Talk about slipping in under the wire—last week's edition of the Star—which might have come as quite a surprise to Representative Waggoner Carr—was just one of those things which you know happens in the newspaper business, but you hope it never happens to you.

As you might have read, the Star already had Representative Carr's speech in type, the description of the crowd and all the things put together—this was necessary as usually the Star is printed early Wednesday afternoon and night. But—as the old Scotchman said "the best laid plans of mice and men get all fouled up."

Boy, did they!
But, we weren't the only ones chasing around there for a couple hours Wednesday. We wandered into the drugstore late that afternoon confident of another issue put to bed when Andy Hurst brought down the world on our shoulders—"Carr can't make it."

Just four words... but how destructive.

A hurried phone call to stop the presses. Another call to set up new plans and later that night AFTER the speech and program another call with the RIGHT speech by the RIGHT person.

But we were proud of the people that "came through" when the chips were down for the Chamber of Commerce.

Our apologies to Preach Edelman. In the paper we had written beforehand how ably J. C. Claborn handled the emceeing, when in reality J. C. was working and Preach pinch hit, and did a bang-up job.

It just goes to prove however, speaking of the work the C. of C. men did, people always work better when under pressure.

Incidentally, Representative Carr, we'd still like to hear you speak one of these days. Let's try it again this summer—OK?

Congrats to the cast and members who made the annual senior play such a big success. Those kids really did a job and worked hard to put over such a play.

We never did learn of what was going on that last week until it was all over, but we understand the kids would be over at the school each morning by 7 and practice their play and cook breakfast in the wings while working.

It is through such diligence that things get done.

We really enjoyed it... While taking pictures of the play we had a list of suggested pictures to shoot but got so engrossed in the play that we missed a couple of pictures... y'all shouldna been that good!

Somebody fouled up—it will all be different before this column is printed no doubt, but for the record we'd like to remind everyone of the beautiful day we had Saturday.

It was one of those bright sunny days, clear and just enough "nip" in the air to make you feel good. The kind of day the Chamber of Commerce brags about and makes you want to curl up after a good dinner and take a nap like an old hound dog.

Speaking of the weather... we were really glad to see it not only because it was time we had a pretty day but you know "certain" people have accused this scribe of importing some of that Gulf Coast and East Texas weather to the Plains.

Land sakes, that isn't so... we came out here to get away from that mess, honest.

Anyhow, what I got ready to say was, one of the first days up in Parmer County we were standing around the office and one of the persons in the office was kidding me about a raincoat which one had best keep on hand traveling in East Texas and such parts.

Such a raincoat was "s.o.p." in our auto up until we moved out here and it was this raincoat that brought up the subject. Glenn Floyd was bragging on the weather and told us that that was one thing we could sell now that we'd moved to the Plains.

Y'know, it began snowing the next day and seemed like until this Saturday we had all kinds of moisture.

Elvie Jennings and his crew out at the Benger Air Park got quite a going-over last weekend.

The occasion was a new plane, a Piper Comanche, which Elvie will have on hand soon, and he was taking everybody for a demonstration ride in the plane.

We happened out early Saturday and lucked in a ride down over Bovina, out to the Hub and around the local area. This brought to life a long-dormant "bug" for flying which we have been fighting and will probably prove to be one of the most exciting.

Lions Show Set April 11

The "biggest and best" Lions Club Show has been officially slated to take place Friday night, April 11, in the Friona High School auditorium.

This year's show will be a Lions Club Minstrel, complete with all the fanfare and spangles of the old riverboats, and will star Mr. Interlocutor himself, J. C. Claborn.

Endmen who will provide the audience with plenty of belly laughs and side-splitting humor include Pete Buske, Joe Ferrell, Kenneth Williams, Hank Outland, Charles Allen, Hollis Horton, Kenneth Thompson and Newman Jarrell.

In addition to the regular jokes, humor and wise cracks

Members of the cast of the annual senior play at Friona High School were given a standing ovation at the conclusion of this year's performance Friday night.

The 1958 presentation, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," was ably presented by the boys and girls of the cast who had the rapt attention of a packed house throughout the evening.

Luellen McLean, who played the part of Old Hon, a domineering mountain woman, was undoubtedly "the beatnik" but it would be hard to point out any one outstanding player in the cast.

Phila Buske played the part of the lovely young heroine, June Tolliver, who dreamed of "larnin'" and her hero, Jack Hale, a young northerner, was played by Nolen Johnson.

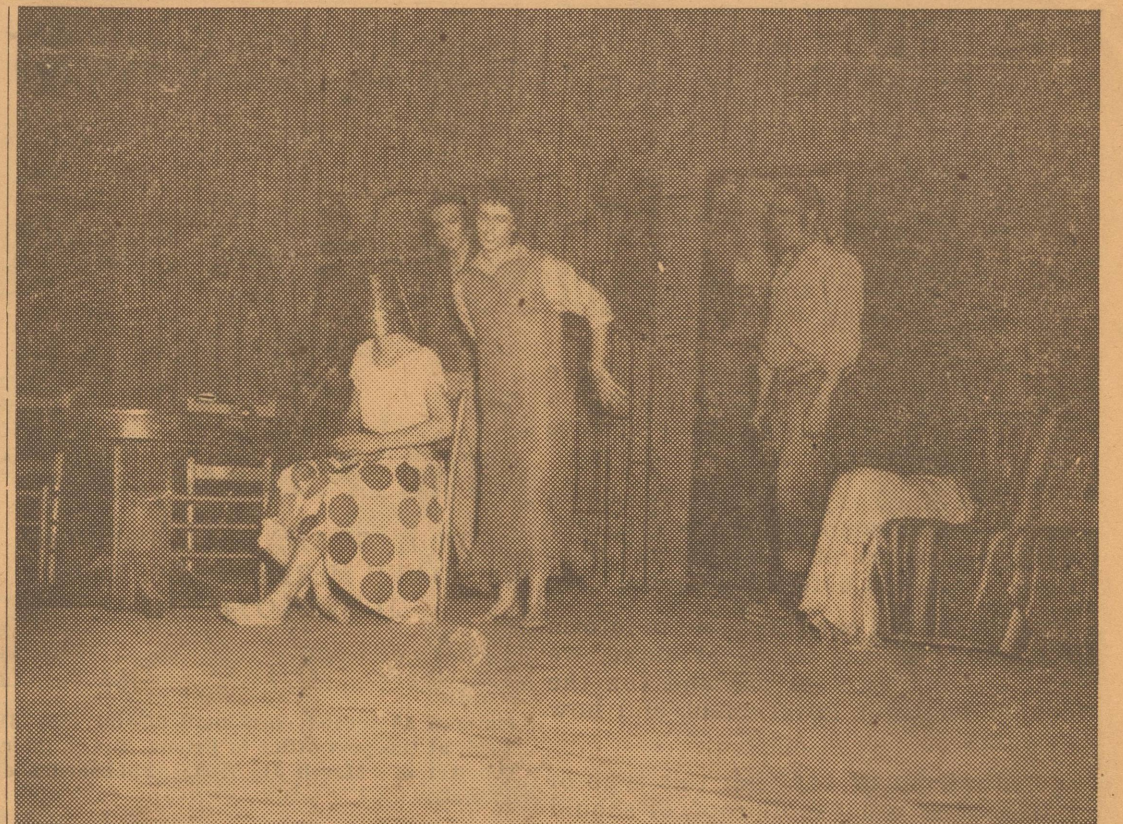

Lila Buske played Sal Tolliver, June's sister who instilled in June a desire for the better things in life.

Leon Massey was Judd Tolliver, the stern father, and Bud Tolliver, the youngest brother, was played by Randy Dickson. Linda Gee was the ever-complaining step-mother, Hannah Tolliver and Uncle Billy Beams, a Justice of the Peace who was forever harmless and henpecked by Old Hon, was played by Roy Nazworth.

Jerry Hinkle played the part of the double-dealing Red Fox who tried his best to butter his toast on both sides and Jan Edelman played Loretta Tolliver the mischievous sister of Dave Tolliver, played by Weldon Fairchild.

Ellie May, the forgetful daughter of Uncle Billy and Old Hon, was played by Eva Thomas and Betty Agee in the part of Anne Saunders, a northern school teacher, and Maw Falin, played by Helen Hamilton, rounded out the cast.

The Tollivers, a mountain family who lived in the heart of the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia became alive and real to the audience as another blood

THE STAR'S EDITORIAL COMMENT

What Is A Council-Manager Form Of City Government?

During the first week in April the qualified voters in Friona will vote on a proposal to change the present type of city government.

The Star has endorsed this change to a five-man council and city manager type of government which the city commission has laid before the voters.

To explain our stand and to inform the public on the issues at stake, we will attempt to state pro and con the council-manager government and how it works.

First, let us say that this type of government is not fool-proof, or should we say, complacent-proof. If used by the people as a scapegoat for economic ills, it is no better than any other form of government for in that manner it is like all others . . . it is no better than the people that make it function.

To make it short, the council-manager government has five outstanding characteristics:

1. A council, with five to seven members, elected at large.
2. All legislative and policy-making functions are located in the council.
3. The council employs a professionally trained city manager.
4. The manager is responsible for administration, having the power of appointment and removal subject to civil service rules.
5. The manager is responsible for the preparation and presentation of the budget to the council.

The line is drawn clearly in this form of government between the policy-making function of the council and the administrative function.

The voters elect the council which in turn draws up policy and controls administration.

* The manager owes his position to the council. He alone is charged with administering the city's affairs.

This manager is responsible to the council for the proper administration of all affairs of the city and in turn the council is required to deal with the various administrative agencies and departments in the city only through the manager.

Perhaps it is wise to say here, that as you can see, any council, regardless of its size, is about as good as the manager it picks to do the job for the city.

A city manager is a man trained in his profession of administering the city's affairs.

This man should have a broad knowledge and training in social sciences and a knowledge of engineering and a mind toward business and public administration.

Such a man would cost the city of Friona at least $8,000 per year.

Are we ready for a move like this, or should we wait? Some say let's change now and when we can afford it we can get a trained manager.

Friona wants to grow. The people who live here want it to grow and prosper.

In our opinion an investment now in a trained city manager would pay off handsomely. He could work with us in helping the city to grow. He would know some answers to problems which plague us now. His cost per year would be more than repaid by the use of his knowledge and technical administrative experience.

Friona faces a choice soon. What road will you guide her down—one toward progress and growth, or one to stand still and die?

OCEAN TO OCEAN ACROSS SOUTH AMERICA—AND BACK—IN 41 HOURS! CHEVY'S NEW V8 LEVELS THE HIGHEST, HARDEST HIGHWAY OVER THE ANDES!

To prove the durability of Chevrolet's radical new Turbo-Thrust V8,* the tremendous flexibility of the new Turboglide transmission,* the incredible smoothness of Full Coil suspension, we tackled the most challenging transcontinental road in the world — the 1,000-mile General San Martin Highway. To make it harder, the Automobile Club of Argentina sealed the hood shut at Buenos Aires — no chance to add oil or water or adjust carburetors for high altitude.

So the run began — across the blazing Argentine pampas, into the ramparts of the forbidding Andes. Up and up the road climbed, almost 2½ miles in the sky! Drivers gasped for oxygen at 12,572 feet — but the Turbo-Thrust V8 never slackened its torrent of power, the Full Coil springs smothered every bump, the Turboglide transmission made play of grades up to 30 percent. Then a plunge to the Pacific at Valparaiso, Chile, a quick turn-around and back again. Time for the round trip: 41 hours 14 minutes — and the engine was never turned off!

PFC Billy Wayne Nazworth, whose wife, Ann, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Nazworth, live in Friona; recently participated in a field training exercise with the 3rd Armored Division in Germany.

He arrived in Europe in June of 1957. The 23-year-old soldier, who is a 1952 graduate of Friona High School, was employed by Rockwell Bros. & Co. Lumbermen at Hereford prior to his enlistment.

1 teaspoon soda
3 cups quick oats
1/2 cup nuts

Cream shortening and sugar. Add well beaten eggs and vanilla. Add flour sifted with salt and soda. Add oats and nuts. Form in long rolls and chill in refrigerator. Slice 1/4 inch thick and bake at 350 degrees for eight to ten minutes. Rolls of dough may be frozen or just kept in

1 teaspoon almond flavoring
2 cups nuts
2 cups seedless raisins (optional)
2 cups candied cherries
2 cups (1 pound) chopped mixed candied fruit

Pour into two well greased 8x4x3 inch loaf pans. Bake in slow oven about two hours or until well done. (It is a good idea to leave a pan of water in oven during baking period.)

Cool in pans about 15 minutes; turn out on racks. When cool, wrap tightly in aluminum foil, or heavy waxed paper with one or two thin slices of apple. Store in a cool dry place to ripen. To glaze cake, boil together 2 tablespoons white Karo and 2 tablespoons butter for two minutes. Brush tops of cakes with this; decorate with whole nuts and cherries.

Cook Of The Week Returns

In response to requests from our readers, a feature "The Cook of the Week" is being returned to the Friona Star this week. We hope to make this a regular feature of the Star.

Mrs. J. T. Gee, wife of the local agriculture instructor, has graciously consented to cooperate with us this week. Mrs. Gee has lived in Friona almost 23 years. She was the home economics teacher the first two years she lived here.

She has been active in the projects of the Methodist Church and the United Church Women and has had a keen interest in the youth of the community since she moved here. She has taught the Friendship class of the Methodist Church for many years.

In spite of the fact that she has been a busy homemaker and kept busy with church and community activities, she has become endeared to a lot of FFA boys, who have been in her husband's classes. The Gees have a daughter, Linda, 18, who is a member of the senior class and a son, Tom, 12, a student in the grade school.

One of Lilah Gaye's hobbies is cooking. We are printing three of her favorite recipes.

LARRY CROW AND HIS LANDRACES—Larry Crow of Friona shows off his new swine which are a new breed to this part of the country. The hogs, of the Landrace breed, are long, lean and high on the quality side of the bacon-type hog. All these animals possess the extra rib which adds to their length and have good hams, deep sides and are generally prolific. Larry is raising them as a part of his vocational agricultural work in Friona High School.

NO. 2 OF A SERIES

FFA Boy Has Landrace Hogs

Larry Crow, second year Vocational Agriculture student in Friona High School, recently purchased six Landrace hogs. Bought from a breeder at Lorenzo, the five bred gilts and one boar make up the largest Landrace foundation herd in the Friona area.

Bought at a price of $800, the registered herd is a part of Larry's FFA project program. "I wanted to try the Landrace breed," commented Larry, "since this breed seems to be the answer to the demand for a strictly meat hog."

An English breed, the Landrace is just becoming established in this section of the country. Weaning size gilt pigs are selling for $40 each. Long and lean, the Landrace has been referred to laughingly as "a hog and a half."

Larry's five gilts will farrow around the middle of April. "With normal good luck, I expect to pay for my herd out of these first litters of pigs," says Larry.

The sixteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Crow, is a sophomore and an Ag II student. His other FFA projects have included three other breeds of swine—Duroc, Berkshire, and Hampshire.

Larry's pen-of-three Hampshire fat barrows won second place at the Hereford Fat Stock Show in January. They sold for 27 cents per pound. These three pigs, plus one other, had been purchased last year from Billy Loanman, another Friona FFA boy.

His two Berkshire gilts were purchased from Bill Flippin. His Ag I projects included six fat barrows, three Durocs and three Berkshires.

Monday morning, the most overworked sentence we heard was, "Sure was a short summer we had, wasn't it?" Most of us really enjoyed the sunshine while it lasted. Children spent most of Saturday playing out of doors and several blistered their cheeks before the day was over.

A lot of farmers took advantage of the pretty weather and went out and made spot checks to see how deep the moisture had penetrated since our "sunny season" began. Reports vary as to the depth but everyone we have heard was good.

Of course, no one in this modern age likes to be called superstitious, but some of us are. Now, don't get the impression that we turn around and go some other way if a black cat crosses the road in front of us or that we are extra careful on any Friday that happens to fall on the 13th.

Our pet superstition has to do with a billfold. It was bought back during World War II and wasn't very expensive to begin with. It rarely ever has money in it, but the usual cards it contains would be hard to replace.

We long ago lost count of the number of times it has been lost and returned to the rightful owner. Last fall, every billfold we saw in a store window caught more than a passing glance. Each time we would pass it up and go away with the idea in our mind that the old one would do a few more weeks or months.

About Thanksgiving, we were on our way home from Lubbock County and stopped at Abernathy to attend church services. When we returned to the car, several things had been taken, out including the worn-out billfold.

A few days later, a resident of that city, who had found the things taken from the car, returned them to us. At that time, new billfolds lost interest on window shopping tours. Think the remark was made to a few persons that since the old one was so hard to lose, we had no desire to part with it.

Today, said billfold got lost again. After leaving Reeve Chevrolet Company with it securely tucked in a coat pocket, we made the trip back to the Star office on foot. Before very many minutes had passed, Mrs. T. L. Houston came down the street with a familiar looking brown object in her hand.

Incidentally, this makes the second time we have lost the billfold and had it returned to us before we were aware that it was lost. A few years ago, Leo McLellan, who is our new postmaster, was driving a tractor down the roadside from one field to another and found it in the weeds.

He obligingly returned it to the other half of the Floyd family and it hadn't even been missed. Although we are not genuinely superstitious, that billfold will be carrying a driver's license, social security card, and other things bearing our name for a long long time. That is, unless it really gets lost.

It has been noticed from reading some of the other weekly papers in our area that school plays are always scheduled for presentation for two nights. This idea was suggested to Miss Tacy Smith, who was director of the senior play here Friday night. Many persons would have bought tickets had they not had something else on their calendars for that particular night.

Maybe the seniors of 1959 should keep this idea in mind. Then if their bank balance isn't as much as they would like for it to be about this time next year, they can plan on two presentations.

Another round of moving took place early this week. Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Sherley, long time residents of the Friona area, moved to Memphis. The Sherleys moved here from Memphis a number of years ago and lived in the Rhea community. Several years later they moved to a farm west of town. Then from there they moved into town.

Mrs. Sherley has been in failing health several years and the move back to Memphis is being made for her benefit. They purchased a house there. Since Mr. Sherley still has farming interests here, they will probably be returning often.

The Kenneth Houlettes, who bought the Sherley home in the east part of town are moving into it. Then the Claude Edelmans are moving into the house being vacated by the Houlettes. The Edelmans have resided in Black community. Of course, we are sorry to see the Sherleys move away. Our good wishes go with them.

The Dick Rockeys, who live out in Black community, were rather unhappy with the telephone service they were receiving one day last week, but appreciated getting a long distance call. It came from their son, H.

V., who is stationed in Korea. He was on weekend leave and the call came from Japan. It took sixteen minutes for them to get in a three-minute call. Dick says the confusion was terrible but talking to H. V. was worth every minute of it.

Dr. Paul Spring Attends Meetings

Dr. Paul Spring will be in Amarillo Saturday for a meeting of the Panhandle District Medical Society. From there he will go to Dallas for the first meeting of the American Association of General Practitioners that has ever been in Texas.

He expects to be gone from Friona until about the first of April. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Spring.

'Pig Parlor' Method Under Comparison

Texas Tech researchers are seeking some definite answers to a current agricultural debate over the "pig parlor" method of hog raising versus the open-field method.

The question under study is whether or not one method produces better meat than the other.

In the pig parlor method, the swine are kept inside a room with a washed cement floor, and are allowed virtually no exercise. They eat from nearby feeders.

The exercise, or open-field method, allows the hogs to range freely over an outside plot, without so much thought being given to movement and sanitation.

Making a controlled study of the two situations is Billy Greer Jackson, a Tech graduate student now teaching vocational agriculture at Boys' Ranch near Amarillo.

One group was raised by the confined method, the other by the exercise method.

The hogs have been butchered and the meat now is being analyzed. Tech nutritionists are studying the palatability, tenderness and flavor of the meat sample, while chemists are running tests on fat content of each one.

Jackson, who is working toward a master's degree with a major in animal husbandry, is being supervised by Dr. N. C. Fine, and Coleman O'Brien. The project is being done in conjunction with the Tech Office of Research.

A U. S. News & World Report article points out that sales of foreign-made cars, most of which are small economical models, are rolling right along in this country. The 1958 total is expected to be 400,000, as against a mere 34,500 in 1954. Volkswagen still leads by a big margin, followed by Renault.

Dr. Lee Returns From Old Mexico

Dr. Lee Spring returned Monday night after spending several days in the southeastern section of the United States and parts of Old Mexico. First he attended a meeting of the New Orleans Medical Assembly in that city.

From there he flew to Mexico City, then went on a post clinical tour of several hospitals. The group of which he was a member numbered 32. From Mexico City they went to Acapulco for a vacation at this resort town.

Dr. Lee reports he did a lot of swimming, boating, water skiing, and picture taking. The tour from Mexico City to Acapulco was made by car and many side trips to places of scenic interest were included.

American Family Program Presented

The Tuesday evening meeting of the Modern Study Club at the club house featured a program on "The American Family, Gone or Going Strong." The quotation used was "The light that shines the farthest is the light that shines at home." Scripture used was "Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it." (Psalms 127)

Each member was given a replica of a dress pattern depicting the well knit home for fall, winter, spring, and summer. Instructions were given that a thread of spiritual thought must be used in any basic pattern of homes.

Wilma Jones, Thelma Ford, and Cornelia Kelley served on a panel which conducted a buzz session. The two parts of the session were Fashion Designers and Tangles Untangled.

The closing part of the program was presented in the form of a prayer: "They furnished the material for me to use. The pattern was studied, upon it I mused. Pinning the pattern on the material just right helped the garment not to fit too tight. Oh! Lord, help me to cut each pattern aright and to apply it neatly for Thy sight."

St. Patrick's Day decorations were used. The centerpiece on the serving table was formed of white carnations and green Shamrocks. Refreshments of chiffon pie, coffee and tea were served in white milk glass containers by the hostesses, Lucille Latta and Fern Awtrey, to 19 members.

«The High Plains Farm and Home»

Farmers Fidget As Dampness Holds

Area farmers began to get that "old feeling" they had last fall, this week. Skies have been cloudy and threatening for a straight 10 days, and moisture, although slight, has been continuous enough to stop practically all spring operations.

After a stretch of seven virtually rain-less years, it seems strange that wet weather should return as a worry rather than a benefit to the farmer, but that proved to be the case during harvest season last fall. And it may be the case this year as spring work is delayed.

Officially, the calendar doesn't permit spring to begin until next week, but on the irrigated High Plains, where farming methods have intensified greatly, much activity in preparation for a crop is the usual thing for this time of year, and farmers are disturbed because they cannot be about their business.

Too, farmers are still feeling the "hangover" effect of continued dampness. Some of last year's crops still lie unmarketed in the field or the turnrow, awaiting the traditional High Plains sunshine that just hasn't been around much during the winter.

Considerable sudan is still in the shock, and a good percentage of the area's corn crop harvested for grain is either still in the ear or stored temporarily because moisture content is too high.

Deadline for getting this corn in the loan is April 15, which has seemed plenty late, but at the rate things are going, farmers are beginning to wonder just how long it will take.

Farmers who have had a chance to do work in their fields report the land is in the best conditions it has been in for years, except that some trouble is being experienced from heavy stubble remaining from last year's late crop that has not been done away with yet.

Practically no pre-irrigation has been attempted. General talk has it that most farmers plan to omit pre-irrigation of their grain sorghum, and they are studying the advantages and possible disadvantages of such a practice on cotton. Most seem to feel they'll go ahead and pre-water their cotton land.

The weather has been cold and wet, but as spring approaches, "planting fever" is apparent. There seems to be more talk this year than ever before of "planting something else," but few observers think the giant grain sorghum acreage will be cut much. It is taken for granted that no "new" crop will replace any cotton acreage.

Parmer County is the state's leading producer of sesame, and this oilseed crop appears to be further entrenching as a permanent production entry. Last year's 2,500 to 3,000 acres are expected to be upped considerably. However, even if they are doubled no significant shrinkage in cropland available will be noted.

There is serious talk of a vegetable shed and diversified deal to match going into Bovina this year, but to date no official confirmation has been made. Vegetable operations in Friona are being expanded considerably this year, and acreages of most crops, particularly carrots, are expected to rise in the north-eastern and central part of the county as a result.

Newcomers are hot on carrots this year after the splendid performance of the "rabbit food" last season. However, old hands say the comers to watch are onions and possibly potatoes, which likely will come around for another swing into high prices this year.

Some independent farmers already have onion sets on hand and others are ready to start potato seeding right away, but the weather has squelched these plans.

Meanwhile, the wheat continues to hold up well and offer promise of a good crop this summer. Repeated frozes have trimmed the top foliage in some fields, but wholesale damage reports are few and far between.

One thing that characterizes nearly all farming operations on the High Plains this year is a tight control over expenses. With production costs still at a high level but commodity prices about the same or trending weaker, farmers regard penny-pinching as a necessity.

The family farm operation of today, even in this high-production irrigated area, is susceptible to "profit leaks" and it doesn't take many small errors to wipe out or drastically reduce the anticipated income.

Consequently, most farm managers are choosing to "play it close," especially after their experiences of last year. Where possible, they have deferred purchase of new equipment—making older models do, when performance can be maintained by reasonable repairs and maintenance.

Labor, always an expensive item in highly developed farming such as ours, is being watched with a critical eye. Many a farm owner is prepared to do his own tube-setting, plow out his own corners, run his own errands, and cancel a fishing trip or two this year to make sure costs are held in line.

In general, farmers are fairly cheerful about this year's prospects. The most commonly heard complaint concerns the announced slight reduction in grain sorghum price supports. With the tremendous carry-over of last year's crop, milo is expected to sell cheap or go straight to the loan this fall.

Even this could change, though, especially in an election year. Congress already has frozen the price support level, which nipped a 3-cent cut in grain sorghum price supports in the bud. Legislation pending might artificially stimulate the outlook considerably more. However, most farmers don't think so, and are figuring things "just about like last year."

Offsetting worries on grain prices is the increase in cotton allotments and the improved outlook for cotton prices, especially in the better grades.

Farmers feel they are due a good cotton crop this year and are anxious to get to work to produce it.

Delegation Expected At Rogers' Dinner

A Parmer County delegation is expected to attend the "appreciation dinner" and program for State Senator Andy Rogers, which will be held March 31 at Tulsa.

About 30 tickets have been sold in the Parmer County area, and probably half of those buying ducauts will make the dinner, estimate boosters.

Rogers, who lives at Childress, has served as state senator for the past one and one-half terms. He has not announced for re-election, but straws in the wind indicate he may do so.

Grand Rapids, Michigan, Times: "During war time the railroads performed colossally in moving war material and personnel. . . Now the railroads are in dire stress, some of it through no fault or lack of theirs; some of it by unwise pressures of labor groups that forced practices detrimental to continued success and progress for the 'roads'. . . But it will be a very sorry day if America lets the railways go by the board."

Howard Ellison To Double Sesame Acreage This Year

Sesame cares for the land and it makes more money than maize.

These are two major reasons why Howard Ellison who farms 540 acres of good Parmer County land six miles west of Bovina will increase his sesame from the 100 acres he grew in 1957 to 200 acres this year.

Last year Ellison averaged 740 pounds of clean sesame seed per acre for a gross income of $76 per acre. His 145 acres of milo averaged about 4,000 pounds to the acre for a gross income of $65.60 per acre; and his 263 acres of wheat averaged 34 bushels for a per acre gross of $63.50.

He had better luck with his cotton than most farmers on the High Plains. His cotton was comparatively early, of good quality and brought him a gross return of $187.50 per acre.

Ellison learned from experience that more careful handling of his sesame crop would have brought him even better returns than he received.

"My shocks should have been bigger, and they should have been tied with string," he says, looking back on the results of last year. "About the time I got ready to combine my sesame, we had an 80-mile-an-hour wind that blew a lot of my bundles right off the shock. We had the first three shock rows tied, and these made 300 pounds more sesame per acre than the rest of the field. Needless to say, I'll take time to tie all my shocks this year."

He recommends 18 to 25 bundles of sesame per shock. Ellison has made a mechanical contribution to the harvesting of sesame which promises to be of great value to producers everywhere. When the rains and cold weather started last fall, quite a bit of the heavily loaded sesame on the Plains began falling down or leaning over.

Ellison didn't feel that he could save all of his crop with his regular grain binder, and set to work immediately to build an attachment to pick up the fallen sesame. He had seen the Hesston Crop Saver pick up fallen maize, but realized that the short maize unit would not do the job with the much taller sesame.

Working with his father, he added a 21-inch extension to the regular Crop Saver, doing the blacksmith work in his own shop to make the conversion. He attached three of the units to the front of his grain binder's cutter bar, allowing him to cut three rows of sesame at a time. He was pleased to see the altered machine pick up the fallen sesame even better than a row binder.

He ran his tractor at about five miles an hour and at that speed harvested about 40 acres of sesame a day with the three-row units. He harvested the sesame of some of his neighbors where more than 50 percent of the crop was fallen or leaning and found that his machine picked up about 99 percent of all stalks.

He estimates that his Crop Saver attachment saved as much as 30 percent of his seed as compared to what he could have harvested with a regular broadcast binder.

Ellison is particularly pleased with the way sesame leaves the land.

"I don't know what it does or how it does it," he declared.

"but I do know that it leaves the land in wonderful shape—soft and mellow and easy to break. It's easy to tell the difference between sesame land and maize land when you see them side-by-side. The maize land turns up in chunks. When I hit my sesame land, my moldboard plow drops into the ground two or three inches deeper than on the maize land."

He also pointed out that sesame rotates better with cotton than any other crop and leaves the soil in better condition than any other crop. He particularly likes the fact that vegetation doesn't grow up in sesame late in the growing season as it does in maize.

Ellison has worked closely with Texas Sesame Growers of Paris in seeking to become an outstanding sesame producer, and Texas Sesame Growers have not only given him guidance in producing and harvesting, but has helped him to realize the maximum profit in marketing his sesame crops for him.

He farms sesame about like he does other row crops. Last year he cut his maize stalks and ran a tandem disc, then plowed with a oneway plow and applied 90 pounds of anhydrous-ammonia per acre. Most of this expense, he says, actually should be charged against the previous maize crop, since all he had to do to his sesame land was break it.

After his old maize land had been plowed, he floated it, then listed it and watered the beds. Later, he harrowed the land to put it in perfect planting condition.

Ellison planted his sesame at the rate of two pounds per acre, but lost his first planting, and planted over at the same rate. After the crop came up, he knifed it once with rotary hoe attachments. He plowed twice, hoed once, and irrigated twice during the growing season. His sesame was planted the first week in June and harvested October 20.

He charged the same against his own sesame as he did for picking up the fallen sesame of his neighbors—a rate of $5 per acre, including the twine. His shocking cost was $1.25 per acre. He did his own combining, but charged it out at the custom rate of 75 cents per 100 pounds plus labor for pushing the shocks onto the platform.

This brought his total combining cost to $7.75 per acre and the total harvest cost to $13.80 per acre. He figured his total production and harvest cost at $35.40, leaving him a net profit for his sesame of approximately $40 per acre.

- 1951—$11,842,000.
- 1952—$1,146,182,000.

It is estimated that the total cost of the USDA program today is something on the order of $5 billions. So, it might seem that the direct subsidy would save taxpayers money.

But, based on these figures, it appears that it would not be long before the direct payment plan would be costing more than the present farm program.

We understand that they are still thinking seriously of sinking that 900-foot hole up in Deaf Smith County to try to test some possible water bearing formations.

The High Plains Underground Water District is cooperating in the experiment, but the cost is being born by individual farmers and businessmen. There are already two or three "freak" wells in Deaf Smith that pump water from unusual depth, which makes farmers suspicious that there may be a bona fide strata below the Ogallala in this area that merits development.

In some cases, a well will appear to pump water from a formation actually dry because fresh water from another formation higher up, and usually

When drilling into this disturbance, rigs often sink their bit through "false redbeds" several times. These lenses of clay, which are of the triassic formation, are sometimes inter-layered with water-bearing sand formations.

Therefore, it is not surprising to hear some people say these particular wells yield water from "below the redbeds." Such is usually not the case, however.

At any rate, the Deaf Smith project seems to be different from the conditions we have discussed. It will be interesting to note further developments.

"The Place Where Most People Trade" Friona, Texas March 19, 1958

The folks on our block were all sorta out of place last week. The J. T. Gees went to the teachers meeting in Amarillo Friday, and so did Jay Perryman. The Wesley Fosters were in Dallas visiting their daughter. The Frank Springs left Thursday for Austin where Frank attended a meeting and he and his family also visited a session of the state legislature. Mrs. Lucy Welch had three of her grandchildren visiting her and we kept our grandson, Trip Horton, while his mother was in Childress at the convention of Federated Club women. Everything was back to normal Monday, however.

"New Look" Farm Program FB Aim

Several issues which would vitally affect farmers of Parmer County are in for drastic change if the "new look" farm program being sponsored by American Farm Bureau gets made into law.

Farm Bureau is not asking to wipe the slate clean of legislation and start over, but they do advocate some major changes. These changes were discussed fairly recently at a county-wide Bureau meeting at the Hub.

Starting in 1959, the national farm organization would like to see, among other things:

Abolition of corn allotments and linkage of all feed grains together in a price support program that would take into account not only the supply of the commodity and its demand, but the relative feed value of each feed commodity.

The price level for corn would be 90 percent of the "weighted" average market price during the preceding three-year period. ("Weighted" means a slight adjustment upward or downward to compensate for a growing or a shrinking market).

Farm Bureau says: "The amended law would provide that the level of price support for other feed grains be established in relation to the price support for corn, with consideration given to comparative feeding values and other related factors."

"Other related factors would be such as the normal price relationship between each commodity and corn and the location and storability of the commodity."

Milo, which was supported at a national average of $1.86 last year, is due for a support of $1.83 this year. Under Farm Bureau's plan, the 1959 support price would be $2.18 per hundred, up considerably.

This would be due chiefly to milo's high feed value compared with corn, which, according to Bureau statisticians, is second only to rye.

The new proposal would end corn allotments and make participation in the soil bank a requirement for price supports on feed grains. CCC grain stocks would be used to pay farmers for reducing grain crops.

Farm Bureau claims these results would take place:

"These proposals would eliminate many of the objectionable features of the present law. Parity would be traded for the three-year weighted market price. The market price would allow the prices to move up and down, thus creating a firm active market. This program will protect farmers from sudden drops in the market, but would allow the market to move up free of restrictions."

And, if Farm Bureau get its way, there will be big changes in store in the cotton features of the farm program, too. Farm Bureau wants to let farmers have their choice between the present acreage allotments and price support, or:

"Increase present farm acreage allotments 25 percent and establish the support price at 70 percent of parity (70 percent of 37.96 cents—parity used by USDA—would be 26.57 cents. Present minimum support set at 81 percent or 30.85 cents.)"

"Farmers choosing this program would not qualify for the soil bank acreage reserve program during 1958 and the increased acres would not count as farm, county, state or national history in figuring future allotments. This program would allow a farmer with a 60-acre allotment to increase his acreage to 75 and be assured of a price of 26.57 M 7-8" with a chance to sell his cotton on the market at a much higher price."

Farm Bureau is seeking allotment increases this year, also, but doesn't expect to be successful in this request. Last year's poor crop year resulted in a shortage of quality cotton.

Many farmers on the irrigated High Plains would be expected to take the option to increase planting with lower supports, especially in view of the fact that prices for good grades are trending strongly upward.

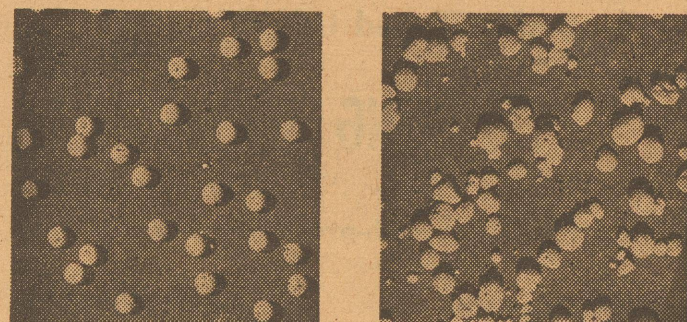

There are many other changes in the farm program being advocated by major farm organizations and commodity and special interest groups, but these are among the most far-reaching in effect—especially to this area.

Great Plains Conservation Group To Meet Monday

All members of the Great Plains Conservation District are asked to attend a meeting slated for Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Lutheran Hall at the Rhea Community. This will be open to anyone interested in conservation, particularly in this area, announces Bob Crozier, soil conservation unit leader.

THE HAPPY HOMEMAKER

BY JUNE FLOYD

Most homemakers like new and different recipes for several different reasons. We like to serve a variety of foods and to have different ways of serving each of them. Any of you readers who are interested in adding recipes to your collection that come from all over the United States, should bring this week and clip the recipes for your file.

In May of 1957 forty-nine homemakers from forty-eight states and the District of Columbia met in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to compete for the title, Mrs. America of 1958. Cooking, along with meal planning and serving, was one of the essential homemaking skills on which these women, all of them homemakers, were judged.

The leading homemaker from each of the states and from the District of Columbia was required to submit her favorite recipe. These recipes have been printed in the Parents' Magazine and we plan to reprint a few of them each week until they have all been printed.

This first one is for Fruited Ham Grill and was submitted by Mrs. Harry W. Findley of the District of Columbia, who was selected Mrs. America 1958.

FRUITED HAM GRILL
3 slices (each 1 inch thick) from fully cooked boneless ham roll
3 bananas, just under ripe
3 oranges (one for juice)
1/4 cup orange marmalade
1 teaspoon horse-radish or 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
1/4 cup melted butter or margarine

Parsley
Preheat broiler. Place ham slices on rack 2 to 3 inches below heat and broil four minutes. Meanwhile slice bananas in half lengthwise and again crosswise to make four pieces each. Pour the juice of one orange over them. Cut remaining two oranges in narrow crosswise wedges. Turn ham and spread with mixture of orange marmalade and horse-radish or cloves. Brush banana pieces and orange wedges with butter or margarine and place beside ham. Broil four minutes.

Remove ham and orange wedges to serving platter. Continue broiling bananas about 2 minutes until golden. Arrange on platter. Garnish with parsley. Makes six servings.

Mrs. Alabama, who is Mrs. Huey L. Manderson, presents this easy to make dessert.

BANANA BONANZA
1 package vanilla pudding mix
1 package vanilla wafers
3 fully ripe bananas, sliced
1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped

Prepare pudding according to package directions. Cool thoroughly. Line bottom of serving dish with wafers and cover with a layer each of sliced bananas, pudding, and cookie crumbs made from remaining wafers. Repeat layers. Chill and top with whipped cream. Makes 4 servings.

The third recipe for this week is a favorite of Mrs. Everett J. Patterson, who is Mrs. Arizona.

NEWS FROM THE FARM BUREAU

By RAYMOND EULER

Farm Bureau President Gilbert Kaltwasser and Mrs. Kaltwasser are the proud parents of a little boy born last Wednesday afternoon. His name is Bruce.

Legislative Chairman H. P. Hamilton received a letter from Washington last week, in reply to his letter urging relaxing of the labor regulations that are preventing the needed number of Mexican Nationals being allowed in the area in time to take care of some needed work. He was informed that it would be necessary to go first to the Texas Employment Commission, which is what he is doing now. Everyone knows the necessity for this type of labor in the area at critical times. It has developed that the fact that many men are unemployed does not necessarily mean that they are looking for work, so long as their unemployment pay is continued.

Jack Patterson is submitting a news item pertaining to the new Texas Egg Law to the newspapers, following his conversation with TFB Legislative Director, Gene Leach. It seems that some store operations do not know they can continue to buy and sell "yard eggs" that farmers have always brought in when they bought groceries.

The egg law in question does nothing to work such hardship on egg producers. It is simply a law that prohibits the marketing of eggs rejected by reputable merchants; eggs that usually come into Texas by the truck load from other states that have egg laws.

Another law, regarding farm licensed pickups that originated in Parmer County Farm Bureau Convention two years ago, has not been made completely clear to everyone. Affidavits required to be signed by purchasers of farm pickup license tags are not, under the new law, exactly what they should be. They are stock carried over from last year. The new law, passed in the last legislature, allows use of the farm pickup as a passenger car on a local basis, that is, within the regular trade area of the owner, and for use on infrequent trips to other areas.

Regarding safety and security for our nation: We'll take the "unlearned" American man of God in preference to any number of "thoroughly educated" atheists such as some people are fearing as products of the Russian Science Schools. Brain power is secondary to its possessor's faith in God.

International Falls, Minn., Daily Journal: "Truth of the old adage, 'Great oaks from little acorns grow,' is well illustrated in the rise of the atomic energy industry. Still in its infancy, the industry has grown in 10 years to become an important element in the nation's job picture, according to data supplied by the U. S. Department of Labor. The labor office estimates that there are now more than 150,000 jobs—ranging from mining to scientific research—in all phases of atomic energy activity."

zona. Her family, which consists of her husband and four daughters, recommends this sweet-and-tart meat loaf as being just the right size for a family of six.

FRUITED HAM LOAF
6 slices canned pineapple
10 maraschino cherries
1/4 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 cup wine vinegar
3 cups ground cooked ham
2 cups ground cooked veal
2 eggs
1 cup cracker crumbs
1 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
Arrange pineapple slices and cherries on bottom of 9x5x3 inch loaf pan. Combine brown sugar, mustard, and vinegar in saucepan and heat until syrupy. Pour half of sauce over fruit and reserve the rest. Combine the remaining ingredients and pack into pan. Pour remaining sauce over meat and bake in moderate oven 1 1/2 hours. Makes 8 servings.

Mrs. Winter Womack, who is Mrs. Arkansas, serves this dreamy pecan pie anytime her family wants a rich dessert.

PECAN PIE
3 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 cup light corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
1 cup broken pecan meats
1 unbaked 9 inch pie shell
Beat eggs slightly. Stir in other ingredients, adding nuts last. Pour into pie shell and bake in hot oven ten minutes then reduce heat to medium and continue baking 30 minutes or until knife blade inserted in filling center comes out clean.

Since we plan to print these recipes in the alphabetical order of the states, next week we'll have a French Violette from California, Hamburger Enchiladas from Colorado, an Orange Raisin Cake from Connecticut, and Old Fashioned Brown Beef Stew from Delaware.

We goofed! In the recipe for Coconut Pineapple Coffee Cake in last week's Happy Homemaker column we have two consignments of water listed in the ingredients. The first should be milk and after a call from Mrs. Alvin Kriegel of Farwell, we aren't positive about the amount. Our copy says 1/3 cup, but Mrs. Kriegel says that it makes a very stiff dough and recommends trying 1/4 cup. She adds that the cake is very good.

Lazbuddie Local Hears Speakers

Members of the Lazbuddie local of Farmers Union heard "The Democratic Philosophy," a talk by Clarence Hamilton of Earth, at their meeting Friday evening, March 14.

They also heard reports from Freeman Davis and T. O. Lesly, who attended a recent bus trip to Washington sponsored by Farmers Union, and viewed films taken by the two.

About 70 attended. Several members planned to attend the national Farmers Union convention which is being held in Denver.

FEDERAL LAND BANK REDUCES INTEREST RATE

For the second time since 1917, the leader in the long term farm and ranch lending field announces a reduction in the interest rate on loans in force.

The interest rate on all loans in excess of 5% has been reduced to 5%, the same rate at which new loans are being made.

Farm and ranch owners are invited to call at the office of the national farm loan association to learn how this long term-low cost loan can serve their credit needs.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

There seems to be an increase of interest in farmstead windbreaks in the district. More and more land owners are realizing that they not only can shelter and protect the farmstead from hot drying winds and cold winter blasts, but also add to its beauty.

A good windbreak will protect cultivated fields, gardens and orchards, barns and feed lots, livestock on pasture and range, and wildlife. With proper selection, planting and care, trees can be grown in this area of low-averaging rainfall.

Now is the time to order your trees for windbreaks. We have had some inquiries on trees and on planting arrangement and hope to have more. The Soil Conservation District is making Arizona cypress seedlings available to you again this year.

These trees are potted and will be of very good stock. They will do better than most of the trees that you get that are bare rooted. Those who bought trees last year have had good luck with them. The cost to you is 30 cents for each seedling.

Applications for not less than 50 or more than 400 will be accepted at Steve Messenger's office in the Mabry Building in Friona, or at the county agent's office in Farwell. Delivery date will be around May 1.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson has announced that more than 1,000 farmers and ranchers either are starting on complete farm or ranch plans in the newly launched Great Plains Conservation Program or have applications awaiting action.

The USDA's Soil Conservation Service reports 66 of these plans for faster application of soil and water conservation have been launched in seven states, Texas, North Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Colorado.

The contracts signed involve 74,399 acres of farm and ranch lands, an average of 1,100 acres per unit. Cost-sharing is guaranteed by the federal government to cover periods of conservation work of from three to 10 years.

The 1,100-acre average size is not far from what is recognized generally as necessary for a family to earn a fair return in agriculture in much of the Great Plains area, the secretary said.

Texas, with 65 of its western-most counties taking part, leads with 51 contracts signed for units totaling 42,588 acres. Oklahoma, with 14 counties, is next with seven contracts and 17,020 acres. New Mexico reports four contracts on farms totaling 6,446 acres.

Regrassing practices lead at present in the interest of farmers and ranchers, with cost-share help provided in most of the 10 states at about 80 percent of the cost of establishing grass. There is much interest, too, in water conservation practices. Many of the soil conservation practices which a plan may call for must be applied at the owner's own expense.

Congress has authorized $150,000,000 for a 10-year program of helping farmers and ranchers in the 10 Great Plains states stabilize their lands and, as a result, their economy through stepped-up soil and water conservation. In most cases the operators want to finish their jobs as fast as possible—in three, four or five years.

A total of $10,000,000 was provided for the first year of the program's operation, and another $10,000,000 has been recommended in the new budget for the succeeding year.

Adding supplemental protein to a self-fed ration of corn for fattening steers grazing legume and grass pasture increased daily gains 0.39 of a pound and produced 100 pounds of gain at $0.72 less cost in feeding trials recently reported by the Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station.

The Bob Wilson Family OF BOVINA

Parmer County Farm Family of the Month

The Bob Wilsons are a family that take time from their farming to participate in farm and civic activities in the community in which they live.

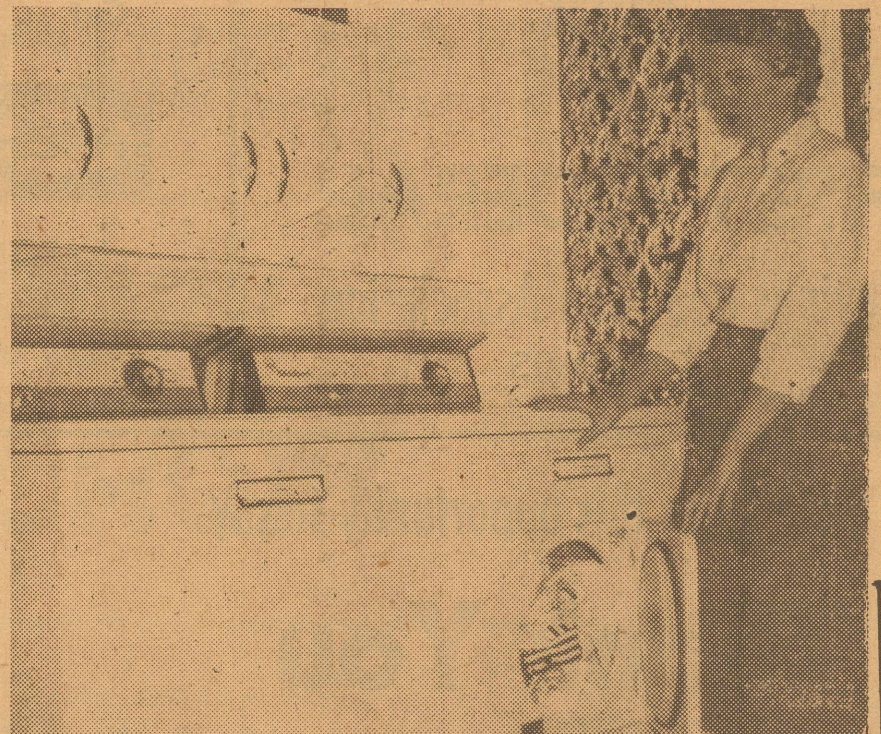

The Wilsons farm two sections of land located four and one half miles west and one and one half miles north of Bovina. One section is irrigated, and the other is dryland.

Wilson is a family-type farmer and devotes his land to grain sorghum, wheat, a little cotton, and a herd of 50 cattle.

Besides farming, Wilson is a director of the West Texas Rural Telephone Cooperative, director of the Parmer County Grain Sorghum Producers Association, member of the Bovina School Board, and is a worker for High Plains Research Foundation. He is also Cubmaster of the Bovina Cub Scouts.

All the Wilsons, including Mrs. Letha Wilson, and the children; Ann Lynn 11, Gregg 9, Candy 6, and April 8 months, attend the Bovina Methodist Church, where they are members.

Mrs. Wilson is a native of the Bovina area, being the daughter of one of the earlier founders of Bovina. Her father, Frank Hastings, pioneered the first general store in Bovina.

The Wilsons live modern, make more farm profit electrically... Being a busy farm housewife with four children, Mrs. Wilson relies on electricity to lighten her chores. Pictured above with her washer and dryer twins, she says this combination is her choice for work-saving—especially the dryer. It is an appliance that she uses with pleasure, besides being a time-saver too.
