Stepout To Weddell In SW Sterling Area Flows Oil On DST

Honolulu Oil Corporation No. 5-A Sugg, southwest stepout to production in the Sterling County side of the Weddell portion of the Spraberry Trend Area, is preparing to run pipe and complete from open hole in the lower spraberry.

Operator took a drillstem test from 5,077 to 5,102 feet. Tool was open four hours and 57 minutes. Gas surfaced in five minutes and oil came to the top in 57 minutes.

It flowed to tanks four hours. The first hour it made 17.84 barrels of oil, the second hour it produced 15.12 barrels of oil, the third hour it made 13.46 barrels of oil and the fourth hour the prospect made 16.16 barrels of oil.

No water was recovered. Choke size was not reported. Operator reversed out full recovery of oil.

Top of the Spraberry is 5,054 feet on an elevation of 2,510 feet.

Location is 660 feet from the most southerly north line and 690 feet from the lease line of a 3,520-acre lease or 660 feet from the most southerly north line of the section and approximately 800 feet due east of the Reagan-Sterling County line in section 46, William B. Dean survey.

It is 25 miles southwest of Sterling City.

NE Crane Discovery From Tubb Flowing To Test, Complete

Gulf Oil Corporation and Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 1-KH Gulf-Stanolind-State, Northeast Crane County wildcat is flowing out load oil after the lower Tubb section of the Permian at 6,505-89 feet had been treated with 2,000 gallons of acid.

After all the load and residue from the treatment has been recovered operators will run a production test and probably will then take potential gauge and complete the discovery.

It had flowed to tanks for 17 hours, after a 49-gallon mud acid wash, through a three-quarter-inch tubing choke and made 222.14 barrels of 32.8 gravity oil and 8.8 barrels of basic sediment.

Another Flow

In a subsequent 13-hour period it flowed 89.74 barrels of oil and three barrels of basic sediment. Size of the choke used during that 13-hour period has not been reported. No water has been developed.

The acid injection followed the last flowing test.

This prospector drilled to a bottom of 6,620 feet and found water in the Tubb zone at 6,605-20 feet. It then plugged back to 5,985 feet.

This new pay find is three-quarters of a mile east of the shallow Dune field and nine and one-half miles north of Crane. It is 1,871 feet north and 660 feet from east lines of section 9, block 30, University survey.

Ohio Stakes Deep Prospector In Lea

The Ohio Oil Company spotted location for a 13,000-foot wildcat in Northwest Lea County, New Mexico, as No. 1 Trigg-Federal.

It is 690 feet from north and east lines of section 20-13-32. It is two miles northeast of the discovery well of the Lazy J. (Pennsylvanian) field.

Operations are to start at once.

Tex-Harvey To Try Water Imbibition In Spraberry Wells

The Tex-Harvey Oil Company has received permission from the Railroad Commission of Texas to carry on a water imbibition process experiment at three of its producers in the Tex-Harvey portion of the Spraberry Trend Area field of Central-East Midland County.

The wells to be used in the experiment are No. 1, No. 2 and No. 7 Floyd in section 15, block 37, T-3-S, T&P survey. Salt water will be used in the displacement program.

The area in the field composed of the southwest quarter of section 10, west half of section 14 and 15, the south half of the southeast quarter of section 16, the northeast quarter of section 21, the northwest quarter of section 22, the north half of the northeast quarter of section 23 and the north half of the northwest quarter of section 23, has been set aside as an experimental water imbibition displacement test area, and for a one-year period it will be permitted to operate on lease allowed.

Ike May Accept Quick Tax Slash

Panel To Vote Monday, Send Bill To House

By CHARLES BARRETT

WASHINGTON—(P)—The Eisenhower Administration evidently has accepted politely a decision by Republicans on the House Ways and Means Committee to vote for early action to reduce income taxes.

Informed sources said Wednesday Treasury officials made it clear to committee members, at a private dinner meeting Tuesday night, that they will neither support nor oppose right now a tax-cutting drive led by Representative Reed (R-NY).

Earlier Tuesday, at a caucus, GOP members of the tax-writing committee were reported reliably to have decided to vote next Monday in favor of Chairman Reed's bill to reduce individual income tax rates 10 per cent starting June 30.

Persons who attended Tuesday night's dinner, asking not to be named, said Treasury officials suggested they would like the committee to delay action until Treasury specialists have more time to survey prospects for federal revenue and spending.

Accept 'Facts of Life'

Administration spokesmen were said to have accepted the committee members' decision as "one of the facts of life." The meeting was said to have been "pleasant and harmonious."

Eisenhower and the Treasury have called for spending cuts and a near-balanced budget before taxes are cut.

Administration spokesmen, however, were said to have told the GOP committee members they are just as anxious as congressmen to cut taxes. The only conflict, these sources said, was over timing of action on the Reed bill.

The Administration was said to be hoping the House Rules Committee will stall the proposal about two months. Whether Reed and some other committee members would agree not to fight against such a delay remained to be seen.

Reed's bill would give some 50 million taxpayers an average 10 per cent cut in their income tax rates starting June 30. Payroll withholding taxes would drop from the present 20 per cent to 18 per cent.

Such a cut is scheduled December 31 under present laws. Congressional staff specialists estimate advancing the reduction by six months would cost $1,800,000,000 in revenue for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Reed has insisted the budget can be balanced under his bill.

Committee approval of the Reed bill on Monday could make it eligible for House floor action immediately. House rules permit the Ways and Means Committee to bypass the Rules Committee, with some conditions.

Rambunctious Cold Front Moves East; Midland Still Dry

While parts of Texas remained touched by snow or rain Wednesday, Midland had only a biting wind to recall Tuesday's rambunctious cold front which played tag with this area.

The temperatures jumped six degrees in an hour to hit 46 degrees at noon Wednesday and observers at the Midland Air Terminal expected mid-60 readings under clear skies Wednesday afternoon. The mercury dropped to 29 degrees early Wednesday morning.

The norther had left the Panhandle touched by snow and bitter cold and light rains through Central and East Texas.

Dalhart had snow and a pre-dawn reading of five degrees

Phillips To Explore For Oil In Alaska

WASHINGTON—(P)—Interior Secretary McKay Wednesday announced approval of a development contract with Phillips Petroleum Company, Bartlesville, Okla., looking toward discovery of oil in Alaska.

The contract covers almost one million acres adjacent to the Gulf of Alaska.

McKay said Phillips will drill 12 exploratory wells over a 10-year period.

The company agreed to spend a minimum of $1,000,000 for exploratory work in the area prior to June 30, 1956, and annually thereafter a sum equal to 40 cents an acre as a minimum.

Shivers Visits Washington To Ask Tidelands 'Package'

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON—(P)—Governor Shivers of Texas called on top Administration leaders Wednesday in quest for a one-package submerged lands bill.

He had appointments with Interior Secretary Douglas McKay and Attorney General Herbert Brownell and hopes to see President Eisenhower before starting back to Texas Saturday.

"I hope legislation will be passed disposing of the overall Tidelands question," Shivers told a reporter. "It would be much better to settle the issue now not only regarding the submerged lands within the states' seaward boundaries, but also in the continental shelf."

Eisenhower has said he would sign legislation similar to the meas-

John Culver Named New City Attorney

John R. Culver, 30-year-old native Texan, was approved Tuesday night as city attorney for the City of Midland.

The appointment of Culver was approved at the regular meeting of the City Council after his name was proposed by Mayor Perry Pickett.

Culver succeeds Len G. McCormick, who resigned the post Saturday afternoon to enter private practice of law in Midland.

A native of Mount Pleasant, Culver has been a resident of Midland the last two years and has been associated with his wife, Mrs. Barbara Culver, in private law practice.

Culver took over his official duties Wednesday.

TEXANS' CHECKS TO BE DELAYED

WASHINGTON—(P)—The Veterans Administration in the next few days will be mailing out 1953 dividend checks to National Service Life Insurance policy holders in all but three states, an Associated Press survey showed Wednesday.

For policy holders in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi, the dividend payments will begin in the next 30 to 60 days.

The annual dividend will be paid to about 3,000,000 veterans, with the vast majority getting a flat 500.

Wholesale Food Price Index Turns Upward

NEW YORK—(P)—Wholesale food prices turned higher this week for the first time in four weeks, the Dun & Bradstreet food index revealed Wednesday.

At 64.19, the index compared with 64.13 last week (the 1953 low to date) and was 5.8 per cent below the year-ago week's 69.57.

Midlanders Move To Aid Expanded WTCC Program

Status of the Midland membership in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce was reviewed Wednesday morning in a meeting of C. of C. officials and workers. The session was held in the conference room of the First National Bank.

Frank Kelley of Colorado City, an immediate past president of the WTCC, explained the need for added funds in expanding the work of the organization. Ralph Duncan and Paul D. Marable, Jr. aided him as WTCC staff members.

Midlanders interested in Chamber of Commerce efforts here who attended the meeting included Tom Sealy, a director in the WTCC, who presided at the session; John P. Butler, Earl Chapman, James L. Daugherty, Bob Lewis, Len McCormick, and Delbert Downing, manager of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

Kelley showed the needs for an increased budget for the WTCC this year, estimated at more than $100,000 or almost three times the amount required in 1950.

The regional chamber was reorganized in early 1951, with expanded programs and added work causing the need for larger funds. The WTCC has 6,000 members, with more than 650 in Midland at present.

Sealy closed the meeting with a prediction that he believed the WTCC would grow and in time surpass in scope and size both the South and East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

After formulating plans for an increased Midland representation, the WTCC officials moved on to Odessa for a similar meeting in Odessa Wednesday afternoon.

She Learned About Busses From Johnny

SAN FRANCISCO—(P)—Sgt. John J. Colletti, 24, thought he was just one of 1,824 Korean war veterans arriving on the transport Gen. W. F. Hase Tuesday until . . .

Up rushed actress Betty Hutton and planted a kiss on his lips. Colletti, a San Franciscan, was the 300,000th vet returned by ship.

He was surprised . . . but not too surprised to cling to Betty, who mused her intended ceremonial kiss turned into a production.

Not for 90 seconds, and after repeated frantic signals from Miss Hutton for a break, did the sergeant let go.

"This has me worked up more than combat," he confided.

"Lordy!" exclaimed Betty.

Midland Oil Man Files For Mayor

J. W. McMillen, Midland independent oil operator and former city councilman, Wednesday announced his candidacy for mayor in the April 7 city election.

The 48-year-old native Oklahoman became the first candidate for the office, although candidates have filed for the three council posts which also will be filled in the April election.

McMillen retired from the City Council last May after serving a single two-year term.

During his two years in the City Council, he played an active part in setting in motion the development of a huge tract of land north-west of the city as a new water supply for Midland.

Subsequent to his retirement from the council, the new water field, now in the final stages of development, officially was named McMillen Field, in recognition of his work.

McMillen came to Midland in 1935 from Oklahoma, where he was born and raised.

He is a graduate of the School of Mines of Wisconsin and did post-graduate work at the Missouri School of Mines and the University of Arkansas.

For years, he was associated with Fred S. Wright, now retired, in the oil business.

Parsons Jury Still In Tight Deadlock

WICHITA FALLS—(P)—A divided jury recessed for lunch at 12:10 p.m. Wednesday without returning a verdict in the tense Mary Jean Parsons bridegroom murder trial.

Judge Arthur Tipps announced he had asked the sheriff, upon request of the defendant's family, to escort Mrs. Parsons to and from the court building. They complained about difficulty in getting through a crowd Tuesday night.

Judge Tipps said he made it plain that photographers were not to be interfered with in taking pictures outside the court room.

The continued deliberation was the result of District Judge Arthur Tipps' plea to "sleep on it."

Near midnight, after eight hours of indecision, the jury reported to Tipps that it could not agree. He refused to declare a hung jury and asked that the 12 men try again to reach an agreement.

Tense public sentiment surrounded the jurors as they began their restudy of the sensational testimony and exhibits. A crowd of about 100 spectators boomed Tuesday night when a defense attorney launched himself on a photographer trying to make a picture of the camera-shy blonde heiress being escorted from the courtroom by a cordon of relatives and attorneys.

The same crowd cheered again and again as the commercial photographer, Bob Swafford, followed Mary Jean and her escorting guard down the street trying to get a picture.

M. E. Bay, jury foreman, reported at 11:05 p.m. that the jurors thought it would be a hung jury. Tipps called the panel into the courtroom.

Council Approves 'Yield' Experiment

A proposal to experiment with the use of "Yield Right of Way" signs to replace some of Midland's hundreds of "Stop" signs was approved Tuesday night by the City Council.

The experiment, under which the new type signs will be placed at 10 selected intersections, was proposed by Jack Keese, the city's new traffic engineer.

Keese said Wednesday the signs have been ordered and will be installed as soon as they are received.

The new signs require that vehicles stop at intersections only when there is cross traffic on the other street.

Kermit Horsemat Suspect Arrested

JAL, N. M.—(P)—Tom Gordy, Kermit meat wholesaler, sought in an investigation of the sale of horse meat for human consumption, was arrested here Tuesday.

He was returned to Kermit in Winkler County, Texas, where he has been charged with one count of selling horsemeat for human consumption one count of transferring it to retailers who sold it to humans and buying a truck with a bogus check.

Gordy disappeared after posting $2,000 bond February 1 at Kermit.

L. V. Eddins, sheriff of Winkler County, said Gordy is in the Winkler County Jail.

Markets To Close

NEW YORK—(P)—Financial and commodity markets will be closed Wednesday in observance of Lincoln's Birthday. Livestock reports will be issued.

field troubleshooting crew was knocking off the ice Wednesday by swinging a metal pulley block against the steel derrick.

The well could become a gigantic torch any second if a spark struck.

The pulley head, weighing 400 pounds, was suspended by cable from high on the derrick. A truck with the attached swung it. With every blow, the big jackknife derrick quivered.

Chunks of ice shot 150 feet into the air, propelled by the terrific gas pressure which is spewing a measured 100,000,000 cubic feet of sour gas a day.

The well—10 miles southwest of this oil center—blew out of control February 2. It has been spewing a 90-foot column of sour, smelly gas since.

Preliminary steps have been taken to clear the site for capping attempts. All but two lengths of drillstem pipe have been pulled from the hole and the big rig possibly will be skidded from over the well late Wednesday.

Flown here to take charge was professional firefighter Myron Kinley of Houston. He had just finished capping two flaming wells in the Gulf of Mexico.

Van Fleet Blinks Back Tears On Starting Long Jaunt Home

By FRED WATERS
TOKYO—(P)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet, the old fighter against communism in Greece and Korea, paused here Wednesday for farewell honors in his journey home to retirement.

A glittering array of military and diplomatic officials paid a hero's tribute to the general who only a few hours earlier had bade a tearful farewell to his beloved U. S. Eighth Army in Korea. On the plane which brought him from Korea, Van Fleet seemed thoroughly relaxed, with the heavy burden of a long command lifted from his broad shoulders.

But Wednesday night, at a dinner and reception at the home of Gen. Mark Clark UN Far Eastern commander, the doughty warrior appeared somewhat uncomfortable as United Nations jammed around him.

Boards Plane At Seoul
He ended his historic 22-month command of the 17-nation Allied Army Wednesday when he turned the job over to Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor.

Then, while a band played "Auld Lang Syne," Van Fleet boarded a plane at Seoul for the first leg of the long journey home. He blinked back the tears and, in a gruff voice choked with emotion, said:

"Let's get outta here." In a brief landing at Pusan, he laid wreaths in the United Nations cemetery.

"This is a very sacred duty," he said. "This is my last official act—to pay my respects to these gallant men who have made the supreme sacrifice for us."

Enroute from Pusan to Tokyo, the gallant old soldier removed his traditional pearl-handled pistol—a Colt 45—and placed it in a leather bag.

"This is a real military bag," he said slowly. "It was given to me by my son. So was this gun. That's the reason I'm so attached to it."

Van Fleet's only son, James, Jr., a Fifth Air Force pilot, has been listed as missing in action since an April 4 B-29 mission over North Korea.

As the general put the gun away, he added:

"I may have to wear it during some ceremonies, so I don't want to pack it too deep."

Then he said: "I better get out a dresser cap." He stowed away his old field cap. When he greeted Gen. Mark Clark and other high brass after landing at Tokyo International Airport he was wearing a dressy officer's cap. Greeted By Dignitaries

Such men as Vice Adm. Robert P. Briscoe, commander of Far East Naval Forces and Gen. O. P. Weyland, commander of the Far East Air Forces, were in the welcoming group.

"Gosh, it's good of you to come out here!" he told them. To reporters, he said:

"I'm happy to be here on my way home, I have no plans except that I am going to report to Washington. But I have a good place down in Florida where I can hang my hat."

About 6 p.m. Thursday, Van Fleet and his party will board Gen. Clark's Constellation for Honolulu. He will meet Mrs. Van Fleet there and spend a few days resting. From Honolulu, the Van Fleets will travel to San Francisco aboard the ship President Jackson.

The plane bringing him to Tokyo was full of flowers, the gift of South Korean assemblymen who saw him off at Pusan. The masses of flowers loaded aboard the plane at Seoul he left in the UN cemetery at Pusan.

"DOCTOR" VAN FLEET—Gen. James A. Van Fleet, above, retiring Eighth Army Commander, donned a cap and gown to receive an honorary Doctor of Law degree from the University of Seoul. He was given the award for his assistance to the people of Korea.

Newspaper Reader's Tipoff Brings Arrest Of Fugitive

LOS ANGELES—(P)—Addition of Joseph Britic's name to the FBI list of its 10 most wanted men brought about his arrest Tuesday in the nearby desert town of Lancaster.

He had been working as a bowling alley pinsetter under the name of Jimmy Rizzo.

Sheriff's officers nabbed him after a tip from a newspaper reader who had seen an FBI announcement of his record, accompanied by a picture.

The FBI said Britic, 25, had been a fugitive from robbery charges since he broke out of the county jail at Clayton, Mo., Sept. 6, 1948. A native of Wilmerding, Pa., he had a previous record of arrests for robberies, holdups, auto thefts and rape.

Britic told reporters that after going to Nevada and working in a gambling house, he came to Lancaster in December, 1950, having decided to lose himself under an assumed name in a small town.

He said he met his wife, Imogene, at the bowling alley where he worked. They were married in 1951 and have two young children. He said she knew nothing of his record until Monday night, after the story appeared here.

He said that in a family conference he told them everything and agreed to his wife's tearful plea to give himself up, but the sheriff's men beat him to it. "Rizzo's" only trouble with the law in Lancaster had been one traffic ticket.

Bid To New Year Feast Broadcast As Lure To Rebels

KUALA LUMPUR, MALAYA—(P)—Psychological warfare experts have invited Malaya's embattled guerrilla rebels—98 per cent of them Chinese—to come out of the jungle for a traditional Chinese New Year feast on Saturday.

"Remember preserved ducks, sausages and meat!" asked 15,000 cards showered from Royal Air Force planes over North Malaya. "Just think how happy your New Year can be."

"Have you thought about your parents, brothers, sisters, wives, children? What are their circumstances at the present?" the invitations continued. "Ask yourself, must I continue toward the path of death? Or is there a way out even now?"

"Yes, there is a way. Hurry up and come out of the jungle." The first dog show of record was held in England on June 28, 1859.

Heads Will Roll In 'Revolution' When 'Depthies' Take Charge

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
Exclusively Yours: Hollywood is retreating in three dimensions for a new assault on television competition.

The illusion of depth has become more important than stars, stories or the cut of Marilyn Monroe's latest gown.

Every studio is working on its own secret system, with Warner Bros. already filming "The House of Wax," a horror story, in Natural Vision 3-D, the same process used on the fantastically successful "Swana Devil."

The latter proved TV-mad moviegoers would go to the movies again to see something new—the same reason New Yorkers are standing in line to see the life-like, wide-screen Cineramas.

So now it's "depthies" or bust for Hollywood, which has been saved once before by a new gimmick. That was when talkies replaced silent pictures.

And once again the heads of the mighty will roll—as they did at the beginning of the sound era—when three dimension sweeps Hollywood.

"Movie kings and queens who think they can make the transition from flat to 'round' without worry have plenty to be jittery about," is the word from Andre de Toth, who is directing the first Warner "depthie."

"Scenes will be longer and there will be fewer cuts," he revealed. "Stars will have to sustain long scenes, possibly as long as 10 minutes. It's the day of professionals. We've been saying to movie stars for 25 years, 'Don't worry about flubbing that line, we'll pick it up.' Nothing will be picked up now. Not even options.

Faulty Memory Taboo
"The actor who survives will have to know his lines. No more reading from blackboards and prompts off-stage. There won't be any place in the industry for stars with faulty memories. Actors will have to learn how to move, too, and that was something they didn't have to worry about in flat photography."

Asked, "Will some actors be just as photogenic in three dimensions?" Andre replied:

"That's one thing the stars won't have to worry about. Jane Russell will still be photogenic—more photogenic than ever, if anything. It's sustaining long scenes that will kill off a lot of stars."

Hollywood's $64 question of the week:
Is a large heart-balm check from Dan Daitley, who backed out of the altar march, soothing Betty Wynn's broken heart? The ex-wife of Keenan Wynn leaves for Europe shortly to do some more forgetting.

Lana Turner has found out why she's been under the weather for the last two months. She'll be checking into a hospital soon.

Lydia Pinkham's modern in its action! Go get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound or its improved Tablets with added iron. See it—taken throughout the month—it doesn't relieve these cramps, backaches, jitters—help you feel better before and during your period. ## Colorful Scenery Will Highlight Children's Play

Picturesque backdrops are a trademark of the Edwin Strawbridge Productions, which will present "Prince Swineherd" for Midland children on February 21.

The production, to be sponsored by the St. Ann's Mothers Club, will be held in the Midland High School Auditorium.

Scenery for the Strawbridge children's plays is done in the pictorial pattern of the new story book style and is painted by Louis Kennel, celebrated scenic painter of the New York stage. Kennel also does the fantastic scenic floats for the Macy's parade in New York City each Thanksgiving.

The first act of Prince Swineherd is played before a backdrop depicting the selfish princess' playroom. The walls are covered with familiar characters and episodes from stories known and loved by all children.

Much of the dramatic action takes place in the second act when the prince and the 'favorite pig' show the princess the value of kindness and consideration. Backdrop for the final action depicts the spot where the castle grounds merge with the pigsty.

High School Band Budget Hike Asked

The Midland Board of Education studied Wednesday an appeal for expanded financial assistance to the band program in the public schools here.

Questionnaires have been mailed to District I-AAAA schools on band policies. Action on requests of parents of band members for a change in certain policies and practices will be delayed until the questionnaires have been returned for study by the board.

L. E. Patterson, acting as spokesman for the Band Aides, contended in his appearance before the board at the high school Tuesday night that "certain aspects of the functions of the band distinguish it materially from other school organizations formed to further other types of cultural education in the school system, and consequently the policy of classifying it with the ordinary run of literary activities, unrealistic as it is, has resulted."

The Band Aides asked that a certain percentage of the gross receipts into the athletic funds from football games at which the band performs be set aside for use of the band.

Trip Costs Cited

"The purpose of this directive is to insure availability of funds for defraying the cost of hotel accommodations and meals on all band trips," Patterson read from the prepared statement, "thus discontinuing the present practice of requiring the individual band members to take care of the cost of their lodging and food on trips."

Other recommendations included: That the band director be given the full and sympathetic cooperation of the entire school administration in the problems, budgetary and otherwise, which confront him in his dual capacity as director of the high school band and administrator of instrumental music in the school system.

That on all round trips of 150 miles or more, transportation shall be arranged, at school district expense, for members of the band more comfortable than that afforded by the standard school bus, which is, of course, designed for much shorter hauls.

That, in order to provide incentive for students to make the sacrifices of time and effort required in developing an accomplished band, it will hereafter be the practice to reward the band each year it places in the highest bracket in its district competition with a trip to an outstanding musical festival at some point in the Southwest.

That all band members placing first in the All-State Band elimination competition will be transported, lodged and fed at school district expense in attending the All-State Band meet.

School Supt. Frank Monroe cited the increase in the band budget which ranged from $2,500 for the 1950-51 session to $15,500 for 1952-53. The budget was based on recommendations of Band Director Ralph Mills.

Budget Figure Hiked

Mills had submitted a three-year program which included a request for $9,022 for 1953-54, the board learned. It was noted that the band director had hiked his request for 1952-53 to more than $20,000 after an original proposal of $16,454. The original request was trimmed to $15,500 for 1952-53.

The 1951-52 budget included $6,500 for new band uniforms.

Superintendent Monroe pointed out that expenses of band members to events on a state level are paid now by the school system. This holds true in literary and athletic contests, too.

Expensive and the most unusual instruments and the music library also are furnished members of the Bulldog band.

Rev. Ivy Assumes Pastorate Here

Toastmasters Split On Value Of Putting Blockade On China

Toastmasters split sharply on the question of an immediate U. S. blockade of Red China Tuesday night at their regular Cactus Restaurant meeting.

Part of the group urged immediate blockade even at the risk of war with Russia.

Other Toastmasters recommended alternate methods to end the war in Korea, such as strategic bombing of Manchuria.

Wesley Martin introduced the table topic, President Benton Howell was in charge of the dinner meeting.

Toastmaster W. C. McMahon introduced four speakers. Jim Velvin, Jr., spoke on Abraham Lincoln; Clyde Singletary explained the "Crime of Ignorance about Geography;" Jerry Harris talked on "What Makes Good Speech Material;" and Guy Breneman gave an impromptu speech about "The Most Remarkable Character I Have Ever Known," using Will Rogers as his theme.

Nibs Walker served as general critic of the speakers, aided by specific critics John Braue, Rudy Berg, Dr. Henry Schlichting, and Hal Chandler. John Bowers was the grammarian.

Ochoa Soon May Go Free On Bond

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—George Ochoa, who fled to Mexico after two men were shot to death in a Laredo hotel, soon may be freed from a Mexican jail under bond.

Officials Tuesday said this was possible under Federal Judge Clotario Margalli's ruling that Ochoa would be tried here on a charge of falsification of a birth certificate—not murder.

The maximum penalty for conviction on this charge is three years. He was arrested in 1949.

Legal sources said in case Ochoa is convicted on this charge, he could go free—if the sentence is made retroactive.

Duty-Free Copper Gets Congress' OK

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Copper will enter the United States duty-free for 16 more months, if President Eisenhower approves.

A bill providing for the continued suspension of tariff duties went to him for signature Tuesday, after the Senate completed legislative action on it.

It waives the two cents a pound tariff unless the price of domestic copper falls below 24 cents a pound, or the President proclaims the Korean emergency ended.

Demos' Committee Pares Hired Help As Creditors Hound Party Treasurer

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Kenneth D. Fray, former Voice of America official, is the latest to feel the axe in a reorganization that has been going on at the Democratic National Committee since the party's defeat in November.

Fray, it was learned Wednesday, was let out as director of the committee's Radio-Television Division after five years' service under four national chairmen.

Fray told a reporter he was one of several whose jobs were either abolished outright or absorbed in a general shakedown of committee personnel by Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell in an effort to cut down expenses. The campaign left the Democrats with a big deficit and they are now arranging dinners to help raise money.

Women 'Integrated'

The fact that television and radio played such a big part in the last campaign has led to some questions as to the wisdom of trying to get along without a separate director in this field, even between elections.

Similar questioning arose when it was announced recently that the committee in effect had abolished its 31-year-old separate Women's Division at a time when women outnumber men among potential voters.

The explanation by Mitchell was that the Women's Division was being "integrated" into the whole organization in the interest of efficiency and economy, and to give women "equal status."

Publicity Director

Mrs. India Edwards, who headed the Women's Division, is staying on as a vice chairman.

In Fray's case, his work is being "integrated" for the time being with that of Publicity Director Sam Brightman.

Most members of the committee's staff who have lost out since the election have been lower bracket personnel, but W. Neale Roach, national convention manager who recently resigned, and his assistant, C. Edgar Brown, were dropped by the economy axe. Both were veteran staff members.

Picked By Adlai

However, many new faces have appeared, including several who went through the last campaign as nominee Adlai E. Stevenson's headquarters in Springfield, Ill. Here are a few of them:

Clayton Fritchey, deputy chairman, whose duties cover the broad field of "issues, strategy, research and information." That would seem to make him overall boss of publicity, including radio and television operations, research and the speaker's bureau. He's a former managing editor of the New Orleans Item, information director at the Pentagon, and administrative assistant to former President Truman. The latter loaned him to Stevenson's headquarters for the campaign.

Hyman E. Raskin of Chicago, deputy chairman. He's a former OPS regional director for Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin. His committee job is fund-raising and party organization "from precinct to national levels."

Phillip M. Stern, director of research. He's a native of New Orleans, a Harvard graduate, and, like Fritchey, worked on the New Orleans Item before coming to Washington. Stern also served on the Springfield campaign staff.

Wesley McCune, assistant to Fritchey and special adviser on agriculture and farm problems. He formerly was executive assistant to Truman's secretary of agriculture, Charles F. Brannan. He's a graduate of the University of Colorado and at one time was assistant editor of Newsweek and later correspondent for Time and Life.

James Lanigan, organizer. Jefferson-Jackson Daily fund-raising dinners. He was an assistant to W. Averell Harriman when the latter was running last year for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Mexico Arrests Break International Auto Theft Ring

EL PASO—(AP)—Armando Quevedo, chief of the Juarez detectives, disclosed Tuesday night that an international auto theft ring which operated in El Paso, Juarez and Durango, Mexico, has been broken with the arrest of five persons, one in Durango and four in Juarez.

Quevedo also announced that five vehicles, all Chevrolets, have been recovered in a used car lot in Durango.

The owner of the used car lot, according to Quevedo, is being held in jail there. Arrested in Juarez and booked on charges of auto theft are Jesus Ontiveros Paz, one of the alleged leaders of the gang, Jesus Cisneros Aparicio, Miguel Armas Martinez and Andres Maldonado Romero.

Paz, in a statement to police, said an American in El Paso was stealing the cars for the gang. He said this man would take vehicles to Juarez where they later were taken to Durango and sold.

HUNTINGTON PARK, CALIF.—(AP)—The head of one of the nation's largest water heater manufacturing concerns says a woman with business sense will make more progress than a man, if given the same opportunity.

Senate Likes $600 Teacher Pay Boost

AUSTIN—(P)—Senate sentiment is leaning more toward the bill to raise teacher pay $600 a year than it is toward the Administration bill to boost beginning teachers $340. But the showdown is not expected for several weeks and Senator A. M. Alkin's $600 bill faces a lot tougher fight on the Senate floor than it did in the Education Committee Monday night. It won unanimous approval there, 11-0. Twenty senators indicated to The Associated Press they probably will vote for Alkin's $600 proposition. Three said they thought the amount should be cut. A fourth wasn't sure whether $600 was too much and wasn't sure whether he would vote for or against it. Some of those who thought $600 was too great an increase weren't sure they would oppose it. Pressure Felt Like several colleagues, he felt the pressure from teachers and P-TA members "back home" is hard to buck. More than 1,000 teachers were on hand when Alkin's bill gained committee approval. Two senators did not think all members of the committee voted their personal convictions. "They may not vote that way after the teachers go back home, and the Senate may not be in too big a hurry to pass it," commented Senator Kilmer Corbin, Lubbock, a co-author of the bill. Alkin said he would not try to rush his legislation to the floor. Alkin's bill might not reach the

Panhandle Group Oppose Supports On Cattle Prices

AMARILLO—(P)—Opposition to proposal for a new cattle price program was voiced here Tuesday by the Executive Board of the Panhandle Livestock Association. The board's action in commending the stand of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson toward the proposal follows similar action earlier by the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Associations. The Panhandle Association said it opposed subsidies but it urged that all purchases for the armed forces, both at home and abroad, should be from domestic sources. It asked that when the Canadian border is opened for importation of Canadian beef the arrangement for substituting New Zealand beef be cancelled.

Warren Asks Quick End Of Price Curb On Crude, Products

WASHINGTON—J. Ed Warren of Midland, Texas, deputy petroleum administrator has asked the immediate end of price controls over crude oil and petroleum products. In a letter to Arthur S. Fleming, acting director of the Office of Defense Mobilization, Warren explained that the overall petroleum product and crude oil supply situation is substantially better now than it was two years ago when controls were put on. The defense agencies are working to end price controls step by step even before expiration date of present authority which is April 30. Warren declined to say whether prices would rise or not, but he did say price control has been an impediment to oil exploration in California and Pennsylvania. Warren explained that more than two years ago, no price controls were considered necessary. Since then, he said, demand has risen 28 per cent, but total supply available to the U. S. has risen 31 per cent. Further, he said, stocks of crude oil and petroleum products are 16 per cent greater. Finally, he said, there is an increase in the reserve productive capacity for use if demand wants it, and there is increased refining and transportation facilities.

House Committee Okays Ban On Chain Optometry Stores

AUSTIN —(P)—A bill to legalize parimutuel betting on Texas horse racing, drew the fire Tuesday of a representative who said he had been asked prior to the session's start to sponsor such a measure.

Rep. Joe M. Kilgore, McAllen, said he had declined to introduce the bill and had returned it to V. E. Berry, San Antonio.

"Such a bill has been now introduced by someone else and I will oppose it both in committee and on the floor," Kilgore said in a press statement.

The bill, awaiting public hearing a week from Wednesday night February 18, was introduced by Rep. Ed Sheridan, San Antonio, who has denied he is sponsoring the measure on behalf of any group.

The longest public hearing thus far this session ended at 12:40 a.m. Wednesday when the House Public Health Committee approved, 15-8, a bill that would drive chain optometry stores from the Texas scene. The proposal now goes to the House floor.

Five hours of testimony and debate saw proponents of Rep. Stanley Bank's bill hail it as a measure to promote the public welfare by raising standards of the optometry profession and giving a board of examiners greater police powers.

Members of the 83-year-old Texas Optometric Association backed the bill.

Organizers of the recently convened Texas Independent Association of Optometrists denounced the bill as destructive of free enterprise and predicted it would mean higher prices for Texans to buy eye-glasses.

Banks' bill would limit an optometrist to operating one main office and two branch offices. It would break up a chain operation such as that of the Texas State Optical Company, a corporation which operates 24 offices throughout Texas.

Dr. N. J. Roberts, Beaumont, an owner of Texas State Optical, accused the present board of examiners of prejudice against "commercial" optometrists. He said the new bill would give them even broader power to exercise their prejudice.

A complete substitute for Banks' original bill was introduced at the start of the hearing. Spokesman for the Texas Press Association and the Texas Association of Broadcasters said they didn't know whether the substitute would prohibit or restrict advertising as they had feared the original would do.

They said they were unalterably opposed to any legislation limiting the right to advertise.

Banks pointed to language in the first section of the substitute bill saying nothing in the act is to be construed as prohibiting advertising by an optometrist in newspapers or by means of radio, television or other generally accepted advertising media.

In other committee action Tuesday night, the House education panel voted, 10-5, against a bill by Rep. Doug Crouch, Denton, to prohibit forced membership in the Texas State Teachers Association as a requisite to obtaining or holding a teaching position.

Rep. J. H. Jackson, Atlanta, gave notice the minority of five would attempt to win House approval of the bill on a minority report.

Touring Solon Builds Eastern Good Will By Speech In Chinese With Jersey Accent

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON —(P)—Some congressmen are noted for some things and other congressmen are noted for other things. Wednesday's example: New Jersey's Alfred D. Sieminski.

He is, by his own documented account, "the only foreigner ever to have addressed a full quorum of the Chinese Legislative Yuan, in Formosa or on the mainland, prior to April 28, 1952."

Sieminski, a Democrat from Jersey City, told his fellow lawmakers about this through the columns of the Congressional Record. But he left out one fascinating fact: He delivered part of his speech in Chinese.

It seems Sieminski, a Princeton graduate and 41-year-old war veteran, was in Formosa early last year with a House appropriations subcommittee. He dropped in on a session of the Legislature and was invited to make a speech.

Members of Congress often are receptive to such invitations. Sieminski promptly accepted. Then, he said, he had a second thought: "Wouldn't it be a nice gesture if I addressed them in their own language? Wouldn't it be the quickest way to reach the Oriental heart?"

It was a challenge, Sieminski admitted in an interview, but:

"What the hell, a Jersey City boy can do anything. I figured if Johnny Kenny could beat Mayol Hague, I could speak some Chinese."

Jersey City's Mayor John V. Kenny won his office by upsetting the organization of long-time Mayor Frank Hague, a power in Democratic national politics.

Now Sieminski speaks Polish fluently, being of Polish descent. He gets along fine in German and French too, and is willing to make a stab at Italian. But he never mastered Chinese. So he had a Formosan acquaintance put his open-

Crippled Freighter Limp Into Harbor

BODO, NORWAY —(P)—The American freighter Mormacmar limped through coastal gales into this North Norwegian harbor early Wednesday and the harbor pilot said later he doubted the small shipyard here could repair the crack in her hull.

The pilot said the 8,000-ton freighter had a split the width of a finger from her deck to the waterline just forward of the bridge.

The Mormacmar reported herself in trouble 30 miles off the Norwegian coast Monday night but later her captain refused offers of aid.

Auto Heir's Fourth Wife Nears Divorce, Plus $750,000 Cash

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(P)—The divorce suit of Mrs. Clara Tinaley Dodge, fourth wife of auto heir Horace E. Dodge, was ready for final judgment Wednesday. A property rights agreement will give her almost $1,000,000.

The 35-year-old Louisville nurse will receive $750,000 at the rate of $50,000 a year for nine years, with the balance then due in a lump sum. The Circuit Court still must approve the agreement signed Tuesday.

At Beloit, Wis., meantime, Gregg Sherwood, actress and model, said she will marry Dodge Saturday at Palm Beach, Fla.

Mrs. Dodge also gets a life interest in a home and its furnishings here, valued at $120,000, and title to two cars.

Her attorney, Ollie-James Cohen, said he understood Dodge's suit for divorce, filed in Palm Beach, will be dismissed.

Dodge, 50, appeared in his wife's suit but did not defend the action, which accused him of cruelty and abandonment.

The couple was married in England in 1945 and separated in 1950.

Canada Will Help Develop Mexico's West Coast Ports

MEXICO CITY —(P)—Informed sources said Wednesday Canada will help develop four of Mexico's Pacific ports in order to boost trade between the two nations.

The ports are Mazatlan, Manzanillo, Acapulco and Salina Cruz. Included in the planned projects which result from the visit here of a Canadian good will mission will be dredging of some ports and construction of silos and warehouses in others.

Canadian capital will augment Mexican financing.

Canadian wheat, machinery and other products will be shipped direct to the newly modernized ports, and in return Mexico hopes to sell Canada more of its own products.

Aged Woman Uses Trolleys To Solve Housing Problem

CHICAGO —(P)—There's no place like home—if it's a Chicago street-car—for a 73-year-old woman who says she's been using trolleys as sleeping quarters seven years.

Mrs. Anna Cox said she solved her housing problem—and saved money—by taking her night's lodging in street cars.

"They're a far sight better than the average room here," Mrs. Cox said Tuesday. "A trolley's got a rooming house beat a mile for comfort—and it's cheaper."

Mrs. Cox, who will be 74 on Friday, is in Cook County Hospital recovering from a broken leg suffered in a traffic accident last January 18. She disclosed she had no living quarters other than street cars when officials sought her address preparatory to releasing her.

to go back to her rolling home after her release. She quit living in hotels, she said, because she found them unclean, cold and dangerous.

Her night's lodging in street cars—three round trips on a 21-mile route—costs her $1.02 for six tokens. A round trip takes almost four hours.

"There's no law against it," Mrs. Cox explained. "And besides, I always paid my fare."

Mrs. Cox, who had been making a living as a door-to-door sales woman selling hair nets and other articles, said she keeps a change of clothes in a warehouse and dresses up in public washrooms. She said she was able to save regularly and produced a bank book showing deposits totaling $8,326. "I come from a very frugal family," she told reporters.

The answer is YES, emphatically, if you're one of those baseball fans asking "Is Pat Stacey going to load his lineup with Cubans while at Roswell, as he did at Big Spring?"

Pat has announced to Rocket partisans his intentions of scouting in Cuba in the near future. He plans to make up the difference in his squad created when he left some, took some of the Cubans on departing Big Spring last winter.

Some odds and ends about education: If Kid Gavilan loses his welterweight title Wednesday, Chuck Davey will be the first world champion fighter with a college degree, much less a master's.

And the Davey-Chico Vejar bout a year ago was billed as the most "cultured" fight title or not in history. Davey, with a master's in education, you remember, had too much smarts for the 19-year-old Columbia freshman.

Pat McLaughlin, the Carlsbad skipper, taught high school in Little Round Rock, Texas, between finishing his major league career and taking up as manager in Amarillo two years ago. (Pat insists he's still a teacher at heart and wants no better way to love it than by showing Big Spring's Hack Miller a lesson or two in an "Old Man's" pitching duel this summer.)

Glen Selbo, the Indian's pitcher-outfielder-infielder-educator, has a deal with his home town school system and if he doesn't sign with Midland in 1953, will stay to teach. And, for you of the literary bent, did you know that William Shakespeare played a mean halfback for Elmer Layden at Notre Dame in the early 30's? He's a lawyer in New York City now.

And Herman Hickman, who quit coaching at Yale to become a "big" wheel on television, recites poetry by the peck, especially Greek Classics.

The endless trail of all-American basketball players through West Texas, courtesy of the Phillips 66ers and Rotary Engineers, does not dim the appearance of one from Midland who plays in the City League.

He's Bobby Hallmark, who takes part in Lions' Club games at Cowden gym. He averages over 20 points a game.

Right now, Hallmark, who was all-American at the Texas School for Deaf (Austin) for two years, 1946-47, is readying for the Southwest Athletic Association of the Deaf tournament scheduled for Jackson, Miss., March 7-8. Hallmark's team, the Lubbock Silents, is rated one of the tournament's favorites.

The Rotary quintet, Midland's busiest, chips in its efforts to another March of Dimes benefit game next Tuesday when it goes to Fort San for a game with Howard County Junior College's Jayhawks, the best JC club in West Texas, possibly the state's foremost club.

Rotary, which has lost but three games, a one-pointer to Southside Gulf of Odessa, to the Whitehorse Wizards and to the Harlem Globetrotters, previously played benefits at both Monahan and Sterling City.

Flattery, perhaps, will get you somewhere—in the selling business naturally. There is, anyway, a sharp threesome of Horace Busby, Manager J. Haney and Marion Flynt pictured inside the cover of the trade magazine, Rawlings Roundup, made during the Phoenix Winter convention. And with them is Red Barkley, the sporting goods salesman, showing off uniforms.

After that, who could blame the trio for giving in, with the flash of

Ponies Knock Bears Off Top In SWC Race

By WILBUR MARTIN Associated Press Staff

The weird Southwest Conference basketball race went topsy turvy again Tuesday night and Texas Longhorns showed up at the top of the standings—again.

It took the biggest upset of this busy season to shove the Steers back in the front, but Southern Methodist University made its first conference victory a sweet 66-54 affair over, pace-setting Baylor.

Texas' 68-49 win over Texas A&M shoved Baylor back into second place, just ahead of Texas Christian. Rice holds down fourth.

Some more ups and downs are due Saturday when Texas A&M meets Rice, Arkansas meets Texas and Baylor tangles with Texas Christian.

Southern Methodist beat Baylor, thanks largely to a new defense tried by Coach Doc Hayes. And it was lanky Bob Clayton who made it work to a large degree. It may not look like it in the box score—where Baylor's John Starkey piled up 28 points—but when Clayton was in the game he stuck to Starkey like a schoolboy to bubble gum.

Clayton sat out the third quarter after picking up four fouls in the first half.

SMU led almost all the way as Baylor—a supposed cinch to wrap this one up—really took a licking.

Busy Bryant paced SMU scoring with 17 points, while Starkey—the conference's leading scorer, was high for the game.

Texas had an easy time with arch-foe A&M before a packed house of 7,000 at Austin. The Steers played second stringers most of the second half when three Aggie regulars fouled out.

Shortly before the end of the game, Texas Coach Blue Hull sent his regulars in to practice a bit of stalling. But A&M wouldn't cooperate. The crowd was jeering at the motionless players at the end.

Billy Powell of Texas and Leroy Miksch of A&M tied for high point honors with 16 apiece.

Gavilan Big Choice To Hold Title In Fight Against Davey

CHICAGO—(AP)—Champion Kid Gavilan, bordering a 3 to 1 favorite, defends his world welterweight title against television's Cinderella Kid, unbeaten Chuck Davey, before 30,000 at the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

They were scheduled for a 2 p.m. (CST) weigh-in. It will be Gavilan's fifth defense of the 147-pound crown he won from Johnny Bratton May 18, 1951.

The 15-round bout will be televised nationally but not broadcast at 9 p.m. (CST).

Seldom has a championship match brought together two foes so unmatched in style, temperament, background, and—the experts say—in ability.

Gavilan, 27-year-old Cuban with meager education, is a veteran of 108 fights, knocked down only once, and unbeaten in 26 straight fights since a 10-round loss to Gene Hainton Oct. 30, 1950.

Davey, 26-year-old Irish lad from Detroit, who holds a master's degree from Michigan State College, has bobbed behind a stinging, tantalizing southpaw attack to 37 victories and two draws in a pro career which began less than four years ago, late in 1949.

The bout may pay Gavilan as much as $130,000 off his 40 per cent slice of the net gate and TV and Davey some $65,000 from his 20 per cent take.

The TV sponsor guaranteed the matchmaking International Boxing Club a $200,000 net gate. Reportedly, there is a chance a $250,000 net will be realized from a 20,000 attendance.

In that case, the TV sponsor will kick in $80,000 for Gavilan and Davey to nibble at on their 40-20 share.

Gavilan has fought 25 rounds with former welter and middleweight champion Robinson, losing a 16-round decision in 1948 and a 15-round title affair a year later.

In his 15-year pro career, Gavilan has won 86 of his 108 bouts and knocked out or stopped 28 foes. He has stepped into the back yard of the local favorite—Billy Graham in New York, Bobby Dykes in Miami, Fla., and Gil Turner in Philadelphia, to achieve brilliant victory.

It will be the Kid's sixth fight over the 15-round route. Davey never has gone 15 rounds and presumably must slow his usual blistering pace to stay close to Gavilan for the distance.

Davey's most punishing punch is a left to the body. It was this blow which twice crumpled Chico Vejar, once as bright a TV hero as Davey himself. In several bouts, particularly in a second match with a journeyman scrapper, Carmen Basilio, Davey has been severely cut about the eyes. If he starts bleeding against Gavilan, the experts expect it won't take the champion long to move in for the kill.

It's dangerous. I remember a tournament in Augusta, a day when I was feeling pretty good. I teed up and hit a perfect shot-out-of-bounds."

Jones still likes to talk golf, but he has never gotten over a certain reticence and embarrassment when his own feats are discussed.

Only Recall Bad Shots "The British Amateur was always the toughest one for me," Jones admitted. "It was 18-hole match play against seven or eight men, with a 36-hole playoff, and one bad round ruined you."

"Golf is a hard game to talk about. All you can remember are the bad shots. When you're going good, you're in sort of a daze. Some of the best shots you hit, you have no recollection of hitting. Sometimes I'd pass my Mom and Dad on the course, look at them, and not even see 'em—because I was so concentrated on the game. Afterwards, it made a fellow feel silly."

Of all our great champions of the past, it is quite safe to say that the records Bobby Jones set will stand for all time.

When he won, everyone expected it. When he lost, it was not an upset but a scientific curiosity.

NO ONE COMES CLOSE NOW— Dey Says It'll Be Long Time Before Anyone Rivals Jones

By JOHN McCALLUM NEW YORK—(NEA)—The greatest golfer who ever lived broke briefly into the news the other day by declaring in his quiet way that that someone will come along shortly and match his Grand Slam.

But Robert Tyre Jones didn't say who.

Joe Dey brushes off Bobby Jones' comment as pure modesty. "No one has ever equalled his record, and no one ever will," says the United States Golf Association official, who covered the last leg of Jones' astonishing feat in 1930. "I see no one around today who can come close. I have no hope of ever seeing a Grand Slam again."

Joe Dey, like most old pros of the game, talks in a tone of genuine reverence at the mention of the Atlanta, Ga., immortal who competed in the most crucial of top-flight competitions for 15 years and emerged with honors that will never wear out.

"It will be a long, long time before the game sees another player like him," Dey continues. "He began playing golf at six. At nine, he was playing in tournaments. At 14, he was playing in major competition. After that, in eight years, after winning the U. S. Open at the age of 21, Bobby won 13 major titles. And, in 1930, he won all four of the major championships—the U. S. Amateur, the U. S. Open, the British Amateur, and the British Open.

"He was only 28 in that last, magnificent year, but a worn, tired and nerve-exhausted man. When he copped the last of the four titles, the U. S. Amateur at Harvard, Pa., which I covered, he said, 'If I want to take an 11 on a hole, I can now.'"

Margin Mighty Small It may seem to young golfers of today, chipping away in a hopeless attempt to equal his amazing record, that Bobby Jones was not only a faultless shotmaker, but a sort of inhuman, methodical golfing machine. He is the first to tell you that he wasn't.

"There were times," he said the other day at a ceremony in honor of him in New York, "when I felt that I knew less about what I was doing on a golf course than anyone else in the world. There was no rule or system to my playing. I just went up and hit the ball."

"Tournament golf is a right punishing thing, mentally. The margin between winning and losing is mighty darn small. The temptation to let up is great. Once you do, when you begin to feel comfortable, it's dangerous. I remember a tournament in Augusta, a day when I was feeling pretty good. I teed up and hit a perfect shot-out-of-bounds."

Jones still likes to talk golf, but he has never gotten over a certain reticence and embarrassment when his own feats are discussed.

Only Recall Bad Shots "The British Amateur was always the toughest one for me," Jones admitted. "It was 18-hole match play against seven or eight men, with a 36-hole playoff, and one bad round ruined you."

Texas Open Nod Goes To Demaret

SAN ANTONIO—(P)—A star-spangled field went through final round play Wednesday for the $10,000 Texas Open with Jimmie Demaret, the links' clothes horse, the man to watch.

Demaret has taken two courses apart already getting ready for another bid for top money in the storied tournament that starts Thursday. Three times he has wound up second in the open and this may be his year to make the hurdle.

Tuesday, the man with the flashy clothes shot a six-under-par 66 over the 6,315-yard Oak Hills Country Club course to tie Marty Furgol for low score by professionals in a $4,000 pro-amateur. The day before Jimmie did a seven-under-par 64 over the 6,400-yard Brackenridge Park course in a $1,500 pro-amateur.

Demaret already has won $575. He took down $375 and Gurfel the same Tuesday.

Furgol was subbing for Tommy Bolt, a two-tournament winner along the Winter trail, who was in Houston having an injured hand looked after. Bolt had to withdraw from the El Paso Open last week because of the injury, suffered when his hand was caught in a car door.

Tommie was coming in Wednesday and is due to play in the open. Demaret probably will be a mild favorite for the open title but some like Chandler Harper, the veteran who won first money at El Paso; Lloyd Mangrum, the year's leading money-winner, or Jack Burke, the defending champion who set a Texas open 72-hole record of 260 last year.

While the top professionals were playing in the Oak Hills Pro-Amateur Tuesday, 185 non-exempt players were shooting for 50 qualifying spots in 18 holes at Brackenridge Park, where the open will be played. Joe Conrad a San Antonio amateur, and professional Mike Fetcheck of Scarsdale, N. Y., tied for low score honors with 66.

Thirty-four of the players did not finish the qualifying round and were to do so Wednesday. It required a par 71 to make the grade.

Red Devils Win District

RANKIN—The Rankin Red Devils slashed through Grandfalls, 58-31, Tuesday night to emerge undefeated in District 8-B with a clear title to the championship.

It was the sixth district win for Joe Scrivner's cagers. Their season record is 24 triumphs against four losses.

The district win schedules Rankin for the Region 8 tournament in Alpine February 27-28. The victor there will be eligible for the state tournament to be held in Austin.

Bill Munsell and Virgil Trower scored 12 and 10 points respectively for the Red Devils, while J. Moseley of Grandfalls had 19.

Grandfalls won the junior high game, 30-24, tying Rankin Junior High for the title. A playoff date is to be set.

Dede Gambin tallied 14 points for the Red Devil Juniors, while Toggart led Grandfalls with 12.

Rankin's next game will be against the San Angelo B squad in Bobcat Gym Friday night, both A and B games. Rankin previously bested San Angelo, 67-52.

Rankin and Pecos of District 8-AA are slated for a home and away series, with the Eagles in Rankin February 17 and the Red Devils journeying to Pecos February 20.

Jacky Blair Tangles With Coast Ex-Champ

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.—(P)—Jacky Blair, Dallas fighter, will meet Gil Cadillac, former Pacific Coast bantamweight champion, here Saturday night, with the winner expected to get a match with Jimmy Carter, the lightweight champion.

The bout is expected to draw around $5,000 at Legion Stadium.

"Breaking on the wheel" was an ancient form of torture in which the victim was stretched out on a wheel and all his bones broken with an iron bar.

O'Brien's 'Total' Bears Checking

By BILL ROEDER

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Any game now you'll be reading that Johnny O'Brien has become the first college basketball player to score 3,000 points.

It'll be a phoney record. O'Brien's school, Seattle University, has given him credit for 569 points scored as a freshman. This would be all right if O'Brien had played varsity ball in his first year. He didn't. He played on a freshman team.

The next year, playing with the varsity, O'Brien scored 786 points, and last year his total was 1,051. Apparently the Seattle authorities simply decided they'd like to see their boy break the career record of 2,902 points, held by one Nate DeLong, so they threw in O'Brien's freshman total and hoped no one would notice.

No one did until the question came up as to whether Seattle would be eligible for the NCAA tournament—or specifically whether O'Brien and his twin brother Eddie would be eligible. Without them Seattle wouldn't be considered for any tournament.

The NCAA bars players who have varsity competition, and that seemed to rule out the O'Briens. Then Seattle revealed that this is only the third varsity season for the O'Briens. Their first year was played in freshman competition.

Well, fellows, either eat your cake or have it. Only varsity scoring counts in the records, so if Seattle wants to admit that Johnny O'Brien played freshman ball they'll have to knock those 569 points off the total.

That would reduce O'Brien's current figures to about 2,300 points, and it would make it pretty tough for him to catch DeLong. But 2,300 isn't bad.

In fact, it is more than anybody else ever scored in three varsity years.

Lions In Win Column For First Time, Tip Oilers By 46-27 Count

Lions Club cagers won their first start in five tries Tuesday night in the City Basketball League while Rotary maintained its unbeaten march.

The Lions racked Gulf Oil, 46-27, with Bobby Hallmark leading the way. He tallied 15 points.

The Rotary Engineers rang up an 81-44 triumph over Murray-Young Motors, the winners' fourth straight.

West Texas Crude Flows Toward Coast

HOUSTON—(P)—The first flow of West Texas crude oil through a new 470-mile pipe line is expected to reach Port Arthur next week.

The West Texas-Gulf Pipe Line Company announced Tuesday Peruvian crude was being pumped into the line at Colorado City. The line runs to Wortham, Freestone County. At Wortham, a 24-inch line continues to Longview and a 26-inch line continues to Port Arthur. Connections are made at Longview with lines to the mid-Mississippi Valley area.

Crane and Alpine, the District 5-A leaders, won their twelfth league game Tuesday night and appeared certain to force their title quests into a playoff.

Alpine whipped Marfa, 64-35, while Crane trimmed McCamey, 51-38. Now both need to win but one more game, or both lose, to bring on a championship playoff.

Fort Stockton visits Alpine and Marfa goes to Crane Friday night in the final district clashes.

In other Tuesday games, Fort Stockton evened its record at six wins and six defeats by tripping luckless Iraan, 80-50, and Big Lake won a doubleheader—one an early season makeup—from Wink by 40-35 and 51-39.

Alpine had no trouble with Marfa after its defense skunked the Shortorns in the first period. From that 8-0 lead, Alpine jumped to a 27-18 halftime margin. Marilyn Robinson hit 19 points for the

Andrews Captures 8-AA Crown In Win Over Seminole Five

All the hubbub of action Friday night won't bother the Andrews Mustangs—they'll just be playing out the District 8-AA schedule. Andrews took the title home Tuesday night.

The Mustangs, for their sixth win in seven starts, put down second place Seminole in Andrews, 53-42, in the showdown game. Despite Jackie Godtard netting 24 points for Seminole, Andrews led all the way after taking an 18-12 first quarter margin.

Max Rasgado countered with 15 points as Andrews' top scorer.

In the only other game played, Kermit took over third place by besting Pecos, 38-22. Bobby Almond paced the winning Yellow Jackets with 14 points, while his team sewed up the victory with a 17-point last quarter.

Monahans, which drew a bye Tuesday, entertains Kermit and Pecos will be at home for Andrews in Friday's game. Seminole completed its schedule Tuesday.

Canadian Woman, Dixie Golfer Lead Everglades Tourney

PALM BEACH, FLA.—(P)—Medalist Marlene Stewart of Pontilith, Ontario, and Hobart Manley of Savannah, Ga., led the way into quarter-finals of the Everglades Club's invitational mixed foursomes golf tournament Wednesday with a 6 and 4 victory over Mrs. Harold Stone of Ware Shoals, S. C., and O. F. Woodward of Palm Beach.

Their opponents will be Vonnice Colby of Dania, Fla., and Lynn Cresson of Harrisburg, Pa., who ousted Mrs. Babbie Benson of Merion, Pa., and Chris Dunphy of Palm Beach, 2 and 1.

Edean Anderson of Helena, Mont., and Art Ruffin of Wilson, N. C., defeated Berridge Long and William Campbell, both of Huntington, W. Va., 6 and 4, and will play McWane of Birmingham, Ala., and Reginald Boardman, Jr., of Palm Beach, 4 and 2.

Pep Wins Decision Over Pepe Alvarez

SAN ANTONIO—(P)—Willie Pep, former world's featherweight titlist, took an easy 10-round decision Tuesday night from Jose (Pepe) Alvarez.

Tugboats Resume Work After 10-Day New York Walkout

NEW YORK—(P)—Tugboats scurried around the world's largest harbor Wednesday to clear up the backlog of work that piled up during 10 days of a strike by AFL crewmen.

Settlement of the strike was announced Tuesday afternoon, and the tugs resumed operations in the evening.

They worked through the night helping berth freighters and liners which had anchored in New York's outer harbor while waiting for a tow. Other tugs started moving fuel, food and other supplies across the Hudson River from New Jersey to New York City.

A spokesman for the tugboat companies—grouped in the New York Marine Towing and Transportation Employers Association—said it would take two or three days to move all the accumulated shipping.

Football Pros Get Extra Week To Add Anti-Trust Defense

PHILADELPHIA—(P)—The National Football League has been given until February 24 to put the finishing touches on its defense against the government's anti-trust suit—after an unsuccessful attempt to have the action dismissed.

A motion to have the case thrown out of court was denied Tuesday by U. S. District Judge Allan K. Grim, sitting without a jury to hear the government's charges the pro football loop has restrained trade by restricting radio and television coverage of its games.

The government attorneys, led by W. Perry Epes, closed their case shortly before the jurist's ruling on the defense motion—but not until Epes said the prosecution is not concerned over the issue of whether the suit might serve to kill professional football.

Epes was arguing against the defense motion seeking dismissal of the suit, when Judge Grim interrupted to ask:

"Does it make any difference to you whether television might kill professional football?"

Epes was silent for a moment, then replied: "That is not the question here, your honor, but legally, economic justification is not a defense in an anti-trust suit."

Judge Grim then asked if he was to assume the answer was "no" and Epes nodded affirmatively.

Idaho State Garners Spot In NCAA Basketball Meet

NEW YORK—(P)—The hour of decision is approaching for the nation's tournament-minded basketball teams.

New York's National Invitation Tournament (NIT) is readying bids for its 12 berths. And this year for the first time colleges with postseason ambitions are forced to choose between the NIT and the rival NCAA Championships.

New NCAA rules, which affect almost all of the leading colleges, hit the NIT from three directions.

The NCAA enlarged its tournament field to 23 teams, picked conflicting dates and told colleges they no longer could play in both meets.

One of the 23 NCAA berths was filled Tuesday night when Idaho State clinched the Rocky Mountain Conference championship. This conference is one of 14 which automatically qualify their champions for the NCAA Tournament.

In past years many teams have made a double run for tournament glory. City College of New York won both in 1950. Duquesne, St. John's of Brooklyn, St. Louis and Dayton all tried both last year.

La Salle of Philadelphia won the 1952 tournament and will be welcomed back, but unbeaten Seton Hall is the prize the NIT wants most.

Seton Hall may prefer the NCAA. The school has tried the NIT three times without success. It's last loss was in last year's NIT to La Salle.

Manhattan Possible

The tournament has to have several New York teams to ensure its financial success. These probably will be Manhattan College and either New York University or St. John's of Brooklyn—possibly both.

Sponsors of the NIT say they are studying carefully the records of every possible team but so far nothing official has been announced. The first acceptances may come next week. The tournament opens March 7.

Good bets for invitations would seem to be Holy Cross, Seattle University, Louisville, Western Kentucky, Dayton and Duquesne from last year's field plus Niagara, Tulsa and Oklahoma City University. These would be in addition to Seton Hall, La Salle and the New York schools. Since some of the teams might prefer the NCAA Tournament, the original NIT invitation list is bound to include more than the final dozen entries.

Playgirl Pat Ward's List Of Love Patrons Nears 100

NEW YORK—(AP)—Playgirl Pat Ward's roster of love customers Wednesday stood at 50 to 100, including a former European munitions maker as she began her third day of testimony in the vice trial of margarine heir Minot F. Jelke III.

The 19-year-old red-haired girl, who jumped from Manhattan's Lower East Side into cafe society circles, was reported near the end of her direct testimony and ready to face cross-examination by Jelke's attorneys.

Jelke, 23-year-old son of a socially registered felon, is charged with inducing Miss Ward and two other young women to become prostitutes and with living off Miss Ward's earnings.

Although newsmen and the public have been barred from the courtroom by General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente, defense and prosecution attorneys have been permitted to answer reporters' questions.

Miss Ward wept at her past, breaking down and bawling three times at continuing her testimony. But she continued to testify after being threatened with contempt by Valente.

Many customers are "nice people" with "big names" and some are from New York's clothing industry. Others named are not known to be politicians or Hollywood figures. One was a former European munitions maker.

Her fees for a night of love were $50 and $100, depending on what the traffic could bear.

Miss Ward was giving dates and places of her rendezvous, in addition to names and fees.

With the trial closed to them, newsmen scurried around the Criminal Courts Building in forays for additional information. The Daily News had this to add to the picture of Miss Ward's testimony Tuesday:

The first time she was threatened with contempt was at the start of the day when she received permission to read a statement. She told the court she would testify no more.

Parsons Trial—

and pleaded that they try again. He said he knew they had had "a hard time and it had been an ordeal" during the long trial but there was much at stake.

This is the third time the state has called the 22-year-old daughter of a wealthy Tulsa, Okla., family to trial. Two previous trials were called off because of technicalities in selecting a jury venire. The case was transferred here on a change of venue from El Paso, where Army Lt. Richard O. Parsons was shot fatally in the couple's apartment last February 16.

The tired jurors asked for help in trying to break the deadlock. Once it asked for a record of the testimony of Mrs. Tom Fleeger, Midland, sister-in-law of the defendant, who said Mary Jean hesitated before marrying Parsons. The second time it asked for the dictionary definition of the word "malice." Tipps refused the request and advised them to consider only the wording of his charge.

Called "Spoiled Brat"

In the final arguments before the packed courtroom, the state's attorneys labeled the pretty blonde a "spoiled brat" who killed her husband in a fit of temper.

Defense lawyers said she was an insane woman who could not be held responsible for what she did. Her expression did not change when her attorneys said she had "the most malignant of all major mental diseases."

"If you turn her loose, you are going to turn her loose to bask again in sunny Hawaii," said Assistant District Attorney Jack Fant of El Paso. He referred to the state's surprise testimony on rebuttal that Mary Jean, while under $50,000 bond on the murder charge, spent the Christmas holidays in Honolulu with her parents.

Introduced as evidence in the trial was a signed statement by Mrs. Parsons. She said she shot her husband after the two quarreled over financial help given the couple by her parents. Police found out about the shooting several hours later after Mary Jean had telephoned her parents in Tulsa.

Girls Bathing In Bathrooms For Men Shock College Town

CAMBRIDGE, ENGLAND—(AP) This quiet university town, long used to pranks from male students, was agog Wednesday over a report that six girl students have been bathing in college bathrooms reserved for men.

In each of the two forbidden bathrooms the feminine pranksters are said to have used their towels, they reportedly left their insignias—a single silk stocking.

The story is that the girls vowed to strip and scrub in each of the men's colleges of Cambridge University. In the student newspaper "Varsity," the girls described visits to "lovely big baths" at Emmanuel and Clare colleges. They said they were undetected despite "the feminine fragrance of our bath salts."

Varsity's editor, Don May, said he knew the story was true. He also said he knew the prankster but refused to disclose her name because, he said, she might be expelled.

Newsmen who went to the university's two women's colleges to inquire for missing silk stockings were given a cold reception.

"Talk to our lawyers," the girls said.

East German Reds Threaten Reprisals If West Signs Pact

BERLIN—(AP)—East Germany's Communists boldly threatened Wednesday to seal off West Berlin if the Bonn Republic ratifies the European Defense Pact.

In a proclamation heavy with portent, the Socialist Unity (Communist) Party of East Berlin declared "further isolation" is in store for the Red-surrounded city. It called for negotiations between the West and the Soviets to accomplish:

1. Withdrawal of all military garrisons from Berlin.
2. Abolition of the sector borders dividing the city.
3. Banning of "terror organizations," which the East says include the American radio RIAS, the anti-Communist "Fight Group Against Inhumanity," and the Free Justists League.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has said he will call up the defense treaty for a ratification vote in the West German Parliament between March 10 and 15.

Jack Mashburn and Dorothy Perkins are co-sponsors of the Senior High School Student Council in Midland.

President L. V. Basham was in charge of the Lions session. Ken Durham gave the invocation, and Jerome Graham introduced the program of high school speakers.

Copper Daugherty and C. E. Nelson reported on the returns received in the recent Irby Weaver benefit basketball game in which the Phillips 66 team of Midland played. They estimated that funds collected to date were nearing the $1,000 mark. The money will be used to purchase a seeing-eye dog for the use of Irby Weaver.

American Minister Appeals For Right To Remain In Italy

ROME.—(P)—An Italian-born American Protestant evangelist said Wednesday he has appeal to Premier Alcide de Gasperi to save him and his wife from being expelled from Italy by government order. "I have not heard from the Prime Minister," said 54-year-old Rev. Anthony Callandro, director of the American-financed Evangelical Bible Institute at Naples. "I am waiting. I think he will answer my letter." The order from the Interior minister expelling Callandro was the latest move in three years of conflict between Italy's Roman Catholics and Protestant churches. Callandro said that on January 17 he and his wife were given 48 hours to leave Italy. They have worked here almost five years. "I have no idea why they want to expel us," he declared. "We are assisting people. We are doing much good." Callandro's troubles followed difficulties reported for the last three years by the largely Texas-supported Church of Christ, and Baptists, Pentecostals and the Assemblies of God. All these people have reported churches closed or ministers arrested. Last Fall, they asked then U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson to urge that Italy honor her constitutional guarantee of freedom of religion. The Italian government answered by "tentatively" permitting closed churches to reopen.

Crude Is Now Being Moved Through New, Largest U. S. Line

The Mesa Pipeline pump station in Midland County fed an average of 45,763 barrels of oil daily, for the week ending February 8, into the West Texas Gulf Pipe Line Corporation's new Colorado City pump station at that system started transporting oil to the Gulf Coast and Ohio Valley and Great Lakes regions.

The Midland station, which is 75 to 80 per cent complete, sent the oil to Colorado City through a 24-inch line, using temporary pumps. At the Colorado City station, 155,910 more barrels of oil was injected daily into the system, giving it a load of 201,673 barrels daily, which was sent to the Wortham station through the 26-inch main line.

Part of the oil was branched off to Longview through a 30-inch carrier and then to Lucas through a 26-inch line.

Construction of the West Texas Gulf line, largest crude pipe line in the Western Hemisphere, is not yet complete in all details, though it is in regular operation. Formal dedication ceremonies now are planned for late April or early May.

Participating in the large pipe line are Gulf Oil Corporation, Sun Oil Company, Standard Oil Company of Ohio, Pure Oil Company and Cities Service Oil Company.

Wilshire Oil Is Liquidate And Distribute Assels

LOS ANGELES.—(Special)—Wilshire Oil Company, Inc., directors have adopted a plan of liquidation and distribution of assets as an incident to ultimate dissolution of the privately held firm, expected to be completed this year.

Pending final dissolution, the firm's refinery at Norwalk, Calif., as well as marketing business will be conducted in the customary manner without change in personnel, according to Ralph F. Foch, Wilshire vice president and general manager.

To Be Distributed Wilshire's oil producing properties in California and Texas are to be distributed to shareholders in the liquidation proceedings, Foch said. These oil producing properties will be operated by B-L & Associates, Inc., as operator under an operating agreement with the estate of George L. Machris, who died last October, he noted.

B-L & Associates was formed by Blyth & Co., Inc. and Lehman Brothers December, 1951, to purchase two-thirds of the outstanding Wilshire stock from Beale E. Machris, Maybell Machris and M. A. Machris, who were heirs of Alfred and Victor Machris.

B-L & Associates still holds its two-thirds controlling stock interest. The remaining one-third of the stock is owned by the estate of the late George L. Machris.

Wilshire, which has been in operation since 1919, had been owned solely by members of the Machris family prior to the purchase by B-L & Associates. An indication that Wilshire was going to be dissolved came last December when a group, headed by Hill, Richards & Co., bought from Wilshire its about 25 per cent working control of Bandini Petroleum Co.

Wilshire owns oil-producing properties in the Wilshire-Ellenburger field in Upton County, Texas, in Scurry County, Texas, and in South Cuyama, Huntington Beach and other fields in California. Wilshire's refinery, which it operates in Norwalk, has a daily capacity of 22,500 barrels. It is expected B-L & Associates will take over operation of the refinery before it finally is sold. Office In Midland Wilshire maintains headquarters of its Texas division in Midland. Frank W. Lake, a vice president of the Texas division is in Los Angeles. He is due to return to Midland by the end of the week.

It is understood that the Midland offices of Wilshire will be continued. It is expected that the name of the operation here will be changed in the near future.

Lake advised The Reporter-Telegram Wednesday that when he returns to Midland a full statement of the plans for continued operation of the Wilshire properties in this region will be made.

Pegasus In Upton Gets New Tester

Magnolia Petroleum Company has staked location for its No. 1-U TXL on the Northwest side of the Pegasus (multipay) field of Northwest Upton County. Midland Residence Damaged By Flames

Two alarms late in the afternoon spaced three minutes apart spoiled what could have been a fireless day for the Midland Fire Department Tuesday. A small home owned by Elizabeth Hickey, 1205 East Wall Street, was reported ablaze at 4:50 p.m. An oil stove explosion-caused the fire. It was extinguished, but heavy damage resulted.

Another call came in at 4:53 p.m. An oil pit of the Western Company was being burned under supervision at 3100 West North Front Street. Firemen permitted the blaze to continue.

THE POWER OF POSITIVE THINKING

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

How To Get People To Like You

Chapter 15

We might as well admit it: we want people to like us. You may hear someone say, "I don't care whether people like me or not." But whenever you hear anyone say that, he is not really telling the truth.

The psychologist, William James, said, "One of the deepest drives of human nature is the desire to be appreciated. The longing to be liked, to be held in esteem, to be a sought-after person, is fundamental in us."

A poll was taken among some high school students on the question, "What do you most desire?" By overwhelming majority the students voted that they wanted to be popular. The same urge is in older people as well. Indeed it is doubtful if anybody ever outgives the desire to be well thought of, to be highly regarded, or to have the affection of his associates.

To be master of the art of popularity, be artless. Strive deliberately after popularity and the chances are you will never attain it. But become one of those rare personalities about whom people say, "He certainly has something," and you can be certain you are on the way to having people like you.

A man who is an outstanding example of these truths is James A. Farley, former Postmaster General of the United States.

I met Mr. Farley for the first time a number of years ago. Months later I met him again in a large crowd of people and he called me by name. Being human, I never forgot that. And it is one reason I have always liked Mr. Farley.

An interesting incident illustrates the secret of this man who is an expert in how to get people to like him. I was to speak in Philadelphia at a book-and-author luncheon with Mr. Farley and two other authors. I did not actually witness this scene as I was late in arriving, but my publisher did. The speakers at this luncheon were walking along the hotel corridor together when they passed a colored maid standing by a cart loaded with sheets, towels, and other equipment with which she was servicing the rooms. She paid no attention to this group of people as they turned aside to avoid her cart. Mr. Farley walked up to her, put out his hand, and said, "Hello there. How are you? I'm Jim Farley. What's your name? Glad to see you."

My publisher looked back at her as the group passed down the hall. The girl's mouth was wide with astonishment and her face broke into a beautiful smile. It was an excellent example of how an egotistical, comfortable, outgoing person is successful in personal relationships.

Essentially getting people to like you is merely the other side of liking them. One of the most popular men who lived in the United States within his lifetime was the late Will Rogers and one of the most characteristic statements he ever made was "I never met a man I didn't like." That may have been a slight exaggeration, but I am sure Will Rogers did not regard it as such. That is the way he felt about people and, as a result, people opened up to him like flowers to the sun.

Sometimes the weak objection is offered that it is difficult to like some people. Granted, some people are by nature more likable than others, nevertheless a serious attempt to know any individual will reveal qualities within him that are admirable even lovable.

Feelings of Irritation. A man I know had the problem of conquering feelings of irritation toward persons with whom he was associated. For some people he had a very profound dislike. They irritated him intensely, but he conquered these feelings simply by making an exhaustive list of everything he possibly could admire about each person who annoyed him. Daily he attempted to add to this list. He was surprised to discover that people whom he thought he did not like at all proved to have many pleasing qualities. In fact, he was at a loss to understand how he ever disliked them after becoming conscious of their attractive qualities. Of course, while he was making these discoveries about them, they, in turn, were finding new and likable qualities in him.

The basic principles of getting people to like you need no prolonged and labored emphasis, for they are very simple and easily illustrated their own truth. However, I list 10 practical rules for getting the esteem of others. The soundness of these principles has been demonstrated innumerable times. Practice them until you become expert at them and people will like you.

1. Learn to remember names. Inefficiency at this point may indicate that your interest is not sufficiently outgoing. A man's name is very important to him.

2. Be a comfortable person so there is no strain in being with you—an old-shoe, old-hat kind of individual. Be homey.

3. Acquire the quality of relaxed easy-goingness so that things do not ruffle you.

4. Don't be egotistical. Guard against giving the impression that you know it all. Be natural and normally humble.

5. Cultivate the quality of being interesting so that people will want to be with you and get something of stimulating value from their association with you.

6. Study to get the "scratching" elements out of your personality, even those of which you may be unconscious.

7. Sincerely attempt to heal, on an honest Christian basis, every misunderstanding you have had or now have. Drain off your grievances.

8. Practice liking people until you learn to do so genuinely.

9. Never miss an opportunity to say a word of congratulation upon anyone's achievement, or express sympathy in sorrow or disappointment.

10. Get a deep spiritual experience so that you have something to give people that will help them to be stronger and meet life more effectively. Give strength to people and they will give affection to you.

George Washington Pens Social Tips For Teenagers

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—George Washington, now known as the father of his country, once was a teenage boy himself.

And like the teenager of today, he found himself beset by many problems of conduct. It was as tough to bridge the gap between boyhood and manhood then as it is now—perhaps even more so.

What did young George do about it? He decided to improve himself by drawing up his own code of behavior.

At 16 he had left his widowed mother to live with his half-brother at Mount Vernon. The young boy felt ill-at-ease in Virginia society.

So he took a quill pen and wrote in his copybook his now famous 110 "rules of civility and decent behavior in company and conversation."

Written in shaky grammar and spelling, some rules were copied from an English etiquette book. Some the young Washington made up himself.

But by following them the earnest youth became one of the most courtly men of his time.

Some are quaint and old-fashioned now. Others will remain cornerstones in civilized society.

Here are a few of the youthful George's teenage tips to himself:

"Every action done in company ought to be with some sign of respect to those that are present."

"In the presence of others sing not to yourself with a humming noise, nor drum with your fingers or feet."

"Sleep not when others speak. Sit not when others stand. Speak not when you should hold your peace. Walk not when others stop.

"Put not off your clothes in the presence of others, nor go out your chamber half dressed."

"Spit not in the fire . . . nor set your feet upon the fire especially if there be meat before it."

"Shift not yourself in the sight of others nor gnaw your nails . . . kill no vermin as fleas, lice, ticks, etc., in the sight of others."

"Reproach none for the infirmities (George couldn't spell that word) of nature . . . show not yourself at the misfortune of another though he were your enemy."

"If any one comes to speak to you while you are sitting, stand up though he be your inferior."

"Let your discourse with men of business be short and comprehensive."

Do Not Scratch. "Run not in the streets, neither go too slowly nor with mouth open. Do not shake your arms, kick not the earth with your feet, go not upon the toes nor in a dancing fashion."

"Be not curious to know the affairs of others . . . undertake not what you cannot perform, but be careful to keep your promise."

"Being set at meat, scratch not, neither spit, cough, nor blow your nose—except there's a necessity for it . . . if you soak bread in the sauce let it be no more than what you put in your mouth at a time . . . put not another bite into your mouth until the former be swallowed (oops, misspelled) . . . let not your morsels be not too big for your gowls (jaws)."

"Cleanse not your teeth with the table cloth, napkin, for or knife—but if others do it, let it be done with a pick tooth."

"If others talk at table be attentive, but talk not with meat in your mouth."

COPS OUT-GUNNED. MANILA—(AP)—Private individuals in Manila own twice as many guns as are in the hands of all the city's law enforcing officers. Daniel F. Basacan, presidential police adviser, says Manila police have only 10,020 firearms while 19,945 weapons are in the hands of duly-licensed civilians.

Traces Of Buried Civilization Sought

LONDON—(AP)—A British expedition has left for the 1,000-year-old sacred city of Ile-Ife in Nigeria, West Africa, to search for the buried remains of an unknown civilization.

The British museum said the archeologists will dig beneath Ile-Ife's mud-built palaces and homes to trace the origin of the fine bronze heads and terra cotta reliefs first discovered there in 1910 by the German explorer, Leo Frobenius. Other art objects were found near a palace in 1938.

WAKEGAN, ILL.—(AP)—The city's leading woman blood donor says giving blood is just about as easy as falling off a log. Mrs. Carl Hellman donated her forty-sixth pint of blood she's given in the space of 11 years—an average of over four pints a year.

Test Of Strength

What Congress now proceeds to do about tax reduction may provide the first really important test of strength between the lawmakers and President Eisenhower.

The President's message was clear and positive on the issue—no tax cuts until expenses have been trimmed. Just as plain, however, is the wording of a tax bill by Representative Reed, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Reed has said since the Eisenhower message that he sees no conflict between his proposal and the President's objectives. He plans to go ahead rapidly with the tax-cut bill, apparently on the assumption that by the time it gets through Congress—if it does—government expenditures will have been reduced conveniently to eliminate the prospect of deficit even at a lower level of income.

This seems a pretty glib assumption on Reed's part. On the basis of present revenues and the outlays called for by ex-President Truman before he left office, we face a deficit of close to $10,000,000,000 for the fiscal year which starts in July.

To cut $10,000,000,000 off the budget is no mean task. Obviously it cannot be done without paring both defense and foreign aid spending, an operation that calls for the most delicate handling of the knife.

It is asking a lot to imagine such a slash is going to be accomplished in the next few months, conceding the best of intentions and the fullest energies. But Reed's bill, presaging an early reduction in present revenues, would mean an even greater expense cut to bring the budget in balance.

The job is so big and the risks so great that it hardly appears wise to rush through an 11 per cent tax slash before some notion of actual spending cuts can be gained.

When savings really have been made, and more are clearly in the offing, then the proper time will be at hand to trim down federal revenues.

This is the way the President sees the problem, and he is firmly pledged to seek tax savings at the earliest feasible moment. It also is the way his leaders in Congress, including Senator Taft and Speaker Martin, see it.

Yet Reed knows the sentiment for quick reduction is strong among rank-and-file lawmakers in both parties. There is serious question whether Eisenhower and his top command in Congress will be able to control the terrific pressure building up for the Reed tax-cut plan.

If Reed wins out, the taxpayer may sigh happily at his relief. But it may turn out to be a little like taking the bandage off a half-healed toe, at risk of later having his leg sawed off above the kneecap.

The person who constantly boasts about how bright he is doesn't strike us as a shining example.

A Hero's Life Ain't What It's Cracked Up To Be

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson (Copyright, 1953, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: Most important question in world today: What's happening behind the curtain? Rebellion seething in Soviet lands; Fear Poland may revolt prematurely; Stalin behind purges.

Drew Pearson is now on a trip to Berlin and Paris to check on crucial developments there and report on the progress of John Foster Dulles in unifying our Allies.

BERLIN—The most important question in the world today is: What's happening behind the Iron Curtain?

What's the reason for the purges, the indirect attacks of certain Russian leaders, the wave of anti-Semitism, the flood of political refugees daily streaming across the border at Berlin? Upon the answer to this puzzle depends the answer to the question of peace or war and here in Berlin, the only place where there is a gap in the Iron Curtain, is the best place to get it.

My own diagnosis from talking to those who have been behind the Iron Curtain and to intelligence experts follows:

1. Some parts of the over-expanded Soviet Union are gored from too much conquest and are on the brink of revolution today. Various other areas in the Soviet orbit are seething with unrest, and the Red leaders in the Kremlin need scapegoats. Hence the purges and the pogroms.

2. On the face of things, Russia is a long way from war and is in no position to wage it. However, dictators sometimes start war to divert attention from their own failures. That is the greatest danger in Europe today.

To understand what is happening in the Soviet Union you have to remember that there are only about 40,000,000 Russians in the USSR and the over-all policy of the Kremlin is to operate and to control the other parts of the Soviet empire—from Mongolia to Czechoslovakia and from Turkistan to Poland—for the sole benefit of these 40,000,000 Russians.

Seething Rebellion: Thus, while the forty millions around Moscow have never had it so good, the other diverse and nationally minded millions—who are expected to raise more crops, to build more factories, to lay more railroad lines and to support the Soviet war machine—are restless and rebellious. That is why a new word has been coined and added to the al-

Again it is important to remember that in 1914 the Russian military, fearful of unrest at home, wanted war. That was why the Russian military attaches in Belgrade were in contact with the little gang of Serb assassins who bombed Archduke Franz Ferdinand as Sarajevo.

Other areas in which this restlessness is most apparent today are the Ukraine, Czechoslovakia, Georgia (the birthplace of Stalin), Armenia and Turkistan.

Stalin is smart enough to know that his restless empire, having bitten off far more territory than the Czar did and having suffered acute indignations, is in no condition to wage war. But Stalin is an old man. He has little time left to live.

Will his successors share the same view or will they do what the generals around the car did in 1914—throw the world into war in order to cement their cracking empire? That is the biggest question to which every European chancery would like to have the answer.

So They Say: I think you can say that there will be no difficulty in working out a legislative program to put the country back on the track we abandoned 20 years ago when the New Deal came in.

Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio): The filibuster must go. It is a repudiation of representative government.

Senator Herbert Lehman (D-NY): When the day comes that we (judges) succumb to pressure, we might as well close the doors of justice.

Judge Irving Kaufman, who sentenced the Rosenbergs to death: They (the NCAA) have attempted to dedicate what the public can and cannot see with little regard for what the public would like to see.

Notre Dame University President Rev. Theodore Hesburgh on restriction of football television: On balance, the world is less near an atom war than a year or two ago.

Dr. Ralph Bunche of the UN Trusteeship Department: Playing golf is like paying taxes. You drive hard and wind up in the hole.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY: Written for NEA Service. Hand No. 3 of the recent World Championship Match between America and Sweden was one of the most interesting of the entire 256-board match.

Just in case you are puzzled by the beginning of the bidding shown with today's hand, I should explain the players on the American team use a weak opening two bid.

When they want to make an opening forcing bid, they must bid two clubs regardless of whether or not they have a real club suit.

In this case, South opened with two clubs to show the strength of his hand, and later showed that his real length was in hearts and diamonds.

Bridge hand diagram showing North and South cards: North (11) has KQ1074, 10653, None, AKJ2. South (D) has J6, AKQJ7, AKQJ6, 8.

amonds. I cannot argue with success, since Howard Schenken, the declarer in the "closed" room, actually made his unopened slam contract.

West was misguided enough to open a trump against declarer's small slam contract in hearts.

Small slam contract in hearts. Schenken thereupon drew three rounds of trumps, discarded all of dummy's clubs on his top diamonds, and then gave up one spade trick.

Dummy made the rest of the trick with good spades and a trump. In the "open" room, in front of an audience of bridge enthusiasts, the Swedish declarer went down ingloriously at his slam contract.

Johnny Crawford, defending for America, opened the ace of clubs and then switched to spades to let his partner take the ace of spades.

I would not bother to report this sort of hand, even though it is spectacular, except for the fact that a very valuable lesson can be derived from it. It is almost never good policy to open a trump against a slam contract.

Such an opening lead gives control of the hand immediately to declarer and allows him to develop the hand in the way that pleases him best.

It may be sound play to open a trump against a small slam contract when you know that every suit will break badly for declarer.

In such a case you may realize that declarer must aim for a cross ruff, and every defensive trump lead will then save a trick. In all other situations, however, it is poor policy to open a trump and thus surrender your defense to the declarer.

TV Coverage Of Press Talks Has 'Bugs' To Be Worked Out

By PETER EDSON, NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The prospect of televising one of President Eisenhower's press conferences—while intriguing to the great look-and-listen audience—has opened up a whole new panorama of technical, political, propaganda and psychological questions.

There are matters of finding a suitable place and time, making room for the cameras, providing proper lighting, shutting off eavesdroppers who might want to hog the mike with local-interest questions for hometown consumption, and, finally, protecting the President from any accidental slips of the tongue.

The long-established rule at all White House press conferences is that the President never can be quoted directly, without his official permission on specific points. That rule was established for the protection of the President against misquotation.

With a televised, live broadcast of a presidential press conference, however, any inadvertent slip of the tongue would be on the record for good. It could be corrected instantly only if expert assistants could step to the President's side immediately and whisper advice into his ear while the TV cameras ground out the scene with recorded, embarrassing silence.

To catch up with an error on the spot, a later program would be difficult. The only way to avoid such mistakes would be to have questions submitted in advance and the carefully-prepared answers read into the microphones. This would completely destroy the spontaneity of the press conference atmosphere.

It would reduce the proceedings to a canned, political propaganda, question-and-answer program. Spot News Value Lost

One other suggested way to get around this would be to record the press conference on film, then edit the film and censor out the bugs for a later kinescope telecast.

Television experts disapprove of this for several reasons. First, the spot news value of the press conference would be all gone by the time the TV show got on the air.

Second, kinescope recordings don't have the same quality as live telecasts. There are other technical problems which are even more bothersome.

The four TV networks—NBC, ABC, CBS and DuMont—are perfectly willing to pool the operation. Even so, it would take three cameras to pick it up properly. Two would be on the President from different angles. The other would cover the reporters.

Each TV camera requires at least 25 square feet of floor space, crowding out a number of reporters. To shoot down on the press conference, as from a balcony would be impossible.

A-Bid three no-trump. With 23 points in high cards you are willing to bid a game opposite the weakest possible responding hand. If your partner has about six points and a heart stopper you should have some reasonable play for game.

TODAY'S QUESTION: The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades A-Q, Hearts 7-3, Diamonds A-K-Q-J, Clubs A-K-J. What do you do?

Answer Thursday

Peter Edson

difficult photographically because of President Eisenhower's high and somewhat bald forehead.

Placing microphones so as to pick up the reporters' questions from all corners of a big room would be difficult, although it might be done by a long microphone boom, swung from overhead. Another way to do it would be to have the questions repeated by someone at the President's side. That would slow up the show. Using a master of ceremonies of any kind would have the same effect.

Timing Is Headache: Timing is another headache. If the press conference were put on in the morning it might be an "island" program—nothing before and nothing after. It would have a small audience.

Putting the press conference on at night would cut into paid programs. Or, if a press conference were held on a fight night, that would be the end of the President's popularity.

Lighting isn't considered a difficult problem, unless the newsmen have to be let in at the same time. That's another headache because of the noise of the newsmen cameras.

To avoid some of the mob-scene press conferences like those televised from the Chicago convention headquarters, it has been suggested that attendance be limited. That probably wouldn't work. Anyone denied admission could squawk for his rights.

The present presidential press conference room in the old State Department building seats about 200, when jam-packed full. If they all wanted to ask questions, it would take hours to get around. The show would have to be limited to 30 minutes maximum.

Most of President Truman's conferences ran 15 to 20 minutes. In spite of all these obstacles, no one in authority yet is willing to say that a presidential press conference couldn't be televised, or shouldn't be. It's a logical development in news coverage. The advantage to a President in being able to put his direct answers to questions right into the home is obvious.

Sometimes soon, representatives of the TV networks and White House Press Secretary Jim Hagerly are expected to sit down and try to work out how it can be done.

What's RIGHT?

You make a business telephone call and a secretary answers. WRONG: Ask to speak to her employer, without giving her your name.

RIGHT: Give your name to the secretary.

The Golden Door

By Bart Spicer, Copyright by Bart Spicer, Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

I BUTTONED up my jacket so my gun wouldn't slip out and I crammed my breast pocket handkerchief down deep. Then I leaned against the cold stone of the building and hoped my nerve would be good enough to get me inside when Maxwell hit the door.

I got both hands on the sill and jumped. The leap carried me waist deep into the window and I hung there for a moment, trying to feel what was below me. Maxwell kept up the racket but there wasn't another sound in the apartment that I could hear.

The bathroom was white tile and with only the reflection of the light from the street I could see fairly well. Below me stretched a short narrow tub and I pulled myself through the window and slid head first down into it. In the far corner was a white crumpled bundle that looked like discarded bed linen. I stepped over the rim of the tub and went to the door.

The same moment my hand touched the knob, quick moving feet, sounded outside. A thick voice shouted through the closed front door at Maxwell. I couldn't make out what was said. I eased the bathroom door open in time to hear Maxwell shout back. He kicked and knocked some more, and a tall man in dark clothes crossed the floor to the front door. I saw the evil-looking pistol in his hand and I let out the loudest yell I've ever yelled.

The man turned on one heel, saw me and snapped a shot at the bathroom door. I was on the floor by that time. He jumped out of sight around the corner of the room and fired twice through the front door at Maxwell. Something heavy hit the floor of the hall outside. I yanked my gun up through the neck of my buttoned jacket and ran on my toes down the short foyer to the front room. Ahead of me was a low divan with a coffee table in front of it. I couldn't see anything else. My man was somewhere in the blank corner near the windows. I went into the room in a shallow dive that carried me behind the divan. One hurried shot missed me. Two more clipped softly into the upholstery above my head while I was crawling to the far side.

I couldn't see anything from my position behind the divan, and when I reached the far side I still couldn't see anything. My gun was cold and heavy in my hand. The brittle sound of a window catch being released caught my attention. The tall man had one leg over the sill when I stood. He turned to fire over his shoulder. He was late. I fired three shots before I was squarely set. All of them missed but the next three hit him somewhere in the chest. He tensed his left hand on the edge of the window in a convulsive grip until the knuckles whitened and his body arched high and stiff.

Then he relaxed and rolled back limply into the room. I didn't bother to look at him. His gun bounced on the floor and skidded toward me. I scooped it up before I went to the front door.

MAXWELL was huddled on the floor just outside the door. He lay on his right side with both hands rammed tightly against his chest. There was a light seep of blood on his lower lip. Doors up and down the hall were standing open, with frightened faces staring wildly out at me. All the doors slammed quickly shut when I looked around, and I remembered the pistol in my hand. I rammed it into my pocket and ran back into the apartment, looking for the telephone. A bored disinterested voice answered when I lifted the phone. "Do you have a doctor in this building?" I snapped. "Police business." The voice said there might be a doctor at home. I told him to send him to this number and connect me with the Police Department. He wanted a lot more information but he shut up when I told him it was murder. I got the number and reported the shooting to the local duty sergeant, telling him it was Lieutenant Grodnick's case.

The sergeant was casual about it until he heard the address. That made it important.

I stopped to look at the tall man again. The last time we met he had warned me about being nosy. He had said something about killing me, if I remembered correctly. No one could say he hadn't tried. He looked quiet and comfortable under the window with a shiny pool of blood welling under his head. I didn't have to touch him to know that he was dead. He wouldn't be threatening anyone else. I wanted to look in his pockets to see who he was, but I knew better.

WHEN I got back to the hall a short bald man in a green broad-cast robe was bent over Maxwell. He jabbed a hypodermic needle into Maxwell's arm, pushed down the plunger and pulled it out. He looked up at me.

"Are you responsible for this?" he snapped.

"Part of it," I said. "How is he?"

"He has a bullet in his chest," the doctor said grimly. "But he should live if it hasn't anything vital. I can't tell yet. I'll throw a bandage on him. That's all I can do here."

"That's fine, doc. Stick around till the cops come, will you?"

The doctor moaned. "Until they get here you couldn't make me leave," he said cryptically. "And I want you to stay where I can see you. I don't like any part of this."

I leaned against the wall and looked down the hall at the doors that were standing wide open again. I tried to make my shaking fingers light a cigaret, but I finally quit trying after breaking two matches.

Then I put my cigarets away and waited for the meat wagon to get there. (To Be Continued)

Parents Play Same Role As Leader In Group Therapy

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Something that should fascinate parents has happened in the field of mental hygiene. It is called "group therapy."

Here's a typical way it works. Ten people meet regularly each week with a trained mental hygienist. Of different ages and sexes, they think they have different problems. One may be a young man who can't bring himself to marry a girl he's fond of. Another may be a middle-aged woman who's always getting fired from jobs. Still others may be husbands, wives, parents whose vital relationships have bogged down into discouragement and stagnation. Under the guidance of the group leader, these troubled folk finally

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— John Heron, a captain in the Pittsburgh fire department, has turned his avocation for bees into a profitable hobby.

Several years ago the city discovered Heron was a bee fancier. Since then he's been called on to get rid of hundreds of swarms of bees.

Heron does the bee catching during his off-duty hours. A short time ago he presented his bill for 1952. Council promptly authorized payment of $1,753 for catching 138 swarms of bees.

The captain has some trade secrets, including an unidentified liquid he uses. The liquid, Heron declares, "has a smell the bees can't stand and it poisons their honey."

Blind Take Roles In Civil Defense

NEW YORK —(AP)— General headquarters of the U. S. Air Force has agreed that blind persons can have a very definite role in the ground observer corps in civil defense, says the American Foundation for the Blind.

Blind persons can perform telephone duties at observation posts and trained blind persons can also identify aircraft by sound in cases where visual contact cannot be made with approaching aircraft due to inclement weather conditions. They may also be used as raid clerks and recorders at filter centers, the announcement says.

"Jack Ketch" means the same as "public hangman" in England, where Ketch was a notorious executioner.

THE LINCOLN COUNTRY

Sketched on the Spot by Ralph Lane

NO. 6—THE CIRCUIT RIDER

The Metamora courthouse in Woodford County, Ill., northeast of Peoria, is preserved as one of the many Lincoln memorials. In the early days in Illinois it was the custom for lawyers to accompany circuit judges and represent litigants in cases to be held. The days were long, the traveling arduous and the pay small. Lincoln, like any other budding lawyer of the day, spent eight months out of the year riding the old Eighth Circuit to practice law. Historians are in agreement that these years of legal practice had much to do with his keen understanding of human nature and his later greatness.

"What's up, Mac? What're they doing?"

It happens to everybody. You. You walk down the street, see a crowd, join it, and watch some strange goings-on. Then you ask somebody what's up—even though you can see what's up with your own eyes.

Chances are that he'll have to get a newspaper to find out—just as you will.

Then, for the first time, you'll discover that the firemen on the ladder were trying to reach a young man who had escaped from the police and climbed a pole.

Being on the spot is not much better than seeing one or two photographs of the action, or seeing a headline about it.

All of these can whet your appetite for news, but they cannot satisfy your hunger for the whole story.

• This goes for advertising, too. The brief message that hangs in the air... or brief headlines here or there... may indeed have a momentary interest.

But the newspaper ad carries the bristacks quality, the urgency of the newspaper itself.

Like a news item, the ad can be examined and re-examined. Can be read any time. Anywhere. Can be clipped and carried in a pocketbook.

Add to all this the fact that the newspaper reaches just about everybody in town, and you know why the newspaper is the nation's most effective advertising medium.

The newspaper is always "Apt with the most!"

Daddy Ringtail And Prince Charming

Toowit Toowoo is a wise old owl who came from China. If he hadn't been wise, he might have stayed there. Now he is the teacher for the animal-children in the Great Forest. They were now having the play about the play-like Prince Charming who awakens the sleeping beauty with a kiss. The Huffen Puffen, the friendly wolf, was playing-like he was the sleeping beauty. He wasn't beautiful, of course, but he was sleepy.

He crawled into the fine soft bed that the folks had got beneath the trees to help with the playing-like of the story of the sleeping beauty. The Huffen was snoring and sleeping away—really, not play-like, now.

"Where's Prince Charming?" asked Toowit Toowoo.

"Here I am," Prince Charming Mugwump answered. He was really only Mugwump Monkey, the monkey boy, but he was the play-like Prince Charming that fine afternoon.

whiskers, because the Huffen is a wolf, and there never could be a friendlier one.

"Go ahead, Prince Charming Mugwump," said Toowit Toowoo. "Awaken the sleeping beauty with a kiss."

And so Prince Charming Mugwump puckered his lips. With them he made a noise of the kind that a bathtub makes when the last of the water runs out. The noise was loud enough for a kissing noise to awaken the sleepest beauty there ever was.

It awakened the Huffen, and the Huffen said he would be happy to play-like the story of the sleeping beauty just any time—if only they would let him sleep a little longer.

Tomorrow I'll tell you about a giant who meets Mugwump, and says: "Fe, fi, fo, fum! Where in the world did you come from?" Ho-hum, and happy day!

★ DR. JORDAN SAYS ★

End Of Tuberculosis In View; Found Early, Spread Is Halted

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Tuberculosis, or what used to be called the "White Plague," is being conquered. A generation ago this disease was one of the most important causes of illness and death throughout a large part of the world. While it still is important, there perhaps is no better way of showing how it is being subdued than to cite the figures released not long ago by a large life insurance company.

In 1951 this company paid out less than $5,000,000 on account of death from tuberculosis, which was less than one-sixtieth of the amount paid by the same company for all causes of death, including accidents.

Only 25 years before, the company paid more than $10,000,000 in an average year on death claims because of tuberculosis, and this amounted to about one-tenth of the total amount paid for all causes of death.

Tuberculosis, however, is not yet wiped out, even though the end is in sight. All of the methods which now are known for fighting the disease must be used, and new methods must be developed constantly as even now is the case.

Tuberculosis of the lungs, which is the most common form of the disease, can and should be discovered early. This can be done by the use of the X-ray film. The early discovery of the disease is particularly important since a patient who is given rest and proper care at this time almost always can be restored to good health.

early form of the disease in the lungs can be isolated from others, danger of spread of the disease is enormously lessened.

While it is important to recognize the disease early, it should be stated also that even those who have advanced cases of tuberculosis often can be treated successfully with modern methods.

The treatment of tuberculosis is, of course, a highly technical matter, and must be adjusted to the individual need. Rest, both of the body as a whole and of the diseased lung tissue, still is perhaps the most important single method of treatment.

Drugs Have Success
However, streptomycin—a penicillin relative—and a new drug with a complicated name, both have been used with more or less success in the treatment of tuberculosis, though they cannot be considered as substitutes for other time-honored measures.

It is not possible, of course, to cover the subject of tuberculosis in a single column, but what I wish to emphasize at this time is that many of us are alive and well today, and have living relatives who would have died from tuberculosis under the circumstances existing 40, or even 25, years ago. While not yet complete, this is the kind of progress which we should like to report for treatment of all disorders of the human body.

LITTLE STRANGER AT YOUR HOUSE—
New Tyke Can Adjust Hours
To Match Those Of Parents

EDITOR'S NOTE: For new mothers — and new mothers-to-be — nothing is more reassuring than the wisdom of experienced mothers. Here's the second of six articles of just such wisdom, written by a mother whose own mother is a well-known child-care specialist. The articles are condensed from "Parents' Magazine Book of Baby Care," a mother's guide to the first six years by Eleanor S. Duncan with the counsel of Clara Savage Littledale, editor of Parents' Magazine, published by McGraw-Hill Book Company, Inc.

By ELEANOR S. DUNCAN

There has been some confusion about the self-demanded schedule, and some misgivings on the part of young parents who see their own eating and sleeping and work schedules hopelessly disrupted.

Perhaps enough emphasis has not been placed on transferring from self-demand to the more scheduled living necessary for the baby's happiness at later stages. Yet this transition is not hard to make. They Cry Less

The purpose of self-demand, we must remember, is to ease the baby's adjustment to the outside world. A wealth of experience has now shown that babies are happier when their individual needs are taken into account. They cry less—though some crying is always to be expected. They start sleeping through the night at an earlier age.

And it is interesting to note that as they become adjusted to the new environment, which is evidenced by contentment most of the time, they begin their own accord to regularize their hours for eating and sleeping.

No Rigid Schedule
It is wise, therefore, to adjust your own schedule at first to the baby's irregular—and perhaps seemingly constant—demands. But presently you will observe a regular pattern emerging. With a great many babies, this happens around the third month. But it takes some infants a longer time, others a shorter time.

Also, it happens differently with different babies. We do not advise, therefore, that you clamp your baby into a rigid schedule the moment him and rocking him for as long as he is happy, thus delaying his supper. Within a few days, you can, in this way, switch him from, let us say, a 4:30 supper to 5:30 or later.

(Next: Three to six months)

Furthermore, if someone with an he begins to eat and sleep by a fairly regular pattern. But you can help him to adjust his schedule to that of the family.

Midnight Snacks
You would be hardly be human if you weren't looking forward to the time when your baby will sleep through the night.

Babies, too, like to get a good night's sleep (in spite of that week or so when they experiment with sleeping all day and wanting to be amused all night) and they gradually work toward eliminating their middle-of-the-night meal.

Has Own Way
Your infant suddenly may decide to sleep from 10 p.m. until 6 a.m., and that will be that; or he may start taking his 10 p.m. feeding later and later until it merges with the one in the middle of the night.

In such a case, you are justified in waking him around 10 p.m. or so to fill him up for the night. Another child delays his 2 a.m. feeding a little more each night until it runs into breakfast time. Let him do this his own way.

Delay Crawl Time
If it looks as if his own pattern, as it emerges, won't be practical for neither of you, you can guide him to a more satisfactory arrangement.

For instance, if he seems fond of a too-early supper, which in turn leads him to want breakfast at the crack of dawn, try playing with

Slender Look Is Striking In Kids And Linens

The light look characterizes these shoes by Mademoiselle for resort wear. Black patent pump (left) with white kid binding and bow has the new castnet heel, a cone shape at a comfortable height. The banded and backless shoe (upper left center) is very delicate when it's done in flowered French silk ribbons and in a pale blue. Stripping sandal (lower left center) is open, airy but designed to support the foot completely. It's shown here in rosy kid. White linen backless pumps (upper right center) have closed toe and navy ribbon chevron with red felt arrowheads embroidered in gold bullion. Spectators look feminine (lower right center) in mesh with kid detailing. They're shown here in blue kid with white mesh. Monochromatic pink embroidery on white mesh (right) makes a pump of great airiness and delicacy. There's something for everybody in this collection.

cosmetic firm is now marketing a purse-sized hand lotion dispenser that's just the answer to this problem. This little gadget, filled with delicately scented, richly emollient lotion, has a rubber tip for dispensing the lotion by means of gentle pressure against your hand. A screw cap prevents any leakage in your handbag. You can readily refill it when necessary. Such a hand lotion dispenser can be a boon to career girls who must use office building soap, mothers who sit out in the cold with babies, winter sports fans, college students—in fact, any girl who is away from her home bottle of hand lotion a great deal.

If your hands are stiff, rough or bulging with blue veins, you can help to relax and soften them and do a little toward reducing the veins by proper massage with a rich cream.

Wash and dry your hands thoroughly first. Then hold one hand perpendicularly while you work in rich cream with the other. Imagine you are trying on a pair of new kid gloves. Begin at the fingertips and firmly work down and backward into the wrist area. Massage with a circular movement for about 10 minutes.

Nothing seems to prevent scaly hand skin, keep your hands out of water unless you are washing them. Does this sound fantastic? It can be done if you make use of long-handled, self-wringing mops, dish sponges with handles, rubber gloves, work gloves (coat your hands with cream before pulling them on), and a stick to stir the laundry.

There are more pinks and reds this year than ever in the past. In ready-to-wear, pinks and reds often keep company, so it's natural that they should have a big year afoot, too. Black patent sparkles away in these new shoe fashions and, of course, there are the navies, whites and pastels.

Old Church Found In Grotto Of Rome
ROME—(P)—A tiny, old Christian church, nestled in a grotto where Etruscans buried their dead before the rise of Rome, was uncovered recently in the Maremma section of Tuscany. Experts say the Christians congregated in this old Etruscan burial place to worship when the mighty Caesars ruled the world. It contains not only Romanesque arches, but also frescoes and lettering of the later Byzantine period when the Christian church was firmly established in the Roman empire.

 HOUSED IN THE MIDLAND COUNTY LIBRARY

This collection was started in 1936 and has grown to a present size of 4,557 volumes valued at over $10,000.00.

It includes files of 22 periodicals in the field of petroleum geology and technology.

All of this material is provided by funds of the West Texas Geological Society or by individual gifts.

The citizens of this county have full access to this outstanding collection provided without cost to the taxpayers.

In 1952, 3,316 volumes of this collection, or 73 per cent, were circulated.

Money is available for substantial additions to this collection, but room to house the volumes is lacking.

The West Texas Geological Society believes that enlarged quarters should be provided for the library so that it may continue to be of service to the community.
