Ex-H. H. S.-ers (we don't claim credit for that word) seen around the premises last week were Shirley Ince. Joyce Bruner, Evelyn Wren and Mr. Roy C. Boaz. Those who knew our former band director will find nothing unusual in calling him a member of H. H. S. He was truly a part of our school, entering into every activity with customary zeal and standing ready to serve any need. Mr. Boaz's many friends were glad to see him looking healthy and prosperous.

Paint protection pays. Because building repair ma are so hard to get now, it's all the more important to protect surfaces with the best of paints. Du Pont House Paint forms a beautiful, durable film - and effectively guards against rot, rust, and decay.

2 Starts white, stays white. Du Pont House Paint is made with that whitest of white pigments-titanium dioxide. That's why it will make your house glisten whiter than you've ever thought possible! Yes, and it will stay that way, too. Because . . .

It's self-cleaning. Au paints collect dirt on exposure. But, with Du Pont House Paint, "self-cleaning" starts after a few months of normal weather conditions. A fine white powder forms on the surface. Heavy rains wash this away, carrying the dirt with it -leaving the newly exposed surface clean and white again! (Unusual climatic or dirt-collecting conditions in extremely sooty industrial communities may, of course delay this process.) Because this "self-cleaning" is gradual, the wearing qualities of the paint film are not abnormally affected.

Despite this remarkable quality of Du Pont House Paint, it costs no more than other good paints.

SECRET OF SUCCESS—HARD WORK

Meet two boys who did one of the most difficult things in the world to do! They thought up a new way to earn money!

They are Richard Welliver, 17 years old, and his brother Buster Welliver, a year younger. One summer, they found they had to earn money. These two not only earned it but developed a nice business of their own.

One day, while they were trying to think up an idea, their mother sent Richard to the grocery on an errand. He didn't want to go; pouted. Then suddenly, on the way, an idea tore through him like a China Clipper through a cloud. If his mother wanted errands run for her, why other women did, too! Maybe merchants.

He broke all records in getting to the grocery store and back. Buster liked the idea, and right then and there a new business was born. They organized a business which they call the "Shoppers' Service. These are the steps they took:

First-They had some letters mimeographed-giving their names, telephone number, and the amount they charged.

Second-They went to the merchants and told them and left their circulars.

Third-They oiled their bicycles and had wire baskets put on the handlebars. The first day six calls came in. The charge for each was 10 cents. The second day four calls came in. It took two weeks for the tide to turn. Then 33 orders came in one day. They took their profits and had circulars printed to replace their flimsy mimeographs, 10,000 of them.

Here is part of a letter I received from them: "We now have 10 boys working for us, and we are going to add more.

"We open at 7:30 in the morning and stay on the job until 10. Our day boys work until five, then our night boys come on right after school. We also have a good deal of fun. We are now getting between 700 and 1,000 calls a week. We think that is pretty good."

·So did I! And you are doing two vital things-studying and working. Here is a quotation from the boys' circular: "The secret of success is hard work. Maybe that is why it has remained a secret to so many.'

The manager of a theater in Texas is one of the most successful men in his line of work that I know. He told me that he stood in the lobby each night from 7 to 10 o'clock greeting the people who came. He said that any success he had achieved was largely due to the fact that he could call 75 per cent of his patrons by their first names, and that he knew where they liked to sit. He greets the patrons and tells the usher where they want to be seated. If he notices a man who hasn't been there in a couple of weeks. he asks why he happened not to come. He makes it a point to know the type of show his patrons like so that if they call him up to ask if it is the kind of show they would enjoy, he can usually tell them. Unless he knows the show is one the patron will enjoy he tells him not to come. His success is due to his friendly interest in his patrons.

Eyestrain Picks Its Victims YOUNG!

NE school child in five, on the average, has defective vision. Four college students in ten are victims of eye troubles. Accustomed for centuries to outdoor living, mankind has never adjusted eyes to indoor lighting.

Fortunately science is bringing sunlight indoors. And the science of seeing is teaching us how to use indoor light with least danger of eyestrain. Here are four simple rules for eyesight conservation it will pay every family to follow:

Do all reading, studying, sewing or game-playing close to a good light source, preferably a modern reading lamp.

2 Avoid shadows. Make sure you have good light directly on your book or work. Shadows strain eyes.

Avoid glare from bare bulbs. Don't sit facing the light. Glare strains
