UN Finally Speaks

To congratulate the United Nations for declaring Red China an aggressor in Korea hardly would be fitting. This indispensable assertion of the UN's moral power is three months overdue.

Yet we must all be thankful that the UN finally did speak. Had it not, its stature as a peace agency, as an organization for collective security, might have been damaged beyond repair.

Throughout the unhappy interlude that ended with this positive action by the UN, India strove for what it called a "peaceful settlement."

The Indians showed callous disregard for the UN's highest aims and principles. They seemed to ignore the blood sacrifices of Americans and others fighting aggression in Korea under the UN banner.

Sir Benegal Rau's final appeal was typical. He informed the UN that if it labeled China an aggressor the last door to peaceful settlement would be barred.

Fortunately, this dismal episode at last is ended. What comes next? The approved resolution provides that UN committees shall study both the problem of possible sanctions against Red China and the question whether any decent peaceful solution may be attained.

There needs to be no great haste on sanctions. Apparently we are hurting the Communist Chinese severely in Korea, and it may well be enough for a while to go on hitting them hard on the battlefield they themselves have chosen.

The notion promoted by India and others that calling China an aggressor means almost automatically a bigger war in the Far East has no basis in reality.

If the UN were always to hang back from using its moral force because to do so might enlarge the area of a conflict, it never would act and would cease to exist.

The UN is either the conscience of the world—or it is nothing. Let us hope it never again waits so long to voice that conscience.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Ike's Report Is Grim Echo Of One Made Five Years Ago

By PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON—It was just five years ago that General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower appeared before another joint session of Congress in Coolidge Auditorium, Library of Congress.

Today General Eisenhower is supreme commander of the North Atlantic Pact armies in Europe. He faces a doubting, if not hostile, Congress to sell them his recommendations. It is that the United States should send an unspecified number of divisions to Europe, to aid in its defense against possible Communist aggression.

Flash back, now, to the situation of five years ago. All that is happening today is a somewhat natural follow-up to what happened then.

After the wars in Asia and Europe were over? To defend himself, General Eisenhower had to say that the Army already was ahead of schedule on demobilization. He had to announce that all men with 45 or more points would be discharged by April, all men with 40 points by June.

Two men were arguing late at night out on the street after "sitting up with a sick friend." Pretty soon, a third man came along. One said, "My friend and I are (hic) arguing; he says that's the (hic) moon and I say it's the sun. Which is it?"

IS MIDLAND GUEST

Ruth Anderson of Fort Worth, formerly of Midland, arrived here Wednesday to spend a few days as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Don Stralla, 511 West Louisiana Street. While living in Midland, Miss Anderson taught the second grade in the North Elementary School.

Blessed Relief from Cramp Pains

Scores of happy girls and women are finding that when they take Carelul each month they get blessed relief they never knew before, from functional periodic pains. That's because unlike pain-killing drugs, pills and tablets, Carelul helps correct painful contractions of the organ muscles and thus helps Nature resume a more normal rhythm. In this way it actually aids in overcoming a frequent cause of painful cramps. If your pains are due to simple functional disturbances—don't wait—ask for a bottle of Carelul. You'll bless the day you first tried this tested relief.

Next time you prepare a tapioca cream desert for your family, fold a little chocolate sauce or syrup into part of the tapioca, and serve it side by side with some of the plain.

You should have some closet space to hang your guests' coats. If you aren't there to greet them and take their coats, they'll probably have no alternative but to leave them across the chair.

Education Commissioner Is School Dedication Speaker

Declaring that a new school building is a symbol of progress in a community and that the school building has become an important factor in community life, Dr. J. W. Edgar, state commissioner of education, addressed a gathering of several hundred persons in the auditorium of the new Carver High School for negroes here Wednesday night.

The occasion was the dedication of the new school plant, and Dr. Edgar was the principal speaker on the dedicatory program. He was introduced by Frank Monroe, superintendent of Midland public schools.

Preceding the address, Judge R. W. (Bob) Hamilton, president of the Board of Education of the Midland Independent School District, welcomed the large crowd and introduced special guests, including Mayor William B. Neely, City Manager W. H. Oswald, Stanley Erskine, president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Erskine, president and Teachers.

Officials introduced

He also introduced George T. Abell, a former president of the Board of Education, and Mrs. W. H. Gilmore, Mrs. Ernest Sidwell, John Cornwell, J. Holt Jowell and V. C. Maley, all Board of Education members. Cooper Hyde, another board member, was unable to attend. A large number of faculty members of other Midland schools also were recognized.

E. L. Jordan, principal of the Carver school, reported on the progress of the school, which he said ranks first among the negro schools of West Texas. He also introduced his faculty members, and expressed appreciation for the fine building which has been provided for the negro citizens of Midland.

Special music was furnished by the Carver High School Choir, under the direction of Mildred Oliver. The invocation was by the Rev. E. M. Woodard, pastor of the Ideal Baptist Church.

Dr. Edgar spoke on the subject "The Scope of Education in a Democracy." He said the "Little Red School House" has become the trademark of American education, and lauded Midland and its Board of Education for having kept pace in education with the rapid growth and development of the community.

On the national level, the speaker said the school has played a major role in developing the resourcefulness of the American people and in the promoting of unity, while preserving the diversities of the nation and its citizens.

"And in a democracy, people expect and should receive certain things from the schools in addition to the basic fundamental of education," Dr. Edgar stated.

"In a democracy, in addition to basic fundamentals, the school must teach people how to live and work together; it must teach conservation of resources, both natural and human; it must enrich the lives of the people; it must teach the people productiveness; and it must develop individual ability and leadership," he declared.

Equal Opportunities

"We place a heavy load on education in America and expect much from it," the speaker concluded.

In his address of welcome, Judge Hamilton said it is the policy of the Board of Education to assure equal educational opportunities for all Midland youths.

Jordan, in his message, said the completion and dedication of the building is a dream come true for Midland's negro citizenship. He cited the rapid growth of the negro school since it was started in 1935. The principal said that in 1940 Carver school had 150 pupils as compared with membership of 544 in 1961. During that time the number of teachers has increased from three to 17, and the high school enrollment has jumped from three to 120 students.

Public Inspection

Following the program, the building was opened for public inspection. Refreshments were served by the school's homemaking department.

The new Carver High school has a combination auditorium-gymnasium, business administration room, science laboratory, shop, homemaking room, and library, in addition to regular class rooms.

Ken Regan Confident Oil Men Will Have Enough Steel Pipe

WASHINGTON — After a series of conferences with government officials, Rep. Ken Regan, 18th District, expressed confidence here this week that persons drilling for oil will be able to get steel pipe and other necessary equipment.

Maj. J. R. Parton, the Texan who is special consultant to Interior Department Secretary Oscar Chapman, personally assured Regan the steel will be available.

Recently Regan led a delegate of Odessa citizens to talk with another independent oil operator now in government, R. C. Lawton, who is director of the oil production branch, Petroleum Administration for Defense. They came away assured West Texans can get steel. They expressed optimism about future developments of the oil industry.

"This question of steel supplies for the oil drilling program is of great importance to us in West Texas," said Regan. "Our economy depends upon it."

Here's what Lawton told Regan and the citizens from Odessa: Sufficient steel for both independents and majors to drill more wells for oil and gas now is felt to be assured. Arrangements have been made through the entire set-up of government to channel supplies to the oil men. All departments are agreed that to obtain record production for defense, 44,000 wells must be drilled this year.

Steel mills will start working on this April 1 and close to 1,000,000 tons of steel have been allocated for well pipe. The program will provide that independent operators and independent supply dealers will have just allocation of pipe which appears to be ample to take care of both major and independent oil operators without steel going into the black or gray market.

Consideration has been given to the fact that wells are drilled deeper now and therefore require greater footage of pipe per well than heretofore.

Fire Razes Supply Company's Building

KERMIT — Fire of undetermined origin early Wednesday destroyed the building which housed the Mid-Continent Supply Company here. The building, owned by J. B. Walton, was located on the Jal highway.

Charlie Hickman, district manager for Mid-Continent, said much of the stock housed in the structure was destroyed and that damages probably will run in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Two of the three men who lived in an upstairs bunkhouse were forced to climb out on ladders. All three lost their clothing and personal belongings.

The fire apparently started under the stairway, about the center of the building, Hickman stated.

Mid-Continent employees were busy Thursday completing arrangements to set-up temporary quarters in a warehouse on Austin Street.

Deliberate Attempt To Burn Childress High School Fails

CHILDRESS, TEXAS —(AP)—An attempt to burn the Childress High School was deliberate. School Superintendent Joe A. Gibson said that a curfew ban youths from the street after midnight.

Sheriff Kermit Waters said the attempt to burn the school early Wednesday was deliberate.

Janitor W. H. Hall found three fires—one on each floor of the $100,000 school—when he came to work about 8 a.m.

There was no major damage from the smoldering blazes, which were extinguished quickly.

Gibson said he believed the destruction was the work of disgruntled students.

He said the City Council has discussed a midnight curfew for juveniles before and that he would ask that it be enacted immediately.

"The semi-weekly Childress Reporter Wednesday came out with a front page editorial 'It is time for a cleanup. It is time for a curfew. It is time to do a little first class spanking,' the paper said.

"The Ephemeris," a government published guide to the sun and several stars, is issued annually.

Midlanders View Atomic Explosion

Two Midlanders, Preston Vest and B. L. Mason, can tell you what an atomic explosion is like—from a distance.

The two men were enroute to California last week when an atomic explosion was set off in Nevada. They were near Yuma, Ariz., at the time of the blast, which occurred about 5:30 a.m.

They described it as a large "orange-looking" flash which lit up the sky for about 15 seconds. It was at 8 a.m. that they heard on the automobile radio about the explosion taking place.

Vest said the news about the explosion only confirmed their conclusion that it was some kind of atomic blast.

Stenographer, Typist Examinations Listed

The United States Civil Service Commission has issued a revised announcement of its stenographer and typist examination. It also announced an examination for the blind only for dictating machine transcriber. All the jobs to be filled from these examinations are in Washington, D. C., and vicinity.

The starting salaries for stenographers range from $2,450 to $2,875 a year and for typists they are $2,450 and $2,850 a year. Most of the jobs to be filled will pay $2,650.

The dictating machine transcriber examination covers positions paying $2,450 and $2,650 a year.

Further information and application forms may be obtained from Wayne Campbell at the Post Office.

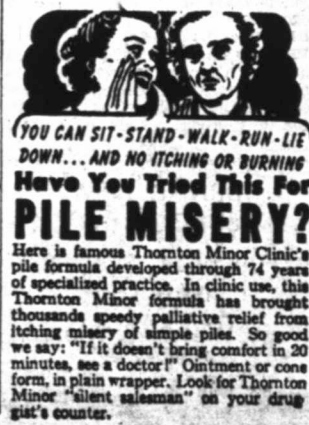

Senate Confirms Midland Appointees

The appointments of two Midland men, William L. Kerr and Tom Sealy, to important state education posts were confirmed by the Senate in Austin Wednesday. The appointments were made by Gov. Allan Shivers.

Kerr was named to a second six-year term as a regent of Texas State Teachers Colleges, and Sealy was appointed a regent of the University of Texas for a six-year term. Both men were in Austin early this week to appear before a Senate committee on appointments.

The Senate also confirmed other recent appointments by the governor to educational and judicial posts.

An astronomical guide called "The Ephemeris" is published by the U. S. Bureau of Land Management, whose surveyors use it in determining boundaries.

Woman Returns Surplus 'Chute

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Mrs. Black wrote she was sending the Army the surplus parachute she bought a while back "just to save a few dollars in the expense of war."

An Army representative who spends most of his time struggling with either questions or complaints looked over the note from Mrs. Robert Adair Black of Cincinnati and remarked this was the only nice thing that had happened in days.

Mrs. Black said she bought the chute before 1947 to make curtains, but it wasn't the right color so she had put it away to bleach. Now she thought the government could use it.

"Want nothing in return," she wrote. "My husband was unable to be in service so was on selective boards in '17 and second World War. All five of our nephews were in, and came back all right. "I am too old and tired now to do much for the Red Cross even."

Cheese sauce may be prepared by adding a cup of finely grated cheese to a cup of thin or medium white sauce. Stir vigorously off the heat, until the cheese is melted. Cheese never benefits from higher heat.

B-36, Vastly Improved, Still Is Big Controversy

Latest Version Of The B-36: The critics grudgingly admit there's been a big improvement.

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The giant B-36 bomber is the one major weapon which Uncle Sam has which the Russians do not possess.

Even if U. S. ground forces should suffer maximum disasters in Asia and Europe, with a resultant world divided into two hostile hemispheres, the B-36 would give the U. S. a striking force capable of bringing Russia to its knees with A-bombs.

The Russians are well aware of this. And as a result the giant plane is considered to be a major deterrent to any Russian declaration of war.

Six of the $4,700,000 bombers have just made the first B-36 mission to Europe, flying from Texas to England on what the Air Force called "routine training."

Despite the tremendous advantage that this plane now appears to give to U. S. defenses, it continues to be one of the most controversial airplanes ever built. When it was first put on the drawing board in 1941 by Consolidated Aircraft designers, it even caused controversy in the Army Air Corps. The opposition held that a plane that big just wasn't practical.

In the Summer of 1949 the B-36 was the main cause of the open and bitter feud between the Air Force and the Navy which inspired a full-dress congressional investigation.

False Security

Today, although its critics grudgingly admit that the plane has been improved tremendously in the last couple of years, they claim that it gives the country a false sense of security.

Since the bitter fight between the have all jet engines and be in the 600-mile-per-hour class.

However, there is consideration being given to modifying the basic B-36 design by adding swept-back wings and using either jet or turbo-prop—a combination of jet and propeller power.

In explaining the amazing size of the monster B-36, the Air Force points out that a 600-room hotel could be heated by the plane's anti-icing equipment. The volume of the bomber is 18,000 cubic feet, equal to the volume of three average five-room houses. An automobile could go around the world 16 times and then visit every state in the union with the 21,116 gallons of gas which the wing tanks hold.

When the Air Force reaches its full strength, under present plans, it will have about eight groups of 1-36's, with 30 planes to a group.

Dollar A Year Gets Lease On Big Farm

DELANO, CALIF.—(AP)—If any other farmer pays cheaper rent, Douglas McFarlane hasn't heard about it.

He leased 210 acres of an abandoned county airport for $1 a year for five years. He plans to grow cotton on the land. The board of supervisors granted McFarlane the lease after studying four other bids.

Rosamond Chapin Suggests Adding Slaw To Lent Menus

UNUSUAL TABLEMATES are sauerkraut slaw, broiled scallops, baked potatoes and brown bread.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

For your menus for Lent, Rosamond Chapin of New Boston, Mass., comes up singing of hot sauerkraut slaw.

Mrs. Chapin is a dramatic soprano of note and a fabulous cook. This combination of sauerkraut and scallops she serves at the New Boston Inn.

Hot Sauerkraut Slaw

(4 Servings)
Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 1/4 cup tarragon vinegar, 2 teaspoons prepared mustard, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, dash cayenne pepper, 1 egg, slightly beaten, 1 cup drained sauerkraut, 1 small onion, thinly sliced, 1/2 cup grated raw carrots.

In a saucepan, melt butter over simmer burner; add flour and blend. Add milk and cook over simmer burner until thick, stirring constantly. In a cup, blend vinegar, mustard, sugar, salt and pepper. Stir this mixture into the sauce until well blended. Add egg, continuing to simmer for 2 minutes while stirring briskly. Add vegetables; mix well and serve immediately. This hot slaw is excellent with fish scallops.

Savory Sauerkraut

(4-8 Servings)
One No. 21 1/2 can sauerkraut, 1 teaspoon caraway seeds, 1/4 cup tarragon vinegar, 1/2 cup red wine, 1/4 cup light brown sugar, salt, freshly ground pepper.
In a saucepan, combine sauerkraut and caraway seeds; simmer 20 minutes. Add remaining ingredients; simmer 30 minutes, stirring frequently. Serve with broiled, baked or fried fish.

Love Makes Valentine Day Big Business

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK—(AP)—Love is sweeping the country again. War always is a good heart stimulant and merchants are counting heavily on Mars giving St. Valentine a helping hand. It'll help their cash registers, too. There's a strong drive under way this year to make February 14 another day for exchanging gifts. What merchants did for mom on Mother's Day, they ought to be able to do for love, they figure.

Love and affection may run into many million dollars in sales by next Wednesday. The old tried and true Valentine cards, candy and flowers still are going strong. The greeting card industry estimates 300 million Valentines will be exchanged. No 10-Cent Business

But Valentine's Day isn't the simple thing it used to be. Now, one industry or another wants you to call its "Kissie Day" or "Valentine day."

The handkerchief crowd has immon ties will be bought by adoring females for men they love. In fact, men are getting quite a share of the attention. Women are urged to buy them shirts wrapped as Valentines, or cigars, or gloves. And the jewelers have come out with a lover's-knot design for men's tie clips, cuff links and collar pins, as well as name-plate bracelets for servicemen or civilians.

The handkerchief crowd has imported a number decorated with an old-fashioned Valentine as the ideal gift for the snuffle set.

As for the ladies, you can buy a slip or nightie trimmed with rhinestones, or a bejeweled bra—and even one made of leopard skin. Ads implore you to remember her with perfume, lipstick, or a paquette of sachet she can tuck in her hair. And one shop thinks antiques make ducky Valentines.

Runs Up Mileage Inspecting Scales

SAN BERNARDINO, CALIF.—(AP)—If anyone else has traveled farther to insure that scales and measuring devices are kept honest, C. E. Johnson hasn't heard about it. He retired recently after 20 years as sealer of weights and measures for San Bernardino County—largest in the United States. Part of his job was to inspect each measuring device yearly. He estimates that tracking each one down has carried him more than 300,000 miles.

DADDY RINGTAIL

Daddy Ringtail And Be Sure You Are Right

Uncle Bunkum had driven the Monkeycatcher's firetruck away to the circus. There he had bought the zebra with zebra stripes, loaded the zebra in the firetruck, and started to drive it back home again to the zoo.

Daddy Ringtail was with him, and everything was happy enough until they met a man who stopped them, and said: "Well I never saw the like! Whoever heard of driving along in a firetruck with a zebra in it. People should ride their zebra like a horse." Away went the man a-laughing.

Well, Uncle Bunkum was wanting to do things the right way, and so was Daddy Ringtail, and they thought that maybe the man was right. Perhaps they shouldn't be driving the zebra home in the firetruck. So they left the firetruck ever heard of one monkey riding a zebra while the other monkey walks? You both should ride together." Away went the man a-laughing.

By WESLEY DAVIS

Well, Uncle Bunkum indeed was wanting to do things the right way, and so was Daddy Ringtail. They both got up on the zebra together, and away they rode. Pretty soon they met another man who stopped them and said: "Well, I never saw the like! Whoever heard of two monkeys riding together on a zebra's back. The zebra ought to be riding you he should."

Well, Daddy Ringtail had heard a story once of some people who tried to let their donkey ride their backs. But the poor donkey, not being used to this, became frightened and ran away and was lost.

Well, our monkey friends now decided there was only one thing left to do. They did it. They picked up the zebra and climbed with him up on the back of the man who had stopped them, and the man made the monkey carry them all the way to the zoo. It was all for fun, of course, you know, but it taught the man a lesson never to meddle in the business of others. Happy day!

Artificial Hands Have Fingerprints

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The newest artificial hands are so life-like their fingerprints are on file with the FBI.

The hands were described recently at a conference of manufacturers of artificial limbs. They are made of plastic and covered with plastic gloves molded from the hands of live models.

These gloves carry the fingerprints of the models, so to avoid confusion, the fingerprints are registered. Experts can tell the difference.

Former Polio Patient Says Thanks In Cross-Country Wheel Chair Trip

By ANNE LARSEN
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK — When the shrilling of the telephone cut into the thick air that August night in 1949, Beatrice Wright almost decided to ignore it. Never, it seemed, had she been so tired. The long hours she was working in helping combat the polio epidemic then raging across Detroit had made it an effort even to raise an arm to lift the receiver.

Prodded by curiosity, however, she answered the call and heard commendations for her work from the main office of the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis and the offer of an important job in New York.

It was a big decision, involving the uprooting of her three fatherless sons to whom Detroit was home. She requested time to consider.

Thinks It Over

She had plenty of time to think it over. By the next day she was paralyzed from the neck down.

The polio ward was her hope for the next nine months until she emerged, aided by crutches and her own indomitable will, to accept the position they'd held for her. Long before, she'd made her decision to help the Foundation inform the nation about polio. The story was now her own.

It was a story with many twists. In the public relations work she had been doing during the epidemic, she had informed the public again and again what symptoms to interpret as danger signs of polio. When she herself was beset by aches and fatigue, she thought it was work exhaustion.

Polio Strikes

Not until a doctor observed her strange gait as she hurried down a corridor in a hospital where many of the stricken were being cared for, was it discovered that she, too, had been singled out.

Her reaction was one of disbelief. It seemed impossible. Polio workers develop a sense of personal invulnerability similar to that of soldiers on the battlefield.

Again and again, Mrs. Wright read the small, neatly-jetted white sign that hung above her bed: "Beatrice Wright, Polio."

She had been stricken with spinal paralysis, which is rarely fatal. But it is crippling and unpredictable. Unable to move her arms, legs, abdominal torso or her neck, Mrs. Wright could not tell for months, as she fought against immobility, whether she would ever walk again.

She considered the gamble worth the effort. She listened and tried as the therapist showed her how a hand works, touching the muscles that move it, tracing the pull that lifts a finger.

Mrs. Wright learned first with her mind, then with her muscles. "It took weeks for my brain to find the muscle, deep in my leg, that causes my knee to bend. After that, it was easier. My mind could send messages down; could tell it to move."

When she was, at last, ready to try to walk again, her "stupid feet" had forgotten how. She asked the nurse to walk, and watched her motions. That night in bed, she "rehearsed" the procedure in her mind.

Because her recovery involved so much intellectual effort, Mrs. Wright says: "It was the Foundation that gave me back my legs. Not only did they provide the $600 a month that my care cost — which I never in the world could have raised alone—but they relieved me altogether of financial worry. My mind was free to concentrate upon the battle before me."

Talks To People

As soon as she was able to, Mrs. Wright set out in her wheel chair to tell the people of the nation what they—through the March of Dimes—had done for her and other polio patients.

Since leaving the hospital, she has taken her thanks in person to campaign volunteers in every state. She continues to fight her own private battle for total recovery while inspiring other patients to progress as far as she has.

Now she gets around independently, with the aid of Canadian walking sticks. These light-weight aluminum crutches have a r m bands on which she can lean while her hands are engaged in tasks like opening doors.

She cannot yet walk up stairs, but laughingly boasts that she can manage a ramp—provided someone gives her a shove from behind. She is cheerful.

Mrs. Wright is cheerful about what she might once have termed indignities. Having lost so much, she can appreciate what she has regained.

"I can't forget," she says, "a 10-year-old just across the hall from me in my polio ward. He bore up manfully during the day, but sobbed in secret during the night. And there I lay, helpless, unable to go to his bed and comfort him."

She vowed then, if her legs were restored, that he would devote herself to assisting people like herself who, given an example, might find the courage to try again. And to aiding people like that small boy who, for the rest of his life, will need assistance from Americans more fortunate than he.

"Sorry, but the management doesn't like your interpretation of their special offer!"

Saudi Arabian, Trained in U. S., Clears Planes For Landing At Jiddah's Airport

JIDDAH, SAUDI ARABIA (NEA)—The control tower operator at Jiddah Airport was trained at Scott Air Force Base in Illinois. His name is Abdul Aziz Sadeq and he is a Saudi Arabian native. He is one of 15 Saudi Arabians who took over control of ground operations at the field from American technicians.

Sadeq typifies the young Saudi Arabians who have taken a 3,000-year forward step in transportation in their homeland. When he was born 21 years ago, Saudi Arabia still used the camel to move goods from place to place. Now the airplane has taken over.

Sadeq learned the U. S. Air Force was conducting a training mission at its Dhahran field. He applied, and was nominated by the Arabian government for training. His course at Dhahran took 10 months, and included academic subjects like English in addition to technical aviation study.

Allowed To Apply

He showed such proficiency that he was allowed to apply for further training in the U. S. The Air Force flew him to Scott Air Force Base, where for 36 weeks he attended the general radio mechanics' course. Back in Dhahran, he was assigned as a civilian worker with the Military Air Transport Service.

Today, he's one of 15 young Arabs who compose the Jiddah Airport team. It's the first time in the history of the airport that Saudi natives were sufficiently advanced technically to assume control of such a complex organization. And it's a tribute to the MATS' training mission.

Aviation has been a boon to Saudi Arabia. It's 450 miles from Dhahran to Jiddah. That used to mean a 35-day camel trip. Now it's three hours in a C-54. And one C-54 can carry what it took 1,000 camels to pack.

When the U. S. built fields at both cities during World War II—it was a stopover for planes ferrying between America and India—the Air Force felt it would be a good idea to train the natives to help. It was part of the overall plan to extend technical instruction to friendly foreign nations. Saudi Arabian leaders were enthusiastic.

Starts Program

That started MATS' training mission program, which was inaugurated in 1947. As it operates now, any applicant is acceptable, regardless of social or cultural background, if he meets certain educational standards. They attend classes the year around, except for a 30-day fasting and worship period known as Ramadan.

They all start with a six-week preparatory course, studying basic English, math and science. Then comes a 42-week technical study period. There they must master six of seven technical subjects — supply, administration, air installations, automotive maintenance, aircraft maintenance, communications and weather.

After that comes study in the U. S. for qualified students. They stay anywhere from 10 weeks at military officers' school to 36 weeks at weather forecasters and radio mechanics.

That's the program Abdul Aziz Sadeq and his 14 co-students followed before their return to Saudi Arabia. And the Jiddah Airport runs smoothly under the guidance of its 15 native technicians.

Television Found Radar Substitute

EASTON, PA.—(AP)—A new use has been found for television here—as a substitute for radar.

Proper Polette told police he was watching a TV show when the picture started "jumping." He went to a window to see if a passing car was causing interference.

What he saw was two men trying to start his car. He chased them for two blocks but they got away.

GI's Get Rations But No Utensils

WESTERN FRONT, KOREA—(AP)—Someone forgot to include eating utensils in a shipment of U. S. Army combat rations.

"An Army lives on its stomach. But it eats with its fingers," said Cpl. Edward Sheehan of Rockland, Mass., as he ate a can of pork and beans—bean by bean.

Each daily "C" ration is supposed to contain a plastic spoon.

But there are no spoons in a late shipment from the Chicago Quartermaster Depot.

Quartermaster officers say it is all a mistake.

Why? GI's now make sure they have a spoon in their pocket as well as a gun by their side.

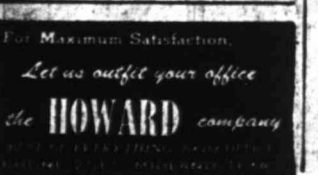

There are about 145 fornicades in the United States annually.

Now note that the first three beatitudes are all receptive instead of assertive: (1) the renounced in spirit (vs. 3); (2) those that mourn over the mistakes, sins, and failures of themselves and others, and mourn for the coming of the Kingdom (vs. 4); (3) the meek, or the disciplined (vs. 5). All three bespeak one thing: receptivity. These are all passive virtues. Then follow three positive or active virtues: (1) the merciful (vs. 7); (2) the pure in heart (vs. 8); (3) the peacemakers (vs. 9). Between these two sets of three, passive and positive virtues, there is one (vs. 6) that is both passive and positive: "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness"—that is active—"for they shall be filled"—passive. This verse, made up of both, is the pivot upon which the change is made from passive to active virtues.

Now note that the Kingdom way of life begins with receptivity. Is that right? Isn't that where all life has to begin? The two cells the ovum and the sperm have to receive each other before they can begin the positive business of producing active life. The seed in the ground receives moisture and nutrition from the earth and the air before it can begin to give forth in flower and fruit. An organism can expend as much as it takes in, and no more. If it doesn't begin with receptivity, it doesn't begin. The scientist, who doesn't sit down before the facts as a little child, and isn't prepared to give up every preconceived notion, and isn't willing to follow to whatever end nature will lead him, will know nothing. He has to be renounced, to mourn that he doesn't know, to be humble, or he gets nowhere. The first immutable law of all life, material and spiritual, is: receptivity. Life confronts us with the alternatives: receive or perish.

O God, I dare not perish, when I can receive. I come to Thee, Take my emptiness and make it into Thy fullness; my foolishness and make it into Thy wisdom; my paralysis and make it into Thy power; myself and make it into Thee. For I hunger and thirst after Thee. I really do. Amen.

Pizza Is Welcome As Meatless Dish

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

For Lenten meals, or just because pizza pie is a highly flavored main dish with steadily increasing admirers, you'll welcome this tested recipe:

Pizza
(Serves 4)

Scald 3/4 cup milk. Stir in 1/4 cup sugar, 2 1/4 teaspoons salt and 4 1/2 tablespoons shortening. Set aside to cool to lukewarm.

Sprinkle 1 package active dry yeast into 3/4 cup warm, not hot, water, or crumble 1 cake compressed yeast into 3/4 cup lukewarm water. Stir until dissolved. Combine milk and yeast mixture. Add and stir in 2 1/4 cups sifted enriched flour. Beat until smooth. Add and stir in an additional 2 1/4 cups sifted enriched flour or enough to make a dough. Turn out on board and knead 8 to 10 minutes.

PIZZA PIE, a welcome meatless dish that young folks cheer about. Roll each piece into a very thin circle to fit inside 7-inch pie pans. Trim excess dough from around edges. If desired, add a fancy edging by cutting 1/2-inch strips of dough with a pastry wheel, and cutting through the strips about every 1/4-inch. Moisten edge of dough in pans with water and place an extra strip. Brush dough with olive or salad oil.

Grate enough cheddar cheese to make 2 cups. Drain and chop No. 2 can solid-pack tomatoes. Mix together cheese and tomatoes. Add 1 teaspoon garlic salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper and 1/2 teaspoon oregano (a dried herb).

Place 1/4 of the mixture in each pie shell. Bake at 450 degrees F. (hot oven) 20 to 25 minutes. Serve immediately.

For a delicious first course wrap tiny wrapped Vienna sausages in thinly rolled biscuit dough, letting the tip of the sausage show at each end. Seal the rolled-over edge and bake about 10 minutes in a hot oven. These are especially good served very hot with tomato juice.

Chemists Produce New Insecticide

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Industrial chemists, aided by government scientists, have produced a new insecticide called allethrin which has proved highly effective against houseflies and mosquitoes. The insecticide was commercially produced within one year after its discovery by a team of scientists in the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Discovery of allethrin as a synthetic chemical followed long studies of the active insect poison in pyrethrum by chemists in the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine. The new insecticide can be used effectively against flies and mosquitoes which have built up a resistance to DDT.

For a luncheon dish serve rice with a creole sauce and top with crisp slices of bacon. Accompany this main dish with a green vegetable such as buttered spinach or snap beans, or with a tossed green salad. For dessert choose fruit and cheese.

Boyle, Back Home, Pictures America To GI In Korea

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—To Private Joe Joe, Foxholme 12, Hill 364, South Korea:

Dear Joe:

I told you I'd let you know how things are doing back in your old Uncle Sugar Abie—the U. S. A. Well, kid, it's still the gold-plated foxhole of the Western world. If they don't have it here, it ain't worth having.

They got everything here in your old supply base except tanks and peace of mind.

It's a boom country, Joe, but everybody seems to be mad about something. The people are mad about the international situation. No one is sure who's to blame—Washington, the United Nations or Arthur Godfrey.

And Washington is mad at the people. They are making money faster than Washington can take it away. There's a new tax coming up on everything except homemade incense.

Prices are higher than the hill you're on, Joe. They call a nickel "the Truman dollar" now. And in New York you have to drop two of them in a phone box to call the wrong number.

Steak Like Heaven
You spend as much for an hour in a barber chair now as it used to take for a weekend vacation at the beach. The $1.50 haircut is getting fashionable, if not popular, and the 75-cent shave is responsible for a lot of five o'clock shadow.

Steak is getting more and more like heaven. People still yearn for it—but it's out of the average man's reach.

It's hard to tell just what to believe in. Jack Benny still says he is only 39 years old, and it has been snowing in Florida. And out in Nevada whenever a storewindow topples in nobody is sure whether a stranger hit the jackpot in the corner saloon—or the government just dropped another atom bomb.

There is quite a war scare going on, and the only really safe place left in America is a seat on the local draft board. The teen-ager no longer is the problem of civilization but "the hope of tomorrow."

New Theme Song
And the new theme song of the 18-year-olds is: "Make me a child again . . . not just for tonight but for the next 10 years."

The people are thinking more often of you now, Joe. You're the number one hero of the kids who used to think that only Hopalong Cassidy could catch the villain.

You've had a lonely, uphill walk, and I hope it is about over. There's so much to come back to here, Joe. I flew across America the other day, and it was like walking through a long and lovely cathedral, with candles at the end. The candles stood for the hearts I was ranting to.

As the wonderful American earth and waters unfolded beneath the plane—the wide fields, the deep rivers, the high hills of home—I made a silent wish upon an evening star. It was that you could come back soon, too, and let others take their turn in the Korean telex—if stay we do.

Regards to the lead platoon.
HAL BOYLE
P. S.—I met a fellow in Kansas City who said: "There's only one way to bring this international crisis to a head. That's for Joe Stalin to write a review in Pravda criticizing Margaret Truman's singing. That'll bring action."

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Coronary Thrombosis Victims Must Watch Step To Recover

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Coronary thrombosis or occlusion often starts suddenly without any warning signs. In contrast to angina pectoris, which is a closely related condition, coronary thrombosis often comes without any unusual previous exertion or pain in the heart region. It can develop after severe strain or exertion, but it also can come while sitting at rest in a chair or even when a person is sound asleep.

Many people seem to be confused as to what coronary thrombosis really is. Without going into the technical details it can be described as a clot which closes up one of the branches of the arteries which supply blood to the muscles of the heart.

Like every other muscle, the heart muscle must receive blood in order to function. Consequently, when this supply of blood is cut off by a clot or closure of the artery, a certain part of the muscle is deprived of life-giving blood and, therefore, the heart muscle cannot keep contracting as it must to maintain life.

A coronary thrombosis is always a serious thing. How serious it is depends on the size of the artery which is shut off; in other words, if a large coronary artery is involved a large amount of heart tissue is deprived of blood and the results are proportionately serious.

Sometimes death follows a coronary thrombosis almost at once, because the heart is so badly injured that its function of pumping blood ceases and consequently life cannot go on.

Many Are Cured
In spite of the serious nature of this condition, many recover from an attack of coronary thrombosis with practically no ill effects and can and do lead relatively normal lives for a great many years. Most of those people who make good recoveries of this sort have also been good patients. They have taken the lengthy rest periods and have adjusted themselves to a less tense and speedy form of life and activity than they were probably used to before.

The cause or causes of coronary thrombosis are not all understood. Now that so many more people are living to ages at which a heart attack is likely to occur, it is particularly important to carry out studies which will lead to its eventual conquest.

Photos Aid Ocean Canyons' Study

LA JOLLA, CALIF. (AP)—New photographic evidence for the cause of submarine canyons, some of which are as large as Grand Canyon, has been shown by Dr. Francis P. Shepard professor of submarine geology at the University of California.

The films, taken on the sea floor, reveal submarine canyons are similar in many details to dry land canyons, with vertical and overhanging rock walls, minor tributaries entering the main canyon, and hanging cliffs, where waterfalls might have existed before the canyons were submerged.

Capital Society Faces Emergency By Putting Hush-Hush On Its Big Parties

Austerity in Washington: This is a recent reception at the Pakistan embassy, as capital society keeps up its parties to keep up officials' morale.

WASHINGTON —(NEA)—As their contribution to the fight against Communist aggression in the world, capital hostesses are going underground.

The new battle-cry on Washington parties is "throw and go but don't crow."

From now on, as far as the rest of the world knows, rigid austerity will mark the town's hitherto heralded fast social life. But as one hostess puts it, "we will continue to do our part in keeping up the morale of our hard working officials and military men with the same quality of relaxation we have always tried so hard to provide."

This remarkable switch from an almost psychopathic urge to see their party activities fully recorded in the daily press is producing some unusual situations and reactions among the social set. And there is no question that trying to keep their entertaining a secret is a real sacrifice to the city's proud hostesses.

Is Demonstrated

The novel idea that maybe Washington's social life should be made a little austere in light of world events was dramatically demonstrated last fall by the Yugoslav embassy.

While negotiations were underway to get a big loan from Uncle Sam to help feed starving Yugoslavs the embassy announced it was having a big reception. There was the usual cynical criticism about a country that entertained lavishly in Washington while the people back home were starving.

However, the cynics turned to believers when they showed up at the party to find that children of the embassy staff member were acting as waiters. As an even more convincing blow, the supply of Scotch was cut off before the alcoholic proof of any of the guests even approached usual party density.

The shock-effect of real austerity, for some perverse reason, seemed to spread the idea. The famed Grid-iron Club called off its luxurious annual dinner for the President. Sen. Tydings cancelled a $50,000 debut for his daughter.

Teas Called Off

Then Mrs. Truman, who has been waging a one-woman fight for more austere social seasons in Washington ever since she has been First

Official Says Burma Invites Aggression

RANGOON —(P)—Burma will become a second Korea unless the Burmese government changes its "middle-of-the-road" foreign policy, the 68-year-old former cabinet minister Ba Pe declared here.

He said this country, lying right in the path of Red China, is not strong enough to resist aggression on its own. The Burmese government is committed to a "friendship-with-all" policy. It seeks economic aid from the United States and Commonwealth countries while wooing the Communist bloc. It has declared it will remain neutral should there be general war.

Lady, announced that the coming White House season would achieve maximum austerity. She called off all official teas, which left the White House with only Sunday dinners for Mr. and Mrs. Truman and Margaret, if she happened to be in town, in the way of scheduled social events.

With that precedent Washington hostesses had no place left to go but underground. Pentagon brass were informed in no uncertain terms that hereafter their wives were to issue no more press releases when they threw parties.

Wives of cabinet officials stopped sending out advance guest lists for their parties. And Mrs. Morris Cafritz, the city's No. 1 hostess since Perle Mesta went back to Luxembourg, now has a ban on press photographers, newsreel men and TV cameras at her affairs.

Tempo Not Slowed

From all reports, however, the new underground nature of Washington's social life has by no means dampened its tempo. Despite the surface atmosphere of austerity, the Capital is rounding into mid-winter form in fine fashion. A survey of the caterers reveals that even with prices up business is booming and there is no shortage of anything.

The fashionable hotels report the same boom, but with a word of regret that they can no longer give out details of the parties.

Only a few persons can be found who don't claim to enjoy the new secrecy surrounding the town's social life. Some of the society editors are finding that they have to do some reporting to fill out their pages. And as one very frank party-goer puts it:

"It's not quite as much fun going to a party when only the people who are there ever know about it."

Collecting Combs Hobby Of Woman

DOVER-FOXCROFT, MAINE —(P)—Mrs. Ida Shrang is combing the world for combs. Collecting combs is her hobby and she has set her goal at 1,000. But caring for a home and four children limits the amount of world-combing she can do personally.

Her existing collection of 374 covers virtually every American period during the last 200 years and includes combs from England, Italy, France and China. Materials in the comb range from bone and tortoise shell to wood and split bamboo.

England still has about 200 extinct windmills in its boundaries.

SPEEDY JUSTICE—At Taegu, Korea, native youngsters study a sign erected on a road leading to the UN front lines. The sign warns G.I.'s that even though this is the combat zone, it's still against the law to speed or dress improperly. Offenders are promised speedy, round-the-clock court martial service. A radio tube the size of a match head has been invented. It would take 90 of them to equal in volume the well known standard radio tube and offers important advantages from a weight and space standpoint.

Want a different kind of frosting for a plain cake? Then prepare a plain frosting with confectioners' sugar, butter or margarine, and a little cream to moisten and flavor with rum flavoring and some chopped moist, seedless raisins.

Cream-style corn makes a delicious chowder when it is mixed with canned tomatoes and flavored with onion, green pepper. (If it is available,) parsley, salt and freshly-ground pepper. Serve it for Friday lunch with pilot crackers.
