

THAT'S WHY THEY DIED OUT

An old miner, driving an efficiency expert through the snow and cold, spread a buffalo robe over their knees.

"You ought to turn the hair inside," said the efficiency expert. "Don't you know it's a great deal warmer to have the hair next to your body?"

The old man obeyed, and tried to suppress a chuckle.

"What are you laughing about?" asked the expert.

"I was thinking of the poor buffalo," said the miner. "What a fool he was all his life not to

'Private Gas Well' Does Variety of Farm Jobs

Farm Uses of LP-Gas:

- 1. Livestock space heater
- 2. Milk can sterilizing
- 3. Poultry scalding and waxing
- 4. Pig brooder
- 5. Chick brooder
- 6. Stationary engine
- 7. Weed burner and tractor
- 8. Stock water tank heater
- 9. Flame-cutting torch
- 10. Smudge pots

Although most farms are located beyond city gas mains, they can now have their own "backyard gas well" to supply fuel for a wide variety of important jobs. Liquefied petroleum gas is delivered to the central supply system. Stored as a liquid, the fuel changes to its gaseous state when used. Large amounts of LP-Gas (butane, propane, bottled or tank gas) can be stocked because one volume of liquid expands to about 270 volumes of gas. The fuel is also used by millions of farm families to operate modern household appliances, including automatic ranges, water heaters, clothes dryers, incinerators, refrigerators and heating plants.

Stricklinly Speaking

By OLD HE

Well, dog our britches buttons! Boy, ain't we been fooled all these years. Since way back in the middle forties, when the Rotary Club started the Harvest Festival in the fall, we thought they were the sponsors. In the years they had collected a sight of money. They had sent queens to Mexico City, Hollywood and various other places.

They have expended thousands of dollars to help scout work; build scout huts, and the little house for the girl scouts. They had this, that and sundry other things for the benefit of the town and community. They had, we thought, brought in some of the States' best speakers—they had put on a show annually that thousands came to see from all over west Texas. All this time, we thought they were the sponsors of the Harvest Festival.

They even ran a bus here in town to pick up the small fry and carry them to school.

But in Saturday's Lubbock Avalanche, we found they were not. That a private business and its manager was sponsor of Harvest Festival. What got the matter with you "wheel fellers," anyway? For some six long years, we had been betting on you to turn a better one each year. Now the Harvest Festival, we learn, has a new sponsor. How come?

Well, we believe we will have the Herald to sponsor all the oil business in Terry and Yoakum from this on. While telling one, why not a big one?

We had a bit to say about the death of Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls last week. Ran across a Brownfield School Bulletin for the term of 1911-12 this week, the Herald printed in the summer of 1911. T. F. Hunter, B. Lit., Ph. B., was the principal, 9th and 10th grades. We didn't have freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors in them days.

W. G. Hardin, A. B., taught the 7th and 8th grades; Miss Clara Randal, now Mrs. J. B. Echert, taught the 4th, 5th and 6th grades, and Miss Dean Lowe taught the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd grades. While not paid by the school, Mrs. Elmer Spurgeon taught music, and Miss Ponder Hutcheson taught elocution, we believe that is now known as public speaking.

Unless the then Miss Lowe is still living, Mrs. Echert is the only survivor of that faculty. H. T. Brooks was board president, the late J. F. Winston, was secretary and the late J. C. Green, Treasurer.

So far as we are concerned, we nominate last week's sandstorms as the grandchamp of all times, both as to length, and the amount of sand moved. We have lived through 44 of them (sandstorm seasons out here) and will have to hand it to the five first days of last week. Oh, we have seen as hard wind or maybe more mph for a day or so before last week. But never did one last so long.

March was just a gamboling lamb beside this one. It ripped and it snorted, and it pawed and fumed, buckled and bounced from Monday through Friday. A lady from over at Plains told us that even the irrigation ditches would have to be redug.

Another farmer informed us that it appeared to hurt the tight land worse than the sandy land, which is quite unusual. He said much of the tight land was blown off to the hard ground, but the sandland was still there, and with the addition of the middles full from somewhere else.

We hope the next move will be a real good old rain.

Talking about helping the needy, we believe that our dear old Uncle Samuel and his children are doing pretty well by the needy and distressed far and near. What with the open hand of the old gentleman himself, via the federal treasury, we have the Red Cross, USO, Salvation Army, CARE and

BUILD THIS MACHINERY SHED OR DOUBLE GARAGE FOR ONLY $547

Here's the answer for the farmer who wants a small to medium-sized machinery or utility building. Or for the city-dweller who needs a new low-cost garage.

He needs to provide adequate protection for his machinery or automobile. But he wants to hold the cost low, without sacrificing quality.

The materials for this 24x40-foot shed with a sliding door at each end cost only $547.38 in northern Illinois. If you can buy lumber cheaper where you live, you can probably build the same shed for even less money. You can vary the size to suit your individual requirements. A complete plan and bill of materials can be obtained free of charge from the Insulating Siding Association, 530 Echo Lane, Glenview, Illinois.

perhaps others that do not come to mind just now.

And while on the matter, will just state that there are a few people in this burg who persist in spreading false rumors about this old paper. We haven't quite figured what good it will do them, or what harm. The latest is, "better not take your picture to the Herald—they charge for it." We admit that was true before we installed our own picture making apparatus, but now any picture we take, we make it free. When we had to send pictures to Lubbock to get the "cuts" made, we usually charged just what they charged us, paying postage on the picture and for the return of the cut and picture. We just charged what we had to pay out of our own pocket, what the cut cost us.

Don't misunderstand. The pictures still cost something, even though we make them ourselves, but nothing like as much as when we hired the other engraving plan to do the work. But next time a guy tells you the Herald will charge for making and running your picture—if we agree to do so—you tell the guy right off what we said he was. We dislike to always be correcting some statement some guy makes to just be nasty.

That old time cowboy from the hill country, turned columnist and a cityite, Claude Callan, puts us to wondering sometimes with his old fashioned way of weighing up the average family. For instance, recently he stated: "When your grandpa was a boy, he saved money to buy what he wanted, and after he married the same rule was followed. Now you pay a dollar down and a dollar occasionally. Sometimes nothing down."

The present generation is surely improving matters. They pay one dollar down and just hope they will have the next one when the monthly or weekly payment comes due.

As stated elsewhere, we haven't been too finicky about who we help, but so far as we know have steered pretty clear of countries that are known to be absolutely iron curtain varieties. Some help has been rendered a border line country, Yugoslavia, since their severe drought has been on, perhaps permanently wearing it away from the Russian bloc.

Fine, say you—absolutely, says we. But we sometimes wonder what in heck would happen to us if everything should blow up in our faces sometimes, all over the nation. Who'd help us? Echo, "Who'd?"

And the cartoon that showed one catty lady visiting another catty lady got a grin out of us. The visiting "cat" stated that her little son, who was along, was learning to write, and asked the lad to

J. S. Corning, 80, Longtime Resident, Dies After Illness

Gl's Forbidden To Hitch-Hike On Highways

Austin—There'll be no more hitch-hiking by Gl's, as the result of a new safety drive by the department of defense, the Texas division of the American Automobile Association has been advised.

In one of its latest moves to reduce the traffic toll involving military personnel, the army, navy and air force have issued policy directives banning military personnel from thumbing rides on public highways.

The ban does not apply to military personnel awaiting free rides at designated "pick up" stations, nor does it prevent them from accepting rides offered voluntarily by civilians, but it does statistics, but it was pointed out put a stop to out-and-out hitch-hiking.

The defense department gave notice that traffic toll involving military personnel was sufficiently grave to bring on concerted action by the services in an effort to improve the situation.

Among other measures, passes now issued to soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines read from "noon to noon" instead of "midnight to midnight." At some posts, weekend or three-day passes will not be issued unless the serviceman shows a bus, train or plane ticket to his destination.

write his name in the dust on the guest lady's table.

That instance could be true back in the land of swamp rabbits and minks, but any day last week, the lad could have written his name on any dame's table, dresser, radio, TV or what have you in Terry. He could also have written the names of all the guests at an affair, along with the menu that was served, and then had plenty room for a cartoon or two.

South Plains Musical Association Names More Officers; Adopts Constitution, By-Laws

Members of the newly organized South Plains Musical Association approved constitution and by-laws, named additional officers and set the price for the group's first concert May 19 in a membership meeting in Levelland last week.

The new officers named include Mrs. W. R. Simon, vice president in charge of finance; Mrs. John Dupre, vice president in charge of membership; and Victor King, Brownfield Clubhouse.

New officers for the coming year will be installed.

They include:

A patron—one who contributes $50 or more toward sustaining the performance tickets.

Sponsors—those who shall carry out the same practice as patrons, except to the extent of $25.

Contributing members—any person holding a ticket to the first performance of a major organization or organization sponsored by the association.

Association President Howard Vaughan has explained that the contributing membership was established to eliminate objections to the types of memberships held in the now disbanded Levelland Mutual Concert Association.

Any person may purchase a ticket to any given performance by either the association's South Plains Chorale or South Plains Symphonette.

Victor King, pro-tem conductor of the symphonette, explained that the first concert of the group would be to show area residents that a first rate orchestra can be produced from local talent. An excellent soloist will appear with the group, he said, but "name" artists will not be secured until the fall concert season, which begins about Sept. 1.

It was emphasized that no concerted effort to secure sponsor and patron memberships would be made. The nature of the organization is such that it is designed to include every resident of the area who appreciates good music, it was said.

AUSTIN REPORT

By Representative J. O. Gillham (Delayed)

By REP. J. O. GILLHAM

This has been a busy week in the legislature. The week started with the appropriations committee reporting out a revised version of the Aiken senate bill, No. 24. This committee version called for $300.00 raise for the teachers and included superintendents, whom the senate left out. The committee also amended the Aiken bill to provide for a revision of the economic index and also set up once and for all the percent of local and state participation.

I supported the house committee amendments, and I can tell you my reason for doing so. I had worked day and night for several days trying to sell some of the more conservative members of the house on the $300.00 compromise. I finally got them to agree to go along with the $300 idea; and they agreed that they would vote a tax bill to cover this amount, but they would not go along on a tax bill large enough to pay the $600 raise to teachers. It is a lot easier to vote a 40 million dollar tax bill than an 80 million dollar tax bill. I have taken the position all along that what the teachers wanted was some real money in their pockets, and not just an empty gesture on the part of the legislature by simply voting for a $600 raise and then come out at the end with no provision made to get the money to pay the raise. I am very fearful that this very thing is going to happen: The "no compromise" attitude of the Texas Teachers Association has, in my opinion, done great harm to the cause of the teachers. I have talked to many in the house since the vote was taken last Thursday, and some of them say positively they will not vote for any 80 million dollar tax bill.

I made a speech in the house urging the house to accept the $300 amendment, because I knew we could pass a tax bill to cover that amount and our teachers would receive some real help, whereas I doubt whether or not we can pass a tax bill sufficiently large to cover the $600 raise. Some may criticize my stand on this matter, but I think subsequent events may prove that I was trying to really do something concrete for our teachers, and not simply vote for the $600 with the idea that I was going to be popular right now with the teachers. I feel sure that some of our teachers are mad at me and think that I am letting them down, but I happen to believe in being honest. I have said several times already that I thought it was dishonest to vote for any kind of pay raise for our teachers without providing the money with which to pay the raise. I have not changed my opinion. I voted for the $600 raise against my better judgment, but since a majority of the legislature has voted for it, I am going to insist that the legislature stay in session long enough to raise the money to pay the $600 to our teachers. And I shall work as hard as anyone to see that this is done if at all possible, but I know it is going to be a hard old row to hoe.

As I have told you before, I am the co-author of a tax bill which will raise the money to actually pay the raise for our teachers and other important items needing our attention. I have been honest with the teachers of Texas about the whole matter, and I cannot say that about some of the sponsors of the $600 bill, who have taken the uncompromising attitude that the legislature should pass the bill and then just take a chance on there being money to actually pay it.

One fellow said to me Thursday night, after we had passed the bill, "Oh, well, I have voted for the $600 and the teachers think I have done them a favor and am their friend. They will blame someone else if they don't ever get their money, so I am not going to worry about it."

Now, my friends, I think this sort of attitude is nothing but dishonesty of the worst sort, and I think anyone who takes that attitude is nothing more than a cheap politician, and is the worst enemy the teachers or any other group have representing them in Austin. Though it is my candid opinion that our teachers would have been better off to have accepted the $300 and have the assurance of getting it, yet I am going to dedicate myself to the task of raising sufficient funds to make the $600 a reality.

I am convinced that to leave them out on the limb without providing for the payment of the $600 promised would also be an act of dishonesty, and I am dedicating my best efforts to the task of providing the money to pay the bill. If the legislature goes home without providing the money to pay whatever raise they authorize, I am going to publicly apologize to the teachers of Texas on behalf of the Texas legislature. Then, if this happens, I think Mr. Tennyson and the other leaders of the Texas Teachers' Association who have taken such an adamant and uncompromising position, should also apologize to the teachers of Texas. I hope we can get the money for the $600, but I know we could have gotten it for the $300 raise. I have pursued the course all along which I think was wise, and I have no regrets or apologies to make.

Some of our teachers have criticized me for my actions, but I think subsequent events will prove that I have been absolutely right on this matter. I have very grave fears that we are going to have serious trouble passing such a large tax bill, for there are a lot of people in Texas and a lot of men in the legislature who don't think we ought to raise taxes any at all, but many of them would go along on a small tax bill who would not go along on a big one. I promise you that I will continue to work to make the $600 raise for the teachers a reality instead of an empty promise.

The house finally passed last week the Carr-Gillham small claims court bill, and we anticipate that we will have no trouble in getting the bill through the senate as it is a much needed bill. It will enable our merchants who have accounts under $50 to go into

More Blood Donors Needed For Drive For Friday Noon

That man is here again! Remember the man who kept the GIs from getting home during the war when he held precious plane, train or bus seats and let them ride empty because he didn't show up? He's still with us. Today bloodmobiles are riding with empty bottles—empty because he signed up and failed to show up. Today that man is endangering lives.

With the quantities of blood needed now, every bloodmobile and center must take the maximum EVERY DAY, or blood may not be there when you or a fighting man needs it. If you have signed up, we have counted you in. If you don't show, your bottle rides back empty. An empty bottle might mean a lost life.

So, when you sign up, show up! Don't be a no show. The bloodmobile will be here Monday, May 11, from 1 until 7 p. m.

Blood program chairman William C. Brown has reported that the number of individuals who have signed up to give blood is discouragingly low. Less than a third of the total persons needed have pledged to contribute blood. Donor blanks may be obtained from any Red Cross office, American Legion worker, at the Pemberton Agency or from Will Brown at the post office.

justice court and get judgement without the necessity of hiring an attorney and paying an unreasonable court cost. I think it will do a lot to discourage the dead-beats who have the habit of getting credit of small amounts and then making no effort to pay the account if they know the account is too small for the merchant to afford to employ an attorney and pay relatively large court costs. I think it will be a great help to our merchants and will discourage those who have the habit of beating every merchant in town.

I have no idea when the legislature will adjourn for the session. I had hopes that we might get away by the end of the constitutional 120 days, which is May 15, but with the task of passing a big tax bill and the many other matters before us, I see no prospect of adjourning on that date.

Our pay will be cut to $5 per day after May 15, which may influence some of the boys to want to hurry through. I am anxious to get home, of course, but I want to stay here long enough to do a good job, and I don't want to leave a lot of unfinished business.

I have been getting a few letters of encouragement all along and these are certainly appreciated. It is always true, however, that a legislator gets more of the critical kind, not because there are more people who don't like the way he is doing, but because the ones who think he is doing all right just don't tell him about it. I am getting lonesome to hear from my friends. Will write you again next week.

What Made You Give Blood?

Capt. Mary M. Younger, Army Nurse Corps, Asks Four Americans at a Cleveland, Ohio, Blood Center...

"I'm stationed at an Army Hospital—far from any front-line fighting. But here the battle for life still goes on. "Helping these men, watching them, I've come to understand why the need for blood is always urgent. Day after day, I've seen the blood you donate restore health to the shattered, life to the lifeless. "After a while you think—'Who are these people that make this miracle possible? Why do they give blood?' I came here to find out... and right away I sensed an easy-going, relaxed warmth about the people. Something about this painless act of giving blood seems to draw people closer together... make them proud and humble at the same time about telling you why they were rolling up their sleeves... and giving blood..."

"It Might Have Been My Kid"

LEO CANAVAN, salesman, told Capt. Younger: "I saw her dash out in front of this car. She was in blue jeans—and with the sun on her hair—she might have been my kid. At the hospital it took 3 pints of blood to save her. I only have to remember the sound of those screaming tires to know why I'm here..."

"Supposing The Planes Are Theirs!"

JOHN SHARKEY, Civil Defense worker, spoke up: "I'm watching the skies one night and I hear the jets way off in the distance. Supposing the planes are theirs? Then what? No enemy is going to wait until we have enough blood reserves for the people wounded in that first attack. We've got to be doing it now."

"I Missed The Boston Fire!"

EDWARD GRAY, advertising artist, said: "My wife and I tried to get into the Coconut Grove the night of that terrible fire in 1942. We were turned away. No room. Well—I think now—there's no room, either, for losing American lives needlessly in disasters like that because we don't have enough blood reserves!"

"A Privilege And A Pleasure!"

JOHN LYDEN, business executive, smiled when asked the question. "Haven't got a very exciting reason, like these others. I think a person living in this country has some obligations. Like helping to run his community, if he can. Or, like voting regularly or giving blood. It's a privilege—and a pleasure."

THE LOST VIRUS

by Science Features

A corrugated paper box found more than 30 years after it was lost in a University of Michigan laboratory has yielded what may be an important clue in solving the riddle of the virus. For the virus, smallest of all known disease organisms, is one of the largest unsolved problems of science. Viruses cause such diseases as infantile paralysis and influenza.

The story begins 44 years ago—in 1909. Dr. Frederick G. Novy, Michigan's famed bacteriologist, was conducting experiments with a powerful virus fatal to rats. The virus, kept constantly supplied with the living tissue believed necessary for its existence, was studied for ten years. In 1919 the test tubes containing the virus were lost.

Thirty-two years passed. Then, in 1951, workers cleaning the laboratory found a corrugated paper box hidden in one corner—and inside with the lost test tubes. Meanwhile, scientists had greatly added to their knowledge about viruses through use of the electron microscope and other new devices. They believed that the rat virus so long neglected would be dead.

Instead, it was deadly. When the test tubes and their brown deposits were ground up and injected into healthy rats, 75 per cent of the experimental animals died within three to eleven days. Dr. Novy, who retired in 1935, came out of retirement to prepare a scientific report on the lost—but still very much alive—virus.

As a result of this discovery, scientists are investigating the possibility that other viruses, perhaps those which cause human disease, may be capable of long periods of survival without a living "host" on which to feed.

Science Says:

Fried Foods Easy to Digest

Properly fried foods are easy to digest. This has been proved in findings in leading research laboratories throughout the country, exploding the fallacy that fried foods are hard to digest. Scientists studying the problem now state that most fats are digestible and quick mix shortenings containing lard head the list for ease of digestibility.

Natural meat fats, such as lard and butter, are the most easily digested fats. Vegetable oil shortenings rank behind these lard shortenings in digestibility because of the hydrogenation of the oils necessary in the processing. This hydrogenation reduces digestibility because it tends to destroy the essential fatty acids, which are vitamin-like in their action in the body.

Experimental work has shown that potatoes French fried or pan fried in meat fats, such as lard or a lard shortening, are more digestible than the same variety of potatoes which are cooked or boiled in water. The digestibility of the boiled potatoes increased with the addition of the lard shortening.

Extra advantage of a lard shortening is its greater nutritive value because it contains fatty acids essential to skin health.

Martha Logan, home economist for Swift & Company, reports the secret of properly French fried foods is constant temperature of the fat during cooking. Overheat the fat for pan frying or French frying and the digestibility may be impaired. A deep fat thermometer to indicate when the fat reaches the proper frying temperature is important. In frying several pans of food, make certain the fat returns to the proper temperature before adding the next food to be fried. After frying, cool the fat, strain to remove all food particles and refrigerate.

New Uniforms Going Up For Air Force

Robins AFB, Ga.—Several thousand air force reserve officers will be entitled to new uniform clothing allowances ranging from $50 to $100, Capt. Harold R. Mulkey, commander of the local V.A.R.T., 9927th Squadron, of the air force reserve, announced today.

The new allowances are divided into three categories:

1. Active duty allowances—not to exceed $100 to officers entering on active duty or active duty for training for more than 90 days (on or after June 25, 1950), when two years elapse between such periods of active duty.

This allowance is not payable if the officer serves on active duty as an officer in a regular component of the armed forces within the previous two-year period. Not will the officer receive this $100 allowance if he received an initial uniform allowance of more than $200 during his current tour of duty.

2. Maintenance allowance—not to exceed $50 for each year of satisfactory service in a reserve component which include 28 days of active duty or active duty for training.

Extended periods of active duty for 90 days or more cannot be computed toward the four years of eligibility. The four-year period may have started prior to July 9, 1952, but must be completed after that date.

3. Separated officer (no military status)—payments of active duty or maintenance allowance may be made to those individuals in this category provided they meet the above requirements, which they accrued prior to separation from the air force.

All claims for allowances by interested reserve officers may be made to the personnel officer of the unit to which assigned or to 14th Air Force if not assigned to any reserve unit.

G. I. QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—I wrote a letter to VA and stated that I wanted to apply for disability compensation payments. Is that letter all I'll need in the way of an application?

A—No. VA will send you a formal application, which you must fill out and return. If you send it back to VA within a year from the time you receive it, VA will consider as the effective date of your application the date that it received your original letter.

Q—As a disabled veteran, I received an automobile, under VA's program of paying up to $1,600 of the cost. Will VA also pay for any repairs that I might need?

A—No. Under the law, no payment may be made for repairs, maintenance or replacement of your automobile.

Q—I'm taking on-the-job training under the Korean GI bill. What does VA consider as full-time training?

A—Full-time training for job trainees consists of the number of hours which make up the standard work week of your establishment. The minimum, however, is 36 hours a week, except in cases where bona fide collective bargaining between employers and employees has established a standard work week of fewer hours.

Q—I'm going to school under the Korean GI bill, and my wife just had a baby. What must I do in order to get on increased education allowance from VA?

A—You must apply for the increase within 45 days, the effective date of the increased allowance will be the date of birth of your child. Otherwise, the effective date will be the date VA receives your application. In either case, you must submit satisfactory evidence of the birth of the child within a year of the time you asked for the increased allowance.

Clothing specialists for the Texas agricultural extension service says the sizes of women's clothes should soon be on an improved and scientific basis, for industry and government research have joined in the effort to solve the sizing problem. The study has now reached a stage at which a proposed commercial standard is ready for the trade's comments.

Research was started several years ago and is based on scientific measurements of American women by the bureau of human nutrition and home economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The bureau measured 16,000 women in seven states and the District of Columbia and included weight and dimensions used in clothing construction, aside from hats, gloves, and shoes. The statistical analysis showed for the first time the body sizes and proportions that are predominant among the women of the United States.

In 1949, the statistical engineering laboratory of the national bureau of standards in cooperation with the bureau, began analysis of the data to get a series of tables suited to the apparel industry's use. This work was done at the request of the Mail Order Association of America, and was coordinated by the commodity standards division in the U. S. Department of Commerce, which has the assignment of assisting industry to develop voluntary quality standards. The department is now circulating the facts about the new sizing system to the trade for their comments.

The proposed standard retains present trade use of such classes as misses, women's, junior, half sizes (shorter women). But within these classes it provides for a range of sizes, for the tall, recurlers, and shorts of varying hip and bust dimensions. Lacking the scientific data, industry has relied on traditional information regarding proportions, with much variation in sizes as a result. To buy clothes sized by the proposed system, a woman would need to know only a few of her own measurements such as height, bust, hip, and waist.

PATTERN FOR PUBLIC SERVICE

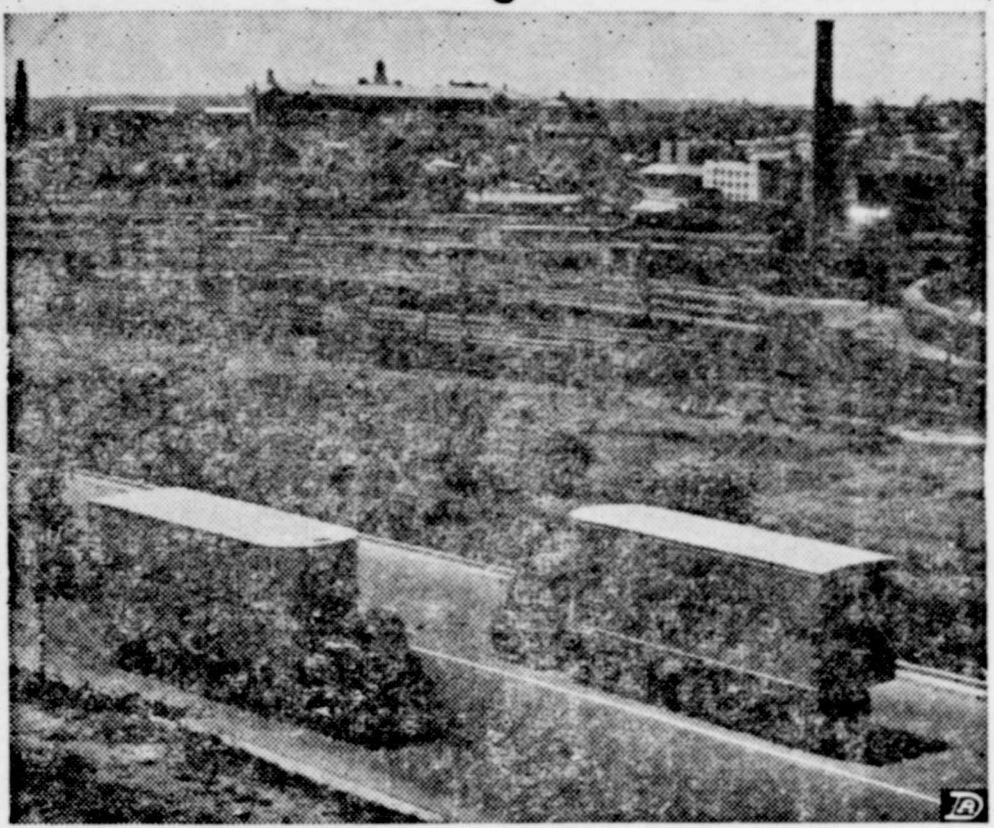

Washington—Twenty years ago the Roosevelt administration recruited an intellectual "brain trust" from among college professors of the nation. Today the Eisenhower administration recruits its "team" largely from among the nation's top-flight business men. Obviously there will be fewer governmental theories incubated and more "elbow grease" practically employed. This is in order, because American government is now America's biggest business. Its budget is six times the combined budgets of U. S. Steel, the Du Pont Company, General Motors and International Harvester.

Concrete results of the new policies and practices now being established throughout the federal government will not, however, be seen and felt by John Q. Public for a little while. As I've been making the rounds in Washington, people, with the objective of spotlighting their thinking and planning, I have found no one who has completed his executive organization. All have had to spend more of their time up to now getting acquainted with their operations and selecting their first and second level administrative personnel.

Old Commitments Hurt

Good management, if achieved, won't be fully reflected in the 1953-54 Eisenhower budget, because the new departmental heads have too many old commitments made by the preceding administration to make good, and not enough time for a thorough study. The 1954-55 budget should begin to show the pattern of business management in government, and in the succeeding two years the full efficiency and economy heralded by the new administration may be properly expected by the American taxpayers. Truck Use At New High . . . Taxes Are Too

DETROIT—Federal excise tax payments on new motor trucks are heading for an all-time high in 1953, according to the Automobile Manufacturers Association.

First quarter reports, the AMA stated, show that truck excise taxes are being collected at an annual rate of approximately $200 million. This is more than $12 million above the record total reached in 1952 and a 3,000% increase since 1935.

Total special truck levies in 1952 reached $1.4 billion, or about 35% of all special highway user taxes.

The rapid postwar increase in truck taxes, the AMA said, can be attributed both to higher tax rates and to a tremendous growth in truck use.

The number of trucks built in the U.S. during the past 7½ years exceeds total production for the 36 years from 1900 to 1937.

More than 9.1 million motor trucks came off U.S. assembly lines from mid 1945 through the first two months of 1953, compared with a total of 8.8 million turned out by the end of 1936.

The record-breaking pace of motor vehicle manufacture following the War's end, AMA statisticians pointed out, has practically doubled the size of America's truck fleet. Truck registrations climbed from about 4.8 million at the end of 1945 to a present total of some 9.2 million.

This fleet, outnumbering the trucks in all the rest of the world combined, has grown in response to expanding transportation needs.

As an indication, annual tonnage handled by for-hire interstate motor carriers rose more than 125 per cent from 1945 to 1951. Total annual mileage traveled by all trucks in the country has climbed from 45 billion to 95 billion, and the volume of freight hauled has reached approximately 10 billion tons, or about three fourths of the nation's total freight tonnage. Trucks on farms increased from nearly 1.5 million units to about 2.4 million in 1952.

The number of truck drivers in the country has grown from 2½ million to 5 million. This is only a segment, however, of the total employment resulting directly or indirectly from truck transportation.

The United States not only has the greatest total number of trucks in the world, but also the highest ratio of trucks per capita. There now is one truck for about every 16 persons in the country. For comparison, the ratio in Great Britain is 1 to 54; in Russia, approximately 1 to 120.

AMA statisticians also have figured out that the nation's big truck fleet piles up a total of about 2.5 billion vehicle work days a year, which is equivalent to 16 days of truck service for every person in the country, or 56 truck work days per family.

Washington is impressed with two characteristics in the new Eisenhower official family—its high level of ability and experience in business operations, and its high level of individual character. Each new appointment to an important governmental position by the president or one of his cabinet members seems to be based on an extremely rigid requirement in character and proven ability. In the key jobs there are no professional politicians.

Experience and Character

Charles E. Wilson, secretary of defense, has headed the world's biggest private business, General Motors; and the government department he now directs spends about 65 percent of all federal funds. George M. Humphrey, the new treasurer, is one of the nation's leading industrialists and financiers, and has a vast experience in big operations. Sinclair Weeks, commerce secretary, is another top-flight industrialist and financier, a recognized authority on problems affecting business and commerce.

Arthur E. Summerfield, the new postmaster general, directing a $20-billion annual business, was the country's biggest individual automobile dealer. Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay is a highly successful business man. Joseph Dodge, the new budget director, is one of America's leading bankers. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson knows agriculture from the bottom up, is counted among the world's leading agricultural economists. In addition to having reached the top in their chosen fields of enterprise, all these men have distinguished records of community and public service; and, most important, I think, they are lifelong churchmen.

Consistent Rule

This same principle is followed at the secondary level, as illustrated when President Eisenhower filled a vacancy on the highly important civil aeronautics board. He appointed Col. Harmer D. Denny, Jr., an outstanding authority on all phases of aviation and aviation commerce. Colonel Denny served on the interstate commerce committee of congress and was a member of its sub-committee which considered legislation affecting the CAB.

During the first World War he was a bomber pilot. In World War II, he was air inspector in the graduate command and general staff school in Kansas. He was relied upon in congress for his aviation know-how. Colonel Denny is one of the leading laymen of the Presbyterian Church; is a member of the national executive board of the Boy Scouts of America; is an

Santa Fe 1953 Crop Report For Northwest Texas

That part of the 1953 winter wheat crop in northwest Texas is still alive has come through the winter under very adverse conditions, including drought and high winds followed by freezing temperature on April 17. Just what effect this freeze will have on the yield cannot be determined at this time.

A few favored areas received moisture early in April; however, these areas have been rather spotted. Except for the low rolling Plains and a few irrigated fields in the high Plains area, wheat prospects in northwest Texas cannot be considered to be much more than 50 percent of average, and it will require favorable conditions from now until harvest for the state to produce as much as was produced in 1952, which was reported as 34,626,000 bushels. The official estimate of April 1 for Texas reported an estimated 30,126,000 bushels, and it is doubtful if this will be reached if dry weather together with high winds continue for another few days.

Potatoes in the Hereford-Muleshoe-Plainview area are off to a good start, and with a favorable season, should produce excellent yields.

Salem, Oregon's capital city, is the only major city in the state which lies in two counties, namely, Marion and Polk, separated by the Willamette River.

A Half Century Of South Plains Progress

A week or so ago, one of the two older banks at Lubbock gave the readers something to think about in the way of progress here on the South Plains in the past half century. This bank used a page ad to tell readers of its progress in the past half century. Among the interesting things in the ad was a condensed statement of the bank in December, 1901, and December, 1952.

The little pioneer bank had deposits of $52,000 in 1901, in the little frontier village of Lubbock; they had on deposit $52,000,000 in December, 1952. Along with the other three Lubbock banks, they showed combined deposits of around $183,000,000 at the close of 1952.

We can remember that many years after the writer landed here, the Brownfield State Bank, only one here then, would have deposits ranging from $35,000 to $50,000. That was in 1909 and through the 'teens, The First National opened for business soon after the railroad came in 1918.

So, you can readily see that this section of Texas has really made progress in the past 50 years. In fact, in the past 30 years, the deposits in Brownfield have grown from less than a million dollars to around 15 million.

The Order of the Good Time, one of the first social clubs in America, was organized by the explorer Champlain to cheer his men during the winter of 1606-07.

Crochets Feel Sorry For Territes

Over at Crochton, according to last week's Review, those fellows felt very sorry for the people over at Brownfield. As they wind the dust and tears out of their weeping eyes, they expressed themselves as being much concerned about old Terry.

It so happens that a farmer that has been over quite a bit of the county and in his opinion, has some pretty good land, gave us this info. He stated that his dad-in-law had some pretty tight land, and that some of it was blown out to the hard, unbroken land.

But, he stated that about all it did for his land, which is sandy and mixed, was to fill the furrows with sand and dirt, from whence he knew not. So, the Crochites can just wipe their weeping eyes and get on about the matter. By the way, they might take a gander at our bank deposits and weep some more.

Terry County Soil Conservation News

Many farmers in the area are interested in planting guar for a soil improving crop, as well as for seed production.

Guar has proven successful in this area both on dry land and under irrigation.

Guar is a legume, and it should be inoculated, either with urbana guar innoculant or nitrogen inoculant, culture E. For best results, 150 to 200 pounds of 20 percent superphosphate or its equivalent should be used per acre. Guar should be planted two to three inches deep at the rate of eight to ten pounds per acre in 26 or 40-inch rows. Planting date is the same as that of grain sorghum. Grain sorghum plates can be used to plant the guar.

In 1811 Napoleon pinned the Cross of Honor on Benjamin Delcort for obtaining crystallized beet sugar, and ordered that beet sugar production be started in France.

Cancer Drive Total Nears $900 With Addition Of Proceeds From Coffees

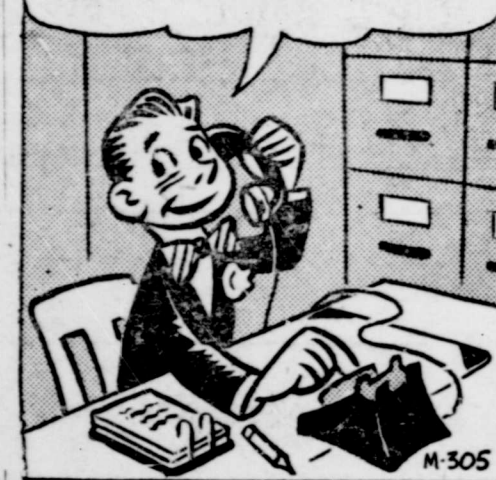

A series of diminishing coffees held during the past week have brought Terry county's contributions to the Cancer Fund Drive to $889.67, making a total of $310.33 still lacking to reach the goal of $1,200. Mrs. Jimmy Shook and Mrs. Ben Monnett, co-chairmen of the women's division, have urged that all persons who have not had coffees and wish to do so, continue the cancer coffee chain. Proceeds should be turned in as soon as possible.

James Harley Dallas, fund chairman, urges all Terry residents who have not sent in their dollar to turn it in this week to him, or by mail to the Terry County Cancer Crusade, Box 147, Brownfield.

The Texas American Cancer Crusade goal for 1953 is $900,000, and $404,864 had been contributed through the last day of April. Early last week only $387.60 had been contributed to the Cancer Fund Drive. Dallas pointed out that "Cancer can be conquered if the public will provide funds to keep scientists at work long enough to find the complete answer."

Some reasons for planting guar in this area are: 1. adds nitrogen to the soil, which is essential to the growth of all crops and grasses; 2. it may be used for supplemental income through seed production; 3. may be used as a green manure crop; 4. yields of cotton and grain sorghums greatly increased following guar; 5. yields of guar for seed production are from 500 to 1,000 pounds per acre.

F. H. Sharp and C. E. Hicks of the Meadow area planted several acres of guar in 1952. Both men were well pleased with the results. Plans are to increase the acreage of guar on their farms this year.

ty and from there on in home, the winds did a lot of dirt moving. We saw little area denuded of top soil, but in most places the furrows were full of dirt and sand from somewhere else. Saw some rather high hills of sand the winds built up down in the Welch area.

This talk of dirt and sand from some distant clime, makes us think of the article in Sunday papers concerning some dirt that a geiger expert examined on the courthouse steps at Sweetwater. They were of a chocolate color, contrasted to the red and whitish sands of west Texas.

This man explained that the dirt he examined was slightly radioactive, but not enough to be harmful to humans or livestock. It was thought there was a possibility they came from out in Nevada and other places where atom bombs have been exploded.

Local Boy Is Going Places In His Work

Had a short letter this week from Menard O. Smith, who is now with the Department of the Army, Office of Chief Engineers. Smith, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Smith, was practically reared and educated in Brownfield. The old Smith farm, and a good one, is about a mile west of the Terry County Memorial Cemetery.

Menard has been doing some mighty fine work in the Kansas City area as liaison man of the army engineers, his part was mostly publicity of the work of the engineers, according to the KC Star, which was copied by a Washington, D. C., paper. The article stated that he especially did some mighty good work last year, during the Kaw river flood in the KC area, going almost night and day for several days. He transfers to Washington May 27th.

The article also had a photo of Menard, which shows him to be well fed, and a fine looking man. He is married and has a son, M. O. Jr., now 17. The article gave the birth place of Smith as Newark, Tex., but nothing about Brownfield, where his parents are buried.

SAVE LABOR AND WATER with AMES PORTABLE PIPE

Put an end to the work and worry caused by costly, troublesome ditches. Eliminate soil and water losses resulting from washing and seepage. Ames Lo-Head Portable Pipe delivers water in volume anywhere you need it—cross-country, uphill or downhill—under perfect control. Carries water to your fields for furrows or flooding, to your booster pump for sprinkler lines.

Available in 4" to 12" diameters, either lightweight, sturdy aluminum or rugged lockseam galvanized. Your choice of connections: low-cost Slip-Joint drive-ends, QCL quick-coupled joints, or pressure-locking ABC Couplers. Pipe also available with Flo-Control Gates along the sides for easy furrow watering.
