

SQUAWS NIP SUDAN, WIN TITLE

Folks hereabouts that read the "In the Courts" column got a laugh last week when the name of Friona's most "red-faced" policeman appeared in that column—one Ed Duker.

Seems that Ed wasn't practicing what he preached when he parked facing the wrong way in front of the Friona Oliver Company last week. That part wasn't too bad, but then when another officer came by and saw the violation, it was too wet to plow.

• Welcome to the club Ed!

Speaking of faces, this scribe's face almost got lifted last week.

Let it be said for the record as of now this column is not to be taken seriously—the editorials appear on page 2.

But as it happened a friend of the former news editor, Leland Boyd, now editor-publisher of the Bovina Blade, took offense at an article in this column last week, and had the idea that Tracks was trying to ridicule, criticize or do sumpin' to Leland. Now Leland Boyd is an old friend, and we have been taking pokes at each other—all in fun—for some time.

But at any rate, what was written about Leland in this column was in plain fun, no harm was meant and we take this opportunity to apologize if anyone thought the story pointed in that direction or was in poor taste.

Here's hoping you folks will bear with us until we get used to Parmer County, but things still happen every day that would tend to make an East Texan sit up on his hind legs.

It is a relief to find that we weren't the only people to be just plain flabbergasted by the vastness of the Plains. We had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Os Lange recently as she stopped by to mail some gifts to grandchildren and discovered she found the Plains country pretty big in 1917 when she first arrived at Black.

She tells us that one of her husband's favorite stories about his arrival in Friona concerns a railroad conductor. The train pulled to a stop and he looked out first the windows on the right, then on the left of the train, and puzzled, he asked the conductor "Which side of the tracks is Friona on, anyway?"

The grizzled conductor snorted—"Humph, just take your pick, it's all 'round you." (At that time Friona only consisted of an elevator and a depot in the area by the tracks.)

A few stories concerning the Friona Wheat Growers' post cards have been drifting around this week and we overheard this in the barbershop the other day:

After examining one of the cards, one of the men getting sheared said he wanted to send one of the cards to his father-in-law.

"He is always wanting me to prove up what I am telling him about this country to him so some of his cronies won't accuse him of being nuts when he retells my stories," the man said.

Continuing, the man in the chair told: "One day last year we were eating and I said something about getting a million pounds of grain off my north place and he almost fell into his plate."

"Son," he said, "Did I hear you right or are you just stringing me along?"

"It took me the rest of the day to convince him I wasn't stretching the truth."

Just in case you are interested, Wheat Growers' still has plenty of the cards on hand and a supply may be had for the asking. We have a few in the Star office if you don't want to walk a couple of blocks.

Congratulations to the members of District 3-A for providing the fingernail-chewing tournament we've had the pleasure of watching in a long time.

Naturally we're disappointed that the Chiefs, as well as the Squaws, aren't still in there battling for bi-district honors, but the thrills and spills came in bunches over at the Friona High gym last week.

For those of you who missed the finals Friday night—well, you just shouldn't be there. Words couldn't describe the electricity in the air during the last few minutes of both the Squaws vs. Sudan game and the Farwell vs. Morton tilt.

• Dang near chewed the leather off my camera trying to watch the last of the Squaw game. Coach Baker Duggins claims it wasn't planned that way though—it just happened!

Friona's Squaws had a gymnasium-filling crowd pulling at their hair before finally surging ahead and winning the District 3-A girls' basketball crown Friday night by downing Sudan 40-32.

In the boys' division, Morton's Indians fought down a stubborn, never-say-die team from Farwell 42-38 to take the boys' crown.

Hampered by not being able to connect on "cinch" shots the Squaws finally found the range late in the game and pulled away pouring 20 points through the hoop while holding the Sudan team to only 6 points in the last quarter.

Trailing at the end of the first quarter by one point, 10-9, the Squaws could only scratch 7 times during the second quarter but managed to hold the Sudan girls to only 6 points and the half ended knotted, 16 all.

The third quarter found the Squaws still fighting a losing battle allowing the Sudan girls to score 10 points while scoring only 4 themselves.

The tide began to turn as the last quarter began with Robbie Boggess and Jonnie Hand blasting through to get the basket's range and score 9 and 7 points respectively in the last stanza. Charlotte Bock got four tallies in the last quarter as the Squaws rolled up 20 points to Sudan's 6 in the last go-round.

Lawana Houlette and P. Neel were outstanding on defense for the Squaws although both fouled out late in the game.

High point honors for the Squaws went to Robbie Boggess who scored 17 points followed by Jonnie Hand with 13 and Charlotte Bock with 10.

High point honors for the Sudan team went to Masten with 15 points followed by Stern with 11 and Humphreys with 6.

Johnny Lovelace scored 15 points for the Farwell boys to take home high point honors in the final boys' game followed by Owen Huffaker with 8 and Dickie Williams and Derrell Garner with 6 points each.

Morton's team split high points with Flanagan and Gattis scoring 12 apiece. Brownlow made 8, Middleton 6, and Woods and E. Thompson scored 2 each to round out the scoring for the champions.

Thursday night's action saw two tightly fought contests waged as Farwell's boys downed Sudan 55-51 while the Sudan girls downed Morton's girls 55-51.

This semi-final action was highlighted by highpoint boy

Garner scoring 17 points for Farwell followed by Lovelace with 13 and Phillip Berry with 8. Sudan's Bobby Beale scored 20 points followed by Don Shannon and Don Wood scoring 9 apiece.

In the girls' game Thursday Humphreys of Sudan scored 24 points followed by Stern scoring 20 and Masten, 11.

Thompson of Morton scored 23 points with Stephen scoring 19 and Flanagan, 7, during the game.

Drive Planned For Scoreboard

Four members of the Friona Boosters have completed plans for a drive designed to equip Friona's Chiefstain Field with an electric scoreboard which will bring the locals up on a par with other teams in the district which the Chiefs will join this fall.

The committee, composed of Hollis Horton, Bill Nichols, J. C. Claborn and Ralph Roden, say the scoreboard of the type which they feel the field needs will cost in the neighborhood of $1600.

The scoreboard will be all electric, remote controlled, and will add a great deal to the field, according to the committee.

Plans call for the drive to get under way Tuesday.

"If all the businessmen in Friona will be behind this project we will have a football field that will stand up to anyone in this new district," the committee says.

Dimmitt Site Of Squaw-Owlette Tiff

Friona's Squaws will meet Hale Center's Owlettes in Dimmitt High School gymnasium Tuesday night in a bi-district class A basketball clash.

Friona girls won their title by squeezing past Sudan's girls Friday night in the District 3-A tournament.

Hale Center, boasting a proud record of two district wins in a row, beat the Squaws last year as the teams met for the bi-district title.

Friona Public Schools Slate Open House Event

For the first time Friona schools will have an open house for parents and interested persons in connection with Public Schools Week Thursday night, March 6.

All teachers will be in their home rooms and be on hand to welcome parents and meet with them during the open house slated to begin at 7 p. m. and continue until 9 p. m. next Thursday.

Receptionists will be on duty at the entrances to all the main buildings so that persons may find their way to the various rooms where they might be interested to go.

The open house will highlight Public Schools Week in Friona, slated to begin March 3 and run through March 7.

Due to the overcrowded conditions in the school cafeteria, Dillie Kelley, school superintendent, has asked that parents who intend to visit the school during the regular "working" hours and plan to eat in the cafeteria help by observing the following schedule:

Parents with children in grades 1-3 are asked to visit on Tuesday; grades 4-6 on Wednesday; grades 7-9 on Thursday and grades 10-12 on Friday.

If parents aren't planning to eat in the cafeteria they are welcome at any time during the week, Kelley said. "We want them to feel welcome but the crowded conditions in the cafeteria between 11 and 12 a. m. forces us to ask this of them," he said.

During Public Schools Week lunch prices for adults in the cafeteria will be reduced from 70 cents to 35 cents.

"We want all the parents to feel at home and visit our schools for we are proud of the job being done here," he said.

the job being done here," he said.

A nursery sponsored by the PTA, will be provided at the elementary school for mothers with pre-school age children.

"We want everybody to come, and we hope that the nursery will help the mothers feel free to visit all the classes and see how, and who, is teaching their children. A normal everyday schedule will be followed," Kelley says.

Friona Commission Visits Engineer

Members of Friona's "officialdom," Commissioners Oscar Baxter, Granville McFarland and Mayor A. W. Anthony, visited the offices of the district engineer of the Texas Highway Department in Lubbock last week to meet the new engineer and acquaint him with problems in Friona.

High on the priority list as far as Friona is concerned is the paving of the Loop west of town which the THD has promised to take care of "in the near future."

The commissioners report the new man is "easy to know" and has promised "to take the Loop paving into consideration" for early action.

Dement Joins Police

Lonnie Dement of Friona has been hired by the Friona Police Department as night dispatcher, announces Ben Moorman, police chief, this week.

Dement, who suffered an injury to his back some years ago and gets around in a wheelchair, will work the police radio and have complete charge of the office from 5 p. m. until 2 a. m.

"This will give us complete coverage on the radio during the critical hours when we have been unable to keep anyone on the air," Chief Moorman says.

Dement will handle all radio traffic and clear all emergency calls while on duty in addition to keeping the department's records and paper work in order.

The new dispatcher will replace Howard Mayfield whose resignation is effective March 1.

YEA COACH, WE WON IT!—Members of the Friona Squaws gather around Coach Baker Duggins last Friday night after a close spine-tingling win over Sudan to take the 1958 District 3-A basketball crown. Coach Duggins was hoisted into the air by the girls who then paraded around the Friona gym with him over their shoulders.

Filing Deadline Looms Nearer

March 5 Deadline For School Trustees Sat. Deadline For Filing For Offices

March 5 has been named as the deadline for anyone wishing to file a petition for one of the three spots on the Friona Independent School District's board of trustees.

Cordie Potts of the Rhea community, Clyde Weatherly of north of Friona, and Arthur Drake of Friona are the three members whose terms expire this year.

Weatherly was appointed to the board to fill the unexpired term of Hadley Reeve.

The early date for election is due to a change in laws as passed by the 55th legislature requiring that the order for election of trustees must be posted 30 days prior to election.

Anyone desiring to run for the posts must file his, or her, name with Paul Fortenberry, board secretary, by March 5.

The same rules apply to anyone desiring to run for the county trustee board. Two terms will expire on the county board this year. They include the posts held by Matt Jesko and Bill Sherley.

The election for both county and local trustees will be held during the first week in April.

Friona Squaws To Meet Claude Friday

Members of the District 3-A champion girls basketball team will play a practice game Thursday (tonight) at 7:30 p. m. in the West Texas State College gymnasium against Claude.

The game, intended as a warm-up to the bi-district play-off slated for Tuesday night with Hale Center in Dimmitt, will keep the girls in shape to continue their fight for the bi-district title.

Dist. Gov. Smith will visit the club for the purpose of advising and helping Andy Hurst, president, and Robert Ginsburg, secretary, and other officers on matters pertaining to local Lions administration and the local program.

Smith is in the cotton and cotton gin business in Ralls, and has been active in civic and state affairs for many years. He is the present mayor of Ralls, and prior to his being elected district governor of the Lions, he served as president of the Ralls Lions for two years and held other posts with the club.

THE STAR'S EDITORIAL COMMENT

What About A City Manager?

Runnig water never becomes stagnant, nor a rolling stone gather moss, and like the adages preceding, Friona's citizens have signified progress by signing a petition for a change in the city government.

The dynamic citizenry of Friona, in asking for this change, shows that the city is growing and we will go along with the people in agreeing that throwing the responsibility of a growing city like Friona on the shoulders of only three men is too much to ask.

The pay involved is often talked of as the type that is doubled each year and still ends up where it began . . . zero, but the pleasure of knowing that one has done his best at trying to guide the destiny of the Pearl of the High Plains is pay enough for interested people.

The deadline for filing for election to one of the three offices presently defined in the city charter is Saturday noon and as of press time we have heard many rumors, but no certain names mentioned as candidates.

The men in office have done what they thought best and perhaps will run again. Many people have criticized their actions, and a persons knows it is impossible to please ALL the people ALL the time, but rather one has to think of doing the thing that would HELP the greatest number of people most of the time in making decisions.

Perhaps it is time Friona began thinking in terms of another form of city government — we would like to suggest the city - manager type of government.

This form of government calls for a trained man to hold the post of city manager, a man trained to cope with the everyday problems of a city like Friona. One that is straining against the leash and growing each day. It calls for a number of councilmen, comparable to our present commissioners, just a change in title, but would give a greater representation of the citizens and put the responsibility on several shoulders instead of just three.

Think this thing over seriously, for whether the move is made today or this year, it will be made in the future, for if Friona continues to grow it will outstrip the original home-rule type of charter. In fact—it already has.

This is a question to keep in mind. Mull it over and ask yourself whether or not it wouldn't be the answer to many of the problems we are facing each day.

in & around FRIONA WITH JUNE

In the past several months a number of persons have requested that we reprint the In And Around Friona column which originally appeared in the State Line Tribune November 3, 1955. Of course, we derive a great deal of pleasure out of knowing that so many remember what we wrote that long ago.

We would like to express our appreciation to everyone who has made a request and hope those who have not read it before enjoy it, too. It really seems strange to be copying column material out of an old Tribune.

Not many months ago, we read a prediction made by some man who was supposed to be an authority on such matters, that within the next few million years human beings would be born without legs. He based his conclusion on the fact that fish who have been born or hatched in the Mammoth Cave in Kentucky have no eyes.

The condition is, in his opinion, the result of generation after generation of fish living in total darkness and having no use for eyes. After a few years of non-use, the eyes ceased to exist. At the time we read the article, it seemed preposterous, but after having made a few observations along this line, we are beginning to wonder if perhaps he is right.

Since we live in the country and are occasionally called upon to pen a stray yearling, check to see whether or not the water is out, or do some other chore which requires some walking, we still use that mode of travel of necessity.

Then, too, we sometimes walk for relaxation and really enjoy it. Since we have five children, there have been a lot of days down through the years when it has been necessary for us to stay inside all day with one or more who were too small or too ill to take outside. On these days, it has been a real pleasure to take a walk when there was someone else to take over for an hour or so.

The attitude most people take toward walking never ceases to amaze us. Lately we are careful to confine ourselves to a small semi-private road when walking for pleasure. There is very little traffic on this road, but we have been stopped several times by motorists who stopped, asked our destination, then drove off looking rather surprised with us.

On several occasions when we have attended meetings of various kinds in town, the need has arisen for something which was not on hand. Without exception, someone has always said, "I have one at home that we could use IF we had a way to go after it." Very often the speaker's home has been less than four blocks away. If you happen to arrive at some function without some visible means of conveyance, someone will always say, "How did YOU get here?"

Even members of our family are beginning to discourage us from walking except when it is absolutely necessary. On several occasions in recent years, we have attended one meeting while the children attended another on the same afternoon or evening when the two meetings closed at different times. Upon being left at the meeting place and agreeing to be at the place where the children are when they are ready to leave, one of them will always say, "Now, Mother, don't walk over. What will people say?"

We hadn't paid too much attention to this until one day recently after we had walked all of four blocks down a busy street. When we were within one block of our destination, a local man stopped and offered us a ride and was very polite to offer to take us wherever we wanted to go. Then later three different persons were kind enough to ask what had happened and remarked that they had seen us walking down the street.

One afternoon last summer we were invited to a meeting of the Northside Home Demonstration Club at the home of Bessie Rolen, who is our neighbor on the east. When we were ready to go and there was no other means of conveyance handy, we started out to walk. After walking a few hundred yards down the highway, we passed our husband, who was busy with a repair job. He called out, "If you will wait a few minutes, I will run you down there." Since the distance was less than 1/2 mile, we just walked on.

In a few minutes, Faye McMahan, who is a member of the club, stopped and offered us a ride which we accepted. Upon our arrival the members, who are all farm women, asked the question, "Was that YOU walking down the road?" Several remarked, "If I had known you didn't have a way to come, I would have stopped by for you."

In passing dairy farms, we've noticed that most dairy farmers do not even walk after the cows anymore. If there isn't a horse nearby and the bossies do not choose to come in at the proper time, someone will jump into a pickup or onto the tractor and go after them. It wouldn't be too surprising some afternoon about milking time if someone said, "I could milk the cow if I had a way to get to the barn."

Take a look at the new car ads. The car manufacturers may be hastening the time when people will no longer have legs. Each new model comes out with more and more push button controls, so it is no longer necessary for us to have legs to enable us to start, stop, or step on the accelerator.

The more we think about the situation as it exists all around us, the more plausible it seems that the fellow may know what he is talking about. In the meantime, we will be very careful to limit our walking to the area between the house and the Friona Draw.

We had two interesting telephone conversations this morning. First we called the Bob

Jones residence and a small voice answered the telephone. After asking for his mother or daddy and being told that neither of them were at home, we heard the voice on the other end of the wire inquire very politely, "Can I take a message?"

Then later during a conversation between the office and our home, a tiny little voice came on the wire and said, "This is Holly." Holly, who is the youngest daughter of Louis and Mayme Lou Welch, was visiting her grandparents, the Ralph Wilsons, and talks quite well for her age. She informed us that she was a big girl now and added, "I didn't cry."

The biggest news in town this week is that the Friona Squaws won the district championship and everyone is elated about it. The game was a good one and we add our congratulations to those of everyone else.

Regular Commission Meeting Monday

Members of the Friona commissioners will meet in regular session Monday night and are scheduled to have a rather lengthy session.

Among some of the items which will face the commission will be a petition signed by over 125 citizens calling for a change in the number of commissioners from two to five; ruling on increase in water bills and zoning and building code rulings.

1958 School Census Shows 127 Increase

Glancing at the report of the 1958-59 school census recently completed and compiled in the superintendent's office, an increase of 127 students over the 1956-57 records is noted.

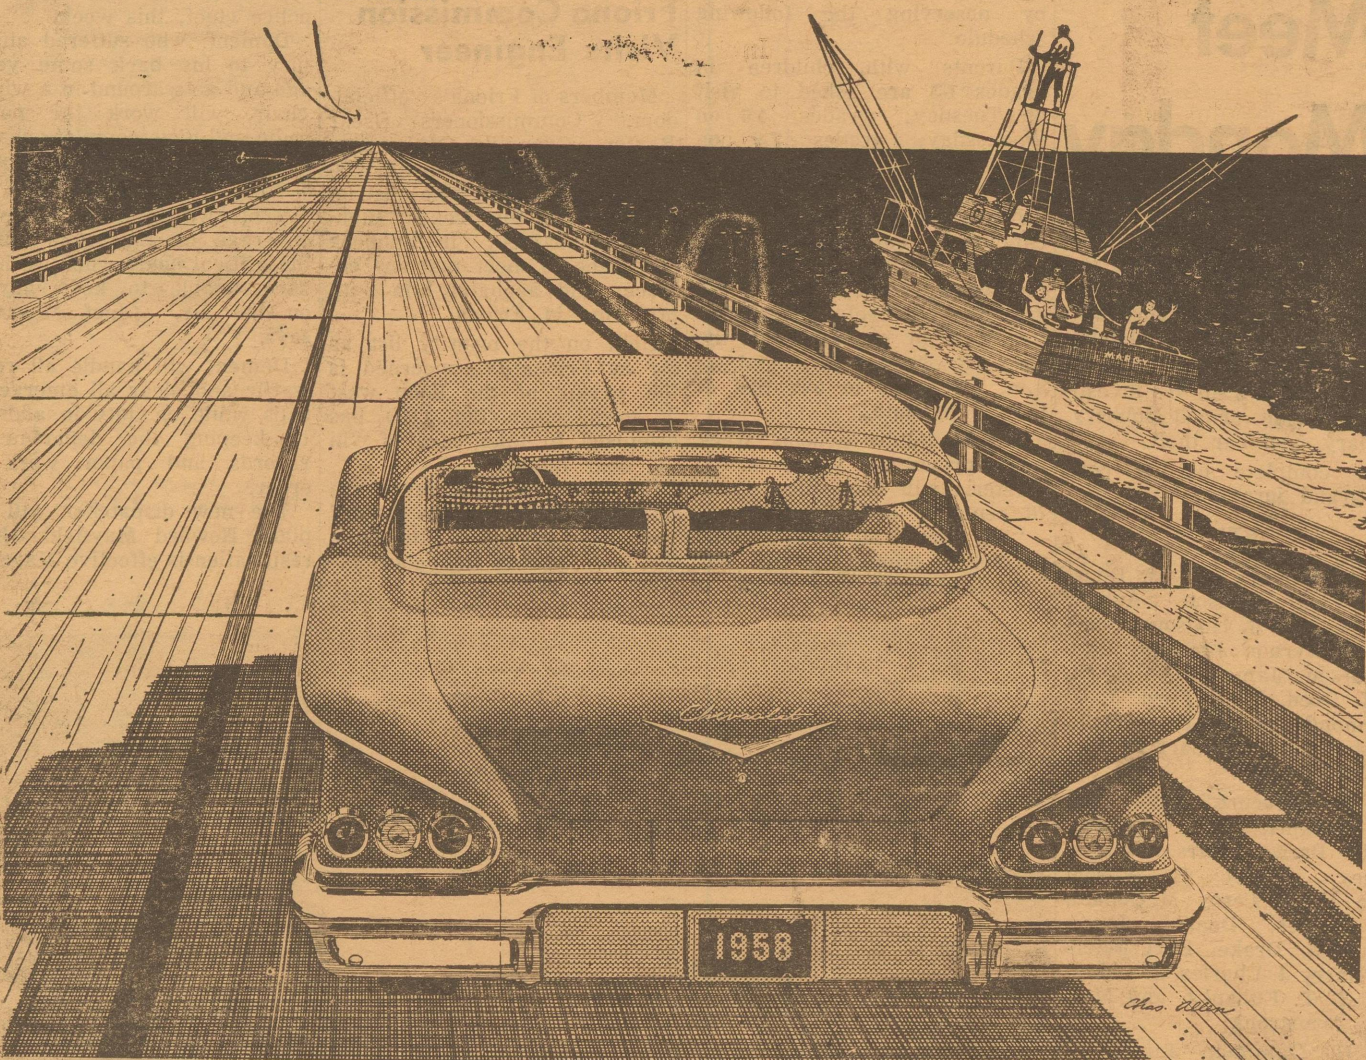

A total of 1,065 scholastics is reported on the new census rolls as compared with 938 last year. The new census report includes 89 youngsters in the 6-year-old bracket which will be eligible to attend school next fall.

Frionans Register With Draft Board

The Selective Service Board last week listed the classification of 60 new registrants and the reclassification of 40 registrants. Those who registered and were classified for the first time from Friona were Donald Loafman, Frankie Coffman, Larry Fairchild, William Fairchild, Darrell Buske, and Ronald Wright.

Those who were reclassified were Calvin Ivie from 1A to 1S, Don Lewis from 1A to 1D, and Sylvester Hartis from 1A to 1C.

UNDENOMINATIONAL CHRISTIANITY

Denominationalism is religious division and confusion. Many think religious division is pleasing to God. Many pray and thank God for being permitted to have the "church of their choice."

CHRIST PRAYED AGAINST DENOMINATIONALISM

Christ prayed, John 17:20-21, that all who should believe on him through the words of his apostles might be one. This prayer was for unity and not division. If all were one in Christ there would be no different denominations. To please Christ and God would be to join no denomination but become and be a Christian only, a member of the church the Lord built (Matt. 16:18; Acts 2:47).

OUR PLEA

This is our plea today. Why should not people depart from and reject all human creeds and take the Bible as the only rule of faith and practice? If this were done by all, all would be members of the Lord's church and not members of any denomination. The Bible Only makes Christians.

Temptation

Matthew 6:1 reads, "Then was Jesus led up of the spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil."

Led of the spirit to be tempted. Two directly opposed forces, good and evil, were here at work on the perfected character of our Lord. Without either of the two, he could not have been the perfect man he was. He did not begin life a perfect man. He became perfect, we are told, through suffering.

"He grew in wisdom," says the evangelists. "He learned obedience," says the apostle, "by the things that he suffered." This is his biography in eight words—"Led of the spirit and tempted of the devil."

This is also the universal genesis of virtue. There is no virtue on earth, nor was there ever any, that was not attained in this very way. There is the burden of life which is set before every person. As we observe this Lenten season, may we bear steadfastly in mind the forty days Our Lord spent in the wilderness. A few minutes in daily devotionals will keep us close to the path the Master trod.

On 91st Birthday, Paul Recalls Early Days in Territory

Celebrating his 91st birthday Sunday was a pioneer resident of Parmer County, Joe Paul. Family members joined him for a dinner at noon and other friends and relatives called during the afternoon.

Present for the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Paul and Mr. and Mrs. J. Shaw of Hereford, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Paul of Hart, Mrs. D. Z. Bradbury and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Jones of Roswell, Mrs. Verdie Paul of Muleshoe, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Howard and sons of Flagstaff, Ariz., Mr. and Mrs. Jack McCutchan of Bovina, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Frank Paul and children, and Misses Greta and Grace Paul.

Calling in the afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Mitchell, Mrs. F. W. Greene, Mrs. Laura Treider, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Lance Hennington and daughter, Norma, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Bew-laughs as he recalls how his friends and relatives regarded his leaving Iowa.

"They were sure we'd be scalped by Indians or shot by some swift-handed cowboy," "But," he says, "both the cowboys and the Indians proved valuable friends."

After his house was completed, he returned to Iowa to move his family and possessions. He recalls he shipped everything—household goods, horses, cattle, chickens, machinery, and 500 bushels of shelled corn.

Immediately he began breaking his soil with a one-horse, one-row walking plow.

"After I had about half finished," he relates, "A man came along with an old steam engine with several plows attached. I hired him immediately to finish my plowing, but upon starting out across the prairies to the field the engine backfired and set the prairies afire."

Now a prairie fire was a fear of the plains, so Paul decided to complete the sod breaking to the following spring. Joe says he has never seen a better crop than that year. "And," he adds, "I've seen some mighty good ones, too."

When he came here there was a family living at Star Ranch headquarters, perhaps another family or two, and four camps for cowboys—Keifer, Red Tower, Carter Corner, and Four Mile.

Then, as now, there was needed a school and church—or Sunday school at least. By the time the second year rolled around a school opened with seven pupils. The pupils rode for miles on horseback or in carts, taking their lunch and buying their own books. "That's quite different now," he muses. Soon Sunday school classes met in the one-room school house every Sunday, with a different preacher each week.

"But," Paul recalls, "each Sunday after church the whole congregation would gather at a neighbor's house to have dinner (everyone contributing). The afternoon was usually spent in singing and playing games and before the group went home, a meeting place was decided upon for the next Sunday. We had good times and without these united efforts, I'm afraid we'd all have become pessimists instead of occasional discouraged optimists."

Other forms of pastime were fall round-ups, baseball, horse shoe pitching, calf riding, coyote hunting, quilting, and trips to the sand hills to gather wild plums, and for those who wished there were dances.

Things that worried the early settlers most were rattlesnakes, panthers, prairie fires and the fear of "losing the way."

"Prairie fires could be seen for miles," says the old-timer, "sometimes lighting up the sky all night and burning for days."

"Everyone had broad fire guards plowed around his home. Rattlesnakes were numerous; and one could hear a pack of coyotes at anytime of the night and an occasional scream of a panther."

Getting lost worried early settlers on the plains.

Paul says, "It soon became an established rule at our house to put lamps (kerosene) in windows facing the four directions when a severe storm came up. A lantern was also put in the windmill tower."

"This," he relates, "guided freighters, cowboys, neighbors, and even old 'Doc' Bean, the Indian, safely to our house during several severe storms. You never knew when you came home, who might have been there; perhaps cooked and eaten; and on several occasions, gone to bed. But we welcomed these passersby; we needed them perhaps more than they needed us."

mail, and doctors, the pioneer says, "Well, transportation was a problem in many ways—no roads, just cow trails. We went to Bovina, then about the greatest cattle shipping center of the world. With no roads to guide us, we just followed the draw to Bovina."

On the way to Farwell, he states, three windmills guided the travelers. Travel was by horseback or wagon and mules. "Groceries," he continues, "were bought every three months. We received mail a little oftener. Perhaps freighters or neighbors would bring it."

"As for doctors, there were none. In 1918, when the flu was raging, the only doctor that could be secured was a Dr. Peebler from Lubbock. He arrived in a raging snow storm, stayed a day and night with us. We owe much to him. My wife aided the stork in some 40 cases, without the aid of a doctor."

"To sum it all up," Paul says, "there were plenty of hardships, troubles, disappointments, happiness, success, and memories. I guess that's what all lives are made up of."

The nonagenarian spends his time reading, playing dominoes, gardening, and "just plain hoeing." Last summer when his children begged him to quit working too hard, especially hoeing, he calmly replied, "Not half as many people die from hard work as they do running from it. For myself, I'd rather wear out than rust out."

When asked how he planned his life to come so many miles down life's highway, he thoughtfully replied, "Plan? I didn't make the plan. I just try each day to cooperate with Him who did."

R. A. Hartsell was an overnight guest in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hartsell in Oklahoma one night last week.

Michael Nelson from Farwell and Dickie Chitwood visited Sunday with James and Gary Mack Brown.

Little two-year-old Christi Christopher from Ropesville is visiting this week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Strickland.

Beautiful lawns just don't happen—they are the product of considerable time and effort, says E. M. Trew, extension agronomist. The use of adapted grasses, good soil and drainage, proper watering, fertilization and mowing are a few of the considerations which go to make a highly desirable lawn. Local county extension agents can supply material on lawn management. Ask for Extension Bulletin 203, "Home Lawns." A new publication, "Alfalfa for Forage and Seed," has recently been released by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. It is available from the offices of local county agents or from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

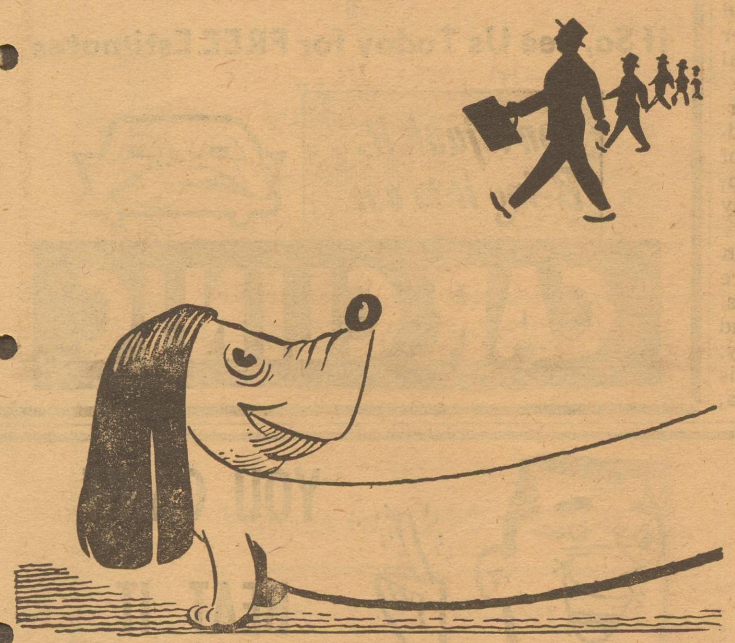

Cases continue to crop up which indicate that not all vegetable growers are fully aware of the provisions of the Miller Amendment. This Federal Act sets the residual tolerances for insecticides used on vegetables, says F. M. Fuller, extension entomologist. Inspectors for the Pure Food and Drug Administration have authority to seize any shipment of vegetables moving in interstate commerce found to contain excessive insecticidal residues.

The President's $73.9 billion budget for fiscal 1959 breaks down as follows: $47.1 billion for national security projects; $16.4 billion for benefits of various kinds; $7.9 billion for interest on the national debt; $2.5 billion for general government. Revenues, estimated at $74.4 billion, would come from these sources: $38.5 billion from individuals; $20.4 billion from corporations; $9.3 billion from excise taxes; $6.2 billion from other levies.

Small grain varieties developed and released by plant breeders of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station during recent years have enabled Texas farmers to increase both grain and forage production from small grain crops. Extension Agronomist R. J. Hodges reports that 70.5 percent of the states' wheat acreage last year was planted to such improved varieties as Comanche, Wichita, Westar, Concho and Quanah.

Recently, Purina research workers asked poultry staff men in 9 leading poultry states to estimate the total amount of feed required—on the average—to grow a pullet in their states. Shown here is the average of the figures they supplied, compared with Purina feed requirements based on records of thousands of pullets raised at the Purina Research Farms.

FEED REQUIRED TO GROW OUT PULLETS*	Light Breeds		Heavy Breeds
	9-state average	Purina Program average	9-state average	Purina Program average
Saving per pullet on Purina	23.1 lbs.	19.3 lbs.	28.0 lbs.	23.8 lbs.
Saving per 100	3.8 lbs.	380.0 lbs.	4.2 lbs.	420.0 lbs.

*From day-old to laying here's how to grow 100 sturdy, big-framed Purina pullets on 250 pounds less feed

Most poultry raisers recognize that Purina Growing Chows have the quality and ingredients to grow sturdy, big-framed pullets. But not all realize that Purina Chow efficiency often makes it much lower in feeding cost than feeds with cheaper price tags.

The table above shows the important difference in number of pounds of feed needed to grow out Purina pullets, compared with the average in 9 leading poultry states. The Purina Research staff rounded off the figures to 250 pounds less Purina Chow for light breeds, and 400 for heavy breeds.

This saving of feed increases the value of Purina complete Growing Chows by 30¢ to 40¢ per bag (50 lbs.)... or 60¢ to 80¢ a bag more for Growing Chow fed with scratch grain.

Thousands of poultrymen have found that they can use high-quality feed... and make money doing it. We know this. And, we're anxious to show you how you may cut feed costs with your pullets.

Pullet Health Hint—Now, with Purina Liquid Poultry Wormer, you can worm each 100 pullets for less than 25¢! Best time is when they are 10 to 12 weeks old, with a second treatment just before housing if your ranges are used heavily. It takes only one dose in the drinking water. The American people, in their headlong rush into materialism, have forgotten that progress for the satisfaction of human vanities is shaky progress, and that until we place values on exploration, research, intellectual discipline and progress for humanity, we can expect to continue to be behind the times. And these things do not start at the top, seeping down to us at the grass roots, but rather, they start at the grass roots and surge upward in direct ratio to our degree of interest and activity."

WAYNE HOULETTE

Young Commuter Mixes Working With College

A 22-year-old Friona boy, Wayne Houlette, could probably figure out statistically that he is a veritable "man on wheels" by virtue of his commuting every day to work and school.

Wayne is a junior at West Texas State College in Canyon and works as a mechanic and body man for the City Body Shop in Friona.

Young Houlette and his wife, Sarah Jo, make their home in Canyon where Sarah also attends college. She is a full-time student majoring in elementary education. Wayne intends to get a bachelor of business administration degree next year.

This semester Wayne makes the trip from Canyon to Friona every other day, clocking up 104 miles every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday as he combines going to school with working in Friona.

On Monday, Wednesday and Friday, Houlette attends his classes and works at being a student.

"I really have it made this semester," Houlette says. "Last semester I had classes every day and had to make the trip to Friona from Canyon every day. I'd work half a day and go to school half a day."

"This time I arranged my classes where they all fell on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday so my mileage is cut in half," he said.

Wayne and Sarah Jo were married last June and since that time the young head of the family has racked up over 9000 miles traveling to the job which he took in Friona in November.

Equality is something for other people to share.

Dunn, N. C., Record: "The idea of the century comes from Bill France, founder and president of NASCAR, the National Association for Stock Cars, who journeyed to Washington at the close of the year to lay before the president's committee for traffic safety a program for licensing automobile drivers as realistically as airplane pilots."

"Mr. France, whose goal is to make highway travel as safe as a ride on a merry-go-round", pointed out to the president's committee the folly of testing drivers on quiet streets at 25 mph and expecting that this could qualify them for handling cars under present highway traffic conditions and at speeds of 40, 50, 60 and 70 mph."

And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Friona Star, a newspaper published in Parmer County, Texas.

TAKE YOUR CAR ABROAD

It will be easier and pleasanter in the future to drive your car from one European capital to another. Standardization of traffic signals and other aids to motorists is a project of the United Nations. Roads will be made safer, and border regulations will be relaxed, to the improvement of motor travel. Closer relations between the countries of Europe will result, as well as warmer sentiments on the part of the migratory population known as tourists.

Thirty-three countries have so far ratified this plan, known as the Convention on Road Traffic.

The American Heart Association and its affiliates have channeled more than $25,000,000 into heart research since 1948.

Bushland, Tex., Man Reports—

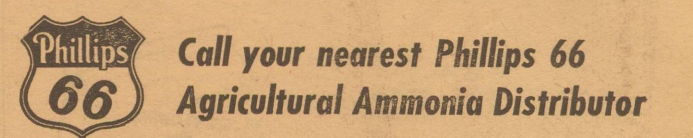

"Good Years, and Bad, My Maize Averages 4,000-lb.-per-acre Grain."

Bill D. Wood, Bushland, Tex., says: "Some years any farmer can get good yields on certain crops—well, I use Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia to maintain high yield levels. I've used Phillips ammonia for six years on irrigated maize, and come good and bad years I've averaged out better than 4,000 pounds of grain per acre.

"Why, on wheat alone, I paid for seed and fertilizer and made $15 net an acre grazing it, when I used Phillips 66 ammonia. Then after that, I cut a 40 bushel wheat crop. I'm sold on Phillips 66 ammonia for my cash crops."

Other Southwestern farmers have discovered that, by using the 82% nitrogen in Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia, they get more cotton that grades out higher at the gin . . . yields of grain sorghum grain and ensilage are increased . . . more marketable vegetables are harvested . . . and profits on wheat are increased through better forage and higher grain yields.

See your Phillips 66 distributor about Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia, the 82% nitrogen fertilizer.

SENTRY DUTY

IN AMERICA every editor is on sentry duty, guarding constantly against all encroachments on the Freedom of the Press. It has always been like this. * Ever since the press battled for and won freedom of expression, its guardians have had to be on the constant lookout for infiltration by the enemies of that freedom. Infiltration—pressure from powerful groups to tone down comment on a situation...pulling of strings to keep a story from being published...predigested propaganda releases.

* But the press knows the importance of never giving up its freedom. For on freedom of the press depend all other freedoms that make up democracy. Therefore, the men of America's press refuse to recognize any check—except military security—on complete, unabridged and inviolate freedom to print the truth.

* * * That is the challenge of today to the courage and the vigilance of these sentries of America's press.

THE HAPPY HOMEMAKER

BY JUNE FLOYD

If you have a small space in a protected area that you would like to use for the production of fresh vegetables for the table, you could begin very soon to make the most of it. It isn't too early to put out onions, plant radishes, mustard, and some of the other hardier vegetables if you can protect them against freezing.

By planning for small amounts of different vegetables, you can have a variety and use the same space over and over again. Too many of us plan our gardens on such a large scale that a large amount of vegetables goes to waste. Proper planning and then carrying out the plans can eliminate much of this.

If you froze or canned green beans last summer and the family is beginning to tire of them, you will probably enjoy the following recipe for sour beans. Drain all liquid from quart of beans, place in heavy pan on stove and cover with onion which has been grated or chopped. Then cover with 1/2 cup water and 1/2 cup vinegar and bring to a boil. Season to taste, then serve hot.

Need a new and different garnish? Then serve cheese popcorn with soups or salads. This is also very good for children for after school snacks. Melt 1/4 cup butter or margarine in sauce pan. Stir in 1/3 cup dry grated American or Parmesan cheese and blend thoroughly. Remove from heat. Add five cups popped corn all at once and stir until each kernel is covered with cheese mixture. May be served warm or cool.

Another popcorn recipe which is very good is for popcorn brittle.

Ingredients:
2 cups sugar
1/2 cup water
3/4 cup corn syrup
1/4 cup light molasses
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 quart popped corn

Combine in heavy sauce pan (2-quart or larger), the sugar, water, corn syrup, molasses, and cream of tartar. Stir over heat until sugar is dissolved. Cover; bring to boil and let boil gently for three minutes. Uncover, insert thermometer, and cook mixture to very hard crack stage (300 degrees F.). Remove from heat. Stir in butter or margarine and baking soda. Add popped corn all at once, stirring until each kernel is covered with mixture. Pour onto buttered jelly roll pan or large buttered baking sheet. Spread thin with back of buttered spoon. When cool, break into pieces.

Something new on the market is greeting cards with recipes printed on them. This idea can be very well used by those homemakers who have artistic ability and make their own cards. What would be nicer than receiving a greeting on any occasion which had one of the sender's favorite recipes written on it?

Those of us who are not so artistic might use this idea to add a personal touch to our greeting cards.

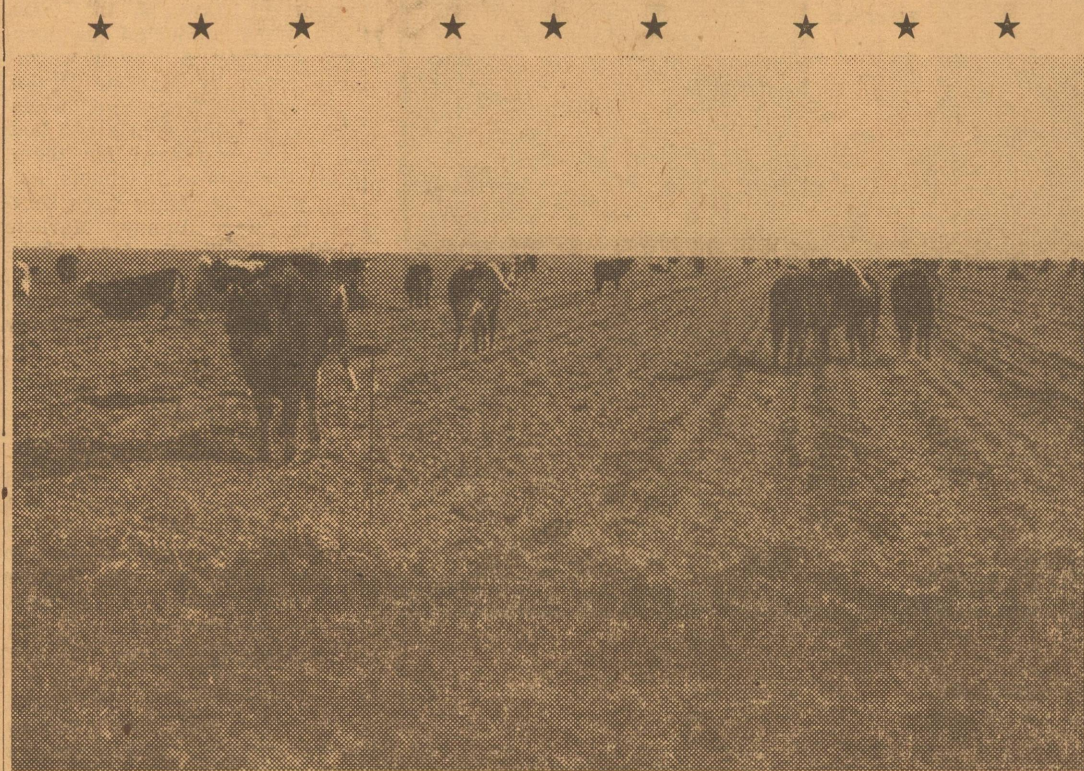

The newest thing we have read about along the tranquilizing line is a dart which is being designed to control unruly cows. Most of us who have ever worked with livestock much have wished for just such a dart. Then when we get the urge to shoot a stubborn animal, we can do just that.

According to information published in one of the new farm magazines a cow can be shot from a distance of as much as 40 yards. As soon as the dart hits her, it injects a tranquilizing drug into her and she becomes as gentle as a lamb.

Since it is in the experimental stage, dairymen are probably looking forward to the time when such darts will be available.

When laundering any of the new minimum-care cottons, be sure to follow instructions. For most of them mild suds and warm water are recommended. If instructions for washing and ironing are carefully followed, washing enhances the beauty of any of the crisp cottons.

The deep-throated roar of irrigation wells "officially" ushered in another growing season on the High Plains last week, as many farmers cranked up their engines for the first watering of wheat. More and more area farmers have invested in aluminum distribution pipe to convey water from the well to the crops with minimum loss from evaporation and seepage.

Better than average moisture conditions have resulted in unusually good wheat pasture conditions. These cattle, on pasture near the Farwell Feed Lots, don't have to range far to get their fill of the succulent green wheat blades.

NEWS FROM THE FARM BUREAU

By RAYMOND EULER

After reading an article in The Nation's Agriculture, we are curious to know if the same situation exists, tax-wise, in this area, as was found to exist in Missouri, Illinois, and North and South Dakota. In several counties of those states, it was found that farmers were assessed at about twice the rate their city friends were. It seems a little strange to us that this condition could exist very long without someone knowing and complaining about it.

California has passed a law that states that farm land must be taxed on the basis of agricultural use only, regardless of its location, such as adjoining, or actually being included in city limits. It seems that extension of city limits is sometimes done for the sole purpose of increasing city tax income.

Cooperative members than all other farm organizations combined, is working toward cooperative ownership, as well as management, of REA. Some people have taken this suggestion to mean that Farm Bureau is opposed to REA. REA legislation was partially drafted, and wholly supported by Farm Bureau, in the beginning.

Production Credit Association, and other farm credit systems were begun on the same basis as REA, that is, with federal aid. However, as soon as they were able to begin paying off their indebtedness, they asked for, and got ownership, without federal control, of their agencies. Farm Bureau holds that the same procedure should be followed with regard to REA.

Farm Bureau members have also expressed opposition to direct payments to farmers as a successful program for agricultural operations. There are other reasons, but the principal one is that it would make farmers directly dependent upon the Federal Government for their net income. It would also lead to new federal controls over individual farm operations.

If you were missed on the membership drive, please come in, or mail your check for your dues, says Jack Patterson, membership chairman.

Suggest Soil Test

The adequate subsoil moisture that is now available as a result of the fall and winter rains indicates an exceptional yield potential for the coming year, according to Bill Bennett, extension soil chemist.

With this reserve supply of moisture and increased yield potential would come an increased need for an adequate fertility level, he points out. In drought periods, lack of moisture naturally becomes a limiting factor in crop production. But in periods of sufficient moisture, plant nutrients often become the limiting factor. So, with chances for sufficient moisture looking good, and since no farmer wants a limiting factor in his crop yields, Bennett advises farmers to apply sufficient fertilizer to supply enough plant nutrients for good growth.

To determine the needs for the coming year, he strongly urges the use of a soil test. The soil test not only will determine the amount of nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium and limestone which will be needed, but it will also determine the proper balance in which the nutrients should be applied.

The recommendations based on a soil test are designed to give the yield increase which would result in the most profitable return from money invested in fertilizer.

For more information on how to have a soil test made, Bennett suggests contacting the county agent.

Farm Bureau Begins Drive

Parmer County Farm Bureau held its membership drive kick-off banquet and instruction session Monday night at Farwell High School cafeteria.

J. H. West, the scheduled speaker and Texas president of Farm Bureau, was unable to leave his home at Bishop because of bad weather.

West contacted the district director for this area, Hub King, who volunteered to kick off the membership drive by making the principal speech of the evening.

Stating the position of Farm Bureau, King said in his opinion the Bureau is the major factor standing between the American farmer and socialized farming. "It is the last obstacle, as well," he said.

In explaining, he referred to the socialist platform of 1932. In it, he said, one can find nine-tenths of the present platform laws which government has passed. "Farm Bureau fought against all of this type of legislation," said King.

"Some of it we defeated, but gradually through the years, the government has turned more and more toward greater control and more stringent restrictions."

"That farmers and those connected with the industry should have differences of opinion is healthy and right, but they must be able to sit down and reach a compromise," said the state director.

King commented at length on a grain sorghum bill currently in the house. The bill would tie the price of grain with that of corn, in proportion to their relative feed value. However, the bill would limit the acreage allotment for the production of both commodities.

In view of the allotment clause, the Farm Bureau is strictly against the bill.

Both King and the master of ceremonies, Gilbert Kaltwasser, were careful to explain that the tying of price for grain sorghum and corn would be beneficial to the growers of corn and grain sorghum alike, but that putting a restriction of acreage allotments on grain sorghum would be more damaging than the good to be gained from price tie-ups.

King said that farmers all over the nation are using grain sorghum as a "catch-crop." When allotments for cotton, wheat and corn are used up and there are still acres unplanted, then the farmer must have some money crop to use up his acreage and provide crop rotation.

Hub King, speaking as a cotton farmer, but at the same time as Texas director of the Farm Bureau, set down some caustic comments as to the cotton situation.

"From the records of the National Cotton Council and the Department of Agriculture, of the nine million bales of cotton in reserve, only two million bales are classified as 'low to middling.'"

"Yet when a high ranking member of the Department of Agriculture was asked why the department was allowing only eight million bales of cotton to be raised this year, he replied that the reason for reduction was 'the low quality of the surplus cotton already on hand.'"

King further brought out that the synthetics industries are ready, willing, and able to put into the hands of the cotton fabric producers a synthetic fiber of sufficient quality and strength to "mix" with available cotton fiber.

This would further restrict the use of cotton in American industry, the principal consumer of American cotton.

The meeting was closed with instructions to area chairmen as to procedure for covering their portions of the county. The goal for the drive is 50 new members.

Little change is likely in the total meat output in 1958, says John McHaney, extension economist. There may be a slight reduction in the number of cattle and calves slaughtered but an expected increase in hog slaughtering may offset any drop in cattle processing. Too, he says, heavier carcass weights for cattle will also help maintain the output.

HUB KING

Progress Reports Monday

Parmer County Farm Bureau, now in a membership drive, will hear reports of progress made in keeping old and acquiring new members at a special meeting in Friona Monday night.

State Senator Andy Rogers of Childress will speak at the meeting, and his subjects will include the REA, farm-to-market roads, and the problems of financing education in the state. All of these have been hot topics among farmers and businessmen in agricultural areas in recent months.

The public is invited to attend the meeting, which will begin at 8 o'clock. It is to be in the Friona school cafeteria.

Gilbert Kaltwasser, county FB president, says it may be difficult for the workers to complete all their member canvassing by Monday, but that progress reports will be heard. Coffee and doughnuts will be served as refreshments.

THE PARMER FARMER

by W. H. Graham Jr.

The shuffle for new crops is on again, and the fever of farmers is more intense than ever. However, truthfully, the story is the same as it has been for the past ten years: grain sorghums, cotton, and wheat, in that order of importance.

It isn't that farmers wouldn't try something different. But all sorts of problems jump up when it comes to crop diversification on a full scale basis.

Money—or, more accurately, the lack of it—is the first and biggest concern. The farmers who don't really have to have more net income per acre are the ones who have the money. The farmers who are desperately searching for more profitable ways to farm, lack the capital to carry out their plans.

Markets is the second biggest drawback, and, in a way, is directly related to the first. While many farmers can scrape up enough production credit to raise a new and expensive crop, they aren't in shape at all to lose all or part of that investment if markets fail to materialize.

So, while the street talk goes on faster than ever about what big changes are in store for the region, don't expect to see an overnight metamorphosis. It just isn't in the cards.

Something else that doesn't appear to be in the cards either is a big dream by area people that some day, somehow, we will be able to supplement our underground water reservoirs with surface water drained away from the Arkansas or the Missouri Rivers.

People have looked at the Great Plains, etched indelibly on the map and running from West Texas clear up into Montana, and declared that it would make good sense to simply divert water from one of these (or some other) great rivers at a high altitude and to bring it to a point on the High Plains through a tremendous distribution system.

We put the question to Bill Broadhurst of the Water District last week, and he shook his head sadly. There's not much hope in that department, according to the hydrologist.

He says that any appreciable amount of water that appears to be available for diversion is something like 3,000 feet below our altitude, and would have to be pumped here—greatly increasing the cost of such a supply.

The Great Plains are chopped into four distinct sections by three rivers; those two already mentioned, plus our own High Plains Canadian, which is usually referred to as the division point of the North Plains from the South Plains.

None of these rivers appear as good prospects to supplement the water supply of this part of the High Plains.

The strong winds of the first of this week have reminded us that the dust-blowing season is at hand. Usually, by this time of year, we get plenty of reminders of this fact.

It is very out of the ordinary that we have not had at least a half-dozen good, dirty blows by now. Maybe things really are changing for the better on the Plains.

However, it's safe to say that even under unusually tranquil conditions, and with plenty of moisture in the ground, there'll always be lots of real estate shifting around on the High Plains in the spring.

We have so many open, plowed fields with little or no cover at this time of year, that the wind, when it does come sweeping along, unobstructed, naturally kicks up a lot of dust.

This year, with unusual moisture conditions, we have had the repeating, freezing and thawing process that is a wonderful soil conditioner. As moisture works its way into the soil, turning first to ice and then back to water as the days and nights pass, it breaks up hard soil particles into fine, loose topsoil.

This is a great start as a seedbed, but it's also in shape to blow like sixty when the wind gets up.

We notice that a pilot spinning plant is being set up at Texas Tech by the Plains Cotton Growers and others. It has been a curious fact that no major textile industry has located on the Plains where cotton has so long been proven.

Lubbock County produces more upland cotton than any other county in the nation, and the south and central counties of the High Plains constitute the greatest concentration of cotton production in the world.

Warehousemen, compress operators and seed crushers have all been attracted here, but no textile mills. We have often wondered why.

A notable exception to our remarks might be made in the case of Postex Mills at Post, where Garza brand sheets and pillowcases are turned out by the thousand. That particular installation, however, was not the results of normal economic development.

Its existence is due wholly to the desire of one man to create a community as nearly self-sufficient as could be possible. The founder was not spurred by the usual factors that cause a businessman or a group of businessmen to invest in such an industry.

4-H Club Meets Monday Evening

Several members of the County-wide Senior 4-H Club for girls met Monday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Mabry.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Margaret Mabry, and secretary, Judy Billingsley, read the minutes of the last meeting. Tentative plans for the annual district contests, participated in by delegates of each club, were made. Discussion was of projects to be demonstrated by the girls.

Miss Jimmie Lou Wainscott, Parmer County demonstration agent, demonstrated the use of a "master mix" and how to make biscuits from the mix. The girls present then judged the biscuits for texture, appearance and taste.

Two girls, Judy Billingsley and Virginia Rea, plan to demonstrate the care of electric sewing machines at the district contests. They practiced their demonstration Monday evening before the other members of the Parmer County Club.

Those attending were Margaret Mabry, Judy and Janice Billingsley, Barbara and Virginia Rea, Terri Sue Mabry, and Miss Wainscott. Mothers present were Mrs. Mabry and Mrs. Leon Billingsley.

The club meets the last Monday night of each month.

Grain Sorghum Testing Extensive For Foundation

Because of the widespread interest in close-row spacing of grain sorghum, a field experiment was carried on in the summer of 1957 on Pullman clay loam to determine the effects on yield of planting two rows per bed as compared with only one row per bed.

In this experiment, the land was broken to a depth of twelve inches, leveled, listed on forty-inch centers, and irrigated. On June 17, Texas Hybrid 610 was planted at four rates of seeding (5.6, 7.0, 8.4, and 10.2 pounds per acre) in one and two rows per bed at each seeding rate.

Three rates of fertilizer application (0, 100, and 200 pounds of nitrogen per acre) were used at each seeding rate. The first fertilizer application was made at the rate of 100 pounds of nitrogen in the form of anhydrous ammonia when the grain sorghum plants were one to two inches high.

The second application of 100 pounds of nitrogen per acre was scheduled for early August but heavy rains which followed the second irrigation delayed this application until the last of August.

In order not to damage the roots and tops of the grain sorghum through the use of an anhydrous ammonia applicator and tractor, this last nitrogen application was made by using a "High Boy" sprayer and 32 percent solution.

The soil was irrigated prior to planting in addition to three waterings during the growing period. A total of 32.4 inches of moisture was available from the time the preplant application was made in April to the end of the growing period on October 1. Rainfall supplied 17.5 inches during this period with 15 inches applied through irrigation.

Four-row plots one hundred feet long were used with one row per bed and eight-row plots one hundred feet long with two rows per bed. Each treatment was replicated four times. The two interior rows of the four-row plots and the four interior rows of each eight-row plot were harvested on November 16 to determine yield. The yield data reported are the averages of four replications.

Yield data for one year are not adequate to use as a basis for making recommendations but under 1957 conditions two rows per bed with 5.6 pounds of seed, and 100 pounds of nitrogen per acre produced a significantly higher yield of grain.

Cotton Growers Elect Officers, Present Awards

A. L. Hartzog of Farwell was re-elected president and Wes Long secretary of the Parmer County Cotton Growers Association at an election held at the Hub Community Monday night. Other officers elected included T. O. Lesly and Dee Chitwood as directors of the county organization.

Bill Nichols, agricultural director of Friona State Bank, was elected businessman representative to represent Parmer County at the meeting of the Plains Cotton Growers Association and James Mabry of Hub was re-elected as the farmer representative for the county to the PCG.

In other business Guy Nickels, area cotton ginner and compress owner, announced that in addition to the prize money given each year to the boys winning in the cotton and grain sorghum contests in the county, he would give a $100 scholarship to the top 4-H and FFA boy. The scholarship was explained to the members by

GETTING THE MOST OUT OF TELEVISION

How is television affecting your family life? To take stock, Mrs. Eloise Johnson, extension family life specialist, suggests a family conference on the matter. Consider the amount of reading being done by each family member, the quality of school work done by the children, the play and sleep habits of the family, and the amount of time the family spends talking together.

The U. S. Children's Bureau lists six ways that you can use television to help the members of your family:

- (1) Study the programs that your children like best and notice how they react to them. There may be clues to emotional needs that parents can help fill, such as more new experiences in actual life and more active normal friendships.
- (2) Share the programs with your older children. Discuss the stories and help them realize the difference between fiction and real-life situations.
- (3) Guard against radio and television as a child's only outlet for natural impulses for aggressiveness.
- (4) Notice if your children seem to fall back on TV because there is nothing better to do.
- (5) Encourage children to choose programs that sharpen their curiosity about important things such as science, travel, and the lives of worthwhile people.
- (6) Use television to bring your family close together. When members must choose programs, share some and give up some, they learn to appreciate each other's interests and rights.

DON'T SKIP BREAKFAST

When you skip breakfast, you miss a third of your day's energy—the most important third, warn extension foods and nutrition specialists.

Research has shown that an adequate breakfast should supply a fourth to a third of the day's total food requirements and make a good contribution of most of the essential nutrients. That does away with the doughnut and coffee type breakfast, which does not supply essential nutrients.

February is "Good Breakfast Month"—a good time to check your breakfast eating habits. You need fruit, egg, meat and/or breakfast cereal, milk,

FIRST TO SIGN UP—Robert E. Wilson of Bovina signs along the dotted line for his father-in-law, C. F. Hastings of Bovina, as the first in this area to participate in the Great Plains Conservation Program for the year. Wilson and his father-in-law plan to use the conservation program on about one section of land.

bread and butter. Such a breakfast pattern is termed "basic" because it contains food that should be included in every one's morning meal. It is a basis on which breakfast of any desired size may be developed. Generally speaking, even when you include meat and eggs, breakfast is the cheapest meal of the day and the easiest to prepare.

Two of the reasons most often given for not eating breakfast are: "not enough time" and "have no appetite." Both are easy to overcome with practice. Go to bed a little earlier so you can get up earlier—in time to eat breakfast. Stimulate the appetite with a frosty glass of fruit juice or fresh fruit. If possible, prepare juice the night before, cover and chill.

Colorful table mats or dishes, a simple centerpiece of fruit, flowers or a plant will also stimulate appetite and add enjoyment to this important meal. Arrange the table the night before and save time.

For the first time in several years, most areas of the state have adequate subsoil moisture. The crop potential for 1958 is good, but Bill Bennett, extension soil chemist, points out that plant nutrients instead of moisture could be the limiting production factor this year. He strongly advises the use of soil tests for determining what kinds and how much plant food should be added for maximum yields.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

by BOB CROZIER

Last Friday was the last official day for Floyd Crume Jr. as Work Unit Conservationist for the Parmer County Soil Conservation District. For the past two and one half years, Crume has worked with the farmers and ranchers of this area in promoting soil and water conservation. He is to be recommended for the excellent job he has done in assisting the Soil Conservation District in making it a program of greater service for Parmer County. We wish Crume luck in his new job.

The first Great Plains Conservation Program contract was signed last week by Robert E. Wilson of Bovina. Farmers like

FHA Has 141 Offices in State

The Farmers Home Administration has 141 county offices serving farm families throughout Texas. The agency's loans and farm management service help eligible family-type farmers establish themselves in sound systems of farming. With the loans, farmers operate, buy, enlarge, or improve their farms.

In addition to making loans from appropriated funds, the agency also insures many real estate and farm improvement loans advanced by local banks and other private lenders. County supervisors discuss farm plans, adjustments and financing with all applicants. In these discussions they are often able to show applicants how they can arrange their farming operations and credit needs so as to qualify for credit from private or cooperative lending institutions.

A zero tolerance for methoxychlor in milk has been set by the Food and Drug Administration. This means, says Extension Entomologist F. M. Fuller, that the pesticide cannot be used as a dip or spray for controlling horn flies on milking cows.
