BROWNFIELD, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JUNE 29, 1951

NUMBER 49

Pioneer Citizen Dies Suddenly

Homer R. Winston, 56, well-known Terry county judge and longtime resident of Brownfield, died at 12:15 a. m. Monday of a heart attack in his home at 307 W. Broadway.

HOMER R. WINSTON

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. in the Crescent Hill Church of Christ, with the pastor, Jimmy Wood, officiating. Burial was in Terry county Memorial cemetery, under the direction of Brownfield Funeral Home.

A native Texan, Winston was born March 14, 1895, at Rosenberg in Fort Bend county. He came to Terry county in 1909 with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Winston. He was married to Mahota J. Whiserfant in 1921.

Winston was elected Terry county clerk in 1920 and served in that capacity for six years. He was elected county judge and school superintendent in 1926. Following that term, the position of district clerk was created, and Winston held that office for about a year.

He left politics around 1934 and operated a service station for several years. Upon the resignation of County Judge C. L. Lincoln, to accept the office of county service officer in 1945, Winston was appointed county judge. He was elected to that office in 1946 and was county judge at the time of his death.

An active and prominent citizen, Winston was a Mason, and a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge, the Church of Christ, Rotary Club, American Legion, Chamber of Commerce, and was president of the Terry County Farm Bureau. He was a veteran of World War I, with overseas service. Last year, he was this county's delegate to the state Democratic convention.

Winston was well and favorably known to residents of the South Plains and West Texas. He was instrumental in procuring legislation favorable to farmers, as well as procuring the designation and state aid for farm-to-market roads.

Mrs. Lockhart Here A Half Century

Had a letter this week from Mrs. G. E. Lockhart, of Lubbock, enclosing $3 for the Herald. Stated she was a bit late on sending her renewal. In the letter she stated that it had been 50 years since she landed in old Gomez. She was the widow of Jesse Key when we knew her 40 odd years ago.

We remember going over there with a young fellow, who was to call on the widow Key. The year before, the Gomez Commercial Club (no Chamber of Commerce in those days) had persuaded a young fellow by the name of Richardson and wife to come out from Dallas and put in a paper. He remained long enough in 1910 to get the political announcements. Anyway, before that night Mrs. R. and children had left for Dallas.

Of course we called on the departing newspaperman while our companion courted Mrs. Key. Richardson was in his room in the old Glover Hotel, and his machinery, type, etc., was packed on freight wagons, ready to travel next day to Big Spring.

We suggested that we get out and knock around the burg a bit. "No, sir," he stated, "I have been threatened, by so and so," mentioning some names of young men, some married, who were considered pretty tough. Really it is now as well as then, our personal opinion, that the men he mentioned, had no idea of whipping the editor—just scare him—and they did just that.

We might add here however, that both Richardson and wife being raised in Dallas, then considered a large city, about 45,000, they just did not fit in with the pioneers that settled Terry county. And a county of 1400 would not support two papers.

The four, who are members of Brownfield Country Club, participated in the Hobbs Invitational golf tournament last weekend. Kirschner was winner of the 7th flight in the tourney, and the other three were nudged out in quarter- and semi-finals. (Photo courtesy of Lubbock Avalanche-Journal).

MANY CALLED TO SEE THE SERVEL DISPLAY

Large numbers of people, ladies in particular, called at the J. B. Knight Hardware to see the Servel Exhibition recently. Personnel were on hand that understood this freezer and all its working parts, and could explain each and every phase to those interested.

The Servel is fast taking a leading place in that particular kind of freezer, and the sales have jumped fast in the past few years.

Tankersley Rites Held Sunday

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 5 p. m. for Sam W. Tankersley, 57, who died in Treadaway-Daniell Hospital at 8:40 a. m. Saturday.

Rev. E. L. Cave officiated at the services in the off-site Baptist Church, assisted by Rev. John Ferguson. Burial was in Terry County memorial cemetery, under the direction of Brownfield Funeral Home.

Tankersley was born in Decatur April 16, 1894, and came to Terry county in 1924. After coming here he operated a truck line between Lubbock and Brownfield and had only recently sold the line. He was a veteran of World War I with overseas duty. He had been in ill health for several months.

Survivors include his wife and one daughter, Mrs. George Chisholm, both of Brownfield; one son, Cpl. Doug Tankersley of Sheppard Field; four brothers, E. S. (Red) of Brownfield, L. E. and Syl of Roswell, N. M., and Cye of Lubbock; three sisters, Mrs. Oscar Sawyer of Lubbock, Mrs. Morgan Mayes of Roscoe, and Mrs. J. C. Hunter of Ruidoso, N. M.; and one granddaughter, Mikee Susan Chisholm.

RAYMOND SPEEGLE VISITS SISTER HERE

Had another surprise caller last week from another old timer, Raymond Speegle, of Dallas, who with his wife, are guests of his sister, Mrs. Arthur Sawyer and Mr. Sawyer. As a small lad Raymond came here, and for several years made his home with his uncle, the late W. G. Hardin and family.

He left here and the first we heard of him again, was that he had a fine position with a rock-board plant at Hamlin, Texas. Again he returned to the old home town, Denison, and got a job with Kraft Cheese plant, and worked himself to foreman of his department.

Two years ago, the plant was moved to Grand Prairie, and Raymond is still with them, and making a fast climb in the personnel of this great corporation. We are glad that Raymond called in just for a few minutes.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lyons visited her sister, Mrs. C. E. Motley, and her mother, Peggy Dale Hutchins, in Monahan, Sunday.

Col. Wilson W. Banks Visits Old Home Town

COL. WILSON W. BANKS

The people of Brownfield and area were glad to see Col. Wilson W. Banks among us last week. He paid a short call at the Herald office to see if we were still here. Wilson is looking great. He and wife have been visiting his parents at Lubbock.

Col. Banks was reared on a farm about a mile this side of the Gomez school and attended school at Gomez as a small lad and high school at Brownfield. Near the outbreak of War II, after attending college, he entered an officers' training camp. He went up from "shaveltail" to his present rank, during and after the war.

He has for some time been located in the Middle West, but is transferring to Montgomery, Ala. The picture we are showing of Wilson was taken back during the war, when he was in a lower rank than presently.

But with the exception of some weight gained, it looks very much like the Col. Banks of today.

RESULTS OF THE CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S CLINIC HELD IN BROWNFIELD JUNE 20

Fifty-nine crippled children were examined in the Clinic of the South Plains Health Unit, Brownfield, June 20: Terry county 12, Gaines 5, Yoakum 3, Dawson 12, Hockley 14, Cochran 5, Lynn 1, Lamb 1, and Ward county 1. Several of these children were new cases who applied for treatment through the Crippled Children's Division of the State Health Department at Austin.

The orthopedic surgeons present for examination were: Frank C. Hodges, Abilene; W. Comper Basom, El Paso; and Edward T. Driscoll, Midland. Also present was Mr. J. B. Stricklin, counselor of the vocational rehabilitation program, Lubbock. Mr. Stricklin interviewed children who had physical handicaps, but who had reached the age to enter into a trade.

Miss Ella Patton, nurse supervisor for the State Health Department assisted the nurses of the five counties in planning the COMMISSIONERS TO APPOINT JUDGE MON.

The Commissioners' Court of Terry county, will meet in called session Monday, at which time they will appoint a County Judge to serve out the term of Judge Homer R. Winston, who died Sunday night.

So far as we know, there are no candidates for the appointment. Next year, a man will be elected to fill his place.

Mrs. G. W. Luker Buried Monday

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. at the First Methodist Church for Mrs. G. W. Luker, 73. Mrs. Luker died Saturday at her home at 4:30 p. m. She had been an invalid for many years. Rev. L. Harrison officiated at the services assisted by Rev. D. D. Denison, pastor of the church.

Mrs. Luker, a longtime resident of Brownfield, came here with her husband in 1921 from Comanche. She is survived by her husband; four sons, Robert and Rawleigh of Brownfield, Walter of Doran, N. M., and Dean of Oxford, Calif.; three daughters, Mrs. Gay Price, Mrs. Alvie Allen and Mrs. Earl T. Jones, all of Brownfield.

HAHN BUYS SOFT WATER SERVICE

Lloyd Hahn has announced that he has purchased the Culligan Soft Water service at Brownfield and Tahoka from E. L. Jeter of Tahoka. Jeter purchased the Brownfield service several months ago from R. B. (Sonny) Walls. Hahn recently moved to Brownfield from Meadow, where he was co-owner of an implement business. He is married and has two children, and is a veteran of World War II.

Only 2 More Days 4th Annual Jaycee

A record in attendance and entertainment is the prediction of the Brownfield Junior Chamber of Commerce concerning their fourth annual rodeo this weekend, according to information received from Clyde Truly, general chairman.

Hundreds of onlookers jammed the streets of Brownfield Thursday afternoon to view the annual parade which officially opened the three-day affair. Money Price, captain of the Terry County Sheriff's Posse was in charge of the mounted entries of the parade, and George Wade was float chairman.

Stock for the rodeo is being furnished by Steiner and Elliott and the stock includes some of the "buckingest" horses in the entire southwest. Several specialty acts will be presented, such as the famous Buschboms and their celebrated Palomino Liberty horse act. Tom Hadley, rodeo's goodwill ambassador, is the announcer for the performances.

Rodeo events include calf roping, bull-dogging, wild bull riding, girls barrel race, bareback bronc riding, and a cutting horse contest. Phil Williams rides his famous cutting horse "Skeeter" in the cutting horse contest.

The beard growing contest winners will be announced immediately following the grand entry at the Saturday night performance. The beards will be judged in three classes: full beard, trimmed beard, and most unique beard, with cash prizes to the winners.

A dance will be held following performances tonight and Saturday night at Veterans Hall, with Jake Miller and his Mustangs of Lubbock furnishing the music.

Rodeo headquarters are at the Brownfield Hotel. Performances begin at 8 p. m. nightly. Admission is $1.50 for adults and 50c for children under 12 years of age.

TERRY COUNTY SHERIFF'S POSSE PLAYS BIG PART IN RODEO HERE

Much of the credit for pre-rodeo arrangements for the 4th annual Junior Chamber of Commerce rodeo here, as well as the addition of spirit and color, is due to members of the Terry County Sheriff's Posse. These members comprise a non-political organization, own their own horses, and keep up their own equipment.

The purpose of this, and other posses is to foster interest among the members of keeping alive the true traditions of the Old West—a sacred heritage of all Texans. Also, they promote good fellowship, good sportsmanship and greater interest socially and civically in any community. They assist the High Sheriff at his request to quell a riot, disturbance or an emergency of any kind in the protection of his jurisdiction.

The Terry County Sheriff's Posse, organized in 1948 with only a few members, now has almost 50 men in its ranks. They include: Money Price, C. R. Lackey, Clyde Truly, George Wade, Glendale Simmons, Lee Holden, Charlie Snider, W. A. Roberson, Charlie Price, Tess Fuller, Bill Williams, Luther Jones, Max Entekin, Ray Christopher, Roy Wicker, J. V. Boen, Hugh Holmes, Roy Fleming, D. S. Neal, Foster Winn and Noah Lemley.

Alfred Gore, Crede Gore, Harvey Dew, Dewey Murphy, Jr., Clyde Wilson, Frankie Szyloski, DeWitt Stafford, Bill Anderson, Ed Hadden, Val Garner, Morris Russell, Ray Bailey, Jack Thomas, Guffey Stinnett, Dick Pemberton, Buzz Mason, Johnny Portwood, R. J. Purcell, Cliff Jones, Ocie Murry, H. B. Parks, Bual Powell, Hub King, L. B. Forbes, Gene Guinn and Don Ballew.

MAN FINED HERE AFTER SHOOTING

A Mexican man paid an aggravated assault fine here Monday after an argument with another Mexican man in Meadow Sunday night ended with gunfire.

Jesse Cantu was charged with shooting Paul Martinez in the head during the argument. Martinez was brought to the local hospital by a Brownfield Funeral Home ambulance and was treated and released. Cantu paid a fine after pleading guilty to the charge.

TWO ARE CHARGED IN THEFTS HERE

Two local youths were charged here Tuesday for the theft of wheel and tire from W. A. Bynum.

The two, Everett Thomas, 18, and Kenneth Eugene Flowers, 17, were arrested by city police Monday night on a traffic violation. Upon appearing in court Tuesday morning the two said that they had found the tire and wheel, but further questioning revealed that they had stolen the articles from Bynum's farm Saturday night.

Charges were filed by County Attorney Vernon Townes Tuesday.

ELEMENTARY TEACHERS ARE STILL SCARCE

Elementary school teachers continue to be the scarcest commodity on the education labor market, it was reported by Dr. Hob Gray, teacher replacement director at the University of Texas.

Second greatest demand is for librarians.

Boy, Are They Buying New Cars

"Oh Hoibert" Chessir, Tax Assessor-Collector, and his hands had a great time last week registering the new cars here in old Terry. We'll bet a lot of the guys turned in a better job than we have. Why didn't some of our so-called friends present us their old model and make everyone happy? But here's the list—all 32 of them: Wallace C. Bartlett, Mercury; B. L. Baze, Dodge PU; M. Lefkowitz, Dodge; C. D. Gore, Chevrolet; Martin Motor Co., Ford; McPhaul Motor Co., Ford; Johnny Sparks, Oldsmobile; City Rent-a-Car, Inc., Ford; Wayne McLaughlin, Chevrolet; W. W. Wilson, Ford; Plains Ice Cream Co., Ford PU; J. C. Kemmel, Pontiac; J. V. Roberts, Plymouth; Mrs. Doris O. Cass, Jr., Ford; Wilson W. Banks, Mercury; Doyle D. Howell, Pontiac.

Dr. E. O. Nelson, Packard; E. S. Walden, Dodge; C. P. Cunningham, Pontiac; Jack Bailey, Chevrolet; E. L. Winkles, GMC Truck; B. O. Gillispay, Ford; Reed Roller Bit Co., Chevrolet; J. E. Armstrong, Buick; Phil Gause, Ford; Eugene Woodard, GMC Truck; Roy Weaver, Studebaker; Brown & Deag Nash; Ira E. Seaton, Chevrolet; J. E. Roberts, Ford; R. E. Thompson, Ford, and Portwood Motor Co., Ford. That's all.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. (Pat) Patterson of Evanston, Ill., spent Tuesday night with Mr. and Mrs. Prentice Walker and visited Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. McClain, and Mrs. and Mrs. Harold Crites.

If it were not so ridiculous, we'd sometimes get amused at a little three column, four page Socialist sheet, printed and published at Austin. This little sheet, with a few hundred circulation was greatly elated over the fact (?) that few were on hand recently to greet General Douglas MacArthur, especially his speeches, but religiously laid off the great crowds that saw the parades, or met him at airfields. In the first place, nobody but the most optimistic expected many to gather at football field bleachers in 93 degree sun, and listen. We just wonder if the little leftist sheet ever took the time out to try to calculate the millions that, either by radio, television, or the full text in the dailies heard, saw or read Mack's speeches in the cool of their own homes with the air conditioner turned on? A man writing in the Dallas News gives us this comparison of the MacArthur welcome, and the welcome recently extended to a man that the little leftist paper thinks is one of the nation's wheel-horses, Speaker of the US House, Samuel Rayburn, of Bonham. Rayburn came to Texas about the same time to address the graduating class of the U. of T. About two men met Sammy at the "daypo" and a porter seeking a tip, met him at the hotel door. Rayburn also spoke at a stadium, but it was night and cooler, when some 3500 greeted the White House Representative, who, in days past saw fit to represent his district and Texas. Some 1500 of these were graduates, who had no other choice than to be on hand, and another 1500 of their close friends and relatives, were not much interested in the speaker as the graduates. Then there were some 500 people that were just there from choice. Compare the mob that met MacArthur at the airport, and later at the hotel when police had to clear a place for the MacArthur family to get through, and still later when 25,000 either sat or stood to hear Mack's address to the gathering. Even old Sam had some slurring remarks about Texas. Welcome to MacArthur, when some writer remarked: "Just look who's talking, when a baker's dozen greeted him at Austin." This little sheet that is kept going perhaps, by the patronage of the courthouse at Austin, who give it the Sheriff Sales, Citations and other legal matter to cover their back page, thinks the Republicans and "Dixiecrats" who it hates like all socialists and communists hate any independent voter, were responsible for MacArthur coming to Texas. Much has also been said about the Cadillac and other gifts to the general and family, "when people are starving." But they have nothing whatever to say about Truman's yacht trips to Key West, his gracious gifts to some Sheikh getting married over in Arabia, and many others we could mention. Oh, no, that is True-Dead stuff and should set just right with the proletariat. On the other hand, the real Democrats of Texas—such as Gov. Shivers, Attorney General Price Daniel and others thought the MacArthur speech was fine, and that they were glad he came to Texas, and told the people the other side of the nasty matter over in Korea. They had just been getting one side of the matter. They stated that "the message from this war hero was just what the confused people of Texas needed." And to be frankly plain, the confusing bunch at Washington were not a bit pleased with the receptions that Mack and family received in Texas.

Most right thinking people are opposed to slavery in any form. Nevertheless there was a time right here in the South when an influential minority owned slaves for both prompt and profit. At the same time, the great majority of people in the South did not have or want slaves, and in fact could not tell blue from red blood, and would not give a penny for any prestige the owning of slaves, or a big mansion set back in a wooded grove might give them. They just weren't interested. But there has been slavery since and during Bible times, and the people did not think of it as an injustice to any race. And, if you ask us, there is slavery today in many portions of Africa and Asia, and not all of it behind the iron curtain. Well, "why, did the Southern people as a whole fight to retain slavery," some one may ask? The people of the South were made up of people from Europe, among them Cavaliers and French Huguenots who were the greatest believers of personal freedom, at that time, in the world. Many of them had to leave Europe because they so believed. Slavery was later introduced, via Yankee and Dutch traders, and as Southerners needed hands on their plantations, they bought and used the slaves. As stated above, slavery had been going on for thousands of years. The Jewish race were slaves for many, many years of the Egyptians. For more than 300 years Southern people have been taught that freedom among themselves is a heritage that must be defended by firearms if necessary. This ideal of freedom also encompasses the right to work as well as the right to strike, if they wish, regardless of the idea of some labor union boss. There is not many people that we know of that are opposed to labor unions, as such. In fact, most of us who can remember back half a century ago, personally know that if the unions hadn't made a fight at that time, and on up to now, they would have been little better off than the black slaves of the South in ante-bellum days. At the same time most people believe that the labor union bosses are assuming a prerogative never allowed by our republic or our state governments when they think they are allowed to tell all laborers when and where they can work. Fact is, Texas people in particular, do not believe in the closed shop, unless by a majority vote of the employees. If such conditions ever obtain, and the labor bosses are sustained by a bureaucratic government, we may as well live under a dictatorship and be done with it. Work stoppages in many sections where unionism is strong, is hurting war production as well as shipping war supplies, food and medicine to our fighting men.

The Wage-Hour boys have worked up such a mess at Washington, that even our old "yes man" Sen. Tom Connally has taken up the fight for amendments to get them in the bounds of reason. It seems the Wage-Hour boys have figured that all wholesale petroleum products dealers are engaged in interstate commerce—because they sell to farmers, and farmers' products go out over the entire country. "There could be nothing more ridiculous," the Senator affirms. "If so, we are all engaged in interstate commerce. Most of the business transacted by the wholesale oil firms or consignees, as they are generally called, is within a 30 mile radius, mostly confined in the county in which the firm is located." True, a retailer might sell a man gasoline that would carry him over in New Mexico or some other adjoining state to Texas, but when the consignee fills the pump tanks at local filling stations, the matter is then out of his hands. He has no more idea than the retailer where the car he fills is going, and don't even ask. Nevertheless, according to Senator Connally, a lot of these petroleum marketers find themselves faced by a suit for as much as $9,000. And before you gather the idea that the laboring man is filling these suits, just read on. Not on your tin-type; they come from the wage-hour investigators. The workmen do not want to sue, as in many instances they are getting a monthly salary in excess of the requirements of the law. Most of the cases investigated seems to be backlog cases, and not new cases, made as a result of a complaint. In conclusion, Senator Connally states: "The division should devote itself to getting rid of the backlog, instead of snooping around, people who are covered by the law and who are not complaining."

There is always a happy medium in most things; and one of these is the place where merchandise and the demand for certain merchandise meet. We may put on some controls on goods, and labor, and it might work for 15 minutes, but before long one will decline and the other advance, and everything is all out of kilter again. Of course crackpot ideas will continue to come out of Washington. We expect them. Not that all crackpot ideas are bad. We remember too well the results of such crackpot ideas as the telegraph, telephone, phonograph, wireless, rubber tires and tubes, not to mention the automobile, and thousands of other things. Yes, we laughed at them at the time, but the laugh is now on the other side of our mouths. But from way back in middle ages, ambitious people have tried their hand at controlling supply and demand, with no great success. That is just a bit too crackpotish. Take the production of food, for instance, that avocation depends too much on too many things. Weather, (and wind in this area), bugs, worms, labor, and in the case of meat, grass and farm grown feed. There is not much danger of the farmer or ranchman going on a strike. They are a patriotic lot, especially when the country is in peril. But if they have to operate on too close a margin, they are not going to be as enthusiastic about feeding hungry bellies even here at home, as they would if there was a chance for a profit. The food producers know how to act when they are operating under free economy, but when they are controlled by boards and bureaus in Washington, they don't know what to expect next. To be perfectly frank, this paper can't see that there has been any improvement in prices of staple goods since the controls have been enforced, nor has anyone else we have talked with. Perhaps the people as a whole would feel more like cooperating if the powers that be in Washington would get down to earth and acknowledge we are in a war in Korea, instead of a game of tag or police action, and announce that we are tired of, "we will push you north of the 38th parallel if you will push us back." If it was announced in Washington that we are determined to stop that fight in Korea by putting our forces in there for a complete victory over those nasty Reds, we believe the people as a whole would show more cooperation in support of price and wage controls.

THAILAND TIN OUTPUT SHOWS INCREASE

BANGKOK. (AP)—Thailand's tin production and exports are on the up-grade. Output reached 10,363 tons in 1950, compared with 7,814 tons in 1949. Mines department officials estimated Thailand's tin production this year would be between 13,000 and 14,000 tons. The pre-war average was around 15,000 tons.

FARM QUESTION BOX

General Electric Station WGY

- Q. How can I kill crickets in the house?
- A. Dust sodium fluoride around all cracks and corners once a week.
- Q. Our house is full of flies. Where do they come from and how can I get rid of them?
- A. Flies, elm leaf beetles, lady bugs and other insects work their way into the house in the fall for a nice, comfortable place to hibernate. As spring approaches, they prepare to leave. Draw the blinds, leave one blind and the window open a little on a sunny day and most of them will fly out and away. The remainder, you can get with fly spray and a vacuum cleaner.
- Q. Is it a good practice to use sawdust and shavings from my home workshop as a garden mulch, or as one of the compost heap components?
- A. Shavings and sawdust are excellent for mulch, good to work into the soil, and a good addition to the compost heap. Use all you can get of them.
- Q. When do I transplant the following: blackberry bush (black-caps), iris, rhubarb, hemlock trees, and yellow plum trees?
- A. Iris and rhubarb in the fall—the others in early spring.
- Q. How can I control eggs and insects on the leaves of house plants? Do any insects from plants attack rugs and furniture?
- A. About the best and safest treatment for eggs and insects on house plants is to dip or spray thoroughly with Black Leaf 40, one teaspoonful to a pint of soapy water. Plant insects do not attack rugs or furniture.
- Q. How many gallons of sap does it take to make one gallon of maple syrup and how much does one gallon of syrup weigh?
- A. It takes forty or fifty gallons of sap to make one gallon of standard, eleven pound syrup—a little more or less, depending on sugar content of sap, weather, etc.

Stricklinly Speaking
By Old He

Gentle reader, if any, most of this week's column is going to be devoted to a trip the Old He and wife, the Junior and family made down to lake Brownwood the past weekend. This trip was primarily to visit the son-in-law and family, Herman Trigg, Sallie and Sara Beth. Secondly to fish in the lake, and to try to see how many chiggers we could accumulate down there.

Incidentally, we have wondered more than once, why it is that thousands leave the Plains annually, and bring back on their bodies a gillion redbugs, but so far as anyone has been able to discover, you can't find one chigger to 50 sections of grass out here. The same thing may be said of boll weevils. Of all the thousands of tons of cottonseed that have been shipped in here from the weevil belt, very few have ever been found on plants here on the Plains. We saw one that was said to have been a native Terry weevil some 15 years ago. But we have plenty of other insects, brother—and wind.

Another thing. As we told you last week, up to the day we left for Brownwood, (Friday AM) was the hottest June weather we have ever seen here on the Plains. And we fully expected even hotter weather in the Brownwood area. Folks, let us offer our apology right here to the good people of Central Texas. It was much cooler there in daytime, as the air was moist, and didn't seem to come off a desert. Even the wind at night was cool, and just right for a good night's sleep.

But as for the fish, they were off on vacation for the summer.

A few little crappie and bass were caught, too small to keep and were thrown back, as was also a few perch about 2 inches long. Bait was robbed off the trotlines, evidently the work of turtle.

However, we had a great visit, with plenty eats, and sleep, and boating for those who wished. Brownwood itself looked clean and healthy following the flood, and things were about as usual. The two unaligned auto wheels in front of the alignment shop were rolling again, but we missed the sign across from the Brownlee apartment, "Vernon Snipe" dealer in automobiles. He had sold out and there was another name over the office not so funny to us. Did you ever go snipe hunting back in the old states?

Well, to brief the story, a "greener" was persuaded that snipe were caught in a bag held open on the "lower 80 acres." Of course the greener always held the bag, and we guess that is where the old expression, "left holding the bag" came from. Aft-ward, those in the know were supposed to beat the brush and ditch banks thereabouts, and scare the snipe into the bag. After the bag holder got all set, the other gang would yell and make some beating noises for a few minutes and then go home to await the bag holder who sometimes stayed with his job till midnight and after.

Down there they don't think the name, Snipes, is funny, as the family has lived in that city for years. But we are just silly enough to notice such things. Well, our name might cause someone to go into a fit of laughter in some places, such as Czechoslovakia, for instance.

Now for a word about the crops between here and Brownwood. In most places, there ain't none yet. To begin a tale of woe, even in south Terry where we are supposed to have some crops, the long dry spell coupled with a lot of wind, has done a great deal of damage, and the same may be said of Dawson county to Lamesa. However, there are still some pretty nice cotton on the harder lands. Saw a few irrigated fields where cotton was half knee high. But this side of Lamesa, as well as beyond much of the land had just been planted, and little up Friday, but was coming up Monday.

In Borden, Scurry and Fisher counties, the native grass still looks like the dead of winter, but they have had some rain recently to get up their cotton and maize. As-cotton was coming up Monday, guess a lot of farmers decided to try for some fleecy staple, as late as it is. All depends on the lateness of frost or a freeze this fall. There was a narrow strip this side of Roby that had cotton up and as large as cotton here in Terry on dry land farms. But from there on to the east of Abilene, it was the same tale—just planted.

Even in the peanut section of Calahan and Eastland counties, there was just a few patches up. They were planting something, or trying to keep the sand from blowing. Occasionally there was a field of maize in Calahan, Eastland and Brown counties up knee high, and corn in Brown county silking and tasseling. In fact we ate (too-much) roasting ears that were grown over in Comanche county by the former Mrs. J. W. Welch, now Mrs. Jesse H. Harris and husband. Also fresh speckled eyed peas, peaches, etc.

But the crops, as a whole from the cap to Brownwood are disappointing. Maybe, they will come out of the kinks later, and unlike the old one about the lousy calf that lived through the winter only to die when the grass came up in the spring.

After our bacon, eggs, toast and coffee early Monday, we hit the hike for home. But we held up, voluntarily, at the crossing on two highways south of Baird 12 miles, where two were killed just before we reached that point, and two seriously injured. But that will be a separate story. Anyway, we noted that Jr., who was driving, cut his speed some 30 per cent after we left that scene. Our idea was to get to Brownfield by noon. We ate lunch in Snyder, instead.

And folks, it was just a lunch. It was just our luck to hit a place where only oil millionaires and other elite could afford to really dine. Even a sandwich had a price tag of some 75c. We presume they have full ceiling prices in order there.

Just a few words about our first meeting with Judge Homer R. Winston, who passed on this week. His dad had arrived in the spring of 1909, just after the advent of the writer. He had procured a home, and sent for the family. Just before school started they arrived, by line car from Big Spring, as far as they could come on train from Rosenberg.

There was the late Mrs. Winston, Homer, then a chuffy, rather oversized lad of 14; also, Lissie (Mrs. E. Jones) Everett and Johnny. If we make no mistake, we believe Vivian was born after they moved here. But we saw much of Homer after that time, as he was always ready to make

Negro Corporal Says Korean Fight Tough

MIDLAND, Texas, June 29.—(AP)—The slender, khaki-clad Negro hesitated a few minutes before he finally opened the door and walked into the Midland Reporter-Telegram office.

"I just wondered," he said apologetically, "how much it would cost to get a little item in the paper."

"What about?" he was asked.

"Well," he answered, "I just got home and I thought maybe you could put a piece in the paper about it tomorrow."

"Where've you been?"

"I've been in Korea, but I got a 30-day furlough and I came home to see my folks. It's been a long time."

"What's your name?"

"Sanders. Howard Sanders—Howard Sanders, Junior. My papa's name is Howard, too. He works around town, doing yard work an' odd jobs. My mother is Willie Howard. She works for some families here in town."

The little Negro soldier shifted nervously and removed his colored glasses.

"How long were you in Korea, Howard?"

"Well, it was eight months. I first went in at a place called Inchon. Went in with the First Marine Division. Been there ever since."

"Did you see much action?"

He instinctively glanced down at his brown shirt, where three tiny stars gleamed from a second row of ribbons.

"Yes sir, I guess I saw all the action I want to see for a long time."

"From Inchon we fought on north to the Manchurian border. We got right to the Yalu river before we stopped. That's when those other people came into the fight."

"You means the Chinese Communists?"

"Yes sir. The Chinese. That's when things got pretty tough, too."

"The North Koreans weren't so bad. But those Chinese, they were good fighters and there were lots of them. They used to send maybe 4,000 at us at one time. Well, at least 1,000 wouldn't have any guns at all. They'd just wait 'til one of the others fell, then they'd pick up his gun and come into the fight."

"Yes sir. It really got tough then."

"I was in World War II. I was right in the middle of the Lingayen landing and I was at San Fernando, off the coast of the Philippines. I thought that was pretty bad."

"But I never saw anything like the fightin' over in Korea."

Sanders said he was a corporal during that fighting and was a gunner on a 155-mm howitzer.

"Sometimes," he added, "they came at us so fast, we just fired point blank at 'em."

"You must have killed a lot of them."

"Yes sir, I guess I did. There'd be several of our other big guns firing at the same time and we couldn't tell how many we killed. All I know is there were lots of dead Chinese on the ground."

"Didn't you ever get hit?"

"No sir. I never did. I must have been pretty lucky. I was in five major engagements in World War II and this Korean war and I never got a scratch."

"I came pretty close, though. When we were heading south again with the Chinese behind us it was pretty tough. There at Wonju it was just plain hand-to-hand fighting and I heard a lot of bullets whiz past my head. Never got a scratch, though."

He put his cap back on his head and started for the door. He hesitated, and came back.

"Excuse me," he said, "how much will it cost to put something in the paper about my coming home?"

Nothing Corporal Sanders, nothing. And thank you.

a dollar, and applied at the Herald office. So, for quite some time Homer turned out the little five volume, four page Herald on the old G. Washington hand press. He certainly earned his big round silver dollar.

Not more than two weeks ago, Homer informed some friends in our presence that those silver dollars we gave him to run off the Herald, looked as big as a wagon wheel to him. Peace to your dust, old friend!

A hard wind that most people said was a straight wind, hit Snyder last Thursday afternoon and wrecked a drive-in theatre in east Snyder, and a cafe out on the Lamesa highway. No one seriously hurt. A good shower also fell. So, that was where we got our cooling winds about sunset that afternoon.

Sparks From Capitol

By Jim Sparks

Austin, Texas

AUSTIN.—Texas forged to the lead last week in its anti-crime campaign.

The greatest anti-gambling drive in recent Texas history gained speed when the house crime investigating committee held an open hearing on the Galveston gambling situation and Attorney General Price Daniel got a temporary injunction against telephoning horse-race data to Galveston betting parlors.

The crime committee heard 10 Galveston officials and civic leaders; after hearing four members of Maceo and Co., the Galveston gambling group, at an open hearing in Austin on Monday, June 25.

District Judge Jack Roberts of Austin granted Daniel's request for a temporary injunction against Maceo and Company, Southwestern Associated Telephone Company. The temporary injunction took the place of the 10-day restraining order the court had already slapped on the three companies.

Meanwhile, the multi-million dollar Maceo gambling empire shut down operations in other fields besides horse race betting as a result of the house crime committee hearings and the law suit.

Attorney General Daniel sharply denied published rumors that his blow at Galveston gambling had any political implications.

A Galveston Catholic clergyman, Monsignor Dan P. O'Connell, was quoted as saying that gamblers and business men there believed that Daniel wanted to run for office on a platform as "the man who cleaned up Galveston." Monsignor O'Connell emphasized that: "This is not my opinion. This is simply what I have been told."

Daniel pointed out that he had moved against gambling in seven other Texas cities since 1949, and that he did not intend to make an exception of Galveston.

The attorney general commented that "it is an old trick for those who feel the weight to cry out 'politics' and 'persecution' in an attempt to turn public sentiment against law enforcement officials."

The Galveston Ministerial Association entered the controversy to support the attorney general. They wired Daniel:

"We realize that it is not neces-

G. I. QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q.—If I finish my GI Bill classroom course after the July 25 cutoff date, and have remaining entitlement, could I continue with on-the-job training in the same field?

A.—If the job training were more or less a repetition of the material you learned in school, you would not be permitted to take it under the GI Bill. But if the job training were an essential part of your over-all GI training program, and was required before you could qualify as a trained worker, you probably would be permitted to take it. But you would have to apply for it before you completed your classroom work.

Q.—Could I receive a free general physical check-up at a VA hospital? It wouldn't be in connection with any veterans' benefits, but only because I haven't had one for a long time.

A.—No. VA is not permitted to provide physical examinations that have no bearing on VA-administered benefits.

Q.—My National Service Life Insurance term policy has lapsed—but the term period has not expired. It is possible to reinstate it under the new "free insurance" law? I am a veteran, not on active duty.

A.—Yes. Your policy may be reinstated on or before—but not after—its term period has expired.

sary for us or anyone else to come to your defense regarding the charges currently being made against you in connection with the gambling clean-up in Galveston. At the same time we feel constrained to commend you for the firm stand you have taken in this matter."

"Inasmuch as a local clergyman has indicated that public opinion is somewhat divided over this issue, we, as representatives of a large group of the citizenry of Galveston, feel duty bound to make known our positive convictions about this situation."

"We are convinced that gambling in any form, by any person, under any auspices, is a flagrant violation of the laws of the State, a source of moral evil, and contrary to the fundamental principles of Holy Scripture, and must be condemned," the Galveston Ministerial Association wire said.

Canadian River Compact Approved

On May 10, Governor Allan Shivers signed H. B. 63 by Representatives Harold M. La Font of Plainview, approving and adopting the Canadian River Compact between New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma. Senator Grady Hazlewood sponsored the bill in the Senate.

The Compact was signed at Santa Fe, N. M., December 6, 1950 by the Compact Commissioners of the three states, John H. Bliss for New Mexico, E. V. Spence for Texas, and Clarence Burch for Oklahoma.

H. B. 63 provides that the State Board of Water Engineers shall be charged with the administration of the provisions of the compact and shall designate one of its members as Compact Commissioner. At the request of the Governor, Senator Hazlewood and Representative La Font have introduced companion bills in the Senate and House, S. B. No. 462 and H. B. No. 805, amending H. B. 63 by providing that the Governor shall appoint a suitable person as Compact Commissioner for the State of Texas to serve as a member of the "Canadian River Commission." H. B. 805 passed the House on May 22.

The United States had its first billion bushel wheat crop in 1944.

If Truman Had His Way

(An Editorial from The Jackson (Miss.) Daily News)

In a recent address in this city Sen. Clyde Hoey of North Carolina, one of the outstanding men in the Senate, stated that the law-making body is composed, in the main, of honest, intelligent, courageous men who are putting forth the best that is within them to give this nation a first-class government.

That is true. Congress may make mistakes, and just today they are engaged in a desperate struggle to prevent the President of the United States from establishing a dictatorship.

Look what would happen if the plans and policies of the administration had been put into effect in recent years.

If Truman had his way, every farm in America today would be under the quotas and allocations of the Brannan plan—socialized agriculture.

If Truman had his way, there would be no Federal legislation on the books today to imprison Communist spies, traitors and saboteurs in the Government departments.

If Truman had his way, Red China today would be a member of the United Nations, to vote with Russia and her iron curtain prisoners on every ballot against world peace.

If Truman had his way, under the Government reorganization scheme last year, the country would be saddled today with a cabinet department of health and welfare under that great medical genius, Lawyer Oscar Ewing.

If Truman had his way, all of America's secrets in atomic energy would have been traded freely with our Allies.

If Truman had his way, every nation in the world would have direct call on the United States Treasury for technical assistance and economic development loans, under his Point 4 program.

If Truman had his way, there would be no Taft-Hartley provision today requiring the official registration of Communists in labor unions. He vetoed one.

If Truman had his way, every major river in America today would be a part of some new TVA with State and local government submerged by Federal bureaucrats.

If Truman had his way, every school in America today would be under direct daily supervision of the Washington do-good bureaucracy—socialized education.

If Truman had his way, housing and home-building today would be a complete Government monopoly, with subsidies for so-

Polio Risks Are No Greater In Camps

There is no reason to believe there is greater risk to polio infection in the summer camp than in the child's home, according to officials of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Although a camp is an assembly of children at ages of greater susceptibility, Foundation officials take into account the off-setting factor of comparative isolation of campers from outside and new contacts.

Dr. Hart Van Riper, medical director of the March of Dimes organization, has advised that if infantile paralysis appears in the vicinity to take the following steps at camp:

1. Watch for symptoms—headache, sore throat, slight fever, nausea, constipation or diarrhea, fatigue and listlessness, and the more definite stiffness of the neck or back, pain or soreness in muscles, or trembling.
2. Guard against over-fatigue or chilling.
3. Check screening to see that latrines and kitchens are well protected against flies.
4. Re-emphasize cleanliness and hygiene. Frequent handwashing is important, especially before meals and after visits to the toilet.
5. Limit visitors to camp to lessen chances of the virus being brought in.

Dr. Van Riper urged all camps to have available the names and addresses of county and state health officers, the state representative of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and the nearest volunteer chapter of the National Foundation.

socialized housing.

If Truman had his way, there would have been no investigation of communism in the State Department and other Federal agencies. His "red herring" statement of August, 1948, would have ended the Alger Hiss case.

If Truman had his way, total Federal spending since 1946 would have been about $75,000,000,000 more than it has been to date. That is the accumulative cost of all the new programs proposed, but turned down by Congress.

These are the things Congress saved us from during the last five years. Had it not been for the defenders of constitutional government in the House and Senate, Truman would have had his way in all these things. He urged each of these programs at least once, some several times. In other cases he vetoed acts of Congress, which promptly were enacted over his veto. How much we owe Congress.

In one major decision President Truman had his secret way—without consulting Congress. He, by his own decision, plunged our boys into war with the Mongolian hordes in Korea. He now seeks blanket authority to send American boys to new wars in the world around, at will.

Today only Congress stands between that program and the American people.

Behind The Scenes

By Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK, June 29.—As the first year of the Korean conflict drew to a close, businessmen throughout the nation were endeavoring to assay the effects it has had on the civilian economy.

Despite the outpouring of orders and controls from Washington, few could see any serious effects. Repeated reports of cut-backs in production of consumer durable goods have been heard, yet retailers have broken out in a wave of sales and promotional ideas to move over-heavy inventories of the shelves.

Weeping and gnashing of teeth were heard over price-controls, but many items are still being advertised at "below OPS ceiling" prices. Movement of beef to the market has slowed to a trickle—largely in protest against ceiling prices—but retailers report little or no concern on the part of the customers.

All in all, it would appear that the much-sought-after "guns and butter" economy is rapidly approaching reality in this country.

In one phase of industry, the effects of the defense rearmament program have been particularly noticeable. In the year ensuing since the outbreak of the Korean War it has become increasingly apparent that men and machines must operate faster and with greater precision to satisfy the nation's hunger for higher productivity.

Automatic controls, 100 times more sensitive and accurate than mere human beings, are among the production tools guaranteeing this accelerated program.

LOCAL WOMAN IS HURT IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Leroy Hampton of Brownfield suffered cuts and bruises on her face and legs when her car hit a telephone pole in the north part of town Sunday night. She was brought to the local hospital where she received emergency treatment but was not hospitalized.

An ambulance from the Brownfield Funeral Home was sent to the scene of the accident.

Dawson Directs Game Publicity

Everett T. Dawson has been appointed director of publications for the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, according to the executive secretary.

Dawson, a former school teacher, has been with the commission since 1938. He was a game warden, then a captain of wardens and four years ago established the commission's division of resource-use education.

In the latter field, said the executive secretary, Dawson has worked with school authorities to make the new generation of Texans conservation conscious.

Dawson, a native of Waxahachie, is 53 years old.

Where Have You Been all its Life ?

THIS ad is addressed to the fellow known as "the man on the street." From that vantage point, you must have noticed that a lot of folks are driving 1951 Buicks.

You must have noted that you can spot one of these beauties—by its sparkling forefront—its gleaming fender ports—(three for the SPECIAL and SUPER, four for the ROADMASTER)—and by its fluent grace of lines and contours.

You've probably noticed, also, that these Buicks give a good account of themselves in traffic—ease to a gentle stop—get away to a nimble start when the light says, "Go."

You may even have noticed that these cars have a level-gaited stride that traces, as we've said before, to the fact that each wheel rides beneath its own coil spring.

But what we'd like to know is—when are you going to try one?

It's about time you climbed in the driver's seat.

It's about time that you sensed for yourself the thrill that comes from feeling your shoulders sink back in the cushions, when your toe gives the gas treadle a gentle nudge.

It's about time for you to be on the receiving end of those admiring glances which are the due of folks smart enough to pick the smart buy of the year.

What's holding you back? It can't be prices—for as you can quickly discover for yourself, you can own a SPECIAL for less than the price of some sixes—and SUPERS or ROADMASTERS are just as smart a buy in their fields.

So why not end the suspense? The welcome mat is out at our showrooms. We hope to greet you soon.

HELPING BUILD WEST TEXAS SINCE 1927

BE ALIVE ON THE FIFTH!

Independence comes high. Many Americans bought it with the price of their lives in the Revolution and many more have died since to preserve it. It is written into the Constitution and into the hearts of the American people.

Americans will never question the value of independence, but it is time for all of us to weigh the price we pay each year just to celebrate it.

Last year, when the Fourth of July provided a four-day weekend holiday for many persons, the accident death toll hit an all-time high of 793. Traffic accidents alone took 491 lives. Other miscellaneous accidents, such as drowning and fire, claimed 302.

The calendar will save lives this year, since the Fourth falls in mid-week, bringing only a one day holiday for most persons. But even so this annual celebration of our national independence will bring tragedy and death to many Americans.

The traffic accident death toll already is up 10 per cent this year. Add to that the heavy travel and recreational activity of a holiday and the Fourth remains on the nation's danger day list.

With traffic accident deaths now numbering more than 971,000 and the millionth victim expected in December, according to the National Safety Council—it is time for Americans to apply voluntary controls to accidents.

Since the invention of the automobile, the number of Americans killed in traffic accidents is nearly twice the number of patriots killed in all the nation's wars.

The Constitution guarantees every man liberty and independence. In America no one questions anyone's right to go where ever he pleases to celebrate Independence Day of any other holiday, but level-headed Americans are questioning the right of a minority to endanger the lives of the majority.

The police alone cannot curb accidents without the wholehearted support of the nation's motorists—the very people whose lives are at stake.

There is much talk today about preserving the American way of life. If we are to preserve American lives we must set up voluntary controls over carelessness.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the people of Brownfield for the wonderful deeds of kindness shown during the long illness, and death of our dear one. It is help and love from so many friends that makes life worth going on with. We wish to thank all the men for their special attention in sitting up at the hospital with him, and to all the ladies for the nice food and care at the house. The floral offering was so beautiful. Our hearts go out to Dr. Daniell and all the girls at the hospital for the love and care they gave him. May God go with all of you every day of your lives in our prayer.—Mrs. Sam Tankersley and Doug, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Chisholm and Mikee, E. S. Tankersley and family, L. E. Tankersley and family, Mrs. J. C. Hunter and family, Mrs. Oscar Sawyer and family, Mrs. Morgan Hayes and family, Syl Tankersley and family, Cye Tankersley and family.

Food Facts

by MARIE KIEFER

There are many advantages, including economy, to cooking meat at low temperatures, regardless of the cooking method used. To the homemaker, the important figure isn't the cost per pound but the cost per serving. Low temperature cooking means less shrinkage and assures more servings per pound of meat. Tests show that shrinkage is reduced from 20 to 25 per cent. Meat is more tender when cooked at a low temperature. High temperature reduces tenderness by causing muscle fibers to shrink. At low temperatures, juices remain in the meat and fat melting slowly through the meat enhances its flavor.

The man of the house will enjoy carving roasts that have been cooked at low temperatures because they carve easily and fall into full slices. Roasts cooked at high temperatures are dry and will crumble when carved.

Meat cooked at low temperatures is uniformly done throughout—completely rare, medium or well done. It doesn't burn on the outside before cooking in the center. Drippings are clearer and of higher quality at low temperatures. There also is less splattering of fat in pan and oven and this makes less work in cleaning.

Write to me at the National Association of Retail Grocers, 360 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago 1, Ill., for the new NARGUS pamphlet "Stretching That Meat Dollar."

"I Saw The Wreck On The Highway"

If you have never happened upon a serious wreck with the dead and maimed either cooped up in one of the cars, or jaying out on the grass of the prairie, please, don't feel bad about the matter. If you have seen such a work of carnage, you know what we mean. And if you do see one, without doubt if you have ever heard Roy Acuff, the hillbilly composer and musician sing "The Wreck On The Highway," you'll think of that song instantly.

If you remember, part of the song goes something like this: "I saw the wreck on the highway, but I didn't hear nobody pray." Well, maybe some will utter a silent prayer, but with the excitement of the moment, no one thinks to lead the assembly in prayer. In the presence of sudden death and seriously hurt, most of us think only of rendering aid, if physically able.

Anyway, that was just the preliminary to what we least wanted to see Monday morning at the intersection of the Baird and Coleman, and the Abilene and Cross Plains highways in southern Calahan county, some 12 miles east of Baird, and 30 miles east of Abilene. Let us state right here that at this intersection, in a flash, one has a clear view of the highways in every direction for at least a half mile. Signs plainly warn motorists of the intersection before and at the time of entering it. That's the reason a wreck there seems foolish.

Despite this fact, we have seen one near serious wreck there and one very serious in the past two years. The one about two years ago, was avoided by one of the travelers putting on all the brakes

BRAHMA BULLS RANKEST IN HISTORY OF JAYCEE RODEO

If you're expecting chills and thrills at the Jaycee Rodeo, you'll get 'em when you see some of the Brahma bulls "Wild Bill" Elliott and Tommy Steiner, producers of this year's Rodeo, have turned loose with cowboys on their backs! Bull No. 26 R, appropriately named "OJ" Blood-an' Guts," shown above kicking his heels in the air as a salute to the long-since-gone cowboy he spilled in the dust of the arena, is one of the most vicious Brahmas in any Rodeo string in the country. A split second after this shot was taken, he swung around and charged the cowboys in front of the chutes. Some of them crawled to safety in time to escape those wicked horns.

"OJ" Blood An' Guts" is an East Texas Brahma, whose viciousness soon drove his original owner to the ambulance carried the Capt. and his little son to a hospital at Baird, as we had a long way to go; we left the awful scene, as by that time, a JP and highway officers as well as local people were on hand.

One lady remarked, who arrived just ahead of our car, that she had seen two wrecks already that morning in her journey of perhaps 100 miles: The other had no fatalities, but some were quite badly hurt. Jack Jr. and wife and Mrs. Stricklin got out to help all they could. It was then that Edith discovered that it was sometimes easier to tell a little fib than the truth. The Captain kept inquiring about his wife, who was still cooped up in their bent and dented car. Edith believed the lady was dead, but informed the Captain that she was still—perhaps asleep. She was—the last, long sleep. But the ambulance man, who had more experience at such scenes, informed the man that his wife was dead.

Club Boys Tractor Schools Held

4-H Club boys found that carburetor adjustment was needed by all tractors used at the tractor maintenance school held recently in Archer county.

One half day was spent at the August Berend farm where two tractors were available, and another half day was spent at the Fred Steinberger dairy where a tractor and labor-saving devices were studied.

County Agent C. W. Wilhoit reported that a few things were found on each tractor that needed to be corrected to prevent the costly repair or expensive operation. The air hose between the air filter and the carburetor needed replacements on two of the tractors. The cooling system on one was badly clogged.

This is a good example of the value that has resulted from six three-day tractor maintenance schools held during the spring at Lubbock, Greenville, College Station, Coleman, Childress and Amarillo.

At these early schools, 4-H leaders and county agents were trained so they in turn could train 4-H Club members in the maintenance and operation of farm tractors. Attendance ranged from 25 to 40 persons, with an average of about 30 at each meeting.

The value of the program depends on the results obtained through 4-H leaders training club members and adults in tractor care, said W. L. Ulrich, extension agricultural engineer of Texas A. & M.

CHEMICALS FROM NATURAL GAS

A $10,000 grant from the Dow Chemical Company will make possible further research on the University of Texas' Schoch electric-discharge process.

The University owns the process, which is an industrial method for making chemical products from natural gas, related petroleum products and other gases. Dr. E. P. Schoch, Bureau of Industrial Chemistry director, developed the process.

The Dow grant will be used to continue basic investigations of the electric-discharge process as a method of producing other chemicals, Dr. Schoch said.

New Jersey Man Heads Lions Clubs

HAROLD P. NUTTER

ATLANTIC CITY (Special)—Harold P. Nutter, Camden, New Jersey, is the new president of The International Association of Lions Clubs (Lions International). He was elected by unanimous vote at the 34th Annual Convention of the Association which closed here at the Convention Hall today. Nutter succeeds H. C. Petry, Jr., Carizo Springs, Texas.

The convention concluded a year of unprecedented progress for Lions International, according to the report made by R. Roy Keaton, Chicago, Illinois, director-general of the Association. He reported the addition of 837 new Lions Clubs and 14,756 men to the roster of the Association during the eleven-month period ending May 21, 1951, for a total of 8,757 clubs and 417,597 members.

Working Together For World Understanding

Foreign students helped Texas 4-H Club boys and girls fulfill their 1951 theme, "Working Together for World Understanding," at the State 4-H Roundup at Texas A. & M. College, June 24-27.

Miss Gladys Darden, home management specialist, was in charge of that part of the program, said 25 foreign students attending Texas colleges participated in the Roundup. And three International Foreign Youth Exchange students, now living in Texas, participated.

Two German students were present from Texas Technological College. And from Texas University, nine students represented an equal number of countries, including China, Canada, Hungary, Chile, Afghanistan, France, Iraq, Turkey and the Philippines. Students enrolled at A. & M. from Egypt, Mexico, Puerto Rico, Pakistan, India and Venezuela participated in the Roundup.

Two foreign students worked with each group of boys and girls. In these groups, the 4-H members learned how the foreign people live—their customs, type of agriculture, type of government and recreational activities.

The foreign students took part in all activities at the Roundup, said Miss Darden. The program included a party June 25, at which flags of foreign countries were used for decorations.

KITCHEN MEMO BY JEAN CLARKE

FOR weddings, parties, for Sunday suppers or summer parties—cooker a light Florida Punch for guests. If you wish, add champagne for extra sparkle. Prepare 3 6-oz. cans Florida frozen orange juice concentrate and 1 6-oz. can Florida frozen grapefruit according to directions on can. Pour into punch bowl with 1 qt. gingerale, or 1 qt. champagne. Add ice. Cut 2 Florida limes into very thin slices and float in punch. Yield: 32 1/2 cups.

Personal cooking habits are good guides to what type automatic gas range you intend to buy. For example, if you bake a lot, then a gas range with two ovens is a logical choice. However, if your preference is for broiled foods then by all means choose a range with a waist-high broiler and a second broiler section underneath the one oven.

When French Toast is broiled it doesn't get soggy. Use your favorite recipe, arrange slices on broiler pan 5" from low flame, broil golden brown on one side, flip-over to broil on the other side.

Full length mirrors cover the front of some gas heaters to add extra usefulness and light to a room. They are available in either single or dual room units.

For Nut Brown Rice: Butter, monosodium glutamate and finely chopped peanuts or peanut butter forked into hot cooked rice. Delicious addition under creamed meat or vegetables.

A rubber scraper is an excellent stirrer because it's soft enough not to break up fruits and vegetables.

ELLIOTT-STEINER STOCK MAKES JAYCEE RODEO ROUGHEST IN HISTORY OF THIS SECTION

Talk about a high-skipping horse... Take a look at this bareback bronc called "High Skip," one of "Wild Bill" Elliott's and Tommy Steiner's top rodeo horses being featured at the Jaycee Rodeo. "High Skip" is an outstanding, highjumping horse. He is shown here about to unsat-

Jack Wade of Hallkirk, Canada. But he's just one of the dozens that make up the Elliott-Steiner rough strings, reputed to be the roughest Rodeo stock in the entire Southwest.

This famous picture star and his partner, one of the best known Texas Rodeo producers have combined their talents to bring big-time rodeo to Brownfield this year. "Wild Bill" and Tommy spared neither time nor money in combing the West for the best horses and bulls the country had to offer.

Polio Not Running As High This Year

During the first five and one-half months of this year 223 cases of poliomyelitis, polio for short, have been reported to the Texas State Department of Health. Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, has issued the following suggestions concerning the disease and its control.

"All the methods of transmitting the disease may not be known, however, sufficient information is at hand to demand certain precautions and these include personal hygiene and campaigns for sanitation improvements.

Stringent efforts should be made to eliminate house-flies, mosquitoes, and rodents and to destroy their breeding places. Every effort should be made to institute approved garbage collection systems, and secure safe water supplies. Where adequate municipal sewage disposal systems are not in operation, it is necessary to install and maintain sanitary septic tanks and outdoor privies.

All raw foods and vegetables should be washed thoroughly before use and protected from filth and insects. All food handling establishments should adhere strictly to the State law concerning the sterilization of dishes and utensils. Those restaurants with insufficient personnel to maintain approved sanitation, should close one or two hours a day so that employees

ROLLBACK MEAT PRICES DELAYED UNTIL AUG. 1

The Office of Price Stabilization announced that the requirement that retail meat sellers publicly post selling beef prices by June 25 would be postponed until August 1.

In view of the fact that mechanical difficulties had forced a delay in the intended June 18 posting date, and that August 1 is the end of the present price level based on the first 10 per cent roll back of live cattle prices, it was decided to delay posting of the charges for the brief period of time before that date. On August 1, new lower price levels at retail are scheduled under the present regulations.

Miss Bonnie Chappell, secretary of the First Baptist church will leave today for Texarkana, to participate in the wedding of a room-mate of seminary days. She will return to Brownfield Monday.

can assist in maintaining cleanliness and high sanitation standards.

Over-exertion in children should be avoided. Children should not visit homes where there is illness. Early symptoms of infantile paralysis are headache, fever, vomiting, drowsiness, followed by stiffness in the neck and back. When suspicious symptoms appear, a physician should be called immediately.

Let's Give Galveston To Old Mexico

Galveston, it seems, does not want to live under and obey the same laws as the rest of the State. This fact was gathered from the investigations now going on by the Legislative Crime Committee, our own Rep. Waggoner Carr being one of them. The evidence that Galveston wanted to be an "open city" was revealed by the mayor, sheriff and other officials, under oath.

If our memory does not fail us, we landed in Texas in August 1900, and in September that year, Galveston began the building of a huge seawall, and the legislature then being in session, voted to remit the State taxes to Galveston county. They have paid no state taxes to this day, or had not just a few years ago.

We think if that city does not want to live under laws the rest of the state has to, more or less obey, give the whole island back to old Mexico. Either that, or occupy the island city by state trooper, and quit remitting their state taxes.

FARM SAFETY WEEK SPURRED BY HIGH ACCIDENT DEATH RATE

Farm workers had an accidental death rate more than twice as high as workers in non-agricultural industries in 1950, the National Safety Council reports.

The 1950 death rate for farm workers was 57 per 100,000 workers, while in non-agricultural industries the average death rate was 22.

The Council's announcement of the occupational death rates gave emphasis to plans for the eighth annual National Farm Safety Week—proclaimed by President Truman for July 22-28.

Highlights of the Council's annual report on accidents to farm residents were:

- Farm Toll Hits 15,500
1. Total farm resident deaths from accidents were 15,500 in 1950. Injuries totaled about 1,390,000.
- Farm home deaths totaled 3,900, with approximately 550,000 non-fatal injuries.
- Motor vehicles killed 6,300 farm residents in 1950 and injured 220,000 more.
- The total of farm work deaths was 4,300, which accounted for more than 25 per cent of the nation's occupational death toll for 1950.
- Public non-motor vehicle deaths, such as drownings, took the lives of about 1,600 farm residents. On the basis of these figures, the Council said that one of every 19 farm residents in the United States will suffer a disabling injury from an accident in 1951.

Farm and safety leaders throughout the nation are mobilizing for National Farm Safety Week with the theme, "Adopt Safe Practices." Attention is being called to the heavy farm accident toll and the safe practices which will prevent death and injury from farm hazards.

ANIMAL DISEASES HEALTH PROBLEM

Animal diseases as a public health problem were discussed here recently at a conference sponsored jointly by the State Health Department, the University of Texas, and Texas A. & M. College.

Among health hazards studied were brucellosis, rabies, typhus, and animal parasites. Appearing on the program were physicians, veterinarians and public health officials. The principal address was by Dr. K. F. Meyer, world authority on epidemics and professor at the University of California.

Recommendations For Cotton Spraying

Good control of cotton insects has been obtained experimentally with nozzles that delivered quantities of spray ranging from 1.8 to 13.5 gallons per acre. The important thing is to apply the proper amount of insecticide, says the Texas A. & M. entomologists.

For farmers who have trouble figuring the amount of poison they are applying per acre, Extension Entomologist A. C. Gunter has a simple solution. He suggests filling the tank with water and spraying an acre of ground. Then, the gallons of water used can be determined, and the amount of insecticide needed in the tank can be figured.

For example, a farmer with a 50-gallon tank might want to apply one pound of poison per acre. If five gallons of water were required to fill the tank after one acre had been sprayed, the would need 10 pounds of poison in the 50 gallons of spray solution.

Under experimental conditions dusts and sprays have given equally good insect control. But because of weather conditions common to Texas, applying insecticides by spraying is preferred by many farmers. A. & M. entomologists believe the hollow cone type nozzles give better coverage than the fan type nozzles.

ALL IN DAY'S WORK
FONTANA, Calif.—(AP)—Sheriff's officers got the bird when they investigated a report that a mysterious object wrapped in a white sheet had been tossed from a car. Unwrapping the package, the deputies found several very dead chickens.

An ideal spray pressure is about 60 pounds.

One nozzle per row gives satisfactory control of cotton plants that are not more than 10 inches high. For plants between 10 and 22 inches high, two nozzles per row are needed. Three nozzles per row are recommended for plants over 22 inches high—with one on each side and the third directly above the row.

Gunter says it is usually better to have the spraying equipment mounted on the rear of the tractor. This keeps the insecticide from collecting on the tractor and getting on the operator.

Texas A. & M. agricultural engineers have developed plans for a new home-made row crop sprayer. The design calls for rear mounting, which will permit cultivation along with the spraying operation. Plans for constructing this sprayer may be obtained by requesting Plan No. 379 from county Extension agents.

Gunter suggests that cotton growers ask their county agents for copies of the 1951 Guide for Controlling Cotton Insects.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

In this space, you'll find "The House of the Week" with full descriptions. This series is made possible by area firms listed here... See them to help you with your Home Furnishing Problems.

A BEAUTIFUL FARM HOME

House Plan No. 4806 might best be described as a little big house. That is because the house is comparatively small in floor area, low in cost and yet offers a complete bathroom, three bedrooms, living-dining area, two comfortable-sized porches and a kitchen. The kitchen contains 12 feet of counter space. There is also enough room in the kitchen for a breakfast table.

The kitchen—one of the most lived-in rooms in your home—is full of light. The placement of the back door and the windows enables you to command a view of your surrounding farmstead at all times.

The back porch, or workroom, is handy and usable. A lavatory can be installed on the back porch; it's a good place for field hands to wash up before coming in for meals.

The front porch is convenient to the living room. Its extra length adds spaciousness to the house and helps make a beautiful setting for landscaping the yard. All in all, the simple lines of this house give it beauty, and this simplicity, in turn, saves in building costs. All the windows and doors are standard size.

You can obtain blueprints for this TERRY COUNTY HERALD—FARM & RANCH Plan No. 4806 and a handy list of materials by which you can figure your construction cost accurately. Send $1 to Building Editor, FARM & RANCH, Dept. L-193 Nashville, Tenn. Order by number — Plan No. 4806. Blueprints are adequate for any blue carpenter or for any farmer handy with tools.

Soil Conservation Is Great Task

Tying down the loose sandy soil in the Panhandle, South Plains and Cross Timbers areas of West Texas is one of the greatest tasks confronting soil conservationists, both farmers and ranchers and professional men, writes Louis P. Merrill, Fort Worth regional director of the Soil Conservation Service, in an article written for the June issue of "West Texas Today," the West Texas Chamber of Commerce magazine.

Merrill declared that this, and other soil conservation jobs, can be speeded up because of recent consolidation of the soil conservation functions of the Department of Agriculture. It enables farmers and ranchers taking part in the Production and Marketing Administration's agricultural conservation program to receive technical help from the Soil Conservation Service whether or not they are district cooperators.

West Texas land without enough plant or residue cover to prevent wind erosion totaled 3,387,000 acres on May 1, much of this exposure having resulted

Capacity Of Range Land To Increase

Carrying capacity of range land will be increased by approximately 2,200 head of cattle and add about $200,000 income annually for five years as result of mesquite eradication in Clay, Archer and Wichita counties, it is reported in the June issue of "West Texas Today," the West Texas Chamber of Commerce magazine.

Ranchers of the three counties are cooperating in a million-dollar spraying program.

Spraying is being done by smaller trainer type airplanes flying at low altitude and covering mesquite with approximately five gallons of four to one pounds of active ingredients per acre, according to Max Carpenter, Wichita county agent, and Bob Crocker, PMA secretary for Wichita county.

The powerful hormone killer, 2-4-D-T, is being used. Seventy-five thousand acres will be sprayed with the powerful hormone killer, 2-4-D-T, at a cost of $3.50 to $5.00 per acre.

The spray practices are based on work done at the Spur Farm Experiment Station by Supt. C. E. Fisher, his associates and others.

Controlling Moss Growth In Ponds

Good results in controlling moss growth in fish ponds are reported each year by J. W. Stufflebeme, Washington county agricultural agent.

Recently, Stufflebeme reported that top moss in the Matchett Lake, a privately owned pond eight miles from Brenham, was killed within 48 hours after the water was treated with Sodium arsenite.

However, Stufflebeme said it took longer than the usual three weeks for the underwater growth to disappear. He attributed this to the dry, cool weather that prevailed after the lake was treated.

A lake or pond should be measured very carefully and the amount of water figured before sodium arsenite is used, warns R. E. Callender, wildlife conservation specialist for the Texas Extension Service. If the application is too strong, it will kill the fish as well as the moss.

Callender recommends that any one who has a moss infested lake contact their county agricultural agent before starting a control program.

Supplemental Pasture Should Be Planted

Plant supplemental forage crops to insure against a shortage of grazing on permanent pastures during summer drought and to provide forage for winter storage, advises A. W. Crain, pasture specialist for the Texas Extension Service.

Sudan grass and cowpeas make a good grass-legume combination for supplemental summer grazing. Crain recommends planting a 50-50 mixture of sudan grass seed and cowpeas. Use a corn or cotton plate in the planter and about 20 pounds of the mixture to the acre in two to three foot rows.

Crain points out that Chinese red cowpeas cost less than half as much as other varieties. If Chinese red are not available, any other variety may be used. Sweet sudan grass is recommended over the common variety.

Farmers who now have sudan or other supplemental forage growing can benefit by top-dressing with a nitrogen fertilizer, if moisture is available. Crain suggests using 150 pounds of ammonium sulphate, 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate or 50 pounds of anhydrous ammonia.

Sudan and cowpeas can be planted as late as mid-July, says the pasture specialist. He emphasizes that land planted to annual winter legumes should not be allowed to lie idle during the summer. Plant supplemental forage crops—a good grass-legume combination.

At the equator, twilight is very short because the sun goes down more quickly in those latitudes than farther north or south.

HOW FREEDOM RINGS

America's 42 million telephones present overpowering evidence of freedom of speech in this country. Here is an immense highway of communication far greater than the combined telephone systems of the rest of the world. Here, too, is stirring evidence of what private enterprise, dedicated to public service can do.

Surely no other system should challenge our method, unless it is prepared to do better. History has shown they can't, even at the cost of sacrificing human liberty. Surely, then, freedom, free enterprise and achievement go hand in hand.

Gee Gee's Chit Chat

Arrived home just in time to attend the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Rodeo this week end. If it lives up to old standards, and I see no reason why it shouldn't, it will be a dilly and I would miss it for the world. I know that's the way you, too, feel about it, so let's all saddle up and go out and have a wonderful time. The boys have worked hard and are doing a swell job in handling you this rodeo. Don't fail to tell them so when you see one of the Jaycees.

Also doing their part in cooperating with the Jaycees in putting on this rodeo are members of the Brownfield Sheriff's Posse. The posse captain, Money Price, was in charge of assembling and directing the parade this year, and he and the posse members should certainly have a pat on the back for their work.

Well, I suppose I could give you a travelogue this week on my extended tour of the southern states, but frankly, I'm not quite up to it yet. You know how these vacations are—you take a vacation to rest up from work, then you arrive home only to have to rest up from the vacation. A vicious cycle, what? Anyhow... it goes without saying that the captain and I had a lot of fun but were tremendously glad to get home.

Sorry I had to go back on my promise to bring you a gold brick back from Fort Knox, but it's this way. Having never learned to swim, it would have been extremely difficult for me to make off with even a nugget the way things are now. It seems that the government was losing several million dollars worth of gold each year through oxidation (so they say... more probably, light fingeration) and so they decided to put the gold under water and see what happens. Serve 'em right if the durned stuff rusts... they should keep it all to themselves and live so long.

Being home again is wonderful. I love the sand. I love the wind. I love the lovely cool days. Remind me to tell you about how I questioned the natives in Kentucky about their air-conditioning and how they pointed with pride to the air-conditioning... a pint-sized fan hung on the wall.

One of the nicest things about being home again was seeing the grounds around Dr. W. A. (Rock) Roberson's tooth emporium on South 6th—a couple of doors down from us. That beautifully kept lawn looked so inviting that I would have gotten down and rolled on it if I hadn't had on the one and only clean dress I arrived home with.

As if you didn't know, next Wednesday is July 4th (sometimes referred to as Independence day). I don't suppose it would do any good at all to caution you about driving carefully and watching the other fellow as well as yourself, and all that stuff. I know you'll do exactly as you please concerning it. And I am equally positive that you'll buy the kids a bunch of fireworks and a box of matches and let them see how many fingers they can blow off and how many window panes they can knock out, etc. Therefore, I intend to reserve my lectures on these subjects. All I ask is this: please just lay in a ONE-day supply of the explosives.

It's jolly to be home again, little friends, but Marge Williams DID do a marvelous job while I was gone, don't you think?

See you at the rodeo tonight and tomorrow night, heah? (That is deep South).

Mrs. Fox Honored At Bridal Shower

Mrs. James Elwood Fox, the former Miss Margie Graham, was honored with a bridal shower given at the Seleta Jane Brownfield club house June 19 from 4 p. m. until 6 p. m.

Hostesses were Mesdames J.D. Akers, Dick McDuffie, Lee Allen, P. R. Cates, Grady Goodpasture, W. A. Bell and Wilson Collins. A color theme of yellow and blue was carried out in the decorations. Arrangements of yellow carnations and fern were used on the mantelpiece and the piano.

Mrs. Bell received the guests and presented them to the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Blue Graham; Mrs. Horace Fox, and Mrs. Allie Graham. Miss Wiane Graham, sister of the honoree, presided at the guest register.

The table was covered with a handmade cut work cloth and featured an arrangement of blue flowers. Mrs. Goodpasture and Mrs. McDuffie presided at the table.

Mrs. Pat Ramseur furnished piano selections during the afternoon, and the hostesses alternated in displaying gifts.

Approximately 50 guests called during the afternoon.

Chief of Police Houston Hamilton, and Kay returned Monday from a three week vacation in the Ozark country of Arkansas.

Miss Pat Sammons Honored In Ft. Worth

Miss Pat Sammons of Ft. Worth, bride-elect of Morgan Lee Copeland of Brownfield, was honored with a luncheon in Ft. Worth at the Woman's Club Saturday, June 23. Miss Sammons and Mr. Copeland will be married July 7th. Hostesses for the luncheon were Mrs. Robert E. Hicks and daughter, Miss Mimi Hicks.

The table was decorated with summer flowers. A gift marked Miss Sammons' place.

The guest list included Mesdames W. B. Pumphrey, George Runion, Jr., Kenneth Garrett, Jr., and Mike Paddon; Misses Meta Alice Keith, Jeanne Anne Martin, Sally Skelton, Beverly Bonelli, Martha Nell White, Alma Geren, Kay Smith and Ann Randolph.

Engagement Told At Tea Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Burleson of Meadow announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Marcille, to Newell A. Reed of Brownfield at a tea held Saturday night in Meadow from 6 until 9 o'clock.

The wedding will be solemnized August 18 in the First Methodist Church. Mr. Reed is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Reed of Brownfield.

In the receiving line were the engaged couple and their parents.

The serving table was laid with a beige lace cloth centered with an arrangement of ice blue and pale yellow daisies. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

Assisting in the hospitalities were Mesdames: F. H. Sharp, Carl Russell, Ivy Walker, Rola and Evans, Lewis Peeler, and Jimmy Gammill of Lubbock.

Miss Burleson is the secretary and choir director of the First Methodist Church. Mr. Reed is associated with the Brownfield State Bank and Trust Company. He will serve as secretary-treasurer for the new incorporated Brownfield Savings and Loan Association.

Approximately 160 guests registered.

PERSONAL ITEMS

Pfc. J. C. Shaddock will leave this weekend for Warington, Va., where he will attend an army security school. He recently completed a radio course at Camp Chaffee, Ark., and has been there visiting his mother, Mrs. Cora Clay.

Pfc. Gene Patterson is completing a visit with his mother, Mrs. Ruth Bryant, following his graduation from radio school at Camp Chaffee, Ark. He will go to Warington, Va., where he will attend an army security school.

ALLMON-HARTMAN VOWS HEARD JUNE 19

Mrs. Vida Allmon of Brownfield and Clyde Hartman of Tahoka were married in a ceremony read in Lovington, N. M., June 19. The couple is at home in Tahoka, where he is associated with a drug store.

Couple United In California Rites

Miss Jo Anne Machen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Machen, became the bride of Joe Verle Line, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Line, Sr., in a ceremony read June 15 in California. Chaplain Wheeler performed the double ring rites in the naval base chapel at Treasure Island at 7 p. m.

The chapel was decorated with palm, fern, and white gladiolus, flanked with candelabra holding white tapers.

Miss Harlene Glenn was maid of honor. She wore a brown suit with deep brown accessories, and a purple orchid. Martin Line, Jr., brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride wore a brown suit with natural linen accessories and carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid, surrounded with white carnations and tied with white satin streamers. She carried out the tradition of something old, borrowed, new and blue.

Following the ceremony, a dinner honoring the couple was held and was attended by friends and relatives.

The couple is at home in apartment 202, 20 Franklin street, San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Line are graduates of Brownfield High School, and he attended Texas Technological college in Lubbock. He has been in the navy since January, 1951.

Attending the wedding from Brownfield were Miss Harlene Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Line, Sr., and Martin Line, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bailey, and Mrs. Harold Crites returned this week after spending several days in Ruidoso, N. M.

Shami-Jenkins Vows To Be Read Sunday

Miss Mildred Jenkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Jenkins, will become the bride of Sam Bahjat Shami, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ibrahim Shami of Jerusalem. The double ring ceremony will be performed at 3 p. m. Sunday, July 1, by Jimmie Wood, minister of the Crescent Hill Church of Christ, in the parsonage.

Miss Ann George will be maid of honor. She will wear a pale green organza street length dress with black accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Sam Jones will be best man. Given in marriage by her father, the bride will wear a white linen ballerina length dress with a lace top. She will have white accessories and a pink rosebud corsage.

The bride attended schools in Brownfield and the groom attended Jaffa-Orthodox College in Palestine. He is assistant manager of the Fair Department store.

The couple will be at home at 402 W. Tate street following their marriage.

JANE WEISS HONORED ON FIFTH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. George Weiss honored her daughter, Jane on her fifth birthday with a party given at her home, 502 E. Buckley, from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. Monday.

Following games and a treasure hunt, luncheon was served to the following guests: Elaine Flache, Kathy Smith, Lynn Roberson, Beth Hahn, Judy Akers, Kathy Chambers, Barbara Elizabeth McGowan, Carol Ann Crawford, Bill McGowan, Joe Crawford, David Moore, Rickey Chambers, Craig Collier, Johnny Bost, and the honoree.

Favors of windmills were given the guests, and prizes in the treasure hunt were jacks for the girls and knives for the boys.

Perry Cowan of Temple is spending this week with Jimmy Walker. Perry and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Cowan, are former Brownfield residents.

BAPTIST CHURCH PLANS REVIVAL

Plans are underway for conducting a Youth Revival at the First Baptist church here the week of July 22, according to information received.

Jess Moody, world-known evangelist from Fort Worth, will lead the revival. Mrs. Moody will conduct a seminar before each evening service during the revival.

Services will be held at 7 a. m. and 8 p. m. daily. Coffee and doughnuts will be served following each morning service.

REV. STUMPP HOME FROM CONVENTION

Rev. Fred Stumpp will be back in the pulpit of the First Baptist church Sunday, July 1, after attending the Southern Baptist convention in San Francisco.

The Sunday morning sermon topic will be "What Now, America?" The evening service will be a special baptismal and Lord's Supper service, followed by an all-church fellowship. New members during the past three months will be honored guests at the fellowship.

WELCOME TO ONE NEWCOMER

Brownfield had just one newcomer for sure last week, although others outside of our means of discovery may have come in. If so, we welcome you too, with open hands and hearts. The newcomer was W. L. Kuhn, of McGarney, Texas.

On the other hand we lost three, Clarence W. Powell moving to Wichita Falls, Alton Landry to Snyder and Paul L. Aubury to Odessa.

MARRIAGE LICENSE ISSUED BY CLERK

County Clerk Dube Pyeatt sold one license to wed. The happy couple being Bill Evans and Miss Joyce McFather. One suit for divorce was also filed last week.

God Defense Training Pays Off In Disaster

Early in January, Texas home demonstration club women began their civil defense work. The county home demonstration council appointed civil defense chairmen to coordinate their efforts with the county defense program. Each club selected a chairman to extend the plans into every community. The immediate goals were first aid and home nursing training for each family.

Marianne Hearn, State Home Demonstration Leader for the Extension Service of A. & M. College, says many counties have completed this initial training. She says home demonstration agents have assisted in giving information and arranging for the American Red Cross courses. Two bulletins, "Survival Under Atomic Attack" and "What You Should Know About Biological Warfare," have been distributed.

Miss Hearn says indication of the value of this type of preparedness was shown during the recent tornado disaster at Olney in Young County. Lucille King, home demonstration agent, had just completed a demonstration with the 4-H girls on "What To Do In Case of An Atomic Attack." The girls reported they knew to crawl under their desks and away from the windows, so there were only a few scratches as a result.

The Olney and Graham Home Demonstration Clubs had just completed their first aid course, and were ready to assist. They helped set up an emergency feeding station for the workers clearing away the debris. The Indian Mound, Eliasville, Loving and Profit Home Demonstration Clubs sent collections of clothing, towels, bedding and cooking utensils. Lake Edleman and Red Top Home Demonstration Clubs contributed money.

Every club in the county is making a survey of the number of people their communities could care for in emergencies. The tornado showed them the necessity of being prepared.

How to Look Daisy Fresh: Wear One

This young woman carefully secures with cellophane tape the stems of three perky daisies which she'll wear at her throat for a fresh and flowery look.

BY EDNA MILES

If you'd like to keep that fresh-as-a-daisy look despite the sweltering heat of summer days, try perking up your costume with newly-cut flowers, straight from your own garden.

Perhaps you've been nursing the idea that the only flowers that may be worn are florists' corsages—preferably orchids. If so, overcome that notion, or you'll be missing a beauty aid that may help you express your own personality.

Professional corsages are thrilling for special events, but for casual occasions your own favorite yard or field flowers will work just as well. Wear one particular blossom all summer long, and it's likely to be regarded as your own personal trademark. It's a nice distinction to be thought of in connection with roses, pansies, verberna or whatever.

To make your floral arrangements appear hand-made rather than home-made, it's a good idea to avoid grabbing up a bunch of blooms as you dash through your front yard and sticking them to your collar with whatever pin you happen to find in your purse.

If you wear flowers, they're worth a bit of planning. Devote a few minutes to choosing the handsomest blossoms your garden offers, then take them inside for the couple of seconds it'll take to arrange them artfully and attractively.

Bind their stems with cellophane tape to hold the flowers in their correct places. Then pin them with pride—and a long hat or corsage pin—to the spot on your hat, suit or dress where they'll show off to best advantage.

BRIEF-LY SPEAKING

A man, after a tiff with his wife, declared that if women ever get equal rights it will be quite a comedown for them.

There are three things a woman can make out of nothing—a hat, a salad and a quarrel.

There was a man who called a spade a spade—until he tumbled over one in the dark.—Santa Fe Magazine.

Game Wardens Hit The Books

Another move to provide Texas with a well-informed, effective game warden force is being taken by the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission this week.

The first of a three-section warden school opened Monday night at Camp Mabry under plans by the Executive Secretary to have two-thirds of the 170-man warden staff in the field while the other one-third takes the refresher course.

Department heads and district warden chiefs will lead discussions. Emphasis will be placed on improving field patrol from a law enforcement and public relations viewpoint, said the executive secretary. Talks and discussions also will include game management and restoration, fish propagation, court routine, predator control, pollution and ballistics.

Classes will be held night and day. The camp 10 p. m. "lights-out" rule will be observed. Captain F. M. Calvert, director of law enforcement for the commission, will be in personal charge of the schools.

As the wardens assembled, some of the results of their patrol work were indicated in the May arrest report. There were 211 arrests for various charges, with total fines and costs of $4,926.65.

Sixty-four of the cases were for fishing without a license. Eight convictions were for using the so-called "hot rod," illegal fishing device. Twelve persons were fined for deer law violations, mainly for hunting at night.

Texas County Judges Praise Legislature

The Texas County Judges and Commissioners Association this week praised the recently adjourned Texas Legislature for saving the farm-to-market road program and placing a pipeline tax on natural gas.

County Judge O. F. Dent of Littlefield, president of the Association, and Commissioner L. W. Gardner of Itasca, vice-president, issued a joint statement expressing the Association's appreciation to "A courageous majority of the Legislature for their accomplishment in behalf of the people of Texas."

The Association listed these accomplishments:

"1. The rural road block in the Legislature defeated efforts of the administration and the so-called Good Roads Association, which, in our opinion, would have crippled our farm-to-market road program through passage of the Graham bill.

"2. The Colson-Briscoe farm-to-market road program has been retained at the full amount of $15,000,000 a year, despite the open proposal of the administration that it be abolished.

"3. The principle of the gas gathering tax on the pipelines which are taking gas out of Texas has been established, through the acceptance of the tax plan proposed by Rep. Jim Sewell.

"4. The trend toward a general sales tax has been stopped, by the defeat of the administration plan for an increase in the gasoline sales tax, another of the 'creeping sales taxes'.

"These things have been accomplished by a courageous majority of the Legislators, for the people of Texas, despite the opposition of the Governor, simply because the legislators had the courage to take bills away from committees stocked by the Lieutenant Governor and Speaker of the House, and bring them to the floor where Democracy could rule," the officials declared.

"We, as officers of the County Judges and Commissioners Association, are grateful to have had a small part in this great victory for the people of Texas which means that for the next two years the State Highway Department will have more money to spend for construction of farm-to-market roads than ever before. It accomplishes all we hoped to do when we were forced to defend the rural roads program from the attack he run on it by the administration."

Trying To Raise Wild Pets Is Risky

Texans run a risk in trying to make pets out of wild animals and birds, according to the executive secretary of the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission.

He made the point in commenting on the current vacation "invasion" season which parallels the appearance of fawn deer and other wildlife young.

"The fawn, which are beginning to appear now, oftentimes are believed to be lost by well-meaning persons," said the executive secretary.

"Usually, in such cases, the parent deer have been frightened away temporarily but will return. They find their young either by sight or scent.

"One of the primary dangers of persons trying to provide a home for 'lost' wild game is that the shock from fright of being handled many times kills the young things. They are very sensitive to human encroachment.

"If the 'lost' animals survive, they usually prove to be a nuisance. This is particularly true of deer. Actually, there is a genuine hazard involved in trying to tame wild deer, especially the bucks. They have been known to follow people around like a dog and then suddenly, in the fall mating season, become violent and attack humans either with their horns or front feet."

The executive secretary said trying to raise wild birds by setting their eggs under a domestic fowl usually proves wasted effort since they seldom hatch and if they do, the little birds perish. He emphasized that persons insisting on making pets of wildlife must have a permit under a state law.

BOOST FOR MIDDLE AGERS
MINNEAPOLIS. (AP)—Grady Clark, vice-president of Investors Diversified Services, Inc., says he has figures to prove that a useful productive life can really begin at 40 for men and women with sales capabilities.
Clark states that representatives of the company who are more than 40 produced about 64 per cent of the total 1950 sales.
"This is proof," says Clark, "that the seasoned competence of mature men and women is a definite asset for business."

BULLET FINISHES OLD-TIMER
SYDNEY. (AP)—A man recently shot an Australian crocodile which was living before war people first settled here in 1782. The crocodile was perhaps 23 years old. Its hide was 23 feet long and 5 feet across. Jim Doyle, professional shooter, killed the crocodile in the East Alligator River in the Northern Territory. Doyle said the crocodile recently attacked eight of his horses while they drank. He had to destroy four of them. Doyle sold the hide in Darwin for about $33.

WILLOWS PUT CASH IN INDIAN JEANS
HOBBEMA, Canada. (AP)—The Hobbema Indians are harvesting willows — for sale as fence posts. They've done it every year since 1915.
It's big business. Some years they've shipped out a million posts ranging from two to four cents apiece. Farming districts are the principal market.
The white stock winters along the Nile in Africa but migrates in the warm season to Europe.
