Houseguests in the W. A. Johnson home over the weekend were Misses Betty and Mynette Smith, of Amarillo, nieces of Mrs. Johnson, Mesdames R. W. Rutherford and Douglas Howell, of Littlefield and Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Ramby and daughter, Barbara, of Morton.

Sgt. James Mullins Manages Hotel In Germany

In a recent letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Moon Mullins, Sgt. James Mullins, who is with the 70th Tank Battalion in Germany, states that he and another boy were given permission to manage a hotel while waiting to come home. He doesn't say what town it was in, but mentions that the building was badly damaged by bombs but is being repaired and will soon be among the best available. Mickey Rooney and the USO troupes are among the guests registered there.

The two boys have twelve Germans working for them and they really put out the work. Sgt. James has a private room with chambermaid to clean it up every morning. He writes, "In other words I have a position and not a job and this surely isn't the army."

In his letter written on a German typewriter, which is quite different from ours, he adds a touch of humor in closing his letter and states, "I am in my private office now and if you want to see me, see my secretary, and he will fix you up. If he can't, then maybe I can find time to see you."

Mont Ham, of Wellman, who was in the same company with him, left for home the day the letter was written. He mentions too that they were organizing a football team the following week.

T-5 Cpl. Carl Mullins wrote Sept. 20th from Toykio and described interesting facts of the city and country. He is quartered in the Ministry of Finance which he says is quite comfortable and it is as modern as any of our buildings.

In sightseeing around Tokyo he noted that parts of the city is so modern that it greatly resembled the American cities, that is before the bombs ruined it. Russian girls were their guides on a sightseeing tour.

RABIES MORE PREVALENT IN WINTER MONTHS
Contrary to popular belief, rabies is more prevalent in winter than in the so-called "dog-days" of summer.

In a statement released this week by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, it was disclosed that in the mid-winter month of February last year the State Laboratory examined 312 animal brains for the presence of rabies, over thirty-seven per cent of which tested positive, whereas in August only 155 brains were examined, thirty per cent of which were positive.

"If all stray dogs were destroyed, and all pets vaccinated for rabies, it would go far toward stamping out this justly feared fatal disease," Dr. Cox said.

The doctor stressed that dogs suspected of having rabies should not be killed immediately, but should instead be confined ten days for observation to see if the disease develops. If a dog sickens and dies during the observation period, the head should be packed in ice and sent to the State Health Department for examination. Freezing the brain, or killing prematurely, or in such a manner as to injure the brain may make correct laboratory findings uncertain, if not impossible.

Dr. Cox declared that after a

Taxation Dominates Our Future

The prosperity of the United States and its future as a free nation are inseparable from taxation. Business knows this and individuals are slowly becoming aware of it.

In a recent statement, John G. Byler, Treasurer, W. T. Grant Company, and Chairman Committee on Taxation, American Retail Federation said: "We as retailers fight for tax laws which encourage production and the largest possible national income." He pointed out that retailers should work for five general taxation principles:

1. The Federal budget should be in balance and there should be a gradual reduction in Federal debt;
2. Income taxes should be the primary source of revenue and there should be no general Federal sales tax at any level;
3. The bulk of income taxes should be secured direct from individuals rather than through a relatively high tax on corporation income;
4. Present excise taxes should be repealed, with possible traditional exceptions;
5. Social security taxes should be kept apart from the general tax structure and the rates of these taxes so fixed that the receipts will be kept in balance with expenditures under the social security program.

"The transition period now beginning," Mr. Byler concluded, "is a dangerous one from the tax angle. What we must fear is a reduction in wartime rates leaving the existing hodge-podge of tax laws with false doctrines which handicap the operation of a free enterprise system." And that is good, sound reasoning.

Also A Medal For The Boss

We have given medals and ribbons to men in our armed forces and have presented buttons to workers in war plants and flags of merit to great industrial institutions for outstanding performance. The Nation proudly honors all those who have done their part in war. But there has been too little said or done about the average small-town business man—the unsung hero, the anonymous patriot who never gets his picture in the newspaper and has never received an award from the Government or the chamber of commerce.

We salute the small business in the little town who has stayed awake nights worrying about getting enough material to keep his employes at work, about keeping enough help to stay open, about making the payroll, about filling out endless Government questionnaires, many of them written by theorists who never ran a business, wrestling with rules of rationing points, tokens, and coupons, and trying to do right by OPA, the WPB, the ODT, the WMC, the AAA, the FEPC, and the Internal Revenue Department.

He has coddled and begged employes to stay on the job; he has praised and cajoled lazy, impudent, inefficient clerks when he wanted to fire them; he has been loyal to his Government that has made it almost impossible to stay in business; he has worked twice as many hours per week as any of his employes; he has tried to obey rules that were changed overnight because some bureaucrat had a brainstorm about something that happened in Sioux Falls or Oshkosh; he has continued to pay his taxes including Federal, State, county, city, school district, occupation, license, income, excise and special; he has done his part in local community activities, served on committees, contributed to the church, the Red Cross, the USO, the Com-

JUDGE WONDERS IF HE HAS A BENCH OR NOT

Houston, Texas, Oct. 11.—Judge Langston King wondered today if the thing he has been sitting on since 1927 is a bench.

It seems that Attorney W. W. Holland charged that the judge's court doesn't exist because "the legislature that created it failed to take an oath promising to support the constitution of the United States, thus invalidating the legislature's action."

Said the Judge: "I hope they don't make me er repay my salary for this seat I occupied for 20 years on a bench that wasn't there."

THANKS

I wish to thank my old friends and neighbors for the many nice cards and flowers sent me while I was in the Treadaway-Daniell hospital.

Tells Of Last Days—

cerned, but it was a welcome sight to see the giant silvery winged B-29's winging their way over us on their way over the Japanese cities. I will never forget the last day of the war. It seemed more like a night mare than anything else. Events of the past few days and the peace or surrender negotiations had been going on and finally word had been passed that the Japs had accepted but it would not be official until the Emperor spoke to the people at noon that day. When the Japanese Emperor did speak to his humble subjects and proclaimed the war over our planes were then over Tokyo on a mission that could not exactly be termed one of mercy. As our planes came back they had quite a few Jap planes to contend with and it seemed that there were quit a few of the Jap suicide boys up that day. Admiral Halsey announced to our pilots to be on the look-out for any snoopers during the afternoon even tho peace had been proclaimed and that if any were sighted that they were to shoot them down not in a vindictive spirit but more less in a friendly way but be damned sure they did a good job of it. The British boys were pretty good that day. I can say this for the British pilots operating with the Third Fleet, and that is that they were good combat pilots as far as results went and they were hot for battle.

When the war was over the fleet steamed around waiting and patrol duty just outside of Tokyo Bay and to the south while the Aerial invasion was taking place and there were a lot of American planes going back and forth between Japan and Okinawa. When things were in readiness we steamed into Tokyo Bay and dropped our hook and have been taking it easy. Our Marine detachment took part in the original landings. I have been over to the Naval Base of Yokosuka and have also been over to the city and naval base at Yokohama. The city of Yokohama is in almost complete ruins. Walking about you can see nothing but burned wreckage and ashes for blocks and blocks. There were several buildings in the city proper left standing and one or two of these were not damaged by fire because of being far enough away from other structures. The huge industrial section of Kokohama is in complete ruins and about all there is left is the huge smoke stacks of the industries. In the harbor you can see the remains of sunken ships and some of the ships are still afloat but burned to a crisp. A lot of the people have returned to the city but I can't figure out where they all stay or live. Another thing I can't figure out is how they manage to exist as I did not see any food and they were begging for candy and gum which the American men had in small quantities. Before going on liberty we were issued Japanese currency in the ratio of 15 yen for $1, but you could not do much with the money as the Japanese people seem to have a surplus of this and they would say that they did not want money. Cigarette or tobacco of any type go at a high premium. I took over some gum and cigarettes and managed to get a few odds and ends from the vendors on the streets. A package of cigarette will bring around thirty yen in money and much more in merchandise.

The people do not have any clothes to amount to anything. Most all the men and all the children wear some kind of military uniforms while a lot of the older men wear rags and even pajamas. The women wear slacks mostly. The Japanese people bend over with courtesy and bow and smile when approached for conversation, but when you can see them when they are not being noticed they have that glare of resentment in their eyes. One impression that one gets from them is that they are rather simple minded and I suppose this is true with a lot of them. When they are standing around or sitting they appear to be listless and lazy but once they start walking or acting they seem very alert and energetic. I was able to talk to some of the ex-business men and former industrialist who could talk English. Most of these had attended American Universities. They all said that the Japanese people were hungry and need of food and clothing, and I could readily see this. I tried to stay away from the subject of the war or who was wrong, etc., and talk about conditions and prospects of the future for the Japanese. I suppose the one man I talked to summed up the situation quite well. I asked him something about the present condition of the Japanese people and he said, "Here I am in old clothes that will soon be rags and I have no immediate prospects of getting more. I have no food at home. There you stand with comfortable clothes. You have plenty to eat and nothing to worry about as far as comforts of living are concerned." Then he added, "I would like to be in your shoes." One of the Japs I was talking to told me about the B-29 raid that leveled their city. He said that everything was in good shape until that day in the late part of some P-51's came over and stayed for about two hours, and then he pointed and said, "You see the rest."

The city of Yokohama was one of the most modern and beautiful of Japan before its destruction and now can readily see that the Jap leader was right when he told the people of Japan that some of their large cities would have to be rebuilt, because that is literally the truth. I think that our destruction was much heavier than we had thought. The Japanese that are working under the American occupation forces are forced labor are the most fortunate as they will be able to have food enough to subsist on. I don't know just how the other people will manage but I suppose they will be able to get along some way. In a way it is hard to keep from feeling sorry for the women and children even tho one realizes that just a month ago these same people would have done anything to kill you. I went over with some K-rations which we took for our lunch but did not eat much of this because of the women with little tots strapped on their shoulders begging for the food. In another way it made me thankful that my child or wife were not in such plight. Every time I pulled out a stick of gum to give a kid I was absolutely mobbed by dozens of others begging for some and would have to drag and pull away. I don't know, but probably one of our greatest weaknesses in the occupation will be in having a little too sympathetic attitude because of the women and children around. I hope that whatever happens that the Japanese nation will grow to be one that is peaceful, because they are a tough race to fight.

We are due to leave for the states soon and I am waiting to hear that band at Pearl Harbor play, "Frisco, here we come." Like all other fellows I am anxious to get back home and take up where I left off. I have enjoyed having the Herald which the wife has been sending me out here. Hope that Jack Jr. and I can get enough of these points to get out soon. Well, hold things down for a while and we will get back and relieve you old roosters.

Very Truly

GOOD? IT OUGHT TO BE GOOD!

Sure, the New Phillips 66 is a swell gasoline

Why Not?

We'd be ashamed of ourselves if it wasn't! Since Pearl Harbor we've put every ounce of sweat and energy we possessed into perfecting the finest combat fuels the world has ever seen.

Millions of dollars worth of new equipment

...hundreds of thousands of man-hours and brain-hours... weren't spent in vain!

Good gasoline? Man, it ought to be good!

And if you're one of those who aren't surprised that Phillips research and Phillips know-how have produced a world-beater of a gasoline, here's a little thought you can tuck in your hatband:

The most important thing about a Phillips 66 Service Station is still the man who runs it. Yes, he can give you fine gasoline. But he'll also give the consistently high standard of thoughtful, courteous service that has always characterized the sign of 66.

We didn't forget how to deliver that during the war, either!
