STATE NEEDS TO CLEAN HOUSE

BY ALLAN SHIVERS Governor of Texas

(Editor's Note: This is the last in a series of five articles on the Texas Economy Commission.) Just as the housewife engages in "spring housecleaning," state government needs to clean house now and then.

If unneeded or overlapping services have accumulated, they must be eliminated. Only by doing so can we make sure that necessary state services will be provided efficiently and economically.

The Texas Economy Commission is undertaking to provide financial support for the necessary research upon which to base a sound, progressive reorganization program.

Hundreds of Texas citizens have accepted appointment to this commission, which is purely a people's project. It has no connection with state government, except that appointments to the commission were made by the governor.

We hope for and expect the TEC to grow into a real grass-roots movement for good government. Everyone is for economy in general. Most of us like to talk about it — but taking action is a different matter.

I hope that the Texas Economy Commission will get beyond the talking stage.

When will this commission have something to report? That question is not easy to answer.

When the commission was originally started in March, I hoped that it would be able to start its work promptly and have at least preliminary report ready by January, 1951, when the 52nd legislature will meet.

There have been inevitable delays, however, in the organization process. As might be expected, most of our problems are financial in nature. No state funds are available for this program, which will require a minimum of $75,000 for proper development.

Capable personnel must be acquired for the research staff, and persons of the desired qualifications are not easy to find.

They are already gainfully employed elsewhere; they are not eager to accept assignments with this new organization until the money is in the bank.

Thus the actual research program of the TEC had to wait on completion of the drive for a $75,000 operating fund. About 20 per cent of the commission's first year budget has been deposited. Efforts are being pushed to raise the balance.

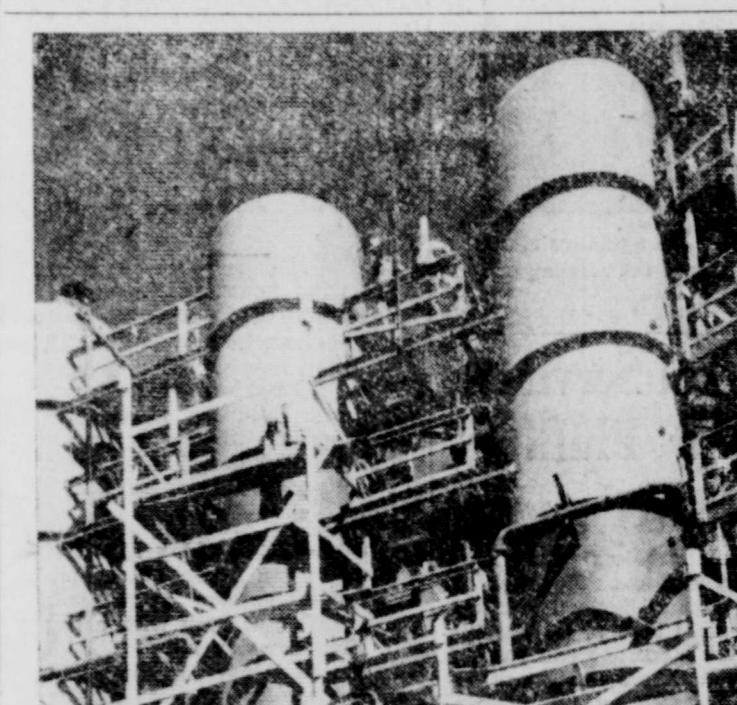

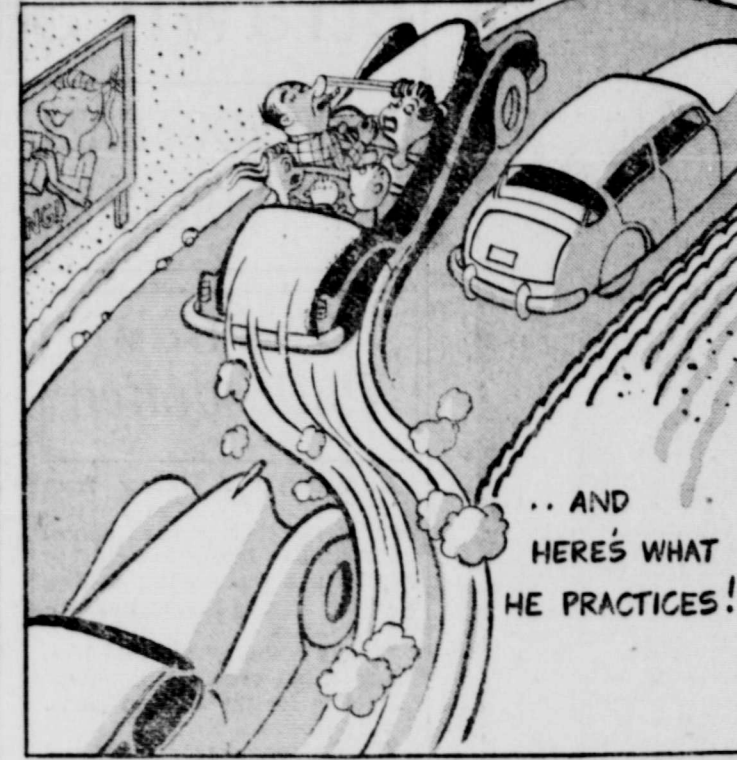

Meanwhile, county organizations have been perfected in about 50 counties. Fund-raising is in progress in other counties as well. The money will be subscribed, I am confident.

Thus the timetable of the Texas Economy Commission has had to be revised. It is unlikely that a report can be made that will be helpful to the Governor and the Legislature during the forthcoming session.

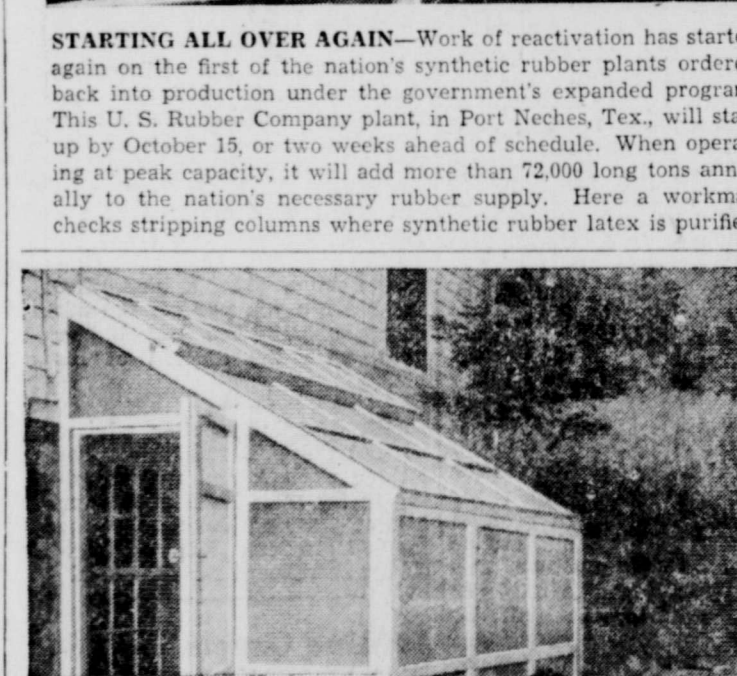

This delay is to be regretted, but it will not be fatal. The field in which the Texas Economy Commission will operate is broad and complicated. A careful study and report somewhat delayed would be eminently preferable to a hasty and incomplete one.

I am convinced that the Texas Economy Commission is in position to do a lot for economy and efficiency in state government — and that it will do so.

STARTING ALL OVER AGAIN—Work of reactivation has started again on the first of the nation's synthetic rubber plants ordered back into production under the government's expanded program. This U. S. Rubber Company plant, in Port Neches, Tex., will start up by October 15, or two weeks ahead of schedule. When operating at peak capacity, it will add more than 72,000 long tons annually to the nation's necessary rubber supply. Here a workman checks stripping columns where synthetic rubber latex is purified.

BUILD A GREENHOUSE FOR LESS THAN $50

Easy To Follow Plan You can grow flowers, lettuce and even tomatoes right through the winter season in this easily-constructed lean-to type greenhouse. Built against the south wall of a home, it consists of only three sides and a roof, and uses "Vimlite" Plastic Glazing instead of glass. Because it requires only standard lumber sizes and inexpensive glazing this attractive greenhouse can be built for under $50—plus foundation. Overall, it measures 5 feet wide by 9 feet long with sufficient head room for a tall person. Complete plans including detailed lumber list can be obtained free by writing to Celanese Corporation of America, Vimlite Department, 180 Madison Avenue, New York 16, N. Y.

The pueblos of the southwest United States, such as those at Taos and Zuni, New Mexico, and Tucson, Arizona, were ancient when St. Augustine, Florida, and Albuquerque, New Mexico were founded by the Spanish, the first white men to build permanent establishments in the New World. But these pueblos in turn are built upon the sites of still more ancient civilizations.

Old Fashioned Meat Cakes with Rice and Gravy

- | | |
|------------------------------------|--|
| 4 tablespoons finely chopped onion | 3 tablespoons fat |
| 1 egg, slightly beaten | 4 tablespoons flour |
| 1 teaspoon salt | 1 1/2 cups water |
| 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce | 2 teaspoons meat paste |
| Dash of pepper | 1/2 cup hot water |
| 1/2 cup dry bread crumbs | 1 package (1 1/2 cups) pre-cooked rice |
| 1/2 cup milk | 1 1/2 cups water |
| 1 pound ground beef | 1/2 teaspoon salt |

Combine onion, egg, salt, Worcestershire sauce, pepper, bread crumbs, and milk. Let stand 5 minutes. Add beef and mix lightly. Form into 10 small cakes. Melt fat in skillet. Add meat cakes and brown lightly on both sides.

Meanwhile, combine rice, 1 1/2 cups water, and 1/2 teaspoon salt in saucepan. Mix just until all rice is moistened. Bring quickly to a boil over high heat, uncovered, fluffing rice gently once or twice with a fork. (Do not stir.) Cover and remove from heat. Let stand 10 minutes.

When meat cakes are browned remove from skillet and keep hot. Add flour to fat remaining in skillet, blending well. Add 1 1/2 cups water gradually, stirring constantly. Dissolve meat paste in hot water and add to mixture in skillet. Bring to a boil.

Arrange rice on platter. Place meat cakes around rice and top with part of the gravy. Serve with remaining gravy. Makes 5 servings.

It Was Just An Accident —
... that Columbus discovered America, or was it luck? He himself said that his journey would be hazardous and he didn't know where he was going. But he had faith that he would discover a great land, and he did. Likewise, the person who buys land without an abstract is embarking on a dangerous course. Like Columbus he must have faith that he won't lose his all and plenty of luck to avoid disaster.

home, she was invited into the dining room where she was thrilled to see the table was centered with a beautiful birthday cake with many candles atop, and a lovely dinner placed on the table, family style, which consisted of fried chicken, vegetables, salads and relishes. She was given the place of honor, and was asked to offer the invocation. After the nice meal had been enjoyed, Mrs. Davis was asked to make a wish which she said was for her church; while the family lighted the candles on her cake.

The honoree stated that as time goes on, she sees and experiences more of what friends mean to her as they have done much for her happiness. Others remembering her birthday with visits, gifts and cards were: Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Rachel, Mrs. Jasper Qualls, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Huntington, Mrs. A. J. Olson, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Einstein says:
"Communities tend to be less guided than individuals by conscience and a sense of responsibility. What a fruitful source of suffering to mankind this fact is. It is the cause of wars and every kind of oppression, which fill the earth with pain, sighs, and bitterness."

where the spectators sat or reclined, and noting the booth where the Vestal Virgins sat as they turned thumbs-down on combatants that did not please their 'sensibilities', one can get the feel of the vast audience, the staid day's revelry and emotion, and the expectancy that attended a day's revelry and combat in which a life was always forfeit. It was the majesty, and that solemn, imposing grandeur of the Colosseum that caused the monk Bodo to exclaim, centuries ago: "While the Colosseum stands Rome shall stand, when the Colosseum falls Rome shall fall; when Rome falls, shall fall the world."

Leaving the Colosseum, we drove past the pyramid that the Apostle Paul saw. It is a part of the great wall built in the first century, and forms a part of the cemetery wall where Kest's and Shelley's bodies lie buried. On out the Appian way, we traveled over roads, a part of which were built 300 B. C., to the tomb of Cecilia Metella, the wife of Publius Crassus, the conqueror of Spartacus, and one of the triumphs. Here, we saw, also, the St. Sebastian catacombs, or early underground burial chambers where Peter and Paul are said to have met with followers of Christ in secret worship. There are more than a hundred inscriptions on the walls that attest to the fact that the two Apostles were there. Many of the tombs are still intact while others are open, and the skeletons of the dead exposed. Oil jars used in embalming are still in some of the crypts. Many of the ceilings are carved and ornamented, some rooms have paintings on the walls, there are dozens of winding, narrow passageways, the air is damp and musty smelling, and there is total darkness except for the flashlight of the monk who guides you through, and an occasional half of a small match-sized candle lighted temporarily. This catacomb was first named for Peter and Paul whose bodies were first buried here, but about the eighth century, when the memory of Peter and Paul began to fade, it was named for St. Sebastian who had been killed in battle by an Arab. One of the arrows that wounded St. Sebastian may be seen in the church erected above the catacombs. Excavations of the catacombs is continuing at the present time.
