Ford, Carter agree

White House 'up for grabs'

By the Associated Press
President Ford and Jimmy Carter have found one thing to agree on: the election is just too close to call now. It was a light campaign day for both major candidates. But as each managed in a separate way to point to the tightness of the race for the White House, Carter continued a brief, 32-hour campaign swing today through Florida, North Carolina and New York. Earlier, he declared at a news conference that the election is "up for grabs" and made an emotional appeal in a Florida speech against voter apathy. The Democratic standard-bearer outlined his ideas on health care to a Miami audience of about 2,000 persons, then visited a kosher bakery and addressed a senior citizens' rally. He promised the American Public Health Association convention "aggressive leadership to provide comprehensive, nationwide, effective health care — and you can depend on it." Carter said he favors national health insurance which "must be universal and mandatory," added that patients should have freedom to choose their physicians, and urged greater emphasis on preventive medicine as "both simpler and cheaper than cures."

Ford, remaining in Washington until Thursday, sent word through a group of Republican governors and senators who are his key party supporters that he views the race as "a dead heat" now. Major polls also show the race is tight. But there was disagreement between the two candidates about remarks by the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, Gen. George S. Brown, who was quoted in an interview as saying Israel is a military burden and the United States does not have the stomach to stand up to the Soviets. Carter said Brown's remarks are an example of failure by Ford to take strong action against errant officials. He compared Ford's unwillingness to rebuke Brown to the Earl Butz affair two weeks ago. Butz resigned as secretary of agriculture after it became known that he had made an obscene racial slur against blacks during an airplane flight after the GOP convention. Some congressmen, senators and civil rights leaders wanted Butz fired, but Butz quit, and Ford expressed sadness at accepting the resignation. In a news conference Monday with Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld at his side, Brown said he did not intend in the interview to imply that he disagreed with U.S. policy on Israel. He denied saying the United States does not have the stomach to stand up to the Soviet Union.

Scare may keep flu program from goal

Federal officials say delays in the swine flu vaccination program and reluctance of some Americans to get shots may keep them from their goal of winding the program up by Christmas. The turnout was light Monday in each of nine states where clinics reopened after shutting down last week following reports of deaths among elderly persons who were inoculated. Authorities in every state found that the deaths were mere coincidence and unrelated to the shots. In the words of David Scott, director of Vermont's inoculation program, "The more elderly people we immunize, the greater the chances there will be fatalities among the group." At the South Side clinic in Pittsburgh, where reports of deaths prompted the initial clinic closings, only a few people showed up on the first day back in business. "I guess it's just a chance I'm taking," said 65-year-old Agnes Franz of Mount Oliver. She said that she had become sick in 1918, when swine flu killed 20 million people worldwide. She said she was willing to take any risk the shot might pose. Officials at reopened clinics elsewhere also said fewer people were showing up than before the scare. Authorities at the federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta were reluctant to predict how long the slowdown might last. CDC spokesman Don Berweth said that because the program had also started late, there might be a problem reaching the Christmas goal. "We hoped to have all of the people who wanted the shots vaccinated before Christmas," he said. "Now we don't know." However, he said the shipment of vaccine doses around the country was "in good shape." He said the disease center would continue to monitor the program for any reports of illness, but he said, "The major reaction so far is a sore arm."

Briscoe, White to visit here

Texas governor Dolph Briscoe and State Commissioner of Agriculture John White will stop at the Howard County Airport Wednesday as a part of their statewide campaign for Democratic Presidential candidate Jimmy Carter. The pair will be accompanied by 39th Senatorial District committee member Charles Stenholm, Stamford, and committeewoman Marguerite Snyder, Baird. According to Howard County Democratic Chairman Raford Dunagan, the governor's plane will touch down at the airport at 1:50 p.m. Dunagan, along with the County Executive Committee will serve as official greeters. Both Gov. Briscoe and White will make brief remarks to the crowd, and then will mingle with the crowd before departing around 2:35 p.m.

Jury here is told

Party guest uninvited

Beer, drugs and an uninvited guest were among the ingredients in the 26th birthday party held for a man shotgunned to death, jurors in 118th District Court were told today. Lloyd Gene Nichols, Irving, told about Jay Doug Ingram, 26, Vincent arriving by surprise before a birthday party began for the victim, Mike Green. "I asked him (Ingram) to leave," Nichols, formerly of Big Spring, said. "And he asked if he could stay and eat supper." Nichols said he wanted Ingram to leave "because I knew there was some friction between him and Mike." "He said he was too drunk to drive home," Nichols explained. Over the objection of a defense attorney, Nichols testified Ingram took some marijuana out of his boot, and they smoked. "He (Ingram) said he had taken a downer (tranquilizer)," Nichols said. Guests began arriving at the Nichols home at 1217 Mobile, but Ingram did not leave as promised, Nichols said. Among the guests were Carol Hollingsworth, Green's date who testified next. Green's mood changed when he saw Ingram was at the party, Miss Hollingsworth said. Green sat quietly with a "blank look." "We sat around and drank beer and talked and smoked pot," Nichols said. Ingram and Green went out to Ingram's car, drove away, returned, Nichols said. Green told Ingram to leave, Nichols said. Ingram replied, "Well, Lloyd doesn't want me to leave," and I said 'yes, I do, Jay Doug.' "They fought all over the street," Nichols said. "They went to the ground, and Mike ended up on top of Jay Doug," Nichols explained. Nichols did not see Ingram hit Green. Ingram got up staggering. Green went inside the house. The door was closed, Nichols continued. Green walked into the kitchen, hit the washing machine and turned. "He (Green) was shaken. He was acting pretty upset," Nichols said. "Hold on here a minute," Nichols said. But Green went back, Nichols said. "He (Green) opened the door and got shot," Nichols said. "The door was shut and everybody took off for the back." "Mike went to the bedroom," Nichols said, recalling he was not aware then that Green had been shot. "One of my friends better come outside and talk to me," Ingram shouted, according to Nichols. Nichols heard a second shot. He later found a hole in the door. The blond defendant, who is 6-feet-5-inches tall and weighed 190 pounds, showed no emotion during the testimony, sometimes walking across the room to watch Nichols show locations on a drawing. Green weighed about 200 pounds and was about 5-feet-9-inches tall, Nichols guessed. Did anyone try to stop the fist fight? Roger Brown, defense attorney, asked Nichols. "Why should we? They were both grown men, about equal size," Nichols responded. Did Green whip Ingram? "Not good enough, evidently," Nichols said. Brown compared Nichols live testimony to that given in an earlier deposition. Nichols he did not know if Ingram knew of the party before guests began appearing. Testimony on the opening day of the trial included three police officers. Patrolman Howard Kloss testified he was the first officer on the scene. Kloss said that neighbors told him there was a man with a gun inside the residence. Kloss testified he saw a man at the window of the house. The man crossed in front of the door and Kloss said he noticed the shotgun in the man's hands. Kloss called from the front door for the man to come out. The man who emerged was identified as Jay Doug Ingram. At this point Kloss indicated the defendant. Kloss said he had heard a man inside "whimpering and crying that he was shot and dying." He found Green

Panel votes to nix school tax increases

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A special House committee on school financing voted unanimously today to give local property owners a tax break by making the state totally responsible for funding the Minimum Foundation Program. The committee's proposals carry a $1 billion price tag. No specific legislation was proposed, however, as the staff still has work to do on a bill before the 1977 legislature convenes in January. The Special House Committee on Alternatives to Public School Financing held a series of meetings throughout the state in preparing its recommendations. Basically, the committee agreed unanimously: —To raise the state's share of the Foundation School Program to 100 per cent. —That no new taxes should be recommended. —To set a two-year moratorium on local school districts' property tax increases. —To require a property tax reduction equal to the savings provided by the state paying all the foundation program costs. —To allow property tax increases only if approved by a majority of the local voters at an election coinciding with the election of school board members. The committee voted 5-1 to revise the equalization aid formula to provide more financial aid to the poorer school districts, especially 26 which have less than $20,000 of taxable property value per pupil. The committee voted 4-2 to put a flexible cap on enrichment programs by which some districts pay extra local funds for more teachers or special programs.

Sen. Dole sets Lubbock visit

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., was scheduled to arrive in Corpus Christi today on the first stop of a two-day vice presidential campaign trip that includes visits to two other Texas cities. The Republican vice presidential candidate's itinerary calls for him to arrive in Corpus Christi at about 5:30 p.m. He will depart for San Antonio at about 10:00 p.m. Campaign officials said Monday Dole will stay Tuesday night in San Antonio and leave at about noon Wednesday for Lubbock, where he will stay for two hours before flying out of the state for other campaign stops.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Not in schools

QUESTION: Will the swine flu vaccine be administered to school children through the schools?
ANSWER: Since this question was called into the Herald, the inoculation program has been completely halted by the state of Texas awaiting further information. When resumed, all inoculations will be made at the city-county health unit.

Offbeat: Men, not kids

WINK, Tex. (AP) — "The Marine Corps needs a few good men," said the poster, and Roger Woodrick didn't see any reason why he couldn't qualify. Espirit de corps is a watchword of the Marines, and while Roger seems to exemplify this gung-ho attitude that the Marines are looking for, eight years old obviously is a little young for boot camp. His mother, Mrs. Roger Woodrick, said her son was attracted to a Marine recruiting poster recently at an Odessa shopping center.

TEXAS SNOW — Some Amarillo residents were surprised in the early morning hours to find that light scattered snow had fallen during the night. One such resident was 17-year-old Nancy France, who had to clean the white stuff off the car before heading for school. Cold weather is expected in the Panhandle for the rest of the day.

Great Puzzle Contest

Identify this photograph and: WIN $100

Below is a puzzle piece from a picture of a Big Spring area object or place. To the first person or persons who can specifically identify the object, the Herald will pay $50 — plus another $50 bonus if the winner is a home delivery or mail subscriber of the Herald, or a grand total prize of $100.

HERE ARE THE RULES: Each day, a different puzzle piece will be run in the Herald. Save them, and try to piece together the identification of the place. Your answer must be specific to win. Opinions of the judges are final. At 5 p.m. each day, the judges will review guesses which arrive at the Herald on that day. Entries arriving after that time will go in the following day's judging. Winners will be announced only at this spot in the newspaper on the next day. If there is more than one winner on any day, the $100 prize will be divided evenly among them.

GOODBYE KISS — Earl Waterman Jr. kisses chimpanzee Charley. Waterman will give his final farewells to Charley and about 150 other animals Oct. 28 when the game farm he is part owner of auctions the animals off. Waterman says he is calling it quits after an eight-year battle with the zoning commission. He says the trained chimp is "just like a human. He's like a kid to me. He understands me."

Confessed to murder

American hanged in Bahamas

NASSAU, The Bahamas (AP) — American Michael Shobek, his head covered by a black hood, was hanged today in the small gallow room at Her Majesty's Prison at Fox Head.

The execution came 29 months after Shobek, a 22-year-old Milwaukee handyman and would-be songwriter, confessed to the murders of three fellow Americans he described as "angels of Lucifer."

The death was confirmed by criminal investigation department chief Addington Darville. He provided no details of the hanging.

In Milwaukee, meanwhile, a Legal Aid Society lawyer representing Shobek's mother, Juanita Spencer, said that he had tried Monday night to get President Ford to make a last-minute appeal but that a presidential aide refused.

"I talked around midnight to Richard Cheney, President Ford's chief of staff, and pleaded with him for about 45 minutes on the telephone to get Ford personally involved," attorney Thomas Cannon said.

"He told me that he felt the President simply could not get any further involved than he was because it would be a violation of the Commonwealth of the Bahamas' integrity."

Earlier, Ford had relayed an appeal from Mrs. Spencer to top government officials in the Bahamas.

Mrs. Spencer was in seclusion after the hanging. "She is resting now, and she doesn't want to talk to anyone," a sister said of Mrs. Spencer.

The mother had heard the first news of the death on the radio after keeping a night-long vigil with family members. Reporter Bunny Raasch of WISN-TV was able to talk to her just after the hanging.

"She was obviously extremely distraught," said Miss Raasch. "She sobbed, she said they killed her innocent baby. Then she picked up her purse and walked upstairs, and her sisters and daughter followed."

Miss Raasch said Mrs. Spencer "held up very well" during the time she was waiting, but had little to say.

"She had a lot of faith," she said. "She told me a lot of people were praying for her."

Cannon said he had talked with the mother, a cleaning woman, after the phone call to the White House. "She's very depressed," he said.

The lawyer said Mrs. Spencer had talked with her son for about five or 10 minutes Monday afternoon. "She said he kept repeating, 'Today is Monday' over and over again," Cannon said.

He added that he had not talked with Mrs. Spencer after the hanging. He said that she had wanted to have Shobek's body brought back to Milwaukee but could not afford it.

Cannon said the U.S. Embassy in Nassau told him it would have cost close to $1,000 to have the body embalmed, placed in a container acceptable to Customs officials and flown back to Milwaukee.

"She is a cleaning lady and she simply does not have access to those kinds of funds," he said.

After the hanging, Shobek's body was taken from the prison to Old Trail Cemetery, about two miles away. A small section of the cemetery is reserved for paupers and murderers and Shobek was buried there.

The coffin arrived in a black station wagon hearse. Four men in shirt sleeves dropped the plain pine box into a 48-inch deep grave, then shoveled dirt on top. A chaplain stood by, his black cloak flapping in the wind.

Shobek's burial was said to have had the tightest security ever witnessed in the Bahamas for an execution.

Police beat

Jewelry store hit hard

Two thieves heisted 16 sets of bridal rings, 32 rings in all, from Gray's Jewelry Store at Highland Center around 4:45 p.m. Monday.

According to reports, two men are thought to have been involved in the theft. A witness to the theft is reported to have watched one of the men shove two ring trays under the jacket of his white leisure suit, and walk out of the store. Value of the rings was estimated at $5,000. Local detectives are investigating the incident.

Mike Tereletsky, employe of the Shell Service Station, 2905 Wasson, found a rock the size of a man's fist lying on the station's desk Monday morning. The rock had come to rest on the desk after flying through the station's front window. Damage was estimated at $400.

A CB radio and five eight-track tapes were lifted from a car belonging to Irene Martinez, 4219 Hamilton, while the auto was parked at 600 N.W. 6th. The incident occurred sometime after 2:30 p.m. Monday. Value of the items was estimated at $288.

In another vehicle burglary, two whitewall tires, two wheel hubs and a tool box containing assorted tools were stolen from the back of a pickup belonging to R. L. Guebara, 701 Settles. The items were valued at $234.

Glenda Wilson, 1212

Wright, reported that the renters of lot 35 at the O.K. Trailer Court left over the weekend owing $56.25 in rent. The belligerent boarders also broke out two windows, two screens and two light globes in the trailer, and set fire to a number of papers in the trailer's bathtub. Damage was estimated at $38.

Freddie Allen, 631 N.W. 4th, reported that intruders broke into his home sometime between 8:30 and 10 a.m. Monday. Stolen were a color camera and a small number of clothes. Loss was estimated at around $15.

Vandals punched a hole in the Big Spring High School Band van while it was parked in the west parking lot of the high school. Damage was estimated at $174.36.

Johnny Lee Davis, 1710 Harvard, was admitted for 24 hours of observation at Hall Bennett Hospital following the collision of his car with the back of a Gandy's Dairy Truck this morning.

According to reports, a number of students climbed onto the hood of Davis' car in the parking lot of Big Spring High School while Davis was driving it. The auto collided with a Gandy's truck driven by Donald Franklin Davis, 1606 Austin, throwing off the students and knocking Davis unconscious. No one else was injured.

In other mishaps, cars driven by Dorothy Mallone, Odessa, and Celestina Yanez, 800 N. Scurry, collided at the 2100 block of W. Third, 12:06 p.m. Monday.

Cars driven by Josephine Bradley (parked), 1206 Elm, and Domingo Hernandez Garcia, Gail Route, collided at 100 S. Main, 6:37 p.m. Monday.

Two local men face charge

ODESSA — Two Big Spring men, Manuel Cervantes, 25, and Teddy V. Molina, 23, were arrested by city police here Sunday morning on charges of possession of marijuana.

The men were occupants of a vehicle driven by Cervantes when they were observed allegedly running a red light. The charges against the two followed a search of the automobile.

Charges were filed with Justice of Peace James Harris, who set bond of $1,000 each. The two men were later freed on bond.

TOPS rally date nears

Over 250 people are pre-registered for a TOPS Rally Day Saturday in the Colorado City Civic Center. TOPS stands for Take Off Pounds Sensibly. TOPS clubs are non-profit organizations dedicated to fighting obesity. Members are expected from 30 clubs from Levelland to Brownwood.

The day's planned activity include skits, singing, and special recognition of members — all designed to inspire members to take and keep weight off. The theme is "You can fly, but that cocon has to go," and butterflies are being used for decorations.

The Colorado City TOPS Club is the host club, and it deeply appreciates the work done to help it by the Snyder TOPS Club and the Sweetwater TOPS Club.

Our speaker will be Joy Culwell of Colorado City and formerly of Anson. She has her own week-day radio show in Colorado City and was a correspondent for the Abilene Reporter News. She is a frequent speaker at area banquets. The general chairman for arrangements for the Rally Day is Mrs. Linda Marion.

Rodent control man is named

Howard County is one of 19 area counties selected to be serviced by an area Urban Rodent Control Specialists. Terry Cluck has assumed the responsibilities as the Specialist, replacing Larry Kilgus. Cluck, a native of Sentinel, Okla., recently received a M.A. degree in biology from Baylor University.

While working on his graduate degree, Cluck taught genetics laboratory classes at Baylor. From 1972 until 1974, Cluck served as a missionary journeyman in Kenya, East Africa, where he taught Kenyans biology, chemistry and agriculture. Terry is married to Jane E. Coleman Cluck whom he met while in Africa.

He is available for education programs and demonstrations concerning the control of rodents and other animal pests such as skunks, armadillos and raccoons. Home demonstrations on rat control can be arranged (at no charge) for interested neighborhoods. Cluck can be reached by phone at 915-673-0331 should there be any questions. Correspondence should be addressed to: Terry Cluck, Urban Rodent Control Specialist, c/o County Extension Agent, Taylor County Courthouse, Abilene, Texas 79602.

White winner at Huntsville

HUNTSVILLE — Johnny White, Big Spring, won the bareback bronc riding championship in the 45th annual Texas Prison Rodeo at Huntsville last Sunday.

Nearly 25,000 fans jammed the arena Sunday to watch convicts challenge the cattle.

Inmate Ivorie Daniels of Bunkie, La., captured the top prize of the day by plucking a sack containing $100 from the horns of a bull. Entertainer Freddie Fender added another $100 to the prize, then donated his $4,000 fee to the convicts.

All proceeds from the rodeo are given to the Texas Department of Corrections for the benefit of the convicts.

College class rescheduled

The Defensive Driving Class offered by Howard College's Department of Continuing Education has been rescheduled to begin Tuesday, Oct. 26, at 7:00 p.m. The class will meet in the Conference Room of the Howard College Library.

The course will teach motorists how to avoid collisions, how to handle tailgators, drunk pedestrians and other high-way obstacles. A Defensive Driving Class graduate knows what to do if his brakes fail, his accelerator sticks or his headlights go out. He realizes that even in situations over which he has no control, evasive tactics may save his life. It will save him money.

The Texas State Insurance Board has ordered a 10 per cent reduction in auto insurance costs for Defensive Driving Course graduates. Savings average $14 a year per person. The course is taught by Harold Wilder, who will use modern audio visual equipment. Total cost of the course is $10.

Class sessions will be held from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. Oct. 26, 28, and Nov. 2 and 4. Further information can be obtained by calling Rosemary Flores or Herb Johnson at the Howard College Department of Continuing Education phone 263-6711 ext. 66.

Energy

Fina income up first 9 months

DALLAS — American Petrofina Incorporated has announced that net income for the nine months ended September 30, 1976, was $35,316,000, or $3.31 per share, on gross revenues of $797,603,000 as compared to net income of $30,945,000, or $2.90 per share, on gross revenues of $727, 970,000 in the first three quarters of 1975.

For the third quarter, net income was $9,644,000, or 90 cents per share, as compared to $16,726,000 or $1.57 per share, in the same period of 1975. Gross revenues were $259,644,000 against $268,195,000 in the third quarter of the preceding year.

R. I. Galland, chairman of the board, said that the 30,000 barrels per day expansion of the crude capacity at Fina's Port Arthur, Texas refinery and the completion of the 700-million-pound-per-year expansion of the styrene monomer facility at Carville, Louisiana, both scheduled in October, should have significant and favorable impacts upon the Company's future operations. Also, in the third quarter, the Company began operations with Hercules Incorporated of their joint venture, Hercofina, for the worldwide production and marketing of terephthalates, the basic raw material for polyester fibers and films.

In commenting on earnings for the third quarter of 1976, Galland said they were adversely affected by the Company's inability under Federal Energy Administration regulations fully to recover increased costs of raw materials and operations; by slack demand for petrochemicals and plastics and by interruptions to production incident to the tie-in of the new capacity at Port Arthur and to the repair of fire damage at Big Spring.

Earlier this month, the Company increased its semiannual dividend from $1.00 per share to $1.10 per share. The dividend is payable October 29, 1976 to shareholders at record at the close of business October 19, 1976.

New PO due at Midkiff

MIDKIFF — The U.S. Postal Service is asking for construction bids to build and lease a new post office building at Midkiff, Postmaster A. Sue Winters said here.

Bids are to be offered to Thomas E. King, real estate officer, Dallas Field Real Estate and Buildings Office, U.S. Postal Service, P.O. Drawer 239, Dallas, Tx. 75221.

Bids will be opened at 1 p.m., November 11, in Room 550, General Post Office, Bryan and Ervay Streets, in Dallas.

The proposed office will have 1,076 sq. ft. of interior floor space. It will be built with private funds and leased to the Postal Service for a basic period of ten years with renewal options of 20 additional years.

The Postal Service has acquired an option to buy a site for the new post office which will be assigned to the successful bidder.

The property, owned by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, contains 12,500 sq. ft. of land and is located on the south side of the Midkiff to Midland County road adjacent to the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company building lot.

Chamber's role bigger

Commerce officials now say that $33,525 was spent on industrial development last year rather than the $28,276 presented to the Big Spring City Council on Sept. 14.

Terry Hanson, chamber manager, says that the chamber participated in industry to an amount of $10,525. In a story last Friday, the Big Spring Herald reported this amount as being $4,276.58.

The confusion in the figures arose because the revised budget submitted to the City Council on Sept. 14 listed the total operation as $28,276.

This included $23,000 donated by the city which would leave the chamber's participation as $5,276.58. Harry Nagel, city manager, said here this morning, "The city thought this was the total industrial development budget. When we agreed to give all that we could legally give to the industrial group, we ask for an accounting of all industrial expenditures. We certainly thought that the budget submitted to us was a total budget."

Tom Roy, industrial executive, said that the revised budget he submitted to the city council for approval were the only figures that he had been given.

gates, the other in the living room.

Assistant defense attorney Bob Miller asked Kloss about subsequent firings of the shotgun at a test range at Webb AFB. Kloss identified the target silhouette and testified as to the diameter of the shot pattern. Miller then pointed to the variable choke of the shotgun and asked Kloss if the setting could conceivably have been changed. Kloss said it could have been.

Kloss recalled the defendant's muffled clothes, slurred speech, and the smell of alcohol to indicate to him that the man had been drinking and could have been in a fight.

District Attorney Robert H. Moore III called officer George Quintero. Quintero did not know anything about a missing mug shot which should have been taken after booking.

Police Sgt. Melvin Darratt introduced photographs which he took at the scene.

Darratt said there were two unspent shells with the shotgun which were later used in firing at the firing range. He said he did not know who put those two shells with the gun on his desk, but that they were there the night of the murder.

On cross questioning, Darratt admitted the mug shot and the photo negative of the prisoner, which would have been taken right after the fingerprints, were missing from the police files.

When asked by the defense attorney how the prisoner looked that night, Sgt. Darratt told the attorney, "I never pay any attention to prisoners when I photograph them. I just focus on the number and photograph them."

The first part of the day was spent selecting the jury. Jurors selected include ten men and two women.

They are Rocky Allen, Dale Vaughn, Eula Morrow, Charles Bridges, Donald Larson, Henry Alvarez, Charles Bledsoe, A. Watkins, Ismael Paredes, Judy Blythe, John McCasland and Joseph Evans.

Energy

Fina income up first 9 months

DALLAS — American Petrofina Incorporated has announced that net income for the nine months ended September 30, 1976, was $35,316,000, or $3.31 per share, on gross revenues of $797,603,000 as compared to net income of $30,945,000, or $2.90 per share, on gross revenues of $727, 970,000 in the first three quarters of 1975.

For the third quarter, net income was $9,644,000, or 90 cents per share, as compared to $16,726,000 or $1.57 per share, in the same period of 1975. Gross revenues were $259,644,000 against $268,195,000 in the third quarter of the preceding year.

R. I. Galland, chairman of the board, said that the 30,000 barrels per day expansion of the crude capacity at Fina's Port Arthur, Texas refinery and the completion of the 700-million-pound-per-year expansion of the styrene monomer facility at Carville, Louisiana, both scheduled in October, should have significant and favorable impacts upon the Company's future operations. Also, in the third quarter, the Company began operations with Hercules Incorporated of their joint venture, Hercofina, for the worldwide production and marketing of terephthalates, the basic raw material for polyester fibers and films.

In commenting on earnings for the third quarter of 1976, Galland said they were adversely affected by the Company's inability under Federal Energy Administration regulations fully to recover increased costs of raw materials and operations; by slack demand for petrochemicals and plastics and by interruptions to production incident to the tie-in of the new capacity at Port Arthur and to the repair of fire damage at Big Spring.

Earlier this month, the Company increased its semiannual dividend from $1.00 per share to $1.10 per share. The dividend is payable October 29, 1976 to shareholders at record at the close of business October 19, 1976.

New PO due at Midkiff

MIDKIFF — The U.S. Postal Service is asking for construction bids to build and lease a new post office building at Midkiff, Postmaster A. Sue Winters said here.

Bids are to be offered to Thomas E. King, real estate officer, Dallas Field Real Estate and Buildings Office, U.S. Postal Service, P.O. Drawer 239, Dallas, Tx. 75221.

Bids will be opened at 1 p.m., November 11, in Room 550, General Post Office, Bryan and Ervay Streets, in Dallas.

The proposed office will have 1,076 sq. ft. of interior floor space. It will be built with private funds and leased to the Postal Service for a basic period of ten years with renewal options of 20 additional years.

The Postal Service has acquired an option to buy a site for the new post office which will be assigned to the successful bidder.

The property, owned by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, contains 12,500 sq. ft. of land and is located on the south side of the Midkiff to Midland County road adjacent to the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company building lot.

Chamber's role bigger

Commerce officials now say that $33,525 was spent on industrial development last year rather than the $28,276 presented to the Big Spring City Council on Sept. 14.

Terry Hanson, chamber manager, says that the chamber participated in industry to an amount of $10,525. In a story last Friday, the Big Spring Herald reported this amount as being $4,276.58.

The confusion in the figures arose because the revised budget submitted to the City Council on Sept. 14 listed the total operation as $28,276.

This included $23,000 donated by the city which would leave the chamber's participation as $5,276.58. Harry Nagel, city manager, said here this morning, "The city thought this was the total industrial development budget. Chamber's role bigger

Commerce officials now say that $33,525 was spent on industrial development last year rather than the $28,276 presented to the Big Spring City Council on Sept. 14.

Terry Hanson, chamber manager, says that the chamber participated in industry to an amount of $10,525. In a story last Friday, the Big Spring Herald reported this amount as being $4,276.58.

When we agreed to give all that we could legally give to the industrial group, we ask for an accounting of all industrial expenditures. We certainly thought that the budget submitted to us was a total budget."

Tom Roy, industrial executive, said that the revised budget he submitted to the city council for approval were the only figures that he had been given.

J. D. Nelson, chamber president, said here this morning, "All of the chamber people who were originally around when the agreement was made to the city to present the total industrial expenditures each year, are now gone. Some of us thought we were presenting the breakdown of the city expenditures. I think the $28,000 figure is just one that has been used for three years. The budget we have set up for next year and which the city has approved includes $23,000 from the city and $12,000 cash from the chamber. This is more realistic."

In the discussion with the city, the chamber also mentioned $3,680 in secretarial, rent and utilities (in-kind contributions). However, this was not included in the $35,000 total budget for the coming year. The $10,525 which the chamber spent last year did include in-kind services.

If the in-kind funds are in addition to $12,000 in cash to be donated by the chamber and if the chamber spent $10,525 last year, they will be actually giving an additional $5,154 to industrial development next year.

A breakdown of the budget for last year for the Big Spring Industrial Growth and Development as submitted to the city council on Sept. 14 is as follows:

Salaries	$12,023.13
Tax & Insurance	935.50
Auto Allowance	937.50
Travel & Prospect
Hosting	9,445.04
Telephone & Telegraph	1,190.00
Utilities	130.00
Rent	750.00
Postage	150.00
Publications & Printing	500.00
Subscriptions & Refs.
Mail	200.00
Advertising	800.00
Memberships	250.00
Audit	300.00
Goals For Progress	289.33
Contingency	176.58
Total	$28,276.58

Hanson said 22.06 per cent of the chamber's membership dues income from Oct. 1, 1975, through Sept. 30, 1976, were spent on industry as follows:

Salaries	7,487.50
Car Allowance	487.50
Insurance	62.17
Newsletter	273.20
Travel & Prospect
Hosting	1,585.55
Telephone & Telegraph	364.61
Utilities	32.99
Rent	62.50
Postage	10.74
Publications & Printing	8.41
Total	$10,525.17

The above figures would be in addition to the $23,000 expenditure by the city last year. They include in-kind funding.

The approved budget for next year is $35,000. In-kind funding would be estimated at $3,680 for secretarial, rent and utilities and would bring the total on up to $38,680.

Yoshimura trial opens without Hearst hoopla

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Wendy Yoshimura's trial on weapons and explosives charges opened quietly, with none of the hoopla or tight security that accompanied the bank robbery trial of her underground companion, Patricia Hearst.

When the session Monday was called to order, Miss Yoshimura was in a corridor chatting with friends.

Her attorney, James Larson, muttered, "I'll get her," to Alameda County Superior Court Judge Martin Pulich. He dashed outside, and a moment later the 33-year-old Japanese-American artist came scurrying into the small courtroom.

Miss Yoshimura, who met Miss Hearst when both were on the run in 1974 and was with her when both were captured in San Francisco on Sept. 18, 1975, has been free on $25,000 bail.

She is charged with possessing explosives, a machine gun, bomb components and a destructive device with intent to injure persons and destroy property. If convicted, she could be imprisoned for five years to life.

The prosecution contends she rented a Berkeley garage in 1971 as a weapons storage facility for radicals. Police raided the building in March 1972. Miss Yoshimura dropped out of sight the next day.

On Monday, she smiled, glanced at the dozen reporters who were covering the opening of the trial and jotted down notes as her attorney argued several motions.

Only the two regularly assigned deputies were in the courtroom, whereas a platoon of federal marshals were assigned to the Hearst trial.

Larson argued for an hour — in private — against allowing Miss Hearst to testify at the trial. He has said that Miss Hearst's testimony would be irrelevant to the charges.

5-year census okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. citizens will be counted every five years instead of every 10 years under a new law signed by President Ford.

Ford gave his approval Monday to a bill requiring a mid-decade census of the population. And he vetoed a bill requiring Department of Agriculture inspection of rabbit meat.

The first of the new censuses will be in 1985, with subsequent tallies every 10 years. These will be in addition to the normal censuses taken at the beginning of each decade — such as in 1970 and 1980.

"The historic method of counting the population every 10 years simply does not meet the nation's current needs," Ford said.

"Passage of this bill provides us with a major opportunity to improve the statistical information which is often the basis for decisions on major issues of public policy."

Ford vetoed as unnecessary and expensive the bill that dealt with rabbit meat. He said no health reason requires inspection by the Agriculture Department, which would cost 10 cents per pound, since the Food and Drug Administration already inspects rabbit meat for purity.

It was Ford's 63rd veto.

because the Berkeley incident occurred two years before the kidnaping that led to Miss Hearst's underground activity.

Larson also asked that Miss Yoshimura be allowed to act as counsel.

Judge Pulich took the motions under advisement, and he was not likely to rule on the one involving Miss Hearst unless she is called as a witness. Prosecutor Jeffrey Horner has said she might be called during the rebuttal phase of the state's case.

The judge summoned a pool of 40 prospective jurors and laid out a jury selection process that will last at least until Oct. 27.

Miss Hearst, who was brought to court handcuffed daily, was convicted of armed bank robbery and sentenced to seven years in prison. She and Miss Yoshimura have not met since their capture.

Continental pilots threaten strike

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pilots for Continental Airlines say they will go on strike at 12:01 a.m. Saturday, unless agreement on a new contract is reached by that time.

Pilots said that deadline is the end of a federally mandated cooling off period which began last Sept. 22. Negotiations have been going on for a year.

A strike, if it comes, would be the first against the Los Angeles-based airline. It would shut down all airline operations.

The airline provides more than 40 flights daily out of Southern California, and 393 flights nationwide.

The more than 1,000 pilots represented by the Air Line Pilots Association actually decided to strike last summer.

An airline spokesman said the issue is working conditions. He said pilots want the airline to add 21 per cent more pilots, although he acknowledged the pilots' association disputes this.

Wonder, tutor are reunited

DETROIT (AP) — Constance Beneduci remembers singer Stevie Wonder when he was Steveland Morris, one of her elementary school students here.

"I encouraged him to take up drums," she says.

Wonder returned to Detroit on Saturday to speak at a benefit dinner, and Mrs. Beneduci, who last saw him in 1963, met him again.

The 25-year-old blind singer smiled. "Mrs. Beneduci," he said, "it's you. Wow. How you doin'?"

"He reminded me of the mouse," Mrs. Beneduci said. "I couldn't find a mouse in the classroom although I knew one was there. Stevie just told everyone to stay very quiet and he would hear where the mouse was. Stevie pointed to the wastebasket, and there was a little gray mouse."

"He was always so proud of that. I had forgotten all about the mouse, but he hadn't. He couldn't have been 10 years old at the time."

Ramiro Carrillo trial resumes after delay

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Jury selection in the official misconduct trial of Ramiro Carrillo — delayed because of a reception for Gov. Dolph Briscoe — resumes today.

A visiting district judge recessed the trial Monday to attend the reception in McAllen for Briscoe and his wife.

Judge Joe Evins of Brownsville apologized to the jury panel for the delay. He explained to reporters that Briscoe appointed him judge in 1973, and he felt obligated to attend the reception.

Defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes of Houston predicted the trial would conclude Wednesday.

Haynes told the jury panel he feared some of them might have begun to look at his client differently after they learned he was charged with official misconduct.

He likened it to a child molesting case.

"Some crimes are so noxious we begin to look at him (a defendant) anew, because the offense he is charged with is so repugnant," he said.

A large black woman on the front row nodded affirmatively.

Haynes also said some people are repelled simply by the way a defendant looks. He had Carrillo stand up and then asked, "Is there anything about his looks that offends you?" Nobody raised his hand.

Haynes said the prosecution planned to call some law enforcement officers to the stand. He asked if anyone on the panel would give more weight to the testimony of a Texas Ranger than to another person solely on the ground that the ranger was a ranger. Nobody raised his hand.

The Duval County Grand Jury indicted Carrillo last February, alleging that while he served as county commissioner he used a 1964 International truck-tractor belonging to the county for his personal benefit July 21, 1974, hauling grain to an elevator.

The case was moved to Hidalgo County on a change of venue, then moved again to Travis County.

Carrillo's brother, O. P. Carrillo, was ousted last January from the bench of the 229th District Court after impeachment by the House and conviction by the Senate on a charge he schemed to steal taxpayers' money through phony equipment rentals.

Of top uniformed officer

Carter calls for reprimand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter is urging President Ford to "show some leadership" and reprimand the nation's top uniformed officer, who made controversial remarks about such U.S. allies as Israel, Britain and Iran.

Ford, according to the White House, accepts Gen. George S. Brown's explanation and "considers the matter closed."

For his part, Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told a news conference Monday that his remarks in an interview did not indicate disagreement with the U.S. policy of aiding Israel. In the interview, Brown had said that aiding Israel is a burden on the United States.

His statement on Israel involved him in controversy for the second time in two years. Brown was reprimanded by Ford, and apologized in November 1974 for telling a Duke University audience that Jews have too much influence in Congress and "own, you know, the banks in this country, the newspapers."

Carter, arriving in Miami on a campaign tour Monday night, conceded that he had not read transcripts of Brown's remarks, but he added: "From what I hear in the news media I think that he should be reprimanded. I think President Ford should show some leadership."

The other half of the Democratic ticket, vice presidential nominee Walter F. Mondale, was more blunt. Persons like Brown "shouldn't be sewage commissioners," Mondale said.

The remarks that offended Carter and Mondale were part of a wide-ranging interview with Brown conducted last April 12 by Ranan R. Lurie. The interview is being distributed to newspapers by King Features.

Brown was asked: "Speaking about the Middle East from a purely military point of view, would you say that from the American global strategic interest, militarily, is Israel and its forces more a burden or a blessing from a pure military point of view to the United States?"

Brown replied, "Well, I think it's just got to be considered a burden."

At a Pentagon news conference Monday with Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld, Brown said: "I couldn't see strategic value to the United States. I was thinking in military terms."

Rumsfeld said, "I want it clearly understood that the absence of a reprimand should not be taken as an endorsement of obviously inelegant phraseology."

Israel was not the only point of controversy in the interview with Lurie. He wrote that when he asked Brown whether the United States has the stomach to stand up to the Soviet Union, the four-star Air Force general responded, "No, we haven't."

Brown denied making that statement.

He did not deny saying it is pathetic how Britain is no longer a world power. The interview quoted Brown as saying Britain's military decline "just makes you want to cry.... All they've got are generals and admirals and bands."

Homecoming at Loraine

LORLAINE — Homecoming activities are planned for this weekend with a full round of events Friday and Saturday.

The Loraine-Jayton football game will kick off at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Johnson Field with the crowning of the Coming Home Queen and Homecoming Queen and King.

Homecoming Queen candidates from the high school are Brenda Oliver, senior; Liz Terry, junior; Karen Tartt, sophomore; and Carrie Epperson, freshman.

At 5:30 p.m. Friday, a chili supper will be held in the high school cafeteria sponsored by the Boosters Club. A powder puff football game will be held at 7:30 p.m. with the freshmen and senior girls playing the sophomores and juniors. A bonfire and pep rally will be held north of Johnson Field at 9:30 p.m.

At 10 a.m. Saturday, ex-students will register at the high school with a luncheon at the school for exes at noon. George Martin will preside over the meeting which follows. Mrs. Aaron Carpenter is secretary.

Individual class reunions will be held Saturday.

Bingo crackdown begins in Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Bingo lovers here better enjoy themselves in the next two weeks.

A San Antonio police official said Thursday that Fall Festival bingo games scheduled in the next two weeks will be allowed, but they will be the last bingo games in Bexar County for at least six months.

Police Capt. James Despres, charged with the responsibility of enforcing the ban on bingo, told a special conference of Catholic Church officials that his officers would not raid any games which had been arranged before the ban was announced last week.

Despres said officers had no alternative but to crack down on the games, since a 5th Circuit Court of Civil Appeals decision has ruled bingo gambling and thus illegal.

The church officials called the special conference to discuss the economic impact of the ban on the games they have used to raise money.

Is Air Force going through motions?

Is the final decision on Webb Air Force Base still not made, as the Air Force contends and as the law requires?

Or is the Air Force simply going through the motions required by law before carrying out a decision obviously made one and one-half years ago?

I want to believe the Air Force when it says the decision is not yet made, but there are some discouraging signs.

Webb and Craig AFB (Alabama) are candidates for closure. Four other Air Training Command bases are being studied as alternatives.

YET POLITICIANS from the other areas are assuring their constituents that the Air Force will not close, has no plan to close and is not really considering closing the alternative bases.

The Air Force, as best I can tell, is doing nothing to dispel this notion.

A good example is Columbus AFB (Mississippi) which clearly deserves serious consideration for closure instead of Webb. The Air Force could save 150 military positions each year, $4 million each year and train 45 more pilots each year if Columbus were selected for closure instead of Webb.

Columbus was designed as a B-52 base, and it is a most inefficient as a ATC operation. It was scheduled to be closed six years ago but was saved by politicians who forced the uneconomical base into the ATC. The decision at that time was described as "temporary" until fewer pilots were being trained. Now Columbus has become permanent, even though it does not fit into a ATC mission. Who needs $4 million of extra overhead? The U.S. doesn't need another standby heavy bomber base; the Air Force is closing two more right now and is still over based for B-52s.

SO IS THE Air Force really considering Columbus. Here's what Sen. John Stennis, Democrat from Mississippi, says:

"I have been assured by the Air Force that there is no plan whatsoever to close Columbus Air Force Base. I do not expect any such plan to develop involving Columbus Air Force Base."

Under the heading, "Columbus AFB Will Not Close — Stennis," the Commercial Dispatch newspaper in Columbus said: "Taking the (environmental impact) report at face value, some area leaders and other citizens had already begun to express concern about the report."

This is as they should, because the impact statement figures obviously shown Columbus as the base that should be closed instead of Webb.

But Sen. Stennis puts their fears to rest by saying that it was only a matter of fulfilling the law.

The newspaper goes on to quote Washington observers as saying flatly: "Nothing is going to happen to Columbus. Period."

Is the decision being made on the merits of the bases? Or is it being made because Sen. Stennis chairs the Armed Services Committee in the Senate?

NEW YORK — Whenever there is a presidential election, reporters always go to an ethnic bar to see what the workingman is thinking. They wind up talking to Polish-Americans in Chicago, German-Americans in Milwaukee, Italian-Americans in Queens, N.Y., and Mexican-Americans in El Paso, Texas. But no one ever bothers to get to a white American Anglo-Saxon bar to find out how the WASPs feel about the election.

IN ORDER to correct this oversight, I went to the Biltmore Bar the other day to speak to WASPs who claim they are being ignored in the election and are getting fed up with it.

The bar was crowded with men dressed in Brooks Brothers suits. Most of them were drinking Chivas Regal scotch on the rocks and watching a discussion on Public Television between William Buckley and Norman Mailer.

At first they were very suspicious of me because I ordered a beer. Realizing my mistake, I demanded a double Beefeater Gin on the side. They relaxed a little.

"I'm from the press," I said to the man next to me.

"I'm from Westport," he replied. "We never see people like you in this bar."

"I'm very interested to find out how the WASPs are going to vote in the election."

Several of the other men in pin-stripe suits overheard and me and gathered around.

"It's very puzzling," one of them said. "Both contestants have ignored the WASPs in their efforts to attract the ethnic groups, and it might cost them the election."

"OUR VOTES are of crucial importance," another man said. "After all, WASPs make up a large segment of the population, and we have as many dreams and hopes for our children as the blue-collar working class."

"I know the ethnics look down on us," an advertising executive from Greenwich said, "because we read books and go to the theater and play golf and send our children to private schools. But where would America be without WASPs? We built this country from an agrarian society to the highest industrialized nation in the world. And we did it with private capital which our great-grandfathers invested in every conceivable project, from factories to railroads. One becomes very discouraged when one hears both Mr. Ford and Mr. Carter repeating that we don't pay enough taxes."

"Frederick Campbell the Third is right," a stockbroker from New Canaan said. "WASPs seem to be the butt of all the jokes these days. We're getting fed up with it. We're as good Americans as any ethnic group in this country, and we're not dumb like everyone maintains."

"WHY IS IT," a banker from Oyster Bay asked, "there are no situation comedies about WASPs on television? And when they use a token WASP character in an ethnic show why is he always the person who doesn't seem to know the score?"

"Well," Horace Richardson Junior, an IBM sales manager, chimed in, "the WASP image seems to have deteriorated as the ethnic image has improved."

"ONE! TWO! THREE! FOUR!..."

Beware 'simple' stroke answers

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I suffered a stroke about five years ago and my left arm and left leg are still paralyzed from it. I take therapy every day.

Recently someone told me about marvelous results from use of liquid vitamin C. Have you heard of it? — I.R.

I HAVEN'T heard of it and have serious doubts as to its effectiveness. Often, any such therapy begun early in the post-stroke period is apt to get the credit for any recovery. Actually the repair of the damaged part would have occurred if it was going to anyway.

The danger of relying on such doubtful measures is that the patient may neglect vital physical therapy and miss an opportunity for real improvement.

You should continue your daily therapy. Even though most of your comeback has probably occurred by now, it is important to keep up the "muscle tone" and to put whatever return of function you have to maximum use. You will find therapy discussed at length in my booklet, "Stroke Recovery: Hope and Help."

For a copy, send 35 cents to me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a 14-year-old girl. I have a cracking in my knees. It's embarrassing to sit down and have my friends hear them crack. People have told me it's because I don't drink enough milk. Is that true? — T.S.

No connection that I can think of. As a growing girl you do need the nourishment milk provides, especially for bone health. But drinking it isn't going to end your cracking problem.

There is a reason for it, but it is not serious, nor does it require any treatment. At your age your joints, like the rest of your body, are enjoying a spurt of growth. It is a matter of the ends of the bones rubbing together. You obviously have no pain or swelling, so you'll have to put up with this annoyance until things adjust. The chances are small that you will be one of those folks who "crack away" all their lives.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do you think it is all right to give a 16-month-old baby low-fat milk even if the baby is not fat? Also what is the age at which a child should be weaned from the bottle? — Mrs. A.B.

Many baby doctors recommend low-fat milk for all infants. It provides the calcium and protein, but is lower in calories. Fact is, it contains more calcium and protein than the high-fat milk. Most importantly, it helps keep the saturated fat intake low, and that is what is involved in the cholesterol problem.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture lists the following normal values for whole milk (3.5 per cent fat), and partly skimmed milk (with 2 per cent non-fat milk solids added). The amounts listed are for a standard eight-ounce cup. Low-fat milk figures are in parentheses.

Calories, 160 (145); protein, 9 grams (10); fat, 9 grams (3); saturated fats, 5 grams (3); calcium, 288 milligrams (352). Incidentally, the reason the low-fat milk is higher in calcium and proteins is that removal of the fat leaves a greater concentration of both per cup.

Other values are about equal, except that there is considerably less vitamin A in the low-fat milk than in the high.

As to your other question, there is no set time limit for weaning off the bottle. Whenever the youngster can take ground, chopped or pureed foods is soon enough. Milk should then be taken from a cup.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Should a person on a low-salt diet avoid baking powder in cooking? — G.R.

As much as possible, yes. It is quite high in sodium (salt). Another frequently overlooked cooking ingredient is monosodium glutamate, which is used in canning of many store self items. If it is used it will be indicated on the contents. Such substances may tip the balance against the high blood pressure patient.

To find out what causes high blood pressure and what can be done to treat it, send for a copy of "Controlling Your Blood Pressure (Hypertension)" by Dr. Thosteson. Write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: When a person sins, which part of him commits the sin — the body or the soul? When Adam was warned of the consequences of sinning, he was told that he would die; there was no distinction made between body and soul. When the thief who died beside Jesus was told he would go to paradise, again no distinction was made between the body and soul. Please explain this. — L.A.

DEAR L.A.: The body is quite incapable of doing anything, either good or evil, on its own. It is only when a body is filled with a living soul that it becomes alive. We see a body moving and acting, but it is really the soul within the body that is doing the work. The body is the house in which the soul lives while it is on earth, and when the soul's life on earth is finished, it leaves the body and the body dies.

It is therefore the soul that sins: "Behold, all souls are mine; as the soul of the father, so also the soul of the son is mine: the soul that sinneth, it shall die" (Ezekiel 18:4).

The real "you" is your soul, not your body. When Christ told the thief: "Today shalt thou be with me in paradise" (Luke 23:43), he was referring to the man's spiritually alive soul.

Man is more than just body and soul — he is also spirit. Born spiritually dead because of sin, everyone needs a spiritual rebirth. The Holy Spirit coming into our lives revives our dead spirits and we then become truly spiritual beings, able to live forever in a spiritual realm.

"If Christ be in you, the body is dead because of sin; but the Spirit is life because of righteousness" (Romans 8:10).

Just before the two conventions there was a saying about two men. "One changed parties and wished he hadn't and the other one didn't change and wished he had." There was no doubt as to whom they were referring — Big John was one!

Now, I want to say one thing about the freedom of speech and the freedom of the press. These two "rights" belong to all, however, it gets far out of line when one candidate can request all the free time he wants. . . . He was appointed to the office he holds as someone had to replace "Spiro" . . . That's the only way he got in as the "President" knew he was to resign. He knew he was going to a year before he did and would still stand and tell the American people "I am not going to resign, I am going to finish the job I started" — (he got stopped), I am no liar, I am no cheat, I am no crook, I have done nothing" . . . he omitted one thing that he should have done — burn the tapes.

As to the letter last Thursday, it really is a shame that some people cannot read a daily newspaper and accept the facts or at least give the other person his own right to say what he thinks. If you will look on the inside of each paper (Big Spring Herald) you will see the words "I may disagree with your opinion, but I will defend until my dying day your right to say it."

We have a newspaper just to the east of us, and on every issue (twice daily) under the name of the paper are these words: "Without offense to friend or foe, we print the news of the world exactly as it goes." If some of you are getting "too hot" over the upcoming election then as Harry Truman said "get out of the kitchen."

Now, I would really like to take a swing at some of the letters in the recent papers, but I will let the voters do that, however, if any others are written please take into consideration that every person has the same right to his or her belief that you do, and be sure that you have the facts when quoting one of the candidates.

Several "misquotations" have been printed and may cause others to think erroneous statements are, in fact, the truth. Some things said can never be corrected and that is what many people are trying to do, distort facts.

Back to the newspaper "slap" . . . we have three radio stations and one of them is so biased in its opinion it comes right through the sound system; but you know what — we can just turn the dial if we do not want to listen.

Thank you Mr. Editor and also the newspaper for Marj Carpenter, she is one more "great lady" and really covers the territory.

If you took the time to read the Friday "mailbag" . . . please read the article above it by Evans-Novak . . . That will be the best eye opener you have read in recent months. One of the "Jack Anderson" reports. He is one of the great reporters and we thank the Herald for these reports on the entire page of the Herald.

One thing I particularly wanted to mention — I imagine there are many wives in America that did not know that their husband could eat out at lunch and only have $5. . . . (That is unless they eat cottage cheese and grapefruit juice.) I don't think you do that in these days. Think about it, but above all read Jack Anderson and Evans-Novak reports . . . I dare say they are certainly up on the latest "correct" statements.

Worried about U.S.

Around The Rim

Marj Carpenter

It's been several months since I've been able to comment in this corner since I am writing a daily column, Ridin' Fence.

However, I was invited to write a rim on this occasion. I'd love to tell you I was going to write one of my humorous ones. But the subject I've been assigned is not humorous to me.

It's the Presidential race. And so much always hinges on the Presidential race that it really gets a little bit frightening.

WE'VE ALL watched the debates and heard the news media and the general public hassle over who won. We've all heard the platforms washed, wrung out and hung up to dry.

We've heard the candidates tell us what they're going to do for us. And we've watched those beautifully put together national advertisements that tell us that President Ford is going to restore pride in the country and that Jimmy Carter always had to work hard. Then his mama adds lovingly that she never spanked his little bottom.

That's all well and good. But to me, the major issues get down to a few frightening items.

The major issues, in my opinion, are free enterprise, a hope for something closer to a balanced budget and a strong defense. It is for these reasons that I am for Gerald Ford.

I was raised in Texas just like you were, where we've always been Democrats. But the parties have changed. And the one issue that stands out is that we are going to spend ourselves out of existence.

We can't keep being "for" more and more programs to give everything to everybody and survive. New York City has proved this. England has proved this. Socialized medicine has helped take England down the long road toward disaster and we have watched them go.

APPARENTLY, we have learned nothing from them if we are going to endorse a candidate who is promising national health care for everybody. Come on. Most West Texans are pretty smart. They've already seen that national food stamps for the poor and national unemployment insurance for the nonworkers are not always the answer. And we know how these programs sometimes end up.

At the same time, there seems to be a constant leaning toward soak the rich — and now, even the middle class, and let the poor have a free ride. Abraham Lincoln said "You can't help the poor by destroying the rich."

Intelligent people realize that for the poor to have jobs, there must be companies for them to work for. . . . If you destroy big business and the free enterprise system, we're all going to go down together.

My salary would put me down in lower middle class and sometimes below a poverty level line drawn in Washington. But I know, in my heart, that there has to be a business for me to work for so that I can survive. If my bosses are taxed out of existence or their business profit is gone, we'd all be gone.

To me it's a matter of business. Not emotion. I worry about the fact that every war in this century started during a Democratic administration. I worry about the fact that it's popular among the Democrats to hop on the oil companies when we need oil and gas to survive.

I WORRY ABOUT the leanings toward stronger gun laws that will take guns away from honest folks. I worry about the fact that our laws for criminals appear to be too lax. Everybody that knows me knows that I don't care a hoot about women's lib.

But most of all, I worry about the simple dollars and cents that are going to mean whether America survives. You can't go down town and buy things on credit for 20 years and never pay your bills and make it. Neither can America.

I also firmly believe that the attempt at a more balanced budget must be made without reducing our strength as a world power. I think funds for social action programs need to be cut before funds for national defense. I think President Ford is the more likely to help keep our defense strong, help us keep the Panama Canal and keep whatever is needed defensively both at home and abroad.

And we need to elect the man that will be most likely to help us with these problems. It doesn't matter to me whether Nixon was pardoned for taping telephone calls or whether Jimmy Carter commented in "Playboy," or whether Gerald Ford said the Poles were free, or whether Carter rides on the coat tails of his religion, or whether Ford was elected or appointed, or whether Jimmy Carter had to work after school.

I don't care who has the biggest grin or can wave the flag the hardest. I just want some common sense back in the country's budget. And I think Gerald Ford is the most likely to put it there. And I think it's important. So I'm serious about it.

Big Spring Herald

Dear Editor:

Many times I have wanted to write to the editor a letter on different issues and never did feel "real" compelled to do so.

However, as is written, "there is a time for all things" so now I will add a note to several other letters the past few weeks.

First of all, I thank God for a publisher and an editor of a newspaper who is not afraid of his job to print the truth and what the people have a right to know and read. I commend both our publisher and editor.

I particularly liked the "Hearts and Flowers" column about two months ago on his remarks of John Connally. Many of you may not remember (or don't want to acknowledge) that Mr. Big John ran for Governor of Texas as a Democrat . . . He went all over the state "blowing" about his opponent, Jack Cox, of Breckenridge, a Democrat turned Republican. Big John's remarks were something like this: "I am a Democrat and I will always be a Democrat — I worked my way through college as a Democrat, I was elected president of the U of Texas student body as a Democrat and I will always be a Democrat."

This was in 1962 — when there was still smell in the air over the Nixon candidacy for President and some one wrote this quip and it still stinks:

"A buzzard in a nasty bird, a skunk is a stinking cat; but what makes me hold my nose, is a NIXON-(Connally) Democrat."

Just before the two conventions there was a saying about two men. "One changed parties and wished he hadn't and the other one didn't change and wished he had." There was no doubt as to whom they were referring — Big John was one!

Now, I want to say one thing about the freedom of speech and the freedom of the press. These two "rights" belong to all, however, it gets far out of line when one candidate can request all the free time he wants. . . . Reporter's accused killer goes on trial

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Amid reports of security problems, the man charged with killing investigative reporter Don Bolles appeared at the opening of his trial wearing a bulletproof vest.

During a hectic opening day in the trial of John Harvey Adamson, Superior Court Judge Frederick Heineman ordered press and public barred from the seventh floor of the courthouse here until 12 jurors and eight alternates are selected and sequestered.

The selection process was to continue today in the trial, which is expected to raise issues involving organized crime and corruption.

Bolles, a reporter for the Arizona Republic, was mortally injured June 2 when a bomb ripped through his car.

Witnesses have said that before Bolles died 11 days later, he said, "Find John Adamson."

On Monday, without saying why, Heineman dismissed the first set of 100 prospective jurors and moved the trial to a smaller courtroom.

"Ladies and gentlemen, we've had a misunderstanding," he told them. Later, outside court, he would not say what had prompted his unusual move.

However, Maricopa County Atty. Donald Harris said he understood that "the judge had been informed that security was not good at the courtroom and the sheriff's department was concerned."

There was speculation that Adamson, 32, had been threatened. He wore the bulletproof vest and was surrounded by armed deputies as he was brought from the jail to the courtroom.

A second group of potential jurors was summoned, and at the end of a closed session, the judge told The Associated Press that he had excused five persons from among 87 prospects for hardship or other causes.

Some authorities have said that Bolles' death may have been the result of a conspiracy, with Adamson hired for the killing. Those suggestions prompted fears that others might want to do away with the lone defendant.

Adamson's court-appointed lawyers had sought to move the trial to another city, predicting that it would be difficult to find a jury unaffected by the extensive publicity surrounding the case.

Bolles, 47, specialized in exposing white-collar crime. His death inspired the formation of a team of investigative reporters from around the country to finish the story Bolles was working on when he died.

Parents tell story of mutilated infant

HOUSTON (AP) — Tiny Charles Scott is improving, his parents say, and they are confident he will pull through.

They weren't sure a week ago when the five-week-old boy was nearly chewed to death by a raccoon.

"Poor little guy," said his father, Elmo Scott. "He had to get 86 stitches in his face alone—I think that was the final number—and that doesn't include what they

(the doctors) did about his nose."

The infant was attacked in the bedroom of his grandmother's house last week while he slept.

He had improved to fair condition at a local hospital Monday.

Elmo and Evelyn Scott, the parents of two other children, said they agreed to talk about the incident in hopes of alerting others to the possible dangers of wild animals being kept as pets.

"No one should have to go through that," said Scott.

Scott said he was at his job with a private garbage pickup company Oct. 11 when his wife took Charles to visit her mother in north Houston.

Scott said the raccoon, a pet belonging to a neighbor, apparently got in the back door and went to the bedroom where the infant was sleeping.

He said his brother-in-law, Charles Mullenix, heard a "funny sound" and when he investigated he found the raccoon "all over" the baby.

Mullenix said he was bitten and scratched several times before he choked the animal to death.

Scott said the animal tore off the end of his son's nose, bit him all over the face, tore his lips and scratched him.

"We think his eyes will be okay," Scott said. "We're lucky there the doctors say he's improving faster than they expected."

The Scotts' alternate staying with Charles at the hospital or some other member of their families goes.

Although doctors at the hospital say the boy is improving they have not given a longrange prognosis for the infant.

Dr. R. D. Ward, rabies control director for the Harris County Health Department, said the raccoon did not have rabies.

He said 80 per cent of rabies found in the county are in wild animals such as raccoons, skunks and bats. This year, so far, his office has confirmed seven rabies cases.

'Equal, separate' for sexes?

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was 22 years ago that the Supreme Court rocked American society when it ruled that separate public schools for white and black children were unconstitutional because such schools were inherently unequal.

Now the court's nine justices, none of whom took part in the 1954 decision in Brown vs. Board of Education, have agreed to hear a case involving the issue of whether Philadelphia can maintain sexually segregated schools whose equality is being challenged.

Susan Lynn Vorchheimer, the outstanding student in her junior high school and an award winner in science, was 15 years old when she filed suit in 1974 claiming that the city's practice of maintaining two schools for academically gifted children was discriminatory.

She wanted to attend Central High School, an all-boys school since its founding in 1836. A federal judge agreed with her claim that Central High offered superior science facilities and a better reputation than Girls High, the city's other school for academically gifted students.

And he ruled that Miss Vorchheimer's exclusion was unconstitutional discrimination. His decision was overturned by the 3rd

U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which said Philadelphia had a right to maintain two one-sex schools if they were substantially equal.

Miss Vorchheimer appealed to the Supreme Court and argued that Girls High is inferior to Central. Miss Vorchheimer did not attend either school, but went instead to a neighborhood school. She is now a freshman at the University of Pennsylvania, but her suit, filed on behalf of all girls who would like to attend Central, remains alive.

The high court said Monday it will consider the case, which her attorneys say is a direct link to the historic Brown case. Arguments are set for early next year.

The justices declined Monday to take up another sex discrimination case. New Jersey school teacher Paula Grossman, who once was Paul Grossman, lost her bid to have the justices overrule a lower court decision that federal prohibitions against sex discrimination don't apply to transsexuals.

The Grossman woman was fired from her job in 1971 after 14 years of teaching as a man in Bernards Township, N.J.

In other cases Monday, the court:

—Refused to lift an order issued earlier this year by Justice William J. Brennan

Jr. banning enforcement of a Massachusetts law requiring women under 18 to obtain a court order or parental consent before having an abortion.

Kin of ousted judge on trial

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The brother of ousted Duval District Judge O. P. Carrillo goes on trial here today on a charge he used a truck-tractor belonging to the county for his personal benefit.

The Duval County Grand Jury indicted Ramiro Carrillo last February, alleging that while he served as county commissioner he used a 1964 trucktractor for personal business on July 21, 1974.

The technical name for the charge is official misconduct.

The case was moved from Duval to Hidalgo County on a change of venue, then to Austin on another change of venue.

District Judge Joe Evins of Brownsville will try the case in Austin's 53rd District Court.

Assisting in the prosecution will be Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerry Carruth.

Carrillo's brother, former judge of the 229th District Court, was impeached and convicted by the Texas Senate last January on charges he schemed to steal taxpayers' money through phony equipment rentals.

Local office staff lauded

Secretary of State Mark White stated recently that Howard County is one of several Texas counties showing an exceptionally low voter registration error rate.

White said Howard County's low error rate demonstrated the competence and dedication of the people in the county tax assessor-collector's office who are involved with voter registration.

The error rate associated with each county is a reflection of how accurate their data is concerning basic information such as name, permanent address, sex, effective date of registration, and certificate number.

White added that he believes Texas will have more registered voters for the November 2 General Election than at any time in history. Much credit for this, he said, is due to the dedicated efforts of local county tax assessor-collectors.

Farm Soybean prices higher

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices farmers receive for their soybeans this marketing season will average $1 to $2 above the $5-a-bushel average of the 1975-76 years, say Agriculture Department forecasters.

Farm prices rose from about $4.50 during the harvest a year ago to above $6 this summer and $6.65 a month ago. Prices have sagged recently as foreign buyers wait to assess the worldwide situation.

The Agriculture Department's Outlook and Situation Board said Monday that farmers will have to produce substantially more beans next year to avoid continued tight supplies of the crop — and the resulting high-protein feed supplements for livestock — through August 1978.

Bad weather and reduced acreage, because there seemed to be more money in corn and cotton, have meant a production of only 1.25 billion bushels of soybeans, down 18 per cent from 1975.

At the same time, the board said, demand is expected to reach 1.4 billion, so — with the 244 million on hand Sept. 1 from last year — only about 100 million will be left next summer.

Now the court's nine justices, none of whom took part in the 1954 decision in Brown vs. Board of Education, have agreed to hear a case involving the issue of whether Philadelphia can maintain sexually segregated schools whose equality is being challenged.

Susan Lynn Vorchheimer, the outstanding student in her junior high school and an award winner in science, was 15 years old when she filed suit in 1974 claiming that the city's practice of maintaining two schools for academically gifted children was discriminatory.

She wanted to attend Central High School, an all-boys school since its founding in 1836. A federal judge agreed with her claim that Central High offered superior science facilities and a better reputation than Girls High, the city's other school for academically gifted students.

And he ruled that Miss Vorchheimer's exclusion was unconstitutional discrimination. His decision was overturned by the 3rd

U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which said Philadelphia had a right to maintain two one-sex schools if they were substantially equal.

Miss Vorchheimer appealed to the Supreme Court and argued that Girls High is inferior to Central. Miss Vorchheimer did not attend either school, but went instead to a neighborhood school. She is now a freshman at the University of Pennsylvania, but her suit, filed on behalf of all girls who would like to attend Central, remains alive.

The high court said Monday it will consider the case, which her attorneys say is a direct link to the historic Brown case. Arguments are set for early next year.

The justices declined Monday to take up another sex discrimination case. New Jersey school teacher Paula Grossman, who once was Paul Grossman, lost her bid to have the justices overrule a lower court decision that federal prohibitions against sex discrimination don't apply to transsexuals.

The Grossman woman was fired from her job in 1971 after 14 years of teaching as a man in Bernards Township, N.J.

In other cases Monday, the court:

Weather Snow, sleet falls in Texas panhandle

By the Associated Press

Snow blanketed portions of the north central states this morning. A weather system in the Midwest produced light snow from the upper Mississippi valley into Missouri.

Most of the snow melted upon contact with the ground. But a trace or more of snow cover has been reported from South Dakota through southern Minnesota, Wisconsin and upper Michigan.

Travelers advisories were in effect this morning for portions of eastern South Dakota, southern Minnesota, Wisconsin, upper Michigan, northern lower Michigan, northeastern Iowa and extreme northwestern Illinois.

Readings in the 40s were found from the middle and lower Mississippi valley into the southeastern states except Florida.

WEST TEXAS: Freeze warning for Panhandle and South Plains tonight. Decreasing cloudiness most sections today becoming clear tonight and Wednesday. Widely scattered showers southeast today. Colder tonight. Warmer Wednesday. Highs today 45 to 75. Lows tonight 25 to 43. Highs Wednesday lower 60s north to lower 70s south.

EXTENDED FORECAST

WEST TEXAS: Much below normal temperatures Thursday and Friday, warming trend Saturday. Threat of precipitation Panhandle Thursday and across West Texas Friday, dry Saturday. Highs Thursday and Friday 50s. Panhandle and South Plains to 70s extreme south and west. Highs Saturday mostly 60s and 70s to 80s Big Bend. Lows mostly 30s and 40s with below freezing temperatures indicated for the mountains, Panhandle and portions of the South Plains Friday and Saturday.

A stockmen's advisory was issued for extreme northern Missouri.

Showers and thundershowers occurred from western Texas through Oklahoma. Snow fell across the Texas panhandle.

Temperatures cooled into the 20s under clear skies through the northern Atlantic coast states.

Unseasonably cold temperatures were found also from the Rocky mountains eastward, except in southern Texas and Florida. Temperatures ranged from the 20s through the northern Rockies and mid Atlantic coast states to the 30s through the northern plains and upper Mississippi valley.

Readings in the 40s were found from the middle and lower Mississippi valley into the southeastern states except Florida.

Shaw heads demo group

The State Texans in Agriculture for Carter Committee has announced that Larry Shaw of Knott will head a special Howard County organization to demonstrate strong agricultural and agribusiness support for Jimmy Carter's Presidential campaign.

Walter Richter of Austin, co-chairman of the Carter agricultural group, said "We are pleased to have Shaw to join our governor and other top state officials who have come out strongly for the Carter ticket which offers real hope for a change for our farmers and rural Texans."

Declaring that Carter is the first genuine farmer to run for President since Thomas Jefferson, Richter said "Jimmy Carter knows what it's like to make a living in the country. He will do what is right to keep our agriculture and our rural communities strong."

He said Governor Dolph Briscoe, Lt. Governor Bill Hobby, House Speaker Bill Clayton, Agriculture Commissioner John White, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong and Attorney General John Hill are all rural land owners who recognize the knowledge and new leadership Jimmy Carter will offer to agriculture and the farmers and ranchers of the state and nation.

Richter said "Shaw is a proud addition to our Texans in Agriculture organization. With leaders like Shaw we will have a strong margin of victory in our rural areas. That means we will carry Texas for Jimmy Carter."

JPs gather Thursday

The 17th annual convention of the West Texas Justice of the Peace Association begins Thursday with registration at the Ramada Inn. Hosted by Big Spring J.P.'s Gus Ochotrenaga and Bobby West, the convention will run through Saturday evening.

Friday the convention will be welcomed by Judge Bill Tune at 1 p.m. and addressed by State Representative Mike Ezzell at 2 p.m. and Guilford L. Jones at 4 p.m. among others. A dinner and dance is planned for the evening at the Webb Officer's Club.

Saturday featured speakers will include at 11 a.m. Tom Bullington, Assistant Attorney General, and at 3:30 Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Judge. The final speaker of the evening has yet to be announced.

Other featured speakers are Judge Frank Torres, Del Rio; Judge Ron Champion, San Marcus; Judge Wayne Lecroy, Lubbock; Judge Albert Lee, Humble; Judge Manuel Valles, Odessa; and Judge A.O. Fields, Crockett County, president of the Association.

The convention will close with a dance at the Dora Roberts Center Saturday night.

CRMWD income, costs ahead of last year

Revenues and expenditures continued to run ahead of last year through September, according to the monthly statement of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

September billings, however, are based on August deliveries and thus do not reflect sharp drops in consumption during a cool, wet September.

For the first three-quarters of this year, receipts have amounted to $4,897,543, or $822,949 over the corresponding period a year ago. The September revenues were $632,824, up $132,215 from last year.

Water sales to the cities through nine months stood at $3,078,267, to the oil companies $1,748,094, for recreation $63,042 and miscellaneous $8,138. Last year through September these were $2,476,574 from the cities, $1,534,614 from oil companies, $56,734 from recreational facilities, and $6,670 miscellaneous.

Operating expenditures for the three-quarter mark amounted to $1,771,114, up $368,283 for the same period of 1975. Of this $254,070 was in increased energy costs.

The excess of revenues over operating expenditures was $3,126,429 for the nine months, up $464,679, occasioned by rate increases and higher deliveries in order to meet sharply increased debt service requirements which will hold at the present peak for about another five years.

Davis sent back to prison

DALLAS (AP) — Sterling Blake Davis, who was convicted of setting up a raid on a Mexican prison that freed his son and at least a dozen other Americans, has been ordered back to prison for violating his parole from another conviction.

Davis must serve the remaining four years and 10 months of a five-year sentence on a fraud conviction, U.S. District Court Judge Sarah Hughes ordered Monday. He was found guilty of fraud in 1974 in connection with a scheme to sell frog farm distributorships, but was paroled after two months due to illness.

Judge Hughes said Davis had "failed to make sufficient effort" to pay $16,000 in restitution money and a $10,000 fine.

She also said he had violated his probation by traveling to Piedras Negras, Mexico in connection with the jail raid.

Davis has admitted paying $5,000 to help free his son, Sterling Davis Jr., from the Piedras Negras jail across the Rio Grande from Eagle Pass, Tex.

Judge Hughes noted in her ruling that Davis was recently convicted of conspiracy in connection with the jailbreak.

Davis and William McCoy Hill, who was charged with conspiracy and illegally transporting a weapon from Mexico, were convicted in Del Rio earlier this month.

Don Fielden, who claims he organized the raid, pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy and one count of illegally transporting a weapon.

Davis told the judge he paid only $400 in restitution, before the raid because he was ill but since then he has made arrangements to pay $7,000.

He was ordered to report to the U.S. marshal's office Oct. 26 to go back to prison.

Two charged with capital murders

HOUSTON (AP) — Two brothers have been charged with two counts of capital murder and attempted capital murder in the robbery of a pizza parlor in which two men were killed and another wounded.

James Demouchette, 21, and Christopher Demouchette, 18, were charged Monday night.

Police said two men entered the restaurant early Monday and one of them started firing a pistol when he was refused a beer.

The dead were identified as Scott K. Sorrell, 19, an assistant manager, and a friend, Robert C. White, 20.

Jeff Hambrick, 18, manager, was critically wounded and said he escaped possible death by playing dead while the two men ransacked the place.

'Bond jumper' ordered back to Arizona

HOUSTON (AP) — A U.S. magistrate has ordered that a woman accused of jumping bond and probation revocation in Arizona be returned to that state.

U.S. Magistrate Norman W. Black declined to set a bond Monday for Patricia Gail Stevens Boake, 41, of Tucson, Ariz. He said he had no choice but to order her returned to Tucson.

Mrs. Boake was arrested by the FBI here last Wednesday.

She testified her probation was revoked in 1972 after she failed to testify the way U.S. officials wanted her to in an Arizona federal extortion trial. She said the trial involved two persons who had previously threatened the life of her youngest child because her divorced husband owed them money.

She testified she had had four different husbands, two of whom died and two who were divorced from her.

Black cited that testimony had shown that she had fled from the United States to Canada for four years and left there to come to Houston only after she was deported following the death of her Canadian husband.

Homemakers

hold meet

The Creative Homemakers, a Home Demonstration Club created for young women, met at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 12 in the Blue Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Co.

Mrs. Katherine Berry, meat specialist associated with Furr's and privately owned supermarkets, and her assistant Mrs. Betty Brown presented the program, "How Wise Consumers Choose and Prepare Proven Beef." She explained that frozen beef must be pen-frozen 120 days and not be older than 18 months. When it has met these requirements it is taken for slaughter, where a mixture of juices from the papaya and pineapple plants are injected into the veins of the animal. This makes the meat very tender and a label of cooking instructions for either dry or moist heat is attached to each package.

Mrs. Berry told the group that 13rd of each food dollar is spent for meat. Forty-nine per cent of food cost is for convenience, pre-cutting, slicing, and trimming. Cereal and sandwich meat are the most expensive food items in the market, yet furnish the least nutrition. Therefore, the wise consumer will never look at the price per pound of meat but rather at the total cost, considering meat versus waste obtained.

If a steak is one-fourth inch thick it should be pan broiled, said Mrs. Berry. To pan broil use a dry pan with no oil, put it on the burner turn heat to high and add steak that has been scored around the edges. Never salt meat until it has been seared on both sides to hold in natural juices while cooking. Salt draws juices and makes meat very palatable.

Next the women explained how to prepare kabobs and garnish them on a platter. She asked, "How many of you would admit to being Platter Ploppers? Always use odd numbers when garnishing to make the dish served more interesting to the eye. She commented, "Remember we eat with our eyes." Apply lemon extract to a cotton ball, hold with tongs, and light with match to make kabobs look as if they are flaming.

Mrs. James D. Johnston, president, thanked the guest speaker and her assistant for the program. She welcomed members present and new members. Mrs. Jackie Zimmerman, Mrs. Carolyn Reed reported on the bake sale held on Oct. 9. A project for the year was decided upon. The group will make handicrafts for the bazaar of the Volunteer Services at the Big Spring State Hospital. Handicrafts are to be turned in by Nov. 1. Mrs. Jonnie Beasley and Mrs. Jackie Zimmerman were the winners of Mrs. Berry's Tellation of birth signs. They both won porterhouse steaks.

Mrs. Zimmerman was elected new secretary-reporter due to resignation of Mrs. Peggy Soldan.

The next meeting will be held on Nov. 16 with the Home Economist of the Gas Company presenting a program on breads and crafts, in the Blue Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Co. For information call Home Extension Office at 7-8469.

Newcomers slate date

The Newcomer's Handicraft Club will meet at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Carol Simmons, 2612 Larry.

Mrs. Frances Brown will instruct members and guests on making corn husk wreaths. Members are asked to bring their gifts to be given to the State Hospital.

The club met Oct. 6, in the Brown home, 48A Chanute. A liquid embroidery demonstration was presented by Mrs. Opal Jones. Guests attending were Mrs. Beth Freshour and Mrs. Carol Wise.

Newcomers seeking more information on the club can contact Mrs. Estalla De La Pas or Mrs. Simmons.

Mrs. John Knox presided over the business meeting.

Wardrobe given new life

By JANET SARGENT
Asst. County Extension Agent

Before discarding those outdated or outgrown garments consider how they can be given new life with a snip here or a stitch there. Most of the garments in the closet have possibilities for recycling.

With the present cost of clothes, it is not only impossible but unwise to buy a new wardrobe with every change in fashion. Since today's fabrics last so long, use creativity to convert yesterday's garments into today's fashions.

Look through the fashion magazines, particularly the pattern ones, for ideas. Try to rejuvenate the garment without completely ripping it apart and remaking the piece.

Since longer lengths are fashionable, hemlines present a problem. A hem may be lengthened by inserting a contrasting fabric band above the hemline.

A band, ruffle, or cuff may be added to a hemline. Let down a hem and re-hem it or face it. Hemlines that have faded or show can be covered by braid or trim. One garment can even change into another by changing the hemline, such as: shortening long pants to shorts, shortening dresses to blouses, shortening light-weight coats to jackets, or shortening tunics to vests.

When making hemline changes, think about the effect these changes would have on the total garment. It should look balanced and in proportion.

Some of the clothes you have at home have good fabric in them, but they can't be worn for some reason. If these garments can't be made wearable by making small changes maybe something else can be made from them.

The first thing to do is look for stains, tears or worn parts of the garment. These damaged parts shouldn't be used in the new garment. To make a new item from an old one, choose the pattern carefully. All the pattern pieces to be used must fit on the pieces of the old garment. The pieces should follow the fabric grainline. Careful planning will help make your project a success.

Check to see if parts of a garment can be reused such as the closing (buttons and button holes or zipper), the hem or sleeves. If so, it will save time. To decide, lay the garment flat and check pattern pieces against these places to see if they match.

Recycling can be economical and creative. For additional information and materials on recycling clothing, contact the Howard County Extension Office, phone number 267-8469.

Members tour house

Members of the 1930 Hyperion Club toured the Pottou House as part of their program when they held a luncheon meeting Saturday in the ranch home of Mrs. Winnie Patterson.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Frankie Powell and Mrs. Ova Mae Edwards. The program included a discussion of early homes in Howard County by Mrs. Wallace Hunter. She also discussed other historical medallions.

The luncheon was catered by Lou Allen of Sweetwater and homegrown sunflowers were used in the decorations.

Guests included members of the club, Mrs. Edith Gressett brought her daughter and daughters-in-law as special guests.

Genealogical society

The Genealogical Society of Big Spring met Thursday evening at the Howard County Library. Twelve members were present.

Mrs. Margaret Barnett presided over the business meeting. The group discussed buying books for the Genealogical Library from proceeds received from a garage sale in August.

"Louisiana Soldiers And The War Of 1812" by Marion J. B. Pierson was given to the Library as a Memorial to George Zachariah by Mrs. Sue Ann Damron.

The next meeting will be 7:15 p.m., Nov. 11 in the Howard County Library Conference Room.

Three time loser ready for fourth

DEAR ABBY: TIRED OF ACTING wrote: "After eight years of marriage, I've fallen out of love with my husband. He's generous, a wonderful father and easy to live with. I have a car of my own, don't have to work, and I know he loves me, but I'm sick to death of faking it in the bedroom."

Well, Abby, I've been married and divorced three times and all three husbands were great in the bedroom. But the first was allergic to work, the second chased women and the third was the world's worst father.

I've been alone for five years and I'm soured on men, but if TIRED OF ACTING decides to dump her husband, I'll be waiting in the wings for a man with his credentials. Sex isn't everything.

ALONE

DEAR ALONE: Those wings must be pretty crowded, judging from the number of letters I've received from women who'd like to be on that waiting list. Which only goes to reaffirm that one woman's leftovers is another woman's banquet.

DEAR ABBY: Congratulations to SICK OF TIPPING! He's the first person who's made me furious enough to actually write a Dear Abby letter.

My husband supervises the dining room of a large hotel. He started as a busboy and worked his way up. We have four children who have depended on tips for the roof over their heads for quite a while.

Abby, the responsibilities of a waiter are unbelievable. It's the waiter who makes sure that four or five tables are served the drinks they ordered, and that six different dinners (which all require different cooking times) arrive at the table at the same time, and all hot. He brings water, coffee, keeps the ash trays clean and clears the table before being asked. Many waiters work for eight hours consecutively without sitting down once!

I know everyone who works with my husband, and they earn every tip they get.

SICK OF TIPPING should look around and see how many services a waiter performs. He'll be in for a big surprise.

WASHINGTONIAN

DEAR WASH: A waiter who performs the services you describe has certainly earned a generous tip. But what about the waiter who's incompetent, indifferent or surly? Does such a waiter "earn every tip he for shel gets"? If tips were given for performance instead of automatically, some waiters would be "in for a big surprise."

DEAR ABBY: Begging to disagree with you, "regrets only" on an invitation DOES NOT simplify matters. What about those persons who are out of town and do not receive the invitation? How could THEY attend?

"Acceptances only" is much more practical. That way the hostess knows definitely who is coming.

The best idea of all is a firm "Please reply," followed by a phone call should the hostess receive no response.

Oasis Garden Club meets in Lawrence home recently

The Oasis Garden Club met in the home of Mrs. C. B. Lawrence with Mrs. Ruby Simpson as co-hostess.

The program on "Organic Gardening" was presented by J. Johansen. He explained how to make compost using bonemeal to help it decompose faster. There are no fertilizers, pesticides or herbicides used in organic gardening, Johansen said.

Mrs. J. D. Leonard conducted the business meeting, calling attention to the Southern Zone meeting to be held in Snyder on Nov. 9.

Mrs. Fred Eaker was welcomed as a new member. On Oct. 21, the exceptional children at Moss Elementary will plant bulbs with Mrs. D. Gordon, Mrs. Bill Conger and Mrs. Ruby Simpson assisting.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Boone Horne on Nov. 10 at 9:00 a.m.

Tech no. 8 College boys

By the Associated Press
Michigan, Pitt, Nebraska and UCLA held onto the first four spots in The Associated Press college football poll today while two-time defending champion Oklahoma moved into fifth place and four schools cracked the ratings for the first time this season.

The four newcomers are No. 16 Iowa State, No. 19 South Carolina and East Carolina and Mississippi State, tied for 20th. Michigan remained atop the ratings for the sixth week in a row. The Wolverines trounced Northwestern 38-7 for their sixth consecutive triumph and received 58 first-place ballots and 1,232 of a possible 1,240 points from a nationwide panel of 62 sports writers and broadcasters.

The other four first-place votes went to Pitt, which defeated Miami, Fla. 36-19 without its top two quarterbacks. The Panthers received 1,088 points in holding onto second place for the fourth week in a row. Last week, Michigan led Pitt 1,194-1,057 with 60 voters participating.

Nebraska remained third with 930 points by walloping Kansas State 51-0 while UCLA clobbered Washington State 62-3 and stayed in fourth place with 896 points.

Oklahoma moved up from sixth to fifth with 718 points by defeating Kansas 28-10, dropping the Jayhawks from 15th place out of the rankings for the first time this season.

Meanwhile, Maryland slipped from fifth to sixth with 554 points after a hard-fought 17-15 victory over Wake Forest.

Rounding out the Top Ten are Southern California, Texas Tech, Ohio State and Georgia.

Southern Cal, idle last weekend, climbed from eighth to seventh while Texas Tech jumped from 10th to eighth by battering Rice 37-13. Ohio State, a 30-20 victor over Wisconsin, remained in ninth place while Georgia moved up from 11th to 10th with a 45-0 rout of Vanderbilt.

Missouri fell from seventh to 17th via a 21-17 loss to Iowa State, which also moved the Cyclones into the Top Twenty for the first time in several years.

The Second Ten consists of Florida, Notre Dame, Texas, Houston, Arkansas, Iowa State, Missouri, Alabama and South Carolina, with East Carolina and Mississippi State sharing the 20th position.

Last week's Second Ten was Texas Tech, Georgia, Florida, Texas, Notre Dame, Kansas, Louisiana State and Mississippi tied for 16th, followed by Arkansas, Houston and Alabama.

LSU lost to Kentucky 21-7 and Ole Miss was beaten by South Carolina 10-7. East Carolina, 6-0, cracked the Top Twenty with a 17-3 triumph over VMI while Mississippi State, 5-1, outlasted Memphis State 42-33.

The Top Twenty teams in the Associated Press college football poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points. Points based on 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1.

Goliad and Runnels Local volleyball

The two local junior highs had mixed results Monday night in volleyball action.

"This is the third time we've lost to them this year," said Runnels' Coach Jane Upton about her charges defeat at the hands of Lamesa.

The Red and White seventh grade squad went down 4-15 and 6-15, but Christi Clanton and Kayma Minchew turned in spirited efforts.

The 8th graders also fell hard to a tough Lamesa squad, 4-15 and 11-15. Hollie Peurifoy was the high-point server for the Yearlettes, and Debra Abreo fought hard at the net. Brenda Trevino also put in a pugnacious game.

The two Goliad teams fared better against a pair of Andrews' teams. The 8th graders won 15-12 and 15-7, as Jackie Roach performed excellently as high-point server.

"The team showed much improvement and teamwork," said Coach Jeannie Hester of her charges.

Other members of the 8th grade Mavericks are Laura Pekar, Teresa Beecham, Peggy Cook, Esther Rodriguez and Laura Moore.

The seventh graders started slowly but finished like a whirling dervish, beating their opposition 13-15, 15-5 and 15-2.

The budding 7th graders also put in a tremendous team effort, highlighted by the efforts of high-point server Dawn Estes with 13 points, Pam Caudill with 10 and Tracy Snell with eight.

These four local teams see action next Monday at the Runnels' gym in an intra-city battle. It should be exciting.

counter in Odessa that the second-ranked team in the state won 53-0. John Birdwell (56), Robert Wrinkle (73) and Ernie Nichols (62) come up to make sure of the stop.

Must win third game tonight Gotham City 9 behind

NEW YORK (AP) — Cincinnati Reds manager Sparky Anderson isn't about to write off the New York Yankees and Yankee manager Billy Martin thinks he's wise not to do so.

"I said before the World Series began that I thought it would go seven games," Anderson said before the Series resumed tonight with Game Three. "I think I'll stick with that."

"The Yanks are an excellent club. They have to be to be here in the Series. They've won three or four in a row before and they can always do it again," Anderson said.

The Yanks will have to do just that to get back into this Series. They lost the first two games in Cincinnati, 5-1 and 4-3. Only six times in 73 previous World Series has a team been down 2-0 and come back to win the championship. And two of those teams were Yankee teams, in 1956 against the Brooklyn Dodgers and two years later against the Milwaukee Braves.

"I think Sparky's right," Martin said of Anderson's conservative stance. "I think we have the edge at home because we're more used to the natural grass. And we're very easily capable of turning this thing around in a hurry."

"I'm not all that impressed with their pitching," Martin continued. "But I am impressed with the rest of their club. Still, I can't call them awesome the way some people have. The Yankee clubs that I played on, when we won five World Series in a row, that's awesome."

Martin sends 31-year-old right-hander Dock Ellis to the mound tonight in hopes of turning things around. Ellis turned himself around this year after coming to New York as a virtual throw-in in a trade with the Pittsburgh Pirates. After several stormy and ineffective seasons, he posted a 17-8 record this year.

"I hate cold weather. I don't like pitching in it. I don't think anyone likes playing in it," Ellis said, viewing the possibility of playing in sub-freezing temperatures in Yankee Stadium.

Ellis said he was in no way nervous about being the man on the spot. "It's just another game to me," he said. "You've got to take each game as it comes. You can't get all worked up over one game, no matter how important it may seem. You can only do what you are capable of doing. It's the same way all over, starting with Little League."

Going against Ellis will be rookie Pat Zachry, a 24-year-old right-hander who was 14-7 this year.

Zachry finds himself in an unusual position, playing in a ball park he always wanted to play in—but in the wrong uniform.

"The Yanks were always my favorite team from the time I was growing up," he said. "When I was a kid, I'd go in the back yard with a plastic ball and bat and make believe I was playing for the Yankees. And we won every game 15-0."

War in 4A Schoolboys

By the Associated Press
ReShuffling in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll would be the quietest of the season if it weren't for the war being waged for the No. 1 spot in Class 4A by Houston Kashmere, Odessa Permian and Longview.

Houston Kashmere retained to top run for another week by a slim 161-161 margin over Permian with Longview also starting to make a strong showing for top billing.

Meanwhile, Beaumont Hebert in 3A, Rockdale in 2A, Aledo in A and Gorman in B, had an easier time in keeping their No. 1 rankings this week.

Permian humbled Big Spring 54-0 and possibly most impressive of all, Longview manhandled No. 4 ranked Tyler 22-12 and sent Tyler plunging to 10th this week.

Other voter interest in 4A included McAllen, in 4A and San Antonio Churchill and Cypress-Fairbanks, eight each.

Longview Pine Tree, unbeaten in seven games, received 12 points in the 3A roster. Pine Tree will throw its high scoring offense (31.7 points per game) against No. 6 Jacksonville's rugged defense (21 points in six games) in an East Texas showdown this week.

Decalb with 16 points and Commerce with 12 narrowly missed the top 10 in 2A. Falls City, 15, points, Wellington, 10 and Brackettville, 9, were among the A also runs. Wilson polled 16 points followed by Ferson's 13 in Class B. Union Hill got one first place vote.

Here is The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll with first place votes in parentheses, season records and points.

THROUGH the fieldglasses
By Danny Reagan

Practice Monday was fairly brisk for the Steers, considering the injury and sickness situation. Both tight ends were out with the bug. Greg Moore has some sort of infection, and Ricky Cluck has the two-day illness that is going around.

Harold Sherman, a defensive end, who sees most of his action as a workhorse on specialty teams, has a wrenched knee and may not see action in the Midland Lee game this Friday night in Memorial Stadium.

Carl Gresham, offensive tackle, quit the squad Monday. "All in all though, we're in pretty good shape," said Head Coach Don Robbins.

One of my many "fans" left a poison pen letter blasting me for not putting the Friday night area scores in the paper Sunday. He pointed out the Cotton Center-Grady game as an example, and that he had checked the Abilene and San Angelo papers and couldn't find the score there either.

In my own defense I would like to say that there was a write up about every area game except the Grady one. I'm sure the person who wrote in was just interested in the football contest and didn't take time to look at the three sports pages, and just glanced at the scorecard and didn't see his score there and got all huffy.

Not only did I also check the Abilene and San Angelo papers but the Lubbock, Midland and Odessa papers as well. No one had the score or the write-up. I must have phoned Grady six times that Saturday trying to find out the score. No one answered. Sometimes everyone leaves Grady on Saturday.

Well I finally got in touch with Coach Gibson in Grady this morning. The final score was Cotton Center 40, Grady 0.

Sorry if my sports coverage didn't keep you and your (D-word) football contest happy, but that's the way it turns out sometimes.

Speaking of that (D-word) football contest, Bill W. Lewis won the top prize this week, with Ricky Flores and Pat Ball coming in second and third respectively. There's now, I'm glad that's over with.

If you'll notice the schoolboy poll on today's sports page, you'll see that Forsan didn't make the list again. However, they did garner 13 votes or some such nonsense.

Marj Carpenter, who covers the Forsan games first-hand, called the Associated Press Sports desk in Dallas Saturday morning to voice her displeasure with the fact that a team of that caliber is being completely ignored.

They told her some rig-a-moro that boiled down to the fact that pollsters in the big cities have the voice in the matter.

"Well, if they go through the season undefeated, untied and unscored upon, and win the state championship, you think you'll recognize them then?" said the quite vocal Carpenter right before she slammed the phone down on that big city joker.

In YMCA Gra-Y football action last weekend, The Bobcats Beat the Steelers 28-0, and in doing so broke the Steelers three-game winning streak. Touchdown runs were made by Jay Pirkle, Charlie Reagan, and Billy Paul. Mike Dodd also caught a TD pass, and the extra point was scored by Charlie Reagan.

Gary Little also got a safety in that game. The Oilers defeated the Dolphins 50-0 in another shut-out. Scotty Frasier made one safety and three TD's in the winning effort, and James Hodges also cornered a dolphin for a safety.

Mike Hecker made five extra point conversions, and Jerry Peacock, on the first time he carried the ball, made a touchdown. Scotty Chapman and Terry Bordofsky also had TD's.

In the third game, the Bears beat the Cowboys 32-6. In that game, Kyle Robbins made three TD's and one two-point PAT. Gregg Miller and Tommy Gartman made one touchdown each. Mike Foster made the Cowboys' only score.

Quote for the day: "I can't watch, I can't watch!" — "Peary" Reagan, while hiding her eyes during the last three plays of the Dallas Cowboy defeat Sunday.

Ridin' fence

Still they keep comin'

with Marj Carpenter

Several months ago, I wrote a story about one of the Houstons in Stanton that was married to a Cox. And I commented that the Glasscock County Cox's have more folks around West Texas than the Cox's army.

Well, the other day, when I was over at the George Mahon reception, I ran into another individual who is kin to both families. I'm talking about Mrs. Bob (JoJon Hall) Cox.

They told JoJon that if she thought she had a lot of kinfolks with the Houstons on her mother's side of the family, just wait until she married into the Cox clan.

JoJon's mother is Mrs. Morgan Hall. Mrs. Hall has the one daughter, and one son, Jerry Hall.

The history of the family is interesting. Mrs. Hall was the daughter of Dick Houston. And she sorted out all the Houstons for me.

When the A. L. Houstons moved to Glasscock County in 1885, they came with three children, Viola (Harding), Dick Houston and S. C. (Think) Houston, who was later the first mayor of Stanton.

After they arrived in Glasscock County, they had more children, including W. D. (Claude) Houston, Chuck Houston, Alonzo (Toad) Houston and Ivy (Spruce).

A. L. Houston was a rancher, as were all of his sons. Dick Houston ended up ranching over in Midland County. One daughter, Viola married a rancher and the other, Ivy, married a school teacher.

Anyway, all of those Houston children are now deceased. But they left a bunch of descendants around.

And then one of Road's sons married a Cox and one of Dick's granddaughters married a Cox and away we go back into Cox's army.

But to me, in this five generations who have lived in Martin and Glasscock County, there's a lot of history of the area. A. L. Houston came in as a rancher. His sons were all ranchers. You can trace on down to business or professional men such as the Teacher Spruce that Ivy married or the Morgan Hall (Hall Drug) that Dick's daughter married.

Then you get down to the grandchildren and you find such people as Jerry Hall — who a few years ago, along with his family, was named to the Outstanding Farm Family award.

It shows that most of the four or five generation families in the Martin-Glasscock area have hit the major industries. At first they were all either ranchers or cowpokes. Then some became businessmen and nowadays a lot of them are either both ranchers and farmers or simply farmers.

And that's the way it's gone in Martin County. If they hang around long enough, there's going to be some oilmen in the family, because there's starting to be more and more oil in those two counties.

But anyway, they came and they stayed. Cause they like it, by gosh. Or that's the feeling I got when I was out ridin' fence.

Rail merger completed

ST. LOUIS — Merger of the Texas and Pacific Railroad and the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad into the Missouri Pacific Railroad has been completed. The Interstate Commerce Commission approved the merger May 10. Accomplishment of the merger has been delayed by appeals, but was consummated under the ICC's original order when the Fifth Court of Appeals in New Orleans yesterday denied a request to stay the effectiveness of that order.

A spokesman for MoPac said that all three properties have been operating as a single system with coordination of facilities and services under common management for several years. The primary benefits to be realized will be corporate simplification, he said.

Merger of the three companies will be consummated as a statutory merger, with the Missouri Pacific acquiring all assets and assuming all liabilities of the T&P and C&EI.

The three railroads which will comprise the new Missouri Pacific operate over 12,000 miles of railroad in 12 states in the Midwest, South and Southwest, extending south from Chicago to the Gulf of Mexico and west from St. Louis and Memphis to Omaha, Pueblo, Colo., and El Paso, Texas.

Shareholders of the three railroads overwhelmingly approved merger in October, 1974. The merger plan provides that all outstanding shares of the T&P and C&EI will be exchanged for new shares of the Missouri Pacific at the ratio of 9.5 shares of MoPac Common stock for each share of T&P outstanding and 1.1 shares of MoPac Common stock for each share of C&EI outstanding. Involved in the transaction would be 972,772 shares of MoPac Common stock.

Host families being sought

The Swedish Central Committee for School Exchange, through its Texas representative, Mrs. Erwin Danielson of Dallas, is seeking host families for 250 Swedish, Norwegian and Danish high school age students during the 1977-78 school year.

The boys and girls, ages 16 and 17, will arrive in the United States in August 1977, Mrs. Danielson said. They will live with American families and attend local high schools, returning to their homes in late June 1978.

Host families will provide room and board. The students will have their own pocket money and medical insurance coverage. All the young people have been screened by high school principals in their homeland and are proficient in the English language.

The Swedish Central Committee also is looking for American students who would like to go to Sweden, either for the entire 1977-78 school year or for five weeks in the summer of 1977. They will reside with Swedish families during their stay.

The SCC student exchange program has operated under the Royal Board of Education in Sweden since 1938.

Anyone interested in participating in the program should call or write to Mrs. Erwin Danielson, 1936 Peavy Road, Dallas, Texas 75228 (phone 214-327-8480). Letters should contain the writer's phone number.

Black leaders ask for state, fed probe

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A group of prominent black leaders asked state and federal help today in solving what they said was the possible "political assassination" of Frank J. Robinson.

Robinson, 74, a retired teacher and prominent civil rights leader in East Texas, was killed last Wednesday by a blast from a sawed-off shotgun in his own garage at Palestine. An inquest verdict of homicide was returned.

Dr. John Warfield, University of Texas professor who is national secretary of the Black Political Assembly, said the killer apparently lay in wait in Robinson's office adjoining the garage. Two shots were fired.

"There had been no recent controversy or threat," Warfield told a news conference, "but the people there just feel he was far too aggressive. I guess he just wasn't getting old enough fast enough for the people in that area."

Warfield said the "black people there have little faith in the police department. . . there are not prone to provide justice for black people."

However, Rep. Paul Ragsdale, D-Dallas, said that Mrs. Robinson and other black leaders felt local officers, assisted by Texas Rangers, should be given more time to attempt to solve the crime.

"If the local officers don't come up with something the FBI may be called in on the basis of it being a civil rights violation," Ragsdale said.

"The people there are very much concerned that it is a possible political assassination."

Music special big success

The Country-Western Music Special presented at the Kentwood Older Adult Center Saturday night was another big success.

The Pete Jensen Band did a two-hour gig, performing a number of popular instrumental and vocal numbers by various members of the band. Over one hundred music fans attended the program and expressed their pleasure by requesting special numbers and responding with lusty applause.

Members of the Jensen band include Pete Jensen, piano; his wife Eula, saxophone; Mrs. Bob Stewart, bass guitar; Dale Merrick, violin; and his wife, Franke, guitar.

Roloff loses fight

Homes not exempt from law

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Evangelist Lester Roloff's south Texas homes for wayward children are not exempt from the state's police power, Dist. Judge Charles Mathews ruled Monday.

Roloff listened to Mathews' ruling with a thick Bible resting on the counsel table near his left hand.

Several of his followers had nodded their heads in agreement as Roloff's lawyers tried to block state regulation.

The issue, Mathews said, was one "never decided before in the state" and he was anxious to get it before the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals and the Texas Supreme Court.

"I don't think there is any dispute as to the religious teachings of Brother Roloff, and there is no dispute as to the sincerity or as to the good Brother Roloff has done and is doing," Mathews said.

The question, Mathews said, is "whether the state is able to regulate the homes as they relate to the health and welfare of the people in these homes. Being the gentleman he is, the first person on earth who would want to know the answer is Brother Roloff."

In granting the state's motion for a summary judgment, Mathews imposed the lowest possible penalty for Roloff to pay for allegedly violating the 1975 Child Care Licensing Act. The penalty is $150 a day—or $50 per home—from

Jan. 1 through June 3—for a total of $23,250. Mathews said the state should work it out so Roloff would not have to pay anything pending appeal of Mathews' ruling.

June 3 was chosen as the cutoff date because that was when a hearing began on Roloff allegedly violating a temporary order instructing him to abide by the act.

Roloff's lawyer, David Gibbs of Cleveland, Ohio, said Roloff's religious "convictions run headlong into the state standards."

Mathews said the case "is on its way up to the appellate courts, and that's where it should go."

Asst. Atty. Gen. Lynn Taylor said he was "not interested in the . . . destruction of the ministry of Brother Roloff," but "something should be done" to make him comply, for example, with state fire standards.

Roloff is president of the Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises, Inc., which runs the Rebekah Home for Girls in Corpus Christi, and the Anchor and Lighthouse homes for boys in Zapata and Port Isabel respectively.

"I hope you can work out something so Brother Roloff can keep the homes going," Mathews said.

Taylor said he would submit a proposed order by Friday.

"Our only purpose" in filing suit, Taylor said, "is the safety and welfare and protection of the children."

DPS organization called radical

AUSTIN (AP) — An organization of Texas Department of Public Safety officers — dubbed "radicals" by some DPS administrators — only wants "to make the department a better place to work in," its president says.

The Dallas Times Herald Monday quoted an anonymous spokesman for the 800-member DPS Officers Association as saying the department is plagued by low morale internal dissension and unprofessional working conditions.

"We're of the opinion that the DPS is falling apart and going downhill," said the anonymous spokesman for the officers association.

But DPS Director Wilson Speir said the department is one of the best state police agencies in the country and scoffed at the charges, attributing the complaints of low morale to "a few gripers."

The three-member state Public Safety Commission which oversees the DPS declines official recognition of the officers association. Some administrators say the organization is dominated by "radicals" and is a first step toward police unionism in Texas.

"That's not our purpose," association President Lee Johnson said of the unionism claim. "We're just trying to make the department a little better place to work in."

The state troopers' association was formed in May 1974 and has used the courts, legislative lobbying and a sometimes hard-hitting monthly tabloid to improve working conditions and air grievances against the DPS administration. The association represents about one-third of the 2,400-employee crime fighting agency.

The Times Herald said organization leaders accuse the department of low pay, unfair disciplinary measures, favoritism in promotions and recruiting of poorly qualified candidates.

"Morale is low, we're not adequately paid and we don't have anybody who will pay attention to our gripes," complained one veteran officer.

"Our commissioners have refused to cooperate with us," said Johnson, a 38-year-old Houston patrolman and 16-year DPS veteran. "I think at first there was a feeling that we're radical or trying to govern department policy."

"That's not our notion. We're not going to strike. The only thing we're trying to do is make our opinions known."

Gold discovery not lucky for fisherman

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Rafael Hurtado, an octopus fisherman, thought his troubles were over four months ago when he stumbled upon a Spanish treasure in shallow water off Mexico's Caribbean coast.

But the treasure of bars, bracelets and medallions of gold has led him to at least a year in jail.

Last Saturday, a federal judge declared that there was ample evidence Hurtado sold the treasure and had not told authorities of its discovery as is required by Mexican law.

Under the Napoleonic code of justice which Mexico still uses, Hurtado is guilty until proven innocent. He can be held in jail for up to a year until his innocence or guilt is proven.

If found guilty, the fisherman could get up to 10 more years in jail.

Hurtado, in an interview with a Mexican newsmen, reportedly said he sold the treasure so he could buy shoes for his children and to buy materials for building his own house. Hurtado, federal investigators said, sold the treasure to a jeweler for $3,000.

The investigators estimate the value of the gold by its weight alone at $25,000. Authorities say the value is incalculable.

The treasures were recovered from the safe of the jeweler, who was also jailed for up to a year while awaiting trial.

"It was in the seas and didn't belong to anyone but me because I discovered it," the fisherman said after being arrested.

Hurtado says he found the gold in six feet of water just outside the port of Veracruz on Mexico's southern Caribbean coast.

Government archeologists say the discovery is one of the most important of gold in Mexico, exceeded in value only by that of a grave in Monte Alban and by the palace of the Indian chieftan Xochila in the Pacific Coast state of Oaxaca.

Hurtado's discovery includes 51 pieces in all—two gold bars marked with a double x, a golden horse shoe, medallions and bracelets.

Investigators have searched the reported locale of the discovery for more artifacts, but so far have been unable to find anything.

The archeologists say the treasure was part of a Spanish galleon that apparently was on its way to Spain in the early 16th Century.

There is some debate about which of the gold artifacts are Spanish work and from which emperor the Indian jewelry might come.
