The district attorney for the newly created 31th Judicial District, of which Parmer County is a part, is a familiar figure to 8,973 residents. He is Bill Sheehan of Friona, who has been serving as Parmer County attorney. Sheehan has announced that he will resign the local post when his appointment to the new one-year effort.

Sheehan Named District Attorney

Bill Sheehan, several years late of Friona, has been sworn in as the new district attorney for Parmer County. The position, which is a paid one, was created by the Legislature this session.

Sheehan was appointed to the position through an application by district judge William H. Mitchell, who had been a district attorney for Parmer County, late of Weatherford, last February. The latter was named by the Legislature to fill the unexpired term of Sheehan, who had been named by Governor Price Daniel.

A part of the county was divided into two districts, and Sheehan was named to one of them. He was appointed to serve the eastern part of the county.

Sheehan was appointed to the position after the Legislature had passed an act creating the new district attorney post. The act was signed by Governor Daniel.

The new district attorney will serve the eastern part of the county, which includes the following cities: Amarillo, Plainview, Lubbock, and Willard.

A former district attorney for the county, who served for a period of time, was J. C. Brooks, who had been appointed by Governor Carruth.

THE STAR'S EDITORIAL COMMENT

A Better Man Would Be Hard To Find

We would like to call attention to the fine attitude being shown by Friona's new police chief, Ron Hogg. Apparently a man dedicated to his job and willing to work hard to carry out his duties, he has started the practice of being on duty at school events to minimize the danger to the children who must cross the street.

We understand that this is the first time this practice has been done in Friona in many years, and it is a fine gesture for Hogg to take the initiative to include this in his duties.

If you tell him this is creditable, he replies that it is his desire to do all he can to make the crossing, and other places, too, as safe as possible.

We are cognizant, too, of cooperation which Hogg says he is receiving. This is creditable to the community, and we hope this spirit of cooperation can be maintained.

The next most concentrated area of fire from the XIT ranch was next to the road between Friona and Lamesa. From there it spread rapidly across the range toward the southwest. This burned a large area of pasture and killed many of the cattle that were grazing there. It also destroyed several farm buildings and a well. The fire was finally stopped by the efforts of the fire department at Friona and the cooperation of the neighbors. The damage was estimated to be about $5000.

Visits to Friends

A colorful celebrity of the Friona area was in the city last week to visit friends and relatives. He is Grover Callaway of Middlebury, Ind., who was accompanied here by his wife, Mary, and their two daughters, Carol and Jean. They have been here since the first of the month. They were met at the train by Mrs. Callaway's sister, Mrs. F. W. Barnett, and Mrs. A. J. Barnett, who is their hostess.

Plan A Team To Police School Crossings

A plan that would involve the use of older boys to protect the safety of school children at school crossings was suggested by Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Maida, who are the parents of a group of seven boys who live in the Friona area. They have been thinking about the problem for some time and believe that it would be a good idea to organize a patrol crew of older boys to be stationed at school crossings. The boys would be selected from the older members of the group and trained in the proper way to handle the situation. The program would be supervised by the school authorities and would be financed by the school district.

Prospects Continue But Farmers Eyeing Weather

Weather Damage Severe in South-Central Section

The intensive storms which crossed the Panhandle and West Texas country over the past week appear to have dealt a heavy blow to the crops. The storms produced tremendous damage in the Texas Panhandle, causing losses in the millions of dollars.

As the flood from hundreds of thousands of barrels of water piled into the area last week, the crops suffered severe damage. The storms were characterized by heavy rain, high winds, and flooding.

The crops that suffered the most were those that were still growing. The heavy rain and flooding caused extensive damage, particularly to the cotton crop. The storms also caused damage to the corn, sorghum, and soybean crops.

The farmers are now surveying the damage and determining the extent of the losses. They are also assessing the potential for future losses and making plans for recovery.

The weather continues to be unstable, with more storms expected in the near future. The farmers are urging caution and advising that they continue to monitor the weather closely.

If you would like to help, please contact your local agricultural extension office for more information on how you can assist.

The High Plains Underground Water Conservation District filed a suit recently against the State Soil Conservation Board, seeking an injunction to stop the draining of millions of gallons of water from the High Plains Aquifer.

The suit was filed in the 26th District Court in Lubbock. The suit claims that the state's policies and practices have resulted in the depletion of the aquifer, which is the primary water source for the High Plains region.

The farmers are demanding that the state take action to protect the aquifer and prevent further depletion.

The state has not yet responded to the lawsuit, and the case is pending in court.

The suit is part of a larger effort by farmers and agricultural officials to protect the aquifer and ensure its future sustainability.

The state has been criticized for its policies and practices, which have resulted in the depletion of the aquifer and the loss of water for agriculture and other uses.

The farmers are calling on the state to take action to protect the aquifer and ensure its future sustainability.

If you would like to learn more, please contact your local agricultural extension office or visit the website of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District.

Need For Dam

Lions International for Parmer County conservation advertised a meeting to discuss the need for a Canadian River Dam.

Anthony told Parmer Countians for the Canadian River Dam Authority, told Parmer Countians for a Canadian River Dam.

There is a need for more water and more storage for the Canadian River. The project has been in the planning stage for several years, and the problem is one of water availability. If certain plans are not made, there may not be enough water for the future.

The project would provide more water for irrigation, stock ponds, and other uses. The dam would be constructed in the Canadian River. It would be a major project and would require significant financial resources.

11 To Attend Bureau Meeting

Former County Farm Bureau President of the county farm bureau, told the annual meeting that a Canadian River Dam would be constructed that would further serve the county. The project has been in the planning stage for several years, and the cities depend upon the underground supply. The project has been attested by the U. S. government.

The speaker told the annual meeting that the need for a Canadian River Dam is apparent. The project would provide more water for irrigation, stock ponds, and other uses. The dam would be constructed in the Canadian River. It would be a major project and would require significant financial resources.

Sudan Crop Good

But Outlook Sad

Farmers without storage will have to sell their Sudan seed soon or risk a poor corn year. The crop was estimated at 7 million bushels but many farmers had to sell theirs to make room for corn. Sudan is a minor cash crop, although it is generally believed that fewer acres are in Sudan this year than there were last year.

There is no information on Sudan seed production but it is generally believed that Sudan production is down.

Worry for Farmers

At least one worry—the worry farmers will not be allowed as obtained individually to order late for the expense of "underplanting"—has been removed for farmers. The result of this new regulatory management, like truck or farm transportation, will be that farmers will be allowed to order late. The result of this new requirement will be that farmers will be allowed to order late. This will be due to the fact that the old method of ordering will be replaced by a new one that allows for more flexibility in ordering late. The new system will be more efficient and will result in less waste of resources.
