Exploits of Brave Men in Texas' Own 36th Division

(An excerpt from the broadcast Sept. 8, 1944—"Norton McGiffin in the News," a radio feature of Burrus Mills, Millers of Light Crust Flour and manufacturers of Texo Feeds. The programs are broadcast at 12:30 Noon, Mondays through Fridays, over the Texas Quality Network—WBAP, Fort Worth; WFAA, Dallas; WOAI, San Antonio, and KPRC, Houston.)

At Temple, Texas, a state memorial will one day rise in honor of the 36th Division; it will be a shrine which Texans can visit in the days to come, a museum and auditorium for which funds are now being raised. Right now a statewide competition for the best design of the memorial is being carried out by the Texas Society of Architects. At Brownwood, Texas, where the 36th was trained, at Camp Bowie, citizens plan to erect a marker which will be dedicated next month. In the 36th Division memorial park at Lake Brownwood. That marker will be of red Texas granite, and the design on the marker will be the T-arrow emblem of the 36th Division.

Such activities here in the Lone Star State bear eloquent testimony to the fact that Texans will remember always the heroic valor of Texas' own 36th; it was just a year ago, September 9, 1943, that a great allied naval fleet escorted into the Bay of Salerno, Italy, barges carrying the allied Fifth Army; one of that army's units was the 36th Division. It was a hot division, this 36th of Texas, untried in battle but eager to prove its worth to America. Onto the beach at dawn, out of the landing boats, the LCT's and the LCI's, stumbled the men of the 36th, into a flaming inferno of destruction. On the hills behind Salerno were German 88 millimeter guns; below them Nazi machine gunners were thickly sprinkled; the landing at Salerno was no surprise to the Germans.

Someone had blundered; perhaps Army intelligence had believed too many tales told us by Italian officers who had just ceased being pals of Hitler. The Germans were ready for us at Salerno; 2500 yards out in the bay, the shells whined fiercely into our landing craft. But the men with the T and the Tomahawk splashed ashore; theirs not to reason why; all they knew was that the Germans were in front of them strongly entrenched. In the first hours of that fateful September dawn, Texans of the 36th did more than was expected of them. The first wave of assault troops crossed the beaches and plunged head-on into Nazi defense trenches, cleverly criss-crossed. This initial objective was a railroad track which ran parallel to the shore, 1,000 yards inland.

The air for hours was full of shell fragments; the 36th took it. It had to fight with machine guns and rifles and a few light artillery guns against heavy German tanks; our heavy guns did not get ashore until 9:30 that morning. And so the men of the 36th bent their heads to the storm of shell and slogged their way forward. Against them fought veterans of the 16th German Panzer Division; down to the water's edge came Mark VI tanks, heavy steel monsters which seemed inhuman. Thirteen of them attacked a squad of Texans commanded by Sergeant John W. Whittaker; with a single self-propelled 75, he knocked out four at close range and was promoted on the spot to a commission. At Salerno Sergeant James M. Logan of Luling, Texas, first man ashore from his boat in the first wave which hit the beaches, went to work with his rifle, firing point blank into the German infantry pouring down to meet the invaders. He won the Congressional Medal of Honor in a battle where every man was a hero.

The 36th stood and fought there on the Salerno beach until the waters of the bay were churned into crimson foam, fought until the stubborn Panzer units retreated into the hills, fought in spite of the red hot steel which tore big gaps in the wall of Texans. They would not be driven into the sea, although Hitler's most fanatical troops did their best to stamp out the bridgehead. For the men of the 36th carried in their hearts the memory of that earlier 36th which lost 5,000 casualties in the Meuse-Argonne battle back in 1918. They remembered that one of the best regiments of the 36th, the 141st Infantry, was born during the whirlwind Texas revolution, fought under the Stars and Bars in Hood's immortal Texas brigade, served in the Spanish-American War and in World War I. They recalled that they were heirs of a great military tradition; concealed in the staff of the Lone Star battle flag they carried into action lay a capsule which contained the message William B. Travis wrote to the world when Santa Anna besieged the Alamo. Said Col. Travis, "I shall never surrender or retreat." There on the beach at Salerno, the men of the 36th made good that promise again. They pushed the Germans back; the third battalion of the 141st Infantry, men from San Antonio, from Luling, from Gonzales, from Waelder, from San Benito, received a presidential citation for valor. They showed the Germans to Naples and beyond; with other units of the allied Fifth Army, they slogged their way into Cassino.

Infantry units of the 36th were

NORTON MCGIFFIN

Norton McGiffin whose interesting analysis of the latest news from world battlefronts and from Washington is heard daily over the Texas Quality Network—comprising stations WFAA, Dallas; WBAP, Fort Worth; WOAI, San Antonio; and KPRC, Houston—Mondays thru Fridays at 12:30 Noon. McGiffin makes the news more interesting by giving it a human touch, and presents his stories about world personalities in the headlines in a most interesting way.

suffering heavy casualties; replacements came in from New Jersey, Tennessee and Pennsylvania, including one Charles "Commando" Kelly, 145 pounds of wildcat. At Cassino infantrymen of the 36th fought their way across the Rapido River, into the barbed wire, the mortar fire, the mines of strongly entrenched Germans. Two attempts failed; the third was called off. Texans had attempted the impossible, and had almost succeeded.

Then came the landing at Anzio, the swift push to Rome by way of Velletri where the 36th Division out-flanked some of Germany's best units to take part in the final assault on Rome. Next the Texans, native sons and honorary citizens, fought their way from the Eternal City to the Gothic line, smashing the German 10th army on the way. Today they are fighting on French soil, together with Oklahoma's 48th Division, part of that spearhead of invasion launched against the Southern Coast of France and moving rapidly inland. They have well upheld the reputation of the old 36th which went into action 26 years ago at Chalons-sur-Marne, relieving the battle-weary Marines of the Second Division. They have equalled the record of the so-called "Lost Battalion," the 36th Division artillery unit detached from the old outfit and sent into action against the Japs in the green jungles of Java.

And so, today, Texas remembers the 36th, remembers the men who took the best the Germans could give at Salerno and beat them down, remembers the men who fought cold and hunger and mud at Cassino, remembers the men who blasted their way to Rome and beyond. No wonder their great commander, Maj. Gen. Floyd L. Walker, said at Temple on August 16th of this year that "the sufferings of Valley Forge do not even compare with the privations the men in the 36th Division faced in Italy." He should know; he was there. He saw the dead fall with their faces to the tanks and the machine gun nests; he saw the living press on to attain their objectives. We pay sincere tribute knowing that their exploits will become part of the legendary lore of the Lone Star State; the Whittakers, the Logans, the Commando Kellys, the Johnny Spragues of the 36th Division will be remembered as long as Texas rivers run down to the sea, and as long as Texas winds blow through the tall pines and over the prairie grass.

REFLECTIONS

In the beginning we overlooked one purpose of this column which now demands attention. We designated student and faculty opinion, but neglected to mention that the observations of outsiders also would be delineated. A certain notion of taxpayers and football fans, interested in our school and our squad, has come to our attention. From them have come criticisms of a constructive nature concerning our team, and with their ideas as a basis the Editor has here enlarged upon an ever-present problem.

What we say is directed to the boys alone and regards things they should know and practice from having dabbled in the game of football prior to this year. We are also allowing for the inevitable come-back. If there are those who doubt the veracity of our statements or the practicality of our suggestions, let them see the Editor for further discussion.

Football experts all agree that the game is won or lost long before the contest itself takes place. Training is an essential factor. Without it no individual or group was ever victorious in any field of physical endeavor. So it naturally follows that a football player can not stay out, until the few hours of the night before a game and expect to give the best evidence of his strength and ability. He can not smoke habitually, or even moderately, and keep his wind up to par. He can not eat irregularly, certainly not just before a game, and still be in proper condition for grid-iron battles. By the star players, Tigers, by the men who take football seriously, these things simply are not done. You are not different from the best. You are no rare examples of super-human endurance. You, too, must adopt a few primary training rules and stick to them, not partially but completely, with greater accomplishments in mind. This you must do if Hico is to play winning ball against her opponents.

There is a sting in these words and so there is meant to be. How are faults corrected if not by arousing a bit of irritation. Local backers want to see a good showing. They are for their team when the team is all out for them. But they will not continue to be enthusiastic about players who either through a lack of desire or a lack of intestinal fortitude fail to train. The preceding we have dared to express because we have the interest of the boys and of Hico most surely at heart. Such a reproach does not mean a lessening of our support, personally, for the Tigers. On the contrary, it is an indication that we stand behind them firmer than ever. We're trying to assist you to rise.

GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

The Seniors of '43 and '44 have departed to distant places and different callings. This rapid dispersal shows how quickly a class can lose contact with its members.

Inquiry brings to light the fact that four of the five boys who registered as Seniors last year are in the Armed Service of America. The Navy claims three of them: Moody Ross, Billy McKenzie, and Frank Gano. Moody is attending North West Missouri State Teachers' College at Marysville. Billy and Frank are located at San Diego Naval Base. Buzzie Liljequist, the class's Army man, is stationed at Fort Knox, Kentucky. The fifth boy, Shirley Ince, is enrolled at John Tarleton College. Anita Oakley is also at John Tarleton for the fall semester. Other ex-Seniors attending college are Jimmie Ruth Thompson at N. T. S. T. C., Mary Nell Ellington at Mary Hardin-Baylor, and Carolyn Holford at the University of Texas. Some are remaining in Hico for the present. Elva Jo Rainwater works three days a week in Hamilton; Mary Ona Whitson is employed at Wiseman's Studio, joined off and on by Dixie Littleton; Billy Jean Williamson holds down her corner of the Corner Drug. Inez Shipman has been working in Glen Rose and is at home for a rest. Margie Lee Simmons is in Hico.

Three girls are employed out of town. Wynonne Slaughter and Louise Noland are welcoming folks to Wolf & Klar in Fort Worth, and La Verne Phillips is working at the hospital in Sanatorium, Texas. Once they were Seniors; today they are men and women, taking their positions in an adult world.

BULLDOGS SWAMP HICO, BUT HEFNER MAKES TOUCHDOWN

Hamilton rejoiced exceedingly Friday night when the Bulldogs defeated the Tigers in a hard-fought struggle. Hico began well, but was unable to keep up the pace. Well-run interference line changes and a fast backfield for the Bulldogs resulted in forty points, six touchdowns, and four conversions for extra point.

As the game progressed, spectators rate up the home of seeing Hico score. Then with only ten minutes by the stop-watch, Griffith sent a forward pass into the arms of Hefner, who ran several yards for the Tigers' first touchdown of the season.

Another feature of the evening was the Pan Squad leaders appearing in new uniforms.

WHO'S WHO IN THE SENIOR CLASS

This week we would like to introduce Glenn Hutton, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Hutton.

Glenn is 5 ft. 9 1/2 in. tall. He has brown hair and green eyes.

His favorites are: Food, ice cream; actor, Van Johnson; actress, Lana Turner; subject, Math; teacher, Mrs. Angell.

At the present time Glenn is undecided about the girl of his dreams. However he says he prefers the Betty Grable or Judy Canova type.

He says his hobby is "working on my Model T." We all notice he keeps it spying a lot, but about the running condition, no one knows.

After graduation he plans to enter John Tarleton if Uncle Sam doesn't give him a job.

JUNIOR NEWS

Last week the Juniors had two class meetings, but no definite action was taken.

We wish to express our deepest sympathy to Stella Barnett whose brother, Bertice Jr., has been reported missing in action.

The Juniors are losing a classmate who came to us when we were Freshmen. He is Ralph Ellis, who is moving to Crystal City. We hate to see Ralph leave. Here's our best wishes to go with him, though.

FRESHMAN NEWS

The Freshman Class has made a few changes in the seating arrangement of the home room. Miss Hammons explained to everyone that it was not done because the ones moved were not good, but just to be sure they stay good.

Our General Math class had a little difficulty in getting off on the right foot. Mrs. Segrest is such a splendid Math teacher that she soon straightened us out. We are pleased to report we are doing fine.

Mrs. Segrest said, "R. W. I think you should have a medal pinned on you because you can actually recognize a prepositional phrase when you see one." Keep up the good work, R. W.

THIS AND THAT

By JOE SMITH DYER

DREAMS:

You don't believe in dreams, do you? The day of the dream book is gone. Dreaming of fire no longer indicates that hasty news is coming to you. We know now that struggles in muddy water, or in old abandoned houses, are dreams stirred up because there is some kind of a struggle taking place in our stomachs because we forgot to be wise in eating.

Cinderella dreams, like those of Prince Charming, are attributed to the subconscious mind, and perhaps the movie we saw the evening before has much to do with this particular kind of a dream.

Despite the fact that the dream book is out of date, we still believe in dreams—we MUST believe in them. We should all dream and aspire to make our dreams come true. Dreaming causes us to aspire, reflect, ponder, meditate, and dreams give us a kind of courage that makes us want to keep on keeping on.

It's good to dream. Dreaming keeps one's subconscious mind active, productive and in order, and a good many of the things we do in reality are born within that subconscious mind.

THERE'S SOMETHING WRONG WITH THESE:

"I simply will not have any more new clothes until Mother gets her a new dress," said the young girl.

"So you lost $60 in a poker game? That's all right, dear. I'll do without my new coat," said the wife.

"Write and tell your mother-in-law to come and spend a week or two with us," said the husband.

"Come in and buy all you want, any time you want it, whether you have the money or not. I just don't need it," said the manager of the department store.

DUST STORMS AT SEA:

It does not sound at all reasonable to speak of dust storms at sea, but it has happened.

On August 6th, 1930 the freighter El Dorado came into Galveston Harbor and reported that on the 1st day of that month it ran into a dust storm in the Caribbean Sea and that it lasted for five hours. The captain said that boxes of dust were swept off the freighter's decks and that the food they ate that day had a dusty taste.

In 1932 the SS Harben of the Far Pacific line ran into a dust storm in the Indian Ocean which lasted for an entire day and night. The dust was red and was so dense that it made it very difficult to follow their regular course of navigation. Officers on the Harben said that doubtless the dust came from the desert and the strong wind had blown it many hundreds of miles out on the water.

DISCRETION:

A young lady said to me the other day: "I am honest and I simply have to speak what's on my mind regardless of what it is."

At some time or other we all feel that way—that same certainty which is the certainty of youth—but the years teach us discretion.

Rat Extermination Urged for Prevention of Typhus Fever

AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—Reports coming into the State Health Department indicate the presence of typhus fever in almost all sections of the state without any particular apparent regard to city or rural population, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

In urging full cooperation from all communities in a campaign to exterminate rats and thus control the possibly increasing incidence of typhus Dr. Cox said, "It must be kept in mind that the rats act as a reservoir of the typhus germ, and the rat flea is the means by which typhus is transmitted to man.

Dr. Cox recommends a four-point extermination program, in addition to the already widely used poisoning campaign, which he asserts will assure more than temporary typhus control.

In discussing the education measures, Dr. Cox stated that the State Department of Health has available motion picture films on the subject of rodent control and that the Department has also issued a bulletin outlining rodent control measures.

HOUSE HOME By MARY E. DAGUE

Every woman has a deep interest in the food she feeds her family. The nutritive value, the family's likes and dislikes, the eye appeal, the taste appeal, and the cost, all factors in her food problem.

It behooves all of us to study food values from many angles. The potency of the nutritive content of certain foods in comparison with others determines the desirability of each particular food.

A careful study of food values in relation to costs shows that some types are much more economical than others. Some foods supply only one or two nutrients the body needs while others are important sources of several.

Milk is another economical source of several essential nutrients. Calcium and phosphorus, proteins of good quality, as well as vitamins A and G are abundant in milk.

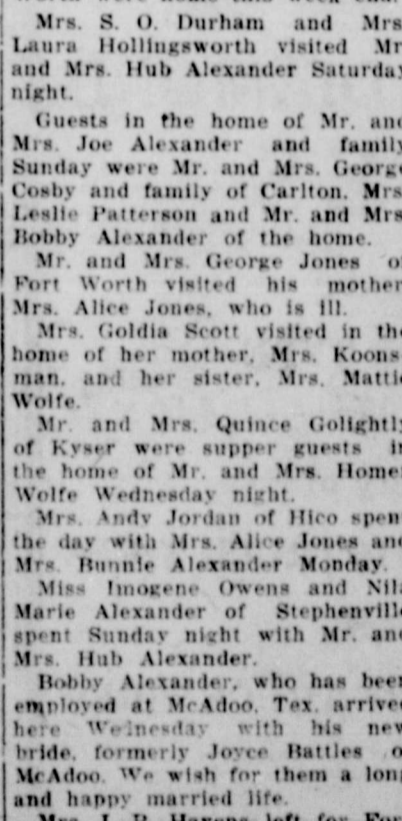

Speaking of cereals let me put in a plea for a good substantial breakfast. This meal should contribute one-third of the day's food needs.

B. & P. W. Club Has Monthly Meeting At Russell Hotel

The Hico Business and Professional Women's Club met in regular monthly session Tuesday night, Oct. 3, at the Russell Hotel, with Mrs. Hays, Mrs. Aycocock and Mrs. Wilson as hostesses.

This occasion was the third anniversary of the club and the dinner table had as its center decoration the birthday cake holding three lighted candles. After a delicious dinner, Mrs. Lane, the president, told something of the organization and what the club had accomplished over a three-year period, made a wish for the future of the club, and blew out the candles with the wish.

Mrs. S. E. Blair was the guest of the evening and in her charming manner gave a review of a very interesting book, "Cluny Brown" by Margery Sharp. At the present time most everyone is interested in England and in what goes on there, and as the story of Cluny Brown had its setting in England, and gave some idea of the home life of the people who live there, Mrs. Blair could not have chosen a better book to interest the club members. It is sincerely hoped to have her with the club again.

Twenty-seven members answered roll call, with the following guests: Mrs. Clinton Ritchey of Houston; Mrs. D. C. Beck, Mrs. Kate Roberts, and Mrs. Blair. REPORTER.

Review Club Opens Season With Tea At Mrs. Randals' Home

Mrs. Angell greeted the guests. Mrs. Wolfe, the president, gave a message of inspiration to the members. Mrs. E. H. Randals, the parliamentarian, reviewed the club constitution. The course of study for the year, Russia, was discussed by Mrs. Colwick.

During the social hour after the program, tea was served from a beautifully decorated table, with Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Angell pouring.

Others present were Mrs. Maud Appleby, Mrs. W. H. Greenslit, Mrs. Boyd Greenway, Mrs. R. B. Jackson, Mrs. L. N. Lane, Mrs. Webb McEver, Mrs. Harry T. Penson, Mrs. Lusk Randals, Mrs. H. E. McCullough, Mrs. D. H. Persons, and Miss DeAlva Harmon. REPORTER.

When war broke out, Marine Sgt. Maier J. Rothschild of New York City was studying journalism at night, selling stocks in Wall Street daytime. On December 31, 1941, 24 days after Pearl Harbor, he enlisted. He's been awarded the Purple Heart for wounds received in hand to hand bayonet combat, and the Navy Cross for fighting off and killing 95 out of 150 of the enemy storming a machine-gun emplacement. He's not giving up until we win. And you? Are you still buying that extra War Bond?

F 2/c R. E. WYLY VISITS NEW DAUGHTER — GETS VISITED

R. E. Wyly, Fireman Second Class, came in last week end for a visit here with his wife and young daughter, Shirley Ann, who was born on Sept. 26 in the Stephenville Hospital. Mrs. Wyly and baby are making their home here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Varnell.

Other week-end visitors in the Varnell home were the serviceman's mother, Mrs. Alice Wyly, and his sisters, Mrs. Earl Smith and Mrs. R. E. Schrimser and son, Kenneth Roy, all of Fort Worth; Mrs. Emma Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Jackson of Chalk Mountain; Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Wyly and son of Johnsville, and Mr. and Mrs. Odell Graham and daughter, Clodell, of Glen Rose.

Fireman Wyly accompanied his mother and sisters as far as Fort Worth this week and returned to his station at Gulfport, Miss., where he is attending a basic engineering school.

CORPORAL ADAMS WRITES PRAISING FRENCH PEOPLE

Cpl. Billie C. Adams has written his sister, Miss Aline Adams, that he arrived safely in France. He told her that the French people really showed that they had shared their part in this war.

Corporal Adams' wife, the former Dorothy Land, and baby are making their home here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Land.

Cpl. Roy Meador and wife, here recently on furlough from Camp Breckenridge, Ky., are now at Fort Sill, Okla., according to an address given this week by his brother, Charlie. Roy got orders to report at Fort Sill before leaving here, but they had to go back to Kentucky to get their trailer and the rest of their things.

GREETINGS TO FAMILIES OF FIFTH ARMY ORDNANCE MEN SERVING OVERSEAS

From Col. Urban Niblo, Army Ordnance Officer with the Fifth Army in Italy, last week came a V-Mail letter to Mrs. Mary S. Bell of Duffau about the part being played in the war by her son, 1st Sgt. Alvin A. Bell, a veteran of eight years in the Army, two of them overseas. The letter follows:

Headquarters 5th Army
Army Ordnance Office
APO 464, U. S. Army
September 9, 1944

A year ago today the Fifth United States Army landed on the Salerno beaches. To us fell the honor of being the first Americans to strike a blow for the freedom of the world on the mainland of Hitler-dominated Europe. We met there a strong and confident foe and for twelve months we have engaged him in the bitterest kind of fighting under vigorous climatic conditions and over arduous terrain. Much depends on those landings. A large number of Nazi divisions were engaged, of which almost one-half have been destroyed. Enemy casualties and prisoners are numbered in the hundreds of thousands. German soldiers and critically needed supplies have been diverted from other fronts—the present successes of our armies in France were born on the beaches of Salerno.

As Fifth Army Ordnance Commander I chose this first anniversary of Salerno to tell you, whose sons, husbands, fathers, brothers, and sweethearts make up the Fifth Army Ordnance Service, how much pride you may feel in the job they are doing. I have seen them in sleet and mud performing miracles of mechanical skill, miracles which have enabled our Army to keep up the fight. I have seen them calmly carrying on the work in the supply depots and ammunition dumps during the dark days when enemy shelling and bombing was at its height, work which was indispensable in preventing the enemy from driving us off the beach into the sea. I admire their skill and efficiency but above all I admire their spirit—the spirit which keeps them working in the face of continual and seemingly insurmountable difficulties and which never allows them to admit defeat. I congratulate you for imbuing your sons with this spirit.

There are indications that your efforts on the home front and ours on the fighting front are not without results. The day of Victory is approaching and with it the day when your Fifth Army Ordnance men will return to you to enjoy the peace which they have worked so well to win.

Sincerely,
URBAN NIBLO,
Col. Ord. Dept.

ARMED GUARD SAILOR SAVES HIS DUTY'S "REALLY ROUGH"

Fred Jaggars Jr. arrived Monday from the West Coast to spend his seven-day leave here with his parents and friends.

Fred is seaman first class in the Armed Guard, and has been in the Pacific for several months. He said he had been to Saipan and several other places and his only statement was: "I'm telling you, it's really rough."

S/Sgt. and Mrs. Helen Ratliff and little son "Skipper," of Abilene spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ratliff. Skipper remained with his grandparents for a longer visit, presumably to witness the Hico-Meridian football game.

CURRIE'S "CARRYING THE BALL" THROUGH FRANCE RIGHT INTO GERMANY

France
Date Unknown

Hello, Holford:
I'm sorry I didn't write you before. I really haven't had much time for it. You can ask my mother and dad about that.

I don't know whether the other boys here are writing or not, but I guess we are all in the same shoes. I haven't seen any of the Hico boys in quite a while now. We're all scattered, but you can bet that's all right.

I've really seen some interesting things over here. I'd love to tell you but can't. I'll tell you all about it when I get home again.

Just before we left England I received a short letter from Rudy Segrist. I thought I'd get to see him, but left too soon. I also received a change of address from my old buddy, Gilbert Horton. He is over here somewhere by now, I guess. I'd give anything to run onto some of those guys.

I guess school is in big swing by now. I sure would like to be back in school myself. Those were the best days of my life. I'll bet they have a heavy football team this year.

I really had fun while in England. There were thousands of beautiful women. The only trouble I had was in counting my money.

We haven't been paid in two months, but when we do get it, it will be French money. We haven't received any mail in over a month and it's really getting rugged without it, too. The last letter I had from Derwood and Wayne, they talked as though they would soon be back in the States. I sure hope they are. Do Raby Bruner and Walter Ramey ever write you? I'll bet they don't, though. After Raby got married he quit writing me. I had two letters from Walter while in England.

It's 10:00 o'clock in the morning here, and you are still asleep. It's only about midnight there.

I must close now so be good and say hello to everyone for me.

Always,
CURRIE
(Cpl. Currie Poik)

P. S.: Please excuse this awful writing. I'm in an awful position to write, and with this darn stationery!—Currie.

Dear Currie: Glad to get your letter and know you are doing your part on that old line just like you did in football for Hico High. Hope you get this issue, especially for in the school news you will find a piece addressed to the players you'll appreciate. Since I was one of the fans that was "gripping" I know you will remember how we used to talk about these things with you lads on the team, and how you'd always take our criticism constructively. Playing football isn't the most important thing in the world, we know, but you have said yourself that you learned some things on the gridiron and in practice that have showed you it paid to take your training seriously. I know you boys will understand the team's handicap this year, and that all you ask of them is to do their best. If they do that, there won't be a cheep of criticism from the men in service who are still interested in Hico's football squad, will there? No. I haven't heard from either of the boys you mentioned in some time, except indirectly. Walter Ramey called home after getting back into port at New York the other night. I heard, and said he might possibly get a chance to come home soon and forget a few of the tight places he'd been in lately. As for that difference in time you mentioned, it wouldn't make much difference with the wife and me anyhow, for lots of time we aren't in bed at midnight, and sometimes haven't got up at 10 the next morning.

Take good care of yourself, Currie, while getting ready to hang your washing on the Slegfried Line. We folks at home are still putting our money on you and are with you to the last whistle. Sometimes it's the last quarter that counts, isn't it?—ED.

Pfc. T. T. Roberts, who had been in the South Pacific two years last June, including service in the Solomons, wrote recently to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Roberts, Hico Route 2, that he expected to report soon to a hospital as he was getting "worn out." Sgt. Weldon Roberts, another son, has written that he has qualified for overseas service with the Marines, although he is still at Norfolk, Va.

A third son, J. V. Roberts, AMM 2/c, is stationed at Pasco, Washington and has been doing some flying. He was married in July and recently met his wife's parents on a ranch in Idaho.

Mrs. Bettie Ramey was all smiles Wednesday when she returned home from Hamilton to find a telegram from her son, Walter Ramey, S 1/c, stating that he was in Norfolk, Va., and was trying to locate his brother, L. D. Ramey, S 2/c, who is stationed there, and then he would be leaving for Hico. Walter arrived back in the States last Saturday at New York after several months of sea duty carrying him to England and various other Atlantic ports.

"Please hold my paper up a few weeks as I am being transferred," writes Cpl. Robert G. Alton from Morgantown, W. Va. Corporal Alton, son of a former publisher of the News Review, has just finished up 15 months' college work in Electrical Engineering at West Virginia University under the Army Specialized Training Program and is going into the Signal Corps for a new assignment.

J. D. Lively received a letter this week from his brother, Pfc. Rubin Q. Lively, and was very much surprised that he is now stationed at Camp Swift, Private First Class Lively has been overseas for 28 months of which 12 months were spent in the Aleutians. He arrived back in the States around the first of October and hopes to come home some time this month for a visit.

Sgt. and Mrs. Rey Walton from Seattle, Washington, spent a few days of last week in Carlton visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walton, and other relatives. Sergeant Walton, who is a mechanic on the B-29 Super-Fortress, reported to Lincoln, Nebraska for reassignment. Mrs. Walton will make her home with her mother, Mrs. Henry Fulford.

Pvt. Noel Spaulding, now stationed with a chemical battalion at Camp Swift, Texas, is now close enough to Hico to come home on a three-day pass—which he did last week end. Noel said he and his wife played tag all the way from Pennsylvania recently; he was on a troop train and Stella was in a car. Their young son, Bennie, seemed to enjoy it.

Raymond Hefner, who is in a V-12 training section at Southwestern University in Georgetown, Texas, spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Hefner Sr. [What's wrong up at Dallas, Raymond?—ED.]

Frank Bonner, who is at the U. S. Naval Training Center in San Diego, Calif., has written his father, L. F. Bonner of Fairy and Dallas, to start the Hico paper out his way—and here it is, Frank.

Pfc. J. B. Rhodes, who is stationed in New Guinea, wrote his father, G. C. Rhodes, Monday that he had finally received two copies of the News Review and hoped the ensuing issues would follow soon.

Mrs. J. T. Gregory received a letter this week from her son, Pvt. Lee Gregory, who is stationed in England, saying he was doing OK.
