Miss Pierce is a graduate of Raymondville High School. She received her B. A. degree from the U. of Texas and is a candidate for the degree of doctor of medicine in the June class of the U. of Texas School of Medicine, at Galveston.

Mr. Lankford is a graduate student at the U. of Texas and s at present associated with the Military Physics Research Laboratory of the University.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Edgar Bull, Mrs. Carl Braley, Mrs. James Edgington, Miss Doris Jean Thompson, Mris. C. J. Scott and Mrs. Marshall Pick-

The date of the wedding was made known by white ribbon streamers with large gold letters attached to a huge wedding ring filed with orange blossoms and gladioli. Little Tommie Edgingon and Miss Betty Jean Chrestnan, dressed as miniature bride and groom, stood on either side of ne blossom filled ring.

Many neighbors and friends alled during the tea hour.

Let's make him count in America's Future!

Rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief-what's your guess about this young fellow's future?

Of course, a lot will depend on the kind of world he grows up in. And that will depend, to a great extent, on the answers you give when the Census-

Census facts and figures are used by leaders in industry, business, labor and civic groups to plan such things as new schools, parks and playgrounds; new housing and hospitals; new roads and safety regulations; a better distribution of services like telephones, electricity, gas and water.

Even your voice in the Government-the number of Congressmen your state is entitled to-is determined by the Census.

All personal information you give the Census-Taker is confidential-under law-so answer his questions quickly and accurately. It's one way you can make sure your children count in America's future.
