

Gov. Shivers To Head Heart Fund Drive

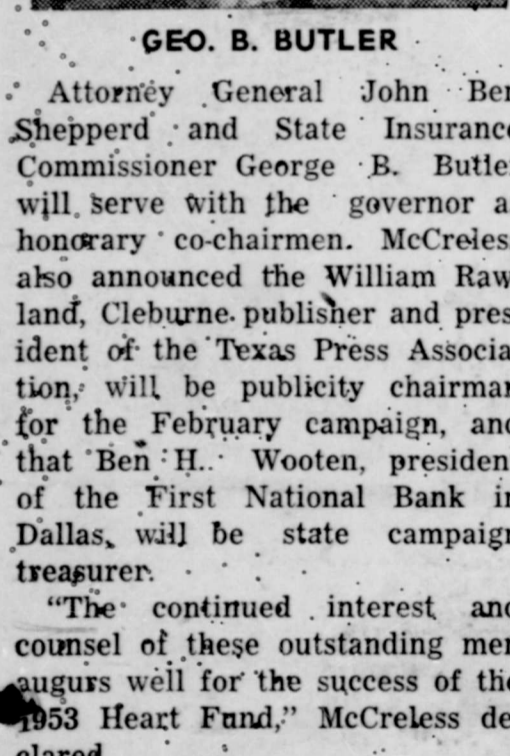

GOV. ALLAN SHIVERS

Governor Allan Shivers will serve again as honorary state chairman of the annual Heart Fund campaign, it has been announced by S. E. McCreless of San Antonio, state chairman, and Bruce Barton, national chairman for the 1953-Heart Fund.

JOHN BEN SHEPHERD

Recently, we printed an article about the Starnes wildcat well down in southeast Terry, before the well was completed, and the drillers were still playing around with the thing, testing this and testing that. And we thought from reports from the wellside that the well would make around 350 to 400 barrels per day. You just can't depend on what oil well drillers tell a reporter.

GEO. B. BUTLER

When the well was finally finished and prorated, it was pronounced a 1554 barrel per day well, with near 40 gravity oil. But since then, two other wells have been finished, both of them supposedly in the wildcat area.

The Turner-Durham No. 1 Mantion Falls, some seven miles south of Brownfield, was finished the past week at a total depth of 10,084 feet for a potential 348 barrel well of 42 gravity oil. This well is located on Section 146, block T.

Out in northwest Terry, the A. M. Brownfield wildcat, on Section 16, Block D-14, was finished as a pumper, rating about 91 barrels per day in the Clear Fork formation. This well is located in the Terry-Youkum field, or near it, but far enough away from production to be termed a wildcat.

In the same area, the Brit Clare No. 1, was swabbing mud. Very likely testing to see if there was production at the depth of 5,500 feet. It is an 8,500 foot project.

And down in the same section as the original Zorns well, six miles south of town, on the Rebecca E. Sawyer land, Section 122, Block T, they have some of the drilling tools hung in the hole, and have a fishing job for "junk" as oil men call it.

And why do they call this the Starnes-Cisco field? Some of these days we are going to have a very private interview with a driller and a geologist and learn some of their whys and wherefores, if possible. Among them, we want to know why all that jumble of pipe on top of the ground over a flowing well is called a "Christmas Tree."

SHERIFF'S POSSE JOINS WEST TEXAS POSSE, RIDING CLUB

Terry County Sheriff's Posse is a member of the West Texas Posse and Riding Club organized recently by the Sheriff's posse and riding clubs of West Texas. Officers of the organization are: Cate Snider of Post, president; Joe Moise of Lubbock, vice-president; and Tess Fulfer of Brownfield, secretary-treasurer.

Each posse and club sends at least two men as representatives, since each group has two official votes in business matters.

Member groups are: Hereford Riding Club, Slaton Riding Club, Post Stampede, and Abernathy Riding Club, and Sheriff's posses from the following counties: Cochran, Floyd, Lubbock, Gaines, Hockley, Ector, Terry, Lynn Crosby, Lamb, Dawson and Fisher.

Any other posses or riding groups wishing to join are invited to do so.

We Pulled A Boner On The Starnes Well

Recently, we printed an article about the Starnes wildcat well down in southeast Terry, before the well was completed, and the drillers were still playing around with the thing, testing this and testing that. Attorney General John Ben Shepherd and State Insurance Commissioner George B. Butler will serve with the governor as honorary co-chairmen. McCreless also announced the William Rawland, Cleburne publisher and president of the Texas Press Association, will be publicity chairman for the February campaign, and that Ben H. Wooten, president of the First National Bank in Dallas, will be state campaign treasurer.

"The continued interest and counsel of these outstanding men augurs well for the success of the 1953 Heart Fund," McCreless declared.

The state campaign chairman pointed out that "the Heart Fund supports skilled research investigators in their quest for new weapons against the disease which constitute the nation's leading public health problem."

The research-financed from contributions made during the 1953 Heart Fund will be designed to find new drugs, surgery and treatment of heart ailments, McCreless explained.

"In addition to research," McCreless said, "the Heart Fund provides for extensive educational activities which are designed to eliminate unnecessary fear and to acquaint the public with the programs conducted to combat heart diseases."

NAMED FAMILY OF YEAR — Mr. and Mrs. Bunk Proctor, former Brownfield residents, and their children, were named the outstanding photographic family of the year by photography studios in El Paso recently. The award was won on the basis of the photo above, because of grouping, expressions, photographic charm and personality. Contest directors pointed out that groups of people do not usually photograph well. Pictured are the two boys, Douglas Lynn, 6, left, and Donald Wayne, 5, right, Mr. Proctor, Darwin Glenn, 7 months, and Mrs. Proctor.

Bunk Proctor is the son of Mrs. Osie Proctor of Brownfield and the brother of Mrs. John Dick Moorhead of Levelland and Mrs. Pate Collier of Brownfield. Both he and his wife are graduates of Brownfield High School, and Bunk was raised here. Mrs. Proctor is the former Floy Gregory, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gregory, former Terry County residents. Proctor is manager of a Furr Food Store in El Paso.

Cubs Split Games On Road Trip

The Cubs lost a close-fought battle last Friday with the Anton Bulldogs in what nearly ended up in a free-for-all. There was more action in the last 30 seconds than any game the Cubs have played this year. To start it off, the Cubs were 3 points ahead going into the last 30 seconds. Jarry Bailey was thrown off, and Max Black and Max Proffitt fouled off. This gave the Anton boys 6 free shots and they made enough to put them out in front 52-51, which was the final score. Max Black was able to put 19 points through the hoop before fouling out.

The next night, Saturday night, things were a little different for the Cubs, when they took the Sudan boys to a thrashing 55-44. High man for Sudan was Leon Hill with 23 points and Max Proffitt had 24 for the Cubs. Incidentally, Proffitt got married Friday morning before the Friday and Saturday games.

The Cubs seem to be improving all along and hardly hitting less than 50 points a game, which is a good score in any game. The Cubs have now changed up with a zone and different types of offensive changes. The first conference game for the Brownfield boys will be at the end of this week, when they take on the Mule-shoe boys, who are always a threat in basketball. Right now the Cubs are the District 7AA favorites. This Tuesday the Cubs go to Tahoka to battle the most potent team in District 6AA, and always a fast club.

The Cubs new football jackets arrived Tuesday. They are red with light grey sleeves and white latters trimmed in red. There were 17 lettermen receiving them, 14 Seniors, 2 Juniors and 1 sophomore.

One of the most honored boys receiving jackets was Max Black, who was named to the AP all-state team. Max is a three-year letterman and has been captain the past two years, and last year receiving the outstanding award in both football and basketball.

SANTA FE CARLOADINGS

Santa Fe carloadings for week ending January 17, 1953 were 23,638 compared with 24,174 for the same week in 1952. Cars received from connections totaled 12,226 compared with 12,913 for same week in 1952. Total cars moved were 35,862 compared with 37,087 for same week in 1952. Santa Fe handled a total of 34,006 cars in preceding week of this year.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Blanton were in Ft. Worth over the week end.

Pancakes will be served with coffee and bacon, and the customer will be given as many pancakes as he can eat. Aunt Jimima is furnishing pancake mix for the event.

All proceeds will go for the benefit of underprivileged children and other club activities.

Preceding the supper, a parade will be staged downtown at approximately 5 o'clock.

While Brownfield had a football team that went places, winning the district championship, and a basketball team that is probably above average, we have a bunch of boys in high school or college, that are really boxers. And there's plenty of them. It is said that Johnny Cloud has a list of 22 fighters in Golden Gloves.

Among the much larger towns the Brownfield punchers took Lubbock to the tune of 5-3 and Odessa 10-6. Among the other towns that Cloud's Clouters have ousted are Plainview and Tahoka.

We look for a nice bunch of Brownfield Glovers to go to the State Golden Gloves meet at Fort Worth, when that event comes up.

Gist Drilled Two Test Irrigation Wells

Mrs. Jewel Bell of the Needmore community, was in one day last week on business concerning other matters, when we quizzed her a bit about the two proposed irrigation wells we mentioned some time ago. As stated before, the wells are to be put down by Brock Gist, of California, brother-in-law of Mrs. Bell.

She stated that two test wells had been drilled for Mr. Gist, and that the water bearing sand and gravel section, where the irrigation water comes from, were not too thick. We believe she said about 15 feet, and that 25 to 35 feet of it was indication of strong wells. However, a well that would irrigate from 30 to 50 acres would likely pay.

Then she stated that down in south Terry, where some of the strongest wells in the county are located, there was no sand-gravel at all. And that information was news to us, but we just don't get too old to learn.

And the information that a test well was first put down with a small drill before the more costly 8 to 12 inch wells were drilled was news to us, and also, that south Terry doesn't have the water sands north Terry has.

On February 3, Brownfield will be host for an Oddfellow Circle meeting, with chapters from Levelland, Sundown, Lubbock, and Abernathy participating. Initiative degrees will be conferred, and two men from each chapter will serve on the degree team.

With Subscribers And Other Matters

One of the old time Terryites, Mrs. Annie Wheatley, who once resided in the Johnson community, but has been sojourning in the Pittsburg, Calif., section, has moved. She is now located at Antioch, Calif., and wants her Herald to come to her new abode.

And then there is another old timer in these parts, Mrs. J. M. Storey, over at Plains. She renews for the Herald and wants her favorite daily and Sunday to visit her regularly. Here they come, Mrs. S.

H. L. Holleman, down in the old Hunter community, dropped in last week for a small sized chat, and whammed down the cash to put his paper up to Jan 1955. Don't know what those people down there will do if H. L. ever happens to be blown down below the cap.

Among the new readers are Leo Hawkins out on the Seagraves route one, in Terry or Yoakum, and Howard Hurd, city.

BROWNFIELD VOTES IN LIGHT TURNOUT TO APPROVE CITY CHARTER PLAN

A comparatively light vote on the Charter plan of government Tuesday approved the plan by a vote of 140 to 7. At the same time, the voters who took the trouble to cast one, elected the full list of 15 local citizens, selected to plan the new form of government. Very little scratching and write-ins, we were told.

However, one prominent citizen remarked that there would not be a light vote cast, when the many ordinances, put up to the voters by the Charter Builders, takes place. When that day arrives, it is believed that just about all the qualified voters in the old burg will tie themselves to the polls and cast a vote one way or the other.

To say the least, in the past few years the Home Rule plan of city government has taken Texas as well as the nation by storm. Of the cities in Texas with more than 5,000 people, 115 have adopted the new Charter plan, while only 43 are still going along with the old City Council plan, and so far as we have been able to gather, no city has gone back to the old general laws plan, once the new plan was adopted.

Most of the progressive cities in this immediate section are now governed by the new plan. The 15 men elected to form the new Home Rule plan are:

Murphy May, B. E. Self, Cecil Smith, James H. Dallas, John J. Kendrick, Jack Hamilton, Fred C. Smith, Virgil Crawford, Dr. Geo. W. Sibley, Lloyd Moore, C. C. Primm, Jack DuBose, M. J. Craig, Virgil Travis and T. A. Hicks.

Dimes Are Marching In Anti-Polio Drive

Dimes for fighting polio are definitely "on the march" in Brownfield, as volunteer March of Dimes workers carry out plans to bring in campaign funds.

A benefit dance will be given Friday, Jan. 30, in Veteran's Hall with all proceeds going to the anti-polio campaign. Tickets may be purchased from R. V. Moreman at the Brownfield State Bank, or from J. B. H. Kabebe at DeLuxe Cleaners.

Music for dancing will be for K. Carter and his orchestra of Lubbock.

Members of the Beta Theta chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority, will be in charge of taking up collections in the March of Dimes drive at the Regal and Rialto theatres, Jan. 23-31.

Mrs. Jack Shirley, Women's Committee chairman, will be responsible for setting up booths in town on the final two Saturdays of the drive, Jan. 24 and Jan. 31.

Cards for collecting dimes in the campaign have been passed out to school children, and approximately 1,500 letters have been sent out in the county requesting the financial cooperation of all Terry residents. Moreman said they are already receiving "fairly good response" from the letters.

Sam Chisholm Has Busy Fifteen Years, Makes A Switch From Student To Teacher

Back in 1937, when a youngster named Sam Chisholm was a student in Brownfield High School, his fellow classmates said good-naturedly, "We'll be glad when he graduates so someone else can win some scholastic honors." Sam did graduate that year, and, of course, with honors, but he didn't stop studying, and he didn't stop receiving acclaim for his scholastic ability either.

From 1938 until 1939 he was a student at Sul Ross State College in Alpine before transferring to Texas Technological College at Lubbock, where he received his Bachelor of Business Administration degree in 1942.

Then on Jan. 31, 1942, he enlisted in the Navy and served at Corpus Christi until Oct. 15 of that year, when he was commissioned as an Ensign in the Naval Supply Corps. Young Chisholm served at New Orleans, La., Boston, Mass., and the Battleship South Dakota, and at Great Lakes, Ill., and in 1946 was released as Lieutenant JG in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

It was "back to school" again for Sam, as he began his graduate studies at the University of California in Los Angeles in 1946 and continued there until 1947. During the remainder of 1947 and during the first part of 1948 he worked as a junior accountant for Peat Marwick and Mitchell, Certified Public Accountants, in Los Angeles. For the rest of that year he was employed as accountant for Lincoln, Mercury Division of Ford Motor Company in Los Angeles.

Working was fine, but somehow, Sam just couldn't seem to stay away from college, so in 1949 he returned home and began graduate studies in accounting at Texas Tech. In June of 1950, he completed this work there and received his Master's Degree in Business Administration. The following month, July, was an important one for the Brownfield man, for he passed his examination for Certified Public Accountant, and his CPA was granted by the State of Texas.

In September, Sam began work as senior accountant for Merriman and Thomas, CPAs, in Brownfield, but school bells beckoned, so he switched from the student to the faculty side of college life and simultaneously taught accounting at Texas Tech as assistant professor.

In September of the following year, 1951, Chisholm accepted an assistant professorship at Harding College, Searcy, Ark., where he also taught accounting, and in December he was married. The Chisholms remained at Searcy until 1952, when they returned to Texas for Sam to teach accounting in the evening program at Texas Tech.

In November, 1952, a problem in mathematics took place within the Chisholm household. The family multiplied, and the new addition was a little girl named Cathy.

Mr. and Mrs. Chisholm have begun the new year of 1953 as residents of New Mexico, and Sam is once again teaching accounting. He has been appointed assistant professor of Business Administration at New Mexico Highlands University at Las Vegas, N. M.

He holds memberships in the American Institute of Accountants and the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.

What problems the next few years have in store for the mathematician remains to be seen, but one thing for sure; Little Cathy already has one big problem solved. Arithmetic should never bother her too much, because just think how much help she's going to have on her homework!

W. R. TILSON OPENS FARM BUREAU MEETING

W. R. Tilson of Meadow, state director of the South Plains area Farm Bureau, opened the program when 175 key leaders in the Texas Farm Bureau Federation on the South Plains met Saturday in Lubbock to lay campaign plans to secure new laws from the 53rd Legislature. This was one of a series of similar meetings being held throughout the state.

Delegates named Preston Smith of Lubbock to represent his area in the state Farm Bureau meeting in revising its present constitution.

Back in the depression days, that a lot of people still like to refer to as "Hoover's Depression," even though many of them right here in Texas voted for him, was really just the starting of "Operations Santa Claus." At that time, in three different places some great housing projects were gotten under way. They were immense, and lucky were the people who got into these homes, built at the expense of the rest of the taxpayers. They were good and they were cheap to rent. But the day came when the government decided that they were far from a gold mine, even when the rent was doubled. So, it was decided to sell these projects to private owners. But there were not many takers. In the first place, no private owners wanted to buy something over which the government still dictated the price at which they could be rented. In the meantime the projects had like Sandy's watch, kinder run down. They needed a lot of repairs to make them attractive to modern renters; in other words they needed modernizing. As we understand it, these projects are still on the hands of Uncle Santa Claus. And then in places like Brownfield, there were many other projects, most of them not worth a tinker's dam. For instance, someone got the idea to put out a lot of trees in front of the homes here in town. Most of us did not want the trees in front in the first place, as we were trying to make a lawn in front. But we stood the gaff, and in a year or two, when the tree planting idea played out, most of us dug up the trees and threw them out in the back alley. Then there was the expensive "pedestrian underpass" that ran under First Street, or Lubbock-Seagraves highway, and along Main street. While the highway was being built, some of the dirt haulers ran over a small boy crossing the highway, may have leant an idea for the underpass. Anyway it was built, and no one but the small fry used it, as traffic was not too heavy at that time. Soon, it was used by those who had a call of nature, and the odor was so terrible that not even the youngsters would use it. Since traffic lights have been installed, we don't suppose anyone uses it. We never see anyone go in or come out of the place. Like housing and tree planting by the government, they went the way of all projects — at the expense of the taxpayer.

As this is written the week preceding the inauguration, by the time you read it, we shall have a new president in the person of Dwight David Eisenhower. It is the hope and the prayer of everyone that President Eisenhower will be just as true and courageous as he has always been, either in private affairs, or on the battlefield. And that as ever in the past, he will let truth and honesty be his guiding star in the great task before him. And it is a tremendous task. He will take charge of the nation at a time when it is engaged in a bloody war, even if it has been referred to as a police action. Not only that, but the moral standard of the nation has zoomed to the lowest ebb in the history of the nation. Thousands of the people connected with the government think nothing of taking a handout to butter their own bread at the expense of the nation's taxpayers. The officials, or some of them, have surrounded themselves with men of low morals, who could not hold a job in any private industry. These men have no moral stability, and if they see an opportunity to get the gaff, even if the deal is shady, they have no hesitancy in putting it over. At the same time, the language even of the chief executive sometimes fits in better with that of a slumtown barroom than the language of a man who is supposed to be a Christian gentleman, and a leader in a moral way, of a great nation. Some of it is too coarse to be printable, and not appropriate language for the younger generation to hear or read. We have long since gathered the idea that people who either curse or black-guard to emphasize what they wish to say, lack something of being capable of the job they are supposed to hold. Many men who are in public eye that we know, would hesitate to use some of the language we have seen printed (by using initials) in their private den, with only men present to hear it, and no reporters for the newspapers to scatter such trash all over the nation. We hope that when President Ike takes over, that any language he uses on any occasion, could be freely repeated in the parlor of any lady in the land with mixed company. Most of us are rather fed up on barroom language coming from the rulers of our land.

To hear the political boys tell it, they have done a great job in making agriculture what it is today. Yeah, they take full credit for the great progress farming has undergone in the past 50 years, when at that time it was just about all most farms could do to provide food, clothing and other necessities for their own farms; much less town and city people, factory an other workers. But today, the farms of the USA not only sustain its own workers, but some 20 other people, plus some exports. But Farm Journal does not go along with the big claim of the politician. In fact that paper refutes the claims of these birds, who would hand all the credit of better farming methods to themselves. On the other hand, says the Journal, it has been the bright ideas of inventive geniuses, along with the huge farm machinery manufacturing plants, that has put agriculture in the front row of industries. In the past 20 years we have seen the population of the United States increase by 30 million people, most of which are in the towns and cities. Yet the farms of the USA not only provide for all the farm families, but have taken on these increased millions and is providing for them in a handsome way. Of course this has meant time and labor saving machinery, wherein one laborer could cultivate and harvest many times more than several men could do with their one-row walking plows and planters, drawn by one or two horses of a generation or two ago. Even the farms back 20 or 30 years ago used the slow one row method of planting and tilling, and there was no such thing as row binders and headers. Today, a farmer gets on his tractor and plants from three to four rows of farm products at a time, moving faster than the horses, and the cultivation is done with practically the same machinery. He is never tied up waiting for the horses to eat and drink, or recover from colic. However, he must come to town occasionally for repairs and supplies. So next time you hear a politician rear back on his pasture joints, and proclaim that he has done this, that and the other for the farmer, give credit to the real helpers, American enterprise, American inventiveness and American ingenuity.

Last week, the Herald along with perhaps thousands of other citizen of our great state, received an invitation to attend the inauguration of Gov. Allan Shivers and Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey. Along with the invitation came a nice little brochure that gave some interesting history of the Lone Star State, much of which had escaped us. Especially some of the pics of the early day capitols, and what took place in them in the early stages in our development, including the 12 years that Texas was a Republic. Those were the days in the new Republic that tried men's souls. But Texas really had some big men to guide its destinies at that time, such men as Houston, Travis, Smith, Burnett, Lamar, Anson Jones and others. The booklet showed a picture of the first capitol building after Texas became a state 106 years ago. The old wooden building, flying a Lone Star flag, looked more like a large farm home than anything we can describe, being one story, and a gallery or porch running the full length of the front. The location was 8th and Colorado St., Austin and from appearances thereabouts, it was almost out in the country, as few other than some small buildings are shown in the picture. The next capitol shown was 1853, 100 years ago, and was the official capitol until 1881, a three story brick building. This included the period of the Civil War and reconstruction days, that also tried men's souls, but such men as Lubbock, Throckmorton, Hamilton, Coke and Hubbard, are mentioned as the guiding stars. After the splendid new capitol was occupied in the early 80ties, there came along another bunch of stalwart men that any state or nation should be proud to claim, such as Roberts, Ireland, Ross, Hogg, Culberson, Sayers, Lanham and Campbell. But to this good day, no man has ever served the state as governor, has so left their footprints on the sands of time as did Jim Hogg. All would be governors and other candidates like to refer back to Hogg as the Texan and governor. Present inhabitants of the state who are now mature, will remember most of the current governors, even including the "two for the price of one," Jim Ferguson, and wife Mirriam, and Pappy (Biscuit) O'Daniell, Hobby, Neff, Moody, Ross Sterling, Allred, Coke Stevenson and the late Beuford Jester, who died in office.

It does appear to us that President Harry Truman would or could have left the White House without stirring any more animosity toward him than already existed. But it appears that he just has a mean, narrow streak about his system that makes him want to antagonize, and do little undermining things to people, many of whom have befriended him when he really needed friends. The latest low blow he delivered, just before checking out for good, thank goodness, was to turn the tidelands of the several states by seizure, over to the navy. This includes the rich oil lands of California, Louisiana and Texas. There are other valuable things, minerals, sands, fisheries, etc., other than oil under some of these tidelands, but the little man stated the navy could not use them. Remember what supreme court did to Harry's idea of seizing steel mills a while back, that belonged to other people? Of course there will be some in Texas that will think this latest stunt of Harry, is just the cat's ankle. Some people seem so wrapped up in Harry that they would think it funny if he broke a chair over their heads. But it seems that some of the diehards are not exactly going along with this idea, and one of them is Senator Lyndon Johnson. Of course Johnson and most of the Congressmen did not support Truman, but they did support a hand picked man pledged to carry out all of Truman's ideas, including the theft of the tidelands. Just what kind of a fix a loyal Texan might get himself into and be for Truman and his ideas of seizure of other people or states' property, when not at all necessary, is beyond our comprehension. If Truman's ideas of property rights in these United States is ever adopted, nothing you have as private property will be safe from theft by the government. It does look like he would have wanted to go out of office with a good feeling toward him from people all over the USA. But it seems he is so antagonistic himself that it doesn't bother him in the least for nice folks not to like the ground he walks on. Frankly, we believe another bill by congress will be passed quietclaiming these lands to their rightful owners, and that President Eisenhower will sign the bill.

Recent studies reveal that tuberculosis cost Texans more than $17,500,000 last year.

A new type motor oil for the new cars

Your new car needs this new type oil

Prevents "4000-mile knock." Many 1952 and practically all the 1953 automobiles have high compression engines. You've heard about these fine new engines. You know, for example, that they require gasoline with extra anti-knock performance . . . a gasoline like Humble Esso Extra.

Now, Detroit's automotive engineers have discovered that high compression engines need an entirely new type of motor oil. With conventional oils in the crankcase, the new engines have a tendency to ping, or knock, after four to eight thousand miles of driving.

This "4000-mile knock" is caused by combustion chamber deposits; these increase the compression ratio to a point where no commercial gasoline will give you anti-knock performance.

Humble Esso Uniflo, an entirely new type motor oil, prevents the formation of deposits that cause "4000-mile knock" in high compression engines if you begin to use it regularly in the first 1000 miles of driving.

Protects against friction wear and acid corrosion. Second, the engineers discovered that friction is the chief cause of wear in automobile engines. Moving parts in the new engines are so carefully machined that they fit very closely. This gives you much better performance from your car, but it also requires superior lubrication. Heavy oils and oils that "thicken" in cold weather don't flow readily between such closely fitting parts. The result is excessive wear from friction, and expensive engine overhauls . . . To minimize friction wear . . . again you need Humble's new Esso Uniflo Motor Oil.

Esso Uniflo has such an amazingly high viscosity index that it gives you the quick-flowing characteristics of an SAE 5W oil at 25° below zero Fahrenheit, and the tough, full body of an SAE 20 oil at 110° Fahrenheit.

Furthermore, the additives in Esso Uniflo are anti-acid—this new type oil cuts acid corrosion as much as 50%.

You Need Only One Grade of Humble Esso Uniflo. You use it year 'round. Esso Uniflo meets all the specifications for SAE viscosity classifications 5W, 10W, 20W and 20. It is a heavy duty, detergent oil, recommended for API service classifications ML (light duty), MM (medium duty), MS (severe duty) and DG (general diesel duty). Its viscosity index is amazingly high.

Premium Value—Premium Price

Humble Esso Uniflo costs something more than most motor oils. But you'll agree that the small extra cost—less than one-tenth of a cent for each mile of driving—is cheap insurance against "4000-mile knock," friction wear, and acid corrosion!

A Word to Owners of Older Automobiles

If you use an oil meeting SAE viscosity classifications up to 20—you will find it profitable to change to Humble's new type Esso Uniflo. It will protect your car against friction wear and acid corrosion; reduce starting drag and extend battery life.

If your engine has just been rebuilt—change to Esso Uniflo. It will prevent the deposits causing "4000-mile knock"; it will protect against wear from friction and corrosion, reduce starting drag and extend battery life.

If you use SAE 30 or SAE 40 oil—Humble continues to recommend Esso Extra Motor Oil No. 3, a high quality, heavy duty, detergent oil with a viscosity index second only to that of Esso Uniflo.

House of Different Ideas Given First Prize Honors From Small Homes Guide

Practical Construction

Here is a design full of "different" ideas by Architect Herman H. York. The house is so practical from both the builder's and the home owner's point of view, that it was almost inevitable for the Small Homes Guide board of judges to award it first prize for excellence of design. Something brand new is the lowered front opening of the breezeway, which ties house and garage together as a unit, yet allows full play to summer breezes. This, combined with attractive treatment at the rear, and the built-in barbecue, (fast becoming a standard item in today's home), makes an outdoor living room of this area. Another good feature is the double bath arranged back-to-back, with one unit private to the master bedroom. Built-in shower is extra large. Kitchen work area bypasses back-to-front traffic perfectly. Convenience of basement stairway to service entrance is a definite plus. Floor area 1,339 sq. ft. Information on blueprints and cost can be obtained by writing to Small Homes Guide, 82 W. Planting Of Fruit Trees Recommended

College Station — The number of fruit trees in Texas is at an all-time low. That word comes from B. G. Hancock, assistant horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and he credits the unfavorable weather of the past few years as the major cause.

Moisture conditions, over most of the state, are now favorable for fruit tree planting and the specialist adds, the future for fruit production looks good from either the home or commercial orchard standpoint.

Selecting the orchard site is of prime importance, says Hancock. He says avoid a site where the soil is infested with nematodes or land that has recently been cleared and old orchards. The land should be prepared before the trees are planted and if terraces are needed, they should be constructed in advance of setting the trees.

Varieties should be chosen that have a cold requirement low enough to be satisfied by the average winter conditions in the area where they are to be grown. In the case of peaches, Hancock recommends that consideration be given to some of the newer varieties.

In Northeast, North Central and Northwest Texas, he says, the Dixired, Dixigem and Ranger have been tested at different experiment stations of the state and show much promise. Dixired ripens six weeks earlier than Elbertas. Its fruit is attractive, medium sized and yellow-fleshed clingstone. Chilling requirement is 1050 hours of temperature 45 degrees or lower. This variety has been thoroughly tested and is a prolific bearer of high-quality fruit.

How Your Navy Fights Fire

This roaring fire in a gasoline-doused paint locker is one of hundreds set yearly and promptly extinguished at the U.S. Navy's Fire Fighting School at Philadelphia. In this case, the Navy instructor quelled the blaze with a Kidde 20-pound Dry Chemical portable extinguisher in nine seconds.

This type of real fire fighting is the most interesting part of the training offered at the school which operates directly under the Bureau of Ships at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

In addition to the full-sized model of a ship's paint locker, the demonstration lot has realistic models of ships' boiler and engine rooms, a ladder assembly, a general compartment, and a 125 x 90' mockup of a carrier flight deck complete with a dummy plane.

Daily these models are doused with oil and gasoline and set afire. The roaring blazes duplicate serious shipboard fires. Trainees watch instructors attack the blazes with the types of extinguishing equipment best suited for use on that kind of fire. Then the fires are rekindled and the students, under supervision, institute the extinguishing procedures. Last year over six hundred civilians attended the school in addition to over 5,000 Navy men.

Presently four courses are offered. The basic course lasts five days while a streamlined two-day course covers much of the same material. A special curriculum is available for Navy flight personnel and a thirty day course trains personnel who will serve as future fire fighting instructors. A fifth course, designed to cope with the special problem of submarine fires, is now being organized.

Fire extinguishing equipment manufacturers have done much to aid the school. For example, Walter Kidde & Company Inc. of Belleville, N. J. supplies a seven-minute sound, color training film, "Not Too Hot To Handle," which is used in all of the courses. In addition, Kidde presented the school with 100 copies of its Fire Brigade Manual which the school employs as a basic textbook.

Behind The Scenes

By REYNOLDS KNIGHT

New York — If protests against the high cost of living were always as sincere as they sound, the new Eisenhower administration would have a major triumph to its credit even before it takes office. The biggest item in the cost of living isn't far behind. Both rest upon farm prices, and farm prices are slipping.

Mid-December cash prices received by farmers were 12 per cent below those of a year earlier —back, in fact, to the levels of July, 1950. Wheat was 23 cents below the government support level, and corn 11 cents. Winston Churchill, arriving in New York for a conference with Eisenhower, gave futures prices a downward shove by saying the danger of war was receding. Cotton dropped $2.25 a bale in a day, and wheat, rye and rubber for future delivery all receded together.

Unfortunately, fall commodity prices generally cause processors to defer purchases and work from inventories, retailers to cut forward commitments, and customers to hold off and see if the first price cuts are followed by others. The present small price fall, when it works down to retail levels, will be welcomed. If more follow, people will feel uneasy all over again.

Tidal Wave Of New Scholastics Coming

Austin—A tidal wave of scholastic boys and girls resulting from the booming birthrate of World War II and since is sweeping through Texas' public schools. Administrators of Texas' state supported colleges and universities are studying with growing concern the problems they will have to face when the full force of this wave strikes their institutions.

Having just recovered from the effects of the veteran enrollment boom which followed the war, the colleges are aware of the problems sudden boosts in enrollment will cause.

A study recently completed by the Council of College Presidents of State Supported Colleges and Universities indicates that the enrollment "bulge" now sweeping through Texas public schools has entered the junior high schools and will strike the colleges full force about 1960. By 1962, the number of white boys and girls graduating from Texas high schools should reach 56,229 as compared with the 39,091 who graduated in 1952. These estimates are based on a projection of the Texas scholastic population by the Research Division of the Texas State Teachers Association, using the Texas birthrate records and present scholastic population as a base.

If the same percentage of our Texas high school graduates continue into college in 1962 as have in recent years, there will be 35,000 boys and girls knocking on the doors of the state's colleges in September 1962. Compared with the 27,132 who enrolled this year as freshmen, this is an increase of approximately 30 per cent. Since the increase in beginning students will build up gradually to this peak, the total enrollments by 1962 will have increases by an even greater percentage.

This estimate of increasing enrollments takes no consideration of two other important factors that may make the enrollment boom even more spectacular.

On the basis of the low number of high school graduates in 1952, the number of entering freshmen in Texas colleges should have dropped. Instead, it increased, indicating that a much higher percentage of the total high school graduating group continued to college. This is a national trend which has been marked in recent years and is expected to continue.

In addition, the 1952 increase in enrollments came at a time when the veteran load from World War II had been practically exhausted and the influx of Korean veterans had barely started. Indications are the Korean veterans alone will swell the college enrollments in Texas by some 18,000 within the next two years.

Kay Francis Szydloski Weds James Franklin Billings In Double Ring Candlelight Ceremony

In a double ring ceremony read by candlelight Friday at 8 p. m. in the Brownfield First Baptist Church, Miss Kay Francis Szydloski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frankia Szydloski, 802 East Tate, became the bride of James Franklin Billings, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Snyder, 522 North Fifth. Rev. Jones W. Weathers, pastor of the church, performed the vows before a background of greenery lighted by white tapers in branched wrought iron candelabra. Candles marked the bridal aisle and were also placed in the windows of the sanctuary.

Pat Ramsey, soloist, sang "Always" and "Thine Alone" as a prelude to the service, accompanied by Mrs. Ramsey, organist, who also played "Clare de Lune" as the candles were lighted and "To A Wild Rose" during the reading of the vows. Traditional wedding marches were used.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original gown of white Duchesse satin and nylon tulle designed with a portrait neckline outlined with embroidery of seed pearls in a Grecian key pattern. The sculptured bodice extended into a deep point at the center front waistline, and had short sleeves with matching embroidery featuring circular wings of tulle. A voluminous skirt of satin with shirred tulle starting at each side in front, was worn over hoops and crinoline to emphasize fullness, and extended into a long train. Her bridal veil of imported silk illusion fell to fingertip length from a satin cap detailed at the left side with wired seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was a large white orchid circled by Stephanotis and showered with white satin streamers tied in love knots.

For something old, the bride chose a choker of pearls belonging to her grandmother, and her wedding gown was something new. A white linen handkerchief was borrowed from Mrs. E. C. Davis, and a garter was worn for something new. A pennant was placed in her slipper for luck.

Mrs. Pat Patterson of Lamesa attended the bride as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Bobby Line, Mrs. Billy Blankenship, Misses Barbara Stice Leah Portwood and Joanne Shelton, all of Brownfield, and Miss Janet Johnson of El Paso. Candlelighters were Mrs. Mack Ross and Mrs. Jody Line.

Attendants' dresses were identically designed of Cotillion blue satin and nylon tulle. Worn with net shoes, the strapless bodices featured pleated net ruffles held by small matching satin roses. The pointed waistlines extended into bouffant skirts of layers of shirred net and taffeta worn over crinoline to emphasize fullness. Their headresses were small veils of Cotillion blue net with pearl trim.

The matron of honor carried an arm bouquet of yellow gladioli circled with Cotillion blue net and tied with Cotillion ribbon. Cascade arrangements of yellow jonquils featuring Cotillion net and

Stricklinly Speaking

By OLD HE

Well, here 'tis Monday AM, and we start our week of slaving in the old salt mines. Being a newspaperman, we have to tell what we know or think we know. Yeah, we are just one of the slaves that Abe Lincoln forgot to set free. Sometimes we think we sorta like this servitude stuff—just owing to how low we feel.

And the passing of our old friend, K. W. Howell is just a fresh reminder that at best, we are here only a little while, and then we pass on and someone takes our place. K. W., as he was called by his friends, was really one of the pioneer builders of our community.

K. W. always had a good word for his many friends. And he could disagree with you, and still be your friend. But time and tide wait for no man. This world is just a transient stage between time, here and eternity.

That man Carter who has charge of the Roman Engineering Co. business here, was in this week. He also had an invite to be down at the inauguration of Gov. Shivers and Lt. Gov. Ramsey, Tuesday. We uns had a little fun over the matter, and jokingly promised to see each other down there Tuesday. Could have "rid" Monday's sandstorm most of the way.

One of the biggest kicks we got out of the Christmas season was a meg picture, showing a group of youngsters, all decked out in choir vestments, singing carols in a church. And one of the 8 or 10 year old boys sported one of the prettiest "shiners" you ever beheld, in his left eye.

But he was lifting the skirts of his raiment carefully to see if his trusty shootin' iron was still in place, in his trouser pocket.

By the way, someone who has some time to think instead of just cuss, has come up with a beautiful idea that the excess profit tax is a tax on progress and initiative. The man or woman who works hard and uses economy in their domestic affairs, in order that they may retire, when their footsteps get slow, and a tired feeling come quickly, are the ones the excess profit tax hits. It is they who have to divvy up to Uncle Santa Claus, so the trifling boogers, who never exerted themselves in their whole lives, may live in the comparative ease they have always enjoyed.

And of course these taxpaying experts know full well that the cost of this EPT will be placed right back on goods they sell, and the consumer pays the tax in the final analysis.

The past several weeks has demonstrated in a pretty precise way that the old "dust bowl" of the 1930ties is trying to make a comeback. Many of the days the wind really got on a rampage, and it doesn't seem to take much steam in the wind to raise a cloud of dust. We had very little rain in September, none in October, just a few light showers in November, a shower in December, and none to the present in January.

We had hopes of rain in December, or snow, but really January is never a very wet month, the exception being some three years ago, when we had ice, snow, sleet and rain throughout the month with a good season. Our best bet now is February, until next April or May. And we had our heart set on there being a change this year, to a start on a wet cycle.

For a long time we had requests from advertisers to put their ad on the right hand page. We had never satisfactorily fathomed just why, as we always look at both sides, the left first, if there is anything interesting, then over on the right hand page. Recently, according to CAPS and lower case, home organ publication of Jagars-Chiles-Stovall, Inc., Dallas advertising firm, a kind of Gallop poll has been made among readers, and a big majority prefer the left hand

Hello Ike and Mamie, and good-bye Harry and Bess. We hope Ike and Mamie like their new quarters there on Pennsylvuckie Ave. And we bet Bess Truman is glad to get back to Missouri. She never was cut out to be the society dowager that is usually expected of the White House lady. She rather is just the good housewife variety of womanhood, and the less frill and fancies and hallabaloo, the better it suits Bess. She will settle down with old friends, with perhaps a bridge party occasionally.

As for Harry, he will soon be lined up with his old cronies of what is left of the Pendergrass machine, and if they can just get the Kansas City Star suppressed and the editors and owners in jail, they'll have a holiday of the matter. But that doggone Star tells too much about their rotten politics and shady elections.

But if the Star can be suppressed, maybe Harry can carry the district for Congressman and get back to Washington. In the meantime, not only Independence, Mo., but Washington are too hickey for daughter, Margurete. She is a Gothamite, better known as NYC.

The flu bug has been nibbling on quite a few here in our burg, but so far not nothing like some places—(everybody wood up)—we have heard of. The schools have not even threatened to close here, but there are quite a few absentees. But it is not too late, although we hope so.

By the way how do you spell the shortened "influenza?" We have seen it spelled both "flu" and "flue." To say the least we hate to have to spell it or talk about it spelled either way. Some of those bugs made us the sickest we have ever been in our whole life back in January, 1919. Part of the time we didn't even know who we were, or where we was, and cared less.

Talking about disease, CARE

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

We are branching out a bit — Susie and myself — building a new abode, a domicile you might say. Domicile — wanting to show off, as I sometimes lean toward, according to some people, not excluding Susie — means "a place where a person lives permanent versus a place where you only remain for a time." A fixed residence for short. End of "literary" show-off.

I am findin' out that instead of making our labor laws lean more toward the Labor Temple, they should lean the vice versa way. A nice gentleman — an older man — has the shingling job, he works alone, on his own hook. He thought he was on his own hook — he isn't. Having some free time on a holiday he thought he would put on a shingle or two — he lives with a son and daughter-in-law, a not too congenial arrangement sometimes. He chose to be busy elsewhere—and here is what happened. Some duck saw the old gentleman on the roof with a mouth full of shingle nails. This duck reported the old gentleman on the roof with a mouth full of shingle nails. This duck reported the old gentleman to the "Temple" authorities for some kind of infraction — the Temple slapped a 100 buck fine on this man for having his mouth full of shingle nails on a holiday.

A free country this is, we say. Taint so — not for this nice old carpenter gentleman. On Nov. 4th everybody — almost everybody — voted for a change. But already, I think I detect a tapering off — a little trend toward a backsliding. Mr. Ike has gotta call in his boys and tell 'em.

Yours with the low-down,
JO SERRA.

BEHIND THE WALLS
TEXAS STATE HOSPITALS

NOTE: This is one of a series of articles on our State Hospital System, prepared under the supervision of Dr. George W. Jackson, Medical Director of the Board for Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools, and sponsored by the Hogg Foundation for Mental Hygiene, University of Texas.

Cynthia S. cried when she was moved from Ward G to Ward B. She cried with joy and hope and remembrance of things good.

She walked around the tiny cubicle which housed her bed and table, ran her fingers over the smoothness of the sheets and polished grain of the wood. Hastily she pulled open the single drawer of the bedside table and laid down a letter, a lipstick, a pocket-sized magazine and a candy bar. As she heard someone coming, she quickly shut the drawer and stood against it, her back stiff.

A smiling woman in a white uniform came over to Cynthia and laid a gentle hand on her shoulder. "No one is going to get in your drawer, Cynthia," she said softly. "It's yours."

Cynthia crumpled against the foot of the bed and let the tears flow out. They seemed to clean away the hate and fear which had been steady companions and to leave her weak and free of anger.

The attendant moved on, but Cynthia stayed where she was, in the small corner of her own, remembering for the first time in months the gentleness of home.

Once there had been a room of her own, a room all pillows and flowered chintz and honey-colored wood. There had been the ivory radio, the little desk and book case full of books.

There had been Mother and Dad; there had been parties and fun — and there had been Mark! Mark! Mark! Cynthia sat up quickly, brushing the straight brown hair away from her eyes. Had it all started with Mark, or had it begun long before? The memory of his curly, blond hair and his laughing mouth had the power to warm her like wine.

She was away from the hospital, back in the moonlight in Mark's blue car, warm with his love, his caresses, his promises...

Promises! Cynthia sat up stiffly. The promises had been as false as everything else in life. For Mark had gone away, and everyone had started talking about her. People had laughed. Even her mother had tried to poison her. Cynthia's dark eyes grew troubled as she recalled the glass of milk Mom had brought her, the one with poison in it. That was when she locked herself in her room, stopped eating, stopped talking to anyone.

Slowly Cynthia looked around the ward, gazed at her white hands trembling on her lap. She wasn't sure any more. Wasn't sure at all that people had been against her. Maybe she had simply been against herself. She pressed her fingers across her forehead. Vaguely she recalled the first days in the hospital, the bare ward, the single bed in the big room with dozens of other beds. The electrocoma which tore at her body and left her weak and confused.

Now she rose, looked carefully at this new ward. The attendant who had helped her move said she was getting better. Cynthia pulled open the drawer to the bedside table. Her things were still here, and over in the corner of the room she could see her gray chambray dress hanging neat and pressed.

Suddenly Cynthia grabbed up the lipstick and comb and hurried over to the corner of the room where the wash stand and mirror were. The face that looked back at her could not be hers. The hair which she once had brushed and waved, hung limply, and her dress was soiled and torn.

Cynthia ripped off the dress and began to wash vigorously. She took the chambray off the hanger, combed her hair, and with an unsteady hand, shaped her lips with the lipstick. Then she stepped back, gave a tentative smile to the girl in the mirror. Now that everything looked so nice, she would try to keep it that way. And one day she would be well enough to go back to the slate gray house and Mom and Pop.

Bedside tables, lipsticks and fresh dresses are not listed among the medical treatments for mental patients. But they are an important ingredient in recovery.

Falling plaster, crowded rooms, sagging beds, poorly arranged wards — these things hinder progress.

Knowing this, the Board for Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools has listed a modern construction and renovation program as Item 5 in the 14 points.

Buildings have been examined and rules for the preparation and approval of plans for new buildings have been established. A number of projects have been completed.

BUT future planning calls for replacing old and outmoded buildings, for constructing new treatment and receiving units, for designing future construction to meet specific medical needs.

Future plans, if carried out, will mean quicker recoveries, less money spent per patients.

Renovation is an important part of the hospital program.

Ask Cynthia.

She knows!

CHRYSLER CAPTURES SHARE OF MARKET

Chrysler Division will capture its greatest share of the automobile market in its history in 1953, predicts J. A. O'Malley, vice president and general sales manager.

"The domestic outlook for 1953 is the brightest in years, even though the post war 'boom' days of easy selling are gone," O'Malley said.

"Business won't come knocking at the dealer's door in 1953, but it will be very good for those who look for it at the prospect's door. The people who sell hard will, as in days gone by, reap the rewards of big sales."

Fair Sized Brawl On West Side Square

It got pretty enough for us to venture out one day last week, and we "snuck" off up Sixth to the west side of the square. Just before we reached the Joganon office we noted that there was some commotion out in front of his place, and quite some crowd had gathered.

No one seemed to understand the mixup too well, but the few flicks with fists passed: was between a long, tall American-Texan and a rather short but heavy-set Mexican-Texan. And it seems one of them was backing out of his parking place, and the other ran into his car.

Anyway, what amused us was Lee Lyon out among them trying his hand as peacemaker. Now Lee is like the Old He, not too steady on his hindpans, but he was doing a good job. Finally Chief Houston Hamilton led the two off to the city hall and a "fight fine."

CRESCENT HILL CHURCH OF CHRIST

T. J. Finley, Evangelist

The men's training class met for its second time January 13, at 7 p.m. Prayer was the discussion for the hour and practical experience was gained by having two young men lead opening and closing prayer. Plans for the future consist of learning to read scriptures, further studies in prayer, how to teach the scriptures, and many other interesting and profitable studies. Twenty-two were present for this meeting and more are expected next time.

Last Wednesday the ladies' Bible class completed their study over the book of Romans. They are to begin immediately in I Corinthians. This class has been a successful one and already in the last year they have covered the Gospels Acts and Romans. The discussion always prove interesting and helpful to those who attend. Not only do they learn the principles of Christianity but they have an opportunity to make practical use of their knowledge.

The Annual Abilene Christian College Bible Lectureship is scheduled to get underway in February. Some six thousand people are expected to be in attendance.

It is at this lectureship that men from the Church everywhere get together for study and fellowship. Men are represented from almost every nation of the world and the progress of the church is thereby indicated. Several from the church in Brownfield plan to make the trip.

FLU BUG HAS STRUCK THE HERALD FORCE

In the first place, this seems to be just one of those off weeks for the Herald, as advertising has been very light. Then the news matter has not been too hot, but some better than other times. All this has been augmented somewhat by the bite of the flu bugs that always slow up any business if they get in the right lick at the right time.

For instance, Mrs. Ethel (Jones) Howze, of the local theatre chain, stated this week, that flu had made quite some inroads on their personnel. She herself was a victim for near two weeks, she stated.

Sen. Johnson Writes Us What He "Writ" HST

The Herald had a press communication from Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, this week, enclosing a copy of a letter he wrote President Truman, begging that the latter do not, by executive order, give the stolen tidelands to the navy. These tidelands, as most readers know, and a lot care — some don't seem to mind — belong to the several states which they border. Sen. Johnson was urging HST not to take the advice of some of his advisors on this question.

In the first place, the Senator pointed out that the act would be meaningless, and many would take it as spite, and cause a burden of division in the USA when unity was needed. And he also hoped Truman would not stoop to this act the last seven days of his seven years administration. But he did, and caused a lot of good people in these United States, and especially in Texas, California and Louisiana to think less of Truman than they thought already.

But we could hardly help getting a chuckle out of the letter, knowing as we did that Mr. Johnson had considered the little man from Moo to be the cat's ankle. During the campaign last fall, Johnson, along with little Sammy Rayburn, howled, wept and cavorted all over Texas, telling the people what a great man Truman was, and what he'd done for the nation. And that Stevenson would be just the SAME.

But right about the last few days of Truman's administration, even Johnson seems to realize what a little man Harry Truman was.
