CARBON BANK ROBBED

$6,000 or $7,000 Taken by Bandits; Left Town In Two Automobiles; Officials And 3 Customers Locked in Vault

Bandits entered the Carbon State Bank at Carbon at 12:10 Tuesday noon, held up the bank officials at the point of pistols, and after robbing the vault and till of all the money in sight, forced the officials and five customers into the vault, closed the door and escaped. A checkup indicated that between $6,000 and $7,000 was taken. The bandits escaped in two automobiles, a Chrysler 80 and a Chevrolet sedan.

They were headed towards Gorman when they drove out of Carbon, but in a telephone conversation with the Cisco Daily News, a bank official said he thought it probable they would take the Bankhead highway at the first opportunity and head in the direction of Cisco and Abilene.

According to Dr. S. P. Rumph, president of the bank, two men entered the bank and before officials had noticed anything suspicious, the men had covered himself, Cashier E. R. Trimble, Assistant Cashier W. L. Trimble and Lon Reed, Frank Brady and three Johnson brothers with pistols. All were told to face the wall while the bandits entered the vault, took all the cash available, and then robbed the cashier's till. The three officials and five customers were then ordered into the vault which was locked, and the bandits then escaped in two automobiles which had been parked in front. Due to the fact that all eight of those in the bank were locked up while the cars drove away, it was not until the bank officials had released the lock from the inside and escaped that the alarm was given.

Dr. Rumph said that he was not positive as to the amount of money that had been taken, pending a check up, but that he believed all the cash on hand was taken, amounting to approximately $5,000. The alarm was spread immediately and officers from Eastland, Cisco, Rising Star, Brownwood and other points left immediately for Carbon and were on guard on the principal highways in an effort to apprehend the bandits.

Dr. Rumph said that at the time of the robbery he was sitting at the desk, busy with some papers, the cashier was using a typewriter, and the assistant cashier was at the adding machine. The first he saw of the bandits was when one showed a pistol in his face, while the other leveled his gun at the other officials and the customers in the bank at the time. "They commanded us to turn our faces to the wall," he said. "As we did so, one of the bandits went into the vault and grabbed all the money he could find, which I presume was all there was in there, then robbed the till, and both marched all eight of us into the vault and locked it. We were able to unlock the vault from the inside and got out within five or ten minutes. By that time, though, the bandits were gone."

While little could be learned as to the number of bandits that remained in the two automobiles outside the bank, it was believed there was at least one woman and possibly others in the cars. Few persons were on the street at the time and those who were there said they saw little to excite their attention during the robbery, and so paid no heed to the cars as they left town.

Telephone word from Dallas indicated that the woman seen in the car outside the bank fitted the description of a woman who has operated in numerous other Texas and Oklahoma bank robberies. The Chrysler 80 coupe also answered the description of one used in other holdups, it was said. Officers at first confined their hunt for the bandits in the immediate vicinity of Carbon and Gorman, but now have spread their activities over a wide area, watching the Bankhead highway east of Eastland and west of Cisco around Baird, Brownwood and Dallas and Fort Worth police forces were told to look out for the bandits.

Oklahoma House Votes Charges

SIX CHARGES FILED AGAINST GOV. JOHNSTON

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 13.—Committees of the Oklahoma legislature were meeting at unannounced places this afternoon in their work of carrying out plans to impeach Governor Henry S. Johnston. Supreme Court Justice Fred T. Brandon and Harry Cogdell, president of the state board of agriculture, former articles of impeachment were drawn this morning at the Hucksins hotel, the unofficial house and senate chamber. Mac Q. Williamson, president pro tempore of the senate was notified by house leaders that the charges have been completed and await action of the senate.

Six impeachment charges against Governor Johnston as adopted by the house follow: Intimidation of the commonwealth through use of troops. General incompetency. Action harmful to public good in commissioning Jose Alvarado, former Mexican sharpshooter and convicted burglar, wanted in Texas for bank robbery, as a special state officer. Misuse of public funds in payment of Alvarado for his services. Commission of a misdemeanor in illegal issuance of deficiency certificates in payment of Kirby Kirkpatrick, extra state banking department attorney.

PROFESSOR SAYS BECKY IS INSANE

LAGRANGE, Dec. 13.—Dr. Max Handman, professor of sociology at the University of Texas, testifying today as a defense witness in the trial of Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers declared that from the time he first knew her four years ago she had always impressed him as a queer person with a cold, clammy hand and smile. Mrs. Rogers is on trial for robbery of the bank at Burdick. "Mental maladjustment" was the way Dr. Handman classified her condition. The professor testified Mrs. Rogers' particular condition was dementia praecox. In answer to a hypothetical question put by the defense which took 15 minutes to complete, Dr. Handman stated it was his opinion Rebecca was insane and not responsible for what she did. He says she could not know the nature and consequences of her acts; and could not tell the difference between right and wrong.

Quizzed by the state as to whether Rebecca's robbing of the bank indicated insanity or criminality, Handman asked Prosecutor Bunnell what a criminal was. Bunnell answered: "One who robs a bank." In the midst of the argument, Dr. Handman complained the prosecutor was trying to belittle him.

Attempt to Blow Up Church Fails

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 13.—Mexican authorities today were conducting an investigation into the unsuccessful attempt to blow up a Mexican church here yesterday. More than 3,000 persons were in the church when two bombs, concealed in lighted candles near the altar, were discovered. About 50,000 worshippers were massed outside the building awaiting their turn to enter.

SMALL TREES ADD BEAUTY TO MAIN ST.

Main street Tuesday was taking on the appearance of an evergreen forest as small cedar trees were placed along the sidewalks to emphasize the approach of the Christmas season. Added to the colored lights already strung along the street, the large Christmas tree at the corner of Main and Sixth and the smaller trees already in place along the business streets, the additional trees have made the sight most pleasing.

The trees were brought here at the instance of the Cisco chamber of commerce which sought to have business houses to have a small tree in front of the building. The result is that Cisco is probably the best decorated city in West Texas for the Christmas holidays. The huge crowd here Saturday when a big business in holiday goods was done testified as to the value of the preparations made here.

BANKS WITHOUT CAGES

With the opening on January 1 of a new home for one of New York's biggest banks, the abolishment of steel cages and armored arrays of safes and vaults will become the latest national fashion in business.

FUTURE BUSINESS

Col. Leonard P. Ayers, a banker and business expert, who is credited with knowing better what's going to happen next year than most of us know what's happening right now, has come out with his annual predictions.

In other words, the moderate downward trend of American business in the last few months has almost reached bottom, and will soon start up again. It isn't going to be a wild boom, any more than the recent decline has been a tragic slump.

HIS RED-LEGGED GRASS HOPPERS.

Man is a quaint creature. He absolutely refuses to be made to do a thing that he thinks he has a right not to do, even though he wants to do it.

Way down deep in man's makeup are certain foundational ideas about his inalienable rights. Pass a law that man shall not eat grasshoppers, and he will immediately become determined to eat grasshoppers.

Kingdom after kingdom has tumbled because rulers have failed to recognize man's notions about his inalienable rights. Pass a law that man shall not eat grasshoppers, and he will immediately become determined to eat grasshoppers.

On the other hand if man is approached and told that grasshopper diet is a menace to the nation, and that while it will not hurt him personally—and he of course has a perfect right to eat all the grasshoppers he chooses—still there are other fellows who cannot eat grasshoppers without making fools of themselves and endangering society, man will say "Sure, that's right, I'm for that."

Then if he is asked if he won't assist in keeping grasshoppers out of the reach of the fellow who should not have them he will say "Sure, I'll help do that."

Then if the anti-grasshopper forces direct their rough stuff exclusively toward the outwaged distributors of grasshoppers, they will find man applauding their efforts and aiding wholeheartedly.

ABILENE TEAM HAS NO FEAR OF WACO BOYS

ABILENE, Dec. 13.—Slight proof of the tales which have come out of Waco since early October of Paul Tyson's line of supermen and his fourth geared backfield ball carriers failed to awe the Abilene Eagles as they watched the Tigers covet through their runaway with Sherman's Bearcats Saturday afternoon.

The game, as seen by the 27 members of the local contenders for state honors and Coaches Dewey A. Mayhew and Joe Gilson, only convinced them that their best football of the year to date would be insufficient to win the championship battle next Friday on the Cotton Palace field, but that the defeat of Waco is not an impossibility.

More than that it is not an improbability, for which take Mayhew himself, as an authority. That grates distinctly against the usual gloomy forecasts of the Eagles' mentor, but is highly encouraging from the Abilene standpoint. If any coach from West Texas is able to gauge the strength of his own team against that of Tyson it is Mayhew, whose Milford and Marlin teams staged annual combat with the Tigers through the six years that he spent in the two towns and gave the many times champions worse scares than did leading Class A schools.

Sherman, which fell 50 to 0 in the semi-finals Saturday afternoon, was not a team worthy of much respect. That was a part of the report from the Abilene coach that came out of his watching the game Saturday, although he takes no credit away from Waco for that. Waco's famous spin play is nothing more than a trick perfectly executed, although the Tigers have it so thoroughly mastered that unless it is halted before it gets under way, it is good for a touch-down.

Abilene will make ground through the line or else over it in the Walter passing game that probably has no equal in the state this season of 1927. That, we have from members of the Eagle team, themselves.

They have great respect for those Tiger wingmen, and are inclined to the opinion that all the interference which any and all backfield men of the Eagles, together with their running guards, have made famous during the campaign, will find the way hard to clear where Earle and Priddy, a pair of veterans, defend it.

The Cream of the Tobacco Crop

You, too, will find that LUCKY STRIKES give the greatest pleasure—Mild and Mellow, the finest cigarettes you ever smoked. Made of the choicest tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"IT'S TOASTED"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

Allan Dwan,
Noted Motion Picture Director,
writes:

"The director of film plays must take even more care of his voice than the actor. Into his voice he must put every emotion that appears upon the faces of the film players. While directing 'The Joy Girl' I used my voice twelve hours daily for weeks—often having to shout directions in the open to ensembles at a great distance. And I always kept my package of 'Lucky Strikes' in my pocket for I have found they are the only cigarettes which I now really enjoy and which I can smoke without impairing my voice. I'm grateful to 'Luckies.'"

COLDEST PLACE IN WORLD 60 DEGREES BELOW

LONDON, Dec. 13.—Believed to be the coldest place in the world, an hitherto unknown big mountain range has been discovered in Northeast Siberia.

Survey, in the current "Geographical Journal."

The expedition discovered nine chains of mountains the existence of which was unsuspected. New maps of the world will have to take note of this great range, which is certainly over 600 and may be 1,000 miles long, and nearly 200 miles wide and covers an area greater than the chain of the Caucasus.

These snow-capped mountains reach a height of more than 10,000 feet, and are probably the last on the globe that remained to be discovered. They have been named the Cherski range in honor of the explorer, Serge Obruchev, a member of the Russian Geological who died in 1892 while attempting to explore this region.

In this wild country, which took nearly five months to traverse, the expedition came across a tribe of hunters, the Tungus, the remnants of the race. There were no more than about one for every 400 square miles. They also explored the head waters of the Indigirki, a river more than 1,000 miles long which flows into the Arctic Sea.

In November the temperature fell as low as 60 degrees Centigrade below zero.

FILM STARS AT HOLLYWOOD SHOP EARLY

If fan letters remain unanswered for the next few weeks it will be because our movie stars have been reading Santa Claus' mail.

Forsighted film folks have done their Christmas shopping early and many a secret has seeped from the shops along Hollywood Boulevard.

Further information from friends of the players and from the actors themselves has revealed what the cinema celebrities will give and receive for Christmas.

Clara Bow has placed an order with an old Grand Banks fisherman, living in Martha's Vineyard settlement, for ten ship's moccasins and these are boxed and tagged, waiting the arrival of Christmas morning for delivery to the home of ten of her closest friends.

Maybe A Roadster.

And the film flapper's father has hinted that when she wakes her red head out of the frost on the same morning she can expect to find a new sport roadster with a special-built body waiting in front of the house, a grinning card bearing the inscription "From Dad," dangling from the steering wheel.

The Olive Brusk family, being too far up the street from the Bow home in Beverly Hills, will observe the Yuletide in old English custom. The actor-father has placed an order with the chief of his London club for dozens of savory plum puddings and these will be his gifts to his friends.

Of course, there will be a tree, and mother and her two lovely children have a surprise in store for their famous dad.

Bette Daniels, whose gift list includes the names of hundreds of studio friends, has set up a Christmas tree in the little yard of her dressing-room-garage on the Paramount lot from which her presents will be distributed. Bette's mother has permitted it to be known that she will give her daughter a sterling tea set of old Scottish pattern and milk.

Gifts purchased from the exclusive shops of Berlin and others bought in Hollywood are wrapped and waiting for the many friends who are expected to call at the home of Paul Jennings in whose household Christmas Day will be observed with traditional ceremony.

The European star is to give Mrs. Jennings a wonderful fur coat while his wife has had painted and bound in hand-tooled leather a set of volumes dealing with famous stage actors and their roles since the days of the wandering minstrels as her gift to her celebrated husband.

Paula Negel took the opportunity, while she was in Paris last summer, to satisfy her exotic taste in the purchase of many art objects, that her friends should treasure the rest of their lives.

Rare Tapestries.

A rare old tapestry for living room of their new home will be one of George West's gifts to wife Esther Robinson.

George Bancroft has bought an expensive motor car for Mrs. Bancroft and has had it outfitted inside and out to agree with her tastes.

"Dear Frances," Raymond Hatton has written on a greeting card to Mrs. Hatton, "I hope thoughts of your trip to Europe next summer will make your Christmas a merry one."

Wallace Beery's Christmas day will be made especially happy through Mrs. Beery's gift of a new hunting outfit while his wife, in return, will receive a diamond necklace of the finest craftsmanship.

Richard Dix, with a bachelor's forgetfulness of such things, admits that his Christmas shopping was so delayed that he did not have time to attend to it himself. So he entrusted the matter to "Scotty" Devlin, for many years his companion-trainer.

"I can always depend on him," Dix reassured himself after Scotty had spent three days rummaging through shops and stores.

Big Lake—A systematic tree planting program has been underway here by the commissioners' court. Much investment on the Reagan county court house lawn has been made by sodding grass, setting evergreens and flowers.

FOR CHRISTMAS COLOR

CHRISTMAS is the season of all seasons for color, from the gray green and reds of spruce and cedar and holly which decorate the dining room and parlor, to the dazzling white of the snow outdoors. There is color in everything at Christmas, from the pretty ribbons which tie up the presents to that charming touch of extra color in the cheeks of girls caught beneath the mistletoe unawares.

The Christmas table, too, is a riot of color with its centerpieces of variegated fruits and nuts more than apt to be topped by a wide scarlet bow, its crimson cranberry sauce, the rich crackling brown of the turkey, the dark green of Brussels sprouts, or their first cousin, Broccoli, and the sparkle of cider in the glasses.

Canned pineapple, too, generally in golden slices, has come to add color to the Christmas dinner. It can be used in various forms—in the fruit cocktail or fruit soup, with the candied sweet potatoes, roasted as a garnish for the turkey, or cut up in the dressing with which the bird is stuffed. In the dessert course it can appear as an ingredient of the mince meat, in the plum pudding or in the fruit cake, or decorating the ice-cream.

But Christmas is also candle-lighting time. Here's a delightful way to use canned Hawaiian pineapple as the base of a candlestick salad. A banana forms the candle, and a strip of green pepper the handle. A candied cherry glows on top, as the flame, or a slim slice of the yellow pineapple can be used effectively as a wick.

Pineapple has another advantage besides its appetizing taste and golden yellow color, which makes it appropriate for Christmas. Because of its enzyme bromelin which aids to digest protein, it should be included somewhere in every tract and heavy meal. It acts as an appetizer and so can be used at the beginning of a dinner, it helps to digest the meat, and is refreshing in the salad, and its natural sweetness fits it for a place in the dessert.

weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, and first judicial district to appear at the next regular term of the 91st district court of Eastland county, Texas, to be held at the court house thereof, in Eastland, on the first Monday in February, A. D. 1928, the same being the 6th day of February, A. D. 1928, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 13th day of December, A. D. 1927, in a suit numbered on the docket of said court, No. 13,201, wherein C. E. Dearolph is plaintiff and C. L. Hodges, E. E. Halle, J. V. Brewer, A. Fred West and Earl S. Morris are defendants, and the cause of action being alleged as follows:

That on the 2nd day of May, 1927, the defendant C. L. Hodges made, executed and delivered to plaintiff his certain four promissory notes dated May 2, 1927, each in the sum of $425.00 payable to the plaintiff, or order at Cisco, Texas, respectively due on August 1, 1927, November 1, 1927, February 1, 1928, and May 1, 1928, with interest at rate of 6 per cent, and providing for 10 per cent attorney's fees for collection. That the first two notes are long past due and unpaid, and that the other two notes also remain wholly unpaid.

That the said four notes, were delivered to plaintiff by the defendant C. L. Hodges in part payment for an undivided 1/2 interest in an oil and gas lease on and covering the following described lot, tract or parcel of land, lying and being situated in the County of Comanche and State of Texas, to-wit: The S. 18 1/2 acres of the N. 1/2 of Section 1, patented to Balaun, assignee of Bealy, Seal & Foxwood, and also for an undivided 1/2 interest in and to all the personal property on said premises, and used in connection with said lease, and sold to said defendant by plaintiff, that by reason of the premises, defendant has and holds a valid, subsisting vendor's lien on and against said premises and property to secure payment of said notes.

That on May 2, 1927, the said C. L. Hodges, for the purpose of securing payment of the aforesaid four notes, executed and delivered to plaintiff a deed of trust whereby he conveyed to F. D. Wright in trust, an undivided 1/2 interest in and to the aforesaid described 80 acres of land and also all personal property then on the leased premises, including one Armstrong drilling rig, all casing and pipe and one Fordson tractor with which the plaintiff intended to execute a deed of trust on and covering an undivided 1/2 acrehold interest in and to the above described 80 acres of land, and it was the intention of the plaintiff to secure and fix a lien on the same by the execution of said deed of trust, yet through mistake or oversight, on the party who prepared said deed of trust the land was described as being in Cuthbert county, and not in Comanche county. That by reason of the premises, plaintiff has and holds a valid subsisting mortgage lien on the said household interest, and in and to said personal property to secure payment of the aforesaid four notes.

That the defendants, E. E. Halle, J. V. Brewer, A. Fred West and Earl S. Morris are claiming or asserting some kind of right, title or interest in, or lien on the hereinabove described premises, household interest, and personal property, but if they have any such interest, same accrued since the fixing of plaintiff's said liens and are subject and subordinate thereto. Wherefore, plaintiff prays for judgment for amount of past due notes, and for a decree foreclosing his said liens on the aforesaid premises and personal property to pay said judgment as well as to pay the net present worth of the two notes, which are not yet due, and for order of sale, etc., etc.

Herein full met, but have you before said court, on said first day of the next term thereof, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness my hand and official seal at my office in Eastland, Texas, this 13th day of December, A. D. 1927.

SYNOPSIS
Buckwell, a Frisco politician, seeks to secure valuable ancestral Vasquez property. His lawyer's nephew, Terry, loves Dolores Vasquez and exposes Buckwell's perjury. Buckwell attempts to wreck their love affair. Vasquez dies of stroke when Buckwell threatens to disclose him. Dolores and Terry expose Buckwell as Chinaman in effort to avenge Vasquez's death. Buckwell kidnaps them. Terry threatens to expose unless Dolores clears Buckwell's name. She lies to his contemporaries and saves Terry's life. Buckwell triumphant. Dolores cleverly foils Buckwell and exposes him to other bosses.

Brandon stooped quickly and seizing the edge of the rug upon which San Toy stood, he gave a quick jerk, and the faithful San Toy was spilled ignominiously on her back. Her tragic stand had been useless. She was deprived of the keen blade before she even knew what had happened to her, but her captors made the mistake of deeming her harmless now that her sting had been removed.

In her own way San Toy was even more dangerous than Buckwell and her brain worked faster. With a swift movement she pushed the heavy cabinet doors together. But before they had closed on Terry with suffocating death, Dolores screamed in alarm and rushing forward pulled them wide apart.

"Terry, dear! Terry!" she shrieked. "You're safe!"

Brandon added his strong hands to Dolores' efforts to unfasten the

"I know nothing could stop you." cruel, tight straps. And in a few moments they lifted Terry from his painful position and placed him gently on the floor.

"Out my dear, they have hurt you so," soothed Dolores on her knees beside him trying to wipe away the dried blood with her own dainty handkerchief.

"Are you alright?" Terry asked anxiously. They were the first words he had been able to utter for many hours.

"Yes, dear!" she replied and sending over she kissed him gently and unashamedly.

"Then everything is alright." He smiled his former winning smile and ignored his own aching body. Dolores helped him rise. He stretched, painfully, as the blood began flowing through his numbed limbs.

In the meantime the tong men had been looking around the room. Buckwell and San Toy exchanged significant glances. They had their minds centered on escape and were biding an opportune time to leave the room.

"Behold!" he shouted, extending a scrawny hand at Buckwell. "Behold my illustrious brother as he stands paralyzed with fear."

Buckwell's face was hideous with fury. It was unquestionably Chinese. He no longer had any hope of concealing his nationality. The hated dwarf had been completely unmasked.

Lu Fong's eyes were alight with triumph and satisfaction. "That settles it, Buckwell," said one of the white bosses who were holding him. "There is no doubt about your origin now."

Brought to bay, Buckwell whirled and struggled.

NEGRO TELLS OF ROBBERY OF MAN HERE

Confession that he was present and saw all details in the holdup and robbery of R. L. Bailey of Delson near the Cisco union railroad station Sunday night was made Monday afternoon by Douglas Smith, one of three negroes arrested in the case. Smith had been charged with taking part in the robbery but on the basis of this story, charges against him were dismissed and he was placed under $500 bond to appear before the grand jury. The other two, Oscar Rosquemore and Jimmie Lou Boyd, negroes, were refused bond and placed in jail at Eastland after a hearing before Justice of the Peace J. H. McDonald, attended by Assistant Attorney Sterling Holloway.

According to Smith's story, Rosquemore and the negroes were together. He saw Bailey talking to Rosquemore and Rosquemore grabbed the white man's pocket-book and ran. Bailey ran after the negro and caught him. The negro then joined in the scuffle. The Smith said he left the vicinity and did not see the remainder of the struggle, in which Bailey came near losing his thumb when the negroes bit him.

STOCK LAW FIGHT LOOMS AT EASTLAND

EASTLAND, Dec. 12.—The first action that stock owners have taken against the city commission took place Saturday afternoon when C. M. Pipkin, acting on behalf of the stock owners, circulated a petition in the business district of Eastland, asking that the city commission repeal the recently passed stock ordinance.

The ordinance which was recently approved by the commission makes it illegal for persons to have cows and horses within the city limits of Eastland, unless they are removed 200 feet from the nearest residence. City Manager Chestnut has announced that enforcement of the ordinance will start January 1 and that the fine for each violation is not over $25 and that each day constitutes a separate offense.

There has been quite a bit of feeling worked up over the passing of the ordinance, especially so with those who are keeping stock within the city limits and whose lots do not conform with the 200-foot requirements. Although there has been some talk of having a petition among the citizens of Eastland, the action Saturday was the first move that the leaders of the stock owners have made in an attempt to get the ordinance repealed. It has also been indicated that the stock owners will employ counsel if necessary in order to get the ordinance declared null and void.

Midland—The six-story Thomas oil office building here was filled one week after it opened and now has a waiting list. Midland now has 29 oil companies with either offices or representatives in this city. A second petroleum building of 12 stories is to be erected especially for oil companies using Midland as operating headquarters. T. S. Hogan, wealthy operator who recently bought over $450,000 worth of property in Midland, will erect the building. W. C. Hedrick, prominent Fort Worth designer, will draw plans for the structure.

Oilton—The Oilton chamber of commerce was recently host to a father and son banquet, honoring the local stock judging team of Oilton high school which won premier honors in stock judging at Texas Technological college in a recent competition.

AMATEUR GETS WHOLE WORLD ON HIS RADIO

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 13.—William MacDonald, of China Vista, suburb of San Diego, is hereby nominated for the Radio Hall of Fame—Fan's Section.

MacDonald, a retired capitalist, within the past five years has tuned in on his radio set to programs broadcast by 650 stations located in 37 countries.

Although MacDonald disclaims holding the record as champion long distance radio listener, the big stations of the world—London, Berlin, Rome, Tokio, Melbourne—sing out from his loud speaker as clearly as local stations are heard in the average American home.

Indeed, he has long since logged all the most powerful broadcasters over the world, and now amuses himself by picking up low-powered transmitters in obscure portions of the globe.

Times in Bombay
MacDonald considers his most remarkable "tuning in" achievement the program he recently obtained from Station 2AX, Bombay, India, on the other side of the world.

"It was most unusual because the station was using only 52 watts of power," he explained.

Fifty per cent of MacDonald's long distance listening success is due to his patience, tuning ability and the extreme care he takes to keep his radio set in order, experts declare. However, MacDonald is more modest in explaining his success.

"To tune in broadcast stations over great distances, one's radio set must be in a good location—that is, one must live in a district where signals come in clear and strong," he said. "I believe location has 90 per cent to do in bringing in programs from foreign countries and that equipment counts for only ten per cent."

Special Receiver
The receiver MacDonald uses was constructed especially on the inductance principle. Eleven tubes are used. The amplifying tubes are shielded in a single compartment. MacDonald constructed the set himself but he disclaims any technical departures.

The set is "loaded down with variometers," to use MacDonald's exact expression. This is to cut down the volume of powerful domestic and foreign stations, in order to minimize interference, and the crowding out of the small transmitters in obscure corners of the world.

MacDonald believes that most radio fans pay too little heed to the aerial and ground.

Unusual Aerial
"My aerial is a box-cross affair, without impeding insulators," he said. "It is about three feet by six over all. It has a large capacity spread over a small area, making kinds of aerials and masts. There for sharp tuning, less static and is a discarded pile of them by my quick delivery of the impulse to back yard which I call my aerial set. I have tried dozens of masts."

IS TOWN'S BEST BRICK MASON AT AGE OF 81

RUSHVILLE, Ill., Dec. 13. — All unimpaired of the displeasure he is causing the gentleman with the hour glass and sexton, Robert Rippeo, a Civil War veteran and veteran bricklayer as well, celebrated his 81th birthday by starting work with the rest of the boys on the addition being built to the Presbyterian church here. Sixty years of experience has given him uncanny skill as a brick mason.

"I am not happy unless I keep at my work," he said. "Moreover, it doesn't look as though I could retire if I wished. There doesn't seem to be any young brick masons taking on the trade here, and the jobs must be done," he philosophized.

Six months after taking up brick laying, he responded to President Lincoln's call for volunteers and served with Troop B, 7th Missouri cavalry, for four years and 28 days. On his return he resumed his trade and is still at it. There were only two brick buildings in Rushville then and he claims to have worked on virtually all that have since been constructed. Rippeo keeps a record of his daily work and is often called on to verify construction dates.
