NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

How To Live Without Fatigue

ONE DAY, I WAS sitting in a shoe shine parlor in a Western city, a place distinguished for its super-comfortable chairs, when someone sank into the seat beside me.

He was such a fine appearing fellow that I said, "A man as young as you shouldn't get so tired."

"Oh, I'm not so young," he answered. "I'm 53. And I do seem to get very tired. Maybe I don't know how to rest any more."

"THERE ARE SOME words," I continued, "that you can memorize and say over to yourself a half dozen times a day that will help you to live without fatigue."

"I never saw that man again and perhaps never shall see him. And he probably wonders who it was who gave him that curious prescription."

BETWEEN TRAINS ONE morning in a certain town, I dropped in to see a friend of mine, a very active store operator.

"Then he explained that he believes that the character of one's thoughts actually colors his feelings."

So he practices thinking "energizing thoughts," as he describes them. He consciously affirms that his thoughts are connected with God who is the source of all energy.

By being in tune with God, one indeed can live without fatigue.

GEORGI M. MALENKOV Top man in Soviet Union

Malenkov Chosen Stalin's Successor

By EDDY GILMORE MOSCOW —(AP)— Russian millions mourning their dead leader were told Saturday the Communist Party's call for unity is "the best of Stalin's immortal heart" and that all the Soviet people will approve the decree streamlining the government under his successor, Georgi M. Malenkov.

Pravda made these pronouncements as endless lines of men, women and children, some red-eyed from weeping, shuffled from below zero cold into the flower perfumed Hall of Columns for a look at the body of the man who guided the nation, in war and peace, the last 29 years.

The consolidation of ministries and changes in command ordered by party and government officials Friday night—only about 24 hours after Stalin died from the complications of a stroke—were described by the Communist Party newspaper as aimed at "preventing any kind of interruption in leading activities of state and party organs."

"This most important political document will be received by the party and the entire Soviet people with unanimous approval," it said.

McMillen Has No Opposition For Mayoralty

J. W. McMillen, former city councilman and independent oil operator, headed unopposed for Midland's mayoralty job Saturday as nine other candidates jumped into the race for the three City Council posts to be filled in the April 7 city election.

The filing period closed at midnight Saturday with McMillen as the only candidate for successor to Mayor Perry Pickett, who is not seeking reelection.

But a flurry of candidates in the final 24 hours brought a field of candidates for each of the three council posts.

Place No. 1—Joe Bill Pierce, architect; Jack Polosky, independent oil operator; Hugh D. McCullough, independent geologist, and R. A. Estes, oil company civil engineer.

Place No. 2—John Ed Cooper, oil field servicing company executive; George Halls, oil company executive, and R. C. Maxson, real estate operator.

Place No. 3—John M. Hills, independent geologist, and Clifton Wilderspin, oil company landman.

The "sudden death" April 7 election will determine the winner on the basis of a plurality of votes cast, since there is no provision under the city charter for a runoff election.

★ JOHNSON IN HOLLYWOOD ★

Bettger Says Screen's Heavies Carry Less Weight With Fans

By ERSKINE JOHNSON, NEA Staff Correspondent

Guy and Dolls: Maybe being rough and ruthless turned the stardom trick for George Raft, Alan Ladd and Humphrey Bogart, but Lyle Bettger, who's been meaner than all of them on the screen, says the big romance between moviegoers and heavies is over.

Lyle, who just finished playing a trio of varmints in "You Belong to Me," "All I Desire," and "The Great Sioux Uprising" at Udi, analyzes it this way: "Audiences can now see tough guys for free on TV. Home screens are full of leering heavies. Just being mean and ruthless isn't enough. You have to have some relation to the heroine.

"I'm not striping, but it's all very frustrating. I did 17 plays on Broadway and nobody thought of me as a heavy. Now when they need a killer in Hollywood, they get Lyle. I can't break away from it."

The life of Lupe Velez on the screen? "Why not?" big-eyed Abbe Lane, wife of Xavier Cugat, is balking now that she's being given the movie-stardom push and can dream about future movie roles to follow "The Hawk of the Hills."

"Lupe was such a vibrant person," Abbe enthused. "She had 12 chihuahuas and so have I. The studio sees me as a combination of Lupe and Maria Montez, anyhow."

Abbe's in the same league with Lupe and Maria when it comes to chatter. Some samples—

"I will hire the singers who replace me on Cugat's show. If they're too good-looking—OUT!"

"I have to wear period clothes in my first picture. If the necklines aren't low enough, I'll get a scissors and cut them this way down."

Face Up To Trend

New York television producers reconciled to the fact that Hollywood is destined to be the nation's video capital. That's the flash from Gene Raymond, back in movietown after three years of Manhattan TV and stage emoting.

"New Yorkers know the business is moving westward," Gene told me, "but they won't admit it. Their only argument now against film is, 'You can always tell film when it's on the air.' And my answer is, 'Yes, you can tell it's film because it's always better.'"

Gene is on the prowl for a "good part in a good play" but he'll do movie make-up again "if somebody makes me a good offer."

Two American Women Found Slain By Indian Bandits

NEW DELHI —(AP)—Two American women—the wife of a missionary and a school teacher—were found slain in their beds Saturday in the American Presbyterian Mission at Dehradun, a U. S. embassy spokesman said.

On the basis of reports telephoned here, Embassy officials speculated robbers were responsible.

The embassy said the murdered women were identified as a Mrs. Herbert Strickler, Camden, N. J., wife of the executive secretary of all Presbyterian missions in India, and Mrs. Elizabeth Bennett, Camden.

AMBASSADOR ARRIVES

PARIS —(AP)—The new U. S. ambassador to France, C. Douglas Dillon, arrived Saturday.

Marryin' Tommy Manville Happy With Number Nine

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y. —(AP)—Off-wed Tommy Manville, 55, said Saturday he has been reconciled with his ninth wife, almost divorced Mrs. Anita Frances Roddy-Eden Manville, 28.

She got a Mexican decree last August, and Manville, thinking himself free, took out a license in Greenwich, Conn., February 24 to marry Mrs. Lillian Bishop Alcar, also blonde and 29, Union City, N. J.

Plans for a new wedding died aborning, however, when a Mexican judge set aside the Roddy-Eden decree February 28. Her lawyers claimed it violated Mexican divorce laws on 29 counts.

Manville said his wife joined him for dinner Friday night and told him she wants him, not a divorce.

Said the millionaire asbestos heir: "I think it's the first time this has happened—this way."

Legislative Showdown Due On Spending, Tax Questions

By DAVE CHEAVENS
 AUSTIN—(P)—Put up or shut time on the spending versus taxing issue loomed like a black storm cloud as the 53rd Legislature neared the halfway point.
 Warnings that spending even at present levels may bring a deficit further were dramatized by a comptroller's report showing the general revenue fund's net cash balance shrank $2,651,513 in February.
 The session reaches its sixtieth day Friday and the spend-and-tax or save-and-not-tax question coming to a head.
Resources Fight
 A flurry of activity among lobbyists and increasing pressure from both sides indicated a showdown must come soon. Literature designed to show that natural resources, especially natural gas, already are paying their share or more-of state costs is piling up on lawmakers' desks. And the House faction urging more taxes on natural resources has several new propositions cooking.
 Governor Shivers indicated he agrees with the comptroller's view that declining oil revenues bring a threat of a deficit if the Legislature holds spending to what it is now.

 House Speaker Reuben Setzer-fitt took the floor in an unusual act to urge no increase in money made available for state services.
Pay Boosts Sought
 A group that looks now like a minority wants a big increase in teachers pay, to give state employes at least a cost of living increase and to boost prison expenditures.
 It had been thought some small increases might be made without danger of a deficit. Now it's beginning to look definitely as if anything in the nature of token increases also would demand some new taxing.
 There was plenty of action on the floor and in committees last week.
 Most sensational was a short-lived effort to open the doors of all-male Texas A&M College to women. The Senate passed, then killed, a resolution to that effect after he-man Aggies everywhere cried it would not be right.
Money Bill Signed
 The session's first big money bill, a $3,225,000 item for new state hospitals, was signed into law by Gov. Shivers.

Dallas and Houston started a fight to be designated as the districts for Texas' new congressman. It's still in committee.
 A strict narcotics law aimed at the illicit dope traffic was passed by the House and hurried along to the Senate.
 A commission to work on problems of getting the most out of every dollar spent for education, instructed to report April 1, was appointed.
 Policemen and firemen virtually gave up their struggle for a mandatory pay raise.
 A bill to bring watchmakers under state control and another to fix a minimum of 75 cents an hour for Texas workers got virtual death blows in committee.
 Senate committee action on the House-passed optometry bill was put off two weeks.

PROUD PARENTS—British actor Michael Wilding holds his son, Michael Howard Wilding, born January 6, as the youngster makes his first camera appearance. Mother Elizabeth Taylor shares in the flash bulb ordeal.

Last-Chance Bills To Swamp Legislative Hopper This Week

By MARTHA COLE
 AUSTIN—(P)—Take heed—everybody's expecting a deluge of bills in the Legislature this week and one is bound to affect you.
 It's the last week for free-wheeling introduction of bills.
Steelman Resigns White House Post
 WASHINGTON—(P)—The White House said Saturday John R. Steelman has resigned as special assistant to the President.
 Steelman, who will set up a private labor relations and economic consultant office here, was assistant to former President Truman for many years and remained as a special assistant to President Eisenhower during the changeover in administrations.

For the first 60 days of a session, a legislator can introduce any bill he wants to, one to make all mothers-in-law live in Big Bend Park if he wants to.
 This year, those carefree days are up Friday, March 13. After that, a legislator has to get a four-fifths vote of the House or Senate for permission to introduce a bill.
Slipping Sleepers
 Of course, he always can try to slip in a sleeper.
 Last session, Rep. A. J. Vale, Rio Grande City, asked permission to introduce a bill to improve the livestock standards. Everybody thought that was a pretty good idea until somebody started asking questions. Turned out it was a horse racing bill. Vale didn't get the four-fifths vote.
 On the basis of previous years, at least 150 bills will be introduced in the House this week; at least 40 in the Senate.

 Introduction so far in eight weeks of Legislature stands: 296 bills in the Senate, 541 in the House.
 They do a pretty good job of covering everything—from regulation of catching minnows in Lake J. B. Thomas out in the Snyder area to a natural gas tax that will raise 60 million dollars a year.
 Some of the legislators write their own bills. Some have an idea and take it to the attorney general's department where assistants will put it in bill form. And a lot frankly admit the bills were handed them already written out, like the eight bills worked out by the Governor's Water Conservation Committee.
 Some expected bills are missing. Governor Shivers suggested another penny a gallon state tax on gasoline. Nobody has introduced that so far.

FOR WHICH AUSTIN?— Missouri's Seal Asked Of Texans

WASHINGTON—(P)—A Missouri congressman proposed to swap the body of Stephen F. Austin, Republic of Texas hero, for the great seal of Missouri.
 Trouble is, Missouri doesn't have the body of Stephen F. Austin—but the Missouri seal still may be somewhere in Texas.

Cole Reservoir Cover Job Halted Until Next Fall

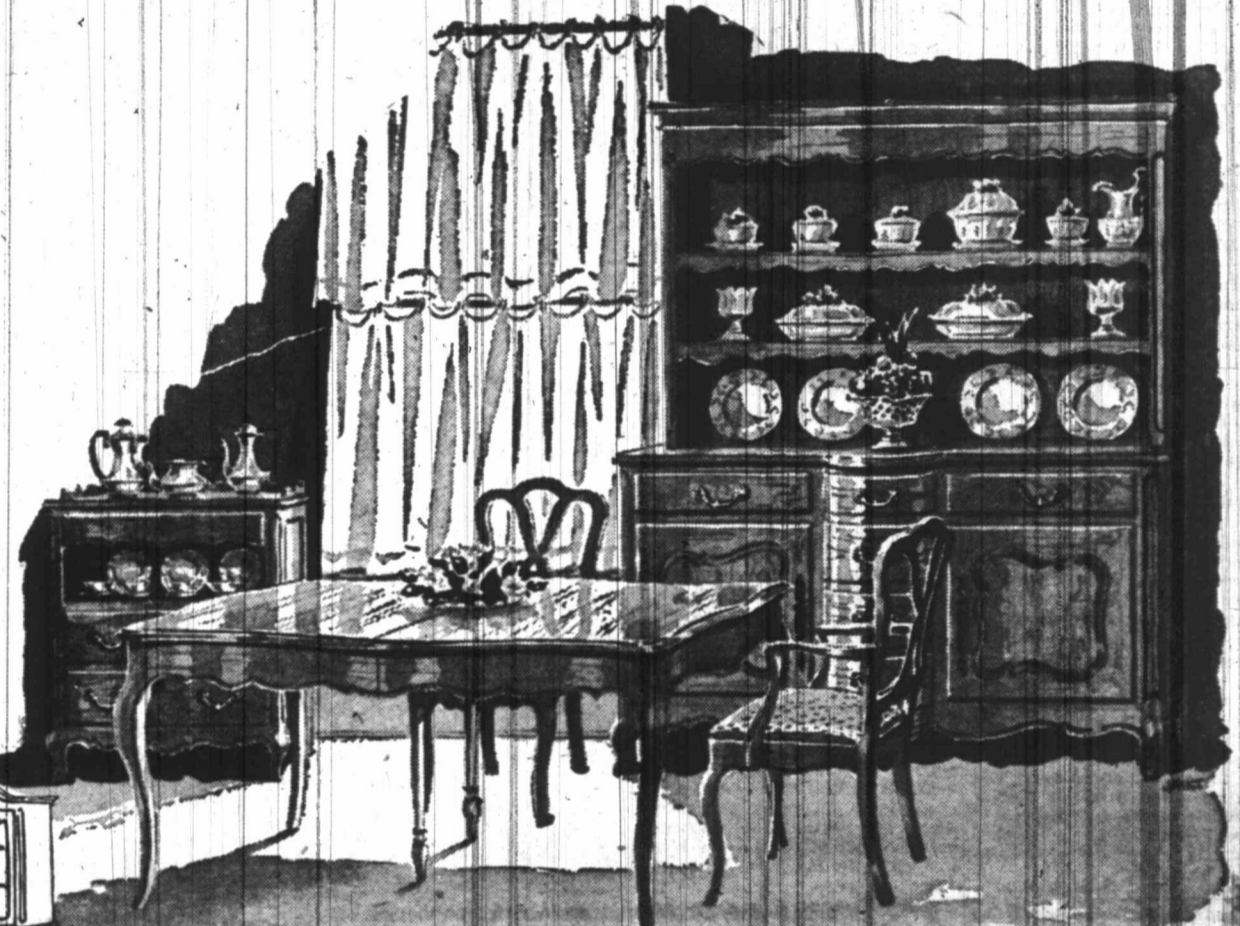

The reservoir at Cole Park will have to wait another year before getting a cover.
 Work on the cover has been underway the last two months and, with water demand at the year's low point, pumping activity at the Cole Park field has been shut down.
 The contractor, with a $23,000 contract, has completed all the substructure work and the big concrete slab covers are all that is needed.
 But the city decided last week it couldn't wait any longer.
 The contractor was instructed to suspend operations until next fall and the reservoir was being filled again Saturday.

BUS CRASH KILLS 23

LOS ANGELES—(P)—Twenty-three persons were injured, three critically, when a Greyhound bus crashed into a concrete bridge pillar near here Saturday.

Texas and Missouri congressmen—who admitted they were a little vague on the history involved proposed the swap Friday.
 The proposal came during a discussion before the House Banking and Currency Committee of a bill to authorize a special 50-cent piece to commemorate the 104th anniversary of the Louisiana Purchase.
Rebel Leanings
 Representative Patman (D-Tex.) in the course of the historical discussion, asked William H. Semrott of the Missouri Historical Association if he knew details of the removal of the Missouri state government to Marshall, Texas, during the Civil War.
 Semrott said it was his understanding that the then Missouri Governor Clayborn had Confederate leanings and went to Marshall and carried on business there several months.
The Wrong Austin
 Rep. Thomas B. Curtis (R-Mo.) interrupted to say to Patman: "I understand you have the great seal of the State of Missouri down there still, and we'd like to arrange a swap for Stephen Austin's body which we have in Potosi, Mo., for the great seal."
 Patman replied: "Possibly we can get up a trade."
 The congressmen apparently were thinking of the body of Moses Austin, father of Stephen F. Austin. Stephen F. Austin is interred in the State Cemetery at Austin, Texas.

Reporter Joins Red Throng Filing By Bier Of Joe Stalin

Editor's note: Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press correspondent in Moscow for more than a decade, joined the vast lines of those viewing the body of Joseph Stalin Saturday.

By EDDY GILMORE
MOSCOW —(AP)— In death as in life, Joseph Stalin is a singular figure of a man.

Lying here in the Hall of Columns, his head on a silk pillow, he is a striking figure. There is a monumental dignity about him.

He wears a grey military jacket—one that the world has seen in so many pictures. Over his heart are numerous medals. One recognizes particularly the Gold Star of the Hero of Socialist Labor.

Lines Orderly
Moscow's wide streets near the House of the Union are cleared and orderly as lines converge on the green colored building in the heart of the city, a very short distance from the old Kremlin, where Stalin worked and died. It is a bitterly cold day.

There are all kinds of people. Old people, young people, middle aged people, children.

Some have eyes red from crying. All are solemn. About them is an air of expectancy that they are close to seeing something dramatic. Some carry wreaths of Spring flowers.

There's a shuffle, shuffle, shuffle of thousands of people's feet. And a great hush. Then that sound that comes from thousands upon thousands talking in whispers in open places.

Lines Illuminated
I reached the open double doors of the building and walked in beneath a tremendous portrait of the generalissimo—the portrait four or five times bigger than the doors themselves.

Inside, uniformed men indicate the way. People come in two or three abreast. The lines keep moving into a high hallway, up some stairs. To another corridor. Into still another corridor.

We turn to the left and hear the soft muted music of a multi-stringed orchestra playing on an elevated stage. I recognize a sad Tchaikovsky melody. Spotlights from the corners of the room bear down upon the wreathed bier in the middle of the room.

Massed Flowers
There is a perfume of massed flowers. The shuffle, shuffle, sound of feet. The heavy silence of people in the presence of the dead.

Literally thousands of wreaths were in the room and in the corridors adjoining it. I don't see how they can get many more into the building.

Stalin's bier, with the lights upon it, is in the very center of everything. Every eye is on it.

Stalin's head is away from you. His feet toward you. You move up to the foot of the coffin and look up at the face of the man who led the Russian people for so many years. This man who became one of the best known in history.

Look at the dead face, known in every corner of the world. The face is stern. The hair is brushed the way you always saw him. His mustache full and neat. His chin and jaw as resolute in death as in life.

A strong face. Like the name Stalin, which means "steel."

Somewhere in the room there's a choked sob. It came from a woman. She is crying. The line moves past the bier. I look over my left shoulder and see Stalin in profile.

The face seems to show some of the stress of those last days when he lay dying in the Kremlin hospital. Still, it is as if you might have seen him as you walked quietly into his office and found him napping on his couch.

Notes from the strings swell up again. The woman sobs. The atmosphere abounds in grief.

Keeping in line, we move into another corridor, through two more doors and out into the open and cold again.

Hubbard To Manage Hinkel Merchandising Departments

C. Robert Hubbard, former California merchandising executive, has been named executive vice president and general merchandising manager of Hinkel stores, Allan W. Hinkel, president of the chain, announced in Midland Saturday.

Hubbard, whose headquarters will be in Albuquerque, N. M., succeeds Albert S. Rice in that post.

Mrs. Helen Hubbard also is associated with Hinkel stores. She now is manager of the two Hinkel stores in Albuquerque and fashion coordinator for the entire system.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard have extensive and successful backgrounds in fashion work. Hubbard at one time was assistant merchandising manager of Bullocks, Los Angeles. Later he became merchandising manager of Hale Brothers stores in California. Before joining the Hinkel system, he was general merchandising manager of Eastern Columbia Stores of Los Angeles and California.

Mrs. Hubbard is former personnel director for Bullocks-Wilshire of Los Angeles and coat and suit buyer for Bullocks of Los Angeles. She later became general manager of Hale Brothers' Grande Avenue Store in San Francisco. She was general merchandising manager of the Dorothy Handelman Buying Office in Los Angeles before joining the Hinkel stores.

Hinkel said the group arrived in Midland from Roswell, N. M. Saturday, and after a brief visit here, will go on to the Cigra store.

Purpose of the trip, he said, is to acquaint the Hubbards with the stores—and, in turn, acquaint the store personnel with the Hubbards.

The trio is, Hinkel added, studying merchandising needs in each city so as to formulate a plan to better serve the needs of each community.

Hinkel stores are located in Midland; Wichita, Kansas; and Albuquerque, Santa Fe, Roswell and Clovis, New Mexico.

Former NAM Head Dies On Trip Abroad

ZONGULDAK, TURKEY —(AP)— Frederick Morris Sayre, 69, a former president of the National Association of Manufacturers in the United States, died Saturday after a heart seizure.

He had been serving aboard on a team of U. S. business leaders evaluating mutual security programs.

THEY LEARNED LESSONS WELL

TORONTO —(AP)— Two amateur first-aid "experts" gave Roy Wallis a rough time Friday night when his car crashed into a pole.

"I told them I was OK," Wallis said, "but they seemed to know only that their instruction book called for the 'laying out' of accident victims."

They forced him to the pavement and twisted his arm when he resisted.

"It sure was cold on the road," Wallis recalled. "Thank goodness the police came so quickly."

Adenauer Receives Green Light To Ask Army Treaty Okay

BONN, GERMANY —(AP)— Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Saturday received the legal green light to win approval in the Bundestag (lower house) on March 19 for his treaties to rearm West Germany in alliance with the West.

But these treaties—the six-nation European Army Pact and the related Allied-Born Peace Contract—still face stiff legislative and court tests. Once they get through the Bundestag they must be approved by the Bundesrat (upper house). After ratification they can be challenged on their constitutionality.

What Adenauer gained Saturday was a clear road to get ratification by a simple majority vote in the lower chamber of the legislature before he sails for Washington, where he will see President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on April 7-9.

If he achieves this, it will be a prestige victory, for none of the other partners in the army treaty yet has attained that much. It would be Adenauer's answer to Secretary Dulles' call for "clear and visible evidence" by April 1 that the army pact will be ratified.

South Korean Guns Smash Two Chinese West Front Attacks

SEOUL —(AP)— South Korean guns firing through a drizzling rain at Chinese Reds advancing in the mud, smashed two Chinese Red company attacks Saturday on the western front.

The futile assaults cost the Reds 106 men dead or wounded from a total attack force of 300 to 350 men, the Eighth Army estimated.

The 100-mile battleline was dismal under the drizzle. Unreasonably warm weather thawed snow spots and made quagmires for wallowing supply trucks.

The midist and low clouds grounded all but weather reconnaissance planes, the Fifth Air Force reported.

South Korean troops holding an outpost near Kelly Hill on the western front used big guns and crisscrossing machine gun fire to cut down the first Chinese company attack before dawn Saturday. The action lasted an hour.

Another Red company attack lacked spirit and was beaten off in 30 minutes.

Several smaller Chinese attacks were repulsed in the Kumhwa Ridge sector in Central Korea.

Thailand Seeks Burma-Chiang Talks

BANGKOK —(AP)— Thailand's Premier Pibulsonggram is reported seeking a way to get representatives of Burma and Nationalist China to meet to call off fighting reported between Burmese troops and Nationalist guerrillas just inside Burma's border with Red China.

The Thai government, worried about its own Communist problems, seems to fear the renewed activity of Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist guerrillas in Burma may be used as an excuse for intervention by Red China troops.

Bar Slates Program Starting New Center

AUSTIN —(AP)— High state officials will participate in ceremonies here when the State Bar Association celebrates ground-breaking for its new headquarters Tuesday.

The $600,000 building will provide 1,200 square feet of working space for the bar's headquarters staff.

Among patents granted last year were one for a pocket-size typewriter and one for a special spaghetti fork with roasting prongs.

Stevenson Warns Of Easing Watchfulness Toward Soviet

HONOLULU —(AP)— Adlai Stevenson, arriving in Hawaii on the first leg of an around-the-world tour, said Saturday it would be a "dangerous assumption" to feel that Joseph Stalin's death would improve relations with the West or worsen conditions in Soviet Russia.

The defeated Democratic presidential candidate told reporters in an interview aboard the liner President Wilson.

"It would be foolish for us to assume that the transfer of power in Russia is any basis for our confidence or reliance that things will be better or that they will deteriorate. That would be a dangerous assumption. All we can do is pray that may-

Danes Defy Wrath Of Raging Reds, Put MIG Under Microscope Of Free Nations

COPENHAGEN, DENMARK —(AP)— The Russian-built MIG-15 jet fighter landed by a Polish Air Force lieutenant on the Danish Baltic Island of Bornholm was taken apart Saturday and loaded on a ship bound for Copenhagen under armed naval escort.

Allied air experts are making a thorough study of it. The plane would be a rare prize if it can be put together again and flown. A MIG-15 found in Korea was not airworthy.

Heavily armed Danish soldiers kept away the enraged first secretary of the Polish legation here, Mieczyslaw Lakomy, who rushed to Bornholm to claim the plane. He was not even allowed to watch Danish Air Force specialists take it apart.

Just Be Patient
In Copenhagen, Polish Minister Stanislaw Kales-Krauz continued to fire stiff notes at the Danish Foreign Office and ominously talked about "grave consequences" if the jet fighter is not returned to the Polish Air Force without further delay.

But the Foreign Office made it plain that the Polish government would have to remain patient for some little time yet. An official statement Saturday night said bluntly a thorough examination will be made of the craft.

At Ridgway's Request
Complying with a request from U. S. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Supreme Allied headquarters that Denmark hang on to the jet fighter until its secrets are being ferreted out, the Foreign Office told Poland:

"The fact that the aircraft carried cannon with its ammunition as well as photographic equipment obliges Danish authorities to take into account the possibility that flight over Danish territory may have been carried out for illegal purposes.

All Very Legal
"It will consequently be necessary to conduct a thorough examination to clarify the matter. The examination will involve not only painstaking interrogations of the pilot, but also examination of the aircraft."

McCarthy Indicates Kaplan Not Accused Of Any Wrong-Doing

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) said Saturday his Senate investigations subcommittee has found nothing to indicate any wrong-doing by Raymond Kaplan, a Voice of America employee whose death has been ruled a suicide.

The subcommittee has been conducting search for waste and subversion in the Voice, but McCarthy said it never had any plans to call Kaplan as a witness.

Kaplan, a radio engineer, said in an alleged suicide note to his wife and son that he had done nothing wrong but that "once the dogs are set on you, everything you have done since the beginning of time is suspect."

McCarthy, telephoning from New York, where the investigations subcommittee met in closed session today, said co-workers of Kaplan expressed "grave doubt" that his death was a suicide.

It is the first MIG-15 to fall into Western hands and is believed to be the latest of its type.

The pilot brought the plane down at Bornholm's tiny Roenne Airport last Thursday after streaking at 600 miles an hour from the Polish coast 60 miles away.

He claimed to be a political refugee seeking asylum. He is being questioned at Copenhagen police headquarters.

Disassembling of the plane was done behind a canvas screen erected at Roenne Airport. Barbed wire and soldiers with orders to shoot unauthorized persons guarded the operations.

Declaring that the plane would have to be brought to Copenhagen because it could not take off at the tiny Bornholm Airport, the announcement added:

"It has been necessary to disassemble the aircraft."

On hearing this, Kales-Krauz exclaimed:

Unhappy Minister
"The position of the Danish government is outrageous. This is just a bad excuse for carrying out espionage. Grave consequences may flow from it."

Russians Cry In Two Keys

LONDON —(AP)— Moscow radio Saturday interpreted its reports of mourning services for Joseph Stalin with charges that American troops use poison gas against Communist forces in Korea.

Monitors listening in on the Moscow dictation-speed broadcasts for the Soviet press said the programs were made up largely of items reporting mourning meetings of various bodies in different parts of the USSR.

"But they also included items on the United Nations and allegations of the use of poison gas shells in Korea by the U. S. forces," the monitors said.

When it arrives here metallurgical experts are expected to analyze secret alloys used in it. Casts may be made of some vital parts. Specialists working behind the canvas screen at Roenne already have made wooden models of parts of the air frame, informants said.

The general belief is that the 21-year-old pilot is a bona fide refugee and will be granted political asylum here.

Col. Erik Henningsen, Danish Air Force officer directing work on the MIG-15 at Bornholm, told newsmen that to really get to know the plane Western airmen would have to fly it.

Such a test can be arranged, it was pointed out, on the excuse that the plane must be certified as airworthy before being handed to some Polish pilot for eventual flight back to Poland.

Advertise or be forgotten.

By the "grave consequences" the minister may have meant that coal shipments from Poland to Denmark may be stopped. In some informed quarters there was talk Poland might partially sever diplomatic relations.

Western military spokesmen said however, that the MIG-15 was so valuable a catch that close inspection was worth any such risk.

U. S. Air Force spokesmen in Europe and the Far East have left no doubt they are vitally interested in the sample now headed for Copenhagen.

Lodge Ends Debate On Korea With New Challenge To Reds

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. —(AP)— Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., Saturday stoutly defended the peace aims of the Republican Party against Russian onslaughts. He wound up the debate on Korea with a new challenge to Moscow to stop the Korean War immediately on UN terms.

The chief U. S. delegate spoke calmly but forcefully to the UN Political Committee after listening to fresh Iron Curtain blasts that the Republican Administration is a war party and American "ruling circles" want to continue the war in Korea.

"I hear the phrase 'ruling circles' in the United States. 'If you have any doubt about the American people's desire for peace ask any family—and I have personal experience here—who has a son or brother in the American forces.'"

Lodge has a son in Korea. "It was the craving and the ardent desire of the Americans for peace that was responsible for the election result last Fall," Lodge continued.

He summed up the Soviet position as follows:

The Soviet Union will not agree to peace in Korea. It will not allow the Communist Chinese to make peace. It insists that the war continue to the last Korean.

He summed up the Soviet position as follows:

"It is the stark truth," he said solemnly as he voiced the new challenge, "that there could be peace in Korea tomorrow if the Communists would drop off their opposition to the Indian resolution."

Lodge touched off the debate on February 25 with a recital of what he said were 10 facts showing the Russians were giving weapons and help to the Communist Chinese and North Koreans.

Andrei Y. Vainitsky, who came here as foreign minister and called for Prime Minister Stalin's funeral Friday as a mere deputy foreign minister and permanent UN delegate, openly acknowledged last Monday that the Russians have helped the Communist Chinese and said it was done under terms of a treaty with Peiping.

Communist Caesar's Successor Pits Two Main Rivals Against Each Other

Editor's Note: Here is the story of five days that shook the Red world, five days—from last Sunday night through last Friday night—that reverberated over the rest of the globe. The writer is the author of the AP's history of World War II.

By CARL C. CRAMER
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Communist empire's Caesar is dead. A new Caesar has taken over and the first world faces the future with foreboding, just as did the pagan world 2,000 years ago when Rome's Caesar died on the ides of March.

Both events were predicted by soothsayers. A Turin astrologer who came close enough to predicting the death of Joseph Stalin—the said Stalin would be struck down in February, whereas it was on March 1—also forecast "much confusion" to come in Russia.

"That may be as good a forecast as any."

Joseph Vissarionovich Djugashvili, the "man of steel" who had ruled Soviet Russia 29 years, first as an iron-fisted politician and then as dictator, was stricken by a brain hemorrhage in his Kremlin apartment Sunday night. The stroke left him paralyzed and unconscious. No Great Surprise

He never spoke a word from that moment.

This news was given to the world at Wednesday's dawn in Moscow. This was no great surprise to the world, for it was known Stalin was 73 and it had been rumored for a long time that he was in poor health. But it was a surprise that the announcement was made so soon, because many persons had assumed they never would learn of such an event until perhaps several days after Stalin's death.

The communiques the doctors issued were in extraordinary detail.

L. P. BERIA
New No. 1 Red deputy

V. M. MOLOTOV
Demoted to No. 2 spot

as if to establish a record for history.

The doctors speedily made it clear that the illness was affecting vital functions, including breathing, circulation and the heart. They described their treatment, including administration of oxygen, stimulants such as caffeine and glucose, camphor compounds, the modern drug penicillin, and even the old application of blood-sucking leeches to relieve blood pressure. This last method, generally given up in favor of surgical means by Western doctors, may have been for the purpose of convincing the old-fashioned that all possible was being done.

No Policy Changes

On Thursday, Stalin's heart failed twice. He died at 9:50 that night. The world received the news six hours and 17 minutes later, or just before Friday's dawn in Moscow. A post mortem then was announced—it had shown the doctor's diagnosis was correct, that Stalin's death was

The West had no reason to love Stalin, but his age had argued he would be slow in taking actions that would risk all he had accomplished in expanding communism.

Dour, Hard, Unyielding
The answer came Friday night. Georgi Maximilianovich Malenkov, a dour 51-year-old political manipulator like Stalin, was going to take over in Stalin's place—or try to.

Few Western statesmen even have met him. The few who have call him hard and unyielding. Very little really is known about him, not even his parentage.

The speed with which he moved into the post of prime minister vacated by Stalin's death, knocked off a dozen of the lesser ministries indicates he is bent on demonstrating who is boss and at once.

Stalin had two big jobs, prime minister and general secretary of the Communist Party.

Malenkov already holds one of the jobs, and is in practical charge of the other. He long has been a secretary of the party and Stalin's chief deputy is manipulating the party machinery. He has been in position to see the men he wanted appointed to the right positions in the government.

Lacks Stalin's Prestige

Malenkov lacks the prestige of Stalin at home and abroad. There is, bound to be much nervousness in the Soviet Union, even if this is the time to revolt.

The Soviet leaders are going to be fearful and suspicious of one another.

One of those likely to be most fearful and suspicious is Malenkov. He had two chief rivals for the job. One was V. M. Molotov, 63, long the pre-eminent Soviet leader after Stalin. Malenkov appears to have dared to demote him by making him the No. 2 deputy prime minister. He also goes back to head the Foreign Ministry. When he left the latter job in 1949 he ranked as No. 1 deputy and received unspecified duties.

Molotov Vs. Beria

Apparently he had over-all supervision of cold war policy, particularly in the Far East. But if it is true that he felt he had been maneuvered out of the Foreign Ministry by Andrei Vishinsky he may relish getting the job back. The other rival was L. P. Beria, 53-year-old tough man who held the strategic position of chief policeman in a police state. Apparently Malenkov has felt obliged to leave Beria, as the new interior minister, in charge of his secret police. Beria would seem to be in a position to make trouble, if he is of a mind for that. He now is listed as No. 3 among the deputy prime ministers. Malenkov, by giving Beria and Molotov the second and third most important positions in the hierarchy, seems to be balancing them off against each other.

Four Die In Road Crash At Amarillo

The dead: Bill Gwin, his brother, George Gwin, and a woman believed to be the wife of one of the Gwins, all of Ringling, Okla.; and Clayton E. Wenrick, 33, Albuquerque, N. M. Wenrick was traveling alone.

The condition of the woman's body hampered identification. The Gwins' ages weren't known.

Mrs. Carrie Neiman, Businesswoman, Dies

DALLAS (AP)—Mrs. Carrie Neiman, chairman of the board and one of the founders of Neiman-Marcus Company, died Friday night. She was a sister of the late Herbert Marcus.

Funeral services were set tentatively for Sunday afternoon.

Third Jury Finds Clergyman Guilty In Murder Of Wife

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—A jury has found, for the third time in as many years, that the Rev. George P. Hetenyi is guilty of murdering his wife, the mother of their two children.

A State Supreme Court panel, after deliberating three days, convicted the 43-year-old Episcopal clergyman late Friday of second-degree murder, the same verdict returned in his first trial.

The Hungarian-born cleric had been charged with first-degree murder, accused of shooting Mrs. Jeanne Hetenyi, 24, with a .25-caliber pistol April 22, 1949.

Justice Earle C. Bastow set March 30 for sentencing. The penalty for second degree murder-slaying with the intent to kill but without premeditation—ranges from a minimum of 20 years to a maximum of life imprisonment.

Defense attorney William L. Clay immediately asked Bastow to set the verdict aside and said he would appeal the conviction if the court dismissed his motion. Hetenyi, who had served in several faiths, last was a supply minister in Amherst, a Buffalo suburb. Mrs. Hetenyi's body was found April 23, 1948, in the Genesee River near Rochester.

Anderson Christens Navy's Newest Cruiser

BOSTON (AP)—The Navy Saturday commissioned the cruiser Northampton, a high-speed ship specially equipped to serve as a command vessel for task forces—and armed to fight its own battles.

EVEN FLU HAS SOME MERITS

FERUGIA, ITALY (AP)—An epidemic of influenza in this Central Italy city was credited Saturday with saving more than 100 small children from possible death or injury.

Medical authorities closed Perugia's kindergartens Friday, Saturday, a large part of the school building collapsed.

Proposed Canadian River Water Project Approved In Austin

AUSTIN (AP)—Creation of the Canadian River Water Control and Improvement Project has been approved officially by the State Board of Water Engineers.

The action came in the midst of legislative efforts to pass a law which would have the effect of detouring approval by the water board. There was no immediate indication of what effect the board's action might have on the legislation.

The board held public hearing on the $85,000,000 project January 12, but action on it had been held up.

Officials of 12 Panhandle and Plains cities said they needed the project for their cities to survive. An opposing group challenged federal financing.

Also raised was a question of whether the new permit requested would conflict with a special legislative act of 1937 that created the Panhandle Water Conservation Authority.

The question was sent to the attorney general and the board said Friday the attorney general ruled there was no conflict.

The board's action will permit resident property owners of Amarillo, Borger, Brownfield, Lamesa, Levelland, Littlefield, Lubbock, O'Donnell, Pampa, Plainview, Slaton and Tahoka to hold an election to vote for or against creation of the district.

It would have power to tax property in the areas it serves and provide water for municipal and industrial purposes.

Malenkov's Heavy Fist Hits Early Blows In Shaping Fate

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

PARIS (AP)—The sharp streamlining of the Soviet government under its new dictator, Georgi M. Malenkov, suggests determination on his part to push at all costs the building of the Soviet economy to the point where it will rival that of the U. S. and make him ready for any emergency—including war.

Malenkov likely was busy on such a project long before Stalin died. Now, with a free hand as boss, he obviously intends to quicken the pace and let nothing stand in his way.

The new Mr. Red has telescoped the many ministries of the vast bureaucracy which is the Soviet government, slimming down its bulging sides and centralizing authority. The picture of Malenkov's revolution—and a revolution it is—becomes one of sharp centralization of authority in the hands of those he thinks he can trust most.

Young and vigorous men are taking over, pushing the older ones into the background. This is in line with the Malenkov idea. He, himself, has just passed the 50-year mark and his reservoir of strength is in the class of Communists who grew up after the Bolshevik Revolution, sealed off from the rest of the world and wholly indoctrinated in the Stalinist dogma.

First, Malenkov moved cautiously to consolidate his position with the Soviet Army, which would represent the greatest potential danger, and at the same time the greatest support, to his regime. He installed a Communist who is no soldier at all but a financial wizard with a marshal's baton—N. A. Bulganin—as his minister of war.

Malenkov has taken his most important ministries—those concerned with electric power, building and others connected with heavy industry—and placed at their heads men who know their jobs. The number of ministries has been cut down considerably by the mergers in what looks like an effort to end the confusion in the Soviet bureaucracy.

Strong Organizer

Malenkov proved himself a strong and capable business organizer during and after World War II when he accomplished monumental jobs of reconstruction and rehabilitation in the wake of the Nazi destruction. He not only had the youth and energy needed for the job, but he established himself as a man who would let nothing or nobody stand in the way of his successes.

He is about to apply that principle to the Soviet economy once again.

For the Soviet people, it means their longing for consumer goods—refrigerators, radios, automobiles and like—will remain unsatisfied until Malenkov is assured of his base. He will continue to tell them they are "building the foundations for communism," and that communism cannot come to pass without first building the means—the heavy industry which would form the foundation.

Hearings Scheduled On Water Measures

AUSTIN (AP)—Public hearings start Tuesday on the governor's water bills.

Eight bills recommended by a Citizens Water Conservation Committee appointed by Governor Shivers have been introduced in the Legislature.

Two will be aired at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday before the House Conservation and Reclamation Committee. One clarifies existing laws on the appropriation of public waters. The other increases the powers of the State Board of Water Engineers and directs them to hire a professional chief engineer. The bill would set up the water board on the same lines as the highway department.

Other public hearings this week include:

Monday: HB 470 on filing of claims for exemption of property from taxation. HB 388 reducing tax refund on gasoline now given farmers and others. HJR 19 providing four-year terms for district, county and precinct elective officers. HJR 23 permitting Legislature to set salaries of elected officials. HJR 25 raising the salaries of elected state officials: HB 122 creating board of ophthalmic examiners. HB 12 enabling state to make loans to medical students who promise to practice in small towns. HB 235 to allow Korean veterans to enter the state veterans land program. HB 89 regulating right of eminent domain: HB 30 on Communist control. HB 211 requiring anti-Communist oath from state employees. Subcommittee report on HB 11 acknowledging gasoline expansion for tax purposes. Tuesday:

HB 182 providing for city-owned parking places. HB 449 prescribing purposes for which public waters may be appropriated. HB 452 increasing powers of Board of Water Engineers. HB 489 on certification of teachers. SJR allowing interchange in teacher and state employees retirement systems. SJR 7 raising ceiling in the old age benefit fund. SJR 9 to allow servicemen to vote. ## Deadline Extended For Nurse Training

Registration for the vocational nurse training program, offered by Odessa College, will remain open until March 15, it was announced by John Gregory, director of adult education.

"Only a limited number of students may be accepted and anyone interested in the program should enroll immediately," said Gregory.

The one year training program is offered through the cooperation of Ector County Memorial Hospital and includes more than 2,000 hours of classroom and supervised instruction.

The first four months of training includes 480 hours of classroom instruction in pre-clinical and ward work. The final eight months are devoted to floor duty and practice in putting in effect knowledge gained in the classroom.

Mrs. J. Sullivan, coordinator and instructor for the program, said there is a great need for vocational nurses and unlimited employment opportunities.

Following the year's training, those who successfully complete the program are eligible to go before the state board and take the examination for licensed vocational nurse.

Benedict Arnold, pride of Connecticut, laid waste his own home state after he had turned traitor and accepted a command under the British.

Dixie Gal Saves 60 Grand; Now 'Uncle' Wants His Cut

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. —(AP)—A pretty, 32-year-old brunette, who said "I entertained guys," was charged with failing to file income tax returns on an income of almost $60,000.

Jessie Ruth Chesnut was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Louise O. Carlton Friday and released under $500 bond.

Her attorney, Robert Gwin, contended "Miss Chesnut's income is not taxable in that the money she has was given to her in the form of gifts."

He later told reporters the funds "were given her by various individuals over a period of years."

Asked if the gifts were from men or women, Miss Chesnut said "Gentlemen, naturally."

"I never did any kind of work much," she continued. "I did work in a cotton mill and on a farm and I entertained guys."

Miss Chesnut said she was native of Gadsden, Ala., and had also lived in Las Vegas, Reno and Detroit.

The government filed an $83,000 tax lien against Miss Chesnut's property. Gwin said $80,000 of her property was in defense bonds.

The solicitor's office here said Miss Chesnut had been arrested three times on disorderly conduct charges.

A federal warrant against her charged she failed to file income tax returns on an income of $11,985 in 1949, $24,944 in 1950 and $12,144 in 1951.

Red Cross Leaders Expect To Reach Quota This Week

Midland's Red Cross Fund Drive will begin its second week Monday with leaders hopeful of exceeding the $14,500 quota by the end of the week.

The campaign opened last Tuesday in the downtown area and will begin this week in the residential districts.

"It is a community-wide drive," Chairman W. Dave Henderson said, "and we hope to afford every man, woman and child in the county an opportunity to contribute to their great American Red Cross."

"Our goal this year is $1,500 under that of last year and we anticipate no trouble in exceeding our 1953 quota promptly."

"Everyone is invited and urged to 'Answer the Call' by giving to the Red Cross."

A second campaign progress report will be issued Monday, leaders advised.

Virginian Urges Ike Take Lead In Move For Balanced Budget

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said Saturday President Eisenhower will have to take the lead in demanding that Congress keep taxes up and cut expenses if the new Republican Administration is to balance the budget.

Byrd, who aided Eisenhower in the presidential campaign by refusing to support his Democratic opponent, said he is impressed with the sincerity of GOP officials in their desire to equalize expenditures and revenues.

But the Virginia senator said he doesn't believe the goal can be reached unless Congress continues present taxes in force for the year beginning next July 1 and cuts at least $7,500,000,000 from former President Truman's $78,600,000,000 spending program for that period.

"The only hope I can see of balancing the budget is to cut that amount and not reduce taxes," Byrd said. "And I doubt if it will be done unless President Eisenhower specifically asks Congress to keep taxes up and recommends specific budget cuts."

"I am satisfied the President is very anxious to balance the budget, because he feels that federal deficits feed inflation. But he must take the leadership in demanding that it be done, or it probably won't be done."

Just Imagine His Surprise

HARTFORD, CONN. —(AP)— Strapping, 20-year-old Forrest G. Draper, once a high school athlete, tried to join the Air Force Friday. A recruiter looked at the medical discharge the Navy gave him last year and said: "First, get a waiver."

Bewildered, Draper went back to the Navy to find out what he was supposed to do.

A petty officer checked his papers for reason for discharge.

"Art. C-1606 (F) BuPers Manual," it said in typical Navy fashion.

"Pregnancy," interpreted the amused petty officer.

"Did you ever hear of anything so ridiculous?" he asked.

But he still needs that waiver to get into the Air Force.

Rotary Engineers Take Cage Crown

The favored Rotary Engineers came through with a whirlwind finish Saturday night to trounce Phillips Tire Company, 101 to 81, and win the district TAAF basketball tournament at Cowden gymnasium. The Engineers led by only 43 to 40 at halftime and the margin was extended only slightly at the end of the third quarter. But the Engineers peppered the basket for 31 points in the last quarter while their opposition could manage only 17 and walked away with the champion's laurels.

Gerald Rogers and Benny Rutherford sank 23 points apiece to pace the Engineers' scoring spree. J. B. Collins accounted for 12.

Bob Parkin and Joe Simpson registered 20 points each for Phillips Tire in the challenge extended by the Big Springers.

Holdings Grocery of Odessa carried away the consolation honors with a 64 to 50 triumph over Murray-Young of Midland. Don Reeves paced the Holders tallying with 19 points. Johnson also totaled 19 for Murray-Young.

McCamey, the defending champion, did not participate this year.

The district title next goes to the state meet in Temple next Friday and Saturday. Rotary previously had won Midland's city crown and acted as the host club in the district tournament.

Lamesa Club Acquired By Harold Webb

ABILENE —(AP)— Longhorn League President Hal Sayles announced Saturday that Harold Webb, Fort Worth, veteran minor league baseball manager and club owner, had acquired the Lamesa franchise.

Webb operated the Midland club in the Longhorn League from 1947 until the middle of the 1951 season, when he sold his interests there.

The transfer of the Lamesa franchise is subject to approval of the league's directors.

SPORTS PARLEY

By CHARLEY ESKEW

The Midland Indians can thank their Cuban stars if, during the 1953 season, ballplayers seem different and, for a change, on the conservative side—rather than free swingers at the expense accounts.

One, Romarico Soto, newly acquired pitcher, appears presently to be more of Scot blood (with front office money) than of Havana rearing and of Cuban corpulence. To prove a point, Business Manager Horace Busby, on edge to contact his players and receive signed contracts, wired Soto Thursday morning asking but few questions and wondering where the Cuban was. He got his answer right back and in a gem for brevity.

"WAIT LETTER!" it said, signed Soto, collect.

Until Mike Fornieles of Big Spring came along with his record-equating one-hitter in a major league debut last year, the greatest Longhorn League contribution to the big time was Roy McMillan of the Comancha Reds.

Fornieles still is not proven and until he is established, McMillan, the former Ballinger shortstop who played in Class D here, is the king of climbers from the Longhorn.

He's now under a new boss, Rogers Hornsby, and that all-time great, who is rarely impressed, has joined the line of McMillan declaimers. "McMillan," he said at Spring training, "is easily the best shortstop in the majors." And that is going some.

"He can go in the hole to the right back or third the best of all the shortstops I've ever seen and he throws strikes to first base."

"Along with that he's a great competitor."

You may have heard the story, it's been told before. McMillan goes against the general cry of baseballers that you can't mix softball and baseball and be any good.

The Bonham, Texas, boy, however, has said that he developed his fast reflexes on a softball diamond. "In Bonham, they played only softball."

"I figure with the shorter distance and with that larger ball coming at you, a fellow just naturally develops quick hands and body movement."

McMillan in 1947 signed after a Tyler tryout (about the time Hack Miller, now Big Spring pilot, was manager there) and was sent to Ballinger where he hit .374, and became the Longhorn all-star shortstop.

He has clipped pitchers for a year's average over .300 but once in six years—and, in the majors now, finds that batting may keep him from being one of the greatest infielders. Last year, McMillan clubbed a .244 mark, which for the Reds was commendable.

The Optimists didn't know it but Odessa gave them an assist when it prompted Buddy Mote, 110-pounder, to put his long winning streak among novices into the open division of the invitational fight tournament next week.

One of Midland's top fighters, Flyweight Chilly Reeves, was considering an end to his fight career because he had entered two regional fist tournaments only to win outright. It was no fun, said Reeves, without the fights. And he was running into a rough setup when he fought at Fort Worth's state meet without so much as a warmup.

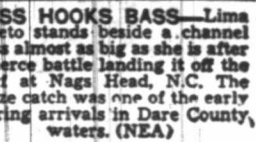

He's now keyed up with the idea of fighting again, for, when the Odessans said that Mote was ready for Reeves, a little something extra was stirred up for Chilly—"I've been wanting to fight Mote all along."

Jimmy Phelan, dogged by bad luck with two defunct pro football teams in two years, was offered a chance to try again recently. He told the Dallas News that Vancouver, Canada has a group interested in landing a franchise. He was to look into it, but there won't be a franchise available until 1954, and possibly not then. Phelan was with the New York Yanks in '51, Dallas in '52.

Lamesa and San Angelo of the Longhorn League are due to return once again for baseball wars in Sweetwater, '52 site of a Longhorn club. The Braves won't provide the opposition, of course, but Pampa of the West Texas-New Mexico League plans Spring training games at its base there with the two Longhorn teams.

Former Assistant Pro Jerry Green of Ranchland Hill Country Club has been transferred to Officers Candidate School, Ranchland Pro Abe Beckman learned this week.

Green, Private Green that is since February 9, wrote Beckman that he now is at Camp Rucker's training school after being sent to Fort Bill, Okla., on his first Army orders.

Keith Nicolls, Class A Nine Still At Odds

Keith Nicolls, 1952 Midland Indian righthander leaves here March 11 for the Spring training camp of Colorado Springs' baseball team if contract differences can be straightened out.

Nicolls, who won 24 for Midland last season, said Saturday that so far he had returned unsigned two of the Colorado Springs' salary offers.

By not signing before March 2, therefore Nicolls officially became a holdout of the Class A club.

Midland sold Nicolls after the '52 season on a conditional basis. He spent the Winter here as an employee of Rotary Engineering Company and kept in baseball trim as a basketballer.

Nicolls was runnerup among Longhorn hurlers in recording strike outs last season, his 220 second only to the 225 of Big Spring's Gil Guerra. His earned run average was 2.97.

Balanced Team Wins SWC Cage Crown For Froggies

DALLAS—(P)—Texas Christian, which enters the NCAA Tournament at Manhattan, Kan., Friday, won the Southwest Conference basketball championship with a "balanced" team.

It wasn't a wild scoring outfit, averaging 58.4 points per game, but it kept the opposition from running wild, too. The Horned Frogs allowed its six conference foes 52.9 points per contest, which was the best defensive mark in the league.

Final and official statistics for the season were issued Saturday by the conference office, showing Gene Schwinger, Rice, was the leading scorer for the full campaign with 423 points and for the conference race with 220. Henry O'Brien, Texas Christian, was second in both—208 for the season and 225 for the conference race.

Bill Wahn, Rice, had the best average in field goals, sinking 25 of 74 for a percentage of .473. But Schwinger made the most—158 out of 344 tries for an average of .459. The free throw leader was Walter Kearns, Arkansas, who flipped in 46 out of 54 attempts for an average of .852. Art Barnes, Southern Methodist, was second with 300 on 72 out of 90.

All teams have wound up play for the season except Texas Christian, which will meet Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, an AAU team of Akron, Ohio, in Fort Worth Tuesday in a practice game, and then go to Manhattan to clash with Oklahoma A&M in the first round of the NCAA.

ILLINOIS WINS EASILY

CHAMPION, ILL.—(P)—Illinois, with its half-mile Stacey Siders setting a record, won the Big Ten indoor track and field title with surprising ease Saturday by beating out Michigan 56 1/4 to 48 1/8.

Three Teams Corner Lead In Fem Loop

Kruger Jewelry, Schlitz and Neely Agency locked in a three-way tie for first place last week in the Women's Bowling League while four other teams tied for second and third spots in league standings.

Neely Agency took three games from Kruger Jewelry to move into the three-way tie.

Troy Cleaners and Miller High Life balanced the win-loss columns to tie for second place. I. W. Hynd Company and West Texas Office Supply did likewise to reach a third place deadlock.

Midland Office Machines Company whipped Troy Cleaners in all three of their games. Schlitz took two of three games from Miller High Life in last week's action while Airway Cash Grocery, last place team in league play, won 2-1 over House of Beauty.

West Texas Office Supply took two of three from I. W. Hynd Company.

Miller ended the week with a high team game score of 585. Neely Agency shared team honors by taking high team series with 1,661. Ida Robison walked off with high game score of 209 and Billy Ray topped the series with 602.

SAN ANTONIO—(P)—Henry Frnka, former head football coach of Tulsa and Tulane Universities, will become vice president of Trinity University here April 1.

Dr. James Laurie, Trinity president, announced Frnka's appointment Saturday.

66ers To Restart Basketball Play With Entry In State Meet

The Midland Phillips 66ers, who called off the basketball season in early February, are going back into business this week and with big stakes in mind.

Phillips entered the state tournament of the Texas Amateur Athletic Union set in San Antonio Friday and Saturday. A triumph there gives the champ the right to bid in the National AAU tourney the following week in Denver, Colo.

Kenny Jastrow, player-coach of Phillips, announced the 66ers entry at San Antonio Saturday and said the team was working into shape for its biggest outing of the year.

The squad right now is adding about four players to its nucleus of the team's veterans, the new addition to be youngsters finishing up college careers. Phillips will need the new players to complete a planned 10-man squad, for three of the nine who finished the season with the 66ers are no longer playing.

The starting Phillips team, however, will be intact at San Antonio; Jastrow and Jim Line at guards, Gerald Tucker at center and Don Grove and Claude Houchin at forwards. Glenn Mitchell is the sixth player remaining.

Two of the others, J. B. Collins, a guard, and Jim Watson, a forward, joined Midland City League teams after the 66ers quit play in February. Ray Ebling also will not go to the meet.

Jastrow said the four college players will come from Hardin-Simmons in Abilene. All are over six feet with Bob Tremaine towering six and a half feet. He and Ronnie Ryan played with the Cowboys last season while Glenn Harlin and Jim Reed were members of the H-SU Fresh cage squad.

The 66ers expect to announce the complete roster by Monday or Tuesday. They leave here for the meet Tuesday and by then will know which team they tackle in the first round.

Howard JC Cagers Draw Early Contest

AMARILLO—(P)—First-round play of the Region 5 National Junior College Athletic Association Basketball Tournament opens here Monday.

The winner will go to the National JC Tournament at Hutchinson, Kan.

First-round pairings include: Defending Champion Conjors State, Warner, Okla., vs. Clarendon, Texas, Junior College; Eastern Oklahoma A&M, Wilburton, Okla., vs. Sayre, Okla.; Arlington, Texas, State vs. Oklahoma A&M Tech, Okmulgee, Okla.

Jockey Albert Widman of Tampa, Fla., once was a model for boys' clothes. Widman was born in San Diego, Calif.

Records Face Laredo Tumble

LAREDO—(P)—The twenty-first annual Border Olympics, with 1,000 athletes expected to compete, come next weekend and records are due to tumble before the onslaught of such fellows as Darrow Hooper, Texas A&M weightman, and Fredrick Eckhoff, classy mile runner of Oklahoma A&M.

The greatest competition is due in the university class where Texas A&M defends its championship against Texas and the Oklahoma Aggies.

Hooper, runner-up in the shotput in the Olympic Games last Summer, holds the shotput record of the Border Olympics at 58 feet 8 5/8. He set it last year. But afterward, he threw the 16-pound ball over 57 feet.

Mark in Danger Hooper also will endanger the discus mark of the Border Olympics which George Kadera of Texas A&M set in 1950 at 165 feet 10 1/2. The current Aggie star has doped 170 feet with the plate.

Eckhoff, a 4:14 miler, could wipe out the overall record of the Border Olympics. Javier Montes of Texas Western set it in 1952, doing 4:17.8.

Then there is Charles Holding of East Texas State, back for another fling at the high jump record which he set last year at 6 feet 4 1/8.

The Texas 440-yard relay team would have been expected to beat its record of 4:19 had not Dean Smith, ace of the quartette, become ineligible. Still Texas will have a good sprint relay team.

Defending champions in three classes are back—A&M in the university division, North Texas State in the college division and Victoria in the junior college class.

Junior college preliminaries will be held Friday morning, high school preliminaries Friday afternoon, college and university preliminaries Saturday morning, high school and junior college finals Saturday afternoon and college and university finals Saturday night.

Jansen Looks Up TUCSON—(P)—Righthander Larry Jansen, of the New York Giants, who was hampered by an ailing back in 1952, Saturday reported continued improvement in his physical condition this year.

Kegling Meet Set In City For Women

The sixth annual Midland Women's Bowling Tournament will be held at Flannor Lanes next Saturday and Sunday.

Doubles and singles will be rolled at 2 p.m. Saturday and team play will be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Billie Ray, secretary, points out Handicaps will be based on 170.

Seeding the 12 cash prizes will be the following teams and individual bowlers:

Teams: Kruger Jewelry, Neely Agency, House of Beauty, Midland Office Machines Company and Miller High Life.

Doubles: Lois Brennehan and Faye Mason, Lora Clark and Lucille Pratt, Gene Campbell and Felba Ware, Freda Prince and Deanie Lawson, Billie Ray and Sue Fitzgerald, Bobbie Rodgers, Pat Davis, Lou Zithras, Mike Scroggin, Lora Clark, Lucille Pratt, Gene Campbell, Felba Ware, Anna Layley, Evelyn Welcher and Betty Hawthorne.

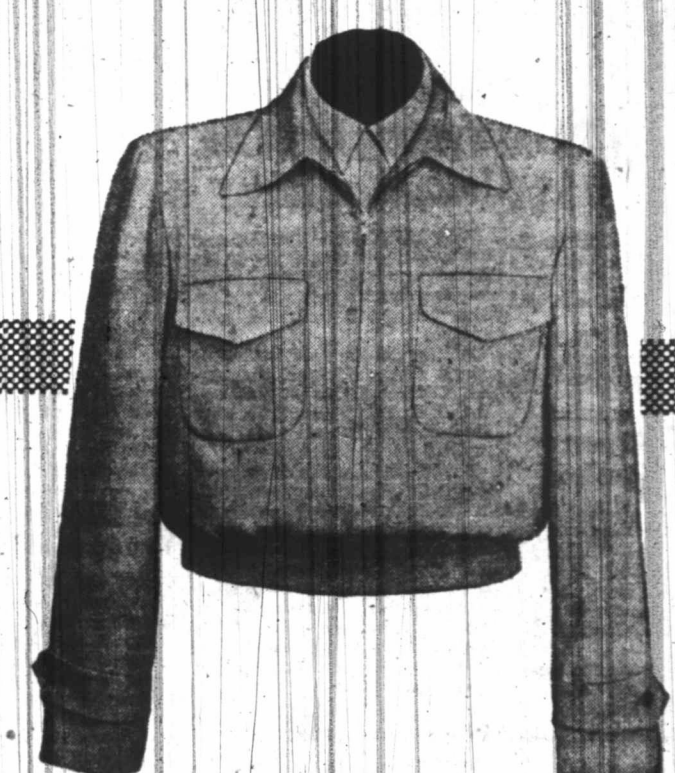

The heaviest man in the National Hockey League is Leo Reise, defenseman of the New York Rangers. Reise weighs 210 pounds.

Mundt Asks Super-Panel Pilot New War Of Nerves

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Mundt (R-SD) proposed Saturday the immediate creation of a group of experts to help the Administration set a pattern for dealing with the new Moscow regime. He said President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles should be able to draw on people in and out of government who have specialized knowledge of Russia and the Iron Curtain countries as well as of "international communism and its tactics." Mundt said he doubted that American policy in this critical period can "stem from one man's mind."

And he suggested that U. S. policy be couched with a "continued

Grandfalls Girl Just Wants Watermelon Juice, Not Cake

GRANDFALLS — (AP) — Blonde, blue-eyed Mary Margaret Dobson can't eat cake on her fifteenth birthday next week. She's asked for watermelon juice instead. Since January 1, Mary, a popular high school freshman, has been bedridden with nephritis, a kidney ailment. Doctors say she needs plenty of rest—and watermelon juice—if she is to get well.

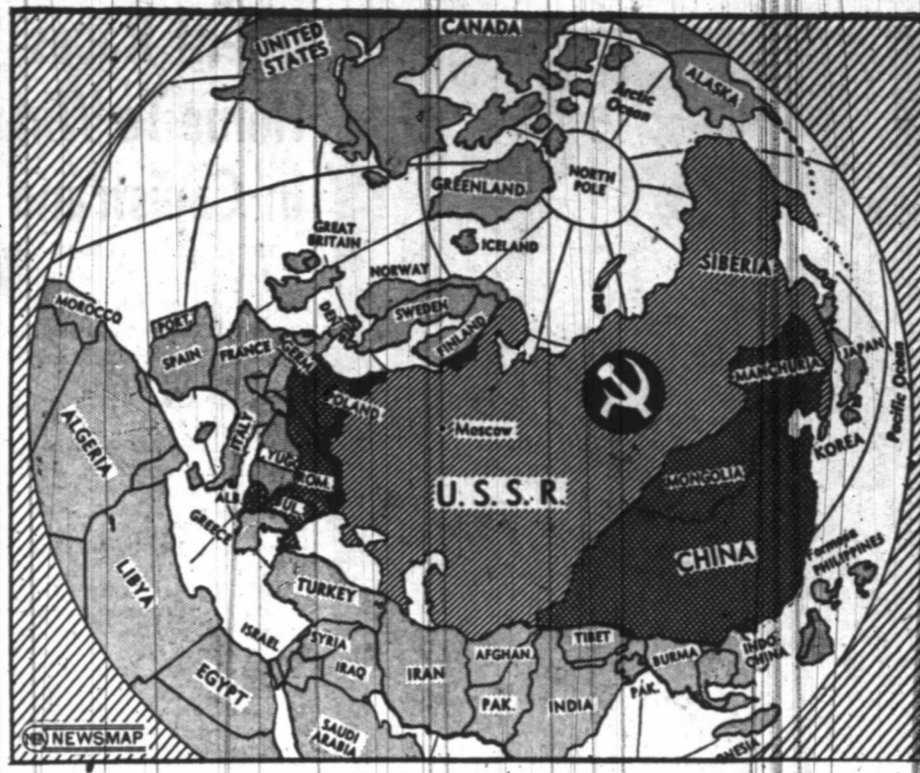

When they heard Mary needed watermelon juice the citizens of this West Texas hamlet acted quickly. They wrote friends and relatives in Florida and California, asking them to send watermelons. So far they haven't had much luck. A fruit market in nearby Monahans had two melons flown in from Cuba. Mrs. Bill Weddle of Grandfalls remembered she'd canned some watermelon juice last year. She dug it out of her deep freeze and sent it to Mary. But Mary needs more watermelon juice. Meanwhile, Mary is anticipating her birthday Thursday. The doctor says she can't eat cake—so she's pinning her hopes on getting more watermelon juice for a birthday present.

Proud 'John Doe' Repeats

ST. LOUIS — (AP) — "John Doe," a citizen "proud of my country," has done it again. This time the anonymous taxpayer mailed in $800, in 550 bills, with his "John Doe" income tax form. E. M. Flinn, assistant director of the St. Louis Internal Revenue office, said "John" has been doing this sort of thing 10 or 12 years. His donations have ranged from $400 to $1,000, Flinn said. One year the office received a scrawled note with the money. It said the unknown contributor had reached an age where money no longer was of use to him, that he had no one to leave it to, and that he was showing he was "proud of my country."

Blast Kills 50,000 Crows Near Richmond

RICHMOND, TEXAS — (AP) — An estimated 50,000 crows were killed five miles north of here Friday night in the Texas Game and Fish Commission's first crow roost bombing in this part of the state. The roosts covered from seven to nine acres of thick, which had been planted with 257 dynamite bombs connected with a set of batteries. Each bomb was loaded with six pounds of steel shot.

Red China Pledges Support To Russia; Mum On Malenkov

TOKYO — (AP) — Communist China hurried a high-ranking 18-member delegation headed by Premier Chen En-Lai off to Moscow by plane Saturday while the Red Army in Korea pledged support to the Soviet Union in a "fight to final victory." Gen. Peng Teh-Huai, commander of 750,000 or more Chinese Red troops in Korea, messaged Moscow his men "in memory of great Stalin" will turn their sorrow into strength. In an obviously directed statement, Peng declared the Chinese and Korean Red armies would "deal the enemy still heavier blows if he dare engage in any adventures," and threatened "inhomogeneous defeat" to any Allied offensive. The Red broadcast, monitored by The Associated Press in Tokyo, devoted almost its entire newscast to Stalin's death but gave only the bare text of the Tass announcement that Georgi M. Malenkov had succeeded to Stalin's post. There was no comment on this.

Polio Victim, 10, Dies In Rescuing Brother From Fire

ST. LOUIS — (AP) — A 10-year-old polio victim was burned fatally in an effort to rescue her two-year-old brother from a fire in their Poplar Bluff, Mo., home. Gertrude Saylor died Friday night in a hospital here shortly after arriving for treatment. The brother, Billy Joe, is reported in critical condition. Neighbors rescued four other Saylor children. Poplar Bluff Fire Chief Sam Knight said the fire apparently started from matches with which the children were playing while their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Saylor, were away from home. He said Gertrude entered the burning home on crutches to save the boy. Firemen found the boy in Gertrude's arm with clothing of both on fire.

Larry Cox, State Hospital System Director, Resigns

AUSTIN — (AP) — Larry O. Cox, director of the state hospital system, has resigned because of ill health. Cox suffered a stroke at Stephenville several weeks ago. His resignation will be submitted at a meeting of the State Board for Hospitals and Special Schools Monday. Cox had returned to part-time work with the board after his health improved following the attack. He already had proposed a plan under which he no longer would be the top man in the big hospital system. It would include a medical man as executive director.

Ex-Schoolteacher Slays Wife, In-Law

WASHINGTON — (AP) — An ex-schoolteacher studying for a master's degree killed his wife and mother-in-law with a 22-caliber pistol Saturday then calmly waited at the family home in surrender to police, Deputy Coroner Steward F. Barnhill reported. The victims were Norma Jean Watkins, 29, a school nurse, and her mother, Mrs. Katherine Frye, 58. Barnhill said Donald Watkins, husband of the younger woman, greeted police with this statement: "I just killed my wife and mother-in-law." Watkins was booked on a murder charge. # Union Film's Star Actress Flies Home

EL PASO — (AP) — Mexican Actress Rosaura Revueltas left for Mexico City by plane late Saturday, saying she expected to take a new role when she got home. "I'm very happy to be going back home," she told a reporter as she left the San Antonio Hotel for the airport in Juarez, Mexico, just across the Rio Grande. She was the star of the controversial movie "Salt of the Earth," filmed in the Silver City, N. M., mining area. Miss Revueltas was arrested last week, while the movie was only partly finished, and charged with entering the United States illegally. The immigration services dropped charges when the actress decided to leave this country voluntarily.

First Atomic Shell To Be Fired Soon From Giant Cannon

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States, in an atomic weapons race with Russia, announced Saturday night it is about to test-fire an atomic shell from a giant cannon. The announcement, by the Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department, said a "projectile armed with an atomic warhead" will be fired during the series of experiments starting soon at the Nevada Proving Grounds. This was the first official confirmation that an atomic-loaded shell has been produced to fit the 280-millimeter mobile artillery piece designed by the Army. An undisclosed number of the 280-millimeter guns, capable of firing either atomic or standard ammunition, have been produced and units are training to use them. The guns have been fired frequently during the last year, but not with atomic shells. Saturday night's announcement said the atomic shell will be fired by a unit from the Fort Sill, Okla., team of the Army's artillery service.

Humble Employees Set Best Safety Record In History

Employees of Humble Oil & Refining Company and Humble Pipe Line Company set the best safety record in the history of the companies last year with an accident frequency of only 1.87 disabling injuries per million hours worked. Humble's all-time low disabling injury rate during the past year was a 41 per cent decrease from 1951, the year the previous best record was established. A disabling injury is one in which an employee loses time from his job because of an industrial accident. No accidental deaths occurred among Humble employees on the job in 1952.

Eighteen units of Humble received certificates from the American Petroleum Institute for completing million-hour work periods without a disabling injury during the past year. Among the larger groups, the exploration department completed two million accident-free hours in 1952; the Louisiana and East Texas production divisions, the sales department, and Humble Pipe Line Company achieved million-hour marks.

Highest Award

The highest recognition of the National Safety Council, the Award of Honor, was presented in 1952 to Humble's production and refining departments for the safety achievements of their employees over the three prior years. The company's natural gas division received the next highest recognition of the council, the Award of Merit.

Five out of the six awards presented annually by the Texas Safety Association to oil companies went to Humble in 1952 for the previous year's records. The department re-

Industry Must Pay Closer Heed To Unit Checks, Miller Says

FORT WORTH (AP)—The oil industry is far from a point where it can ignore improvements to unit operations, the American Petroleum Institute's Southwest Production District heard Friday.

E. B. Miller, Jr., vice president of Associated Oil Company, Houston, told the group's closing session of its Spring meeting here that much work remained to be done.

Particularly is this so, Miller said, with regard to shortening the time that occurs between the time that a reservoir performance indicates the need for pressure maintenance and the unit if formed and made effective.

"Efforts should be made to eliminate factors which require assumptions that are subject to wide variations, such as reservoir performance and price relationships of the products," he added.

Unitization and overall management of a pool as the only solution to gas-oil ratio control in thin-bed columns was advocated by Robert C. Randle and Jacques Marchal, both of Magnolia Petroleum Company.

San Jacinto Park Proposal Studied

HOUSTON (AP)—State and federal park experts have joined county officials in selecting a site for a proposed million-dollar San Jacinto Reservoir Park.

The proposed park is to be operated by the county at the site of Houston's water reservoir now being built at the San Jacinto River, 16 miles northeast of here.

There are 682 seats in the gallery of the United States Senate.

WASHINGTON OIL—'Surplus' Now Is Major Challenge Facing Industry

By JOSEPH HUTTLINGER Reporter-Telegram Washington Oil Correspondent WASHINGTON—The job of selling oil, not finding it, shapes up as the major challenge to the American petroleum industry today.

The history of the last few months spells this out. Crude oil output has been cut back and shut-in capacity has risen. Oil imports keep rising and now equals shut-in capacity, above 1,000,000 barrels daily. Stocks of crude oil and products are at record levels. Ahead, the "oil surplus" tends to set a ceiling on oil prices.

To meet the situation, a series of steps are in the works. Chief among them is the drive to limit imports of crude oil and products. The drive against imports could adopt one or more of four courses.

One is to try for legislative relief in the form of higher tariffs and a quota on imports. A shaving of residual oil imports, half the total, to one-fifth of present levels is sought by coal and railroad interests.

A second course is revision of the October, 1952, oil agreement with Venezuela which cut oil duties to the lowest point in modern history—5.25 cents per barrel. President Truman cut the duty so far against the advice of his Tariff Commission, but President Eisenhower, if asked, could hike the duty once again, perhaps as high as 21 cents a barrel without further authority.

Advances Estimates, Idea A third idea is to require the 10-odd importing companies to publish advance estimates—three to 12 months ahead—of volumes or oil they plan to bring in. Idea is that this will put the spotlight on the company raising imports, and provide facts to give domestic oil producers "stability." Hines Baker, president of Humble Oil and Refining Company, Houston, is regarded as author of this idea.

A fourth proposal is for Congress

STICKY STUFF DON'T WANNA GO— Persuasive Pipe Line Puts Heave-Ho On Reluctant Oil

By HOWARD C. HEYN
LOS ANGELES—The persuasive pipe line from the reluctant oil field is being enlarged again. This may sound like something out of Alice in Wonderland. In this way, it is. It concerns a rich oil field which was useless because the oil was too heavy and too sticky to flow. Then, two years ago, General Petroleum Company devised a special pipe line capable of getting this thick, but valuable crude to tankers.

Healthy Tinot Triplets Remain Away From Home To Stay Alive

By WADE JONES
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS—The healthy Tinot triplets, two girls and a boy, are still in the clinic where they were born early in December. If they went home with their parents, it might kill them.

The Tinot home consists of two rooms in an old greenhouse at Melun. There are no toilet facilities, no running water, no electricity. The only heat comes from two tiny stoves. The walls are always damp. Three older children are boarded out or live with relatives.

If the Tinots' plight is a grave one, it only reflects the general situation in Melun, a little war-damaged town.

"For years now," says a town official, "90 families have been living in a wooden barracks waiting for low-cost housing."

The worst part is that what's happening to the Tinots and to Melun is happening, in varying degrees, to the rest of France. Lack of housing is one of the biggest domestic problems now facing this country.

Slums Grow Rapidly

Strangely, the present housing situation is largely the product of that much-sought state of things—low rents. Rent ceilings for the majority of housing are fixed at such a low figure that incentive to build new units virtually is killed.

Properly owners won't put enough into maintenance to keep buildings from going to rot. As a result, slum areas are growing too fast, officials say.

While exact national figures on this are not available for recent years, the total number of families living in slum dwellings in 1943 was estimated officially at 125,000.

Damage In War

"To put the situations in order," a Ministry of Reconstruction official says, "it is necessary to build 20,000 new family dwelling units a month for the next 25 years." But, in 1951, the rate of construction was less than 10,000 a month. According to another Ministry spokesman, 22 years of rent freezing "ravaged the country as badly as the five years of World War II."

And, during the war, between 400,000 and 500,000 housing units were completely destroyed and another 1,240,800 were damaged.

From the time France was liberated in World War II until the

Hey, Lady, Watch Out!

FRESNO, CALIF.—A 26-year-old woman motorist finally was overhauled by a police car after a wild ride which resulted in her being charged with nine traffic violations.

Before a police officer arrested her she had hit a school bus, an automobile and an electric sign. The officer had to crash his car into hers to make her stop.

Then while he was radioing headquarters she suddenly stepped on the gas and zoomed away in her convertible. The policeman took off in pursuit.

This time she sideswiped a car and was slipping along at 80 miles per hour on the left side of the road before overtaken the second time. Three charges of hit-and-run were placed against her, three of not stopping at stop signs, in addition to speeding, ignoring a patrolman's signals to stop and reckless driving.

Japanese Ponder Salvage Of Ships

MANILA—A Japanese salvage survey mission has arrived to determine whether vessels sunk in Manila Bay during World War II should be refloated, dismantled or abandoned.

The Japanese expect to find out how many of the 265 vessels totaling 561,157 tons can be salvaged and turned over to the Philippines as reparations through services.

The Japanese government has offered to pay reparations through services, instead of cash or kind, to the Philippines in compensation for war damage.

middle of 1952, 180,310 new family dwelling units had been built, 108,930 were rebuilt, 120,597 temporary units were erected, 21,875 family dwellings were made available in barracks and other military buildings, and 788,445 damaged units were repaired.

460 Lose Lives

While this effort may not seem too big, it must be remembered there was a lot of work to do before actual reconstruction could even begin. For instance, 13,000,000 mines had to be cleared from the land and it was also necessary to remove 17,000,000 shells, 450,000 bombs, and 650,000 coastal weapons of various sorts.

This hazardous preliminary preparation cost $20 French workmen their lives.

Another point to be remembered is that only a relatively small amount of France's reconstruction budget goes for homes. As of early last year, three-quarters of this amount went for repairing the country's economic machine—industrial expansion and modernization.

Peepilar Irony

In the years immediately following the war, home building got even less—only about a sixth.

From all this housing hodge-podge, there emerges a peculiar irony. In the last 50 years or so some 500,000 dwellings, ranging from palatial chateaus to quite comfortable cottages, have been abandoned.

That's partly because their inhabitants wanted to move out of the country to industrial centers where there were better employment opportunities and partly because of high taxes on the larger places.

Publicity Campaign

The Ministry of Reconstruction has launched a publicity campaign to try to bring home to the French people the basic necessity for certain sacrifices, if they are to bring their housing standards up to those in many other parts of the world.

But whether France's economic condition and her rate of industrial production will permit a marked change for the better in the near future remains to be seen. Any such change is still insufficient to make a dent in a general housing situation which remains too obviously inadequate.

SO THIS IS NEW YORK

BY NORTH CALLAHAN

By NORTH CALLAHAN
NEW YORK—A friend of mine, R. H. Johnson of 64 Wall Street, was a classmate at West Point of Lt. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, our new commanding general in Korea. Johnson, who entered the military academy from his native Anson, Texas, decided to resign from the Army sometime after graduation and enter the securities business. But he still has warm memories of "Max Taylor" as he calls him. When the future general was a cadet, his classmate told me, he was always grouchy at having to get up at 6 a.m. every day. If anyone said "good morning" early he wanted to know what was good about it. Taylor, now 52, was the youngest man in his class at the Point, being barely over 17 when he entered from Missouri, graduating fourth in his class in 1922. A further check with Col. Charles Barrett of the West Point faculty, another classmate, reveals that Taylor probably was the best foreign language student the Point ever had. He knew more Spanish than the instructor—and the instructor hasn't done so badly either, his name being Matthew Ridgeway. Taylor made 1049 points out of a possible 1,050 in languages, and his knowledge of Japanese and Chinese now is well known, as is the fact that before he went to Korea, he had numbered among his achievements that of being superintendent of West Point, his revered alma mater.

A Long Island man has a similar telephone number to that of a neighborhood grocery store. He got so many calls meant for the store that he determined to do something about it. So he made a deal with the store: he would answer as if he were working at the store, take the grocery order, turn it over to the store when he had several. The store owner agreed, gave him a commission on all "sales."

George Rose, vice president of the Chase National Bank, is not only an able financier, but he has the smooth appearance of a picture-book executive. He told me that only very rich and very poor people can afford to get sick nowadays. The first group has money; the second is taken care of by charity and gets virtually as good care in hospitals as if they paid for it. The middle-income group is hard hit by high medical costs. George takes time from his busy banking schedule to help the Junior Achievement program, a valuable growing movement now in 61 cities in which young people organize their own "business," sell stock, their company's products and then reap profit—or loss—but always good experience for their future.

A mellowing reminder of "the good old days" is the pack of handsome cabs which still stand with their just-as-mellowing horses and drivers outside the Hotel Plaza at 59th Street and Central Park. These men bring sight of nostalgia to older folks passing by who once used them as their principal pleasure-buggies around the park. Now for something like $5 an hour, young couples rent them, often in the late evening hours, for romantic rides around the great rural expanse of the Park. The drivers wear high hats, haven't changed them even since President Eisenhower wore a homburg at his inauguration—and these cabbies get most of the hats, I learned, from Carl Bristol, the singer who makes them a gift of his discarded top-pieces after his supper-club appearances.

Taking my autographed Churchill picture over to get it framed, I found on East 42nd Street a firm that apparently does not want business. It is a picture-frame manufacturing establishment which a person reaches by going up six stories of an old building, then winding down a musty hall until you come to a small, artistic sign indicating the place. Inside, no one is in sight. Only mountains of frames, miles of glass-panes and huge piles of cardboard. Over behind one of the piles, I found a reluctant man who eventually consented to wait on me. On the walls were many pictures and paintings beautifully framed, however. There was no lack of ability here. Just an indifferent state of mind. Apparently volume of business has cultivated polite apathy. As I left, I almost bumped into a small sign which read: "Don't go away mad. Just go away."

Manhattan Musing: even at this early time, there are hints of Spring herabouts... birds begin to fly northward, baseball players sign contracts, and occasional splashes of green in the parks hint with a certain smell of freshness.

Midland Rotarians To Hear International Official At 25th Anniversary Banquet

Dr. Philip Lovejoy of Evanston, Ill., immediate past secretary of Rotary International, will be the principal speaker Thursday night at the twenty-fifth anniversary banquet of the Midland Rotary Club. The meeting is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. in the Hotel Scharbeier Ballroom.

The event, a ladies night affair, is expected to be one of the most outstanding Rotary celebrations ever held in West Texas, according to Richard Brooks, club president.

Representatives from most of the 37 clubs in Rotary District 123 are expected to attend the function, swelling the attendance to record proportions. The Sweetwater Club, which sponsored the organization of the Midland club a quarter century ago, has chartered a bus to bring its delegation to the birthday party here.

Dr. Lovejoy is expected to arrive here by plane Thursday morning. He will be met by a welcoming committee from the club.

and later held administrative educational positions in the State of Michigan. He has been a Rotarian since 1924.

He is a member of the National Council of Boy Scouts of America.

President Brooks will preside at the Thursday night banquet. He also will present the six charter members still active in the club.

W. Ily Pratt, the first president of the Midland Rotary Club, will introduce resigned charter members and members of families of deceased charter members. He also will present past officers and members of families of deceased past officers.

Other Introductions
District Gov. Alton Chapman of Floydada and past district governors in attendance will be introduced by Fred Wemple of Midland, a past district governor. P. F. Bridgewater, Midland, another past district governor, will introduce the principal speaker.

The Midland Rotary Club held its organization meeting Jan. 28, 1928, and the charter was granted by Rotary International March 9, 1928.

Present officers, in addition to President Brooks, are J. P. Carson, Sr., vice president; the Rev. W. R. Mann, secretary-treasurer; the Rev. J. Q. Woodard and the Rev. Luther Kirk, chaplains; Alfred Petty, sergeant-at-arms; Art Cole and James Mims, song leaders, and Wallace Wimberly, pianist.

Directors of the club are Carroll L. Thomas, Billy Yeatts, Mr. Kirk and R. W. Lewis.

Geologist Says Underground Water Storage Beats Lakes

ABILENE—A petroleum geologist says underground storage water may some day replace the big dams that are being built on major rivers and streams.

Paul Weaver, technical assistant to the vice president of Gulf Oil Corporation and former president of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, told the Abilene Geological Society that underground storage has many advantages over man-made lakes.

He said that lakes sit up, there is a high loss because of evaporation, the mineral concentration increases because of evaporation, and the best waters of all—flood waters—are lost many times because lakes are full when water is available.

"We must study the possibilities of induced recharge by pumping water into sand bodies that are ordinarily dry and of water carrying strata where conditions of the outcrops make it hard for water to enter," he said.

Weaver suggested that surface water could be pumped into wells within a mile or two of rivers and lakes and the sand bodies recharged.

Public School Week Brings Out Record Visits In City

The annual observance of Texas Public School Week closed here Saturday following the most enthusiastic response on the part of patrons in the history of the special event.

Sponsors of the observance joined with public school officials, faculty members and P-TA officers in expressing appreciation to all individuals and organizations who cooperated to make the week-long program such an outstanding success.

"Public School Week surely is growing in popularity in Midland and we are most grateful for the interest shown by patrons and friends in their school system," Sup. Frank Monroe said.

Parents of students visited schools and classrooms in record numbers during the week, school officials advised. Attendance contests in some schools created unusual interest in the special observance.

Members of civic and service clubs visited the various schools on designated days. Parent-Teacher organizations sponsored special meetings and parent visitation programs.

Monroe said attendance statistics will be announced at a meeting of school principals Tuesday.

Wesley Martin, coordinator of the program in the schools, was delighted at the tremendous response, terming the observance "the best ever."

Cattlemen Watch Profits Disappear, But They Ask For Rain, Not Support

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food & Markets Editor

Beef's cheaper—down about one-quarter from this time last year, about a third on some cuts. Joy to the family budget. Gloom to the Texas cowboys.

While the housewife broils her prodigious steak, many a small Texas rancher scans the blue sky for signs of rain and begins to wonder where his next meal will come from.

Yet he doesn't want a federal price support program I heard that over and over as I traveled more than 1,000 miles by automobile through this state where the cattle population is larger than the human population.

Ranchers At Loss

Drouth of three years, the high cost of feed and overproduction we have more cattle today than ever before in our history have forced many cattlemen to sell their range cattle quick and at a heavy loss. Several men told me that calves which cost them 30 cents a pound to raise now bring only 17 to 18 cents a pound in the gutted market.

Ranchers are beginning to cut their purchases of things made in other parts of the country. Harry A. Knibbe runs the general store and gasoline station at Spring Branch. That's in the south central part of this greatest of cattle-raising states. His customers are all ranchers, owning from 500 to 1,500 acres.

Mild Winter

"They are cutting their buying 15 to 20 per cent," Knibbe said in his slow Texas drawl, surveying his stock of flour. "And we've been lucky around here," he added. "Some rain and a mild winter so far."

E. H. Specht, a tall, middle-aged rancher who owns 1,000 acres, joined the conversation. "You tell those people who think it's good news for everyone that meat prices are topping that I just had to take $7 for some of my 400-pound calves. A little while back I was getting $150 to $165 for them."

Want No Controls

Yet most Texas cattlemen insist that no form of artificial controls would do any good. Jake Miller, a furrow-faced commercial breeder near Coleman (the central dry country), squatted before a pen of his cattle which he knew he was going to take a loss on and said slowly: "I was raised on a ranch. No honest cowboy thinks

Washington can run our business better than we can."

"Controls have made feed harder to get," he continued. "I'd rather see no controls on anything. But if the Government can do anything about getting us some rain, well, that's different."

Costs Go Up

In the last 17 months the rain-fall was only 13 inches against a normal 49. In the southwestern part of the cattle and sheep country you see very little stock; ranchers have either moved out or sold their animals.

Even if it rains now, they tell you, it will be two years until the range grass grows enough for them to restock. The price of cotton seed, brack, corn and other supplementary protein foods which they have been forced to use, as compared with prices they are getting for their cattle, is ruinous.

Feeding Expense

"Beef cattle prices are down 30 to 60 per cent," Charles Neblett, Jr., of Stephenville (north central section) told me. He raises registered cattle for breeding and is a director of the local bank. Almost everything an animal eats these days has to be bought."

He pointed to a handsome bull. "He's got a lot more feed in him than anyone is going to pay me for these days. And I'll bet you 80 per cent of the purebred bulls sold this month went for much less than the cost of production. It has cost me $25,000 to own my business in the last three years."

Facts Of Life

The banks are watchful, but are not calling in loans the way they did in 1931-2, Neblett said. "Things went worse since June. Banks got realistic, not brutal. I wouldn't say the bankers forced any liquidations. No, they just made the ranchers see the facts of life and persuaded them to sell out quick and get what they could."

Weather, nothing else, has brought about this situation, Neblett insisted. "Not Truman policies, controls or anything else, just lack of rain."

Expensive Nuisance

"However, I never did see any good in controls or compulsory grading," he added. "They ran costs up and were an expensive nuisance. Get rid of them and everyone will have better meat for less money."

He declared government price

Midland Livestock Show Plans Ready; Auction Scheduled

Officials of the Midland County Livestock Association Saturday announced the completion of plans for the staging of the annual Midland Livestock Show March 16-17.

Burvin Hines, association secretary, said the stock show will be held March 16 at Midland Fair Park on East Highway 80, while the auction sale will be held the following afternoon across the highway at the Midland Livestock Auction Company sales ring.

Seven club steers, two commercial steers, 52 fat lambs and 43 hogs will be entered in the event by Midland County 4-H Club and FFA members.

Cash prizes and ribbons will be presented to the show winners by the livestock association. Showmanship trophies will be awarded this year for the first time.

The public is invited to attend both the show and the sale. The stock will be judged the opening day of the show and the animals support of corn is helping to put the rancher in drouth areas out of business. "We cattlemen in the Southwest need a free market and rain. Then we can look after ourselves."

Lone Deserter

In Austin, John Q. McAdams, former state banking commissioner, told me pretty much the same thing. "Texans are used to overcoming adversities," he boasted. "Bankers know that and aren't afraid of this situation."

Only one rancher I talked with wanted government support. He was D. W. Page, a rancher 35 years in Comal County. He said he was holding his calves in hopes the government would do something quick to send prices up.

"If they don't do that," he said with lean stoicism, then they should remove support from grain. That would help us. And we sure need help."

But in Fort Worth at the annual Fat Stock Show, you could barely hear the bellowing of the Hereford, Black Angus and Brahman bull for the loud denunciation of any government interference with cattle prices.

Andrews-Gaines Soil District To Name Supervisors

ANDREWS—An election for supervisors of Zones 2 and 3 of the newly formed Andrews-Gaines Soil Conservation District will be held in the Andrews County Courthouse at 2 p. m., March 14. County Judge Milton Ramsey announced. All persons holding title to land in Andrews County are eligible to vote and one landowner in each zone will be elected as supervisor.

A delegation from Andrews County, including Judge Ramsey, County Agent Pete Melican, H. R. Doty and Bill Blair, conferred recently with the district supervisor at Seminole on re-zoning the district.

There are five zones in all. Zone 2 includes all the territory in Andrews County west of Highway 51, and Zone 3 is the land in Andrews County east of Highway 51.

Midland Animals Take Angelo Cash

Five of six Midland FFA animals exhibited at the San Angelo Livestock Show over the weekend placed in the money, J. R. Cuffman reported Saturday.

Harold Logan, 16-year-old high school sophomore, took the grand championship with his 239-pound Duroc Jersey. The hog was bred by Riley Boren of McKinney.

Logan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Logan of Midland. Bill Snow and Bud Lea also showed pigs at San Angelo.

Ralph Powell, Jay Harwood and Lea entered sheep, too, in the exhibits.

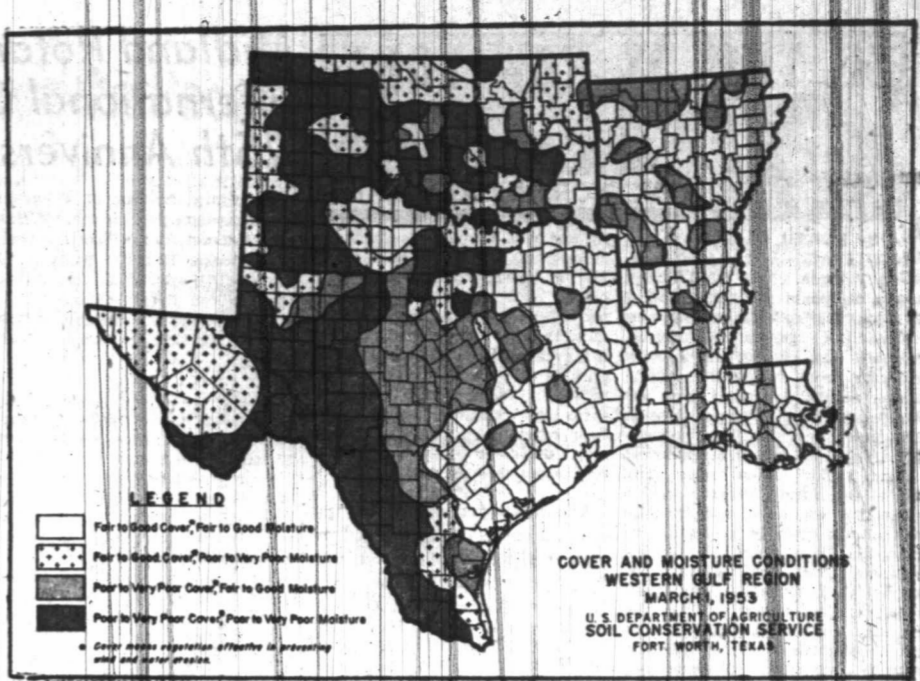

W. D. McElroy and Cuffman are FFA instructors at Midland High School.

C-C Directors To Discuss Bond Issue At Monday Meeting

The proposed county road bond issue will be discussed at the regular meeting of directors of the Midland Chamber of Commerce at 4 p. m. Monday in the Shell Oil Company conference room on North Colorado Street.

Jack Wicker, C. of C. vice president, said committee appointments for the year also will be submitted for approval of the board.

He urged a large attendance of directors at the session.

DROUTH CONDITIONS—Map showing Soil Conservation Service's announced results of its new four-state survey of soil moisture and plant conditions. The service reported that half of Texas and more of Oklahoma on March 1, 1953, remained in the grip of the Southwest's most damaging drouth. Regional Director Louis P. Merrill of SCS reported that in approximately 140 counties of Eastern and Central Texas and in some areas of Southeastern and Northcentral Oklahoma moisture and cover conditions have improved. In the director's opinion, these are no longer on the critical list. Rains in the last two weeks have relieved conditions in Arkansas and Louisiana. Most areas in these two states now have adequate soil moisture and plant cover is in good condition.

FEET NOT WEBBED—Our Rodeo, Sir, Involves Horses

Sorry, Mr. Larry Dorsey, but you must have misunderstood about the Midland World Championship Rodeo.

Our rodeo, kind sir, involves only cowboys and cowgirls, little calves and big bulls, bucking broncos and talented cutting horses.

But it was very nice of you, Mr. Dorsey, to think of us in connection with your own rodeo.

With regrets, our Mayor Perry Pickett must decline your invitation for the City of Midland to join in your 1953 National Better Fishing Program by sponsoring a rodeo—a fishing rodeo.

We Trust You

Your Better Fishing, Inc., which you head as president from your office in Chicago, is a worthwhile organization, no doubt.

The fishing contest program is not unknown and in the more than 400 communities in which the contest is sponsored each year, scores of young boys and girls have been made happy by the prizes which are awarded to those catching the biggest fishes.

It is understood, Mr. Dorsey, that your organization furnishes the prizes such as rods, reels, lures and lures, paid for by members of your organization.

But Midland, sir, must still decline—you don't offer enough to make it worthwhile.

The Lord, a professional rain-maker and hundreds of local citizens who hopefully wash and shine their automobiles each week have not provided us with the basic ingredient for a Fishing Rodeo.

If you can succeed, where they have failed, our Mayor Perry Pickett would be most happy to join in your program.

If, in addition to your handsome prizes, Mr. Dorsey, you can see fit to provide us with a bubbling brook or a peaceful lake, fully equipped with picatorial attractions, the City of Midland will be glad to further consider your kind offer.

New schedules which provide earlier afternoon flights between Dallas-Fort Worth and Midland and later afternoon flights between Lubbock and Dallas-Fort Worth have gone into effect on the Pioneer Air Lines system, Harding L. Lawrence vice president of traffic and sales, has announced.

Under the new schedule, Pioneer's Flight 432 from Dallas to Midland will leave at 2:10 p. m. instead of 3:40 p. m., thus providing earlier service from Dallas-Fort Worth to Abilene, Sweetwater, Big Spring and Midland.

Flight 48, which previously left Midland at 6:49 p. m., leaves at 8:30 p. m. with the new schedule.

"This change in times between Dallas-Fort Worth and Midland provides greatly improved connections to and from other airlines for those passengers passing through the 'Dallas gateway,'" Lawrence added.

Pioneer presently has six flights daily between Dallas-Fort Worth and Midland and between Dallas-Fort Worth and Lubbock, Lawrence concluded.

Dirt, Squirt and Quirt

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —

The market was slow and lower on almost all classes of cattle at the Midland Livestock Auction last Thursday on a light run.

Pat calves and yearlings good to choice, sold for $20 to $23; medium to good went at $17.50 to $20.

Good to choice cows brought $14 to $15.25; medium, $13 to $14.

Canners and cutters drew $10.50 to $13. Old huls were down to $9.

Bulls cleared at $15.50 to $17.50. Stocker steer calves cashed for $30 to $22.50.

Stocker heifer calves drew $19 to $21.

Mixed breed and Brahman stocker calves and yearlings brought $13 to $16.50.

The top price for hogs was $20.75.

Podner, last week's moisture sure was fine as long as it lasted, wasn't it?

Sure thought that slicker we have been carrying around so long at last would come in handy, but gosh, the drizzle didn't amount to enough to get a man good and damp even if he had gotten off the front porch right in the middle of it.

Which reminds that Addison Wadley says more slickers have been worn out tied behind a saddle in West Texas than any other spot in the world.

But that little bit of moisture surely was appreciated, and more is on the way (we hope).

Won't be long until those April showers start falling. Here we go again!

Anyway, better keep that slicker handy, Podner!

And in the meantime, don't forget to mail your membership check to the Midland County Livestock Association.

Burvin Hines at the Chamber of Commerce is the association secretary, and Bob Coffey over at the Midland Production Credit Association, is the treasurer. Either one of them will be glad to accept your check. The membership funds will be used to finance the big Midland County Livestock Show, March 16-17.

The show, incidentally, will be bigger and better than ever this year, with trophies, more cash prizes and everything. See you there Podner!

Plans are complete for the 76th annual convention of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association which will be held in Houston March 17-18, according to T. L. Glack's Roach of Amarillo, president.

Cattlemen from all sections of the Southwest will convene in the Rice Hotel, where business and entertainment sessions will be held.

The association now has more than 10,500 members from 18 states and Mexico.

A directors meeting will be held March 16, according to Henry Bell of Fort Worth, secretary-general manager of the association.

The program will get underway when President Roach calls the meeting to order at 9 a.m. March 17.

Allan Silvers, governor of Texas, will be the first principal speaker, followed by Clifford Hope, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee and member of Congress from Kansas.

Following Hope will be an address by V. S. Peterson with E. I. de Pont de Memours and Company, Wilmington, Del.

Speakers on March 18 are M. J. Cook, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.; Stephen H. Hart, livestock tax specialist, Denver, Colo.; Charles A. Stewart, traffic counsel for the association, and A. R. Ring, National Livestock and Meat Board, Chicago, Ill.

Harold Scaief of San Benito has been named King Cotton for 1953 at Texas A&M College and will reign with his queen, to be selected, at the Cotton Pageant to be held April 24, at the college.

Simulated hail damage to cotton will be the subject of a research project at Texas A&M College during the coming growing season, Dr. R. D. Lewis, director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, has announced.

Purpose of the research is to provide a scientific basis for estimating damage by hail to growing crops.

The Hail Insurance Adjustment and Research Association of Chicago, Ill., acting through W. E. Grundy, Dallas, has made available a grant of $10,000 for such research purposes.

Dr. G. M. Watkins, Department of Plant Physiology and Pathology, A&M College, will serve as project supervisor, with H. C. Lane, soon to receive his doctorate from Iowa State College, doing the research.

Controlled Damage

During the coming season, plantings will be prepared at two sites, College Station and Lubbock, Dr. Watkins said.

Controlled damage will be inflicted in different ways, to different degrees and at different times during the growing season, he added.

Exact methods for inflicting such damage is unspecified at this time, he said, but will be uniform, permitting duplication in other plots and at different stages of growth.

Eventually, test plots will be set up in the five major acres of land and crop differences in Texas. They will be in the vicinities of College Station, Lubbock, Temple, Weslaco and the El Paso Valley.

A total of $61,011.93 has been donated to the Agriculture Department of the University of Houston by the Houston Farm and Ranch Club, according to Vernon W. Frost, club president.

An auction sale in November brought in $22,000 of this money, with the remainder raised through individual donations of members of the club. An additional $21,000 has been pledged by the club members.

The Houston Farm and Ranch Club, with 2,900 members, is the largest such club in the world. It was chartered in 1947 as an outgrowth of the Agriculture Committee of the Houston Chamber of Commerce.

The first annual Pan-American Livestock Exposition will be presented October 10-21 during the first 12 days of the 1953 State Fair of Texas, President R. L. Thornton has announced.

Aim of the exposition will be to present a complete beef and dairy cattle show along with swine, sheep, Angora goats and quarter horses. Its purpose is to help develop a new market for purebred livestock in the countries of Central and South America.

The fair already has planned a 12-day junket of fair and livestock association officials to nine of the principal cities of Mexico to invite Mexican breeders to attend the fair and to find out what they would like to see at the livestock exposition.

"The Pan-American Livestock Exposition will be the international show window where purebred livestock breeders of the United States can present their animals before a discriminating audience representing a market that is virtually untapped," Thornton said.

A bull calf with three eyes, two noses, two mouths and four tongues was born on the T. W. Mooney stock farm near Hearne recently, according to an Associated Press dispatch. Two of the eyes are in the normal position, the third in the center of the forehead. The calf inhales and exhales through each of the four nostrils, and moves the four tongues independently. The animal was taken to Texas A&M College.

Hearings Due Soon On Pecos School Segregation Charge

AUSTIN—A hearing on charges of segregation at Pecos schools, made by Latin American residents of the city, has been set for mid-March by J. W. Edgar, state commissioner of education.

The Pecos Independent School District had until midnight Saturday to file a report on the school board's findings in a hearing held last week plus any action taken on the findings.

The charge of segregation was raised when the school board planned to build a new junior high school in a neighborhood that is largely inhabited by Latin Americans.

The Latin Americans have asked for either of two other courses of action by the school board—that the proposed school be built in a district not predominantly Latin American or that the school board adopt a "zone plan for the new junior high school to remove the possibi-ty of segregation." The school board denied the charge of segregation in a letter from Ray H. Whitley, Pecos school superintendent.

After the findings of last week's hearing are reported this week, the education agency will hold another hearing in Austin. Then Education Commissioner Edgar can decide whether there has been action which constitutes segregation.

If either side disagrees with the finding, it can appeal to the State Board of Education. If the state board sustains the commissioner the dissatisfied party can then appeal to the district court.

The lieutenant also stated that Private Franklin, who was acting platoon sergeant in his company, was "a man of capability who was well liked by all the men."

"He displayed expert leadership in all his work and was praised highly by all the officers of this unit."

Private Franklin's parents reside five miles south of Midland. Other survivors include a sister, Mrs. Charles Vest, and a brother, W. B. Franklin, Jr.

He was inducted into the Army Oct. 13, 1952, and had just completed 16 weeks of basic training at the time of his death. Before entering the armed services, he worked for Banner Dairies and Borden's here.

Blum is under indictment on 18 counts of mishandling funds. Eleven of the indictments were transferred to Beaumont, three to Fredericksburg and four to Georgetown.

The judge also increased Blum's bond to a total of $32,000. Defense Attorney Percy Foreman posted the bonds immediately.

Blum was convicted earlier this year on five counts of a six-count federal indictment charging misappropriation of funds.

The verdict was appealed after Judge James V. Allred set sentence at a year in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Judges approving the venue changes Friday were Langston G. King, A. C. Winborn, and Frank Williford.

Building Industry May Avoid 'After Boom' Recession

NEW YORK—The construction industry may reverse historical precedent in the next few years by proving that a recession need not always follow peak industrial activity caused by war and preparation for war, Engineering News-Record, McGraw-Hill publication, asserts.

Never before have conditions been more promising to achieve such a goal, the magazine says.

Most important reason for construction optimism is the accumulated backlog of specific construction projects that have been announced for the future, totaling $69 billion.

This backlog could mean five years of construction activity at present records alone. Yet this total includes only engineering-construction type and mass housing jobs in the $300,000-or-over class; none of the other housing or small construction jobs are counted, and these annually make up two-fifths to a half of the total construction volume.

In addition, construction has experienced eight years of steadily rising business, placing it at the top of the longest and biggest boom in its history, the magazine points out.

Favorable Factors

The most powerful force in this recent expansion has been defense spending by the federal government, but there are enough favorable factors in the business picture to assure against deep dips in business and to support a sizable future volume of construction when this spending is reduced a year or two hence.

For instance, business can look forward to about a $40 billion annual rate of government spending, the amount generally regarded as necessary to maintain and continue the defense establishment we need. This will be a tremendous stimulus to business even though it is 30 per cent below the defense spending peak which should reach $55 billion this year.

Another favorable factor is that consumers and business now hold the largest amount of liquid assets on record. Last year alone, consumers put aside $18.5 billion in savings, bringing the accumulated total above the $200 billion mark. Business listed $17 billion in earnings after taxes and retained almost half of this for use after paying out a record amount in dividends.

The nation's growing population also will put considerable pressure in the market for goods, services and construction. Based on past figures, an increase of 15 per cent in population can be assumed for the next decade bringing the total to 173 million in 1950.

Construction prosperity is not a certainty, despite these good conditions. There will be economic and political obstacles that only hard work and intelligent planning can overcome, the magazine warns.

End Of Controls Is Aid To Builder, Dealer Explains

For the first time in more than 10 years anyone in Midland can build or modernize a home or other building without having to worry about either materials shortages or government controls, according to Paul McHargie, manager of the A & L Housing & Lumber Company and a member of the Public Affairs Committee of the National Retail Lumber Dealers Association.

"As of March 1, anyone can construct any type of building and use any desired types of materials without obtaining permission from the federal government, provided the necessary materials can be obtained without priority assistance," McHargie said.

"Inasmuch as all types of lumber and other building products are available in full supply, this means that everyone is free to start building without fear of delay due to scarcities or governmental red tape.

"Some controls still remain over critical metals used in manufacturing certain building products, but even so the output will be sufficient to meet all foreseeable demand.

"Lumber and most other building materials have been decontrolled by CPAs, and average prices of building products are below ceilings formerly in effect. No important increases are expected.

"An adequate supply of mortgage funds for home owners and others also is anticipated locally, although difficulty in arranging FHA and VA housing loans is reported in some areas owing to the fact that the government has kept interest rates on those loans at a level which makes them unattractive to lenders," McHargie explained.

Home Ownership Essay Contest Attracts Interest

WASHINGTON—A final call has been sounded for entries in a nation-wide student essay contest on "Why Home Ownership Builds Good Citizenship."

With a heavy file of entries already on hand from students all over the United States, the National Association of Home Builders announced it will close the competition April 1 and announce the prize winners by May 1.

NAHB officials said the competition is open to all school students 10 to 18 years of age whose entries are post-market not later than midnight April 1. Original essays of no more than 600 words will be judged by a panel of nationally-known civic leaders.

Cash Awards Listed

Awards in the competition range from $25 to $500, with equal awards going to the teachers of the winning students.

The first-place student-teacher team will receive cash awards of $500 each, plus an all-expense trip to Washington, D. C., in May where they will be honored at the annual Spring meeting of NAHB's directors.

A prize of $250 will go to the second-prize student, with an equal cash prize for his or her teacher. The third-place student-teacher team will receive $100 each, as will contestants placing fourth to tenth, as well as their teachers, will get $25 apiece.

ELKS LODGE WILL NOMINATE OFFICERS

Officers for 1933-34 will be nominated at the regular meeting of Midland Lodge, No. 1228, Benevolent & Protective Order of Elks, at 8 p.m. Monday in the organization's lodge rooms, 118 South Lorraine Street.

Secretary Melvin C. Robertson said three applicants for membership also will be voted upon at the session.

He urged a large attendance of members.

Washington, D. C., is visited by more than 1,500,000 persons every year.

"First let me ask YOU a question, Melvin—how do you feel about charge accounts?"

New House Should Be Designed For Best Resale Value

Being conventional payoffs in home design; it pays off when you sell the house.

There are people who can afford to indulge their whims in architecture and interior layout, but the wisest home owners are those who style a house so that somebody else will want to buy it. Experts agree that this is likely to happen between seven and 10 years after you first move into it. So before you go into personalized ideas, think twice. Have a home which is comfortable and pleasing to the eye, but which will please someone else's eye, too. Here are some "musts" that are considered basic for resale values:

1. Move than one bath, if possible. At least, a bath-and-a-half finished in permanent material like clay tile which needs no replacement and looks as good the day you sell the house as the day you built it.
2. Three Bedrooms. Three bedrooms seem to be the most desirable house. This is principally because home-seekers by children and are moving out of apartments that are cramped to buy houses with budgets that are cramped. They want a lot for their money.
3. Modern Kitchen. The lack of a meal preparation room efficiently equipped can seriously endanger the purchase of your house. Women look at the kitchen before they'll even consider the living room.
4. Standard architecture, by which experts mean either conventional Colonial or the more modern ranch type house. Both are excellent from the standpoint of salability because they are not "odd" and appeal to most tastes.

Halsell Finds Holland Pleasant Nation Of Industrious Folk

By GRACE HALSELL
Reporter-Telegram Special Correspondent

AMSTERDAM—Holland is an unusual country, all right. It's below sea level. That means fish can swim above the land, birds fly below the sea.

Many people really do wear wooden shoes. They are not so quaint as practical. The land is wet most of the time, so the wooden shoes last longer, don't cost as much. They are extremely light. One can be quite agile in them.

People eat cheese here for breakfast. And slices of ham. Eggs often are eaten at lunch, served on top of roast beef or ham which is on top of a slice of bread.

Holland really has windmills. More than 1,300 of them, with 1,240 in daily use.

And it is a country of bicycles. Bicycles swarm down on you like beetles in Amsterdam. Not only do most of the 500,000 inhabitants own bicycles, but many of them own a week-day bicycle and a "Sunday" bicycle, just for special occasions.

Flat as the Texas plains, Holland is ideal for the bicycle. Holland is barely four hours by train long and two hours broad.

TOURIST EXPECTED—Holland expects to carry on its travel business, despite the floods. W. Boreel, general manager of the Netherlands National Tourist Office, declares.

He pointed out that the floods had little effect on the main tourist regions. Hardly any damage was done the large bulbfield district. The great floral show, "Flora 1953," and the popular Keukenhof exhibition will both run from mid-March until mid-May.

Boreel said the country as a whole will be able to offer the normal number of hotel and pension accommodations.

Tourists here will be happy. They will find a scenic countryside, and more than likely, they will be herded in droves to the two "established" spots—Marken and Volendam. These two villages are as "set" for the tourist as Taco and Cuernavaca in Mexico.

Tourists will find, happily, that most everyone in Holland speaks English. They accept the American for what he is—they are not servile to him, as many are in Germany; they are not hostile to him, as many are in France.

Tourists will hear American songs everywhere. Just as I write this, a radio somewhere is heard in the distance with the song, "I Apologize." The tune from the motion picture "High Noon" is popular here, and over Europe for that matter. Also especially popular here,

Just now seems to be the song that goes something like "Zing a Little Song For Me, Along the Zuisdersee." The name of it falls me.

American movies, also, are popular. Showing here are "Viva Zapata," "Yankee," "Rebecca" and Charles Chaplin film, "Limelight."

I wonder if the Charles Chaplin movie has shown at the Texas theaters as yet? I saw it twice in Paris, and have intended writing about it ever since. To me, it is art on the level of "City Lights" and "Hamlet"—"Art" just the same as Rembrandt's "Night Watch" which hangs here in Amsterdam is art, and classical as any music rendered by the renowned Amsterdam Concertgebouw Orchestra.

"Limelight" has the master's touch, in story, in production, in acting, in music, all handled by the master, Chaplin.

It is poignant, even more so because the younger girl loved the older man than it would have been had she not loved him.

"It made me sad," I heard someone say.

"It lifted me up," I replied.

For I think "Limelight" is one of the greatest affirmations of a man's faith in life, and the good in life, that I have seen.

Movie-goers who let politics enter into art will cheat themselves if they permit the banning of "Limelight."

BACK TO HOLLAND—This country has the finest trains in all Europe. "Third class" on any one of Holland's trains is about the same as "First class" in any other country.

Holland really is as clean as you've always heard it was. You probably have always thought, however, that this is a country of farmers and fishermen. It isn't so. Thirty per cent of the population live in cities of more than 100,000, and 37 per cent of the people are employed in industry, while agriculture and fisheries attract only 20 per cent.

In religion, the population is 44 per cent Protestant, 38.5 Roman Catholic, and 17.5 per cent do not belong to any church.

The Zuider Zee no longer is a sea. It has been cut off from the sea by a dam and turned into the Yssel Lake. Eventually it will be land, not water.

Rotterdam, which had entire blocks of buildings flattened in the war, is rising again—this time with startling ultra-modern architecture, making it unique in Europe. Rotterdam is beginning to look more like a Texas city, such as Houston or Dallas, than a European city.

Rotterdam is the fifth harbor in the world, and the first on the continent. There are 18,000 ocean-going ships and 200,000 inland vessels stopping every year.

Prices are reasonable in Holland. Salaries for the natives aren't too high. In the province of Zeeland, the average salary is 40 to 50 guilders a week. That's just about $10.

A policeman in Zierikzee, for instance, makes 300 guilders a month—about $75. A school teacher in the same town gets between 400 and 500 guilders, or from $100 to $125 a month.

The Dutch have yet to "forget and forgive" the Germans for World War II. It still is very real to them—the treatment of their people and their land, which the Nazis flooded.

Returned To Their Homes—A Canadian told me when a group of Canadian soldiers were coming in to help on the flood disaster, Dutch people ran out to greet them with hot coffee and cake—but stopped short when they saw a German was driving one of the trucks.

"Without a word, they returned to their homes," he related.

An American said some Germans were used on the DUKWs (amphibious vehicles, pronounced as "ducks"), which were rescuing flood victims from telephone poles and roof-tops. "Some of the Dutch refused to board the DUKWs when they saw Germans were driving them," the American related.

Collectors of rare prints and old books will have a field day in such cities as Amsterdam and The Hague. In one book store, the proprietor told me J. E. Johnson of 8000 Lemmon Avenue, Dallas, was a regular customer of his.

Dutch women in Amsterdam, Rotterdam and The Hague, like the women in Madrid, Rome and Paris, have a fine sense of style, dress exceedingly well. Shop windows are filled with wonderful clothes, all reasonably priced.

Yes, I think I like Holland.

Fashionable Midlanders

FASHION WISE—Mrs. John K. Overbey, 406 East Maple Street, pictured at the annual dinner dance of University of Texas ex-students, is typical of the fashion-wise Midland women who are attractively costumed for all occasions. Recognizing the city's growing reputation as a style center, The Reporter-Telegram each Sunday will present a "Fashionable Midlander" in a picture in the society section. Mrs. Overbey is wearing a tucked and strapless dress of grey beige silk taffeta, with brief matching jacket forming a boat neckline. With it she wears navy accessories and jewelry in combined dark and light shades of amethyst.

RIGHT FOR GARDENING—A snappy, patriotic-toned costume wins the approval of Mrs. Albert S. Kelley, 2002 Harvard Street, an enthusiastic gardener. She combines a red, white and blue plaid shirt with nautical blue sailcloth pedal pushers and adds a billed Mexican straw hat.

TEACHER'S FAVORITE—Neat and attractive is the favorite combination for a working girl. Evelt Bailey of the Sam Houston School faculty wears a slim skirt of black wool shantung with white nylon blouse and black pumps. Accents are the matching black velvet belt and ribbon tie.

STYLISH CLUBWOMAN—Pictured at a DAR meeting, Mrs. William H. Pryor, 402 East Broadway Street, wears a smart black faille suit with white blouse and gloves, black suede pumps and bag. A harbinger of Spring, her black straw hat is touched with a design of white yarn and brushed with veiling.

LUNCHEON COSTUME—For an AAUW luncheon in the Ranchland Hill Country Club, Mrs. Truett C. Boles, 900 West Indiana Street, emphasizes navy and white with dashes of red. Her softly tailored suit of dark navy wool is fashioned with a scalloped peplum and has crisp collar and cuffs of white waffle pique. Her shoes and bag are in red, and she has chosen a small, veiled hat of navy straw and white gloves and blouse.

CASUAL WEAR—Arriving at the Midland Country Club to help plan the style show and tea scheduled March 17 by the Ladies Golf Association, Mrs. H. C. Hood, 1608 West Kansas Street, achieves the casual look popular with all West Texans. She is pictured in matching derby and cashmere sweater of soft rust shade and a beige, gold and brown tweed skirt. Completing the costume, she chooses a white blouse and brown shoes.

Examples of cut glass, truly an American heritage, will be among the unusual items in the antique show and sale scheduled Tuesday by the Twentieth Century Study Club.

School Slates Art Exhibition

An exhibit of fine arts prints will be held from 3 until 5 p.m. and 7:30 until 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in the South Elementary School.

Students of the school are sponsoring the exhibit and are inviting their parents and friends to attend.

Cut Glass Included In Rare Items For Antique Show Here

Now practically irreplaceable, Old American cut glass is known for its fine workmanship. Labor and material costs have so increased that large-scale production of handmade and hand cut lead glass is no longer profitable.

In addition to cut glass, the antique show will include items of pressed and etched glassware. Of interest to men who see the show will be the collection of antique guns. Other items to be included will be pewter, copper, brass, silver, china, English Staffordshire figurines, wooden articles such as butter moulds, wrought iron utensils, lamps, clocks, American prints, mirrors, and others.

Wives Resent Picking Up After Careless Husbands

To the men: Did you hang up your pajamas this morning, leave the bathroom in order, or put the clothes you wore yesterday in the laundry hamper? If you left all of those little jobs for your wife to do for you you'd better read this letter written by a wife:

"I have a pet peeve which I have wanted to get off my chest for a long time and I believe I am not alone in my resentment. I believe I am talking for most women whose husbands leave their things around for their wives to pick up.

"I can forgive a great many things but it hurts my pride to have to pick up my husband's dirty clothes which he has thrown on the floor, tidy up the bathroom after he has taken a shower, and put away every article he leaves where he used it. Accept Her Chores.

"I don't mind cooking, cleaning house, and all the other jobs a housewife is supposed to do, but I resent my husband always expecting me to pick up after him as though I were a servant."

Well, men, that is how a wife feels when she has to do things for a husband that any adult ought to do for himself.

She has a perfectly legitimate complaint, hasn't she? If you don't think so, how would you like to have to go along behind an adult putting away everything he should have put away himself?

It would be a little hard on your self-respect, wouldn't it? Of course it would. And it is just as hard on a woman's.

So if you have been imposing on your wife like that get wise to yourself. She may never have grumbled out loud about having constantly to pick up after you.

But you can be sure she does resent your lack of consideration. Remember, she's not your servant, she's your wife.

White Organdy Is Spring Fashion

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor
NEW YORK—Spring has always been identified with youth. This year, again, the prettiest, fluffiest and most beguiling fashions are for the very young. This, of course, is as it should be.
We picture here the young actress,

Elizabeth Taylor, in the fluffy and beguiling Spring fashions designed for her newest motion picture by Helen Rose. These are ruffled, romantic fashions that the very young might like to adapt to their own Spring wardrobes.
Miss Taylor wears (left) an exquisite white organdy dress, a mass of ruffles that's cinched by a wide belt of pink flowers. These are outlined in pearls and crystal beads. Afternoon dress (right) is effective black organdy striped with white embroidery. Ruffles appear here, too, in a very fine pleating at the cuffs. Wide calf belt defines a tiny waistline.

MCT Production Set For Thursday Opening

Thursday has been set by the Midland Community Theater as the opening day for its production of "Bell, Book and Candle," a fantasy by John Van Druten.
It will be presented in the City-County Auditorium, with performances each night through March 19 with the exception of Sunday.

The comedy draws its charm from the juxtaposition of medieval witchcraft and modern society. The "streamlined witch," Gillian Holroyd, is to be played by Betty Simpson, well-known to Midland audiences from her performances in such productions as "Miranda," "See How They Run" and "Harvey."
Bringing witchcraft to the aid of love, Gillian puts a "hex" on Shepherd Henderson, portrayed by Tom King. Previously King has played the baron in "The Madwoman of Chaillet" and the harassed general in "John Loves Mary."
Indicating that the art of sorcery is a family craft with the Holroyds, Gillian is assisted in her plots

JayCee-ettes To Aid Dutch Town

Midland JayCee-ettes voted a $10 donation to the flood relief fund for Ouwertek, Holland, at a meeting Thursday night in the home of Mrs. Howard Ford, 2205 Harvard Street. Mrs. C. J. Kerth was co-hostess.
A report was heard from the nominating committee and plans were discussed for the state JayCee-ette convention to be held in Galveston in April. The Midland group will give a party at the convention honoring Mrs. Ford, who is state president.
Next meeting of the board of directors will be at 8 p.m. March 19 in the home of Mrs. O. F. Hedrick, Jr. The next general meeting will be at 8 p.m. April 2 in the home of Mrs. Charles B. Lacy, 3208 Thomas Street, with Mrs. John I. McDonald as co-hostess.
Attending Thursday were Mrs. Ewing Hill, Mrs. Burvin Hines, Mrs. Felix Welmaker, Mrs. James Mims, Mrs. Delmar Aday, Mrs. R. M. Minton, Jr., Mrs. Ed Dillon, Mrs. Joe Turpin, Jr., Mrs. Hedrick, Mrs. H. N. Burton, Mrs. Frank P. Hawk, Mrs. T. O. Knight, Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. William M. Johnson, Mrs. Lacy, Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Kerth.

John Adams, who died at 90, lived longer than any other man who has been U. S. President.
"Bell, Book and Candle" will be given in the round, that is with the stage in the center of the auditorium surrounded by the audience. The response of Midland playgoers to this form of production has been such that at least one play a year is given in the round.

Midland Officials, Teachers To Attend Lubbock Meeting

More than 300 Midland school teachers and officials will attend the annual West Texas Teachers Association meeting in Lubbock March 12 and 13.

The meeting is due to draw some 3,000 school workers from 20 west Texas counties.

The program includes a House Delegates meeting Thursday, 20 sectional meetings Friday and three general sessions.

Speakers for the general sessions are Dr. E. B. Norton, president of State Teachers College; Dr. D. M. Wiggins, former president of Texas

Technological College and vice president of Citizens National Bank, Lubbock; and Dr. Kenneth McFarland, former superintendent of schools, Wichita, Kan.

Wesley Martin, Midland, director of special services, said the sessions—both general and sectional—will deal with every phase of public school instruction and administration.

All teachers in the Midland School System will attend, with the exception of 28 negro teachers. The negro association holds a similar convention on another date.

University Of Texas Slates Homecoming

"Tea Sippers" by the thousands will flock to Austin March 27-29 to whop it up at their annual Round-Up, University of Texas Homecoming celebration.

There'll be sports, concerts, food and beautiful girls to keep students and exes alike busy during the sun-filled three days.

Every Southwest Conference school will be represented on campus by "sweethearts" who'll appear in the parade and at the Saturday night revue and ball. The schools will send "squares" to swing and turn at the Friday night square dance.

Frank Stubbeman, president of the Permian Basin Ex-Students Association, said the group itself will not send a delegation as such, but that many of the Permian Basin exes are planning to attend.

The University Ex-Students Executive Council will meet Friday, March 27; Bob Payne, of Midland is the Permian Basin representative to that council.

The Texas Relays, first major outdoor track and field event in the nation, will highlight the Austin sports scene Friday and Saturday, March 27 and 28. This year the Relays will be dedicated to Texas members of the 1932 Olympic team—Dean Smith and David (Skippy) Browning of the University of Texas; Varrow Hooper and Walter Davis of A&M; Javier Montes of Texas Western College; Eddy Wojcicki, trainer at Rice Institute; and Clyde Littlefield, University of Texas track coach.

Organizations and reunion classes will hold luncheons and breakfasts during the three day celebration. Many of exes meet as a class and talk over the "good old days" on the Forty Acres. More food is in store at the big barbecue Friday at 6 p.m.

Saturday will be filled with ceremonies for University honor students, a meeting of the UT Dads' Association, coffee, receptions, and lots more talk. Plus, of course, the final rounds of the Texas Relays.

The revue and ball Saturday night will climax the celebration. University organizations and personalities each year present a sparkling revue followed by music supplied by one of the nation's top orchestras. The band for this year's dance has not yet been named.

Austin churches will open their doors to exes, parents and students Sunday morning. Sunday afternoon the University's buildings—some brand new ones—will be open. The Houston Music Guild Quartet concert will end the Round-Up celebrations Sunday at 4:30 p.m.

Prepare Hair For Easy Setting;

By ALICIA HART NEA Beauty Editor

Does your hair seem stringy and lifeless after it's been washed, even though it has fine texture and you use a gentle shampoo? Your scalp may be in otherwise good condition but just does not exude enough natural oil. To be really manageable when you set it, each hair should be separate—rather than tending to bunch—and the mass should be fluffy but pliable. Sufficient oil evenly distributed gets the hair into this manageable state.

If your scalp does not send out enough oil, you need to massage it every day for stimulation. Your daily brushing must never be neglected. But you want quick results after you've washed your hair and can't wait for weeks of proper treatment to bring about manageability.

Try a hair cream immediately following your shampoo to make it easy to work with. One hair-product manufacturer makes an excellent one packaged in a tube.

You squeeze it onto the scalp—about half a tube per treatment—while the hair is still dripping wet and work it into a rich creamy lather with finger action.

Massage the lather into your scalp and through and through the hair for even distribution. After you've done this you can immediately rinse it out with warm water. Set your hair while slightly damp. The film cream that remains evenly coating the hair even after rinsing is what makes for manageability.

An even more beautiful way to use this hair cream is to wrap up your head in a waxed-paper cap after you have worked up the creamy lather. Such a cap comes packaged with this hair cream.

Apply heat over the waxed-paper cap. You can wrap steaming-hot Turkish towels around your head, changing them as they cool, or use an infra-red heat lamp or a hair dryer.

About half an hour of this heat application is all that is necessary. Rinse out the excess hair cream and proceed with your drying and setting. After this treatment, your hair will respond to manipulation just as you wish.

Daddy Ringtail And Minceeant

Minceeant is chopped up small with a chopper, or ground up fine with a grinder, all into a million pieces. If you have enough, Daddy Ringtail was afraid it was going to happen to Mugwump and the Huffen, the rascals! It didn't matter that they were friends.

There they were on the Elephant Path. Each had given a quantum capsule to give him a quantum feeling. The Huffen was feeling like a runner strong and fast. He was now indeed a runner so strong, and so fast, that nothing could stop him. He had run into a mighty tree to prove it, and there the tree had broken into firewood.

Mugwump's quantum capsule had served him differently. Mugwump's quantum feeling was different. He did not feel like a runner fast and strong that nothing could stop. Mugwump felt like a mighty wall stopped the elephant with his hand to prove it? Oh yes he had. That's how like a mighty wall he was. Mighty enough to stop anything that ran against me. Hadn't he through anything, Mugwump was a wall so strong that he could stop anything.

What would happen if they ran together? Would the runner who couldn't be stopped, be stopped? Or would the wall who could stop anything, not do it? Oh, but both of these things were impossible together. They couldn't both happen, and so—if the Huffen and Mugwump bumped together — minceeant! That's what Daddy Ringtail said. Oh my yes, Mugwump and the Huffen were going to make minceeant of themselves, it seemed.

For there came the Huffen running fast—fast—faster. Waiting for him was Mugwump Monkey like a mighty wall. The wall stood still, and the runner came closer and closer. They were about to kermash together! About to make minceeant! And then—

"Swoosh!" was the noise of the Huffen passing. He hadn't bumped into Mugwump at all, but instead had run around him. No making of minceeant today. Happy day!

Fishnet Is Latest, Smartest Decorator Lace; Nylons And Cottons Are Colorfast And Durable

Lace had lost its fragility, is no longer confined to company occasions in the home. There are laces for every decor, including a stiff, coarse lace that makes a handsome wall covering. Here, we show lace (left) that's actually an all-nylon fishnet used over durable pink cotton. It makes a dress-making skirt of seeming fragility but really, of great durability. Cotton fishnet lace (right) makes yellow cafe curtains used in this Provincial setting. The fishnet is completely washable, is sunfast and colorfast, lets in both light and air. It's budget-priced.

By GAILLE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor

NEW YORK—Lace is moving from the windows to the walls of modern homes. It has ceased to be acceptable in fancy displays at the parlor windows, festooned with blue satin bows.

Because of an entirely new approach to lace, the possibilities for home decoration are endless.

A problem wall for instance, might get brand new sparkle from the all-over application of a coarse, stiff fishnet made up of rounded squares and intended for just such decoration. These fishnets come in high fashion colors for the home—flame, hot chocolate, lemon peel, mist gray, cherry red, gold and white.

But the fishnet also comes in a variety of other weaves, starting with a fine, square mesh that resembles filet and ending up with very coarse weave. It is available by the yard and in ready-made cafe curtains as well. These curtains have woven-in-loops for quick, easy hanging. They also come in many widths and lengths.

Lace curtains have been adapted to suit every room type, from the formal period interior to the contemporary. There are all-over patterns and border designs in florals, geometrics, stylized motifs, plaids and stripes, plain filets and point d'esprit.

To aid you in being your own decorator, these patterns may be had in fabric by the yard, in panels, tailored pairs and tiers.

Lace tablecloths have been brought up to date, too, from the day when grandmother brought out her good lace cloth for company dinners at Thanksgiving and Christmas. The new cloths have smart contemporary styling in high-style colors and pastels. They can fit into the extremely modern decor with ease.

A current demand for round tables has naturally created a corresponding demand for round cloths. This has been met in lace. Some of these are semi-sheer cotton in pastel shades and floral patterns. Others are all-nylon in floral designs or pastels.

One of the new lace cloths has alternating squares of coarse and fine fishnet, creating interesting texture. Another has diamond-shaped segments defined by open mesh. Some of these textured cloths are reversible.

To return to curtains, when you pick them for your home it's best to stay with these decorative rules:

Curtains should hang to the sill, or to the bottom of the window frame or to the floor. Any in-between length is wrong. They should be about twice the width of the window, to insure proper fullness and adequate privacy.

Rooms that do not get much light need a sheer, open weave, while large rooms with plenty of light can take a heavier weave.

New Gains Made In Half-Size Fashion

By GAILLE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor

NEW YORK—For the woman who wears half-sizes, fashion is just so much twaddle unless she can find clothes that really fit. Not only should they fit, they should do things for her: make her eyes sparkle, her skin glow, her figure look young and firm.

She's not just looking for something with which to cover herself; this she could accomplish by using a barrel or a tarpaulin.

In these days of the shrunken dollar, no woman relishes paying out money for alterations. She feels she has the right to clothes that fit at the outset. And it still isn't easy for her to find what she wants—handsome clothes that are right for her figure.

Half-size dresses too often look as if they'd been planned for a figure not only mature but plump. Each season, however, that half-size dress, suit and coat make new gains. As an example, we show here a Winter suit (left) for a half-size figure.

Designed by David Lieberman in a nubby tweed, it has a double-breasted jacket over a six-gore skirt. Jacket is collared and lined with soft, warm alpaca.

Modified fullness is used (right) for figure flattery in a coat by this same designer. In small-curl poodle fabric, it has a snug, young beaver collar. Sleeves are widely cuffed in beaver.

The program will open with the double chorus arrangement of "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" by Oke. Selected portions of the Bach motet, "Jesu, Priceless Treasure," will be included in the first part of the program.

The second group of numbers will feature selections depicting events in the life of Christ as portrayed in the festive seasons of the church year—Advent, Christmas, Lent and Easter. Included will be "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel," "Rocking Carol" by Harris, "Jesu Bambino" by Yon, and the dramatic "Go to Dark Gethsemane" by T. Tertius Noble.

The program will close with a varied group of selections. Among them will be the tender "Jesu Dulcis" by Victoria, "If Ye Love Me" by the 18th Century English composer, Tallis, the impressive "God's Time" by John Sacce and the inspiring "Crede" by Gretchaninoff. The last number will feature a bass soloist.

Admission for the Midland concert will be 40 cents for children through the age of 12 and 41.20 for adults. Tickets are available at Albert Kelley's and the First National Bank building.

Persons desiring tickets also may telephone 4-4893 and they will be delivered.

Spiritual Diary for Lent

The righteous shall live by faith.—Galatians 3:11.

Today's Message

Righteousness consists of beautiful deeds of mercy and sincere words of love. Such righteous deeds and words spring up from one's faith-in-Jesus-Christ-as-our-Saviour like crocus cups and daffodils spring up from our garden's bulbs. This shows us why righteous people live the life of faith in Jesus. Their lives are enriched by the touches of the supreme type of behavior as experienced through faith in Him.

Righteous living in the Christian faith guides the soul away from false lights and untrustworthy guides. It saves us from becoming fascinated by evil appearances. We find ourselves conquering temptations with terrific blows as strong as those of the battering ram.

Righteous living in the Christian faith lightens earthly troubles and often changes them into trifling discomforts. Harmful thistles of iniquity are destroyed before they are able to sprout from within us. The works of the flesh fall and the holy, beautiful life of faith wins an eternal victory.

Today's Prayer

O God and Father of us all, if life's experiences are not controlled by faith in Jesus as our Saviour and Redeemer, we pray Thee to guide our living into the knowledge of such loveless as Jesus' name. Amen. (From "The Spiritual Diary," published by Austin-Phelps, Inc., Copyright 1951, by Bennie Caroline Hall, Editor. Distributed by NEA Service.)

Marine Infantry Group Proposed

Further plans for an infantry unit of the Marine Corps reserve being formed at the Midland Air Terminal were announced Saturday by First Lt. Thomas W. Turner, inspector-instructor.

The unit will be known as the 47th Special Infantry Company. It is authorized six officers and 150 enlisted men, all of whom will be civilians. In addition there is a small staff of regular Marines on duty.

Capt. Mima M. Brantly of Midland recently was appointed commanding officer of the company, by the commandant of the Marine Corps. A graduate of the Virginia Military Institute, Captain Brantly is a reservist who served throughout the late war both as an artillery instructor and as operations officer of a battalion in the First Marine Division on Okinawa. The company will have 24 four-hour training periods a year, and will attend summer camp at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot at San Diego, Calif., for two weeks.

The Marine Corps is occupying training facilities at buildings 8-11 and T-121 at the Midland Air Terminal. Men from 17 to 32, both veterans and non-veterans, are eligible for consideration. At the present time the company is being organized, there is a particular need for enlisted Marine reservists with supply and administrative experience.

All members of the unit will receive pay, promotion, uniforms, retirement credit, training and other benefits. There also will be an athletic and social program. Men eligible for selective service have an opportunity through reserve participation to accumulate rank and seniority that will be advantageous should they be ordered for induction. By arrangement with Selective Service officials, unit members may then select the Marine Corps as their branch of service for active duty.

Under a recently announced Marine Corps policy, most veteran members are exempt from involuntary recall to active duty, except in case of war or national emergency declared by Congress. These Leatherneck veterans of Korea and World War II are expected to form the leadership nucleus of the company. Interested persons may reach Lieutenant Turner at the training center by calling 4-6863.

Pumps Lead Fashion Parade Of New Spring Shoes

Slim Lines, Higher Heels Are Featured

The suit, as always, is the leading Spring fashion, and the pump is, of course, the perfect suit shoe. This doesn't mean that this year's Spring parade will look like last year's. Because there's lots that's new and different in both suits and shoes.

In suits the texture is the new. Last year's fabrics made much of lumps and bumps, of rugged-looking tweedy types, bouclés and poodle cloths. This year's fabrics are much finer. There are tweeds, but they're lighter in weight, finer in weave. Gabardine, which was practically out of the picture, is back in the picture in a big way, and silk suits in faille and taffeta will blossom under fur coats if the weather is chill.

Lines are slimmer, as befits the new feeling in fabrics. Jackets are shorter—so are sleeves and lapels. The newer version of the barrel suit—still a smart Spring fashion—is much less bulky. The little jacket stops at the hipline, the sleeves are bracelet length, the narrow skirt has an inverted pleat at the back for grace in walking.

Jacket Softly Curved
The bolero suit often has a short squared off jacket, double breasted, reaching just to the waistline. In more formal types the jacket again is short, softly curved, with gored skirts and modified flare.

Black, navy, and beige are the big three in suit colors for early Spring wear with white touches almost universal.

The new pumps pick up to perfection the feeling in Spring costumes. They are lighter in weight, softer in construction, slimmer in line, higher as to heel. There is infinite variety in pumps. The sling is a big favorite, but the closed pump runs it a close second for early wear.

A tremendous hit fashion is the pointed toe patent leather pump, with low square cut vamp and very high curved heel. It's the most feminine and flattering of shoe fashions, wide open with a single curved strap, or closed front and back with open sides. So take your pick in the patent pump. It's the top of the new for Spring.

Preferred To Classics
Also new-looking, very smart and sophisticated is the tailored pump, and again with very high curved heel, in one of the beautiful soft shades of aniline calf, light wood tones and warm beiges.

This also sports a feminine touch in a low cut envelope vamp bound with contrasting leather. Women in the know are choosing these rather than the classic spectator to wear with their new more feminine tweeds and flannels.

Suede has its place, with the honors going to black and rich navy in more open types of pumps to wear with silk town suits and ensembles. In some instances suede is combined with faille in these dress pumps for more formal costumes.

Typical is the open toe-open back sandal pump with asymmetric crossed straps of black suede and faille, and high heel of the silk. Another dressy type of sling is in navy suede, with one side of the vamp closed, the other side opened by narrow striping, and a single curved strap to hold it on the foot.

Tongues of white are as important on these first Spring shoes as they are on the costumes. Never have there been so many white trimmed shoes as this Spring season. Introducing white as a major fashion theme right through Spring and Summer.

FORMAL WEAR—Patented comfort for formal wear this Spring and Summer comes in the increasingly popular slip-on moccasin style as pictured above.

World's Finest Shoes Are Made In United States

The U. S. produces the finest shoes in the world in terms of quality, fit and price. For example, American shoes are made in 12 different widths, and most shoe stores carry from five to 10 of these widths.

However, in most civilized countries of the world, shoes are carried in only three widths: narrow, medium, and wide, and many stores stock only one or two of these. In fact, in some countries even today, shoes are made with no distinction in shape between "right" and "left."

Another comparison: A pair of men's leather shoes selling for $9 in the U. S. would cost the equivalent of $100 or more in at least half the countries of the world, in ratio to the income of the population of those countries.

All of which should make up appreciate the "luxury" of the shoes on our feet—a luxury which we take for granted.

LAST TAKES TIMBER
About 900,000 pairs of men's and boys' lasts are made annually. Thirty-six pairs of rough blocks from which lasts are made can be taken from the average 16-foot maple log. About 27,500 maple trees were axed and sawed in 1950 to supply the wood for lasts on which men's shoes were made in 1951. It takes six to 12 months to process a last.

WHAT'S FASHION-RIGHT
There are fashion-right clothes to suit every purse. The big thing to remember is that each part of the costume must fit in with every other part.

SHOE COSTS LOWERED
In 1900 it took one man two days to produce a pair of men's shoes. Today the average per pair is 93 hours for a pair of men's shoes.

WOOD ONCE USED
In 1772 wooden pegs were used to attach the sole to the uppers of shoes.

GOLD NUMBERS—Gold is back in both casual shoes and evening slippers as shown here in glittering ankle strap naked sandals with formal separates for cocktail or dinner wear. The halter bodice is of black crepe and the skirt of hammered satin.

KEEP THIS IN MIND
When buying shoes—keep in mind what they will be worn with, when and where they will be worn.

WHEN YOU THINK OF FINE SHOES YOU THINK OF BARNES

Footwear Styles Are Created By Combining Artistry, Craftsmanship

NO STRINGS ATTACHED—Newest smartest shoes for men arrive this Spring with no strings attached! Their basic design is that of the "loafer" which long has been a favorite with men, re-styled as shown above to become as neat and trim as any shoe ever designed for the masculine foot. Now they're called slip-ons and there is a design for wear on every occasion from sport, through business to the formal affair.

Each year the American shoe industry creates and introduces the fantastic number of 250,000 new shoe styles—more than all the other countries of the world combined. Moreover, the industry repeats this performance year after year. In a mere four years, it creates 1,000,000 new shoe fashions.

This is a tribute to the creative genius and ingenuity of the industry's shoe designers. It also is an indication of why the U. S. shoe industry is the world leader in shoe fashions.

Although we "import" shoe fashion ideas from all over the world, most are born right here. For example, such styles as the baby doll last and the wedge heel came out of New York; open-toe shoes out of Miami; casual footwear out of California.

Every new shoe style is carefully planned much in advance of each season, sometimes by as much as a year or more. The shoe designer puts together a rare combination of artistry, craftsmanship and fashion analysis.

Practical And Adaptable
It is not enough that the shoe be created as a beautiful work of art in its design. It also must fit into practical shoemaking needs; that is, the shoe must fit the foot, and is practical to make from the manufacturer's standpoint. And lastly it must be adapted to forthcoming fashion trends.

A careful advance study is made of clothing fashion trends—of clothing textures, patterns, colors, materials, surface finishes and overall styles (lines and contours, etc.). Shoe designers work closely with all branches of the clothing and accessory industries.

But still other factors are carefully considered. Something called "public mood," for example. Is the public ready to accept a certain style? The designer also keeps an eye on sociological changes. For example, trends to casual or outdoor living mean changes in clothing and shoe fashions. Increased travel or resort activities mean an increased demand for adaptable shoe fashions.

Tested By Experience
But the creation of a new shoe style is only the beginning. Once the designer or "stylist" has created the shoe it passes before the experienced analytical eye of the shoe manufacturer and his staff. Out of every 10 such creations, they may accept only three or four. Then sample or model shoes are made of these selected designs.

These samples then go before another critical board—the shoe retailer and his staff. Out of the three or four only one may be selected. This shoe goes into production, and a full run of sizes, heel heights and colors in that shoe is delivered to the retailer before the season's opening, along with numerous other styles he has selected.

Keep in mind that up to this point all these new fashions have passed through a gauntlet comprised of the most fashion-conscious people in the industry. The selected new styles have passed a grueling test, chosen from an original group of hundreds. But the final and most severe test of all has yet to be faced: acceptance of rejection by the public. It is also a test of the judgment of the shoe retailer, manufacturer and stylist or designer.

Public Approves
The fact that the great majority of new styles that reach the shoe store are well received by the public is a tribute to the judgment and experience of those in the industry who create and develop new fashions.

A woman has just bought a new Spring suit of a certain color, pattern, texture and lines. She's pleasantly surprised to see in the store windows just the perfect "go-with" shoe to coordinate with her new costume.

Of course, as you can now see, this perfect harmony of shoes with costume was no accident or coincidence. All was meticulously planned and tested many months before.

FIRST SHOE STORE

The first exclusive retail shoe store in the U. S. was founded in 1794 at 132 Broad Street, Boston, Mass., by Quincy and Harvey Reed. This first retail shoe store was open for business only on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Australia had 1,286,000 telephones in 1931.

WATCH POSTURE

The first essential to healthy feet is an interest in the correct method of standing and walking. This will tend to increase the efficiency and lessen the fatigue of the average individual. In standing or walking the feet should point straight ahead of the body and be parallel to each other or slightly toed in.

Americans Best Shod Of All Folk

It may come as a surprise to most Americans to know that the fine shoes we take for granted are a fantastic luxury for most of the people of the world. Some three-fourths of the world's 2,500,000,000 people don't wear footwear, chiefly because they can't afford it.

Many of these people, who live in warm climates like Africa and India, go barefoot. Or they wear a cheap carpet slipper such as used in many South and Central American countries; or the cheap padded cotton slipper common to Chinese natives. Footwear made of grass, wood, hemp, rag, felt and other similar materials are found in various parts of the world.

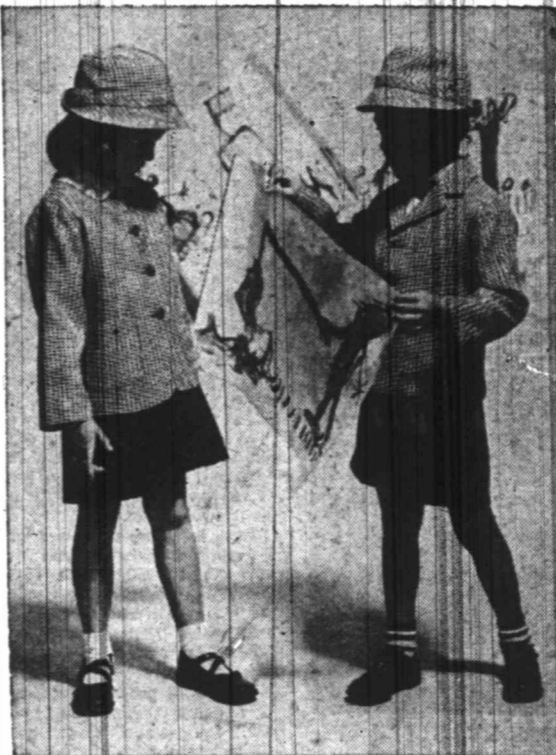

Of the 1,300,000,000 pairs of leather shoes produced annually throughout the world, the U. S. makes and uses more than 40 per cent of the total. If these 1,300,000,000 pairs were equally distributed, it would provide about one-half a pair to each person in the world. The average American's share is over three pairs—the only nation in the world to enjoy this three-pairs-per-year luxury.

Comparisons Cited
By comparison, how do other countries fare in shoe consumption? In Canada, the average person consumes 2.70 pairs a year; in Sweden 1.30; France, 1.10; Brazil, 0.77; Yugoslavia, 0.30; India, 0.10; and China, 0.02 pairs.

The United States produces more shoes than all the 25 European countries (Russia included) combined. It produces twice the number of pairs as all of Asia, South America and Africa combined. Of the 14 North American countries, the U. S. accounts for 98 per cent of the total output of footwear.

Shoes produced in North America would, if equally distributed among the population of this continent, allow 2 1/2 pairs per person; those produced in Europe would allow one pair per European each year; those in South America, four-fifths of a pair; those in Africa, one-fourth of a pair; and those in Asia, one-tenth of a pair per person.

USE FEWEST SHOES
The continent of Asia has the largest population in the world, but the lowest per capita production and consumption of leather footwear.

THE EASTER PARADE—Gleaming patent strap shoes for her and classic brown calf oxfords for him, will give their new Spring outfits a handsome base. GLISTERING PATENT LEATHER—A combination of the fluid line in a sling pump of glistering black patent and of the tiniest of straps, of porcelain kid-skin as shown above reflects what's smart and new in shoes for this Spring. The delicate open strips cross under the patent band and form a "V" throat.

Gay And Giddy Pumps Shown As Complement For New Prints

If you love pretty shoes, get on your toes. Prints are back in fashion, and the shoes to go with them are wide open pumps and sandals in the most exciting colors seen in years.

Prints for resort and Summer and to wear under silk coats for Spring, make much of pale backgrounds with distinctive one, two or three color patterns in subtle or vivid shades. The ground of the print may be off-white, banana or bamboo color, pale grey or muted pastels.

One of the smart tricks is to pick up the predominating color in the design in a naked high-heeled sandal of kidskin or suede. Pale or deeper yellow greens are new looking in these print patterns and there are leathers that exactly match them.

Violet on pale grey is another favorite combination with a matching banded sandal in gleaming violet kidskin. Two new accessory colors that show up in these shoes for prints and pastels are buttercup yellow and brilliant exciting coral red.

Even More Colorful

Even more colorful are the shoes that combine one, two and three colors, especially if the dress or suit be a monotone print in the popular muted greys, blues and beiges. This new red handsomely combines eggshell and royal blue in one strip pump.

Eggshell and palest ice-green make the freshest and coolest of combinations. Lilac, mauve and deep violet are a stunning triad. Palm-green, mauve and bright red are exotic.

There literally is no end to the possibilities in this new trend of fashion—in shoes you buy for fun and that easily may be the highlight of your Spring-into-Summer costume. They're a practical fashion too for they go perfectly with the white, natural and pastel clothes for later on.

High Heels Originally Developed To Increase Height Of Wearer

No one is really sure how or where high heels originated. We do know that as far back as 715 B. C. shoes were worn with very thick soles and heels to increase the height of the wearer. The high heel is supposed to have evolved from this.

Other explanations are that the people of ancient desert tribes put high heels on their shoes to keep their feet off the burning sands. And still another story—that horse-riding warriors of centuries past used high heels to keep their feet from slipping out of the stirrup. A story as plausible as any is that the high heel was invented by a pretty girl who was always being kissed on the forehead.

Anyhow, the high heel got its real impetus a few centuries back when Catherine de Medici came to Paris as the bride of Henry II. Cathy was very short, so she wore high-heel shoes to increase her height. When the regal ladies spied the new style, the high heel fad rapidly spread through all the courts of Europe, and from there to the common folk.

Wasn't Restricted

Nor was the high heel restricted to women's shoes. In the Elizabethan era the male dandies wore shoes with heels three and four inches in height, in colors of bright red, yellow, green.

It wasn't until about 1890, however, that the high heel met approval in the U. S. At first these were wood imported from France. But there was the problem of attaching them securely to shoes, and preventing the heel from buckling under in walking. American inventiveness, however, soon devised machines and methods of doing this. Today it's down to an accurate science.

Shoe heels now are made of wood, leather, fibreboard, rubber, plastic and composition materials. The great majority of heels for women's shoes are made of wood, usually with a rubberized topfit. There are countless styles of these heels—wedges, spool, Continental, Louis, Cuban, ditchboy, spike, Spanish, French, square, novelty, etc.

Shoemen have a trade jargon to designate accurately the height of a heel. A heel is known as 1 1/8 or 1 3/8 or 2 1/8, etc. A heel is measured by eighths of an inch. The figure "8" denotes eight eighths, or one inch. Thus, an 1 1/8 heel denotes a heel one and 1/8 inches in height; a 1 3/8 is a two-inch heel; a 2 1/8 is 2 1/2 inches in height; a 4/8 heel is one-half inch high.

The popular rubber heel is a simple but marvelous device that has been a blessing to foot comfort and shock-resistance in walking. Strangely, it was invented by accident almost 60 years ago.

A printer named Humphrey O'Sullivan had sore feet that ached and fatigued him as he worked at his machine. One day he got a bright idea of placing a resilient rubber mat on the floor in front of the machine. This gave his feet much comfort.

But his fellow workers, as a practical joke, would hide the rubber mat from him. Necessity being the mother of invention, O'Sullivan countered with an idea. Why not nail a piece of the rubber mat to his shoes? And so was born the rubber heel, of which some three million pairs a year are used today.

Footwear For Junior Gets Some Tricky New Treatments

There's a shoe classic that never goes out, but it's showing up with a lot of new tricks this season. Even the classic oxford is getting the idea of mesh in their shoes.

They think it looks cooler, lighter, smarter, and the small boy is going to be very favorably impressed with a four-eyel oxford of brown calf with a U shaped insert of natural or matching nylon mesh on the vamp.

More important to him will be the cushioned or sponge rubber sole which enables him to bounce along on hot pavements with the greatest of ease. If his friends are wearing cushion soles—and ten to one they are—be sure he must have them too.

The oxford goes well for school and dress too. In the casual field, very small boys go for tan, bright red or blue barefoot sandals with open or closed toes.

Bigger boys love their moccasins, particularly the new slip-on types with stitched vamp and shaped band around the instep.

Brown is the leading color, but these casual shoes also may be found in navy, deep red or some of the very smart new woody tan and line shades of polished leather.

For dancing school and party wear, the classic black patent leather pump with flat grosgrain bow has been revived as an important fashion. There are even twin patent leather pumps for men and women, boys and girls.

At the other extreme are sturdy denim and canvas oxfords with cushion or sponge rubber soles, plain or with leather trim, for all around back wear.

As weather gets warm, watch for a big return in white and pastel slippers for little girls. Time was when mothers dressed their three-year-olds in pastel organdies or muilins with slippers to match—and the cycle has come around again. It couldn't be more charming.

Skilled Creations

A white kidskin one-strap slipper has a vamp insert of white nylon lace mesh. A pale pink one has a vamp section of pink shantung. A pale blue has leaf shaped cutouts. There's no end to the shoemaking skill that's gone into these little creations.

Some are done in more exotic colors than the candy pastels—Coral, for instance, or buttercup yellow, or a pale yellow green. Lilac is adorable—either or in combination with a slightly deeper violet. This color range of mauve to violet has made a great hit in children's clothes—not only dresses, but little suits and coats, so there's a place this Spring and Summer for a lilac slipper.

YARD TO A PAIR

The average pair of men's shoes requires a yard of welt. If all the welting used annually was placed in a single ribbon around the equator, it would circle the earth almost three times, or a total of nearly seventy-one thousand miles.

COMFORT, STYLE—For foot comfort and style too the slip-on custom styled alligator tasseled "loafer" model shown above is the height of luxury.

First A Fad, Mesh Shoes Now Standard

It started as a fad—now it's a fashion. When babies wear mesh booties and their fathers wear mesh sports shoes, it really looks as though mesh were here to stay—at least for some time to come.

Mesh has a completely new look for Spring '53. Last year it was having growing pains. Designers had not fully realized the possibilities of using mesh to give shoes that lighter look that is so much in fashion.

In town shoes, now, nylon mesh combines with suede, patent or calf to give pumps and sandals a new delicacy and charm.

Typical of the new feeling is a high banded sandal for the town coat or suit, combining black nylon mesh with black patent. It's an open sling, on a high heel with three wide bands of black mesh edged with patent riding high on the instep and a very narrow band of the patent to form the back of the shoe. Couldn't be prettier, more flattering with one of the new black silk town coats, or formal black suits.

In a slightly more closed sling pump of navy suede and mesh, the buckled strap and heel are of the suede, and curving bands of suede make a graceful pattern on the mesh vamp.

Eggshell Mesh

Natural or eggshell mesh has done a lot to give a new flair and beauty to spectator and casual shoes. Black patent is exceedingly smart with this in narrow stripings or half and half treatments. Eggshell with tan leather either in stripings or with mesh vamp and back and heel of leather make shoes that look crisp, cool and fresh. White or natural mesh also is combined with brilliant reds, blues and green in soft glove-type leathers to make some of the more exotic of the casual shoes, wedgies, platforms and similar styles.

Another very important fashion is the all-over white shoe in smooth leathers combined with mesh in banded or striping designs, also in open and closed pumps. For cocktail and evening slippers nylon mesh in new textured weaves, embroidered beaded or in very lacy patterns makes the strictest of dancing shoes.

MEN'S SHOES FIT BETTER

In 1875 the only important thing about fit of men's shoes was, "Is the size BIG enough?" Now, men's shoes can be fitted in sizes from 8 to 18, in widths AA to EEE.

WAGES GO UP

Shoe workers at the close of the Revolutionary War earned an average of 50 cents to 70 cents per day. Today the average pay for all shoe workers is $52 weekly.

First of the original 13 states to declare its independence was New Hampshire.

Spring Shoes For Men Pace Trend To Comfort, Trimness

Latest Styles Of Footwear Give The Gentlemen A Break

Gone is the day when a man had a best suit and a business suit, a pair of black shoes and one of tan. Practically every house that's built these days has some sort of a shoe closet for the man of the house where he can keep his various shoes for his various activities in neat and orderly rows.

One of the things that has changed the shoe picture is the wide acceptance of the new synthetic materials, as well as linens and silks, for men's warm weather suits. Where men congregated they brag about the coolness and crispness of their Orlons and Nyloons, Vicaras and Acrilans, their real or synthetic silk suits.

These suits go to town all during the hot weather. They are the "commuter's special," since according to the books they neither wrinkle nor crush; raindrops don't hurt them and possibly they look cooler than they are!

Spectator Types
Partly thanks to them we have the rush on trim spectator types, brogues, oxfords, slip-ons in combinations of mesh and leather which strike exactly the right note with these warm weather suit fashions.

In these new suiting blends, solid colors predominate in linen types, although there are some muted multicolors and self patterns. Neat checks and fine stripes also are approved for the town tropical type of suit. In the more sports types fancy weaves are popular and plaids are steadily rising in acceptance.

choose some of the city types of the slip-on shoe in preference to the oxfords of other seasons.

If he wears tweed jacket and slacks to town, he will adopt the slip-on with moccasin front and raised seam design, of the classic brogue or wall fast oxford. Good with this town-and-country type of costume also is the plain toe Blucher, smart in grain or Cordovan leathers. A lighter brighter color for these less formal shoe styles is Ambertone, which promises to be popular especially with younger wearers.

For Sports Wear
As for sports clothes, with his red sailcloth slacks and violently patterned skirt he is smart if he sticks to classic gilles, oxfords or slip-ons, mostly with cushion soles, in plain white natural color, or dark blue in suede, fabric or mesh, alone or in combination.

If his taste in sports clothes is fairly conservative, he can let go in the shoe division, for never have there been such exciting and colorful fashions offered—in leathers, in straws, in fabrics to make his footwear a conservation piece.

FEET GROW LARGER
Years ago, size 4 or 5 was considered the average for a sixteen-year-old. Now because of greater foot freedom of the modern girl, size 7 or 8 would not be considered outsize.

U. S. A. BEST SHOD
The United States is the only country in the world that normally has an annual consumption of footwear in excess of three pairs per person.

SILK HATS FINE FOR WEDDINGS— Sales Charts Zoom Higher On Popularity Of Homburgs

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

Before his stay in the White House is done, Dwight Eisenhower may do some noble things in the fields of domestic affairs and foreign relations. But, as far as the haberdashers of America are concerned, Ike already has made his mark as a Great President.

With one gesture, he's done more to sell homburgs than any man since King Edward VII. And His Royal Highness is the guy who invented the thing. Or, at least, commanded that it be invented. Ever since, it's been a reasonably popular style of head-warmer, but nobody ever got wealthy selling homburgs.

Now It Grows
However, because of his inauguration costume, homburgs are now selling like hot cakes. In fact, some hot cake people have been heard to mutter, "Boy, I wish hot cakes were selling like homburgs."

"We've doubled the sale of blacks," said one store manager. He meant black homburgs.

"Fifty per cent of hats sold this last week," said another manager, "have been homburgs."

"The homburg business," said a third manager, "is running one-thing higher than last February."

PRESIDENT'S PRECEDENT is the black homburg President Eisenhower wore to his inauguration. The haberdashers approve his hat.

You get the picture. The respectable homburg, which has accounted for only about five per cent of all hat sales for years and years, is currently a hot hat. So hot, in fact, that some stores are completely sold out. This was especially true in Washington just before the inauguration, when dignitaries suddenly were caught with their silk hats showing.

Easter Tradition
Next in importance to paying is red-bright red polished calf or kidskin. Mothers have discovered that the little red shoe goes with everything and children love them. Red with navy, red with grey, red with tan or with black and white check. Give her a little box handbag to match and she really will go to town.

Black Suede Typical
After red comes navy blue, not the very dark navy, but a slightly lighter shade which is also important in Spring costumes. It's Spring and an old Easter tradition—the blue costume with matching accessories—and it still will hold good for '33 even though it doesn't walk away with the whole show.

The Bull Market
"But there can be no doubt about it," The homburg business has been stimulated. I'm bullish about homburgs."

At the Hat Corporation of America — which makes Knox, Dobbs and Cavanaugh hats — they didn't know too much, yet. An executive said, "There's a definite interest in 'homburgs,' but he said the reorders hadn't started to come in, so they had no idea just how definite this definite interest was."

Spike Heels Add Slim Lines To New Shoes
The heel may be low, but the fashion is high. This year there is more excitement in heels than in any other one feature of shoe design. "From wafers to stiletto to tower" is the way one enthusiastic designer describes the new heel for Spring.

Women will walk again on slender spikes of Spanish type, which makes the foot look slimmer, smaller, more alluring. At the other extreme they will walk in infinite comfort on the pancake heel which is a new feature of flats.

In between there is the widest choice of fascinating new designs for the shoe that used to be the dull member of a woman's wardrobe—the sensible walking shoe. It's still sensible, easy to walk in but it manages to look as smart as the most frivolous dress shoe. And it's the new heels that make the difference.

Built-Up Heel
The old built-up leather heel on stolid lines has given place, first to the baby French, and then a whole succession of new designs which give a fillip. There's the keg heel, the spool heel, the heel in tiers, the rainbow heel, which is made up of layers of contrasting leathers. There are square heels, and rounded heels which follow the curve of the back of the shoe to a narrow tapered point.

Just to emphasize the importance of the heel, in many instances it is done in contrasting leathers or colors or both. The patent leather heel is a feature with suedes and calfskins in Spring shoes, and with white, or a set of bright lines or shantung in resort and Summer shoes.

A pale blue shoe may sport a navy heel, or a pale pink shoe one of bright red kidskin, with perhaps a touch of oxford to match. Red heels on black mesh shoes look wicked, and jeweled heels are eye-catchers on the dance floor.

Original markers of the Mason-Dixon line were of oolite limestone, made in England.

Straw Fabrics, Colors Start New Vogue In Footwear Styles

Real straws, synthetic straws, straw cloths—straws in white, in natural, in high shades and multicolor—these are being made up in new shoe designs for all sorts of occasions and at all sorts of prices.

It's even started a vogue in leathers—suedes, calf and kidskin dyed in pale straw tints. A smooth leather called Panama, in that shade, is quite a sensation.

Straw may be only a touch of braiding on a vamp or outlining the throat of a shoe. It may be a whole shoe, or cleverly combined with suede, smooth leathers, linen shantung or mesh.

Some of the smartest casual shoes have very high triple spool wedges made of raffia or other straw weaves, with bands of the straw to hold the shoe in place or serve as decoration on a high throated vamp of fabric or leather.

Natural Shade Popular
Because of the rage for beige and natural tones in Spring and Summer costumes, the natural straw is most in demand — particularly effective when combined with white. Strong reds, blues and yellows are very smart in the rugged raffia weaves in shoes for casual wear or with separates for informal warm weather cocktail and dinner wear.

Clusters of gay little straw flowers appear on white or pale linen shoes or on natural straw cloth. Very pretty too on black, white or navy mesh to wear with the wonderful new embossed dark cotton party dresses.

One of the most spectacular of the new straw shoes is a very high-heeled pump, cut low in the vamp, of white straw cloth embroidered with jewel-eyed flying birds in black or navy. It's very high style—and the kind of shoe that makes a costume. At the other extreme, but equally James Morgan, 24, who lives in Bethel, Alaska, 75 miles from the Bering Sea, came here looking for work. When night came he went to city hall seeking a blanket to keep warm, finally deciding on jail.

Back home he said the temperature drops to 63 below zero but people wear furs and parkas. He was surprised not to see a single parka here.

Slippers With Single Strap Rated High For Little Girls

Never has shoes for little girls been prettier. Mothers will welcome the return to popularity of the one strap slipper in new version of the beloved Mary Jane.

All the emphasis is on the new light look which is so important

NEW SHOES FOR BOYS—Lacings, stitching and cords on blucher type oxfords are prominent in The New in Shoes for boys this Spring. Designed for wear and with a sturdy look, they are lighter and more supple than in the past. Smooth and grained leathers in combination are both popular. Bluchers with moccasin fronts are smart.

in grown-up shoe fashions this year. For play and school there are still some mud-guard treatments, which were so popular this Fall. Mothers like them for their practical features, but for dress-up shoes the smooth vamp is the thing and the strapped shell pump is the most in demand.

Adding to the light look are cut-out treatments and insertions of nylon mesh. Nylon mesh was introduced last Spring in children's shoes. This season it is handled more delicately to give lacy effects which are charming.

Black Suede Typical
Typical is a little black suede slipper with eyelet perforations backed by black nylon mesh to make a little spray design. Or, the vamp of a kidskin slipper has a heart shaped mesh insert in lace pattern.

In shoes for slightly older girls, the newest thing is the sabot strap, shaped across the instep. In polished calf these shoes look smart indeed with that first suit which is such an important event in the life of sub-debs from six to twelve.

NARROWER WIDTHS
In 1953 widths of men's shoes were limited to E and EE. Today men's shoes are available in widths from AA through A, B, C, D, E, EE and EEE.

Goodbye To Shoe Lace Blues—Loafers Are Going To Town

No more grunts and groans. No more bending down to tug at laces. No more "language" when the shoe string breaks. The newest, smartest men's shoes come with no strings attached. They're slip-on loafers, but a far cry from the easy-going Sloppy Joes that first introduced the loafer fad.

These are shoes to wear to business, to wear to town, to wear with tweeds and, in fact, about anywhere the average man goes. They have all the style of the time-tested classics, plus the slip-on comfort of the loafer.

They are strictly in line with the whole new trend in American dressing which is making the American man at once the most distinctive and the most comfortable male on the face of the globe.

Here are some new ideas for both town wear and country weekends.

With a hairline worsted town suit, a mudguard slip-on of polished cordovan leather with high pleated and elasticized vamp.

For the "new blue-grey herringbone" suit for Spring, nothing could be smarter than the wing tip medallion brogue in brown calf.

Hounds-Tooth Check

With a hounds-tooth check for town and country, wear another medallion tip perforated with U vamp of plain calf and high gored vamp in corovan leather.

Very plain, very smart, newest looking of all for business wear is the straight tip slip-on of brown or black calf with instep gore to step off his striped worsted town suit.

Remember the scream that went up when the first man wore his sport shirt tails out? Well, eyebrows were well elevated at the first pair of loafers that appeared here. And rightly so, because the early loafers were just what the name implies.

NEW YORK—The sun clothes that comes out of California bear the hallmark of people who are used to living in the sun, by the sea, in flowered patios, by pools and on beaches.

This year, California designers tell a story in black and white. This is a story prevalent in resort fashions, its sharp contrasts flattering to the skin, particularly the skin that's been turned a lovely golden tan. Equal parts of black and white are used for separates, thus allowing for the mixing and matching to which American women are accustomed.

FOR GROWING CHILDREN—For the younger set, The New in Shoes for this Spring feature fashions in mudguards and moccasins of the sturdy type as shown above. The step in follows the trend in men's shoes. Stitchings and perforations add a smart touch. Looped strap treatment reflects a new look.

SLENDER MODEL—The barest essential of strapping a sandal is shown in the above of pale kidskin. The darker tone heel accentuates its slenderness.

This letter presents one of the most difficult of human problems, for it necessitates the careful balancing of what the writer owes herself against what she owes her aging parents.

"Please answer this soon. You have so much common sense and I can't seem to see my own problem in the unbiased way a stranger would.

"I'm a schoolteacher. My brothers make more money than I do and have no families, yet will not help to support our parents. My fiancé is also a teacher and the town-people will criticize him if we abandon my parents to get married.

"My fiancé is getting awfully discouraged. I don't blame him too much. He has to help his own father. But I am 36 and I do so want my own home and a husband and children.

"My brothers say that young people shouldn't have to pay for their parents keep as long as there are old-age pensions, etc. What can I do? I feel like a caged animal.

"I don't want to be mean to my parents. They are splendid and it is not their fault that they have no money. I've always been generous with them, but I'm so tired of being a martyr.

Brothers Could Help

"My brothers live out of town and it wouldn't bother them to have the old folks on old-age assistance. They haven't paid one cent, except two-dollar Christmas presents in five years, and I've been always broke because I paid for dentures, hearing aids, and their general support."

"Well, let's try to strike a balance. You owe your parents something, to be sure. You owe them, love, respect, attention, and whatever financial help you can give them without becoming a martyr.

You do not owe them your own chance at happiness even though it means you can't continue to be the sole support of your parents.

That is where your brothers come in. Work out a minimum budget for your parents and divide it into thirds. Then write your brothers that you are being married immediately and that you expect each of them to kick in one third of your parents' monthly budget.

No matter what your brothers say, get married. Once they see you mean business, they will realize they are now dealing with a self-respecting sister who is through with shouldering their responsibilities.

Shoe Stores Stock 60 Sizes To Insure Fit And Comfort

When you go into a shoe store and are fitted to a size seven shoe, does it mean that your foot is seven inches long? Not at all. Then what does it mean? How did we arrive at the number system for shoe sizes?

It's a strange and old story. In fact, more than 900 years old. Centuries ago, there was no such thing as a system for shoe sizes. Then in 1324, King Edward decided something should be done about it.

He began experimenting. One day he placed three barley corns end to end and found that they measured an inch. Moreover, he discovered that 99 barley corns placed end to end measured the same length of the longest normal foot.

Here was born the shoe sizing system still in use today. Three barley corns equal one inch; 39 equal 13 inches. So the longest normal foot size was called a 13, and all other sizes were graded down from that—three sizes (or three barley corns) to the inch.

Measuring Sizes

Today a full size in a shoe is equal to 1/3 of an inch (or one barley corn length), and a half size is equal to 1/6 of an inch.

Of course, the precise system of inches is used today, rather than barley corns, so that measurements are highly accurate. Also, foot length alone does not determine size. Besides over-all length, your foot is measured heel to ball, and for width.

The experienced eye of the fitter considers other factors such as height of the instep, width of the heel, height of the arch, etc. The original shoe sizing system has been greatly refined and improved.

We have several shoe sizing systems—American, French, Italian, English, etc. The American system provides the most accurate fit. For example, American shoes are made on more sizes—lengths and widths—than those of any other country. In many countries, shoes are made on only three widths—narrow, medium and wide—as compared with the 12 widths in the American footwear.

A well-stocked American shoe store will carry a minimum of some 60 different sizes in a single shoe—lengths from four to 11, widths from AAAA to E—for a man or woman. This requires a costly inventory.

For instance, a pair of shoes costs retailers $3. For the minimum 60 sizes his cost is $300. He must carry additional pairs in the popular size ranges, which may bring his cost up to $500.

Remember, this is only for one style of shoe.

He carries dozens of different styles, each in the same extensive size ranges. Moreover, with each season he must replace this stock. It adds up to a costly operation.

Strive For Improvement

The shoe industry has been trying constantly to improve shoe fitting. Back in 1880, half sizes were first introduced. A quarter century ago even quarter sizes were introduced—though they were later discarded because so much stock was required to fill a size range. Then came the "combination last"—for example, a shoe having a C width at the ball and an A width at the heel, to give precision fitting all around.

During the war, shoes for the WAC's were made in 148 different sizes—that is, one style of shoe with that enormous size range.

Girl looks in mirror, satisfied that her face is clean. Make-up and soil particles are picked up and held in solution by fluid cleanser that she merely spreads over face, without massage. She gently wipes it off with piece of cotton. Her next skin-care step is stimulation of local circulation with a "blushing" oil (above right). She feels the warm glow on her face as blood is brought to the surface, encouraging the skin to rid itself of wastes that cause sallowness.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

One continues to hear talk of "nourishing" or "feeding" the skin, as if it could eat its way to beauty! But more and more cosmetic houses have come to realize that women know that "eating" is not one of the skin's functions. Its functions are, instead, protection of the body's organs and elimination of bodily wastes.

Cosmetic houses putting their stress on cleansing stimulation and lubrication have taken the common-sense road to helping women in beauty because these three steps are intended to help the skin perform its natural functions.

The latest trend in skin-care cosmetics is toward fluids instead of cream. One of the pioneering firms in this development makes three basic skin-care preparations, all bottled.

Number one on the skin-care program of this firm is a fluid, lotion-type cleanser that you smooth over your face. No massage is necessary. The ingredients in the cleanser pick up the particles of make-up and dirt in a very few minutes and hold them in suspension. All you have to do is wipe off the soiled lotion with nothing in the formula can possibly clog or enlarge the pores.

Your own blood stream carries the vital nourishment from within, which helps take away that tired look and helps banish the little blemishes that come when sluggish skin is not eliminating waste properly. Stimulation applied externally, while only temporary in its effect, will help to counteract and blemishes. Last thing she does before getting under the sheets is apply a richly emollient blend of oils in fluid form (above center). The skin takes up as much moisture as it needs, leaving the surface soft and pliant (but free from grease that could soil pillows). The three products this girl uses are from a line of cosmetics the makers claim to be hypo-allergenic and free from pore-clogging ingredients. All items are in bottles.

You can keep your skin lubricated by daily use of this firm's third skin-care product—a richly emollient fluid that holds oils in suspension, providing moisture to keep the skin smooth, supple and youthful. You can wear it all day under make-up if your skin is exceedingly dry, but nightly use following your blushing routine is recommended by this house for all dry skins.

The oily skin has not been overlooked by this manufacturer. The firm makes an exceptionally free-lathering, hard-milled soap that can be used beneficially three times a day by the oily-skinned who will want to substitute its use for the lotion-cleanser.

Dry-skinned girls whose faces don't feel clean unless they use soap will want to wash off the lotion-cleanser. They may find this hypo-allergenic one agreeable to their sensitive skins.

When you awaken in the morning, this cosmetic firm suggests its fluid cleanser to remove the waste thrown off by the skin during the night. It makes a very mild lotion-type astringent with which to follow the cleanser.

This firm offers a complexion analysis service in some cities. The consultant looks at your skin through the window of a machine built to show her the skin's true condition. She can then prescribe a skin-care and make-up routine tailored to your individual needs.

STRAPS FOR GIRLS—New in straps for girls run the gamut as pictured above. Single straps are expected to be most popular this Spring. But The New in Shoes for her also offers double straps and straps in combinations of colors and materials. There is smooth, suede, reptile, patent with suede, and mesh with patent or smooth leathers.

More Participation In Coronation Asked

SINGAPORE—The Bishop of Singapore, Rt. Rev. H. W. Baines, states that bishops, statesmen and commanders from all over the Commonwealth should be asked to help at the Coronation service of Queen Elizabeth II in June.

Writing in the latest issue of the parish magazine, Courier, Rev. Baines said: "Bishops from the Queen's overseas realms and statesmen or commanders from the nations and communities of the Commonwealth should be invited to assist in the administration of the oath to the Queen and in placing the Imperial state crown upon her head."

Scientists can know the flow inside city water distribution pipe lines without having to dig a single ditch. Instead of working on actual pipes, they use a complex maze of electric light bulbs, wires and meters to feel the future pulse of underground networks.
