Polls

168 Hansford County voters cast ballots at Tuesday's amendment election.

In Spearman 96 people voted, in Gruver 60 turned out and 12 cast ballots in Morse.

An interesting note was the tie count on amendment one in Spearman where there was a 48 FOR and a 48 AGAINST tally counted. In Gruver residents cast the same number of votes FOR number four as they did against, a 30-30 tie.

The total election returns for the four constitutional amendments in Hansford County revealed that number four was the only one voters favored. Total votes follow: No. 1 80 for, 87 against; No. 2 57 for, 108 against; No. 3 70 for, 96 against; No. 4 100 for, 68 against.

Mr. Leo Witkowski, President, Texas Wheat Producers Association said that preliminary results on May 14 from the referendum canvassing committee indicate that the wheat referendum held May 11, had carried with 67.1% of those producers voting on the proposition favoring it. This now provides for producer self assessment of not more than five mills per bushel for research and market development.

Delbert Timmons, Perryton; Leo Witkowski, Hereford; N. F. Renner, Spearman; John Cogdell, Crowell; Dwight Hamilton, Olney; Otis Harman, Tullia; and W. L. Moore, Jr., Munday. The wheat producers now join the producers of peanuts, turkeys, grain sorghum and soybeans in having approved self assessment for research and promotion of their commodities in an effort to strengthen farmer income under authority granted by the 61st Texas Legislature in H. B. 764. Official results will be announced by Texas Commissioner of Agriculture, John C. White.

Washington Report

From Congressmen

BOB PRICE 18TH DISTRICT, TEXAS

1323 LONGWORTH OFFICE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D. C. • 205-3706

Congressman Bob Price said Saturday that he plans to introduce in the near future a "tax sharing act" instead of the "revenue sharing act" suggested by the President.

Speaking at an Appreciation Dinner in his honor at Mulshoe Price said, "I plan to introduce this legislation as an alternative to the general revenue sharing measure proposed by the Nixon Administration. However, I still intend to support some of the special revenue sharing proposals of the Administration."

The 18th District Congressman pointed out that the bill he will introduce will allow individuals a credit for the state and local income taxes they pay. Price noted that a tax credit is different than the tax deduction presently allowed.

"A tax credit is a direct deduction from the amount of tax due. A tax deduction is the amount you deduct from gross income to determine taxable income. Consequently, since the tax liabilities are determined in general categories, a tax credit is worth much more in dollars and cents to an individual than a tax deduction," he explained.

The tax credit in Price's proposed bill will be in addition to the deduction already provided for state and local taxes.

"The tax sharing comes from the fact that state and local government could then be increased without increasing the total tax burden on the individual tax payer," Price said.

The legislation also updates the federal estate tax credit to 80% of the tax on the first $150,000 of the taxable estate and 20% of the remainder. The present credit which was enacted in 1926 provides an income tax credit for only that 10% of the present federal estate tax rate.

"I believe that tax sharing is more in keeping with our Constitution than general revenue sharing," Price said.

VIRUS DISEASE OF HORSES IS MOVING NORTH

COLLEGE STATION, May 13, U.S. Department of Agriculture animal health officials and livestockmen are keeping a sharp eye out for symptoms of a foreign virus disease of horses that has recently moved closer to the United States.

The disease, Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE), has moved northward from South and Central America into southern Mexico where about 6,000 horses are reported killed by the disease. Beside Mexico, the disease has been reported in 16 other countries in South and Central America.

VEE is an infectious disease of horses that sometimes causes a mortality rate as high as 80-90 percent, according to officials of the USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

Symptoms include a rapid rise in body temperature up to 106 degrees accompanied by a rapid pulse rate, loss of appetite, and depression. Often the animal will walk in circles until it falls down. Death may occur in six to eight days. Also, a horse may hang its head, press its head against objects, assume a cross-legged stance, show a drifting gait or appear drowsy, said animal health officials.

There are several types of the virus, but the one responsible for the clinical disease in horses isn't found in the United States. Transmission of the virus to man and animals usually occurs through bites of infected mosquitoes, officials added.

Positive diagnosis of VEE is possible only after laboratory tests because it resembles two common types of encephalomyelitis found in the United States.

The U.S. Department of Defense has developed a human live-virus vaccine that has been used to help control VEE in some countries, but its effectiveness and safety has not been fully proven. Presently no vaccine is licensed in this country for use against VEE.

USDA officials pointed out that consideration will be given to the use of an effective vaccine as a possible means of containing the disease if it should enter the country.

Liquid Cattle Feed Research To Begin

CANYON, Tex.,--A $20,000 research project on liquid supplements and feed for cattle was announced Saturday by Taylor-Evans Seed Co. of Amarillo and West Texas State University School of Agriculture.

It will be the first research project undertaken at the newly acquired Nance Ranch east of Canyon, Panhandle area agricultural interests have donated $100,000 to develop and equip the ranch for research programs.

The two-year study begins June 1 under the direction of John W. McNeill, 24, acting head of the Department of Animal Science.

"The term, 'liquid supplement, liquid supplementation, or liquid feed' has become common in recent years as it relates to livestock feeding," said Dr. Charles M. Smallwood, dean of the school.

"There is a large amount of information concerning the use of this type of feed in finishing rations; however, very little information is available on its use on cows, even though this is one of its major uses."

Smallwood said the research will seek to learn the effect of extended use of liquid feed on reproduction, the nutritional value when used with various roughages such as maize butts, cotton burs, wheat and native pasture, and the types of rations which can be built around liquid supplements and its ingredients.

The project will be carried out in confined and pasture cow operations and later in feedlot studies, Smallwood said.

The cooperative project was announced by James A. (Doc) Potts, executive vice president of Taylor-Evans, and Smallwood.

Under terms of the agreement, Taylor-Evans will provide tanks and equipment for storing and handling liquid feed supplements and to reimburse the university for expenses not to exceed $10,000 per year.

"The primary emphasis of the research will be a longterm study of cow herd performance in confinement and on pasture," Smallwood said.

Last year McNeill conducted research into the value of processed milo rations in the feeding of swine. Such milo rations have been successful in beef cattle production.

A native of the Panhandle, McNeill received a Bachelor of Science in animal science and a Master of Science in animal nutrition, both from Texas A&M University. He has had published five articles in his field.

McNeill, who joined the West Texas State faculty last year, received the Distinguished Student Award at Texas A&M and also the American Society of Animal Science Scholarship Award.

Research On Aging Programs Begin

COLLEGE STATION, May 13--A new national health organization has been formed to support programs of research and education on aging, announces Minnie Bell, Extension specialist in family life education-aging at Texas A&M University.

The new American Aging Association, patterned after the American Heart Association, will function to help people live better and longer.

Dr. Denham Harman, president of the newly-organized AGE, notes that the average life expectancy at birth has remained about the same for the past 15 years. Through disease-oriented research, he believes we have the ability to increase this span and to slow down the aging process.

Dr. Harman, also professor of medicine and biochemistry at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, lists three goals of the new AGE organization: to promote biomedical studies of the aging process, to keep the public informed about advances in such research, and to help physicians and other professionals in health gain increased knowledge of gerontology.

"The primary emphasis of the research will be a longterm study of cow herd performance in confinement and on pasture," Smallwood said.

CHILD'S PLAY

BY BARBARA ALLEN

GENERATION UN-GAPPERS

The "generation gap" is misnamed. The lack of understanding between some parents and children has nothing to do with age differences -- it's a matter of having no common ground for communicating.

With this kind of thinking in mind, toy companies such as Ideal are emphasizing games for the family to enjoy together. You may be surprised how easily thoughts can be exchanged in the relaxed atmosphere around a game table. But it takes a special kind of game to generate that feeling.

For example, there's Impact, a new test of timing. The game is played by each player trying to knock a slowly oscillating steel ball from a bowed steel rail by swinging a weighted pendulum across the ball's path. Simple? Certainly. That's one of the basic requirements of today's popular family games.

In addition to easy-to-understand rules, good games must be quickly resolved and command the attention of players of all ages. That's not so simple. You must neutralize the natural advantages of each family member -- mom's and dad's knowledge and experience and the young's and dexterity. When done this and even operating on an even communication real begin.

I've just been given a view look at Impact and other new games I saw this year. For us, they're generation un-gappers.

Berries Glow Under Ruby Glaze

The Anglo-Saxons called them "strawberries" because they strewed their leaves along the ground. From there, it was not far to the name by which we know and love these luscious heralds of spring.

The red ripe goodness of fresh strawberries is a treasure to be guarded in all dessert cookery. For this reason, the best of strawberry pies is a glazed pie which leaves most of the berries uncooked and coats them with a clear, rosy strawberry glaze.

Glazed Strawberry Pie

- 1 (9-inch) baked pastry shell 1/4 cups sugar
3 pints strawberries, washed and hulled 3 1/2 tablespoons corn starch 1/2 cup water
Few drops red food coloring

Mash 1 pint berries. Mix sugar and corn starch in saucepan. Add water and mashed berries. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to boil and boils 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in food coloring. Cool. Fold remaining 2 pints berries into cooled mixture. Pile into pie shell. Chill. Serve with whipped cream, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Note: For Glazed Peach Pie: Follow recipe for Strawberry Pie, substituting 3 pounds peaches (peeled and sliced) for strawberries and omitting food coloring.

There are not words to express our thanks and gratitude to all our friends and neighbors who did so much to comfort us during the time of our sorrow when our loved one "Stepped through The Open Gate" at the end of the road and crossed the radiant bridge between two worlds.

Special thanks to Dr. Gregg, Dr. Kleeberger and the nurses at Hansford Hospital. It is beyond one's imagination the service we received by ambulance, police and highway patrol from Spearman to the door of the Amarillo hospital where nurses and Dr's. were waiting for us. God Bless you all. Leonard and Mabel Jameson Sandra Brown and girls

DAVE LLEWELLYN

"It's a Song About Love"

My well-beloved had a vineyard On a very fruitful hill. And he harrowed it And gathered out the stones. And planted his vineyard With the choicest vines. And he built a watch-tower In the middle. And carved a winepress In the rock. My well-beloved raised grapes. But his vines produced Not sweet grapes, but wild. This beautiful and ancient song was first performed by an Israeli prophet over 2,600 years ago. Though translated into English and slightly paraphrased, the force and pathos of its message should be felt little less now, and in a newspaper, than when read at the head of the fifth chapter of Isaiah's prophecy.

Few of us, it is true, have vineyards. But almost everyone has grown something or seen something grow. And all of us have invested imagination, expense, and effort to produce something from which we expect special pleasure. So we can understand the experience of a person expending himself to cultivate a superior vineyard.

Grapes have always been a particularly important product in the Middle East. Since raising grapes has been a significant economic factor in Israel, and since proper care of vineyards often requires much personal attention - occasionally to the point of scrubbing each individual vine with lye soap! - the vineyard has been in song and literature an important symbol.

Jesus used it in John 15: "I am the Vine; you are the branches . . . and earlier, in Matthew 21. "Hear another parable: there was a man who was a householder who planted a vineyard. . . . Hosea, in the 10th chapter of his prophecy, used this symbol to discuss Israel: "Israel is a luxuriant vine, that puts forth its fruit. . . . In Isaiah's song, too, the vineyard represents people, God's people. "For the vineyard of Jehovah of Hosts is the house of Israel, and the men of Judah His pleasant land."

The Significance God gives additional interpretation of this song: the vine which was so carefully cultivated brought forth sour, wild grapes. His people produced worthless fruit. "He looked for justice but, behold, bloodshed, for righteousness but, behold, a cry" of oppression. The purpose of using the vineyard symbol should now be getting clear. Just as you have every reason to expect a properly tended garden to produce good crops, God had every reason to expect that His protection and provision for Israel would produce fruitful and happy lives. Instead, it had produced injustice and suffering.

It is unnatural that a nation materially comfortable and provided with a knowledge of God should produce wild fruit.

Yet in America the history of ancient Israel is repeating itself. Where is justice? Where is righteousness? "America, America, God shed His grace on thee And crown'd thy good with brotherhood from sea to shining sea." Copyright Dave Llewellyn 1971

Savers To Benefit

Texans who have been buying Savings Bonds regularly over the years have had their financial planning strengthened by recent Treasury actions, Rex Brack, volunteer Texas State Chairman for Savings Bonds, revealed today.

"The Treasury has granted additional 10-year maturity extensions to Series E Savings Bonds purchased from May 1941 through January 1957, and to Series H Bonds issued from June 1952 through January 1957. A 10 year extension beyond their original 44-year maturity also has been given to Freedom Shares, which were sold from May 1967 through June 1970," Brack said.

He explained that, if the Treasury had not acted, some of the earliest E Bonds--purchased in the early 40's--would have begun reaching final maturity this May. "Texans bought the first Bonds out of patriotism 30 years ago, and they've held onto their Bonds to provide for their families' financial security. For many, these Bond holdings formed nest eggs intended to avert money worries during the Golden Years," Brack pointed out.

The Texas State Chairman said that the extensions were made to enable Americans to achieve the long-term goals of their purchases on the Payroll Savings and Bond-A-Month Plans--new homes, children's educations, vacations, and retirement.

The extensions provide that Savings Bonds and Freedom Shares will receive the prevailing rate of interest or, entering the extension period. The current rate is a flat 5 1/2 percent during extended maturity.

Owners of the older E Bonds can continue to enjoy all of the benefits offered by the security--including deferral of Federal income taxes and the privilege of exchanging their bonds for current-income H Bonds during the extension periods.

SHARP RISE IN DROWNINGS

AUSTIN--Thirteen more persons have died from drownings and other water-oriented accidents in Texas the first three months of this year than for the same period last year, according to George Cook, director of Water Safety Services of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. "If this sharp rise in fatalities continues we will be past the critical point," said Cook.

"The department's game management officers and water safety officers are out in force, patrolling our lakes, rivers and coastal waters to try to cut down on this toll," said Cook. "They have been instructed to enforce the Texas Water Safety Act to the exact letter of the law."

Warm weather has moved more and more persons out on the water, increasing the likelihood for accidents, according to Cook. "The coming vacation time means that the age group in which most of the water-oriented fatalities occur, teen-agers, will be out of school and headed for water for some fun," he said.

"We know from experience that some of these young persons will die from acts of pure carelessness," said Cook. "Most of these deaths can be prevented."

According to Cook, some of our waterways are becoming as congested as highways and much more dangerous. "You can't walk away from a hot wre'k," he said.

Cook cautioned that those seeking outdoor recreation could increase their chances of living through another summer by using a little common sense around water.

Military Releasing 90,000 A Month

There are now more than one million veterans job-training or enrolled in schools and colleges under the current GI Bill.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson revealed that 1,064,000 men and women are in training under the GI Bill. He pointed out this is an increase of 36 percent over last year, 70 percent over the level two years ago, and 240 percent over 1966. By the end of 1972, Johnson said the Veterans Administration expects the GI Bill monthly utilization to reach 1.8 million. Of the 1,064,000, more than 60 percent are enrolled in college level studies.

The current GI Bill is not quite five years old, Johnson said, and pointed out that more than 2.4 million veterans have already trained under it, exceeding the 2.3 million high reached during the 14 years of the Korean Conflict GI Bill.

Nearly 20,000 veterans are enrolled in police and fire department GI Bill on-job training programs throughout the country.

Separations from military service have been running about 90,000 a month, and since last fall, VA has been receiving 75,000 applications monthly for GI Bill training. Johnson urged eligible veterans and servicemen interested in schooling or job-training to contact their nearest VA office, or their local veterans service organization representative.

Chris and Krystal Stokes of Amarillo are here visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Pipkin this week while their parents attend a funeral in San Antonio.

Let Me See
by Sybil...

As much as I enjoy pouring over the old, old merchandise catalogues to date and identify some of my collected collectibles of authentic Americana, I usually wind up being sick! This week I came across an issue of the 1897 Sears Roebuck catalogue and the "goodies" I find listed within its covers makes my mouth water.

I believe the only household item much used by housewives back in the good old day but NOT offered for sale by Sears Roebuck was the fruit jar. Rural mail order customers could flip through these pages and order everything else they needed for the entire family...but evidently not fruit jars. Since I collect old fruit jars, I was anxious to find some of these listed, but they just didn't offer them. They did offer canned fruit however...put up in cans. A gal. of apricots cost 32¢; a 2 lb. can of pineapple 22¢; strawberries, 2 lb. can 9¢; 3 lb. can of pears 12¢. You could buy a doz. cans of mixed fruits or vegetables in the 2 and 3 gal. sizes for $1.25. In fact Sears offered a complete grocery department and all you bottle collectors would have a fit over the bottles pictured. Yours can be easily identified if you are in doubt.

I collect wooden kitchen ware items and have several round butter molds. The one

I would give my eye teeth for (and I still have them) is the Cow butter mold. But it is extremely rare now and practically impossible to find. The catalogue lists two, one round, the other a fancy square one and they sold for 26¢...each. This is what made me sick. The going price of a cow butter mold now is $50 to $75.00. Talk about inflation...this is a 300% price increase. But it was fun just to LOOK at a picture of one. I have never even seen one and probably never will. The one item in the book which was as expensive then as now is the bicycle. They had a price of $56.00 on these back in 1895.

The choicest of glassware, heavy pressed glass which looked like cut glass, sold for $0.9- a barrel. No charge for the barrel either. The company packed it and delivered it to the depot and a 50¢ freight charge would deliver the barrel of glassware to any point!

In the Drug department it was interesting to note medicines which guaranteed complete cures for the liquor habit, the tobacco habit and the opium habit. Drunkenness was a disease that could be cured and 12 small boxes (the $5.00 lot) would cure ALMOST any case, but buy the 12 box, $9.10 lot and this would cure ANY case no matter how severe. The sure-cure pill for the same price. The Sears people also offered a sure cure for heart trouble known as Dr. Echols Australian Auriculo which sold for 50¢ a bottle. Fat Folks could take Dr. Rose's Obedisy powders and just sit back and watch the source of great annoyance melt away...for 88¢.

Anyway...the old catalogue is very interesting and I am glad the book is being preserved for if all the records for the 1890's should be lost, a scholar in the remote future could thumb through this book and obtain a fairly accurate description of American life during the last decade of the nineteenth century. The items displayed represent artifacts people in those days needed--and bought...items which people in this day and time want...and cannot buy.

If my junk house holds out, I shall continue to search for and preserve as many of these as I can lay my hands on. Of course when I die, the people who clean out my house will call me Hicky Thompson, but they can have a whale of a garage sale!

It's rather difficult to improve yourself if the only model you have to copy after is you.

Too many people are worried about where this younger generation is headed and could care less from where it came.

A conceited person has at least one good point--he doesn't spend time gossiping about others.

When you give in to God-- God will give out to you.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Sparks of Gruver are the parents of a daughter born in Hansford Hospital May 17.

Persons Over 65 Benefit Local Economy

There is increasing interest in Hansford County these days in the over-65 segment of its population.

The men and women in that age bracket are emerging, collectively, as a more important element in the local economy than ever before.

Proportionately, they have been expanding at a more rapid rate in the last ten years than most other age groups. Approximately 1 out of every 13.9 local residents is now in the plus-65 category.

And, because the majority of them have become more self-sufficient than their counterparts were in previous years, their status as consumers has risen.

As a result, they have become the sales targets of manufacturers and merchants who have found that they can boost their sales volumes by giving special attention to the needs and desires of the elderly.

Politically, also, they are being courted. Their influence is great, not only because of their growing size but because most of them get to the polls on election day.

In Hansford County, the latest figures show, those in the over-65 bracket now number 460. The overall population they represent 7.2 percent. In 1960 they totaled 4.8 percent.

Throughout the United States as a whole, the upper age group constitutes 9.9 percent of the total. It represents 9.5 percent in the West South Central States.

In most parts of the country, the figures show, women have a much better longevity record than men. This is borne out by the last census, which counted 139 women over 65 for every 100 men.

In Hansford County the number of women of that age is 247 and the number of men, 213.

Although many elderly people are having a hard time these days, financially, because of the constantly rising cost of living, the majority are holding their own virtue of increased social security benefits, medicare and special tax reductions.

As a group, their combined purchasing power is about $45 billion a year, which is much greater than it was 10 years ago.

Many people get car sickness around the first of the month--when the monthly installments come due.

31 million documents and thousands of other objects will be housed in the Lyndon Baines Johnson Library. The library has been moved from storage at the Federal Building in Austin to the new LBJ Library, which is on the campus of The University of Texas at Austin. Dedication ceremonies for the library and the LBJ School of Public Affairs will be held on the grassy slopes of the campus at 11:30 a.m. on May 22.

ities and colleges in Texas, the nation and throughout the world.

The LBJ Library is the sixth Presidential library to be authorized by the Federal Government. Others are The Herbert Hoover Library at West Branch, Iowa; Franklin D. Roosevelt Library at Hyde Park, N.Y.; Harry S. Truman Library at Independence, Mo.; Dwight D. Eisenhower Library at Abilene, Kan., and the John F. Kennedy Library, planned for Cambridge, Mass.

East Part of Campus

The LBJ Library is located high on the eastern portion of the University campus on Red River Street northeast of Memorial Stadium.

The University has provided the site and is constructing, furnishing and equipping the building.

When the Library opens on May 22, it will be the national repository of papers, documents, audio and visual records encompassing the entire range of President Johnson's career from Texas National Youth Administrator through the Presidency, spanning the years of 1935 to 1969. Already, some 31 million pages of manuscript materials comprise the collection—the most extensive collection of research material on a single President.

The Library will be open to the public beginning Sunday, May 23, on a 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily schedule. This will be the only Presidential library at which no admission fee is charged for visitors.

"Exhibits will include displays of the Great Society programs enacted during the Johnson Administration, a representation of life in the White House, a history of political campaigns from the time of George Washington to the era of Richard Nixon, and a reproduction of the Presidential Oval Office in the Executive Mansion," said Harry Middleton, LBJ Library director.

"The story of these years is told not only in the traditional display of memorabilia but also with modern audio-visual presentations on small television console screens," Mr. Middleton said.

The Library is the first Presidential library in the United States to be located on a University campus, and will serve as a center of scholarly research and as a historical museum.

Besides housing traditional archival materials, the Library will contain extensive collections of still photographs, motion picture films, sound recording tapes, video tapes and memorabilia.

As the sixth Presidential library in the National Archival System, the LBJ Library is constructed of beige travertine marble, and is situated on a promontory-like plaza.

The LBJ Library and Sid Richardson Hall were built at a cost of $30.88 per square foot. The construction cost of the two buildings will be approximately $13,897,430.

Document Protection

The increase over the original $11,894,000 contract let about four years ago was the result of changes necessitated due to increased security requests made by General Services Administration to protect historical documents in both the LBJ Library and Sid Richardson Hall, the case work in the exhibition area and internal structure changes, subject to rising construction costs.

In addition there is $1,626,545 for furnishing and equipment; $1,783,735 for site work on the entire nine-block area surrounding the Library complex, including parking lot and landscaping; $1,375,240 for fees for architects, supervision, inspection and testing. Estimated cost of the total project is $18,682,950.

The structure contains a basement floor for library service facilities, including storage, mechanical maintenance and work areas, plus audio-visual equipment. A 1,000-seat auditorium, 250-seat lecture hall, reception lobby and exhibition gallery—all operated by the University—are located on the floor.

Dramatic Display

The Exhibition Hall, located on the first and second floors, contains most of the exhibits of memorabilia. One of the unique features of the Library is the dramatic display of the Presidential papers themselves. Stored in red buckram manuscript boxes, they rise for four floors behind glass walls.

The LBJ Library administration and study area are located on the eighth floor. Also on the top floor is the replica of the White House Oval Office as in the Harry S. Truman Library, reading rooms, research area and microfilm reading room. These rooms surround an open courtyard.

The LBJ School of Public Affairs, housed in the Sid Richardson Building adjacent to the Library, will be dedicated jointly with the Library. Dean of the school is Dr. John A. Gronouski, former U.S. Postmaster General and former U.S. Ambassador to Poland.

Small Pilot Group

The new graduate professional school opened officially on Sept. 3, 1970, with a small pilot group of students who were enrolled for a two-year course of intensive study leading to a Master of Public Affairs degree. Maximum enrollment is expected to reach 200 in five years.

"The concept of the school is to train for roles of leadership in public policy-making persons who can grapple with a wide range of problems. Students tackle real problems from the real world and try to find possible solutions," Dr. Gronouski said.

TREKS ACROSS NATION PUSHING DOG IN BUGGY

Hazel Brady, who says she is 74 years old, has been traversing the nation on foot "since the depression times" just for the fun of it. The strange little woman came through Spearman Saturday pushing her dog "Clary Lou" in a baby carriage. She said her dog was 8 years old.

Miss. or Mrs. Brady, she wouldn't say, stated that she travels some 25 to 30 miles per day. She walks much of this distance or until she gets tired, then she thumbs a ride.

Hazel, who says "home is wherever I hang my hat" spent Friday night in Spearman and left Saturday morning, headed for Nebraska.

Stamp Sales Monday Keeps PO Busy

Postmaster Elmon Jacobs said postage stamp business was booming Monday—the first day after the Sunday price increase became effective.

Jacobs said the post office did three times as much business as a normal day, selling 8,000 two-cent stamps; 5,000 one-cent stamps and 6,000 eight-cent stamps. From the 12,000 two-cent stamps on hand when the office opened Monday morning, only 4,000 stamps were left at the close of business that afternoon. People bought 2¢ stamps to add to the six-cent stamps they had on hand.

Jacobs said the office had received none of the new 11-cent Air Mail stamps. Two-cent stamps were scarce and had to be rationed to patrons Monday. The post office expects a shipment of stamps this week some time.

The increase from six cents to eight cents for first-class mail became effective at midnight Saturday, as did other postal increases.

Second and third class mailing rates, plus some fourth class rates, increased from 10 per cent to 20 per cent.

Post cards increased from five to six cents.

Later this week Jacobs expects to have a good supply of 8¢ stamps in rolls and books.
