THE STRANGE KOREAN WAR

The Korean war is one of the strangest and most terrible conflicts ever fought. Geographically, it is a small war — in terms of human and material costs it is a big one. Veterans of some of the most difficult and bloody campaigns of World War II say that Korea is even worse — in terrain, in climate, and in the character of the enemy. It is a war which we cannot win under present conditions, and it is also a war which seems to be half-forgotten at home. Even if a truce is finally reached, it will be an uneasy one, and unless there is a reversal of policy our troops will remain on guard in that riddled land, watching and waiting to see if the enemy has more grim surprises in store for us.

Theoretically, it is a war of the United Nations against an aggressor. Actually it is a war in which one country, the U. S. is doing almost all of the fighting, providing almost all of the money and weapons, and taking the vast majority of the losses. Our casualties approach the 100,000 figure, and of them well over 15,000 are known to be dead. The death rate among those now listed as missing is expected by all to be exceedingly high. Our allies have fought bravely and taken their casualties too, but, at U. S. News & World Report said, the "U. S., with 150,000,000 people, is being called upon to assume losses of its ground-force youths that are far higher than losses of U. N. allies with 240,000,000 people. The proportion of U. S.

casualties to those of its U. N. allies now is about 13 to 1, and is rising gradually week by week."

It is common knowledge that our major ally, Great Britain, has small stomach for the Korean war, and only came along because, in the current state of world affairs, there was nothing else she could do. Britain feels that it would be economically impossible for her to break off all relations with China, regardless of who runs the Chinese government. She also feels that an extension of the war in the Far East would mean the loss of Hong Kong and other key Crown colonies and possessions. She can marshal strong arguments in support of her position. But whether those arguments are valid or not in the strong white light of history, this situation adds still more somber strangeness to the Korean conflict.

It was General MacArthur's conviction that the war must be carried to the heart of the enemy, which means to the heart of China. It was for stating and restating this that he was relieved. Yet, if all else fails, the American government, though reluctantly, may be forced into that course. It is inconceivable that the war should be allowed to go on indefinitely. The drain on our manpower is too great.

On the bright side are reports from the front that the losses taken by the Chinese, in men and equipment, have been incredibly high — so high that it is doubtful if they are in a position to mount new major offensives. And the feeling grows — and has been buttressed by the most recent atomic tests in Nevada — that tremendous new lethal weapons suitable for tactical use by ground troops, may be on the way. Hope is strong that the Chinese may be losing their stomach for fighting, and that Russia may conclude that this particular Red cause is lost. In the meantime, the Korean war is unlike any this nation ever fought.

"A BIBLE AND A NEWSPAPER IN EVERY HOUSE, A GOOD SCHOOL IN EVERY DISTRICT—ALL STUDIED AND APPRECIATED AS THEY MERIT—ARE THE PRINCIPAL SUPPORT OF VIRTUE, MORALITY AND CIVIL LIBERTY"

Not only is the Bible breaking all previous records as the world's best seller, but there is more reading of the Bible than ever before in our day, according to officers of the American Bible Society. The Society is sponsoring a worldwide reading of the Bible between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Announcing as a theme that Bible reading is "The Way Out of the Dark" for nations and individuals, a committee of distinguished Americans of which President Truman is honorary chairman is supporting the movement. A list of the greatest selections of the Bible has been prepared for daily reading in some forty countries.

HITLER'S FORMER HEAVEN

TOURIST SITE—A group of American tourists is shown leaving the bomb-shattered home that once was Adolf Hitler's haven. The huge structure situated atop a mountain at Berchtesgaden, Germany, is now almost completely in ruins but is still a main attraction for many visitors. Present plans are to soon dismantle the heavily-damaged home of the former Fuehrer. A lone tourist, top, above, adds his name to the hundreds which already adorn the walls of the garage. Once thought to be an impregnable fortress to which Hitler could retreat with almost perfect safety, the hide-out was badly bombed by Allied planes during the war. A group of American tourists inspects the impressive 25-by-12-foot window in the salon of Hitler's former house, above. Most of the dictator's talks with European statesmen were held in this room where plans were made that affected so much recent history.

GETTING IT READY—The most popular beverage at this time of the year is apple cider. In these photos, George Pavlik and his family, in Waukegan, Ill., demonstrate how they make sweet cider in their 100-ton press. Below, left, apples fresh from the harvest are ready for pressing. With the trays filled and ready, George Pavlik swings them on a dolly to the pressing section, right. After the apples are pressed, the liquid flows through a hose into barrels.

GOOD TO THE TASTE!—The average consumption of cider in the United States is about one quart per capita. Each bushel of apples yields almost three and a half gallons of the beverage and the fragrance of the mellow fruit fills the air as the throbbing presses notify passers-by that it's being made. Mrs. Pavlik, above, tests the sweet, fresh result of the family's seasonal labor which is now ready for the market.

women do the cooking

And women know what they want. 96 out of 100 women in this area prefer to cook on gas ranges. There's little need for us to talk about the cooking method that has always been, and will always be, such an outstanding favorite. You may, however, be wondering about some claims that are being made for another cooking method. That is why it may be to your best interests to read this ad that reviews several exclusive advantages of automatic gas ranges... so that you who do the cooking may never be persuaded into trying, at great cost, a cooking method that wastes the skill you have acquired through years of experience. Don't be misled into believing that modern cooking means cooking from a wire.

Your next range should be completely automatic. Gas is recognized as most flexible and controllable of all fuels.

Your next range should have the burners with a lifetime guarantee—burners that do not turn out like a light.

Your next range should be fast, should provide instant heat. You should not have to wait for burners to warm, wait for burners to change speed.

Your next range should have flexible burners that fit heat to the bottom of every pan in your kitchen — not 2 or 3.

Your next range should provide hundreds of burner settings — not just 5 or 6.

Your next range should be practical to operate. Modern automatic gas ranges cost less than one-fourth as much to operate as non-flame ranges — do a better cooking job.

Your next range should broil without creating a fog of smoke. Gas broilers consume food vapors. You broil with the door closed.

Your next range should cook "cool." All cooking methods take heat. You can turn gas heat off immediately, but a glowing wire produces lingering heat after every use.

Your next range should be safe. Year after year, underwriters' reports of fire show that more than ten times as many fires are caused by electricity than by gas.

Your next range should be easy to clean. Burner bowls on automatic gas ranges lift out, wash like a china dish. There's no need for an ice pick to chip charred food from an element.

The Modern Gas Range, and only the Modern Gas Range, embodies all the above features.
