EMPEROR:

His Background

Their authority re-established with the overthrow of the military governors in 1868, the Japanese emperors, supposedly descended from the sun goddess, have exercised their mythical power for the unification of the country to facilitate its imperial development.

With the overthrow of the shogunate shortly after Admiral Perry opened the door of Japan to the outside world, the simple islander, previously owing strict allegiance to the military clan, easily transferred their blind obedience to the mikado.

The present mikado, Hirohito, is a puny, neareding man of 44. He is called the 124th emperor of Japan by the Japanese court authorities. When he ascended the throne in 1926, he chose the word "Showa," meaning "enlightenment and peace," to describe his reign.

Many political experts believe that personally Hirohito wanted peace, but as the puppet of the military clique had to go along with their designs. Actually he wields little real power. His actual "reign" began in 1921, then as prince regent he ruled in his father's stead. He was married in 1924 and is the father of one son and three daughters.

RECONVERSION:

Next Job

With World War II finished, and with the nation's great armament production due to be slashed, interest mounted in the government's program for switching industry back to a peacetime basis and providing continued high employment.

Shortly before the cessation of hostilities, President Truman called in War Production Board Chief Martin Krug to go over plans for speeding up reconversion to prevent a large-scale rupture of the country's economy after V-J day.

At the meeting, it was determined that the WPB was to conduct a vigorous drive for the expansion of production of materials in short supply to meet all demands; limit manufacture of articles requiring scarce materials; establish effective control over material stockpiles to prevent speculative hoarding that would endanger the stabilization program; provide priority assistance to break bottlenecks that might impede the switch back to civilian goods, and allocate scarce materials for lower priced articles so keep costs down.

Amendments to Constitution Will Be Voted On Saturday

Below is a brief resume of the proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution to be voted on August 25, 1945, and is given herein as each amendment will appear on your ballot:

Amendment No. 1. This amendment provides that during the time the United States is engaged in fighting a war, or within one year after the close of the calendar year in which said war is terminated, no person, who at the time of holding any election in this State authorized by law or who within eighteen months immediately prior to the time of holding any such election, was a member of the Armed Forces of the United States or of the Armed Force Reserve or the United States Maritime Service or the United States Merchant Marine, is required to pay a poll tax, or to hold a receipt for the payment of any poll tax assessed against him, in order to vote at any election. The foregoing amendment, if adopted, does not give any person the right to vote who is a member of the regular establishment of the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps.

A VACATION AT HOME SEEMS BETTER TO SERGEANT THAN BATHING IN MEDITERRANEAN

If you can catch Herman Leach still long enough to talk with him you can beat what the editor's been able to do since the staff sergeant's return from two years' overseas service. He came home last week, accompanied by his wife who has been visiting at Fort Lewis, Washington, with her husband's brother, Willard, and wife, Bill, after winding up her railroad career in Colorado when she heard Herman was on his way home. Since then they've been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Leach, and a jillion other people.

Herman, who stayed on the island of Corsica in the Mediterranean with a signal company attached to a 12th Air Force B-25 Mitchell bombardment wing for the major part of the war, was on his way to Italy when news of President Roosevelt's death April 12th came to the ship next day. He had arrived in Italy and was a few miles from the front lines on V-E Day. He is now in the Air Corps, and has until Sept. 13th for something to happen which might change his status.

"This country looks good to me," was about the only remark the editor could work out of Herman, who wears the Presidential Unit Citation with cluster, the Good Conduct Ribbon, the European-African-Middle East theater service ribbon with four battle participation stars, and four gold service stripes on his sleeve, indicating 24 months overseas. Public Relations officers from his outfit have been kind to the home paper, however, by providing the following case history:

Sergeant Leach entered the Army in October, 1942, at Camp Wolters, Tex., and received basic training in Miami Beach, Fla. Thence he was sent to Camp Wood, N. J., being promoted to private first class. After graduation he went to Camp Pinedale, Calif., where he became a technician fifth grade and, in June, 1943, a sergeant. He was promoted to staff sergeant in August, 1943, and came overseas with his company the same month.

Prior to his induction, Sergeant Leach had studied at the Hico High School, being graduated in 1936. After his graduation, he was employed as a bookkeeper by a lumber company, until May, 1935, when he opened his own service station.

During his tour of duty in the Mediterranean Theater, Sergeant Leach has visited Tunis, Naples, Rome, and the world-famous Isle of Capri, just outside the harbor of Naples. His unit was close at hand when the volcano Vesuvius erupted in March, 1944, and provided communications for the Allied Military Government relief units at that time.

Mrs. Jennie McAnally of Brownwood received a notice from the War Department that her son, Pfc. Johnnie McAnally, had been seriously wounded in action on July 31, in the Philippine Islands. His father, A. E. McAnally, lives at Duffau.

Mrs. B. B. Gamble, aunt of the serviceman, received the message Wednesday of this week.

Without a Country

Wearing the uniform of a Belgian army officer, King Leopold of Belgium is shown in Austria, where he is under the protection of an American guard of honor. His refusal to abdicate his throne bars him from returning to Belgium except by permission of the Belgian government.

He Falls 1,500 Feet

The explosion of his ship, caused by collision with another plane, threw Lt. (jg) Alvin E. Levenson of Brooklyn, N. Y., 1,500 feet into the ocean. Wounded, he survived three hours in the water until a navy patrol craft rescued him. He immediately went back into action and has a number of planes and a Jap freighter to his credit.

LOCAL BOMBARDIER NOW ON RYUKYU ISLANDS GLAD TO OVER, THANKS HOMEFOLKS

Ryukyus Islands August 16, 1945

Dear Homefolks:

Since the war is over I will take time out to say hello to you and all the good people of Hico. Not that you can notice the war is over here so very much, but the satisfaction of knowing it is helps. There seems to be a great strain lifted from every man's shoulders—but the load is still very heavy. There is much work to be done in the future and my outfit may be the one that has to do it. That is, part of the ones who have to help. I hope not, though, because I sure would like to get home—like millions of other fellows.

We are grateful to the loved one back home for their backing; without it I am afraid there would not have been many of us to return home. There are many who will not get to go home. I have seen many hard-fighting men from all over the world, including our enemy. It has been a rough war but we are proud to say that we have done our part—or at least have given it a try. I suppose all of us have slacked up at times, but as a whole it has been a constant drive over here three years or longer. That leaves me down the line for returning home quite a ways. I only have a year and a half overseas, with one year from island to island. Take it from me, it has been rough.

All in all, we all will be home some day, back to civilian life, and carrying on in our old jobs. That is what we all want. Until then I'll be saying so-long, and good luck to each and every one of you. Sincerely,

MUTT. (T/Sgt. E. M. Price)

WHAT'S MARYLAND GOT THAT TEXAS HASN'T GOT SONNY?

Sgt. Harold A. Leeth returned to Dallas the first of this week, after having spent several days here and at Hamilton with relatives and friends. Sonny, who was overseas three years, was stationed at Trinidad with the ATC before his return to the States last month, and doesn't know just what the future holds for him.

Some of the remarks he made about the beauties of Maryland—especially one beauty—leads the editor to believe that maybe Sonny will spend the remainder of his furlough in that state. Careful, Sonny.

PFC. JAMES S. BLAKLEY GETS MEDAL POSTHUMOUSLY

Mrs. J. B. Blakley of Sweetwater, formerly of Hico, has received the Purple Heart awarded posthumously to her son, Pfc. James S. Blakley, who died April 21 of wounds received on Okinawa.

Born and reared in Hico, Pfc. Blakley had been overseas three years and had taken part in landings on Saipan, Makin, and Okinawa as a cannoner. Besides his mother, he has a brother, Harrol Glenn, and two sisters, Mrs. Jeff Davis and Mrs. J. K. Strother, all of Sweetwater.—Nolan County News.

Sgt. and Mrs. H. T. Bramblett of Childress arrived early Thursday morning for a visit here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Bramblett.

Poultry Specialist Advises Keeping Hens For High Price Eggs

Conditions indicate that eggs will sell at ceiling prices this fall, according to Sam Moore, poultry specialist for the Texas A and M College Extension Service. He says that farmers should begin making plans now to take advantage of these prices.

Moore believes that pullets and hens that will make good layers this fall and winter should be kept off the market despite any price advantages that may seem to exist at this time for this type of stock.

There are a number of factors that will likely combine to place eggs at a high price level. One of these is the present relative shortage of eggs. This shortage isn't likely to lessen any in the near future, but may, perhaps, intensify, Moore believes. Even though more baby chicks were started this year, such large numbers of hens and pullets have been sold for meat that the numbers of laying birds on farms this fall may be smaller than last year. In addition to this, some items of feed promise to be scarce which will decrease the farmer's ability to attain the highest production from his flocks.

Forehand Squeezing

Housewives have been arguing for years as to whether orange juice should or should not be extracted the night before to save time in preparing breakfast. Well, the question has been answered by U. S. Department of Agriculture chemists as result of research at the Florida Citrus Products Station.

The chemists test both orange and grapefruit juice extracted by hand and by machine—and stored covered and uncovered—in the refrigerator and at room temperature.

They found that preparing juice the night before causes little of any loss of Vitamin C or flavor, no matter how it is kept. But if prepared too long in advance, the juice changes flavor and begins to ferment.

Keeping juice covered and in a cold place is best for saving flavor. Juice held at room temperature begins to change flavor after two days; in the refrigerator, after three days.

The Vitamin C in the juice is so stable, however, that it does not suffer for several days, whether the juice is covered or not, and whether it is in the refrigerator or out in the kitchen.

Extracting by hand or by machine makes no marked difference either in flavor or vitamin content.

National War Fund "Victory" Campaign Slated For October

Austin, Texas.—The October "Victory" campaign will be the last drive on behalf of the National War Fund, Judge Ben H. Powell, president of the United War Chest of Texas, announced today.

Following completion of the 1945 campaign, which will raise funds to keep USO and other war fund agencies going until America's fighting men have been returned home, both the United War Chest of Texas and the National War Fund will liquidate, Judge Powell said.

The state war chest leader called on all Texans to make the October "Victory" drive the greatest of all. "Through our generosity in this final campaign, we can show our fighting men and our allies our full appreciation for their sacrifices," Judge Powell declared. "Funds raised this year will maintain USO-Camp Show operations for our men still abroad and for occupation troops, and provide vitally necessary aid for suffering war victims in liberated areas.

"It should be our greatest effort for only by generous response to the appeal of humanity can we prove to the world that Americans can be as generous in victory as we were determined in war.

"Millions of our men still are overseas, and large numbers will be left on occupation duty in Europe and Japan. We cannot abandon our service men now, just because victory has been won. We must help them fight the battle of boredom, and prove to them that our appreciation of their great sacrifices is more than a mere phrase.

"And we must extend a helping hand to our allies in the Philippines, in China and in other liberated countries, in order that they may once again take their rightful place among friendly nations.

"We can't let them down now, just because the fighting is over," Judge Powell urged Texans in every part of the state to an all-out effort on behalf of the coming campaign, through which the nation must raise $115,000,000 "for our own and our allies."

Texas, which went over the top in two previous war fund drives, has been given a quota of approximately $4,500,000. This means that every community and county will be asked to give this year approximately the same amount as contributed during the 1944 campaign.

The National War Fund drive will open October 1, with local community and county war chests canvassing every residential and business area in Texas.

Millions of Flies Cause Illnesses and Disease Over Texas

Austin, Texas, August 20. Millions of flies help to cause the illness and death of thousands of children and adults each year in the United States. Hundreds of these casualties may be in the State of Texas this year if residents fail in their responsibility for developing the best possible sanitation measures in the area where they reside. Typhoid fever, summer complaint, and other intestinal diseases can be traced to the common housefly as the carrier of infection.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, speaking in this connection recently said, "Be sure that your windows and doors are tightly screened so that stray flies from a careless neighbor will not endanger your family. Be sure that flies are kept away from food, drink, and utensils used in the preparation of food. Make sure, if you live in rural districts, that outside privy vaults are tightly covered so as not to permit the entrance of flies. Infections from this source can be picked up and spread to human beings through contact with food, drink, and utensils. Keep all garbage covered until collected or buried. Eliminate all breeding places for flies and you will be helping your community in its work of controlling communicable diseases and preventing unnecessary illness.

Dr. Cox said that the State Health Department would furnish upon request a pamphlet outlining safe and practical methods recommended for use in fly control.

Mrs. Johnnie A. Turner

On August 14, 1945, at 7:10 p. m. the sweet spirit of Mrs. Johnnie A. Turner passed to its reward. She had been in poor health for several months following an attack of the flu. Although she had been up most of the time, Tuesday morning she wasn't feeling so well and was in bed most of the morning, but she was feeling better in the afternoon and was so glad to hear over the radio that the war was over and exclaimed, "Thank the Lord, the war is over." She told her daughter she believed she'd have to lie down, and she walked over to the couch. We laid her down, and in a few minutes she breathed her last, in my arms. She was conscious to the very last "How swiftly our noble ones are falling," for whether in youth or old age, death at last must make the end of this earthly race.

Mrs. Turner was devoted to her only child, a daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Stapp. She never lacked for attention for her daughter counted it a privilege and a pleasure to show to her mother her love and devotion in her declining years. She expressed no desire that was not gratified if it were possible. It was always a pleasure to visit in her home, and she would watch for my coming and was always the same sweet motherly woman, and I grew to love her more dearly each day. She was always ready to lend me a helping hand when her health permitted.

Funeral services were held in the home Wednesday afternoon at six o'clock, conducted by Elder O. O. Newton of Pottsville with burial in the local cemetery by the side of her husband who preceded her in death December 28, 1931.

Barrow funeral directors of Hico had charge of all arrangements. Pallbearers were Rance Sowell, Fred Geye, John H. Clark, W. E. Ledbetter, John Box, and Charley Bain. Flower girls were Mrs. John H. Clark and Mrs. Dow Self.

Johnnie A. Munn was born Aug. 3, 1860, in South Carolina to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Munn. Her father passed away when she was an infant. She came to Texas at the age of 14 with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McLeod, her mother coming later. She was married to John S. Turner March 1, 1874, at Georgetown and moved to Breath County from Coleman in 1917. She moved to Carlton in 1929. She joined the Baptist church when a young girl, later uniting with the Church of Christ, and she lived a consecrated Christian life. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. R. G. Stapp, one half-brother, Horace Turner of Santa Anna, a niece, Mrs. E. S. Collins of Voss, and a host of friends.

As we turned away from the flower-covered mound, we had no thought that we had left her there, but thought of her as having already entered the land "where we'll never grow old." Her many friends extend to the grief-stricken daughter their very deepest sympathy.

IN THE HOUR OF

Behind us lie 3 1/2 years of deadly struggle in which, with God's help, we have prevailed.

So, today, we celebrate a victory.

After the celebration, what lies ahead?

For most of us, the outlook is a bright one. If we will simply use the brains, the will, the energy, the enterprise . . . the materials and resources . . . with which we won our war, we can't fail to win the peace and to make this the richest, happiest land the world has known.

For most of us, the years ahead are bright with promise. But for others of us—and, ironically enough, their part in bringing victory was a major one—the years to come must bear a different look.

In America today are hundreds of thousands of injured men. Men with neatly pinned-up sleeves and trousers. Blinded men. Men with clever iron hooks instead of hands. Worst of all, men with hurt and darkened minds.

These men need our help. Helping them will cost a great deal of money. We can help them best by buying Victory Bonds.

Far away from America today are millions of Americans. As we would be, they're on fire to get back—to their wives, to the children some of them have never seen, to their jobs.

These men need our help. Helping them will cost a great deal of money. And we can help them best by buying Victory Bonds.

This is our day of triumph. But it's theirs too—the injured men, the men who are still far away.

Let's not forget them, in our just rejoicing. And the one way we can help most to care for our wounded . . . to bring our veterans home . . . to give them a fresh start in the country they fought for . . . to care for the families of those who died before the victory was won . . . is simply this:

Buy all the Bonds you can. Keep all the Bonds you buy.

VICTORY IS OURS!

AMERICA GREETES THE WAR'S END

—with prayerful thanksgiving that the horror of human slaughter is over . . .

—with solemn and reverent tribute to those who made the supreme sacrifice in defense of the right . . .

—with understanding sympathy for the sorrowing homes tragically singled out by the pointing finger of war . . .

—with a blunt warning of swift, awful reprisal to tyrants of the future who have dreams of oppressive conquest . . .

—with praise and gratitude for our millions of men who fought to keep justice and insure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity.

MUST BE DEDICATED TO GOOD OF MANKIND

"We must constitute ourselves trustees of this new force," spoke President Truman in referring to the atomic bomb.

President Truman thus expressed not only the hope of all America, but of the civilized world. Scientists report that it may take years before the principles of the atomic bomb can be successfully applied for peacetime industrial development.

POSTWAR BOOM IN AVIATION UNDER WAY

One of the latest announcements concerning peacetime aviation comes from Tennessee, where a contract was let for 125 four-place planes for civilian sale.

Other plans call for the construction of 3,000 to 5,000 new airports and the enlargement of many more. Surveys seem to indicate that rural dwellers will account for nearly sixty per cent of the light personal planes, while another ten per cent will be purchased by suburban residents.

Sale of planes is to be financed on terms similar to prewar auto purchase contracts, third down and balance in monthly payments. The American Bankers association has issued a manual "Aircraft Financing," in which it is claimed that the fundamentals do not differ greatly from those in the automobile business.

PRESERVING THE PEACE

International problems, particularly that of establishing a satisfactory formula for preserving peace, have become so complicated that most of us don't pretend to know the answers. Instead, we are merely praying that our President and our other government leaders are working out something which somehow will put an end to the war.

More than at any time in history, we are leaving our fate in the hands of a handful of men in Washington and are trusting in our congressmen to keep an eye on them to see that their plans make sense.

Our democracy would be immeasurably strengthened if there was greater understanding and debate among the people over the important issues at hand, but it is too much to expect that most of us, unversed in international diplomacy, can put ourselves in a position to judge the merits of each complicated proposal.

But we can take a stand on the basic question at the bottom of all the planning. That question is: should we bind ourselves to work, and fight if necessary, with the other allied nations in order to try to preserve world peace?

HOW NOT TO HELP: Dump your investments at panic prices and let men with money pick them up.

Put old and reliable employees on the shelf and get some cheap and unreliable help.

Think and talk about the hard times that may, or may not, come someday.

Threaten to close up. This is encouraging to your employees and makes them lose interest in working for you and almost always causes them to start out looking for new employment.

Cut out all amusements for your family. This will make a happy harmonious home. (?)

Give nothing to charity and this will make you as an individual very, very happy. (?)

Don't buy new goods. Cut out advertising. Stop doing anything that will help you advance.

Buy a dose of cyanide, a cheap casket, and see that your insurance policy is paid in full.

SWINDLERS: Just to prove that the majority of people are easily swindled, Bob Hurst of Memphis, Tenn. traveled around over that city for an entire day soliciting money to help "the widow of the unknown soldier" who, he told his listeners, was in a state of dire poverty.

He collected some sixty dollars in that one day after calling upon over one hundred people. They all listened, were in deep sympathy with the widow, and none of them gave their money reluctantly. BUT—not one of them thought to ask Mr. Hurst how he found out who the widow of the unknown soldier was, since the soldier himself is unknown!

A bit of thinking and the asking of a few questions would save thousands of people from the multitude of swindlers who are always going about over the country practicing their schemes.

WEEK'S BEST BOOK: "We Flew Without Guns" by Flight Captain J. Gen Genovese is a story that reflects the easy camaraderie of the transport pilots. Many had narrow escapes from planes that were defective; others came down. One flew out a cable of the dangerous Liverpool balloon barrage with a plywood wing off the plane.

Captain Genovese tells how he was able to smuggle a baby leopard on board an army transport and through the New York customs and he devotes one entire chapter in his book to Margot of Karaya Road in Calcutta, India, and of the part she played, and no doubt is still playing, in this war.

It is a well written story of adventure and disaster with plenty of fun mixed in for good measure. Perhaps few fliers in the present conflict have had as many escapes from actual death as Captain Genovese and he tells how he will go upon another adventure—a dangerous one, he calls it—when he returns to New York. This adventure of which he speaks in the latter part of the book is his marriage to Gerry Ewing of Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe.

The reading of "We Flew Without Guns" will help you realize more fully some of the dangers that transport pilots have experienced in the past three years.

Delay is simply this—not to commence action.

Wee Bits of JESTURE

[Opinions expressed in this weekly feature are the writer's, and not necessarily those of the News Review.—ED.]

Hello, folks, let's get this column going again before some gossip starts telling I got "resigned." That's the new term used mostly for "fired" nowadays. Well, we had a great celebration when the Japs threw in the towel, didn't we? And what a crowd! I got kicked in the seat of my breeches three times by fellows that would excuse themselves with "so sorry, please" before I finally caught on to the racket. But, believe me, when I did catch on, I got busy setting some old scores on my own account.

Well, I see in the papers that the Tokyo newspapers are grooming up Hirohito's only son, eleven-year old Akihito. (Gosh! What a name; that boy's catching cold) as a possible successor to the throne. The paper goes on to describe young Akihito as being democratic. It says he even helped his classmates clean up their classroom at the Peers' School. Sounds democratic, all right, doesn't it? We sure can't get them to clean house over here. I'll betcha one thing though, if young "Her-choo" does take over the throne, the very first order our Uncle Sam gives him will cause him to yell out "Help, Papa." You hear some folks saying that we do not understand the Japanese people. I shudder to think what would happen if we understood them any better. It's a good thing for those little imps that I didn't get to dictate the peace terms to them, for there is one concession that I would certainly have got out of them and that was that if the Emperor got to sit on the throne, then our Admiral Halsey would get to sit on the Emperor's white horse.

This country had a bountiful peach crop this year, but in England, peaches are selling from $1.30 to $1.75 each. None are grown there, and imports have practically stopped.

The civilian Jeep, the peacetime four-wheel-drive counterpart of the military jeep built for the armed forces—has been put under a ceiling price by the OPA. The retail ceiling is $1,090 f. o. b. Toledo, Ohio, plus taxes and the customary trade additions for transportation, handling, and optional equipment.

All small arms, with the exception of 12-gauge shotgun and revolvers chambered for a .38-caliber special cartridge, will be released right away for sale to civilian users. However, dealers must continue selling 12-gauge shotguns only to farmers and ranchers for use in predatory animal control.

J. K. Brooks, operator of cotton lands in Kaufman and Dallas counties, looks with optimism on the future. He believes relieved labor shortages will put idle spindles in the textile mills back to work, creating a demand for more lint, and will enable farmers to produce cotton at less cost.

Dairy farmers are due for a break, too, in the opinion of Arthur Dietrich, Dallas county dairyman. Increased labor here will help considerably, he says, and feed costs will go down before the price of milk does.

Cattle feeders, however, are less confident, with what may be the worst protein shortage in years coming this winter. Efforts are being made to bring soybeans into this area for crushing by cotton oil mills, and crushers are dickering with Commodity Credit Corporation officials for a revised soybean crushing contract with terms more suitable to them.

August 31 is the last day wheat growers may file applications with the county AAA committees for wheat insurance on the 1946 crop. Crop insurance, suspended by congress in 1943, has been reinstated on wheat, cotton, rice, flax and tobacco. Two policies are available on wheat—one covering 75 per cent of the crop and one covering 50 per cent. Premiums, payable in wheat or in cash, vary in different sections.

Laboratories devoted to finding new industrial uses for Texas-grown cotton will be established at Texas A and M College, Texas University, and Texas Technological College. They are authorized under a $200,000 appropriation bill passed by the legislature this year.

CHIPS: Bans have been lifted on state and regional fairs, conventions, trade shows and similar group meetings, however, many fairs will skip this year because of too little time left to plan them.

Mills county livestock association held an 80-mile tour of Herford ranches last week. Buffalo and grama grasses are doing well there with much superphosphate being used. Ceiling price of $1.75 per cwt on cotton picking has been established in nine coastal bend counties, requested by a majority of growers. Some picking crews already are seeking jobs elsewhere.

Much needed radio parts should be available before long.

Yearling racehorses at the Keeneland sales, Lexington, Ky., sold for an average of $11,520 each. Top price was $46,000, a new record. All small arms, excepting 12-gauge shotguns and some models of revolvers have been released for sale to civilians by the War Production board.

Mel Ott has entered a very exclusive club by beating out his 500th home run. Only Babe Ruth and Jimmy Foxx have reached this mark so far. Ruth's total was 714. Successful Parenthood by MRS. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS Associate Editor, Parents Magazine

MARRIAGE FEAR SHORT-SIGHTED

Teen-age girls nowadays are sharing with their older sisters the haunting fear that they may never marry, according to a staff worker with the Youth Consultation Service in New York City.

This worry over not marrying may also be responsible for the lack of ambition among many young girls. Where a generation ago they were serious about getting an education and having careers, with marriage as an added experience which they felt free to choose or to postpone, today many girls don't want to bother with the study and preparation a career requires for fear it may interfere with marriage.

We should not be impatient with this short-sightedness. When the world's population is being depleted by war, there arises a mass fear of extinction which gives an urgency to early marriage not felt in more normal times.

But that doesn't mean there is nothing you can do to give her a more comfortable perspective on marriage and on her own future. One way to keep a girl interested in making the most of her educational and business opportunities until a suitable marriage is possible, is to help her to understand that marriage itself is a career for which every form of self-government is a preparation. There are still too many young people who think of marriage as something that happens to you, like birth or death, instead of an experience that you yourself help create.

So, if finishing her education holds little interest for your daughter, don't tell her she has to get a diploma so you'll have something to show for the money you've spent on her. Tell her, instead, that her children will want a mother who is educated and that her husband will want a wife who measures up to the boss' wife or daughter.

Another type of thinking on the part of young girls which you can help them outgrow is their impatience with boys their own age. It is natural for them to prefer an older boy, especially one who is in uniform, to someone just as unsure and awkward as they are themselves. So show your daughter pictures of her father when he was a youth, let her see that the poise and masterfulness she admires in older men are acquired through living and learning.

Then, although you can't keep a young girl from absorbing some of the reckless attitude toward life which comes with the "for tomorrow we die" psychology of wartime, you can meet this with emphasis on "tomorrow we live." Revive the old custom of giving your daughter gifts for her future home, whether or not she is engaged. Sometimes just the acquisition of beloved things can bridge the waiting time. Subscribe to magazines that feature homes and decorating and encourage her to plan a house. Above all, don't betray any uneasiness yourself as many mothers unfortunately do, about your daughter's having a home and family of her own some day.

Dale Carnegie Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

MAKING EMPLOYEES IMPORTANT

THE subject of this story is president of a wine and spirits shop in the downtown section of New York City, where price cutting was rampant.

Seven years ago he found he had so much competition that he was about to be pushed into the East river. He tried to think of some way to beat this competition, but a lot of brains were thinking on the other side. Thinking how they could keep money out of his cash drawer.

He decided he would cut the price of liquor still more. Then the idea came to him that maybe a good place to go to work was in his own organization, instead of trying further price cutting.

He decided to show more appreciation for his staff, and to let each one feel important. He started in with his cashier, as an experiment: She had worked for him for years, but he'd hardly ever complimented her on her work.

He complimented her for her patience and began calling her his head cashier. He had only one cashier, so naturally she was the head cashier. But she liked this little attention. When people came into his office he introduced her and called her his head cashier. She liked it and instead of being colorless and inconspicuous, when visitors were about, she talked to them, full of pride in her work.

He had only one shipping clerk. Instead of referring to him over the telephone and in his presence, when others were there, as merely a salesman, he referred to him as "manager in charge of sales." The man liked it. It appealed to his sense of importance.

He had only one shipping clerk. Instead of referring to him as the shipping clerk, he began calling him "our traffic manager." The young man liked it.

Immediately the morale of the organization went up. The staff came earlier and worked with a better will, simple as were the things Mr. Le Petri had done.

Ninety per cent of the retail liquor stores in New York do less than $50,000 business a year. By increasing his office morale, Mr. Le Petri has raised his sales volume to nearly $300,000 a year.

COMPLETE VICTORY!

Japs Agree to All Terms Of Potsdam Declaration; MacArthur Gets High Post

By AL JEDLICKA

Forty years after its armies marched into Korea to establish a foothold on the Asiatic mainland, Japan's course of imperial conquest came to a dramatic end on the evening of August 14 with the unqualified acceptance of the Potsdam declaration subscribed to by the U. S., Britain, China and Russia. Announced to an anxious nation by President Harry S. Truman, the Jap surrender came three years, eight months and one week after the attack on Pearl Harbor.

With the Allied powers consenting to his retention on the throne to assure the surrender of Japanese armies scattered throughout Asia and the submission of the homeland to the stiff terms imposed, Emperor Hirohito ordered the nation to lay down its arms as the Tokyo radio reported thousands of downcast subjects bowed in grief before the gates of the imperial palace lamenting their defeat.

Having led American ground forces back over the vast tracts of the Pacific to the doorstep of Japan following the crippling blow at Pearl Harbor, General MacArthur was designated to accept the Nipponese surrender along with representatives of the other Allied nations.

Coming four days after Tokyo's first offer to give up the fight provided the emperor's sovereignty were respected, and three months after V-E day, Japan's surrender was greeted with wild enthusiasm throughout the U. S. which joyously celebrated the end of the most destructive and costly war in history without waiting for President Harry S. Truman's official V-J day proclamation.

In accepting the Allied terms, Japan agreed to the total reduction of its once proud empire, with hope for the future based upon the organization of a free democracy within the home islands of Honshu, Kyushu, Hokkaido and Shikoku.

Under the Potsdam ultimatum, Japan must eliminate the influence of those elements which have encouraged conquest; give up Manchuria, Korea and other overseas acquisitions; disarm all armed forces; permit the revival of democracy and freedom of speech, religion and thought; and submit to Allied occupation of designated points in the homeland until post-war security has been established.

At the same time, Japan was promised an opportunity for orderly development once a peaceful government had been created, with retention of such industries as would maintain its internal economy and eventual access to raw materials and world trade.

The war ended just as the atomic bomb threatened the obliteration of Japan's sprawling industrial settlements, with Hiroshima and Nagasaki already badly mangled by the terrific blasts.

Packing an explosive force 20,000 times greater than TNT, the atomic bomb's destructive capacity so far exceeded that of ordinary missiles that it brought a quick reaction from a government that had planned continuation of the conflict from underground bastions despite increasing B-29 attacks.

Besides threatening to lay Japan waste, the atomic bomb also was credited with blowing Russia into the conflict, thus bringing the total Allied weight to bear against the Nipponese. In all, these two events served to climax the growing tempo of the Allied drive in the Pacific, which saw U. S. forces virtually sitting on Japan's doorstep at the cessation of hostilities.

Japan's Imperial Ambitions Led to War

Before the Twentieth century Japan's imperial ambitions were restricted to Korea, the coast of China and some neighboring islands in the Japanese sea. Japanese leaders suddenly realized the power of western armament. During the next half century Japan was modernized so successfully that the Japanese victories over China in 1894, and Russia in 1905 were swift and conclusive.

With the navy and air force carrying the fight to the enemy, and with army and marine troops slashing forward in island to island fighting, the war in the Pacific rates as one of the bloodiest in history.

From the very beginning the U. S. encountered a bitter and fanatical foe, ardent and well disciplined, willing to fight to the last cartridge even when completely enveloped. All through the war, the toll of Jap killed far surpassed the number captured, indicating the nature of their defense.

Because of the close teamwork required in the over-all operations, it would be difficult to single out one outstanding hero, though General MacArthur's fiery stand against the enemy in the early stages of the conflict and his later redemption of lost territories made him the symbol of the American spirit.

Beside the name of MacArthur must be added those of Admiral Nimitz, who directed U. S. naval operations in the vast Pacific theater, and General Le May, whose B-29s seriously reduced Japan's industrial potential in repeated heavy raids.

Recovering quickly from the black days immediately after Pearl Harbor, when the Nipponese overran much of the Pacific, the U. S. checked the enemy tide in the spring of 1942, when the American fleet stopped the Japs' southeastward drive in the battle of the Coral sea and then thwarted their eastward surge at Midway.

From then on, the U. S., building up tremendous military and material strength under a unified front at home, was on the march, with the Japanese seeking time to consolidate their newly won position as the overruling Asiatic power by bitter delaying action in their outposts.

With the navy severing vital Japanese supply lines to these outposts, and with the ground forces isolating enemy units into disorganized resistance pockets on invaded islands, the American advance in the Pacific far exceeded expectations, with the end of the European war finding U. S. sea, land and air forces perched right on Nippon's doorstep.

Though the main body of Japanese troops had not been touched by the steady U. S. advances westward, the American navy's mastery of the sea lanes as far as the Chinese coast interrupted the shipment of vital material to the home islands for industrial processing, and the B-29s' terrific bombardment of manufacturing centers greatly curtailed output. With deliveries of materials cut, and output dwindling, the effectiveness of an estimated 4,000,000 remaining enemy troops stood to be severely limited.

On top of it all, Russia's invasion of Manchuria and threat to Jap-held China promised to tap the only remaining important enemy industrial source outside the homeland.

During the twenties Japan expanded her commercial influence deep into Chinese territory. By 1931 a formidable boycott developed. Japanese troops were used to crush this organized protest. This violation of treaty rights aroused the world. Japan defiantly resigned from the League of Nations in 1933, when trouble in the "truce area" of China was again the occasion for battling

In this hour of final Victory, we pause in our rejoicing to give thanks to the Almighty under whose Guiding Hand the forces of right and justice have triumphed.

Our feeling of joyous relief that an end to bloodshed has come at last is tempered by thoughts of those who will not come back—the gallant men and women who gave their lives to help make the Victory possible.

Let us solemnly resolve that their sacrifice has not been in vain . . . and let each of us do his utmost to help build a better world in which men and women of all creeds and all nationalities may live together in happiness and lasting peace.

AMERICAN HEROES

DISREGARDING his own safety when a Merchant Marine vessel struck an enemy mine in a heavy sea which broke the ship in half, Third Assistant Engineer Francis C. Rack carried his Chief on deck after all usable lifeboats had shoved off. Seeing an empty boat adrift, Rack dove into the sea and swam to it. He managed to propel it to the sinking ship and transferred the Chief Engineer. Rack was awarded a distinguished service medal. When seamen show such courage in using equipment that War Bonds helped to provide, Americans know that their investment in Bonds never can be big enough.

After three weeks of absenteeism, the writer has settled down (for a while, any way) and will try to pen a few lines from Duffau.

Everybody around here seems to be in good condition, in view of the very sultry weather of the last several days.

HICO MAILMAN FOR NAVY COMMENTS ON RECENT OFFICIAL CARTOON IN NR

Guam, M. I. August 13, 1945

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Holford: I received the News Review today of July 13 bearing a cartoon which is an excellent example of what this office is for. I don't know where you found the cartoon, but I'm almost tempted to say someone who works in a Fleet Record Office sent it to you. That's what I spend eight hours every night doing—trying to find out who and where Joe Jones is.

I managed to see Buck Meador a month or so ago. He seems to know pretty well what makes that battleship of his go. I think he's working now to see to it which way it goes.

Things look as though we may have that Hico Reunion pretty soon—at least, I hope so.

It's about time I'd better close and get some sleep.

BOB ANDERSON VISITS HOME

Cpl. Robert Q. Anderson, United States Marine Corps, who was called home on emergency furlough by illness of his father, Ike Anderson, at Stephenville, visited Saturday in the old home town. Bob reported his dad getting along very well since an operation in the Stephenville Hospital.

The eagle-eyed ex-caddy was stationed at Corpus Christi several months following his return from Pacific service, later being transferred to Camp Lejeune, North Carolina, and later to Camp Pendleton at Oceanside, California. We're going to have to get a Hico Chamber of Commerce committee to resell him on Texas, since he has made several remarks about the probability of living in California when he gets out of the Marines.

TAKING IT EASY ON LUZON

Pfc. J. B. Rhodes has written his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Rhodes, that he is "taking it easy" these days. He is with a Bomb Wing, stationed on Luzon in the Philippines.

The letter was written the day before the Japs gave up, and the local soldier, who has been in the Army nearly three years, said that things looked mighty good over there at that time.

During the slack period in his work he had been going swimming a lot, having been in twice that morning and planning to go again that afternoon.

FISHING SHOULD BE FIRST

Pvt. Charlie Meador, who has been stationed at Fort Bliss, near El Paso, since his entry into the Army, came home last week to celebrate the end of the war. He has been seen in town occasionally, but most of his time seems to be taken up with his family, the lawn mower, and fishing.

Pvt. Dean Spaulding is spending a furlough at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Spaulding. He has just finished basic training in the air corps at Sheppard Field and after 15 days will report to a field in Florida for further instruction. Dean says he doesn't know what the Army is going to do with all the men now, but he's pretty sure they won't be turned into gunners.

Sgt. Mattie Greer, WAC, who recently promised the home paper a long letter with some interesting news, came across last week with another kind of a surprise—a change in her address from Fort Des Moines, Iowa, to Fort Sheridan, Illinois. "I do not have time to write that letter as I promised, but will later," she wrote. "Hoping my next change of address will be home."

New Council to Write Peace Terms

We are getting advanced training so that we will be able to take over the communication on some advanced base. We don't know how long we will be here. I hope we stay here for a long time. HAUGHT BOYS HOME FOR VISIT WITH PARENTS

Sgt. Harold Haught left last Saturday for Fort Sam Houston after spending his 30-day furlough here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Haught. Sergeant Haught returned to the States July 18 after serving 19 months in the European theater of operations.

Another son, Pvt. Nolan Haught, who completed his training at Camp Fannin on July 12, spent a week here with his brother and parents before reporting to Fort Ord, California.

While Bennie Leeth was in town doing errands for his grandmother, Mrs. J. W. Leeth, he called at the NR office to renew the paper for his uncle, Pfc. J. B. Leeth. He said he was in Belgium and he really hoped he would be home Christmas.

IF YOU CAN'T GET SHELLS, THROW ROCKS AT 'EM, JOHN

John F. Crow, who was a staff sergeant in the Army until his discharge last week, came in from San Pedro, California, Wednesday night. He was accompanied by his wife and young daughter, Jay Dean, and his mother, Mrs. Jim Crow, who have been making their home there with him.

Entering the Army November 27, 1942, Crow received his basic training at Camp Adair, Oregon. From there he went on desert maneuvers, where he was injured on August 4, 1943. After he was released from the hospital he was stationed at Indio, San Bernardino, and San Pedro, spending the past 15 months at the latter place.

The ex-serviceman said he would be around Hico for some time yet, but that he had made no definite plans for the future further than expecting to get in a lot of hunting and fishing in the next few weeks. Nothing seemed to worry him Thursday except the availability of shotgun shells which he is going to need when dove season opens next week end.

IT'S MR. BILLY COLLIER NOW

After nearly five years in the Army, over half of which time has been spent overseas in Italy, France, and Germany, Sgt. R. O. (Billy) Collier received a discharge under the point system at Fort Sam Houston Wednesday and arrived in Hico that night for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Collier on Route 4.

Mister (if you please) Collier came by the NR office Thursday just before press time to say hello to the editor and force, and tell about some of his travels. Billy's been around so much we'll have to wait till next week to cover his complete Army record. Meantime, welcome home and good luck.

T/Sgt. Carl K. Moss, stationed at Fort Worth Army Air Field since his return from overseas service with the Air Corps in Italy, is spending his furlough with his parents and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Moss, Ana Loue and Madge.

LT. (J. G.) Billy Neel left last Wednesday for New Orleans, La., where he was to report back after spending a 30-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Neel.

Mrs. J. O. Richardson

It has been somewhat cooler here the past few days with partly cloudy skies and local showers. We still are needing rain badly.

Mrs. Will Jones returned last week from California where she spent several weeks at the bedside of her daughter, Mrs. Dr. Hervey.

Mrs. Emma Lackey has returned home after several days' visit with relatives near Valley Mills.

We failed to state in our last week's news that Mrs. A. S. Gafford and baby of Abilene were recent guests of Uncle Bob Parks.

Miss Daphne Hoover of Fort Worth has resigned her position with Dixon and Jenkins Manufacturers of Fort Worth and returned to her home here. She and her sister, Patsy Ann, will enter John Tarleton College the coming school term. Daphne expects to major in home economics.

Mrs. Edwin Sellheimer was quite surprised Tuesday of this week when she received a telegram from her husband that he had arrived in the States. He has been stationed in Europe for almost eight months. Mrs. Sellheimer, the former Miss Tommy Jo Allison, is making her home here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Allison Sr. for the duration.

Mrs. Bessie Jordan and daughter of Cleburne spent the week end with her father, Uncle Bob Parks.

Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Heyroth of Gatesville visited a short while last Sunday in the home of her mother, Mrs. A. L. Newman, and also with his sister and brother, Mrs. Beatrice Oglesby and Lewis Heyroth, of near Hamilton.

Pvt. Elzie Lee Parks of North Camp Hood spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Parks, and family.

Mrs. W. E. Goyme and little daughters, Wilma Grace and Lynda Lou, have returned home from Waco where Mrs. Goyme has attended summer school the past five or six weeks.

Rev. Oran Columbus filled an appointment at the Church of Christ last Sunday.

Considerable repair work has been in progress on our school buildings inside and out by adding a good paint job which was very much needed and will add much to the appearance of the building.

Prof. Mansfield of Glen Rose, who had been employed as a faculty member of the school here has resigned and will remain with the Glen Rose school. We regret to learn this, but hope some one just as capable may be secured to take his place.

DAYS OF PEACE

Are With Us Again!

—Our idea of bringing ourselves to the full appreciation of the days of peace is to reflect with due soberness and prayer what the service of our brave lads has meant to our well being. Without the efforts of our men and women in service no one knows what might have been.

—Naturally, we are happy that the war is over. We're likewise happy that our sons now have the assurance that in time they will be back home — the home they have dreamed of so many times while living in fox holes and facing death.

—In all our deliberations let not one forget the sacrifice that has been made by those who now sleep in Germany, on the Islands of the Pacific and in other far flung fields of battle. It is to them that we pay homage — and all honor for their deeds of valor which took their all — their lives.

—Whatever our part in the program of reconversion is, we shall do it cheerfully and gladly.
