BEHIND THE SCENES In American Business

By REYNOLDS KNIGHT

New York.—Even though you may be driving in low gear on over-crowded highways, hang on a little longer—highway construction and modernization is moving into high.

The problem won't be solved all at once, but the record $5 1/2 billion put into roads this year indicates progress is being made. Expenditures in 1953 are 10 per cent ahead of last year, and a greater share of road construction money is going into major highways—where most improvement is needed. This is an important shift from the immediate postwar emphasis on farm-to-market roads.

Moreover, the dollar figures don't tell all. The United States Bureau of Public Roads "highway construction cost index stood at 139 during the first quarter of this year but has since declined to about 132—meaning there will be more road laid down per dollar.

Motorists won't be the only ones to benefit. Motel and hotel operators can look forward to greater business; gas and service stations will have more customers; resorts will get greater patronage, and a sizeable piece of money will go into the economy through construction firms and workers. Even government will benefit through increased gas tax revenues.

It will take some time to make up for ground lost during World War II when highway construction came to a standstill, but it looks as though we are on our way at last.

Better and Better

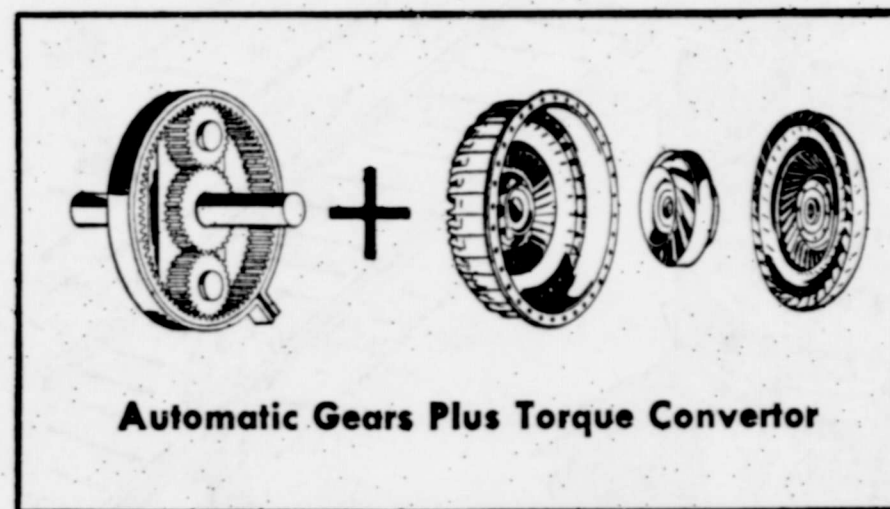

While highway improvement has lagged, automobile improvement has not. One advance follows another, the latest being a new power steering system for automobiles which features more than the elimination of driving effort.

Stressed by its maker is the small, but necessary percentage of driving effort (four pounds) that is retained to give the motorist that all-important sense of "road feel."

Known as "full control power steering" it is available on some models and is less expensive (by as much as $65) than other power steering devices.

Sociology's New Religion?
Sociology textbooks widely used for the past 25 years in high schools and colleges throughout America are fostering a new kind of "religion" which, if accepted by a generation of youth, could destroy the church as the well-spring of our spiritual life and supersede the Bible with a social worker's handbook. This, in effect, is the stunning conclusion drawn by Dr. A. H. Hobbs, professor of sociology at the University of Pennsylvania, in a comprehensive analysis of 83 widely used sociology textbooks.

His analysis of sociology's teachings on the subject of religion is so shocking and so vitally important I'm going to quote at length from his book, "The Claims of Sociology: A Critique of Textbooks" (The Stackpole Company, Harrisburg, Pa.).

Astonishing Texts

"Fifty-four texts contain statements which evaluate religion," Dr. Hobbs reports. "Thirty-three texts contend that religious organizations should reorient themselves in the direction of secularization."

"Religious organizations (the 33 textbooks contend) should decrease or eliminate the supernatural appeals, their abstract moral doctrines, their ritual, mysticism, and allegiance to traditional codes. Eight additional texts emphasize that these factors hinder 'social progress,' and nine other statements claim that religious organizations perpetuate themselves primarily because of pressures which are exerted on them by 'economic interests.'"

"Fifty statements in 41 texts, contain these critical emphases in relation to traditional forms of religion. The 33 which suggest alternatives recommend secularization of religion. According to this standpoint, the primary interests of religious groups should be focused on educational crusades to eliminate poverty, ill-health, war, racial problems, inadequate education, and crime, in a program of social action. They should use modern methods of social research to demonstrate a practical relationship between scientific analysis and religious objectives."

Toward Secularizing

"Religious organizations (the 33 books contend) should help in shaping a new moral code since the old one involves 'cultural lag' in a society which has undergone extensive technological changes. Recommendations that religious organizations should secularize are representative of the 'positive' approach. In the 'positive' approach the textbook author offers 'constructive' suggestions for improvement of the institution after demonstrating to his own satisfaction what is wrong with it from a 'sociological' point of view. The fact that the author cannot prove his statements, nor demonstrate that his 'remedy' will not destroy the essence of the institution, appears to be a secondary consideration."

"Two additional texts are content to label religion simply as a combination of mysticism and cultural conditioning, without offering any 'positive' suggestions. Only 11 texts emphasize the universality of need for spiritual guidance (which formed the basis of most religious organizations) and accept the view that this is still the primary function of religion."

Superseding the Bible

"Authors generally claim that they (scientists) support rather than oppose religion, but their support of 'religion' is similar to their defense of 'democracy' and 'education' in that it involves a redefinition in 'sociological' terms. Religion is redefined in terms which make it practically synonymous with social work. In the 'sociological' religion a social problems textbook would be a more important reference than the Bible."

Our nation was founded by men and women with profound faith in God. As they built their first communities in the wilderness of America, the first building to go up was the church. God's moral laws written into the Bible shaped the American way of life and have been the great disciplining force within the hearts and minds of our people and within all our American institutions, including our government and our schools. An organized force is fighting God's moral laws in America—Communism, aided by its twin, Socialism. Textbooks which slyly persuade the youth of America that faith in God should be softened or superseded are assisting these enemies to undermine the foundation of our strength.

LET'S ALL GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY
Where We Are All One With The Lord

Peace...
Good Will...

Everywhere, among good people, there exists a longing to make our world tranquil and prosperous—a desire for man to unite for peace, good will and understanding. For from good will comes forbearance and from understanding, a better way of life. And what better time than now for every man to renew the realization that all our good human relationships—yes, even our business relationships, are based on our faith in God and our fellow man. Only through this faith can we assure the continuance of freedom without fear—tolerance with tyranny—democracy and lasting peace.

Stricklinly Speaking

By OLD HE

Don Robinson, editor of the American Press, tells us some of the pessimistic stuff one hears of late. Perhaps if American people did not have so much to amuse them, they would be so jittery that the lunatic asylums wouldn't hold all of us. For instance, a returned Vet from Korea on a train informed Robinson that the settlement over in Korea was just the kickoff of War III. Another with the "inside dope," told him at lunch, that in just a few months the bottom would fall out, and we'd be in the midst of the worst panic in history.

Still another informed him that juvenile delinquents would reach their height soon, and there would be no other kind of youths except delinquents. And not one but many he had talked with believed the Comies had the USA by the tail with a downhill pull. This led the Florence (Ala.) Herald to make some comment along this line, ending with the old one, "for every rotten apple in a barrel, there are ten good ones."

Last but not least, perhaps the old-timers from Henderson County, Texas, are to hold one of the last reunions at McKenzie State Park at Lubbock, when they meet Sunday, Sept. 27. Lunch, which all are expected to bring, will be served at 1 p.m., and the affair is to last all day. Signs at both entrances will direct you to the meeting place.

Last week, the 16 and 17th, the Civil-Defense organizations, both national and state, met at the Texas A&M college, to talk over matters of experience, ways and means to better organize for civil defense, as well as to meet disasters of any nature. The tornadoes at Waco and San Angelo certainly pointed the way to be better prepared to meet such things.

Idea of how to use the press, radio, etc., were to be taken up in panel discussions. H. B. Johnson of Levelland, represented this section at the meeting.

Down in south and southwest Texas, with a heavy Mexican population of both Texas and Mexican citizenship, at this season of the year, a great celebration is staged, joined in by the Anglo population, in which the 134th anniversary of Mexico's freedom from Spain, is lavishly celebrated. The celebrations are usually termed Fiestas, and they are gay affairs with long parades, etc.

But the idea is being taken up nearer home, Lamesa and Big Spring, both with heavy Mexican populations, most of which are naturalized, or native born Texans. With this idea in view, both cities have recently helped the Mexican population celebrate. Queens and princesses were elected, and judging by the pictures in the Big Spring News, the queens, princesses, etc., were real classy looking girls.

As T. J. Finley and the Old He exchanges jokes we hear, we had to call and tell him about the prayer meeting session down in the heart of the oil field section of "ol' East Texas," supposed to have taken place during the big oil boom down there in the 30ties, and printed elsewhere in this paper.

He related that he had been squirrel hunting, and then told us of the one about the young guy back east with a string of squirrels. A city slicker observed the boy in the small hamlet, and wanted him on his baseball team, as he loved he killed the squirrels with rocks. But, added the lad, "I am really right handed, but Pa won't let me throw rocks at the squirrels except with my left hand, as I bruise them too bad with my right hand."

A similar version was told us of a west Tennessee boy—may have been a Hardeman countian. A snuff peddler or salesman from Memphis related this one about a youngster who had a nice string of squirrels, but no gun. A traveling man asked him how he killed them. "With rocks," he said, "but I had to throw twice to kill that old fox squirrel."

There was still another that we heard several years ago. Two boys got the old muzzle loading squirrel rifle, but Pa counted out the bullets, and they had to bring home a squirrel for each bullet fired. Out in the mountains, they spied what they thought was a revenuer, hunting illicit stills. The older lad carrying the rifle said he believed he'd take a shot at the snooping revenuer.

Whereupon, the younger lad told his brother that he'd better get a squirrel with the same shot, as Pa will count the bullets when we get home.

Will state that the soil conservation bunch brought in much more material in the way of instructional and advisory matter, as well as cuts than we could possibly run last week, as they were brought in near our deadline. The Herald is really printed Wednesdays. To have gotten out anything like a special edition, we would have had to have about 10 days or two weeks notice.

But this material will not be wasted, as mostly it did not pertain just to the SCS tour, but may be used as a help to farmers any time, year in and year out. We aim to run this material from time to time.

Speaking of blessing the humble, pure and sinclair elsewhere in this paper, the Herald had an invitation last week to attend an affair by Humble district management, up at Lubbock. Our invitation came via George O'Neal, local wholesale distributor of Humble Products. They wanted the newspapermen and radio folks particularly to attend. But Tuesday night is a hard one for this bunch to get off to attend anything, as Wednesday is press day.

What made us regret not being able to attend even more, is that the Humble Oil and Refining Co. is one of our best advertisers, and

We Get 4-Bits For 2 Copies of Herald

A gentleman from Plains called this week and asked if we had some copies of the paper in which we had a write-up of the marriage of the Bartlett and Keiffer "pair," recently. Fearing we had made the young bride sore with our foolishness, we asked him about it. "No, it tickled her," he said. Gave him two papers, and he threw down a half dollar. hWile we looked for change he walked out, and remarked we might be able to help him sometime.

Speaking of jokes, we heard one recently that tickled us. Down in the heart of the East Texas oil fields, when they were gushing in the 30ties, it is related that at a little country church, one old brother was praying. Among other things he called on the Lord to bless the "pure" and "humble." Another old brother spoke up and asked the praying brother to also ask God to bless Sinclair, as they had his land leased.

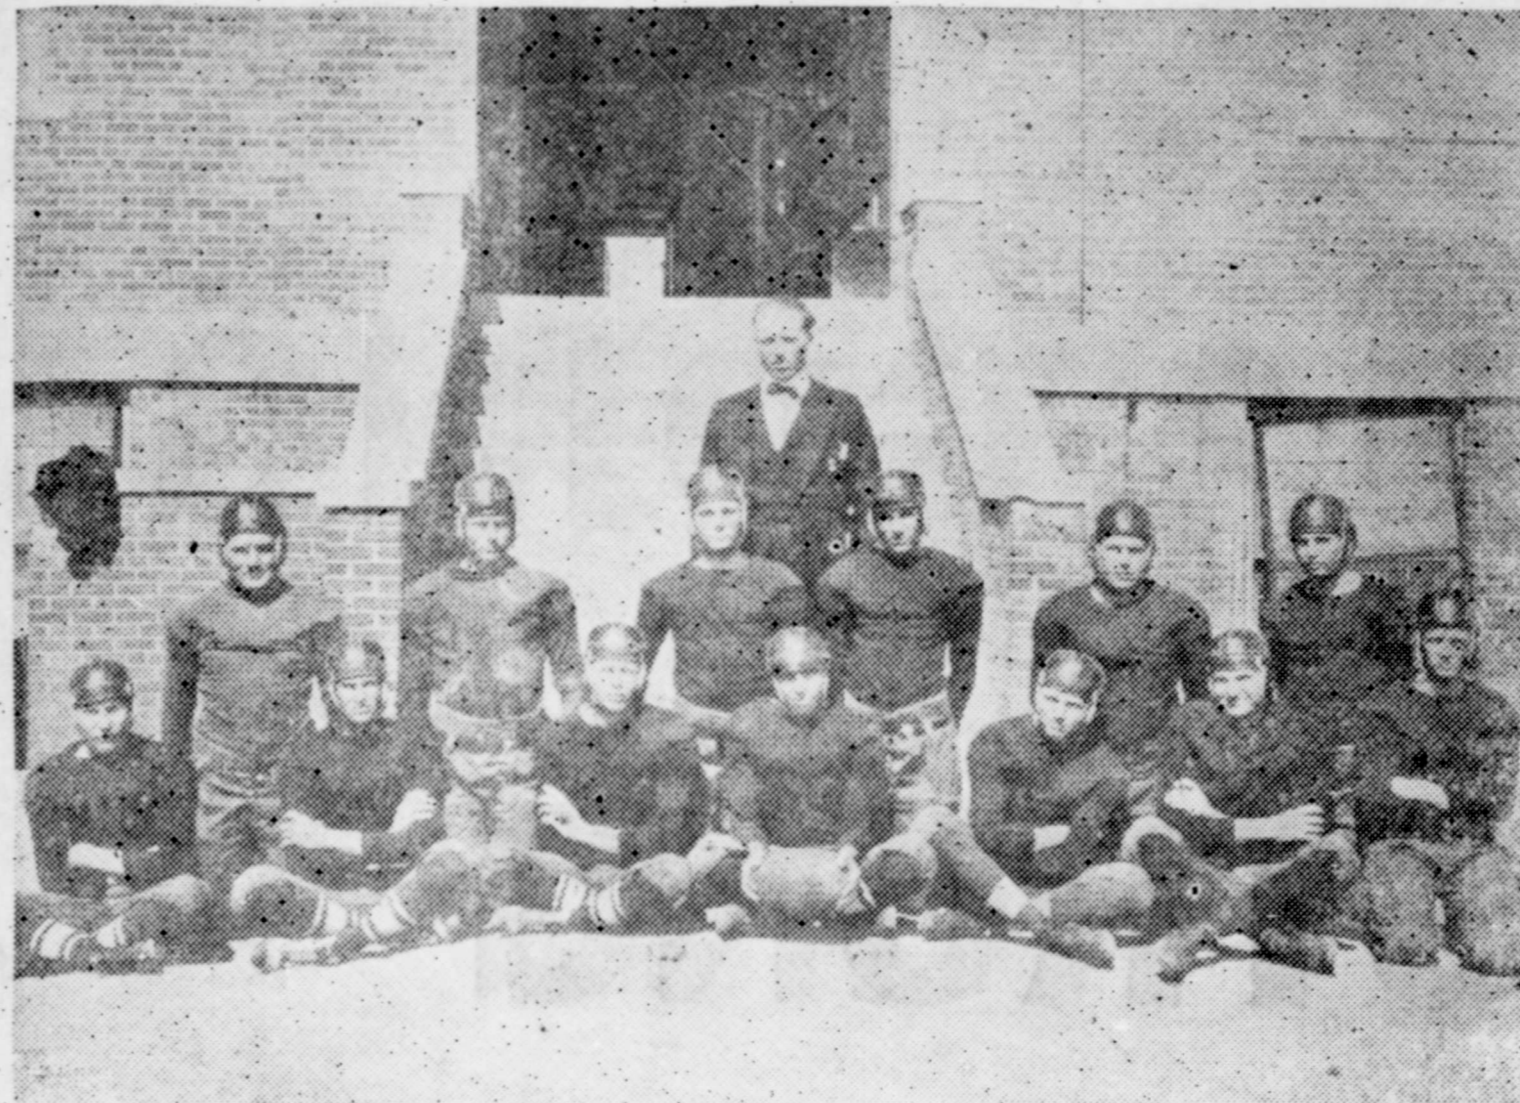

Education is the knowledge of how to use the whole of oneself. Many men use but one or two faculties out of the score with which they are endowed.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Is he in business "to stay?"

When you buy a used car from a Ford Dealer, you're dealing with an established businessman who has a large investment and his good name at stake. We're here today, and we'll be here tomorrow!

Does he really know cars?

Ford Dealers are in the service business, too; work with cars day in and day out. We know how to spot trouble fast. And our expert mechanics have the equipment and "know-how" to handle any service job.

Are his prices really fair?

Ford Dealers handle used cars and trucks as a service to customers who trade them for new ones. We get a lot of trade-ins. And we keep them moving to free our working capital. That's a good reason why we offer our used cars and trucks at rock-bottom prices.

Is he interested in you?

Remember—we Ford Dealers want to keep your good will because we want to take care of all your automotive needs. Someday we hope to sell you a new car, or another used car, and in the meantime, we want your service business.

Do his cars meet A-1 standards?

When you go to a Ford Dealer's and see the A-1 label on a car, you know it has met with the dealer's A-1 standards. And because you can trust the man you bought it from, you can trust the car.

IT'S WHERE YOU BUY IT THAT COUNTS!

travelling out of the area to attend meetings and institutions concerning Public Health, it was agreed that any unused money from salaries and travel left from vacancies could be used for these expenses provided the occasion met with the approval of the appropriating agencies.

Following the business meeting, Dr. David M. Cowgill, director, gave an outline talk on the six services rendered by the Health Department: (1) Public Health Education, (2) Communicable Disease Control, (3) Maternal and Child Health Services, (4) Sanitation, (5) Laboratory, and (6) Vital Statistics.

Dr. Cowgill elaborated upon each of these subjects by saying that:

(1) Public Health Education can be brought about by bringing information of health and disease before the public by personal contact, nurse's visits, sanitarian's visits, Director's visits, newspaper, radio, and by talks to clubs and organizations.

(2) Communicable disease control can be brought about by reporting of cases to Health Department by physician, by the schools and by the general public. Controlling disease once diagnosed, can be done by isolation of case by keeping patient away from other persons in a separate room, only one person should take care of the patient. Sterilize patient's dishes separately; wash patient's clothing and bedding separately.

Also, to control diseases that are communicable, all children should be immunized before one year of age, booster doses every 2 to 3 years until school age. With new polio immunization, all household contacts of polio should receive gamma globulin. It is believed that in a very short time there will be a permanent immunization against polio if the present plan of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis proves satisfactory.

(3) Maternal and Child Health Services are given by nurse's visits once each month, by post-natal visits and by holding Maternity Clinics and classes. Infant and prenatal care is given by nurse's visits, educational programs on methods of keeping baby well and by conducting well baby clinics where parents bring well babies for examinations and advice on keeping baby well. School service consists of visits to schools as often as possible, conferences with principal, advice to teachers on referrals of children with physical defects or communicable diseases.

(4) Sanitation, which includes water supply, adequate samples to be collected at regular intervals for bacteria; sewage disposal, to eliminate all open privies possible; to have proper sewage disposal plants; fly and mosquito control, which is done by finding and eliminating breeding places, proper garbage disposal and sanitary control of livestock within the City limits; rat control by finding and disposing of harboring places, conducting poisoning programs and by eliminating feeding places, such as uncovered garbage and open grain storage; and food sanitation, which includes milk samples collected at regular intervals and checked in the laboratory for bacteria, and regular inspections of restaurants and other eating and drinking establishments.

(5) The Regional State Laboratory, Brownfield, in which the following services are rendered: Serologic tests for Syphilis, in which case from time to time false positives occur due to other diseases or conditions not normal in the body; agglutination tests are performed for typhoid fever, typhus fever, undulant fever and plague. Bacteriological tests are performed on water samples to determine the suitability for drinking purposes; also tests on milk for bacterial count and bacterial identification. Bacterial tests are performed on food for possible contamination. Cultures for the causative bacteria such as diphtheria, scarlet fever, gonorrhea, typhoid fever, dysentery and meningococcal.

For tests that cannot be performed in the laboratory at Brownfield, the State Laboratory at Austin, will perform chemical analyses on water, food for contamination and the detection of horse meat; also, examination of dog heads for possible rabies.

(6) Vital Statistics (birth and death certificates) from which the Health Department secures the following information: the number of normal births, stillbirths, premature births, number born in hospital, at home, delivered at home by physician or midwife, born without medical care and such information as: number of mothers

SUPPORT THE CUBS!!

Has a Copy of Mark Twain's Old Paper

Went over to visit the Arthur Sawyers while Friday night, and got to sit out on his spacious grounds at their country home, near town. They sure have a lot of grass, but he has a power mower, or cutting that lawn would be a job. Watched his flock of wild rabbits, which in this case are not so wild, as they will come within 15 or 20 feet of you, to nibble the green grass. On that high hill west of the old cemetery, they have a fine view of the city.

We were soon invited in to get one of Arthur's famous milk shakes, and while we were enjoying it, that sandy-er struck. Had been lightning in the northeast, and a cloud hung from the northeast to northwest. Before that time, the lights downtown were twinkling, and the football field was lit up like a depot stove. But after that sandstorm struck, you could not see a light in town or the football field, and the brilliantly lighted Rustic drive-in theatre some 300 or 400 yards south was very dim.

After refreshments we returned to the spacious living room of their ultra modern home, where discussion of trips made by Arthur and Irene to the northwest, was the topic. Especially the scenic and historical wonders. It was at this point that Arthur loaned up a copy of Territorial Enterprise, said to have been started by Mark Twain in 1853, nearly 100 years ago. It is printed at Virginia City, Nev.

Haven't near concluded our investigation of this copy of the old paper, the issue we have is tabloid size, is dated July 24, this year. But if one would draw a conclusion from the ads in the paper, about the most they have out there is gambling places, saloons, eating joints and playhouses.

Maybe can give you a better idea of the paper after further reading.

Terry Gets 2 New Wells; 7 Locations

The two new wells last week were both in the Prentice field in northwest Terry, or nearby. So was the seven new locations, one, however, being far enough away that it was termed a wildcat. The two new wells were as follows:

Honolulu Oil Co., Ella Covington No. 2, section 21, block D-14, finished at a depth of 5,990 feet. This well pumped 292 barrels of oil daily of 30.1 gravity.

Also Honolulu, 9-B, E. M. Ellington, finished at a total depth of 5,935 feet, on section 19, block K. The well pumped 224 barrels of oil of 29.8 gravity, oil. No water in either well.

The seven new locations were as follows: Honolulu 11-B, section 19, block K, to be carried to 6,100 contract depth at once. Rotary rig.

Honolulu No. 13-B, F. M. Ellington, same section, depth and rig.

MOST THOROUGHLY READ NEWSPAPER

There are many people right here, in this area that have read the Herald for 40 years, and more, and they still take it and read it. During that time the paper was first advanced from $1 to $2 per year, and last fall to $3 per year. But they feel we are giving them their money's worth.

We are carrying few if any dead-heads, and we have always figured that if people did not want the Herald, they would not pay for it. The grocer does not donate his groceries, nor the dry goods man his merchandise, nor the druggist his medicines.

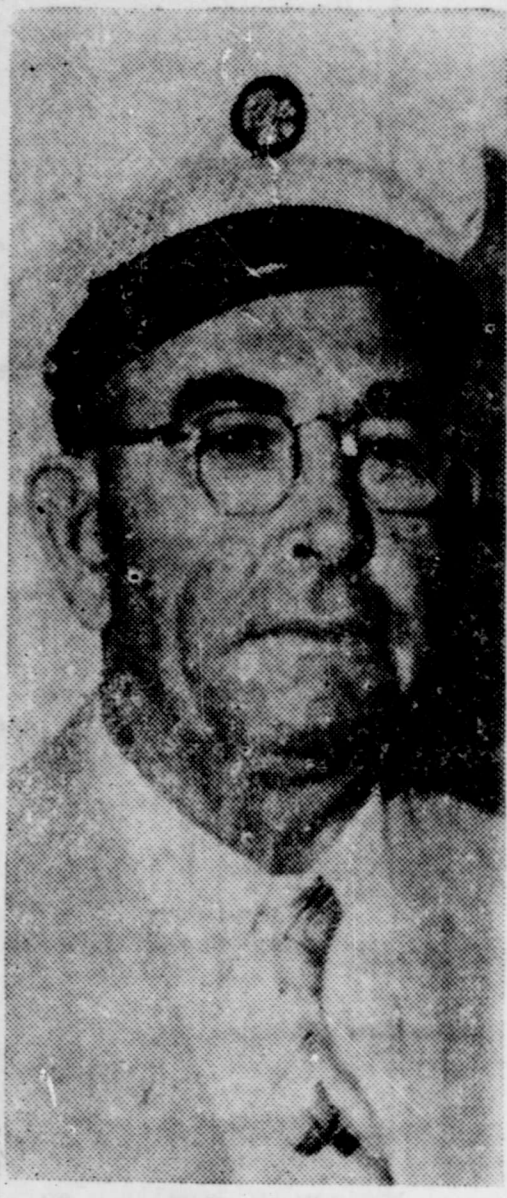

You pay for what you get when you want it.

LOCAL FIRE CHIEF NOMINATED FOR DISTRICT OFFICE

Permian Basin District Fireman's Association semi-annual convention was attended by eight local firemen and their wives, held Saturday at Monahan.

The Kermit Volunteer Fire Department took first place in the pumers races.

At the business meeting which preceded the races, the association voted to sponsor Eunice Jones, local Fire Chief, as a candidate for the fourth vice presidency of the State association. Jones has been local Fire Chief for the past 26 years.

The next meeting of the Basin group has been scheduled for Fort Stockton in April, 1954.

All Brownfield members enjoyed a barbecue at the City Park and a dance thereafter, at the Archway Club.

Among those attending from Brownfield were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ballard, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cousineau, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hurd, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Jordan, Clifton Jones, E. R. Hutson, Leonard Isaacs, and Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Jones.

Johnny Hall, fire truck driver was unable to attend the convention due to sprained muscles suffered in the last drill. A total of five drills were held during the past month in preparation for the convention.

The State convention will be held in June, and election held then, at San Antonio.

Local Legionnaires Attend Community Study Ser. Program

Lynn Nelson and Don McCown, were among the American Legion officers from seven area towns who gathered last week in the Coprock Hotel's Comanche Room to discuss ways and means that American Legion posts could better serve their communities.

Hilton Lambert of Snyder, 19th District commander, led the discussions. Suggested plans for better service were the sponsoring of Boy Scout troops, safety programs, assisting other civic groups in their TB and blood donation drives, Americanism programs, help for the community's needy children and civil defense.

SMITHS TO ATTEND SAN FRANCISCO MEET

W. Graham Smith, Brownfield representative of the Southwestern Life Insurance Company, is in San Francisco this week attending the company's Golden Anniversary convention. His wife, Jewel G. Smith, is accompanying him.

Eligibility for the convention trip was earned by his production of quality business during the past year which helped the company achieve a billion dollars of life insurance in force prior to the 50th anniversary of the organization of the company.

The record attained by the agency force of Southwestern Life makes it the largest life insurance company in the world doing business in its home state, only. No other life insurance company has attained such a record of production. Mr. and Mrs. Smith expect to return to Brownfield by Oct. 5.

Farm Bureau Will Make Membership Drive, October 5-10

Gov. Allan Shivers has officially proclaimed the week, Oct. 5-10, "Texas Farm Bureau Membership Week."

During that week more than 10,000 volunteer workers in some 130 organized counties will spread out over the countryside contacting individual farmers and ranchers to invite them to join Farm Bureau. The membership goal in Texas as this year is 75,000 farm families. At the present, there are more than 53,000 Texas farm families with membership in Farm Bureau an independent farm organization of, by and for farmers.

On the eve of the gigantic statewide membership campaign, J. Walter Hammond, president of the state farm organization, stressed the need for a stronger state Farm Bureau in a letter sent to all Farm Bureau officials in the State.

"The people engaged in farming and ranching have a great responsibility facing them this year," he declared. "This is a year of decision. Farmers must decide what policies we want incorporated into the national farm program, and they must decide who shall speak for farmers. Next year will be a year of action on a national basis, and the voice of Texas farmers and ranchers will be determined by the membership in the Texas Farm Bureau Federation."

The Texas Farm Bureau is affiliated with the American Farm Bureau Federation, which has a membership of 1,492,282 in 47 states and Puerto Rico. Illinois, the largest state in membership standing, has nearly 200,000 members, while several other mid-western states have more than 100,000 members. Texas has the largest potential, with some 350,000 farm families in the State. Many of the larger Farm Bureau states have already reached their maximum membership potential.

Farm Bureau policies are determined democratically through a resolutions process in county, state and national conventions. The number of official voting delegates at these conventions is determined by the number of Farm Bureau members in the county or state.

Texas Farm Bureau officials are looking forward to the day when the farmers and ranchers of this State have a more powerful voice in determining what the national farm program shall be.

Thirteen Volunteer firemen and driver, W. O. Turney, answered the call.

ALLEN WILL NOT "FIRE UP" HIS GIN

Lee O. Allen, who owns the Tokio gin, dropped in one day last week to renew for his Herald, and stated that he would not even "fire up" his gin this year.

There is some pretty nice feed around the Tokio area, or was a month ago, but at that time we saw very little cotton. There is little irrigation so far in that area, to make the season run.

a training objective under the Korean GI bill. There aren't any counseling facilities in my town. Would VA pay my transportation costs to and from a counseling center?

A. No. VA may not pay the travel costs of a veteran who merely desires counseling. But VA could pay those costs, in the case of a veteran for whom counseling is mandatory.

Q. If I meet all the eligibility requirements of the Korean GI bill, would I be allowed to take training even though I've gone back on active duty and am now in uniform?

A. No. The Korean GI bill prohibits training by veterans on active duty, even though they do meet all the eligibility requirements of the law.

Q. I'm planning to buy a house with a GI loan. What should be my first step?

A. Your first step should be to go to your VA Regional Office and obtain a Certificate of Eligibility. Be sure to bring your original discharge or separation paper with you. Once you have the certificate, see a lender for a GI loan.

Q. I've just come out of service, and I'm planning to apply for $10,000 worth of GI insurance available to Korean veterans. I have a $5,000 commercial life insurance policy. Will I still be able to get the full $10,000 GI policy, even though I hold commercial insurance?

A. Yes. The amount of commercial insurance you carry will in no way reduce the amount of GI insurance to which you may be entitled.
