Humble to Build Two Stations Here

WORK STARTS RIGHT AFTER JANUARY 1ST

Construction of two modern filling stations will begin in Cisco shortly after the first of January, it was announced Saturday by the Humble company which is seeking a market for part of its products through its own retail filling stations. One of the new stations will be located at Third and Main where a triangular plot of ground, now beautified into a park, has been purchased by the Humble company from the Texas & Pacific railroad. Plans for the station have not yet been received here, and therefore it is not known just how the building will be located on this plot of ground. However, it is expected that much of the beautiful park will be retained. The other station will be located at the corner of A avenue and the Eastland highway at the northeast corner. The building will be constructed of wrought iron and will be of latest design with all modern conveniences, it is said. No estimate as to the cost was given by local officials who said they were in ignorance of details of the construction program pending receipt of plans from the head offices at Houston. It is understood that a third filling station of even more elaborate construction is planned by the company here, but the property on which it is to be located has not yet been acquired and definite announcement in regard to it is being held up until negotiations are completed. Commenting on the purchase of sites and construction of the three new buildings, a prominent Cisco man made the following statement Saturday afternoon: "Few people realize the immensity of the Humble's local monthly payroll, and what it has meant to local business since the oil depression. The expenditure for three modern filling stations is only another evidence of the company's faith in Cisco."

CHRISTMAS BUYING IS GIVEN SPURT

Cold weather of the last few days has resulted in people of Cisco beginning to think more seriously of Christmas and Christmas buying, and as a result, the largest crowd of shoppers seen on the streets of Cisco for some time was present here Saturday. The shopping district was well crowded with persons from the middle of the morning until late Saturday. The shopping district as a rule reported very satisfactory business. Many of those on the streets were from rural districts and smaller towns in the Cisco trade territory. Saturday night brought hundreds of persons to Cisco to see the beautiful Christmas lights which have been strung throughout the business section, making Cisco the best lighted city for Christmas between Fort Worth and El Paso. The large Christmas tree for the downtown section was erected Saturday and was partly decorated during the day. It is located at Sixth and Main, at the intersection of Main street and Beekenkridge highway. It is to be well lighted and will no doubt attract considerable attention during the two weeks remaining before Christmas. Many smaller Christmas trees are being put up by individual merchants, either in their show windows or in front of their stores. The largest of these has been put up by the West Texas Utilities company. One event of Saturday was the arrival of Santa Claus at the union station, the corpulent old gentleman having been invited here as the guest of the local stores. He rode up Main street on a truck amid stirring music by members of the Cisco high school band, and distributed chewing gum and favors to the scores of children who followed in his wake. More than the usual number of people were noticed on the streets during the early morning hours, but during the afternoon the crowds literally swarmed the streets and congested the stores. Clerks were unable to keep up with the demands upon their services. The writer decided to find out if the people were "just looking" or were really buying so a number of stores, including groceries, dry goods, gift shops and drug stores were called up to be questioned as to their sales for the day. Where an answer could be had over the telephone at all, the reply was that the day was an unusually busy one. At one large store the party answering the telephone replied that the store was so full of people that they could not hear any thing and to please call later. And this was at a late hour Saturday evening, too. In other stores no reply could be had. It was presumed the stores were too busy to answer.

San Angelo Bank Shooting Takes Toll of Two Lives, Including Head Of Institution and His Cashier

(Special to the Daily News) SAN ANGELO, Texas, Dec. 10.—William Scheuerman, 41, president, died this morning at one o'clock; Karl H. Wood, 50, died at 5 o'clock this morning; Ira Swopes, 37, is in a hospital recovering; and Earl Gibson and Mrs. Selma Walling, patrons of the bank, are recovering from slight gunshot wounds, as the result of a shooting in the Guaranty Bank Friday afternoon at 12:45 o'clock. Wood, believed responsible for the shooting, gave a 45 automatic Colts pistol to James White after it had been emptied and just before he tapped into unconsciousness nodded when asked if he did the shooting. Later at the hospital Wood is said to have made a statement to his son, Karl Wood, Jr., which has not been announced. Officials of the bank stated that arrangements had been made to have Swopes displaced. Wood as cashier, and according to reports of the dying bank president he did not know Wood was angered at the action. Swopes, in a statement made from the hospital bed, stated he was called to Wood's desk and asked about a telegram received Thursday. "I asked if he had not had the telegram the day before and left it on my desk for me to handle, and he said he didn't. I was standing by his desk and he was sitting. He got up and left his desk. He mumbled something and I walked up closer to a distance of about three feet to better understand it. He mumbled something else. He jerked out a gun and began firing at me. He shot at me twice, the bullet hitting me in the left shoulder and whirling me around. I jumped behind the fixtures and then I saw Mr. Wood whirl on Bill Scheuerman. It was done so quickly that Bill had no time to defend himself. I never heard Mr. Wood utter a word." Wood is believed to have turned his gun on himself after shooting the others. However, so much confusion existed in the bank, and with the principals rendered unconscious most of the time from the injuries all details of the shooting have not been revealed. Funeral for the dead men will be held here Sunday. A check of the bank records show the institution in a sound financial condition. The bank opened this morning with J. M. Shannon, millionaire cattleman and banker and officer of a half dozen banks in West Texas, succeeding Scheuerman.

TEXAS CONVICTS ATTACK GUARD AND ESCAPE

HUNTSVILLE, Dec. 10.—Prison guards and officers of this section are scouring the countryside for four convicts who Saturday slugged Emmett Appleton, guard, and escaped in his automobile. He was taking the prisoners to the Eastman prison farm. One of them struck him on the head with a lead pipe. He is in a serious condition at a local hospital. Abilene and Waco will enter the state football championship final game this week as the result of victories over the week end. Abilene defeated Cleburne 34 to 6 at Cleburne Friday afternoon, and on Saturday the Waco juggernaut unmercifully crushed Sherman high school 59 to 0. Cleburne held Abilene well in the first quarter and at one time advanced the ball to Abilene's 18-yard line, but thereafter it was all one-sided for the Eagles. In the Saturday game, Waco grabbed the lead from the start and smothered Sherman with the greatest ease. Selection of the site and date for the final game was scheduled to be made at a conference of officials of the two schools Saturday night. Word from Waco indicated the officials were having some difficulty in getting together. Superintendent R. D. Green of Abilene understood that Coach Paul Tyson was to meet him at the Waco high school building Saturday night but when he went there, according to reports, Tyson failed to appear. Green then returned to his hotel, leaving word that if Mr. Tyson wanted to see him he could find him there. Later, however, the officials got together and decided to flip for the site of the game, and Waco won. Agreement was reached that the game be played in Waco Friday afternoon. Several Texas cities had representatives present seeking the game in the event it should be played on neutral grounds, including Dallas, Fort Worth and Cisco. It was the desire of the officials of the two schools, however, that the practice of playing on neutral grounds should be abandoned in their case and that the regular procedure of flipping a coin for the choice of site be followed.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS--

Of Every Kind, for Every Purse. Disappears, Had Received Threat

A posse comprised of relatives, friends and peace officers searched the adjacent community around Nimrod thoroughly Friday night and all day Saturday in an effort to locate Ellis Pass, prominent farmer of Nimrod and brother of C. O. Pass, chief of the Cisco Fire department and well known automobile dealer, who is reported missing since 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. At that time he is said to have left home for Cisco to confer with William Reagan in regard to leasing some land, but he failed to arrive here and was not seen by Mr. Reagan. Fear for his life was felt by members of his family who recalled that Friday, a week before, he had received a threatening note. A pool of blood on a roadside, with drops of blood leading into a field where a smaller pool of blood was discovered constituted the only possible clue as to his fate. The blood was found a short distance down the Reich school house road from the intersection with the Cisco-Nimrod road. No footprints were found and nothing else besides the blood was in evidence to indicate a tragedy. The amount of blood spilled was said to have been more than would have been shed by a rabbit or other small animal had it been killed there by a hunter, but it could not be determined whether it was human blood. The field was searched thoroughly but no trace of the missing man could be found. Mr. Pass disappeared while driving a light car on his way to Cisco. Since receiving the threatening note, he had been in constant fear for his life, members of his family said, and when he started to town he took his wife to the home of a neighbor, Mr. Abbott and left her there, expecting Mr. Abbott to accompany him on the trip to Cisco. Mr. Abbott was unable to leave his work at the time, and Mr. Pass started off alone, telling his wife he would stop by at the school and get their five children, the oldest of whom is 16, and pick her up on the return home. That was the last seen of him or of his car. The receipt of the threatening note followed Mr. Pass' reporting to the sheriff's office a month ago a strange incident on a neighboring farm which he believed indicated presence of illicit liquor manufacturers. He reported to Sheriff Hart that he saw several automobiles enter the field during the night and remain there until well after midnight. The next day he took his shotgun and went into the field. Two armed men whom he did not recognize came from behind some bushes and covered him with guns, he reported to the officers. They demanded to know what he was doing in the field and he replied that he was hunting. "Well, this field is posted and you get out of here!" they replied, according to his story. The county officers were then notified and spent a day and a half in the vicinity looking for the men, but could find no trace of them. It was Friday, a week ago that the threatening note came through the mail. It was printed with pencil on a sheet of tablet paper and read as follows: "Well, Pass, it is musing time for you. The sooner the better. You have put the law on us and we aim to get you." At the bottom of the sheet was drawn a curving line which was labeled: "Troop." Mr. Pass reported receipt of the note to Chief of Police Bedford at once, the police chief said. However, since the farmer did not know the men who had held the guns on him about a month before, he could give little information as to who they might be, and little could be done to apprehend them. Then came his mysterious disappearance Friday afternoon. Friday night Deputy Sheriffs Newman and Bradford, Chief of Police G. E. Bedford, Officer J. L. Wilson, C. O. Pass, J. M. Williamson and A. B. O'Flaherty assisted Nimrod residents in searching the community for the missing man, and Saturday 20 or more persons spent most of the day in the search. Aside from finding the two pools of blood, no clues as to the missing man could be picked up. C. O. Pass said Saturday night that he had obtained information that a certain young man of the Nimrod community had made the remark to a friend of the family that "if Ellis doesn't keep his nose out of that 'still,' he's going to get his head full of shot." It is probable that an inquiry into this angle of the case will be made at once.

Three states were represented in a group of three youths arrested as they alighted from a freight train in the local railroad yards Friday night. One came from New Jersey, another from Wisconsin and the third from Buffalo, New York. They were headed west for the sunny climate of California when given a chance to enjoy the climate of Cisco for a time.

Pupils in the West Ward school are obtaining instruction not only through what they read but also through what they see. A new Keystone stereopticon has just been installed at the school and new slides every week are being supplied by the University of Texas division of visual instruction. A wide variety of subjects are covered by the slides which picture to the children concretely some of the things taught them in their books. According to Principal T. C. Williams, this method of instruction is proving most valuable to the children who learn most readily through sight.

Cisco Saturday was looking in 70-degree weather for the first time in several days following the severely cold weather of the last few days. Temperature moderated considerably Friday night and the mercury continued to rise during Saturday. Misty rain had fallen during the night. The weather forecast is for colder weather today, however.

"My wife had her hair bobbed today," said Constable C. S. Loomer Saturday. "I told her that I guess I'd have to quit her. She didn't do a thing but reply: 'Goodness sakes, if I'd have known that, I would have had my head shaved long ago.' No sir, you can never tell about these women."

"You can tell the world it was cold at the Abilene-Cleburne game," declared W. M. Miller, father of "Sheriff" Miller of the Cisco high school, who was among the Ciscoans who went to the game at Cleburne Friday. "I had an overcoat, and it seemed I never was so cold in my life, while the rest of the folks were all shivering. The radio announcer wasn't stringing you when he said it was cold."

In addition to the extensive thought to the east by this well known carries production a full load from distance further north than any previous drilling. This is being followed by a line of new locations that promise not only offset drilling but at least in one instance territory still further west will now be explored. In addition to the drilling now in progress between this well known older territory the same work is now moving in.

ROUSSEAU SINGS FOR CHRISTIANS

Sacred songs by a grand opera singer—such a musical feature is provided at the First Christian church tonight when Charles Rousseau, noted baritone, will, by special request, appear on the program. He is the guest of his old time friend, Thomas Reid, dean of the college of fine arts at Randolph college, following his recent concert recital at the college. Another unusual attraction at the church today will be the sermons both morning and evening by Dr. John W. Tynnell, who is closing a Bible institute at Randolph college. Dr. Tynnell spoke at the evening service last Sunday when his unique sermon made such an impression that he was asked to fill the pulpit at both hours today. This will be his last appearance at the church here since he will leave at the close of the institute at the college.

Dan Moody Goes On Big Game Hunt

STATE RESTS IN REBECCA'S ROBBERY CASE

LaGRANGE, Dec. 10.—Court which is trying Mrs. Rebecca Rogers closed at 3:30 p. m. today on the eve of the first anniversary of the robbery to resume Monday morning. The state rested after introducing William E. Galligan, 13, boy of South Austin to whom Rebecca gave a lift just after the robbery. Dr. C. Lauderdale and L. L. Carter, both of Buda, who testified they saw Becky in the bank December 11, 1926. Defense witnesses introduced are attempting to show the girl was moody and often acted queerly. Defense witnesses questioned this afternoon were led by C. A. Wheeler, attorney of Austin. He cited instances to try to show Becky as moody and changeable in her temperament. He said he would say she was insane. Dr. W. C. Lackey of Fort Worth was the second witness. He stated that basing his opinion on his knowledge of her father and mother, whom he characterized as a strange couple, and from his examination of Becky two weeks ago and when he was attending her when she had pneumonia when she was six, he would say she is suffering from some form of depressing insanity. The state questioned Dr. Lackey to show that he had not seen her much in recent years until two weeks ago. District Attorney Fred Rhinbold asked, "In your opinion does she know right from wrong?" Lackey admitted that he was not in a position to know. Testimony which the defense sought to introduce in regard to divorce of the girl's father and mother was ruled irrelevant by Judge M. C. Jeffrey.

He Wants Guard For Each Bank

AUSTIN, Dec. 10.—The best method to prevent bank robberies in Texas is employment of a special guard for each of the state banks, it was suggested today by Robert E. Goodfellow, chief of the sheriff's division of the comptroller's department. "Wages of such guards should be paid by the insurance companies," he said. He said this plan would be more effective than the $5,000 reward offered for dead bandits by the state bankers' association. Mr. Patrick, who is constructing several residences in the city, returned with his wife Saturday from a few days' stay in Abilene.

HERB. HOOVER FRIENDS CLAIM SOUTHERN VOTE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Supporters of Herbert Hoover were voicing private claims today that he will go into the republican convention with a minimum of 300 votes on the first ballot. It will take 545 to nominate as there will be 1,900 votes in the convention. The Hoover leaders believe they will get a majority of the Southern delegates at the outset. Southern republicans have a habit of going with the administration because many of them are officeholders, and all of them are dependent on the administration at Washington for federal jobs.

Coleman Selected For Press Meeting

COLEMAN, Dec. 10.—The Heart of Texas Press association Friday selected Coleman as the spring meeting place, date to be announced later. H. H. ### Johnston Refuses To Call Session

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 10.—All hopes that Governor Henry S. Johnston would reverse himself and issue a belated edict legalizing the present self-convened session of the Oklahoma legislature were at rest today. After prolonged conferences, the executive gave out a long and carefully prepared statement in which he characterized events in Oklahoma as leading toward anarchy, and declaring the special session wholly illegal. He concluded with a fervent appeal to the people of Oklahoma to uphold him "in this hour."

Remus Witness Faces Charges

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 10.—John S. Berger, wealthy promoter of Los Angeles, was arrested today on an indictment charging he gave perjured testimony while on the stand last week for George Remus, on trial for murder of his wife, Imogene. Berger retaliated with the announcement he would sue Charles P. Taft for $500,000, alleging defamation of character. Judge Chester granted Berger $3,000 bond, returnable Monday. Berger was accused of having sworn falsely when he made the following statements from the witness stand: First that he did not ask Mrs. Remus to give him $25,000, warning he had men who might do her bodily harm; and that a "terrible tragedy" would be on her head, that he offered her two hundred thousand dollars for return of some of Remus' possessions.

only costs 13 per cent of my income; and considering the importance of food, that seems little enough." He was right, for him and his class. As income goes down, the proportionate cost of food goes up. To the man with half a dozen mouths to feed and $5 a day income, that Chicago food bill looks ruinous.

CAUSE OF UNEMPLOYMENT

According to a survey by the New York State Department of Charities, 80 per cent of the men out of work in that state have "alcoholic histories." They are, or have been, excessive drinkers, or are the offspring of excessive drinkers. This would not be the case in a time of great unemployment. Then sober men and sober men's sons would lack work, along with those disabled by alcohol. But in normal or nearly normal times, industry sifts out and discards the incompetents, and the charity people find alcohol the chief cause of incompetency. This is true of individuals, of communities, of countries. Modern industry, with its fast pace and insistence on accuracy and dependability, is more intolerant of alcoholics than was any former age. And clear-minded thinkers recognize that, given an equal start in natural intelligence and energy, the industrial race upon which civilization has entered will go to the soberest.

BILLIONS FOR INVESTMENT

Whatever else may be said of the year 1927 along strictly business lines, it is certainly breaking all records in financing. A Wall Street report says that for the first eleven months of this year new issues of state and municipal bonds, corporate securities and foreign loans aggregated $6,654,880,000. That is more than $1,700,000,000 above the record of the same period in 1926. The tendency continues as the year nears its end. November, with $635,000,000 in stock and bond issues, far surpassed the same month last year. It will be a big year's total. The obvious fact emerging from any such statement is that America is bursting with investment funds. Whether industry and trade be as good as the optimists insist, or as poor as the pessimists insist, our people have money, and are saving and spending and investing at a remarkable rate. When this is the case, it seems clear, without going into figures and arguments, that general business must be pretty good and the outlook still better. People don't pour billions into new investments and foreign loans if they feel that they may need the cash themselves.

NEGLIGEE STYLES

Women adopted knickers some time ago for hiking, camping, auto touring and outdoor occasions. Now they are showing further taste for real comfort. It is reported that they are buying, for themselves men's bathrobes instead of the filmy, frilly negligees of yore. Warmth, comfort, convenience, durability are probable factors in the development of this taste. School girls, business women, efficient mother and housewife find they can relax more thoroughly and refreshingly in such a garment than in one that is all ruffles and lace and floating ribbons. And they do not hesitate to adopt the style that meets their needs. These reasons sound nice and logical; but fashion being what it is, and women being as they are, 'twould be a rash editorial writer who would declare that the frilly negligee is gone forever.

GOLD FOR CHRISTMAS

The banks in the New York Federal Reserve district have $20,000,000 in gold ready for public demand. The coins will be used for Christmas gifts. The bankers estimate that it will take $100,000,000 for the whole country. For the benefit of those who have forgotten in what denominations gold is coined, it may be explained that they come in $5, $10 and $20 pieces. Such coins make beautiful Christmas presents. Gold in itself is always attractive to the eye and invested with a halo of tradition and romance. Our American gold coins are works of fine art. They are likely to be appreciated all the more nowadays because the war drove them from general circulation for so many years. The yellow jinglers may be passed out and circulated without compunction on anybody's part. Few of them will go astray. They will be handled with respect and awe, as well as delight, for a few days. And then... Bankers say that in sixty days nearly all of them will be back in the banks again. Which is as it should be.

COST OF EATING

Chicago, making an elaborate survey, finds that its yearly food bill is $654,000,000. That looks like a heap of money. Yet when you divide the sum by 3,000,000 people (the school children will say you can't divide money by people, but never mind that) it doesn't seem so big after all. It comes to something like 51 1/2 cents a day per person. The Chicago statisticians seem to think that's a mere trifle. It becomes still less when the restaurant eaters are counted out. The cost of food eaten in the home is given as 38 cents per capita. That is an average of 13 cents a meal. The cost is doubtless greater when the expense of fuel and other cooking charges is added. Whether food costs much or little is a question of income and standards. A business man who happened to be buying some groceries the other day was inclined to complain to the grocer about their expensiveness, when he suddenly grew apologetic, and said: "Really, I don't know that I have any kick coming. I notice, in the family budget, that food for our family

NOT TOO FAR

Have faith in man but don't trust him. Believe that man will come through all right but keep an eye on him. Man has not yet reached the state where he can be trusted; for he has not yet reached the state where he can trust himself.

"That is a pessimistic point of view."

No indeed, not a point of view at all but a condition.

Have we faith in man? We do not. Do we trust man? We do not. Who can take exception to those statements?

Do you trust man? Do you leave your doors and windows unlocked when you go away from home or lie down to sleep at night? Do you leave your cash lying around loose and unguarded? Do you keep a pocket open about you when you are pursuing a lonely path on a dark night? That we have a police system, banks with impregnable vaults, burglar alarms, bond companies, surety institutions, guards and "nannies," shows that we do not trust man because we have found we cannot trust him.

That we have faith in man is evidenced by our churches, colleges, libraries and the like. One is wrong not to have faith in man, because man justifies faith in him. And one makes a mistake to trust man too far because man does not warrant his being trusted too far.

There is no sense in denouncing oneself about the human being. He is a peculiar mixture of right and wrong, of good impulses and bad. You never can tell which will be uppermost, the good or the bad. He himself cannot tell. He will set out with the best intentions in the world and wind up where he has no business to be. Few men enter the hold bonds of matrimony without meaning to do right. And many a woman has said, "Nothing in the world could have made me believe I would do such a thing as that." Scarcely ever does an emboldened bank employee deliberately get out to rob the institution. Many of the murders are committed by persons who do not approve of murder. Little boys and little girls and big boys and big girls want to be good; but they are not. Every person wants to be good; but he is not and he cannot trust himself to be good. But he has faith that some day he will be good.

There is a glorious future for man. Anyone who doubts that fails to read the signs written in the heavens and on the face of the globe and in the hearts of man himself.

We have reason to have faith in man. But that he will slip and do the things he has no business to do, kill his neighbor and steal from his friend and double-cross his mate under proper pressure is not to be denied.

through the recommendation of Congressman Smith. He received his commission several days ago with instructions to assume the duties on the fifteenth.

Mr. R. A. St. John is a Kentuckian by birth. He came to Texas in 1877. He taught in the public schools for a number of years. He has been a retail merchant during the last twenty years, and came to Cisco in 1900 where he has been in business since. He has held office in the city, and was mayor for several years. He has been a prominent figure in the rebuilding of Cisco for the past fourteen years. He has always taken an interest in politics, and has always, since he was twenty-one years of age, been a local democrat. He has been a worker for the party for forty years, and as he has reached the ripe age of sixty years, probably not a greater compliment could have been paid him than to have appointed him postmaster. He has worked for the party those many years and deserves something commemorative. He has been a patient and kind neighbor, and we feel that the patrons of the post office will receive some good service that they have been getting. Mr. St. John is receiving the congratulations of his many friends.

The retiring postmaster, Mr. S. Williams, has held the office something like sixteen years with four years' intermission. The only reason Mr. Williams is displaced is that he is a republican. He has given the patrons efficient service, and if the republicans had been victorious in the last election no doubt he would have held the office four years longer. A good man goes out and a good man comes in. There will likely be no change in the help in the postoffice. E. M. Stafford, John D. Williams and Miss Fern Newsome still have their positions in the office.

The ladies of the Methodist church held their annual bazaar and gave their chicken pie dinner last Thursday and Friday and realized something near $100.

The members of the Philathen class of the Baptist Sunday school held their bazaar Monday and Tuesday and did well. The receipts amounted to more than $30.

The Sunday school class of Judge D. K. Scott, composed of the young men and young ladies of the Christian church, was entertained Wednesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Winston at their home.

McBride Trial Opens at Breckenridge Monday

Attorneys Who Defended Frank Norris Engaged to Prosecute Former Ciscoan in Murder Case

BRECKENRIDGE, Dec. 10.—Trial of the case of the State vs. W. C. McBride, charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of John Glenn here during the latter part of November, is due to start in the 10th district court at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

McBride is now out under bond allowed him in the sum of $15,000. A special venire of 100 citizens has been called for appearance at the opening of the trial Monday. A large number of witnesses have been summoned by both the state and the defense to testify in the case. The prosecution will intro-

Carbon Organizes Boy Scout Troop

Troop No. 12 of the Eastland County Boy Scout council was organized at Carbon Thursday night. The new troop will have 27 members. The troop committee is composed of J. T. Singleton, chairman; W. F. Gilbert, A. W. Cunningham and Tom Bennett. Rev. H. H. Nance was elected scoutmaster with F. M. Wood as assistant scoutmaster.

The Carbon troop will meet next Thursday night at which time the troop officers will be elected, according to Guy N. Quire of Eastland, county scout executive, who attended the Carbon meeting and assisted with the organization of the new troop.

AUTO IS MOST PRACTICAL GIFT FOR CHRISTMAS

Economic experts agree that not only is America richer today than ever before but also that the American dollar is being spent more wisely and conservatively. This is particularly true in the annual buying of Christmas gifts. "In other years Christmas gifts were usually impractical and useless articles," said a prominent banker recently. "Knick-knacks, trills, souvenirs, gifts of no practical value were in order. But today Christmas buying is done with an eye to utility. Thousands of Christmas Savings clubs will release a deluge of gold this month—reported to amount to $701,336,000 or $102,000,000 more than in 1926. Dollars saved so carefully are being spent in the same manner.

theory is to be found in the rapidly growing practice of giving automobiles for Christmas, an idea which was crystallized by Studebaker's unique "Keys to Happiness" plan.

Last year more than 1,000 Studebaker automobiles were delivered to American homes on Christmas morning. It is expected that a great many more than 1,000 Studebakers will be delivered by "Santa Claus" this year. The Studebaker "Keys to Happiness" plan allows any one who wishes to make his wife, daughter, or entire family a present of a Studebaker, to buy the car from any Studebaker dealer. The purchaser is given a satin-lined jewel box containing two keys. This box is hung on the Christmas tree or placed among the presents. Its discovery on Christmas morn is always the cause of much mystery. The enigma is solved when the donor of the "Keys to Happiness" takes the family to the window and shows them the Studebaker car which has been delivered that morning. The result is one of great happiness both to the family that receives the car and to the man who gives it. Mother and children are pleased beyond words—because they have been given a real practical gift that will give them thousands of miles of happiness. This Christmas plan has many sound and practical advantages.

In the first place an automobile is an ideal gift, because it stretches Christmas out over the entire year. It is a gift that the entire family and a large circle of friends enjoy and share.

Texas last year produced 2,400,000 pounds of grapes for the commercial markets.

55-Foot Sand Drilled by New Well Extending New West Cross Plains Field; Additional Tests to Start

CROSS PLAINS, Dec. 10.—Completion of a producing well early in the week by the Prairie Oil & Gas Co. on the S. P. Long tract in outside territory northeast of the new West Cross Plains field has not only added another extension of territory to the producing area, but has also divulged an interesting sand record that has had but one equal in the entire territory.

Topping the sand at 1685 feet the new well has drilled pure sand to 1740 feet, giving a record of 55 feet of pay, a record that has only been equalled by one other well, and it being located in the edge of the field near the new strike probably indicates a similar position on the structure is being followed out in this direction.

The sand however has proven to be hard over practically its entire thickness and a 40 quart shot used on Tuesday of this week was followed by a production gauge amounting to slightly more than 40 barrels over a 12 hour period while cleaning out following the shot. This leads to estimates varying from 75 to 100 barrels as the probable output of the well when fully cleaned out.

In addition to the extension brought to the east by this well it also carries production a full location distance further north than any previous drilling.

This is being followed by a line of new locations that promise not only offset drilling but at least in one instance territory still further out will now be explored.

In addition to the drilling now in progress between this well and the older territory the same owners are now moving in tools to a location offsetting the new well to the east, and forging further out in the untested area, and offsetting this new location to the south L. G. Bradstreet is now spudding a new location on the Waller lease.

Locations have also been made to the north of the new well by the Prairie Oil & Gas Co. leading up the west line of the S. P. Long tract and testing territory in that direction that is strictly virgin in character.

Another interesting well located within the edge of the more proven section, to the southwest of the new strike has also been completed during the week by the Mook-Texas Co. and M. E. Wakefield on the E. E. Bann tract.

This well found the top of the pay late last week at 1685 feet and with a total depth of 1720 feet is gauging 75 barrels on a basis of semi-final production.

Low temperatures of the present week have in most instances proven a noticeable hindrance to most drilling wells and less than average progress has been made over the week.

Offsetting the new Mook-Texas Co. well to the north the same owners are down 1140 feet on their No. 3 location on the E. E. Bann tract, and still further to the north and completing the required number of locations for the east line of this tract. No. 4 location is drilling at 1100 feet. Following this north lead and further in untested territory the Prairie Oil & Gas Co. have a new location on the northeast 22 acres of the E. E. Bann tract that will offset the No. 4 location of the Mook-Texas Co. and Wakefield.

An important degree of interest has also been awakened during the week by gains in production in the Skelly Oil Co. well on the A. W. Orrell land to the southeast of the seeps of the present main play of development.

This well completed several weeks ago for a negligible production found in 25 feet of sand at the usual depth, has been equipped with a pump, and started off with a showing amounting to about five barrels daily. After several days on the pump this output began showing an increase each day that has amounted to about 14 barrels over the week and now indicates a substantial producing pumper.

The cause of this increase is un-

More than 200 pupils of the West Ward school took part on a program at the high school auditorium Friday night when the annual school entertainment was given. A crowd that filled the auditorium was present and received the numbers with enthusiastic applause. A great variety of costumes made the program colorful, while the children showed careful training. Eight different numbers were given by the children, with stereopticon views being shown between the acts.

The following numbers were given:
 A Picnic in the Woods—Low First, High First, and Low Second Grades.
 Snowflake Fairies—Low Third Grade.
 A Christmas Play—(two acts)—High Second Grade.

 Circus Drill—Low Fourth Grade.
 A Glimpse of Texas—Low Fifth Grade.

 Principal T. C. Williams, in speaking of the success of the entertainment, expressed appreciation of the school not only to the children and teachers who got up the program, but to the parents as well who furnished the costumes. "The mothers of the children co-operated splendidly in preparing the program," Mr. Williams said, "and it is to them, as well as the teachers, pupils and the large audience that we are indebted."

Fort Worth Jail Break Plot Bared

FORT WORTH, Dec. 9.—A plot by a negro convict and another prisoner in the city jail to save their way to freedom was exposed here today by Bill Haynes, 16, who was commissioned to buy the saw blades. He was arrested when jail officials were warned that blades had been hidden in the negro section of the prison. He admitted he and another boy prisoner were given 90 cents with which to buy the saw blades.

Texas uses more natural gas in the production of electricity than any other state. In September this year its consumption of gas for this purpose reached 2,342,803 cubic feet.

SANTA CLAUS ASKED TO AID C. H. S. LIBRARY

Cisco high school is featuring this week the school library. Tags with the slogan "I Am Playing Santa Claus to the C. H. S. Library" are being sold by the members of the various classes and organizations.

This will afford an opportunity for everyone to help the library and do something toward developing the intellectual life of Cisco high school. Especially is this an opportunity for those who feel that too much money is spent for athletics, it is declared. Now it remains to be seen who will be the more generous in playing Santa Claus to Cisco high school—those who favor athletics or those who do not.

The superintendent's proclamation explains the reasons for this special purpose and it is hoped by those who are sponsoring the movement that many dollars will be collected in order that numbers of necessary reference books may adorn the library shelves and furnish the boys and girls excellent material for reports, term themes and other outside reading. Nothing, they say, is so much needed just at present and they urge that Santa Claus remember the library heartily.

Mr. Youngblood's proclamation follows:

Realizing the indispensable value of a good library in connection with first class high school work, knowing the requirements of the state department of education with reference to library equipment in high schools of the first class, and finding after careful investigation that the library of the Cisco high school is deficient in many respects, I feel that appropriate steps should be taken to enable us to replenish the impoverished shelves. Therefore, by virtue of authority vested in me as superintendent of the public schools of Cisco, I do hereby designate the week beginning December 9, 1927, as Cisco High School Library Week, and I respectfully urge those who are interested in the welfare and progress of the students of our high school to give such attention to this matter as their conscience may dictate that they should give. Done at my office at the high school building on the

You get more automobile today for your money than ever before. But, even so, it is well to remember that you have an investment ranging anywhere from a few hundred to several thousand dollars.

How soon will your investment wear out?

One thing is sure, if mud and rust are allowed to accumulate on the under side of fenders, and if running gear is covered with a mixture of grease and grit, your investment will depreciate quickly and you will be forced to spend money for repairs.

Our system of painting is first of all to clean the hard-to-get-at places, then by spray painting it makes the neglected parts SAFE from the destructive action of abrasive and corrosive dirt. Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. Dolores Costello in "OLD SAN FRANCISCO" is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

At a white boss of Frisco, Buckwell seeks to secure valuable Vasquez ranch to increase own holdings. His lawyer's nephew, Terry, loses Dolores Vasquez and exposes Buckwell's perfidy. Buckwell tries in vain to wreck their love affair. Old Vasquez dies of stroke when Buckwell rudely confronts him. Dolores and Terry expose Buckwell as Chinaman in effort to avenge Vasquez' death. Buckwell kidnaps them. As prisoners in his secret room, he threatens Terry with torture unless Dolores denies Chinese accusations. She agrees in order to save Terry.

"You will return to your room," broke in Buckwell, "and come down when I send for you. I want you to act the part you are to play, as well as to speak it. Remember if you go back on your word that light goes out—I will have my finger on the switch from the moment you enter the room, and as soon as you go out your young friend will be red from his own blood. Understand?"

"Yes, I understand." Her shudder of terror was almost a chill. "All right, men," ordered Buckwell, "cover her eyes and take her back."

While Dolores was again being conducted through secret openings and passageways up to the Chinese bedchamber, Buckwell followed alone to the hall entrance of the living room where his assembled enemies were impatiently waiting his arrival.

Opening the door, he felt the tenseness of the atmosphere, but Lu Fong, that your friend of mine has at last carried you back here.

Lu Fong, that your friend of mine has at last carried you back here. "I am sorry to have kept you waiting," he apologized, removing a hat that he had picked up from the hall table. "I was unexpectedly detained at a conference a few blocks away."

"There was a long cause. Some of the men believed him, others did not, but there was no doubt about their all marveling at his face, eyes."

"Lu Fong advanced from the little group of Tong leaders and approached the man of questionable origin with intent determination. There he could speak. Buckwell gained an opening advantage by forging his accusers to do the explaining."

"I have heard the ridiculous charges that our yellow friend Lu Fong has made. With the rest of the men in the room, and I shall be interested to learn on what he could possibly base his charge."

and collected as before and again stole Lu Fong's thunder by asking, "I presume that you are speaking of the Senorita Dolores de Vasquez?"

Lu Fong nodded assent and his manifestation of surprise was a compliment to Buckwell's uncanny knowledge of the subject. The nod served to broaden the accused man's smile and with an air of triumph he turned to the onlookers.

"My dear friends—you see how foolish it is!" he exclaimed with an exaggerated show-off air. "The lady in question chances to be a guest in my home even now. I am sure she will not mind if I call her before you and dispense your minds of any possible credence in what this malicious Chinaman has said."

The white men nodded and smiled. They were relieved at Buckwell's evident ability to dispense the story which would eventually react to their disadvantage as well.

Utterly ignoring the Chinaman, Buckwell summoned a servant and requested him to ask the young lady in the room at the head of the stairs to come down.

Surprised at the bewildering turn the situation had taken, the Tong men became uneasy and a bit worried. Lu Fong was so thoroughly convinced of the truth of Dolores' story as she related it in his den the night before that he did not expect the same girl to appear. He thought that he had sensed her intense hatred of Buckwell and was at a loss to understand how she would consent to remain as a guest in his home. Lu Fong was sure there was some mistake.

With a desire to give his callers a vivid impression of Dolores as a delightful part of the household, Buckwell opened the hall doors just in time to let them see her descending the staircase.

Lu Fong's speechless surprise began turning into irate fury. He had been duped and that is something a Chinaman will not endure.

Dolores entered the room and stood beside Buckwell with an obedient effort to be casual. In reality she was tense and cold with fear. She wanted the ordeal to be over without delay so that Terry could enjoy freedom and relief from torture. Her proud, exquisite head was held high and her eyes never left Buckwell's figure. She did not trust him and watched carefully to see that he, also, kept his word.

Bowing courteously before Dolores, Buckwell stepped back and significantly rested his hand on an ornate statue base. She looked closely and saw a white electric push button cleverly worked into the design. Buckwell glanced at it meaningfully and Dolores understood the look.

Turning to the eagerly waiting group and then back to Dolores, he said in explanation: "It seems that there is a rumor that you have made grave accusations against me—I have asked you to come here to face the men to whom such a charge is of grave import. I ask you now in their presence to truthfully affirm or deny these accusations."

He waited calmly for Dolores to speak. The stillness in the room was intense. Each man scarcely breathed as each leaned forward in eager anticipation of what she would say. A minute passed. And another. Still Dolores did not speak. Lu Fong and the Tong men waited patiently with an air of confidence. Buckwell's hand played nervously around the push button.

Dolores watched the fingers in fascination. She knew that the slightest pressure of one of them on the button, even accidentally, meant death for the one she loved. But she also thought of her grandfather and dimly before her eyes she could see the great Vasquez sword with its motto, "A Vasquez Avenges a Vasquez."

BRIDE SLAYER GETS 10 YEARS DESPITE PLEA

EUREKA, Kan., Dec. 10.—Ivan M. Hart, confessed slayer of his bride of three weeks, Saturday was found guilty of second degree murder by a jury in district court here. The minimum sentence for second degree murder is 10 years. Defense counsel delayed announcement of any possible plans for further litigation. Hart is held in jail here on $25,000 bond, which he has been unable to furnish.

The case was given to the jury at 9 o'clock Friday night after defense attorneys pleaded "communitative insanity" caused the 31-year-old bank employe to slash his bride's throat when she demanded he kill her because she feared motherhood. The verdict was returned shortly after 2 o'clock Saturday morning.

Fulfilled Wife's Plea After several days of testimony, including that of scores of Hart's business associates, who appeared as character witnesses, he testified he was unable to resist his wife's plea for death and that after slaying her he attempted to end his own life.

Hart told the jury that when he married Mabel Marmot last June she made him promise to kill her should she ever become an expectant mother. He said that on the evening of July 8, he met her at the railroad station, where she was employed as a telegraph operator, and that they started for an automobile ride.

He declared that she threatened to commit suicide in the most disastrous way possible, if he failed to take her life that night. Hart insisted that he protested lack of weapon, but that she obtained an old knife from the automobile tool kit and urged him to use it.

"She pressed the knife into my hand and, pointing to her throat, said, 'cut right here,'" Hart testified.

Slashed Own Throat "I felt dazed, as if my mind was leaving me when I slashed the knife across her throat. Then I got out of the car, slashed my own throat and wrists, and got back in the car to await death," he continued.

He said that when death came too slowly he left the automobile and attempted to drown himself in a nearby stream, but his strength failed and he fell in a briar patch, where he was found by officers.

The defense introduced expert witnesses to support the contention Mrs. Hart was insane and that she dominated her husband. Dr. Karl Menninger, Kansas specialist in mental diseases, testified he had come in contact with communicative insanity. He said such a condition was brought about by intimate association, causing two persons to adopt some likes and dislikes. He declared Mrs. Hart gave evidence of being insane and that in his opinion Hart was unable to resist her demands.
