NEW BRICK AND TILE BUSINESS HOUSE EXPECTED TO BE READY FOR USE IN NEXT THREE WEEKS

W. H. Warren has the masonry work done on his new building on Sixth Street, now well under way with fair prospects for completion within the next two weeks or thereabouts.

This will be a very near brick and tile building 26 by 60 feet in dimensions, one story high. The building will be divided into three rooms, each 20 by 25 feet. One of these rooms will be occupied as an office by Dr. Willis, another will be occupied by the Friona Star office and the third is yet unlet. These parties expect to be in their new quarters within the next three weeks at the longest, at which time the Star expects to install a complete newspaper and job printing plant.

TO GLAZED BLOODED STOCK

Mr. Lindsey, who has recently located on his land a few miles northwest of Friona, was a business visitor at the Star office on Tuesday afternoon while in town on business. He is a firm believer in pure blood stock on the farm and he has brought with him from his former home in Oklahoma some pure bred Jersey cattle, spotted Poland China hogs and Rhode Island Red chickens, all of them very choice blood lines to be secured in Oklahoma. Much of this stock has taken first and second premiums at many of the fairs in that state.

Mr. Lindsey says his stock had a serious time during the severely cold weather he experienced a few weeks ago owing to the fact that he had not had time to provide comfortable shelter for them, but that they are now making a good showing and coming out nicely and he hopes by allowing the use of them to his neighbors to assist in building up the quality of the stock throughout the entire community.

The catalog contains a list of classifications, the officers, directors and superintendents, a complete list of premiums and a completed program.

Mr. Seamount has also been busy this week dehorning about 1000 head of young cattle and threshing his last year's grain crop. At this writing he has threshed and shipped seven car loads of red top cane, besides a large amount of kafir and other grains.

BUILDING AND LOAN CO. FORMS LOCAL IN FRIONA

J. C. Crain, manager of the Amarillo branch of the Colonial Building and Loan Association, spent Tuesday in Friona in the interest of his organization.

Mr. Crain sold enough stock in the association to justify the establishment of a local organization, which was effected by the election of officers as follows: O. F. Lange, president; E. V. Rushing, vice president; O. G. Turner and J. W. Parr secretary and resident agents, and eight other local subscribers were chosen as directors. They are D. R. R. Willis, G. Cranfill, L. R. Dilger, J. C. Wilkison, H. G. Morris, T. L. Lawrence, W. H. Warren.

BUYS FRIONA PROPERTY

Fred Millard of Hereford was here Tuesday and purchased five business lots, two fronting on Main street and three in the same block fronting on Washington Avenue.

Just what the new owner proposes to use this property for was not learned.

MAKING GOOD WITH COWS AND CHICKENS

W. R. Schehagen who lives in the Black community, was in Friona Monday morning and called at the Star office to insert an ad in this week's issue, and incidentally to advance his subscription date another year.

Mr. Schehagen is one of our most progressive farmers and takes great interest in the poultry and dairy branches of agricultural activities.

He is at present milking a goodly number of high producing cows most of which are Jerseys and these cows are all yielding him a paying income on the amount of labor and feed consumed. He is also a member of the Summerfield Cow Testing Association, and takes great interest in the work or the organization.

Mr. Schehagen says that thru the testing process he is able to tell exactly how much profit each of his cows yields and through this association has been able to weed out all his poorer cows and retain only those that are payers. He said that much to his surprise he found that some of his cows he thought were his best producers were really among the poorest, and some he thought were the very poor producers were among his best. He says that he and his wife find themselves eagerly watching for the tester to make his monthly appearance.

This dairy farmer has learned also that it pays well to grind all his feed for the dairy cows. The rough feed, he says, as well as the grain, is doubled in food value when ground and he has his own mill on which all this grinding is done.

The Schehagens also have a large flock of White Leghorn hens which he says are constant sources of profit and of which they are justly proud.

FOOD FADS MOSTLY FALLACIES

The following list will show some of the ideas advanced by food fads:

Why not eat more bread?
Sour milk is a real tonic.
Vegetables provide all you need for health.

Bran is the roughage your system demands.
Vitamins for vim and vitality.
But a little meat for a figure trim and neat.

Meat is a food easily digested and well assimilated.
Meat furnishes protein essential for growth and optimum development of health and activity, and the ability to work in the adult; for the invalid and convalescent; certain types of anemia.

The rational use of meat by the normal, healthy individual will not be productive of any pathological conditions, that it will not bring about disease or metabolism.

FORSAKES FRIONA

Abe, "The wandering Jew," as he styled himself, who opened his stock of goods in his "airdrome" on a vacant lot here Tuesday, repacked his stock in trade and took his departure.

He said it was the first town he had ever entered where he could sell no goods. He said there were too many Christians here, meaning that the reason they would not patronize him was because he was a Jew. This, however, was not the case, but simply the class of goods he had to offer did not appeal to our people. They were all shop-worn, it is said, and out of date, which our people did not care to put out their money for.

BOUGHT ARKANSAS FARM

L. F. Lillard returned Monday from a few days business visit in northwest Arkansas, where he spent the latter part of last week. Mr. Lillard reports that he has purchased a 120 acre farm in that section of the state, having traded property here for it. He says he likes the location very well but does not intend to move his family there.

He says the land he has just purchased has a stream crossing it that is well stocked with rainbow trout and many other varieties of fine fish. The timber and brushy parts are well stocked with quail of the Bob White variety and wild turkeys also abound, so that hunting and fishing are bound to be interesting.

A part of the land is covered with hardwood timber and the improved part has about 1000 bearing peach trees on it, as well as a good sized orchard of bearing apple trees. The land has two sets of improvements, with wells and other sources of water. Mr. Lillard proposes to give the peach trees attention and get them ready for a large crop next year as cold weather has killed this year's crop.

MORE NEW HOUSES

It seems that the demand for dwelling houses in Friona would soon be supplied, judging by the number of new houses that seem to be constantly in process of construction.

Mr. Maynard has recently completed his new dwelling near the school house and Leo McLellan has begun a building on the block recently purchased northwest of the school building.

D. H. Meade is building a neat five room residence on the vacant lots north of his dwelling, and several new houses are being put up in the east part of town. All these houses, it is understood, have occupants waiting for them as soon as they are ready for use, while others buildings are being considered.

Everybody seemed well pleased with the evening's entertainment and expressed a readiness to attend another one in the near future. This Emergency Fund Committee with O. F. Lange as chairman and J. A. Guyer and H. G. Morris as assistants, is receiving considerable commendation for its efforts and success in furnishing the community so much good, clean entertainment.

"This makes two families from our neighborhood who have moved to this little city in the Lone Star State, Ira Westfall having moved there just recently.

"The many Tryon friends of these families are sorry to have these people move from our midst, but all join in wishing them prosperity and contentment in their new home in Friona, Texas."

"The people of Friona all join in extending the glad hand of welcome to the King and Westfall families and to all good people who choose to cast their lot with us and lend their aid in building a city and community the peer of any on earth."

WOMAN'S CLUB

The Friona Woman's club met in regular session Wednesday afternoon, February 24, at the home of Mrs. D. H. Meade, with 24 members and one visitor present, and the following program was given:

After the program the club adjourned to enjoy refreshments served by the hostesses, Mmes. Meade and Burton.

REPORTER.

SERVING THE PUBLIC

H. P. Eberling, proprietor of the Marquette Theatre, is proving himself an earnest worker in an effort to supply the city a good, clean entertainment.

He has not found it profitable to have shows Monday and Tuesday nights, but when possible to get good pictures for these nights he does so, regardless of cost. Pursuing this course, he offers Monday and Tuesday nights of next week "The Mystery Man, or Mysterio," known as one of the greatest magicians of the country. In addition he will also show two good pictures. Read his ad in another column of the Star.

SOME PNEUMONIA

There has been a few cases of pneumonia in this locality during the past two weeks. All these cases are reported on the road to recovery.

LAZBUDDIE GIRLS ORGANIZE

The Y. P. M. S. met last Thursday in the Haskins home and enjoyed a very nice program. Novel features were introduced and were highly enjoyed by those present.

The letter writing contest put on a few weeks ago has failed to create any great amount of interest and only a few letters were received. The subject about which the letters were to be written was "Why Plant Cotton on the Plains?"

The time having expired for receiving these letters, the following citizens were appointed as judges: J. A. Blackwell, F. W. Reeve and H. R. Harper. The judges awarded but two prizes as there were but two letters received.

L. G. Simpson spent from Friday until Tuesday in Amarillo on business, having gone there to take the plumbers examination in preparation for his office as city plumbing inspector.

Mr. Simpson is a practical plumber and has done a large amount of the plumbing work in Friona and vicinity for the past few years, but had never taken an official test for the work, but his work has always given complete satisfaction.

O. D. McLellan also took the Amarillo examination as required by the Friona plumbing ordinance.

NEBRASKA MAN HERE

L. A. Enderle, of Aurora, Nebraska, spent a short while in Friona Tuesday afternoon. This was Mr. Enderle's first visit to the Plains country, and he was well pleased with the appearance and conditions as he saw them. He owns no land here, neither was he looking for a prospective location. He came here with some friends who have holdings somewhere south of Friona, making the trip simply for the pleasure of it. While in Friona he paid the Star office a short visit.

LAZBUDDIE NEWS

Drugs Excite the Kidneys, Drink Water

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

HATE
BY ARTHUR D. HOWDEN SMITH

CHAPTER XIV
Joshua's Decision

Joshua Ingelpln stood in the entrance of his private office as Fellowes ushered the prisoners in from the street. His eyes gleamed like blue agates, his jaw was clamped rigidly; but there was less color than usual in his face, and his neck-cloth was damp with sweat. Ben was debonair, self-possessed. He regarded Joshua half-humorously, gave him a curt nod and a "Morning Jos," while Joshua eyed him almost slyly, and appeared to be fumbling for words. Cara, after a single level-eyed stare at her uncle, looked idly out a window at the crowd besieging the warehouse. The duenna stood listlessly, clicking her beads in black-mittened hands. "Humph," exploded Joshua, clearing his throat. "D—d if you didn't do it, eh, Fellowes? But where's Chater?" "Dead."

And at the word a little, cool wave seemed to roll across the room, chilling the hearts of all who heard it.

But Joshua Stopped Him by a Gesture.

Joshua's mouth worked for a moment before he spoke again. "Dead, eh? And the True Bounty?" "We burned her. I couldn't spare the men to fetch her home." "Had reason, I suppose?" "We found what we sought," Fellowes answered, and thrust a hand into the pocket which contained the petition. But Joshua stopped him by a gesture. "Not out here. Too public—people can see through those windows. Come inside." He stood back while they fled into the private office, then shut the door after them. "This is better," he said, in no hurry to accept the paper Fellowes had produced. "By the way! See anything of Collishaw?" "He's dead," Fellowes replied, wincing. "We snk the Badger." Joshua beamed. "This is what I call a thorough job," he exclaimed. "Tis what comes of hating enough." The fellow of the crowd had risen louder, and Fellowes made an excuse of it to change the subject. "We should get rid of those people, sir," he said. "They may be dangerous. And here is the paper. Tis important. If—if anything is to be done, the governor should see it immediately."

"Right! Entirely right," agreed Joshua, taking the petition at last. "There ought to be a watchman outside. If there is, tell him I wish the governor to wait upon us. He may assure his excellency 'tis of supreme importance."

Fellowes was heartick over the situation. Manifestly, Joshua was in no disposition to show mercy; and so soon as the governor came the wheels of justice would commence to grind; deposition, indictment, testimony, affidavit, summation, charge, all leading up to the inevitable verdict—and sentence. And he could do nothing, merely sit and view the tragedy, which was the consequence of his own deeds. Himself, as he had said to Cara, the real executioner.

Joshua had just finished reading the petition to Lord Liverpool. The paper trembled in the merchant's hand; he glared triumphantly at his brother and niece, but he quickly looked away from Cara. Not easy, even for so stout a hater as Joshua Ingelpln, to enjoy gloating over the frail gallantry of that slim figure in the saffron-yellow gown.

"Damme, 'tis the braids of the federalist party, Fellowes," Joshua greeted the Long Islander, and there was a noticeable quaver in his voice.

CAP AND BELLS

EXTREMES

Manager F. N. Shepherd of the American Bankers' association was talking at a dinner in New York about a shorn lamb of the stock market. "Oh, well, he took his shearing in good part," Mr. Shepherd said. "His last words as he left the street for good and all were: "Extremes meet, gentlemen. I have burnt my fingers and it's given me cold feet."

"Oh, yes; I try to appear friendly toward him. It pays better in the end."

"Do you get up in time to admire the beauty of the sunrise?" "I don't pay so much attention to the sunrise," answered Mr. Chuggins, "but in order to cover good distance I make it a rule to have the old flivver out on the road as early as possible."—Washington Star.

COGITATIONS and APHORISMS of JODOK

W. A. Kimmons, U. S. Commissioner of Patents, says the people of the United States are great people to produce inventions. He says there were more patents issued in the U. S. than in all the European countries together.

I have often wondered whether these are really inventions or just discoveries. Nothing new has really been produced. We have just discovered how these things may be done.

Mr. Kimmons says an invention to eliminate static is now badly needed and urges that some one produce the method.

Eliminating static is a process which I sincerely doubt the wisdom of. I am afraid that when we eliminate Old Man Static we will have eliminated one of the most faithful servants the human mind has.

We can remember when people who were using the telephone were so anxious to get rid of cross talk, and thought it would be a great blessing if he was out of the way.

But Marconi, I think it was, got busy with the meddlesome upstart or trouble-maker and harnessed him and put him to work and made him produce our popular radio.

We know Old Man Static is always around, especially on a windy day, for if we grasp a wire fence he stings our hand; if we are changing gasoline from one vessel to another he sometimes ignites it and produces disastrous combustion, or if we wish to enjoy the radio he keeps up such a confounding hub-dub and racket we can scarcely hear any thing else.

Of course we feel like killing him is just showing us some of the old jades, but I am guessing things he can do without being harnessed, in the hope that we may eventually harness him and thus learn the many hundreds of better things he can do if we give him the proper opportunity.

Yes, Mr. Kimmons is right, as most people see it. They think he needs eliminating and the young American who can contrive to do so will win rich reward. However, my conjecture is that he will never be eliminated, but may be controlled.

In some respect this wonderful waste of power that is running uncontrolled and rampant throughout the universe is, to me, like the human mind. It does not need elimination. It simply needs to be controlled, directed and cultivated. It is apparently inexhaustible and unlimited in its scope and is not destroyed by use.

Do you know I like the idea expressed by Mr. Parr in last week's issue of the Star about planting pecan trees of the paper shell varieties along our streets and in our yards as shade trees.

The pecan has a tough fiber and is therefore not easily broken and will stand lots of wind or a heavy load of ice without injury to the limbs. It makes a lovely shade and may at the same time produce a valuable crop of nuts for its owner. Why not try the plan?

I am just interested enough in Friona and its territory to meet with people who are expressing ideas and doing things to lift this country to the place of prominence which it deserves.

I know at least two men who are poultry fanciers and are giving of their time and labor and means to introduce into this locality the very best strains of productive chickens that the country affords. They have already given and done much and each has recently purchased eggs for hatching that cost at the rate of $20 a setting of 15 eggs. Such men get my hearty support and merit that of all our people.

It occurs to me that such work gets mighty close to real religion. At any rate they are doing more good than the fellows who always are prating and some times quarreling about their religion. I hear a man say recently that a large number of people do not think their religion—they just think at it.

But my two friends are not just thinking at their poultry business, they are doing it. And the entire community is going to share in the benefits that will be derived from their efforts.

In my opinion another thing that our little city needs is for some one to present a practical working idea for eliminating or controlling the dust nuisance on our streets.

This universe is just packed full of ideas which only need to be evolved and put into practice so they may become a blessing to humanity. But not one grain of nourishing thought can come to us save by our own cultivation of that individual plot of mind given to us for our own cultivation.

I notice that people are coming more to the conclusion that the local paper forms a mighty good advertising medium, for there were a number of very good advertisements in the Star last week also.

Power Farming Entertainment

Wednesday, March 5

All operators of power farming implements and those interested in power farm machinery are cordially invited to attend this school. It will be conducted and supervised by E. N. Black, assistant branch manager, and W. T. Wheeler, manager of the service department, of Amarillo. Will be held in our Hereford building, an all-day program featuring moving pictures demonstrating the practicability of IHC power machinery. There will be lectures and talks, as well as round table discussions of power farming problems, which deals also with service on machines, parts, repairs, etc. A big free lunch will be served at noon. While here be sure to visit and inspect our service and repair departments. We have the largest and most up-to-date supply of parts and the best repair facilities west of Amarillo and offer their services to our customers—that means a lot when time is costly and great loss may result from having to wait for replacements.

EVERYBODY INVITED!

We want to make the program for that day as entertaining as possible and have provided something for the ladies of the household as well as for the men. Mrs. Bob Wilson, who for several years has served as HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT elsewhere, will present practical demonstrations of farm household problems and their solutions. Mrs. Wilson's work is very interesting and instructive—you will find it worth your while to hear every word she says.

HIGH-UP TALK

"I hope I'm not interrupting," said the Fairy Queen, as she saw the Sun and Moon talking together.

"You could never interrupt," said Mr. Moon, making a low bow.

"You're always a pleasure."

"You are indeed," said Mr. Sun. "I'm delighted to see you and agree with my old friend, Mr. Moon."

"Well, I never knew you were such friends before," laughed the Fairy Queen.

"We don't see so much of each other. It is true," said Mr. Moon. "That's because our working hours are different."

"Our sleeping ones are too for that matter. But just the same, we're great friends," he ended.

"We are, we certainly are," said Mr. Sun.

"Won't you continue to have your talk?" asked the Fairy Queen. She had been taking a ride that afternoon in her new airplane, which was made out of a white and silver cloud.

She was resting high in the air now that Mr. Sun and Mr. Moon were talking, and she stayed just out in between where they both were.

"We'll be glad to," said Mr. Moon, "if you will join in now and again."

"We'd like to hear your opinion upon so many things."

"Yes, everything under the sun and moon as they say," said Mr. Sun.

"Why do they say that to begin with?" asked Mr. Moon. "Are things under the sun and moon so important?"

"It does seem strange," said Mr. Sun. "And they never seem to say: 'Let's talk about everything that's just as high up as the sun and moon.'"

"No, they want to talk about the Way to Happiness Simple says California Physician

After 28 Years' Practice Describes Natural Treatment which Keeps People Well

"AFTER over 28 years of the study and practice of medicine, during which time I have treated and supervised the treatment of almost every variety of human illness," writes Dr. Martin J. Dobson of Los Angeles, "I believe I have discovered the greatest blessing that has been bestowed upon the human family. Statistics show that of all classes of persons, physicians and nurses live to a ripe old age than any other class of people. I believe this is no doubt due to the fact that they know more about the importance of daily elimination."

Dr. Dobson's Discovery

"The remedy I am speaking of is colorless, tasteless, harmless to the most delicate alimentary tract, from infancy to old age. It is non-habit-forming, and it is essential to the smooth running efficiency of the human body, which needs lubrication just like any other machine."

"This remedy is Nujol."

"Most human ailments can be traced to the alimentary tract for either the main or the contributing cause, and most of these disorders can be prevented or cured through proper cleansing and regulating by the administration of Nujol as per instructions on the bottle and wrapper, or as ordered by the physician or nurse."

Nujol Laboratories considers it a privilege to publish Dr. Dobson's endorsement of Nujol.

Physicians and nurses themselves use and advise you to use Nujol regularly to clean the poisons out of your body (we all have them), because these poisons are what make us feel headachy, depressed, low in our minds.

It is always safe to use Nujol, because it is not a medicine; it contains absolutely no drugs; it cannot hurt even the tiniest baby; it forms no habit; it is non-fattening. Nujol is harmless internal lubrication.

What This Should Mean to You

In the last few weeks we have had over 5,000 letters from people all over the world, telling us how Nujol has helped them to happiness and success by keeping their bodies internally clean. You can buy Nujol in sealed packages at any drug store. It costs but a few cents, and it will make you feel like a million dollars.

Start Nujol tonight. Use it regularly for two weeks, and learn the joy and the happiness that comes from buoyant, zestful health!

Cuticura

Are you satisfied with what your mirror reflects? Does it show a skin clear, healthy and beautiful? Consistent use of Cuticura assures you such a satisfying reflection. Cuticura Soap is cleansing and antiseptic; Cuticura Ointment keeps the skin soft and smooth and the scalp healthy; Cuticura Talcum imparts a dainty and refreshing fragrance.

An Ailing CHILD

Are you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. For a sudden attack of colic, or the gentle relief of constipation; to allay a feverish condition, or to soothe a fretful baby that can't sleep. This pure vegetable preparation is always ready to ease an ailing youngster. It is just as harmless as the recipe on the wrapper reads. If you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature, it is genuine Castoria. It is harmless to the smallest infant; doctors will tell you so. You can tell from the recipe on the wrapper how mild it is, and how good for little systems. But continue with Castoria until a child is grown.

Aunt Alice

by A. J. Dunlap

She was only a frail little woman,
And to strangers she might have seemed queer,
But to us she was always Aunt Alice,
With a heart full of comfort and cheer.
We knew that her lover lay buried
On the field where he fell in the fray,
And we knew she was waiting to join him
As the years turned her brown tresses gray.

When the finger of death touched a neighbor,
Or a child with some fever was ill,
She would come like an angel of mercy
From her little brown house on the hill.
Sometimes in my dreaming I wonder
In the moonlight around the old town,
And I see her somehow in my fancy,
As an angel with bright robe and crown.

FRIONA BANK IMPROVING

A. O. Drake, local carpenter and contractor, has been busy for the past ten days making extensive repairs and rearrangements in the interior of the Friona State Bank building.

These changes, when completed, will result in the addition of much more and greatly needed space within the banking room for the work of the employees of the institution and will accordingly enhance the efficiency of the bank's service. The officials of the bank are deserving of compliment for their progressive spirit.

Konjola Frees Business Woman of Seven Ills

Well Known Lady Enthusiastic Over Results Obtained by New Medicine.

MRS. MOLLIE F. VINSON

"I cannot begin to express my gratitude for Konjola," said Mrs. Mollie F. Vinson, well-known apartment house proprietor, 432 A, East Broadway, East St. Louis. "When I began taking this great medicine I was practically a helpless invalid suffering from rheumatism, neuritis, stomach and kidney troubles. My fingers and hands and the joints in my ankles and feet were frightfully swollen and painful. My kidneys were run down and my stomach weak."

"It required but six bottles of this marvelous medicine to banish every one of my ills. Today I have no sign of the pains of neuritis or rheumatism, nor are my joints either in hands or feet, the least bit swollen, my stomach and kidneys function as they should and I do not suffer the least discomfort after a hearty meal. My appetite is better and I am stronger, healthier and happier than I have been in many years."

Konjola is sold in Friona at the City Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Dairymen Urged to Retain Herds By State Expert

Following is a letter from J. L. Thomas of the Dairy Extension Department of Texas A. & M. College, to R. O. Dunkle, county agent:

"We are today in receipt of a letter from a Texas farmer, stating that 'owing to the low price of butter fat he was going out of the dairy business.' He further states that he 'has been 12 years building up his herd of 37 cows, and that he was using a bull for which he paid $212.00.'"

"We wrote this farmer that we believed he was making an unwise move to sell his entire herd, but that he could and should cull out his low producing cows, raise as much feed as possible for the better part of the cows that remained in the herd, and then perhaps he could make some profit even at the prevailing low price of dairy products."

"We have no doubt that there are many similar cases in most every county, and if these people do not receive the counsel of someone who realizes the value of a few good cows on the farm, while herds will be sold at a sacrifice."

"We have an opportunity to do some real dairy demonstration work:

- (1) Cull these herds and sell the inferior cows, keeping only the better ones for the future herd.
- (2) Set up a better feeding system on these farms by getting more pasture and hay crops raised, and such grains that will produce in that particular locality.
- (3) Get some records on production on these herds in order to determine whether or not the cows are being kept at a profit, or at a loss.

"While the above outlined work is being carried on it can be impressed on the farmer and his family, that the home table is the best possible market for as large a part of their dairy products as they can consume. Too, the more dairy products that are consumed on the farm table, the less there will be of surplus on the market to hold the average price-level low."

"The above outlined program, we believe, should be the county agent's contribution towards stabilizing the dairy industry at this period of depression, with its 50,000,000 pounds of surplus butter in storage."—Hereford Brand.

JESUS TEACHING ABOUT HIMSELF

Matthew 11:2-6, 25-30

Golden Text: Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give ye rest.—Matthew 11:28.

Introduction.

John the Baptist had incurred the enmity of Herodias by his bold declaration to Herod that it was not lawful for him to have his brother's wife. Herod himself had also resented this rebuke, and he had shut John up in prison in the fortress of Machaberos, about seven miles northeast of the Dead Sea. There the prophet had been confined for something like a year. He had, however, the privilege of seeing his disciples, and they told him of the works of Jesus, which were quite different from what John had expected him to do. Finally he sent to inquire of Jesus whether he was really the Messiah or not.

John the Baptist In Doubt.

John the Baptist was suffering from doubt. Things were not turning out as he had expected. For months now he had been languishing in the dungeon. "He was a Bedouin of the desert taken from the open air and put in prison, muscles relaxed and his lungs lost their power, and the trouble of the body reaches the soul." His work had apparently been a failure. "His life was ending in his very prime, after only two years of labor for his Lord." And Jesus was not the Messiah that he expected. He was raising no armies, destroying no enemies, promoting no revolution. Moreover, he appeared to take no notice of John's imprisonment. How natural, therefore, that John should wonder if, after all, he had been mistaken in thinking that Jesus was the Messiah.

Reply of Jesus to John.

To the troubled inquiry of his forerunner Jesus made no direct reply. He did not explain his own conduct, but merely commanded the messengers to tell John what they had seen. His actions were the credentials of his Messiahship. They showed his sympathy for the suffering, his desire to deliver the diseased and comfort the bereaved. Next, there was his message. It was good news for the poor. This was something new, for neither heathen philosophers nor Jewish rabbis showed much concern for the poor. The poor were often referred to in contemptuous fashion. But never by Jesus. He made no distinction between rich and poor. It is one of the chief glories of the religion he established that it offers its best blessings to the poor on the same terms as to the rich.

Christ's Testimony Concerning John

"Verily I say unto you, Among them that are born of women there hath not risen greater than John the Baptist." As John the Baptist had borne glorious testimony to Jesus as the Messiah, so now in the Baptist's dark days the Messiah bears glad testimony to him. He was no waverer, no reed shaken back and forth by the wind, in spite of his temporary questioning. He was no finely dressed courtier, a hanger-on of palaces. He was a prophet; yes, and more than a prophet, for he was himself the subject of prophecy, and our Lord quoted Mal. 3:1, "Behold, I will send my messenger, and he shall prepare the way before me." Yes, and more than a prophet, for he had himself seen the Messiah and personally ushered in his kingdom. No man was greater than John the Baptist—that is, no man up to the inauguration of Christ's kingdom; but the least in that kingdom is greater than he—not greater in character, but greater in position and privilege. This generous tribute to John was made by Jesus at the time of John's distress and doubt, may well lead us to consider whether in our thinking we have been exalting the Baptist as we should, and gaining from his resplendent character the inspiration for our own lives which it is so well able to give us.

Christ's Condemnation of Unbelief.

Our Lord passed from this valuation of John to a valuation of the generation in which both he and John lived. They were pleased either with John's association or with Christ's freedom from austerity. They were like the children who would not play "follow my leader," joining neither in the dance nor in the funeral wails. Christ had done mighty work in their cities, such as the nearby Chorazin, Bethsaida and Capernaum, and the cities were still unrepentant. Our Lord condemned them sternly, foretold woes to come upon them, declared that his own Capernaum, which had become his home town, should be brought down to hell.

"Who but a divine King could venture to pronounce such penalties upon these cities? Can we imagine any other man that he solemnly stating that if man did not believe in him and accept him as Lord and Saviour, they should suffer the doom of hell? Who must it be who makes such claims for himself? It is well to note here that Jesus pronounces his woes not merely upon the wicked, the immoral, the depraved, but upon those who are indifferent to his claims. Again it should be noted that Jesus insists that the larger the opportunity for belief, the greater is the condemnation of those who reject him. His miracles were his credentials. Whatever view may be taken by modern men of these wonderful works, Jesus declared that they bore definite testimony to his claim."—Prof. Charles E. Erdman.

Christ the Son Reveals the Father.

"And no one knoweth the Son, save the Father." Thus Christ did not expect to be understood by men; and when some flash of insight into his divine nature came to a disciple, as when Peter made his great confession, our Lord was amazed and delighted. But it was enough for him that his Father understood him. "Neither doth any know the Father, save the Son," Christ alone had come from heaven after an eternity of union with the Father, he in the Father and the Father in him. He alone could reveal the Father to men. "And he to whomsoever the Son willeth to reveal him." This revelation of the Father was the object of Christ's incarnation. He was not obliged to reveal his Father to all men, irrespective of their desire to know him and their capacity to receive him. Christ made choice of the fit, of those who would value the revelation as the greatest thing in life, and would therefore make a good use of it.

Rest for the Weary.

"Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." No sweeter invitation ever fell from the lips of our Lord than the one with which our lesson closes. To all the burdened and tolling men and women whose hearts are longing for rest he says, "Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me." Become my disciple, and you shall find rest. Vainly do men seek rest anywhere else. Not in any other system of philosophy, not in any program of morality, is there to be found relief from the burden of sin that every honest and thoughtful man bears on his heart. Jesus alone gives rest, rest from the load of guilt, rest from the strain of anxiety, rest in the glad service of God, rest in the harmony of life with the benovolent plan of our Father.

is the word 'Come.' Its significance lies in the fact that it falls from the gracious lips of God."—David James Burrell.

"Rest is Christ's gift. First, directly, and second, as a result of experience. 'I will give you rest when you come to me. Ye shall find rest, in taking my yoke and in bearing my burden.'—Marvin R. Vincent.

"The world's way of giving rest is by removing a man's yoke. 'Not as the world giveth, give I. That is not his way. The restful life is not the careful life—life without burden or yoke. The gift of Jesus is a gift of rest while wearing the yoke, rest while carrying the cross, rest in the very midst of mystery, temptation and strife.'—J. H. Jowett.
