but it was a good sized one, and fat as a pig. They each brought down a buck apiece, which they carried in the pickup with the other game. They were joined in Arizona in the hunt by relatives who live in that state.

Weekly Cotton Grade And Staple Report

Grades of cotton to date this season for Texas continue somewhat higher than those of last season for the similar period. Smaller proportions are reported this year over last year for staple lengths 15-16 and 31-32 inch and for those 1 inch and longer. The proportion is also less this season than last for staples shorter than 7-8 inch, whereas the only staples representing larger proportions are 7-8 and 29-32 inch.

White middling and higher grades constitute 57 percent of all cotton classed so far this season against 49 percent last season. Strict low middling and lower white grades represent smaller proportion this season to date than last season; however, the proportion of all spotted grades is slightly larger this season.

Staple lengths of the crop to date this season are: shorter than 7-8 inch, 16 percent; 7-8 and 29-32 inch, 49 percent; 15-16 and 31-32 inch, 28 percent; 1 inch and longer, 7 percent.

A larger proportion of the crop is tenderable this season than that of last season, the percentages being 83 and 77, respectively.

ILLEGAL LENDING BUSINESS LEGITIMATE BUSINESS SAYS NATIVE ECONOMIST

The illegal lender—whose business is bad for everyone but himself—sometimes charges 1000 percent a year, declares William Trufant Foster, American economist and educator in the current Rotarian Magazine. He adds that as a rule, however, the loan shark charges only 120 to 200 percent.

"A girl clerk in a Minnesota railway office," the economist says, "is exposing the practices of the unlicensed lender, "in 14 months paid $125 on a $25 loan and still owed the $25. The lender received 429 percent a year. In Kentucky, until recently a haven for illegal lenders, the sworn testimony of a high-rate chain operator showed that a $25 loan repaid weekly over a period of three months cost $17.50. That is in excess of 500 per cent a year. In another case, a borrower was asked to pay $5 interest for one month's use of $10."

Charging that the illegitimate loan business hurts all legitimate business, Mr. Foster says, "All business has a stake in the problem. No concern with anything to sell can afford to ignore a force which undermines the purchasing power of its customers. Sample studies show that on illegal loans of about 125 million dollars, the loan charges amount each year to about 300 million dollars. Sizing up the licensed small loan small loan companies is easier. Annual reports to the State supervisory departments indicate that their outstanding loans are about 250 million dollars on which they gross about 80 million dollars a year. In other words, per dollar of credit, the unlicensed lenders charge roughly eight times as much as the licensed lenders.

"Merchants know families deep in debt are sick customers. Illegal loans drive families further in debt. The typical legal loan, on the other hand, is deliberately planned to extricate a family from debt. For the most part, therefore, legal lending is good business—good for business as a whole, agricultural as well as commercial.

"The legal lending business is in sharp contrast with the illegal business. Legal companies operate not in defiance of general usury laws, but in strict conformance with special statutes. Twenty-nine states have laws following the lines of the Uniform Small Loan Law; and in 25 of these the permitted rates are sufficiently high to enable small borrowers to be served within the law. In the other 23 states and the District of Columbia, legal rates are so low that a large proportion of borrowers must either cross state lines for loans or go to illegal lenders. Businessmen know that it creates illwill toward business in general to have men in any line operating in violation of fair play. And they know that if business ever needed goodwill, it needs goodwill now."

AN AARON BURR TRICK

In New York is the 71 story building of the Bank of Manhattan Company, an institution whose history goes back almost to the foundation of the government. It is recalled by a recent writer that the institution resulted from the shrewd trick of a lawyer, who was none other than the notorious Aaron Burr.

At the time the bank was projected the group behind it was "in bad" politically and hence unable to obtain a bank charter. They organized a water company instead, but in drawing the charter Burr added a clause permitting the company to engage "in other necessary business." The other business was constructed to include banking and it has been carried on ever since.

The structure of Wall Street adjoins the lot formerly occupied by Federal Hall, the first national capitol, where Washington took the oath of office as president. That tract is now the site of the sub-treasury.

If Aaron Burr and his associates could look upon the scene today they would marvel at the development which has resulted from their clever scheme for obtaining a bank charter.—The Minden (La.) Herald.

LITTLEFIELD DUCK HUNTERS DIDN'T BUY STAMPT

Reports are current to the effect that two Littlefield citizens got tangled up in the coils of the law last week in a neighboring county, and before they were through with the thing, had contributed to state and federal law to the extent of about $100 cash—in fines.

It seems that they forgot three very essential things in regard to duck hunting. They had the gun, they had the shells, and they had the yen for fresh duck, but—duck season doesn't open until the end of the month a license is required in another county, and a federal stamp must be procured from your postmaster—and they forgot to comply with any of the three.

In case you are duck hungry—well take this tip.—Littlefield County-Wide News.

J. R. Garrison was in from the Wellman section Saturday.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By Julian Capers, Jr.

AUSTIN.—Gathering momentum of public opinion in many sections of Texas may "blow the lid off" of one of the most bitterly controversial questions in Texas' history namely the land vacancy problem. The vacancy question has been a recurrent issue ever since the discovery of oil in Texas, and extension of oil production into new sections has brought it into the fore again during the past few months, notably in the Texas Gulf coast area, including Polk, Matagorda, Chambers and adjoining counties.

The controversy arises from the fact that surveys of public lands in Texas in the early days were frequently rough and inaccurate. When school lands were sold off, a buyer sometimes would pay for 160 acres, but as the result of an inaccurate survey, would fence and farm an extra 15 acres. The land had so little value that it was not worth the cost of a re-survey. But discovery of oil under much of this former public land made it very valuable for the mineral rights, and "vacancy hunters"—men who looked up the field notes in the State Land Office, and had it resurveyed to find these surplus or "vacancy" tracts, came into being. The discoverer of such a vacancy has the right under the law to file claim to the mineral rights, giving the state a part of the royalty, and retaining the major part of the mineral rights, at a nominal cost. The occupant of the land has a preferred claim to the surface rights only. But the oil or gas under the ground is where the real wealth lies.

Farmers Are Bitter

In some of the South Texas cases, the land has been farmed and occupied for 100 years by the families now occupying it. They have never known that the land they had under fence and under cultivation was not actually part of their farms. Thus, when oil is discovered, and they have an opportunity to realize substantial wealth from sale of leases or royalty, they naturally are resentful when strangers invade the community, file "vacancy" suits in the name of the state, with the attorney general representing them, and take away the mineral rights.

On the other side of the question, is the claim made in behalf of the state and its school funds, that because an error was made in the surveys years ago, there is no valid reason why the error should be perpetuated and the land, to which buyers were never entitled, should revert to those occupying it in error. The law at present provides that vacancy suits may be tried either in the county where the land is located, or in Austin, and it is claimed this works an extra hardship upon the claimants, as the attorney general usually elects to try the cases in Austin.

Legislature Acts

The special session took cognizance of the situation, when the senate adopted a resolution requesting the attorney general to try some 200 suits recently filed in Polk County in that county, rather than in Austin. In the house, Rep. George Davison, of Eastland offered a resolution commending the land commissioner and the attorney general for bringing the Polk County suits. The house defeated the resolution overwhelmingly, and Davison drew caustic criticism, because of his well known personal friendship for Land Commissioner Bill McDonald, who is a former county official from Eastland County. Typical comments on the floor during debate on Davison's resolution were:

W. E. Jones, of Jourdan: "These vacancy hunters who say they're trying to do something for the schools don't give a damn about the school children. They are just engaging in on the rottenest, most slimy, most putrid disgraces in the state."

B. E. Quinn of Beaumont: "I understand that Davison has opened a law office here in Austin. I also understand he has several relatives on the payroll of the land commissioner. He's just getting ready to represent some of the land grabbers before the land commissioner."

Coke Stevenson of Junction, former speaker, led a memorable fight against vacancy hunters in the Legislature several years ago, and several members have indicated that efforts will be made at the next regular session to enact some reforms that will restrict the activity of the vacancy hunters and better protect the rights of those who believe they have legal title to the disputed lands.

Pension Situation In Doubt

Governor Allred washed his hands of responsibility for pension cuts—if they develop—and this week was in Mexico on a hunting trip, leaving Lt. Gov. Walter Wool to act as chief executive. Wool also left the state to give Senator Ben O'Neal of Wichita Falls a chance to be governor for a day. Meanwhile, W. A. Little, acting pension director, insisted there would have to be a reduction of 5,000 in the 114,000 pension roll in December, and another 5,000 cut in January. Members of the Board of Control, which administers the pension system, however, denied this inferentially, declaring no orders had been issued for a reduction of rolls, and that there is every indication pension payments averaging $14 would continue.

Notes

Actual construction of over a million dollars worth of new buildings for the state eleemosynary institutions will be under way by early December, under contracts to be let by the board of control within 30 days. These include the new insane hospital for West Texas, at Big Spring, costing $817,000 for 7 buildings; a $10,000 storeroom at Waco State Home; chapel and vocational building at Wichita Falls hospital $95,000; ward building and laundry at Austin State School, $55,000; ward building and ice plant at Rush Hospital, $135,000. These buildings must be paid for out of the general fund, under appropriations made at the regular session; the general fund this week reach a new peak deficit of $15,747,888, figures from Treasurer Lockhart showed.

The Rest of The Record

JAMES V. ALLRED Governor of Texas

AUSTIN.—Louisiana and Texas joined hands last week to make history when the Sabine River at Pendleton, spanned by a bridge for the first time, was dedicated. For over two hundred years men have either ferried or forded the stream: Sam Houston and his soldiers, homesteaders and traders, the French explorer St. Denis and many other picturesque figures have formed the colorful procession of those who gave so interesting history to that section of Texas.

Governor Leche and other dignitaries of Louisiana participated with members of the State Highway Commission and myself in dedicating the new structure. It was not hard to visualize the ceremonies as a prelude to the steady stream of traffic which some day will travel over the magnificent steel structure down Highway 21 whose route cities and towns will attempt to popularize as the best link between Mexico City and Washington, D. C. With that traffic will continue the present-day toll of human lives and property damage unless our program of traffic safety can check the needless slaughter.

Traffic experts of the nation agree that there is no magic solution to America's Number One Problem. It is agreed—and proved in 13 states—that by militantly and intelligently carrying out the three "E's" of traffic safety—engineering, education, and enforcement—that a reduction in traffic accidents can be accomplished.

Last spring in an effort to mobilize the forces that might best put into action the safety "E" of education, I appointed the Governor's Traffic Safety Committee composed of outstanding safety laymen and officials over the state. Under the chairmanship of C. J. Rutland, this committee has carried on a splendid work despite the obvious handicap—often fatal to an educational campaign—of a lack of funds. More than 75 towns have organized local traffic safety councils that are functioning actively in their fight to lessen the toll of traffic accidents in their communities.

Under the leadership of Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Tech, and member of the state wide committee, a six weeks course was given on traffic safety to teachers attending the last summer session. A similar course was given at A. & M. College where it was pronounced a marked success. Doubtless next summer there will be many other colleges adding traffic safety to their curriculum, as will more grammar and high schools. The results of this educational work will be seen in the years to come as this school generation become drivers.

The Governor's Traffic Safety Committee recently published a traffic manual, "Creating Safer Communities," designed to aid cities and towns in their efforts to combat traffic accident. Many civic clubs and councils have requested copies which have been supplied them free. The splendid cooperation of the newspapers and radio stations have greatly aided the educational program.

The "E" of enforcement in the state program is carried out by the Public Safety Department whose highway patrol correlates its duties with local agencies charged with the enforcement of the law. This intelligent body of patrolmen has been increased by an additional force of 138 men who have just completed an intensive two months training school in preparation for their duties. With the help of the amended drivers license law passed at the regular session and this increased patrol force, the citizens of this state will be better protected than ever before in the past from the careless, dangerous driver.

The highway department has charge of the engineering phase of traffic safety and under the capable direction of its new highway engineer, Julian Montgomery, there will be no effort spared to insure safety on the highways of Texas.

In the final analysis, of course, the whole problem of traffic safety rests upon the driver. If he obeys the sane, sensible laws of the road and street, Texas will not repeat the toll of 2,000 lives sacrificed to the automobile last year.

WHY NOT READ "AND SO VICTORIA"?

"And So-Victoria" is an outstanding historical novel. It is a long book by a newcomer, Vaughan Wilkins, in the fiction field; but no reader, once he has started it, will fail to read every word.

The scene ranges over the world, England, Wales, France, Germany, and the United States, Mexico, Malta, and Egypt.

The period is the time of the Georges, before the accession of Victoria to the throne of England, a time of plots and counterplots, royal scandal and shame.

In addition to such historical personages as the traitorous Cumberland, the posturing, plotting George

IV, the tragic and doudy Queen Caroline, and the doddering William IV, Mr. Wilkins introduces lifelike characters of his own invention. There are young and idealistic Christopher; Deb, the waif who becomes a famous singer; the dependable and energetic old Lord Setoun; those forthright old ladies, the Misses Case of Caseville, Alabama; and Arabella, their minx-like great-niece.

The author touches every character and every scene with an individuality and an actuality that are unforgettable.

Suspense sustains a fast running narrative continually enlivened by changing scenes of stark horror, tenderness, rollicking humor, exciting gun-play, and dangerous adventure.

LIBRARY NOTES

As there is always a demand for Zane Grey's books, the Library has added two more to the list.

These two are "The Lost Wagon Train" and "The Last of the Plainsmen."

The story of "The Lost Wagon Train" goes back to the legendary days of the West; no law beyond the Missouri.

Stephen Latch, a young Southerner, broken in the Civil War, turns brigand and unites forces with a savage chief of the Kiowas. A great pioneer train of 160 wagons utterly disappears. With one exception, the young daughter of the train leader, every soul is wiped out. Twenty years later, Latch's Field is a prosperous growing community, but the struggle for Latch himself is just beginning. It is a tale of brigandage, love, revenge and expiation, and it moves swiftly through every page to the end.

"The Last of the Plainsmen" a good book for boys, is a thrilling story of a hunting trip Zane Grey took with the famous "Buffalo Jones." Zane Grey tells of the great man's courage and prowess. How he roped the ferocious cougar and took it, claming and spitting, back to camp. How he nearly captured White King, the glorious leader of a herd of wild mustangs. And how the whole party made camp under the Aurora Borealis and hunted Polar wolves.

A real hunting trip with many thrilling adventures.

Other Zane Grey books in the Library are: "Desert Gold," "Light of the Western Stars," "The Young Lion Hunter," "Drift Fence," "Nevada," Arizona Ames, Betty Lane, The Border Legion, Forlorn Rider, The Lone Star Ranger, The Rainbow Trail, The Shepherd of Guadalupe, Sunset Pass, Wildfire.

New Hospital Thanks Its Many Friends

We take this method of thanking the hundreds of people of this section, who showed their interest in our new hospital by coming in after-noon and passing through. To the many other hospitals, clinics, private firms and individuals who sent flowers, and especially to the nearly 1,000 people who called and inspected our new place.

Sunday, November 14th, 1937, will always be a Red Letter Day in our lives. We shall never forget the nice words you spoke, or the encouragement you gave us Sunday, as well as the expressions of encouragement and confidence you gave us in your many paid advertisements in the Hospital Edition of the Herald, of November 6th.

We hope to be able to keep your good will and confidence through the years to come.

DRS. T. L. TREADAWAY and A. H. DANIELL and STAFF.

THE METHODIST CHURCH

Brother Breedlove will preach at the Methodist Church both morning and evening. Next Sunday is conference Sunday, when more than two hundred preachers in the Northwest Texas Conference will be given appointments for the year, but due to illness in his family, the pastor will be at home. Bring your friends to both the Sunday sermon hours. There always is a warm welcome for you. The evening service is to be at seven-thirty.

LIGHTED UP

A very shocking place is Texas, considering the amount of electric power harnessed and functioning today. With about 250 electrical generating stations operated by around fifteen major companies and fifty or sixty local companies, the total investment is more than $300,000,000. Contribution of 1936 is the development of rural electrification, which is spreading through all parts of the state.

There is no reason to believe that sober-minded business men are looking to the government now for an act of omnipotence or the performance of a feat of magic. What business really needs, as it attempts to check the recession which is now in progress, is not some new kind of unexpected intervention by the government, but rather a lifting of unnecessary handicaps which government has already imposed upon it.

Some of these handicaps are to be found in regulatory measures which have overshoot the mark of protecting the public interest and become essentially punitive in character. There are to be found in the crushing weight of taxation under which business is now forced to work its way uphill.—New York Times.

NEW GALVESTON BRIDGE TO BE OPEN NEXT JUNE

HOUSTON, Nov.—Motorists visiting Galveston Island after June 1 of next year will be pleasantly surprised. They will be able to reach the island with a minimum of delay over a new $2,500,000 causeway. Bruce Boone tells of the project in an article, "Bridging Galveston Bay," in the November issue of Texas Parade.

"The construction is typical of the projects undertaken by the Texas Highway Department to serve Mr. and Mrs. Motorist and their families," says Mr. Boone. "For years, week-end vacationists, especially during the summer holidays, have dreaded the torturous drive over the old causeway. On the Fourth of July or Labor Day, the congestion that existed on the old structure constituted one of the greatest traffic menaces in Texas. Many valuable hours that vacationists hoped to spend sporting themselves in the surf and on the sands of Galveston beach were spent sitting in an automobile, waiting for a long line of traffic to crawl its way at a snaillike pace over the outmoded causeway.

"The Galveston causeway is a joint project between the Texas Highway Department and the Public Works Administration. Julian Montgomery, the state highway engineer, has had a dual connection with the project. When it was first advanced, Mr. Montgomery was the chief engineer for the Public Works Administration; it will be completed under his supervision as chief engineer for the Highway Department.

AGE IS NOT TEST ON LENGTH OF DEER ANTLERS

By MAURINE EASTUS ROE
Do deer shed their horns every year? Does each point stand for a year in the buck's life?

If you ask such question as that, you are definitely in the tender-foot class. You just haven't been initiated into that fraternity of hunters who bring back the ten and twelve-pointers—well maybe just four-pointers.

In the first place, says W. T. St. John, the game warden and a hunter of long experience, "antlers" is a much more correct word for the spread of horns the buck carries on his head during the hunting season. Then he goes on to explain that soon after the close of the season—by the way, it opens Tuesday in case some deer-slayer has forgotten the date and closes on December 31—the bucks shed their antlers.

This happens every year of the buck's life from the time he grows his first points until—well, until some hunter feels him probably.

Mean Exactly Nothing

Then that question of points—they don't mean a thing except that the buck had plenty of good grazing and was in unusually healthy condition during the period that his antlers were growing. If food was plentiful, then the deer have wide spreads, with many points; if it was a lean year, the antlers just won't look nearly so beautiful or so impressive hanging over the mantle.

But the question was not left up to just one game warden—hunters have been contacted right and left and they all agree—bucks do shed their antlers every year, and the points do not indicate the age of the animal.—Abilene Morning News.

Mrs. Dixon of Plains, was over Friday visiting her daughter, Mrs. Red Tudor.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy of Dallas came in this week and have an apartment at the Bell home. Mr. Murphy has a position with the Texas Compress and Warehouse.

STARTLING GOOD NEWS

Good news for the hundred and thirteen thousand Texas recipients of old age assistance came from the Board of Control Tuesday in the form of an announcement that assistance at the prevailing average of $14 a month will continue to be paid during November and December. Some adjustments probably will have to be made by February 1, it was intimated, but there was no statement that, even then, anyone entitled to assistance would be dropped from the rolls or have his stipend substantially reduced.

It was good news but startling, for on October 16, the governor of Texas, in a radio address broadcast throughout the state, had solemnly assured the people that unless the legislature, within eight days, should raise additional revenue, payments to the needy aged would be suspended for two or three months after November 1. "Not only that," he said, "but unless this legislature raises additional funds, even after the payments have been suspended two or three months the amount of each check will have to be cut."

Earlier, on October 6, the Board of Control, in a letter to Harry N. Graves, chairman of the House appropriations committee, made this statement: "May we call your attention to the further fact that there are outstanding warrants in the amount of $1,627,000 that must be paid between now and January 1 and when that payment is made it will wipe out the present revolving fund and take the income for at least two months which will compel the Board to discontinue old age assistance for a period of two or three months beginning November 1, 1937, and payment could not be resumed until January or February of next year."

It now develops that the outstanding warrants can be handled by paying $100,000 a month upon them; that income of the assistance fund is steadily rising and that administrative expenses can and will be cut down.

On the basis of the Board of Control's latest announcement, the additional revenue, provided in the tax bill passed by the senate at the special session, would certainly have guaranteed adequate old age assistance for a long time to come, besides taking care of the needy blind and others to be benefitted by the social security program.

The announcement knocks the props out of any argument that the free conference committee bill, which could not be considered because a majority of the House conferees refused to sign it, would have provided too meagerly for the needy aged. It will be recalled that this bill provided funds to pay off the $1,627,000 debt to banks, besides providing for additional permanent revenue for the assistance fund. The mere payment of the debt, it now seems, would have left the assistance fund in excellent condition. The Board of Control has reversed itself within less than thirty days and the governor's unqualified declarations have been proved erroneous within less than twenty days. Yet, the Board is supposed to be a non-political administrative Board; and no one has condemned more strongly than the governor the practice of playing upon the hopes and fears of the needy aged for political purposes.—Austin Times.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Lockhart of Lubbock, were here Thursday meeting their many friends.

Mrs. Money Price had as her Armistice day visitor Miss Sue Stevens, of Plains.

Mr. and Mrs. Bain Price and daughter, Virginia, of Plains, were over Saturday, shopping.

Did You Know That

Brownfield was declared the county seat of Terry County by the court of Martin county on Tuesday, July 12, 1904.

That during the third week in July, 1904, Judge Anderson of Stanton, Martin County, to which this county was attached for judicial purposes, came over and qualified the newly elected officers of Terry County. The Judge expressed great confidence in Terry county and the new county seat. He was a welcome guest among the people of Terry county, a goodly number of whom met him here. He performed his last official duties for us as members of his county and with his best wishes for our future success he returned home. The following gave bond and were sworn to perform the duties of their respective offices: County Judge, W. N. Cope-land; Clerk, W. T. Dixon; Sheriff, J. T. Bess; Treasurer, A. W. Long; Assessor, N. L. Nelson; Hide and Animal Inspector, H. B. Parker; Commissioner Precinct No. 1, W. J. Peveler; No. 2, W. H. Gist; No. 2, G. N. Groves; No. 4, J. J. Adams; Justice of the precinct No. 2 J. D. Crawford. This special election was held June 28, 1904.

That it was in December, 1905, that the Court House question was finally settled for good when the late Judge L. S. Kinder made his final decision on the law pertaining to such matters.

That the Brownfield post office was established in April, 1904, that the late J. R. Hill was the postmaster, and met the mail hacks at Gomez and brought the mail over here, the mail route missed Brownfield on the route to Meadow, but it was later brought here, though Brownfield received mail three times a week.

That in November, 1905, J. C. Green had opened up a new store in Brownfield and stated he would have a complete line of staple goods as soon as the weather opened to where he could get wagons in from Big Spring.

That back in 1904 Lence Price was a water well driller, and Elzie Groves was living in east Terry, we suppose he now lives at or near the same old home place.

Let's Talk About Clothes

Denton—No longer do salesmen croon softly, "Could I interest you in a nice pair of suede gloves?" Now it's "Would you prefer rhinestone, sequin, fur or leather trimmed gloves? Do you want morning, afternoon, dinner or evening gloves?" The age of specialization marches on!

If you're one of us poor but aspiring fashion watchers this specialization can come in handy. To an "old faithful" dress of solid color you can add bright-colored, stitched, square-fingered gloves that will make you the soul of spectator sportsdom.

After lunch, when football time draws near, trade your short gloves for some soft fuzzy angoras that are tops for tweed suits and are called everything from Tyrolean to Dalmatian. Get them in wild plaids and stripes and see how your spirits soar.

Or if you're bent on shopping instead of the ball game get out a pair of tricky gaunlets with fur trim. Subtle, exotic shades of suede that fairly glow against dark clothes will take care of your informal dinner attire.

Last and most exciting to girls at Texas State College for Women are the evening concoctions, ranging from tiny bits of net with sequin cuffs to elbow-length French suedes with that inevitable air of pride and elegance.

Gold cord is used to make some mesh affairs that fit smoothly and satisfy the current rage for gold. Intricate traceries of sequins on dark velvets form an effective evening touch that harmonizes with the lux-

FRED SNYDER SILO MAY BE GREATEST IN SOUTH PLAINS

LEVELLAND, Nov.—What is believed to be the largest trench silo on the South Plains has been filled with grain sorghums in connection with the Fred Snyder feeding operations here.

There are 1,624 tons of ensilage in the trench. It formerly was a pit used to supply caliche for road work here. It is located south of town.

The trench is between 600 and 700 feet long.

Miss Kathleen Hardin was down over the week end visiting home folks. She is training for a nurse in the Lubbock Sanitarium.

Mrs. J. L. Randal sent us part of her peach crop. Must say her peaches were quite larger than our first crop.

The Board of Control at Austin has called for bids Dec. 7th, for the first unit of seven buildings for the new insane hospital to cost $718,000.

Mrs. Ulyess Sawyer and daughter, Miss Fern, of Cross Roads, N. M., were over the week-end visiting relatives.

Mrs. Gaster Spencer and daughter, Carolyn, left Saturday for Austin to make their home.

Common Colds

The term "common cold" is the most paradoxical and misleading applied to any ailment from which we can suffer. It isn't "common" and it isn't "cold." It is instead characterized by fever, occurs in rundown and clogged-up bodies, and leads to grave disorders.

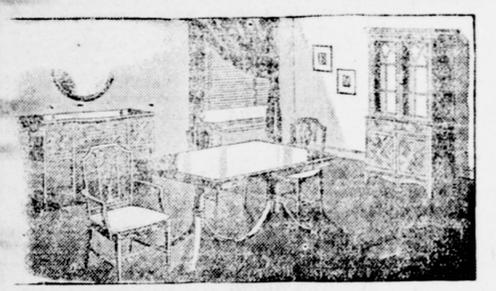

To dispose of a cold, get rid of the condition which occasions it. Restore normal elimination by removing the irritation of the nerves serving the eliminative organs. Chiropractic spinal adjustments remove the cause.

By My Chiropractic health method I correct diseases of the eyes, ears, throat, lungs, heart, stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and lower organs.
