It is an American trait to go into a sprint with the goal in sight.

We started this push June 12. Reports from every city and town in America tell us that the number of individual buyers of extra War Bonds today has reached an unprecedented total. We all know that in addition to numbers we need fire power. Your extra War Bond is absolutely essential. The greater the stockpile of War Bonds, the easier it will be for us to get this war over.

"Clean Plate Day" Sponsored by Local War Food Committee

Miss Thelma Keese, chairman of the War Food Committee for Hamilton County, has called attention to a "Clean Plate Day" in an article which came in too late for publication last week.

The time set for the day was last Monday, as set out in a proclamation by County Judge W. J. Harris. Since this time has passed, it still might not be amiss to mention the intention of the campaign. The proclamation called upon all patriotic citizens of the county to clean their plates at every meal, and strive in every other way to conserve our wartime food supply." It was set out in the preamble that "Food is a vital commodity which must be conserved for the use of our armed forces, our fighting allies, and for our people on the home front", and that "Official survey shows that we are wasting more than 15 per cent of our food in our homes.'

I. L. Lasater, E. C. Bramlett and Miss DeAlva Hammons are lo cal members of the committee composed of civic leaders and supported by educational, church and social organizations in a campaign against food waste.

Texas Among First To Operate Civilian Blood Plasma Unit

-Is Now On!

NUMBER 4.

Let's Get Busy-

Austin. June 12.-Texas, one of the first states in the Union to establish a blood plasma program for civilian use, operates, through the State Department of Health, a well equipped and efficiently manned mobile bleeding unit which is sent upon request to any community desirous of its services.

Blood plasma banks have been proved an invaluable aid to all towns and hospitals where established. The giving of blood does not cause any ill effects to the donor and blood donors are usually pleasantly surprised at the painless simplicity of the bleeding. The process usually takes about thirty minutes from the beginning of the donation to the resumption of normal activities, and is without discomfort to healthy individuals who, incidentally, are the only ones from whom blood is accepted.

Regarding the importance of the blood plasma program, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, has stated that the man at the front has long since learned to appreciate the value of plasma and know that it is available for use as needed by the family he has left, and to his home community.

Dr. Cox pointed out that the State Department of Health merely collects the blood and processes it into plasma, and then it is returned without cost to the community from which it came. Any civic group or other organization interested in public health may sponsor this program locally. Contact should be made with the local health officer who can make arrangements for this service wherever requested.

Placed Before June 17

Home Demonstration Club women are working up an order of peaches to be handled much like to information received from Miss Thelma Keese, Hamilton County H. D. Agent. Anyone desiring to this pooled order must give thechairman for the neighborhood his name and the number of bushels he will want before Saturday, June 17th, she says, adding that no order will be placed if the price is not reasonable. Those who wish to withdraw their names may do so after the order will not be increased.

Orders cannot be placed at the office of the H. D. Agent since such procedure creates complications which cannot be handled successfully.

5,000,000 BEFORE 1945

NUMBER ABROAD AT PRESENT IS 3,657,000 MEN

Navy Has 1,566,000 on Sea Or Foreign Duty.

Approximately half of the United States army is now stationed overseas and about the same proportion of the naval personnel is now affoat or on foreign shore installations, the war and navy departments announced.

As of June 1, the army had 47 per cent of its forces, or 3,657,000 soldiers, deployed outside of continental United States. The navy had 1,566,-000 men outside the country, mostly aboard ship, covering the 56,000 miles of supply

By the end of 1944, the number of troops overseas will be increased to more than 5,000,000 men, approx-imately two-thirds of the army's total strength.

Already, the United States army overseas exceeds by 1,571,000 men the peak overseas strength of the army in World War I, and is only 400,000 short of equaling the entire strength of the army at the close f that war. One year ago, 1,466,of that were overseas, representing 21 per cent of the army's strength at that time.

The United States army air forces and army service forces are almost completely overseas and the movement of army ground forces troops abroad is rapidly nearing Master Pian Fellewed.

The deployment of this vast overseas force has followed a minutely defined pattern set forth by the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff, meeting in a white stone building on Constitution avenue in Washington, D. C. It was in this building that the over-all size of the United States army today was determined; where the number of men needed overseas to be smaller jobs at the opportune maments to bring victory as speedily as possible was carefully detailed. It was here that available manpower was weighed against estimated produc-

the army, the joint chiefs of staff determined that initial shipments of men and materiel overseas would be committed, of necessity, to "plugging the line," to prevent further expansion of gains already made by the Axis. Raving passed this phase, the next step was to ship men and materiel overseas to eliminate the enemy's outer de-fenses. This phase was designed to prepare the way for the final phase—the period of decisive ac-

During the first two phases, the army was engaged in establishing bases for future operations. Large combat forces of the ground army. comparatively speaking, were not engaged. It was essential that bases for operations be estab-lished; that supply lines be se-cured. Consequently, the flow of army service forces and army air forces personnel overseas now is on the decline after reaching its peak during the first two phases. Ship-ping was employed largely to get the AAF into action and to build up the tremendous installations required all over the world both maintain the combat forces al-ready moved into the various thea ters and to provide for the larger

More Infantry to Go. As the period of decisive action approached, the flow of ground personnel increased. The flow of AGF troops overseas, consequently, is on the increase today while the flow of ASF and AAF personnel has already reached its peak.

Today, the United States army air forces, with slightly less than one-half of its total personnel of ap-proximately 2,357,000 already overseas, has a total of more than 75,000 airplanes of all types, of which approximately 34,000 are combat aircraft. More than one-half of the AAF's combat plane strength is overseas, making the AAF the world's most formidable aerial striking force in point of size and firepower.

The AAF has approximately 925 The AAF has approximately 925 bases outside the continental United States, excluding bases on U. S. territories. Of the 925 foreign bases, 750 are airfields. The others include radio and weather stations, hospitals, depots and storage bases. Many of the bases are employed by the air transport command in its network of air routes which strutches some 110,000 miles. Combat aircraft, crew personnel, equipment and supplies, now are reaching the planned level of effectiveness for the air wer against Germany. Diggest Supply Job. With slightly less than one-half of its personnel overseas, excluding service-type units of ground forces and air forces, the army service forces today is executing the greatest logistics job in the history of the world. In May, ASF moved a record of almost 4,000,000 measurement tons of army cargo overseas, almost twice the tonnage moved overseas in May, 1943. The peak tonnage moved overseas in the World war was in November, 1918, when 829,000 measurement tons were transported.

It usually is considered that each urement tons of initial equipment, as against one measurement ton per month of maintenance sup-Mere tonnage, however, fails to reveal the complexity of the job being performed by the army service forces for our troops overseas. The supplies, of necessity, must vary widely, depending on the area of the world to which they are being sent. Not only has the ASF supplied troops in primitive areas, where a minimum of facilities exists, it has had its problem complicated by vast water distances. It has had to build ports through consumption. "For instance," which men and supplies must move. It has had to build roads and railroads where no such facili-ties formerly existed, and pipelines to establish and stock depots to handle the enormous amounts of fare, unloading ships and running harbor boats all over the world. All of these tasks were essential before the full weight of ground and air action could be brought to bear against the enemy.

In addition to these tasks ASF must provide medical service, records of personnel, mail service and countless other services. For instance, in April, ASF handled 63,-638,405 pieces of incoming and outgoing V-Mail letters, another new high.

More than one-half of all army ground forces personnel are deployed for action overseas. It is upon the shoulders of these men, and their comrades in the United States who are scheduled for overseas deployment, that the fate of the final phase of over-all strategy—the period of decisive action—depends.

In line with the overall strategy June 12 June 12 June 13 ping is available today to transport AGF divisions overseas for the periods of the

for example, a report that more people are killed in the United States by accidents than are killed on the battlefield during a war year. But even the minor statistics seem to make ordinary living seem such a dangerous occupation that we feel fortunate indeed to have attained our present age.

We have just finished reading. for example, a report on the number of people in our country who died last year from falling out of windows. The total was over 500some having fallen while washing windows, others while hanging out clothes, still others when removing window screens, and a large proportion while performing the apparently harmless act of openor closing a window.

After reading this report we have come to the conclusion that anyone is decidedly foolhardy to have windows in his house. Statistically, he is about as great a daredevil as the man who owns a bathtub, that instrument of death and destruction which year after year stands near the top of the causes of accidental deaths.

Sorry this letter is late, but I'm up to my ears in the 5th War Loan Drive.

As head of the town's committee, I'm busy almost every waking moment selling bonds. This is, by all odds, the most critical period of the war. Everything is at stake for two bellion dollars more in this loan than the last everyone's got to buy two or three times more than his ever bought before - if things are to go as we solemnly pray they should. God most of the people I talk to seem to realize the oritical need. They do without things they actually need in order to plunk down another hundred or thor I guess they feel as I do. With a man you love over there, the least you can do is your utmost.

I want you to know, Jim, that the folks here at home are with you - and their money is fighting with you - every last dollar they can scrage up Mother and I hand love.

Is there a shortage of children's shoes?

Yes, there is very definitely a shortage! This is particularly true of DEPENDABLE BRANDS of medium and better quality children's shoes.

Parents today are demanding BETTER quality. Rationing has brought about a keen appreciation of the DIFFERENCE between shoes that ARE good, and those that merely LOOK good.

WHY IS THERE A SHORTAGE OF CHILDREN'S SHOES?

The nation's military demands and the needs of our allies have caused a decrease in the supply of leather available for civilian use and thus fewer LEATHER shoes are being made for men and women, as well as for children. However, there IS a sufficient quantity of good, serviceable shoe material available to meet ES-SENTIAL civilian requirements.

While fewer pairs of children's shoes have been made since the war started, the DEMAND has actually been GREATER and the SHORTAGE is felt more acutely for the following reasons:

- 1. Children wear out their shoes more quickly than do adults. And because children also OUTGROW their shoes, they seldom have extras in reserve.
- 2. The rubber shortage has severely limited the number of tennis shoes available to boys and girls . . . this has added to the demand for LEATHER SHOES.
- 3. A sharp increase in the birth rate each year for the past three years has also put a heavier demand on leather required for additional babies' shoes.

What should I do to make my children's shoes last longer?

- 1. Always clean shoes thoroughly and treat them frequently with a good polish to preserve the uppers.
- 2. When shoes get wet, stuff the toes with cloth or paper to preserve their shape, and dry them away from excessive heat. After they're thoroughly dry, apply polish or other leather preservative.
- 3. At the earliest indication of needed repairs, take shoes (if still the correct size) to the repairman. Don't wait until it's too late and the shoes are beyond repair.
- 4. Alternate the wearing of new shoes and older ones . . . provided the older pair is still large enough.
- 5. See that rubbers or galoshes are worn (when available) in wet weather.

HERE'S A DIFFERENCE:

Real leisure has gone - gone where the spinning wheels, slow wagons and old fashioned pack hearts of Americans than ever beis almost unknown and thinking people have no vacant hours and no time which hangs heavy on their hands.

Everybody is on the go now, and where are they going?

They are going out after pleas ure and, in that way, they hope to find happiness but there's a difference in the two things.

Pleasure is found in playing golf, driving a fine car, seeing a good movie or in many other forms of diversion but happiness is something that is found in your own heart and mind.

Pleasure is very short lived but The ones who are the happiest

It has been tried and proven many times over and those who do out for themselves.

Happiness must be shared to be real. No one can live happily in a house that is haunted by the ghost of selfishness.

The war is beginning to bore me now, like practically everyone else. The invasion was a God-send for our failing morale-picking it to new heights and sort of spurring our efforts. I imagine everyone will feel the same effect.

I hope, Grandmother and Grandfather, that you two are in good health and take care of yourselves. Good luck, and write. Love.

RECEIVES PURPLE HEART AFTER SON'S POSTHUMOUS I can't think of a place I'd PRESIDENTIAL CITATION

Mrs. Eva Hodnett last week received the Purple Heart which had been awarded posthumously to her son. She had already received a Presidential Citation. The medal has been put on display among the War Exhibit at Community Public Service Company's office in Hico. A letter accompanying the medal read as follows: Dear Mrs. Hodnett: The Bureau takes pleasure in forwarding the Purple Heart and certificate awarded your late son. R. J. Hodnett, Coxswain, United States Navy, in accordance with General Order of January 21, 1943 which reads in part as follows: "The Secretary of the Navy is further authorized and directed to award the Purple Heart, posthumously, in the name of the President of the United States, to any persons who, while serving in any capacity with Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard of the United States, since December 6, 1941, are killed in action or who die as a direct result of wounds received in action with an enemy of the United States, or as a result of an act of such enemy."

The medal is being forwarded under separate cover. Please acknowledge receipt on the enclosed form.

Sincerely yours. G. M. STODDARD. Captain, U. S. N. Assistant Director Enlisted Performance Division

There are several other items in connection with this story, any or all of which may have to be changed up before you read this. If you have any business dealings with Hurricane Henry, you'd better hunt him up quick, for we're not vouching as to his present location. All the editor knows is that he sold the corporal a couple of second-hand light fixtures at new prices Thursday morning. But he ouight to be glad we didn't go in the black market on him, for though they were several years old the fixtures were as good as new and we should have held him up for a bonus. Bet that's what his old buddy, Corporal Beaumont, now in Italy, would have done.
