Meeting Called at Dallas to Discuss Cotton Price

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 18.—A statewide meeting of farmers, merchants and bankers of Texas to consider the cotton situation and develop possible credit plans to local banks and the Federal Reserve Bank whereby the remaining crop could be marketed slowly and intelligently and at a better prices than at present prevail, will be held Thursday morning at the city hall.

The meeting is the result of a conference of bankers held Monday morning, presided over by Nathan Adams, vice president of the American Exchange National Bank. Mr. Adams has called the meeting following the receipt of numerous letters from farmers and bankers in different parts of the state urging that the bankers of Dallas take the initiative in taking steps to relieve the situation.

A Biblical Courtship

Report has a novel courtship wherein a Bible was the silent go between with telling effect.

A young divinity student saw in the pew in front of him such a young lady as he probably had dreamed of for a future helpmate. So obsessed he became that he passed his open Bible over the pew to her with the fifth verse of Second John marked, the verse reading, "And now I beseech thee, lady, not as though I wrote a new commandment unto thee, but that which we had from the beginning, that we love one another."

Miss Young Lady was equal to the occasion. After a few minutes she passed the Bible back with the second chapter and tenth verse of the Book of Ruth marked, reading: "Why have I found grace in thine eyes, and thou shoulders take knowledge of me, seeing I am a stranger?"

Fate seemed standing tiptoe astride that pew. The divinity student turned back the Second John and marked the twelfth verse, "Having many things to write to you, I would write with paper and ink, but trust to come unto you, and speak face to face that our joy may be full."

Again was the lady kindly disposed and returned the Bible opened with first chapter of Ruth, marked in the sixteenth verse reading, "Entreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee, for whither thou goest, I go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; and thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God."

It is well to have this pair, as they are sufficient unto themselves, and the Bible was their guide.—Exchange.

Does your stomach feel bloated after eating? Do you have sour risings, heartburn, spells of dizziness, and constipated bowels? If so, Prickly Ash Bitters is the medicine for you. Men who use it find it exactly suited for such disorders. Price $1.50 per bottle. Smith & Ryan special agents.

State Superintendent Issues an Appeal

The citizenship newly conferred upon you bears with it this year a peculiarly precious privilege—the power to aid in carrying an amendment which will permit the public schools, in future, to make progress in proportion as the school districts of the state find themselves able to support better schools.

It is not sufficient for each family to educate its own children. The happiness, the safety to life and property of your children in the future, depend largely upon the kind of citizenship with whom they must live. The perpetuation of the democratic institution for which our forefathers offered their lives depends upon the education of the masses. Texas is 9 per cent illiterate. Twenty-five per cent of our children do not advance beyond the fourth grade. The average time of leaving school is the sixth grade. If this continues it means a sixth grade citizenship in the future for the Lone Star State.

In response to your call two years ago, I sacrificed my home, spent my provisions for the future, and gave up the work I loved, to labor for better schools for Texas children. I turn to you now to plead for your special aid in carrying a measure, the failure of which will be a blow to further progress. For love of Texas children, and for the pride in our great state, I urge you to pay your poll-tax by October 21 and on November 2 to cast a vote for the Better Schools Amendment.

Annie Webb Blanton,
State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Rival Chairmen Pick Cox and Harding to Win

Chairmen of the two National Committees have made their predictions as to the results of the presidential election.

Will Hays, chairman of the Republican committee, says the entire country, with the possible exception of ten Southern States, will be for Harding and Coolidge in November. He claims Kentucky by 40,000 and North Carolina, Tennessee, Oklahoma and many other states that usually go Democratic. Asked what he based these predictions on he said: "Eight years of maladministration, and because in those States as well as elsewhere they hold America first."

Chairman George White, of the Democratic Committee, claimed almost as much the other way. He sees a solid South and all the border states for Cox and Roosevelt, with almost a solid West as in 1916. The reason he gives is that "the West is keenly for the League of Nations to put an end to wars," while the East he thinks is "apathetic."

Of course such predictions are not worth much. It is the business of the national chairman on both sides to claim everything. Seasoned observers have seen many a candidate elected in September who didn't appear to very good advantage when the votes were counted in November.

South Wants Land Reclaimed

The South is beginning to protest against so many schemes to reclaim land in the far West. Many Southern newspapers are pointing out that the South has millions of acres of good land which only needs drainage to make it as fertile as a garden.

Farmers Lose by Falling Prices

In the general fall of prices farmers have been rather hard hit. The shrinking of value, caused by the fall in the price of wheat, corn, cotton, etc., is said to amount to about a billion and three-quarters.

S. W. Dutch has returned from Dallas, where he visited his daughter and attended the state fair.

Retail Dealers Will Sell Clothes at Cost

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 18.—Retail clothing dealers throughout the country will sell clothes at cost this fall, Andreas Burkhardt of Cincinnati, president of the National Association of Retail Clothiers, said tonight in a statement.

"Rightfully or wrongfully, the public is determined to get lower prices," said Mr. Burkhardt. "The public is not interested in the increased cost of products. It cares nothing for our added expenses. So both manufacturers and retailers have determined to give the public what it wants."

More People Now in Cities Than in Rural Regions

For the first time in the history of the United States more people live in the city than in the country. This is the substance of a Census Bureau report.

Exact figures cannot yet be given, but, subject to possible correction the people in the cities now number 54,796,100, and those in the country 50,970,000.

Every city exults when its own population shows a large increase, but that is due only to local pride and self-interest. Viewed in a large way, the country over, such figures are not encouraging. They show an unhealthy condition, as when the blood rushes to the head. It means more mouths in the city to feed, fewer hands in the country to produce food from the soil.

Ten years ago, although the same drift of population cityward has been going on, there were still 7,000,000 more people in the rural districts than in the cities.

The growth of the city population has been seven times as fast as that of the country.

Young Folks Here is Your Opportunity

Pick scraps of time from the waste basket, turn them into dollars; earn while you learn by taking a money back guarantee course of bookkeeping, shorthand and typewriting, business administration and finance, telegraphy, commercial law, business arithmetic, salesmanship, advertising, commercial lettering or business penmanship, by correspondence through the Extension Department of the Tyler Commercial College.

We secure satisfactory results or refund tuition. Our correspondence courses include the same subjects as given with a personal course, with the privilege of entering college for personal work at any stage of your course without paying additional tuition. In other words, the correspondence instructions are absolutely free if you enter for personal work. Many find it to their advantage even when they intend to take personal work later, to first enroll for the course by correspondence and utilize their spare moments until they are ready to enter since it costs nothing extra. This often saves them a couple of month's time and board in school on their personal work and enables them to leave college and accept a good position two months earlier.

Another advantage of the correspondence course is that we give three months free use of a standard typewriter with the full shorthand course. Many of our students have attained a speed of from forty to fifty words per minute through our system of touch typewriting during the three months and have at the same time carried on their other work. Telegraphy instruments and supplies are furnished with our course in Telegraphy, and a thorough course of Salesmanship is given with Bookkeeping.

We use our original copyrighted methods. We make every subject practical and interesting from start to finish. Every lesson receives prompt personal attention and a personal reply. We have taught hundreds of students successfully and know we can teach you or we would not guarantee to refund then money. Why continue to waste your spare moments? Turn them into knowledge and make them earn you dollars. Take advantage of the wonderful opportunities for young men and women in the business world today. You can't afford to let your spare moments pass when there is such a crying need for office help. Big Cotton Man Urges Farmers to Hold Staple

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 16.—Theodore H. Price of New York, editor of Commerce and Finance who is in Dallas, when asked for his opinion today of the cotton market, made the following statement:

"I think that the time has come when everyone who owns cotton should keep it. It is always unwise and unprofitable to sell a staple commodity when there is no demand for it, and that is very nearly true of cotton at present.

"Next to food and fuel cotton is more essential to civilization than any other product of human labor, and it is certain that every bale of cotton now in existence will be required before another twelve months has passed.

"This prediction assumes, however, the election of Governor Cox and the early ratification of the league of nations, failing which the economic chaos that exists in Europe will continue, and we shall still be in a state of war with Germany and Austria and unable to ship them the cotton that they need.

"It is the present unexportable surplus which would be promptly disposed of if we were legally, as well as actually, at peace, that weighs so heavily on the market and leads those who would otherwise buy now to defer their purchases in the fear of still lower prices."

In all malaria countries the popular remedy is Herbine. People find it a good medicine for purifying the system and warding off the disease. Price, 60c. Sold by D. N. Leaverton.

We take this method of expressing our appreciation to the people of Grapeland and community for their unstinted help and kindness to us during the illness and death of our beloved husband and father. Time to "Back to the Land"

The United States, blessed with a greater abundance of food than any other country, has imported $210,000,000 worth of foreign foodstuffs in August. In the same month we exported only $153,000,000 worth. Since January 1, 1920, we have imported food to the value of $1,366,000,000, and exported a little less. This is one of the consequences of the American people's rush from the country to the cities. We are not now a self-supporting people in the matter of food. We are living, in part, on the scanty food stores of a starving world.

Added Faster Than Machine

A 13-year-old Kansas City girl a seventh-grade pupil of the local public schools, is regarded as something of a prodigy because she succeeded in adding the long columns of numbers mentally getting the correct results in less than half the time that was required for doing the same sums with an adding machine.

This is a record that the girl, her parents and her teachers may well be proud of for the adding machine has won its place in banks and other business houses through ability to do sums more rapidly and with greater precision than even the average trained accountant can do them with a pencil.

The adding machine lost the race, evidently, because it had for a competitor a quick, alert brain, unusually adept at adding numbers while it was itself only a numb, inanimate fabrication of wood, rubber and metal, powerless without an operator's noble fingers, directed by his brain. The operator's brain may have functioned as rapidly as the little girl's did but results were necessarily arrived at in a less direct way.

Scarcity of Washerwomen

Dinah, Sookey, Rachel and Harriet have made their annual hegira to the cotton fields and there is woe in the homes of grand old Texas. Even a ride in an auto to the place of work, or a promise of the best of last season's dresses will not lure the sable workers from the cotton fields, and so the linen must be laundered by home folks, if laundered at all. And this suggests the thought, what will become of the people when we all get rich? Every person expects to taste affluence after a while, and all are working toward such an end, but won't the world be in an awful condition when we all get rich? And one of the greatest worries we can see when looking forward to the time when poverty is to be banished from the earth is, "who will do the washing?"—Honey Grove Signal.

Degrees infinite of luster there must always be; but the weakest among us has a gift, however seemingly trivial, which is peculiar to him and which, worthily used, will be a gift also to the race forever.—Ruskin.

IS YOUR HEALTH GRADUALLY SLIPPING?

Interesting Experience of a Texas Lady Who Declares That if More Women Knew About Cardui They Would Be Spared Much Sickness and Worry.

Navasota, Texas.—Mrs. W. M. Peden, of this place, relates the following interesting account of how she recovered her strength, having realized that she was actually losing her health:

"Health is the greatest thing in the world, and when you feel that gradually slipping away from you, you certainly sit up and take notice. That is what I did some time ago when I found myself in a very nervous, run-down condition of health. I was so tired and felt so lifeless I could hardly go at all.

"I was just no account for work. I would get a bucket of water and would feel so weak I would have to set it down before I felt like I could lift it to the shelf. In this condition, of course, to do even my housework was a task almost impossible to accomplish.

"I was . . . nervous and easily upset.

I couldn't rest well at night and was . . . just lifeless.

"I heard of Cardui and after reading I decided I had some female trouble that was pulling me down. I sent for Cardui and began it . . .

"In a very short while after I began the Cardui Home Treatment I saw an improvement and it wasn't long until I was all right—good appetite, splendid rest, and much stronger so that I easily did my house work.

"Later I took a bottle of Cardui as a tonic. I can recommend Cardui and gladly do so, for if more women knew, it would save a great deal of worry and sickness."

The enthusiastic praise of thousands of other women who have found Cardui helpful should convince you that it is worth trying. All druggists sell it.

Prehistoric Inhabitants of Texas

Prof. J. E. Pearce of the University of Texas and other scientists in the past year have been delving into burned-rock mounds or kitchen "middens"—piles of broken, blackened bits of limestone—along the Edwards plateau in Texas. Prof. Pearce concludes that the region was inhabited in prehistoric times by a race of men different from the Indians whom the Europeans found when they reached the new world. They evidently were nomadic in their habits, roaming from one part of the wilderness to another and killing animals and humans for food, using rude stone weapons.

They had arrows and spears tipped with flint points, chipped but not polished, says Prof. Pearce. They did not engage in any form of agriculture. However, they were apparently skillful skin dressers, as flint scraping tools have been found. The fact that they were cannibals is shown by human bones found in their rubbish heaps, split open so that the eaters could get at the marrow.

The kitchen middens of these prehistoric Texans are believed to be the only things of the kind in America, although such remains have been found in other parts of the world. They are made up for the most part of kitchen refuse. At these sites camps were located. In the center was a great fireplace with huge slabs of limestone laid over it to serve as a primitive kind of stove on which these prehistoric people cooked their meat.

After concluding the work of exploring these mounds it is planned to investigate the "funeral mounds" in eastern Texas. These, according to Prof. Pearce, were left by an entirely different race of people who lived at a different period.—The Pathfinder.

Pale are the once so rosy gills of Republican hope. October spreads a frost over the sweet June dream. In California, and every other state, for that matter, it is evident that the effort of the Republicans to be both for and against the league is breaking down. It would be mighty convenient if the grand old party could carry water on both shoulders until election day.—New York Times.

E. B. Dorough of Golmer was here a few days this week looking after business interests.

Rights of Individuals

The nation's greatest concern should be health, intelligence and freedom of its people. These are nation's greatest asset. Peace prosperity and the pursuit of happiness will depend upon the moral stamina and the physical efficiency of the American people.

Industry and thrift will always be essential to prosperity. Ambition, personal initiative and independence must go hand in hand with democracy.

In the laws that shall be passed to relieve the burdens of taxation, personal initiative, freedom of opportunity and personal service to society must have consideration. Justice to individuals and opportunity in cooperation must not be hindered. Groups that benefit society may well be encouraged, but organizations must not be allowed to crush individuals nor hinder government. Selfish advantages must not be tolerated.

Our country must not favor any class at the expense of any other class. Society will best be served when all classes and all occupations have equal opportunities and no special privileges. Farm and Ranch.

No Account

The world renders many severe verdicts after sizing up man and weighing his propensities, his follies and his foibles, but the hardest sentence ever passed upon a member of the human family is that "he's no account." Those classed as mean may see the folly of their ways and turn to righteousness. The drunkard may reform, and the quarrelsome fellow may mend his ways, but the man who's "no account" is a hopeless case. He may have strength, but behind that strength there is no ambition, and the strong arm falls helpless at his side. He may have education may have gathered much knowledge from the world's accumulated libraries—but he has no purpose or plan to use this knowledge for the betterment of the world. He may be competent to fill important positions, but he prefers rest and profligacy, and so drifts and drifts, contributing nothing to the world for his living. Finally he becomes a charge upon the world, and one of the world's problems today is to make provision for him and his tribe.—Honey Grove Signal.

THREE CHARMING ENTERTAINERS

You will like these three gifted young ladies for they have delighted Lyceum and Chautauqua audiences for three seasons. The Davis Sisters—Veronica and Grace—are capable of giving an entire program by themselves but have added their talents to those of Miss Carol Peterson, making an unusually strong combination and giving a program that is unique.

These talented young women read, sing, play the piano, the flute, guitar, ukelele and mandolin, presenting their program in sketch from snap and go to every feature and every minute while they are on the platform.

They are charmingly costumed, making several changes to suit the various entertainment features they present. Parts of their program consist of selections they have themselves written.

Here is a list of questions for the wide-awake boys. You can answer all of them? You can any day see a white horse, why do you never see a white colt? How many different kinds of trees grow in your neighborhood and what are they good for? Why does a horse eat grass backward and a cow forward? Why does a hop vine always wind one way, and a bean vine another? Where should the inside of a chimney be bigger, at the top or bottom, and why? Can you tell why a horse when tethered with a rope, always unravels it with a cow always twist it into kinky knots? Why do leaves turn upside down before a rain? What is the length of a horse's head—is it long as a flour barrel? What animals have no upper teeth in front and why?—Ex.

LIBERTY HILL NEWS

Liberty Hill, Oct. 18.—Quite a number of young men, after having finished gathering their crops, have gone to west Texas to pick cotton.

C. R. Kellum and family have gone to west Texas where they will make their home in the future. We are sorry to lose them from our community but wish them much happiness and prosperity in their future home.

Mrs. J. R., Miss Velma, and Mr. Henry Moore are visiting relatives near Belton, Texas, this week.

Miss Irvin Talley of Crockett visited her grandmother, Mrs. S. J. Story, this week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Mackbe and Limmie Kellum and family visited the home of W. L. Kellum last week.

Miss Ruby Lee Young, who is attending school in Alto, came home on a short visit Saturday.

Mrs. Dudley Davis is seriously ill. We all wish her a speedy recovery.

In order that we may have more money to use in painting the school house, next Friday has been selected as a day for the patrons to meet and cut wood for the school. On Friday afternoon from two forty until four o'clock a program will be given by the school children and A. S. Moore will deliver an address on the proposed Better School amendment.

A box supper is to be given at the school house on Saturday night, October 30. Everyone is invited. Boxes will be furnished to visiting girls.

Friends and Neighbors

We are all friends and neighbors around here. We know each other and when we meet we say hello, Bill, or Dick, or Tom, or Harry or whatever it is, and we say, also, how is your little Katie getting along with her measles, and why in blazes wasn't you at church last Sunday? When one gets sick the rest of us go out and buy some flowers, or fruit, or something, and go around and pat him on the back and cheer him up. And if he or his family are in trouble of any kind, we are all broke up about it, and do everything we can to help along. All that kindly, brotherly, neighborly spirit goes a long ways toward knocking off the sharp edges.

Let us bear all this in mind, continually, and if we do it will be much better than if we get peevish and grouchy and make a lunch off of each other's ample ears.

If any fellow from the outside comes in here and goes to saying mean things about a citizen, man or woman, we would eat him up like an oyster on the half-shell. We wouldn't stand for it one minute. Then why should we ever say mean things about one another? There is nothing in it at all. Cut out all the rough stuff and shake hands.—Nacogdoches Sentinel.

His remains were shipped to Crockett where interment took place Monday.
