Second Atom Blast Lights Nevada Skies

LAS VEGAS, NEV.—(AP)—A brilliant atomic explosion was touched off on the Nevada desert early Tuesday with 53 aircraft—including 12 intercontinental B-36 bombers from Carswell Air Force Base, Fort Worth—flying on various missions overhead.

The Atomic Energy Commission's terse announcement about the presence of the planes said only that this was the first time such a large number of aircraft had participated in a test.

The AEC said the blast was fired from a 300-foot tower on the Yucca Flat proving ground 73 miles from here. There was no hint as to what the missions of the planes might be or where they are based.

The main cloud seemed to divide as it soared rapidly upward and fanned out on top. Some 1,300 OI's in fatholes 4,000 yards from Ground Zero were observers of the latest test.

The shock wave, which takes about seven minutes to reach here from the explosion site, was audible as a low rumble but produced no jar. Observers said it was not as strong as last week's.

THE WORLD TODAY—

McCarthy Blasts At Bohlen Really Are Blows At Dulles

By JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator McCarthy, who for three years has been questioning the loyalty and security of many government officials, has reached a peak in the case of Charles E. Bohlen.

He says he is not willing to trust the judgment of the highest officials of government in determining this man's loyalty but would put his reliance upon a mechanical device.

McCarthy, not satisfied with the opinion of President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles that Bohlen is loyal and a good security risk, wants this 48-year-old State Department official tested with a lie detector.

Bohlen has been in the department 24 years. He's been investigated by the FBI. Eisenhower and Dulles have had access to the FBI report on him.

Both want him to be American ambassador to Moscow. They asked the Senate to confirm him. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee unanimously approved him after questioning Dulles for three hours.

McCarthy is not supposed to have seen this secret file. He didn't say he saw it. But no senator asked him how, then, he knew what was in it. At one point McCarthy talked of "rumors" about Bohlen.

But McCarthy further said the State Department's own security officer, R. W. Scott McLeod, whose job is checking on the employes for loyalty and security, disagreed with Dulles in clearing Bohlen.

McCarthy called this an untruth and said he understood McLeod had refused to clear Bohlen, although he said he hadn't talked with McLeod.

McCarthy's insistence that the Senate should hear testimony from McLeod raised a basic question: Suppose McLeod, whom no one seems able to find now, should testify publicly he thinks Bohlen is a poor security risk.

Whose judgment should the Senate accept: McLeod's or that of the man who hired him, his boss, the secretary of State, Dulles? In effect, in wanting McLeod heard, McCarthy was attacking Dulles' judgment.

If, as seems unlikely, the full Senate should vote against Bohlen, it would be the same as a vote of no confidence in Dulles' judgment and in that of Eisenhower, too.

That's why McCarthy's attack on Bohlen cuts far deeper than Bohlen. It cuts right into Dulles' fitness for his job.

Czechoslovak Freedom Liner Brings 29 Through Curtain

FRANKFURT, GERMANY (AP)—A Czechoslovak "freedom airliner" with 29 persons aboard escaped through the Iron Curtain Monday night and took refuge at the U. S. air base here.

An official American statement said the flight captain and "some of the passengers" planned the escape. They requested political asylum immediately upon landing.

U. S. officials indicated that genuine refugees would be allowed to stay in West Germany but that any aboard the plane who wanted to return to Czechoslovakia would be sent back.

The American-designed C-47 carried four crewmen and 25 passengers. It was flying from Prague to Bene, inside Czechoslovakia, when the chief pilot turned toward Germany.

Library Site, Amendments Head Facts Forum Agenda

The relocation of the city library and proposed amendments to the city charter will be on the agenda for discussion at the next Facts Forum meeting to be held at 8 p.m. April 1 on the second floor of the Midland Tower building.

Election of the following pro-tem officers also will take place: William Horton, president; Dr. H. Schlichtman, secretary; M. W. Frack, chairman of the board of directors; and board members Mrs. L. W. Leggett, P. J. Nicholson, J. R. Braue, C. G. Murray and G. Gillett, Jr.

The Midland group of the Facts Forum is barely over four months old and is a chapter of a National Facts Forum organization which originated in Dallas.

Purpose of the Facts Forum, explained Horton is to dispel public apathy concerning government by discussion of both sides of important issues. The group is civic and non-partisan, and meetings are open to the public.

"Membership in the group is presently limited to 49", Horton said, "but if enough people express interest in this type of open meeting we will establish more groups in Midland. It is necessary to keep the groups small so that everyone gets the chance to express himself."

Russians Reject U. S. Note On Aerial Shooting Scrape

MOSCOW—(AP)—Russia has rejected a U. S. protest against a shooting scrape involving an American plane in the Far East. A Kremlin note said the American craft made two "premeditated" violations of Siberian territory and fired first. The Soviet rejection printed in Russian newspapers Tuesday, counterdemanded that the U. S. government take steps to prevent future violations of Soviet borders by American planes.

A Moscow radio broadcast said the reply was delivered Saturday to the U. S. Embassy in the Soviet capital.

Planes Unharmed
The American protest had declared the March 15 incident—involving an Alaskan-based B-50 bomber which the Air Force reported on weather reconnaissance—occurred 25 miles off the coast of Siberia's Kamchatka Peninsula. It said a Soviet MIG-15 shot at the bomber, which then returned the fire. The U. S. Air Force said neither plane was damaged.

east of the Petropavlovsk base. One jet stayed overhead but the other swooped down firing. The American tall gunner fired only after the Russian fighter opened with its guns, the U. S. Air Force declared. The American portests had demanded disciplining of the Soviet pilot. It also called on the Russians to prevent recurrence of such incidents.

Senate Labor Panel Starts Taft-Hartley Revision Hearings

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Senate Labor Committee Tuesday started six weeks of hearings on revision of the controversial Taft-Hartley law despite a Democratic demand that the group wait for the Eisenhower Administration's views.

Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) and Senator Taft (R-Ohio), senior Republican on the group, decided to push ahead with the sessions even though Secretary of Labor Durkin has not made any recommendations. House hearings have been in progress more than a month.

Senator Murray (D-Mont), senior Democrat on the Senate committee, said he thought it had practice to proceed with the testimony until the Administration is ready to state what it wants.

"But I was overruled," he said.

President Eisenhower has included Taft-Hartley revision on an 11-point program of legislation he wants in this session but has not spelled out suggestions for change.

Taft, one of the authors of the 1947 labor-management relations law, has introduced amendments calling for 15 changes in the law, two of them designed to meet objections to the present law voiced by Eisenhower in the campaign last year.

Former Midland Teacher Is Wed

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Mary Maxyne Jackson, former Midland teacher, to Herbert L. Cadenhead on March 10 in Clovis, N. M.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted R. Jackson of Idalou and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cadenhead of Morton.

The newlyweds have returned from a wedding trip and now are living in Morton. Both were graduated in 1953 from Texas Technological College, Lubbock.

Sorority Slates Music Program

A program on music will be the highlight of a meeting of Iota Beta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Joe Mims, 2201 Harvard Street.

Mrs. Mims will lead the program on "Music as an Art and an Inspiration," and there will be several musical numbers.

Two selections will be presented by a girls' trio, including Nellie Clark, Verla Lee Golins and Anna Joyce Streeter. Accompanist for the group will be Lena McGill. Mrs. Joe Linehard, pianist, will play several Chopin numbers and give a brief biography of the composer.

A pledge meeting at 7 p.m. will precede the general session.

Methodists Plan Fellowship Supper

A covered dish supper will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the St. Mark's Methodist Church, sponsored by the Senate Class, with Mrs. Fred Lehker as chairman.

The event will be the final dinner in a special fellowship series for Lent. There will be a devotional and musical program given by Fred Carroll, Jim Hankinson and Jim Watson.

Each family attending is asked to bring a covered dish of food to serve from five to eight persons.

Two Men Injured In Freak Mishap

Two West Texans were injured in a freak collision between a pickup and a road roller Monday afternoon 20 miles from Midland on the Garden City Highway. Both men were given emergency treatment at the Midland Memorial Hospital.

Sherman Hunt, 19, Midkiff, driver of the pickup, suffered bruises and abrasions of the left shoulder and both knees. William F. Champion, 40, Big Lake, road roller operator, received contusions of the left knee.

Reports indicated the collision occurred when both drivers had their vision obscured by clouds of dust.

Roach, Metcalfe To Speak At Abilene

ABILENE (AP)—T. L. (Jack) Roach, Amarillo, and Penrose B. Metcalfe, San Angelo, will be among the speakers here Thursday at a meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The WTCC called the meeting to discuss what effect the reorganization of the Agriculture Department might have on Texas.

Roach is president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association and Metcalfe is president of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association.

McKINNEY—(AP)—Col. Royal N. Baker, the nation's foremost jet ace, will return Tuesday to a botched welcome in his home town—and to his four small children. With him will be his wife, Sarah, who flew to San Francisco to meet him on his return from Korea Saturday.

The 34-year-old fighter pilot notified home folks Monday night that he would arrive at Love Field in Dallas at 9:45 p.m.

The home folks are planning to make Colonel Baker Day in McKinney larger and louder than the rousing welcome the returning hero got in Los Angeles Monday.

Later he will appear before both houses of the Texas Legislature, then go on to Washington, D. C.

He Looks Like Harry, But His Feelings Aren't Hurt

WILMINGTON, CALIF.—(AP)—Harry S. Truman enjoyed an encounter with a San Francisco resident who discovered the man he thought looked like Truman WAS Truman.

The former President told about the incident Monday night. A chauffeur was driving Truman, Mrs. Truman and daughter Margaret to the home of George Killion, president of the American President Lines, in San Francisco Sunday night. The driver got the wrong house.

Truman went to the door but the unidentified resident said, "No, Mr. Killion doesn't live here." Then he peered intently at his caller and said: "Say, I hope your feelings won't be hurt, but you look exactly like Harry Truman." "This probably will disturb you," replied HST, "but I AM Harry Truman."

WATERMELON-SHAPED TIRES ARE SOFT — Revolutionary new type of "Rolligon" tires allows this Navy jeep to run over inventor William Albee, at the Carmel, Calif., testing ground without hurting him. Inventor Albee claims the tires will permit greater maneuverability of military and farm equipment over all types of terrain including swamps and sandy beaches. The tires are driven by a series of rotating rollers on the under side of the vehicle. These rub against the top surface of the balloon-like structure and move the vehicle.

LIEBFRAUMILCH AND EBI-ONIGARAYAKI— Truman Stows Away Fancy Viands At Shipboard Fete

WILMINGTON, CALIF. — (AP) — From the caviar to the petit fours, everyone watched what Harry S. Truman was doing.

But the members of the Beverly Hills Wine and Food Society didn't emulate the former President. He ate heartily. They didn't do justice to all the viands served at the $30-a-plate dinner.

Long before the wine and food boys got to the main course (roast loin of prime beef, Nipponaise) they were full. The guest of honor wasn't.

The occasion Monday night was the society's Spring banquet. It was held in the dining room of the SS President Cleveland, aboard which Truman and his family sail for a Honolulu vacation Tuesday.

The reason Truman was still going strong after his hosts had faded was this: He didn't stuff himself at the reception, where such delicacies as blue point oysters, cherry-stone clams, le foie gras de Strasbourg aux truffes and caviar and shrimp were featured. He had an oyster or two and held on to the same drink all during the reception.

So when dinner was called, he was prepared to eat. He waited until the oysters Mikado were cool, and then sipped them. He liked the broth, and the ebi-no-onigayaki, imperatrice (lobster thermidor), too. This was an appetizing dish and, with liebfraumilch 1949 to wash it down, everyone soon made it disappear.

His Artillery Buddies

But the beef, with bean sprouts, mushrooms and artichoke hearts, slowed down the gourmets from Beverly Hills, but not the gourmet from Independence.

The former President gave every evidence of enjoying the salad, an endive with French dressing. The other diners toyed with theirs. He was one of the few in the room who ate petit fours, coffee, ice cream and cheese.

Before sailing Tuesday Truman played host at a reunion luncheon aboard ship for 10 Southern California fellow veterans of D Battery, 129th Field Artillery Regiment, 38th Division — the battery Truman captained in World War I.

Beef To Be Added To School Lunches

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Agriculture Department proposes to add more beef to school children's lunches to help check the year-long slump in cattle prices.

The department called Monday for bids on unspecified quantities of ground and diced beef and boneless chuck, all frozen. Supplies would go to the government-sponsored school lunch program.

Hess Orphans Thank Public For Helping Them Stay Together

CHICAGO — (AP) — Little David Hess, still excited over the public birthday party for him on Sunday, celebrated his sixth birthday quietly with his three sisters and brother Monday.

The five Hess orphans had opened the doors of their five-room cottage near suburban Blue Island Sunday to all visitors as a public "thank you" to the hundreds of persons who have sent them money and gifts and birthday cards to David.

Gifts and letters continued to arrive from all parts of the nation for the little family. Plans are being made by a veterans group to raise money to build a new home for the youngsters, who have determined to stick together.

Head of the household is Carol, 13. The others are twins Wilma and Walter, 16, who supply the family's earnings, and Agnes, 15. Their mother died January 2, four months after the death of their father.

Senate, House Panels Tackle Tideland Issue

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Both House and Senate committees tackled the submerged lands ownership issue Tuesday, hoping to whip legislation into shape for final passage before the Easter recess April 2.

Developments Monday indicated the legislation will deal only with the lands beneath the marginal seas, recognizing the states' claims to ownership of the area.

Disposition of the vast continental shelf out beyond the states' seaward boundaries—estimated to contain even more oil and gas reserves than the submerged lands closer to shore, may be sidetracked.

Finishing Touches Ready

The committees had before them the knowledge that President Eisenhower is leaving to them at this time the question how far the bill should go in dealing with the submerged lands issue.

Senator Butler (R-Neb.) and Representative Reed (R-Ill.), chairmen of the Senate and House Committees, respectively, and other congressional leaders which discussed the Tideland controversy Monday with the President.

The President personally has said he favors states' ownership of the submerged coastal lands, but has not gone into the question of disposition of the lands outside the marginal sea belt.

Attorney General Cited

Attorney General Brownell, however, has recommended to Congress legislation to authorize the Interior secretary to develop the natural resources in the continental shelf without vesting any taxing or policing powers in the states. Brownell's bid did recognize the states' claims to the submerged lands within three miles of their shores—10 1/2 miles in the case of Texas and Florida. Gulf coasters because of conditions under which they joined the union.

Although the House Judiciary subcommittee handling the subject has approved legislation with provisions similar to that recommended by Brownell, the full committee expected to consider numerous amendments. Among the proposed changes were those which would eliminate any reference to the continental shelf.

Daniel Gives Views

Following Monday's White House conference, the Senate Republican Policy Committee met and discussed the submerged lands issue. Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) said efforts would be made to reach a vote in the Senate next week.

He said he believed the Senate bill would deal only with the marginal sea belt. He added that in his opinion legislation dealing with the outer continental shelf should be taken up as soon afterwards as possible.

Senator Price Daniel (D-Texas), who had introduced a bill giving the states not only the title to the marginal sea belt but also 37 1/2 per cent of the revenues from the continental shelf out beyond the states' seaward boundaries, said he was willing to abandon his particular version to assure passage of a measure dealing only with the marginal lands.

YMCA Charter Membership Drive Opens In Midland

A charter membership drive for the new Midland YMCA opened Tuesday on a community-wide basis, with scores of volunteer workers determined to reach the $30,000 goal by the end of the week.

The $30,000 figure corresponds with the 1953-54 operating budget of the new organization.

Four classes of memberships are available: Basic, $10; contribution, $25; sustaining, $50; foundation, $100; patron, more than $100.

A permanent organization will be perfected and professional leadership obtained when the finance campaign is completed successfully.

The ultimate goal is to have a full-scale YMCA, with downtown building, dormitories, health club, gymnasium and swimming pool facilities.

Program Planned

Programs for young adults, both male and female, and for boys and girls will be organized promptly.

Within a year's time YMCA leaders hope to have 20 to 30 clubs, such as Indian Guides, Gra-Y, Junior Hi-Y and Senior Hi-Y, in operation here.

Leaders urged all Midlanders to join in the program of financing Midland's new YMCA movement.

Persons missed in the campaign are urged to mail their contributions to the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

Eisenhower Adds Two New Members To Defense Council

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Eisenhower has enlarged the National Security Council and, the White House said Monday, "has been giving attention to strengthening and improving its operations."

The council is the top defense policy-making agency.

Named to sit with the council were Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and the director of defense mobilization when one is appointed. Arthur S. Fleming now is acting director.

In the past, the council has included the President, vice president, secretaries of State and Defense, mutual security administrator and the chairman of the National Security Resources Board.

Indian Princess, White Bridegroom Plan Second Rites

CHARLESTON, W. VA. — (AP) — A former Indian princess and her white bridegroom who took the tribal vows in South Dakota plan to get married again Thursday.

Better Living, Prosperity Cut European Crime Rates—Except In England, France

LONDON—(AP)—Better living and general prosperity have cut down on European crime—except for sex offenses.

An Associated Press survey of 10 nations shows only two—Britain and France—still battling the record crime waves that marked the early years after World War II.

With a peacetime pattern displacing the wartime disruption, such crimes of violence as murder, manslaughter and major assaults are generally on the wane. Theft and other property offenses are slumping, too.

Black markets, fostered by wartime scarcities of food and other consumer goods, now are near the vanishing point because Europe's stores are full.

Sex offenses, however, generally are up. Authorities in both Austria and Germany attribute the increase to better feeding. German officials say sex crimes boomed when food rationing ended in 1948, but now report a decline. Other nations blame a general postwar slackening of morals.

Most European crimes, the survey shows, are one-man jobs.

Gangsterdom is virtually unknown except among the tough smugglers running American cigarettes via the Mediterranean and moving coffee into Germany from the Low Countries.

France blames a new abundance

Transport Pioneer Dies in Fort Worth

PORT WORTH—(AP)—A. P. Barrett, 74, financial and organizational leader, died Monday night.

Among other ventures, Barrett pioneered the aviation industry in Texas with Texas Air Transport Company, forerunner of American Airlines.

He also was interested in utility firms, bus lines, and other businesses in Texas, New Mexico, Louisiana, Arizona, Oklahoma and Kentucky.

Eyes May Cause 'Wryneck,' Declares Omaha Specialist

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—If your child appears to have a "wryneck," he may need surgery of the eye rather than the neck, an Omaha eye specialist said Tuesday.

Dr. J. Hewitt Judd told the annual meeting of the American Academy of General Practice that some children who have defects in muscles controlling the vertical motion of an eye resort to tilting their heads in order to "level" their eyes.

"This may lead to structural body changes, such as a high shoulder or twisting of the spinal column," he said, adding:

"Some cases have been diagnosed as congenital wryneck and have had the neck muscles cut. Before such an operation is performed in these cases, the child's eyes should be examined by an ophthalmologist for a vertical muscle imbalance."

The doctor said that if such an eye condition is present, its early correction by an eye-muscle operation allows the neck to straighten out normally.

Among other tips the eye specialist gave the family doctors on handling common eye conditions:

1. There's no such thing as a child "outgrowing" a crossed-eye condition. But the condition is correctable by surgery, and some types by eyeglasses or other treatments.

2. Be wary of slow, nonpainful loss of vision in adults. Often such cases have been mistakenly diagnosed as cataracts and the patient told they needn't undergo an operation until they cannot see to get about. Actually, they may have a condition called "chronic glaucoma," which is incurable if it progresses far enough.

of liquor for at least part of a five per cent increase in crime during 1952. During World War II drink was scarce and so was crime. Police note, too, that more people are entering asylums with mental diseases traceable to alcoholism.

Only Britain really is worried by an upsurge in crime of all kinds. Home Office men working out their 1952 statistics fear they may top the all-time records of 1951.

Latest official figures show convictions for major offenses almost double the prewar rate. Many of the offenders are teenagers—"cock kids," the British call them. In 1951 one in every four convictions was of children under 14.

Officials say the No. 1 cause of Britain's crime wave is a postwar depletion in the police force.

Reuther Prepares To Squelch Rumors Of CIO Rebellion

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(AP)—Walter Reuther, his power again proved in his own United Auto Workers, moved Tuesday to squelch rumors of rebellion in the parent CIO, which he also heads.

Reuther invited David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers, to address the UAW convention.

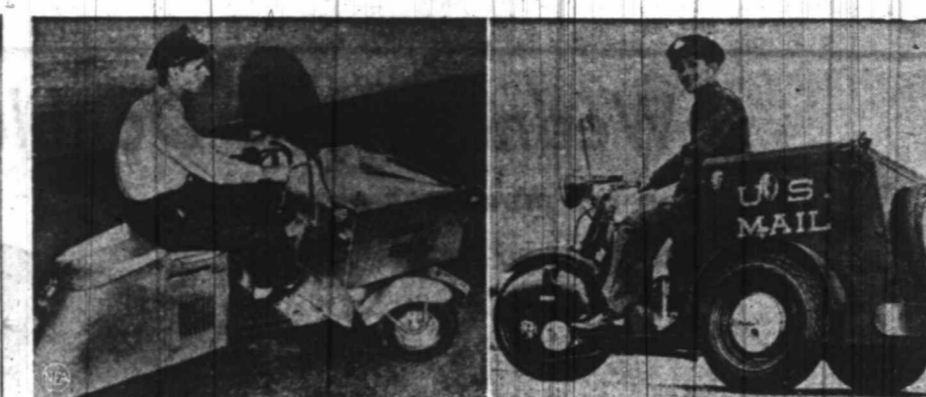

The expectation was that McDonald, who fought Reuther's election to the CIO presidency in December, would use the occasion to deny published reports that he might pull his union out of the CIO and take it into John L. Lewis' Independent United Mine Workers.

The auto workers, with a record 1,350,000 members, is the largest union in the CIO. Even Reuther concedes that a bolt by the million-member steelworkers union could have a devastating effect on the CIO.

McDonald led the unsuccessful campaign of the late Allan S. Haywood, then the CIO's executive vice president, for the post left vacant by the death of President Philip Murray.

Haywood died shortly after Reuther's election. Some labor observers have speculated that without the unifying force of Haywood, McDonald might swing from the CIO. He reportedly is an opponent of long-term labor contracts, cost-of-living wage setups and other UAW "babies."

BUSINESS IN CITY
Mrs. Ray Carroway of Brownfield was a business visitor Monday in Midland.

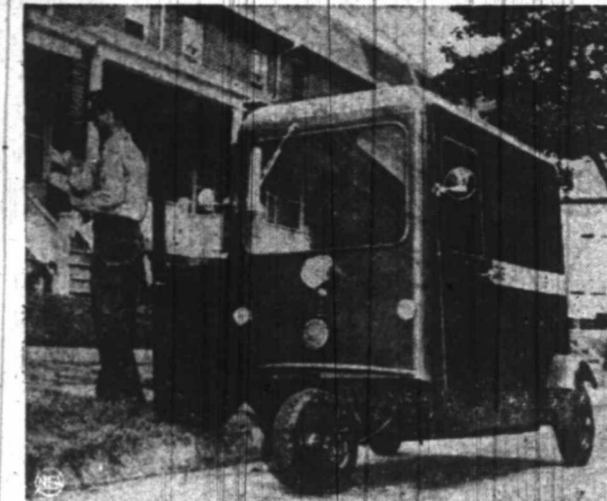

In sparsely-populated suburban areas, three-wheeled vehicles make postmen "good humored" men.

Weary Postman Gets A Lift

Modern design is catching up with the foot-weary letter carrier. Post office officials have disclosed that something is being done to speed up mail delivery and save the postman's shoe leather.

For more than a year experiments have been made with a variety of vehicles, some of which are shown here. With the aid of one of these vehicles, the postman can complete his route an hour or two earlier than he can on foot.

Officials say that such saving in time can, through reorganization, be translated into savings for the taxpayer, as well as to lighten a burden that has grown to 80 pounds of mail annually for each person in the U. S.

This three-wheeled enclosed motorcycle is sure to keep the postman happy on rainy days.

Woman Dies As Car Plunges Down Cliff Into Train's Path

BEECH GLEN, W. VA.—(AP)—A woman was killed and two persons injured Monday when a car toiling up a hill went out of control and tumbled down a cliff into the path of a train.

State police said Mrs. Kermit Norma Elswick, 48, of Jochin, W. Va., was killed. They said the car was driven by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Carolyn Florence Elswick, 24, of Horse Heads, N. Y., who was thrown clear when the car landed on the railroad tracks.

The younger Mrs. Elswick tried in vain to free her husband, Clinton, and his mother, from the wreckage as the train approached. Attempts to flag the locomotive failed. Elswick and his wife escaped with minor injuries.

Mukluded Mooseboys May Mop Up On Mooseburgers

FAIRBANKS, ALASKA—(AP)—Imagine, if you can, a mooseboy or moosepoke striding along the Alaska tundra in his mukluks, his moose herd loving gently in the distance. Might even be a new hero for the TV junior set to worship.

The point arose Tuesday that if there are cowboys and cowpokes, why can't there be mooseboys, etc.?

What it boils down to is that a newly organized Fairbanks corporation has petitioned the Interior Department for permission to capture 95 female moose and five males in the wilderness along the Alaska Railroad.

The captive moose would be herded onto a special reservation near Fairbanks. Then they'd be bred, be butchered and marketed like cattle. The partners—Lee S. Gardiner, Charles F. Purvis and Robert J. McNesly—said they hope to build up a sizable industry selling moose steaks, Mooseburger, Moose roasts and other cuts.

Any Alaskan can tell you the meat's delicious.

The trio's petition pointed out there are too many moose around here anyway. They delay Alaska Railroad trains by congregating on the track, interfere with highway traffic and wreak damage to crops in farming areas.

They said, too, that Alaska is badly in need of new industries and moose ranching could become a good source of income.

Woman Withdraws Suit Against Rupp

ATHENS, GA.—(AP)—Mrs. Lucille Chumbley Bradberry, in whose name a half-million-dollar suit was filed against Kentucky Basketball Coach Adolph Rupp and others, has ordered her attorney to drop the action.

But in Lexington, Ky., Attorney J. A. Edge said he still intends to press the suit for alleged gambling losses.

Gambler Frank Costello and Ed Curd, reputed former Lexington bookmaker, were named co-defendants with Rupp.

W. Lee Bradberry, husband of the plaintiff, announced his wife's decision to drop the suit Monday.

He said Edge asked Mrs. Bradberry to be a party to the suit and she refused. "We were amazed when we read in the papers the suit had been filed last Friday," Bradberry added.

CITY MANNERS LOSE LAWSUIT

DANVILLE, IND.—(AP)—A Circuit Court jury sat back Monday to hear why Raymond E. Heald had dumped two baskets of tin cans and beer bottles in front of the Town Hall in Plainfield.

Heald complained townsfolk have been littering up his farm. "I just gave them back what they've been giving me," he said.

The jury, including eight farmers, acquitted him on a dumping charge.

McCarran Shipboard Quiz Whittled Down

NEW YORK—(AP)—The 31 questions once asked of some foreign seamen under the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act have been whittled down to three or four.

The inquiries still cover Communist Party membership, disease and crime records.

Edward J. Shaughnessy, district director of immigration and naturalization, said Monday the decision to cut down on the questioning procedure was worked out between officials here and in Washington.

The suit contends Curd, Costello and Rupp "connected a fraudulent and debasing scheme of gambling in schools" in which the three worked "manipulation and fakement" of point spreads in basketball games.

The suit asks $573,257.79, which is triple the amount allegedly "lost in betting and gambling with the co-conspirators."

It was filed in behalf of Mrs. Bradberry's brother, George Chumbley, who allegedly lost the money in gambling operations. Under Kentucky law, only an out-of-state relative can file suit in Kentucky for recovery of gambling losses. Mrs. Bradberry is Chumbley's only out-of-state relative.

Asked how he would continue the suit without a plaintiff, Edgesaid he "wouldn't go into that at present."

Rupp, who coached three Kentucky basketball teams to unofficial national championships, said the suit was "evidently a well-organized campaign aimed entirely to discredit me."

Opening Practice Impresses Haney

FREDERICKSBURG — Those that could were taking batting practice Tuesday in the Midland Indian baseball training camp—but there's a catch to that story.

When he sent them into their second day drills, Manager Jay Haney expected few to want to linger in the batting cage. A first day workout of exercises, running and fungo practice, that extended three hours overall, had each of the 16 players exhausted and sore.

"That's what I want," Haney said.

"You'll be in a lot better shape after this Spring training than you were last year," he announced as the team wound up the first work. He did promise, however, that less running was in store from now on even if those Monday's drills indicated how much more hustle some were adding to this year's efforts.

Eddie Proves Spark

Eddie Jacome, for one, sparked the exercises, which prompted General Manager Horace Busby to remark that "Eddie is putting more into this year's training than ever before."

For Tuesday's batting, Young Chuck Tanner, in for this second Spring with the Indians, was assigned first pitching assignment. He looks better than a year ago, more poised, and is a workhorse performer—ready to throw after having practiced with his brother, Gordon Tanner, for several weeks while in California.

Gordon won't be behind the bat at anytime Tuesday for he has to spend the day in San Antonio seeking clearance with immigration officials to remain in the U. S. He's from British Columbia.

While he's gone for a day another player, Lou Dawson, is expected in to keep the number up to 16. Dawson has returned from the service and spent a few days at home in Oklahoma, then began traveling in by bus.

Meanwhile, Midland has lots of catchers for batting practice—all looking sharp. For huckles, 210-pound Ed Menapace, 193-pound Freddie Lu-Jan and 200-pound Charles Stephenson, also an outfielder, stood up under Monday's workouts well.

Blair Takes Lead

The Indians had to go through 35 minutes of exercises led by ex-serviceman Ralph Blair, a half hour of running the outfield, fungo fielding, bunting and a half-mile walk on tippees around the fair grounds soft dirt race track.

Haney expressed satisfaction with the opening practice, especially with individuals who seem to be more promising than ever.

Besides Jacome, Haney pointed out Blair as one of the more serious workers, Indian Quentin Basco as much improved in his conduct around third base and Gordon Tanner for his keener look at catching and throwing.

Haney conducted a two-hour skill practice Monday night and scheduled another Tuesday.

SPORTS PARLEY

By CHARLEY ESKEW

FREDERICKSBURG — The problems of making a first baseman of Outfielder Hayden White and of improving the accuracy of Catcher Ed Menapace's throwing had to take a back seat with the aims of Midland manager Jay Haney during Monday's workouts.

"I'm sorry," Haney said to Menapace after asking how the receivers' throwing was—"I'm sorry, I was busy with the rookies."

Therein lies a note of newsworthiness.

Haney keeps a sharp eye out for the rookie who'll come through, expecting there'll be only one or two of a dozen who really make prospects. He was happy, though, at the turnout here—of five at practice, most looked good.

"You can tell, even by the little amount of fundamentals we got into, whether a rookie has it or not," Haney said. "You can't do a thing with some of them."

That being true, some of these here—Pitchers Bud Sisk, Tommie McComick and Chuck Tanner and First Baseman Milton Wallendorf—were put in the category of "prospects" by Haney.

He had plenty time during pitching practice to show the hurlers some of the finer points of mound work and how Wallendorf could hold down first a little better.

Haney, too, had a good word for them—that Sisk, for a 23-year-old, who hasn't played for two years, was coming along fast on what he could be told Monday. That McComick was smooth and quickly taught. That Wallendorf had fooled him with his ability to move with his 225 pounds of chubbiness around first base with ease and with his sharp fielding ability. The boy asserts that hitting is the best of his playing.

Haney indicated that about two, maybe three, of them probably would go along when the team takes off on its exhibition swing toward home. And that's a fair remark for the youngsters, since this will be a rough season for a rookie to make the ball club.

They have to fight against six national defense service men (open classification) and a host of other experienced young players to make the team.

Other notes about the camp: Jim Prince, who remained in Midland after asking for reinstatement to the active list, is expected to join the club April 9 for the game against the Sinton (semi-pro) Oilers in Sinton. Prince, unsigned so far, probably will come to terms about

Suggs Puffs Ahead For Peach Blossoms Tournament Crown

SPARTANBURG, S. C. — (AP) — Louise Suggs' dead-eye putting under extra-hole pressure was the Peach Blossom-Betsy Rawls Invitation Open Golf Tournament for Monday.

The Atlanta miss dropped a four-foot putt on the second playoff hole to break a deadlock with Miss Rawls, playing her home course in a $3,500, 54-hole event named for her. Betsy's putt on the same hole stopped short of the rim, giving her a one-over-par five.

The two leaders finished at 218 over the rain-soaked fairways, pulling ahead of Jackie Pung of Glasgow, Ky., in the final nine. The 1952 National Amateur champion and former Hawaiian Amateur winner fell behind on the seventeenth hole and wound up third at 217.

BOWLER HITS DREAM SCORE

CHICAGO — (AP) — A bowler's dream came true for Ray Mihm Monday. He shot a perfect 300-12 straight strike—in the American Bowling Congress tournament.

Mihm, 46, Green Bay, Wis., merchant and a 189 average bowler, almost collapsed when he fired his 13th straight strike.

The pressure, he said was terrific, adding "I'm glad that's over. Maybe I looked cool out there but, oh brother, I just can't explain that jittery feeling."

Cobb To Fight USGA Ruling Riddling Eagles' Golf Team

DENTON — (AP) — Coach Fred Cobb, Idaho; and Stan Moss, San Antonio — was taken, USGA said in the letters, because of a trip to Mexico City Amateur Tournament in 1952. The association claimed the golfers did not pay their own expenses.

Two Taught Golf

Bobby Maxwell, Big Spring, and brother of the former amateur champ, and Ray Ferguson, Breckinridge, were told they had lost their amateur standing for taking money to teach golf to other students at NTSC.

Cobb, who termed the USGA action "harsh," said all concerned felt that in view of the circumstances that the students' amateur standing would not be affected.

He said Billy Maxwell, 1951 Mexico City champion, and the NTSC squad had been invited to play in the 1952 tournament. Charges against Bobby Maxwell and Ferguson, he said, were not based soundly because the youths were instructing golf classes as part of their work under athletic scholarships.

Cobb also said that January did not take part in the Mexico City tournament and was playing an exhibition match elsewhere at the time. USGA apparently had him confused with some other player, the coach added.

Fisher Fald Way

One player who made the trip, Buster Reed of Dallas, had his expenses paid by his father, Cobb said, not the college. Also at Fort Hood in Army service, Reed did not receive one of the USGA letters.

It was not known whether Monte Sanders, now a soldier at a West Coast camp, had his amateur status changed.

Robbin Is Right

BRADENTON — (AP) — Right-hander Robin Roberts showed the technique that earned him 28 National League wins last season, when he allowed only three hits in seven innings as the Philadelphia Phillies pounded out an 11-5 victory over the Milwaukee Braves Monday.

Byrd Loses Again

MIAMI, FLA. — (AP) — Harry Byrd, last year's outstanding rookie hurler in the American League, was charged with his fourth loss in four starts Monday as the Brooklyn Dodgers limited the Chicks to two singles and two runs through six innings of tight battling. Tom Socks Cecarrell took over and allowed two hits and no runs the rest of the way.

The Cats used five free passes to first and three singles for a five-run outburst in the fourth inning after Memphis had tied the game up with two runs in the third. Neither team scored after the fourth stanza.

Third Baseman Bob Crain's home run was a feature of the 10-hit Cat attack.

Scheduled for Spring training action Tuesday were: Beaumont vs Oklahoma City at Galveston, Dallas vs Houston at Fort Arthur, Tulsa vs New Orleans of the Southern Association at Alexandria, La., and San Antonio vs Toronto at Dunedin, Fla.

Worsham Win May Omen For Summer

JACKSONVILLE, FLA. — (AP) — Lew Worsham's victory in the Jacksonville Open Golf Tournament Monday could be an omen of things to come in the National Open this Summer.

Worsham won the National Open in 1947 after he tied for first in the Jacksonville Open, though he lost a play-off here to Clayton Hearner.

He proved how well he is on his game by shooting four straight rounds of 34—and beating Jim Ferrier at his own game—putting. That gave Worsham 72 for the 72 holes to Ferrier's 73 and tied Ferrier's record for the course.

Carnera Seeks Final Citizenship Papers

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Primo Carnera, who won the heavyweight boxing title from Jack Sharkey in 1933 and lost it the next year to Max Baer, has applied for final U. S. citizenship papers.

Carnera, who now makes his living on the wrestling circuit, says he is to be sworn to allegiance next month. He and his wife, Pina, and their children, Umberto, 14, and Jean Mary, 10, now live in Los Angeles.

Colleen Wins North-South Links Crown

PINEHURST, N. C. — (AP) — Pat O'Sullivan, Orange, Conn., girl with the ever-present smile, had ample reason to be happy Tuesday. Be-spectated Pat won her third North and South Golf Championship in four years Monday with a 2-and-1 final victory over Mary Lena Paulk, Thomasville, Ga.

Pat, winner in 1950 and 1951 and runner-up last year, led from the very first hole, which she won with a birdie three. She never let the slim Georgia girl get off the hook thereafter and was three up at the turn.

But there were visions of a repeat of last year's back nine nightmare when Pat started the tenth and eleventh holes in six-six fashion, three over par.

The key to the outcome probably came on the par four twelfth hole. The Connecticut girl, showing signs of duplicating her costly back nine lapse of last year's losing final battle with Barbara Romack, pulled out her game together with a neat par four.

Pat won it like a champion on the well-trapped par three seventeenth. She was on the green while Mary Lena found a trap to the right of the pin. The Georgia girl came out nicely, but Pat, putting from 25 feet, hit the cup, and Mary Lena conceded a par three for a half and the match.

Mary Lena, who'd played exceptionally well in Florida Winter competition, lacked her usual touch around the greens and that was the chief difference.

Pat was four over par for the 17 holes, all on the back nine, while Mary Lena was four over for each side.

Melbourne Seems Sure Of Olympics

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA — (AP) — The question of where the 1956 edition of the Olympic Games will be held apparently was settled Tuesday, Melbourne, the city originally awarded the event, almost certainly will be the host.

But for a time, the picture looked black, and the obstacles facing Arthur W. Coles, chief organizer for the games, seemed insurmountable. Mostly they dealt with housing and sites for the various sports.

What seemed to be the last straw came a week ago when the commonwealth government refused to turn over the Albert Park barracks for the athletes.

Another Plan

But Coles still had another plan to finance an Olympic village. He flew to Canberra to ask the commonwealth government to give the state of Victoria $4,480,000 extra for building purposes in 1955-56 and deduct it from the following year's federal contribution.

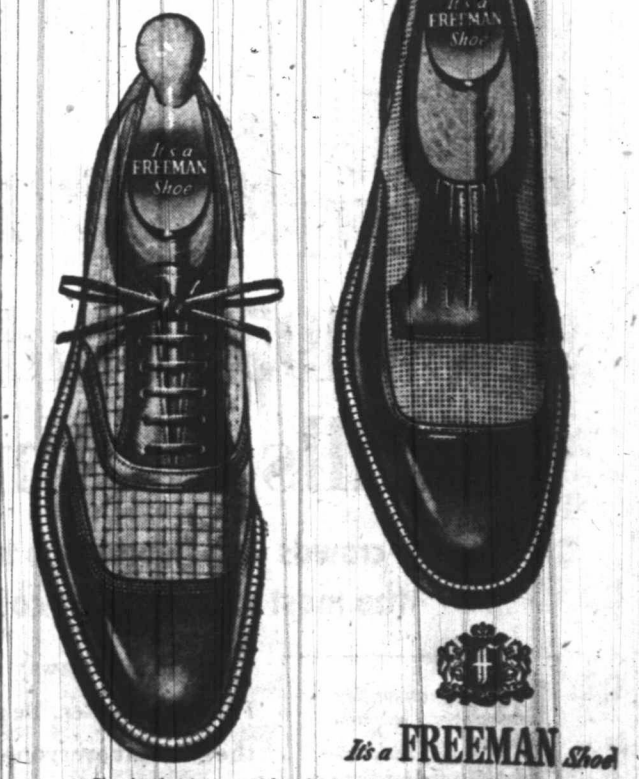

The commonwealth agreed to Coles' proposal in principle, but worded the agreement a little differently. It is going to lend Victoria the money for 1955-56, and be paid back interest-free the following year.

Officials In Two Capitals Work On Bracero Problem

By The Associated Press
Official groups in both Mexico City and Washington sought Tuesday to solve the problem posed by importation of Mexican farm workers for U. S. agriculture.

At the same time, there was a prediction in Dallas from Ed McDonald of the Bureau of Economic Security that about 60,000 Mexican nationals may be admitted to Texas to help with 1953 crops.

Senate Panel Puts Okay On Ike's Plan To Elevate FSA

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Administration plans to elevate the Federal Security Agency to a Cabinet rank department continues its swift course through Congress.

The Senate Government Operations Committee approved it Monday in the form in which the House passed it last week.

Final committee approval was unanimous, but one vote was cast against the 10-day provision—that of Senator McClellan (D-Ark.), who said he thought the speedup would "set a bad precedent."

PAUL REVERE, MANUFACTURER

First manufacturer of copper sheets and bolts in the United States was Paul Revere. He supplied the copper sheathing for the old frigate, Constitution.

It is believed the Greek alphabet from which most modern alphabets were derived, is a borrowing from a Semitic alphabet.

McDonald said that was about the same number as last year. Mexico City negotiators—U. S. and Mexican—planned daily two-hour bargaining sessions in hopes they would reach an agreement on three Mexican requests before Easter Sunday.

Written proposals from the American and Mexican groups were to be presented Tuesday.

Mexico's three chief requests are: 1. Stronger U. S. efforts to discourage farmers from using illegal migrants (wetbacks).

2. A promise that Mexican workers wages will go up if prevailing wages increase during the term of the contract.

3. Insurance to cover workers during their entire time in the U. S., not just when they actually are at work.

Congress, meanwhile, continued hearings on a proposal to extend the law which permits importation of the Mexican workers. The present law will expire December 31 if not extended.

Senator Aiken (R-Vt) has introduced a measure which would extend the act three years. But Monday, Undersecretary of Labor Lloyd A. Mashburn testified before the Senate Agriculture Committee that his department wants only a year's extension to give it time to study the problem fully.

Besides the Senate's continued hearings Tuesday, the House Agriculture Committee was also to take up the Mexican worker question with hearings on a companion bill to Senator Aiken's.

Among those scheduled to appear Tuesday were R. W. Hodge of Del Rio, Texas, and Ernest W. Williams of San Angelo.

Don Larin—chief of the Farm Placement Service of the Bureau of Employment Security—said the law has not stopped wetbacks from crossing the border.

"But it has stopped them from finding employment," he added.

The Mexico City talks do not affect the present basic agreement by which Mexico sends workers to the U. S., but they do deal with changes in the treatment of the Mexican workers.

French police swept down on a dozen offices of the big Communist-led General Confederation of Labor (CGT) Tuesday and arrested a number of Reds among them Andre Sill, a top editor of the Communist daily newspaper, L'Humanite.

The officers appeared at the main CGT building just after dawn and forced open the iron door when persons in the building refused them admittance.

The raids were made in connection with a government drive for evidence to support charges that the Reds threaten the nation's security.

French Leaders Head West To Seek More American Aid

PARIS—(AP)—Premier Rene Mayer and a large French delegation leave Tuesday night for Washington, seeking more U. S. help and hoping to persuade America that France is not the weak link in the Western defense chain that she sometimes is painted.

Several American officials are making the trip with the top-level French government figures aboard the regular Air France flight. They are due in the U. S. capital Wednesday for talks with President Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles and other top American officials.

Among other things, the French want: 1. More help in Indochina, where they have fought a six-year, warring war with rebellious, Communist-led jungle guerrillas.

2. More aid in Europe, where they have made up-and-down-hill progress toward regaining their position of prewar importance.

3. An immediate advance of 125 million dollars to meet their 1953 military schedules.

4. A long-term program of aid from America upon which the European countries can base their budgets, in place of year-to-year uncertainties about what Congress will do.

From Eisenhower's first foreign aid bill, France would like in all about a billion dollars, instead of the approximately two-thirds of a billion she has had in one form or another during the last year.

With the extra money, she says she could increase her Air Force 25 per cent, strengthen her Army from five top-quality divisions and seven secondary ones to perhaps 10 or 12 first-class units. In addition, she could step up the training of Viet Namee soldiers to take over her fight in Indochina.

Kaiser-Frazer To Purchase Willys-Overland Industries

NEW YORK—(AP)—Kaiser-Frazer Corporation plans to buy Willys-Overland Motors, Inc. for an estimated $62, 300,000. The deal will make Kaiser-Frazer the world's fourth largest auto company, with assets of more than 300 millions.

The purchase, announced here Monday by Kaiser-Frazer, is expected to be completed next month. It is subject to approval by Willys-Overland common stockholders, who will meet April 24.

Kaiser-Frazer said it was financing the purchase with 72 millions in private capital from various sources. The estimated purchase price includes the assumption by Kaiser-Frazer of certain liabilities.

Edgar F. Kaiser, president of Kaiser-Frazer and son of Henry J. Kaiser, said the sale will give Kaiser-Frazer production facilities to boost it among the world's biggest automobile companies after General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

Willys-Overland and Kaiser-Frazer put out a total of 242,461 cars and trucks last year. Their combined total sales are running at the rate of 600 millions annually.

The purchase will give Kaiser-Frazer a complete line of automobiles and utility vehicles. The Willys-Overland output of the famed Jeep, Jeep station wagon and Aero Willys will be added to Kaiser-Frazer's low-priced Henry J. and the Kaiser and Frazer lines.

Private Financing Kaiser-Frazer is financing the purchase with $37,600,000 put up by the Henry J. Kaiser Company, a holding company; 15 millions by the Transamerica Corporation, a bank holding corporation; and 20 millions in a loan from the Bank of America National Trust Savings Association.

Big Sister's Death May Send Orphan Children To 'Home'

VAN BUREN, ARK.—(AP)—Six small children, who lost their parents in 1948, now are without the 14-year-old "big sister" who has been caring for them.

Wanda Blount was injured fatally Monday when she fell from a moving truck filled with spinach cutters. Sheriff C. E. Bushmier said Wanda and several others were thrown out when the half-ton truck's tailgate collapsed. The others were hurt slightly.

The sheriff said the girl's parents died in 1948. Since then, he said, Wanda has lived with her younger brothers and a sister in a house next door to an older brother, J. D. Blount, and several blocks away from the home of the children's uncle and guardian, Bill Blount.

The sheriff quoted the guardian as saying Monday night that "it's possible we'll have to put a couple of the younger children in a home."

Fifteen millions of the new financing will be used to reduce the $48,417,000 in Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans owed by Kaiser-Frazer, Kaiser said in a statement.

The purchase is being made by the Kaiser Manufacturing Corporation, a wholly owned subsidiary of Willys-Overland assets separately, changing its name to the Willys Motor Corporation.

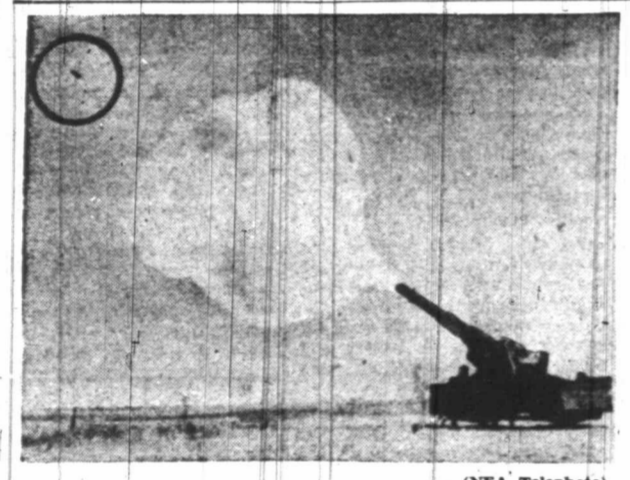

Ward M. Canaday, president and chairman of Willys-Overland, has been invited to become chairman of the new firm, whose headquarters will remain in Toledo, Ohio. Kaiser-Frazer's main plant is at Willow Run, Mich.

Shortages Speed Ammo Plant Plans

SHREVEPORT, LA.—(AP)—Reopening of many World War II ordnance plants is forecast by Secretary of the Army Robert Stevens.

Stevens, in an interview here Monday, said reports of ammunition shortages in Korea partially were responsible for the speedup of plans to build a $26,600,000 shell manufacturing plant at Minden, La.

He added there is plenty of ammunition in Korea now and that the output of the Minden plant, and others which are to be reopened, is intended to increase reserve ammunition stocks.

PRACTICING FOR BIG ONE—Circle, upper left, outlines a conventional shell fired by the Army's new 280-mm. cannon during tests at Fort Sill, Okla. The big gun will be tested at the Atomic Test Site in Nevada, in May, with atomic ammunition.

 Location is 2,115 feet from south and 2,046 feet from west lines of section 2-15e-37e.

Another Oiler
 Ralph Lowe and Atlantic completed No. 5-D Dickinson as a Devonian producer in the same field. Location is 860 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 33-14e-37e. The oiler was potential for 396 barrels of 44-gravity oil through a 1 1/2-inch choke in 24 hours. Gas-oil ratio was 725-1 and tubing pressure 1,000 pounds. Completion was from pay at 12,160-178 feet.

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 2 J. C. Maxwell is another new Wolfcamp producer in the Denton field. It was finished for a daily flow of 211 barrels of oil through a one-quarter-inch choke and from pay at 9,265-9,468 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 362-1 and tubing pressure 90 pounds. Gravity of the oil is 44.8 degrees.

Location is 680 feet from east and 860 feet from south lines of section 27-14e-37e.

Texaco And Gulf Final New Wells In SE Lea Field

The Texas Company No. 4 C. E. Penny-Federal and Gulf Oil Corporation No. 19-A Harry Leonard are new oilers in the West Dollardhide (Mullupay) field of Southeast Lea County, New Mexico.

Texaco finished No. 4 Penny-Federal as a Queens sand producer for 927 barrels of 34-gravity oil daily through choke of unreported size and open hole at 3,536-3,761 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 524-1 and tubing pressure 225 pounds.

 Location is 2,322 feet from south and 2,308 feet from east lines of section 8-25e-38e.

Gulf No. 19-A Leonard was completed from the Fusselman for a daily pumping potential of 147 barrels of 40-gravity oil through perforations at 8,550-95 feet.
 Location is 1,950 feet from south and 330 feet from west lines of section 33-24e-38e.

Two New Producers, One Explorer Added To Spraberry Field

Two new producers and site for another project have been added to the Midland County portion of the Spraberry Trend Area field.
 Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 18 Louise Shickelford, 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 27, block 37, T-4-S, T&P survey, was completed for a daily flowing potential of 284.8 barrels of 37.8-gravity oil through a 24/64-inch choke and from open hole at 7,072-7,292 feet. Pay was fractured with 15,000 gallons. Gas-oil ratio was 643-1.

Magnolia No. 20 Louise Shickelford, 660 feet from north and east lines of section 29, block 37, T-3-S, T&P survey, was finished for a 24-hour flowing potential of 253.49 barrels of 37.8-gravity oil through a 24/64-inch choke and from open hole at 7,128-7,245 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 729-1 and tubing pressure 175 pounds. Pay was fractured with 9,000 gallons.

Hanley Company of Midland will dig No. 1-AC TXL as the new Spraberry test. Site has been staked 1,986 feet from north and 1,986 feet from west lines of section 11, block 37, T-4-S, T&P survey. It is slated for an 8,000-foot bottom.

Skelly Slates New Bottom For Project In NW Pecos Area

Skelly Oil Company filed application with the Railroad Commission of Texas requesting permission to continue drilling to 5,000 feet at its No. 1 Austin College, wildcat in the Fort Stockton (Yates) area of Northwest Pecos County.

Originally started out as an edge test in the Fort Stockton field, operator re-scheduled the project to go to 4,000 feet. That depth already has been reached. At last report the project was being drilled below 4,002 feet.

Operator will continue drilling to 5,000 feet.

The Yates section made oil and gas, but the gas volume was too big to allow for oil production.
 Location is 390 feet from south and west lines of section 1, block 106, T&S&L survey.

Operator Files For New Destination At S-C Ector Explorer

Cities Service Oil Company and Union Oil Company of California No. 1-D Cross, project in South-Central Ector County, has drilled past original destination of 4,700 feet and operators filed application to go on to 7,500 feet.

The project started out as a San Andres test. Commercial production was not developed in drilling to 5,120 feet. The new depth of 7,500 feet should allow for tests of the Clear Fork.

No. 1-D Cross is one location southwest of the same concerns' No. 1-C Cross, active project drilling below 10,100 feet. It is to go to 11,700 feet to test the Devonian. It had developed shows for possible commercial production in the San Andres.

No. 1-D Cross is 1,995 feet from north and 2,014 feet from west lines of section 44, block 43, T-2-S, T&P survey.

Harper & Huffman To Plug Back At Yoakum Explorer

Harper & Huffman of Midland was preparing to plug back to approximately 5,380 feet for completion attempt in the San Andres at No. 1 Brownfield, wildcat in Northeast Yoakum County.

The project was drilled to total depth of 8,515 feet in the lower Permian. No shows of production were indicated in any zone below 5,380 feet.

When the San Andres will be drilled, operator took a drillstem test from 5,300 to 5,390 feet. Tool was open three hours. Recovery was 30 feet of oil and 330 feet of oil stained drilling water.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 32, block D, John H. Gibson survey.

Two Failures Are Reported In Lea

Two projects, one a wildcat, have been reported as failures in Lea County, New Mexico.
 Emperor Oil Company No. 1 State,

20 miles west of Eunice and in the southwest portion of the county, was abandoned on total depth of 3,740 feet in shale. No shows for possible commercial production were reported.

Location was 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 5-22e-33e.
 Amerada Petroleum Corporation No. 2-EOD State, a stepout to production in the East Caprock field of Northwest Lea County, was plugged and abandoned on total depth of 11,336 feet in the Devonian, topped at 11,208 feet, elevation 4,398 feet.
 Location was 660 feet from south and west lines of section 2-12e-32e.

NW Kent Wildcat Is Abandoned

Novi Equipment Company No. 1 J. N. Self, Northwest Kent County wildcat has been abandoned and plugged on a bottom of 6,140 feet in the Pennsylvania reef lime.

This project had originally reported total depth of 6,152 feet. Electric logs corrected that figure back three feet to 6,149 feet.

The reef lime logged a slight show of gas and some salt water. It did not develop any shows of oil.

Operator Will Set Casing To Attempt Completion In Terry

Operator was preparing to run casing for completion attempt at Joseph I. O'Neill, Jr., and others No. 1 Ella Covington, three-quarters mile east stepout to a recently completed Clear Fork discovery in the Terry area of Northwest Terry County.

Operator will attempt to complete No. 1 Covington from the Gloriaeta area project, indicated. Gloriaeta production on a four-hour drillstem test from 5,911 to 5,981 feet. Gas surfaced in 85 minutes. Recovery was 750 feet of heavily oil-cut mud. Hole is bottomed at 5,981 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 21, block D-14, C&M survey and seven and one-half miles north of Tokio.

Two Fields In Lea Get New Projects

The Ohio Oil Company spotted location for a Wolfcamp exploration in the Denton (mullupay) field of Central-East Lea County and Amerada Petroleum Corporation staked site for a Devonian project in the East Caprock pool of Northwest Lea.

Ohio No. 19 J. W. Denton will be dug 2,080 feet from south and 890 feet from west lines of section 11-15e-37e. It will go to 9,050 feet.

Amerada No. 4-A H. C. Posey will be dug 330 feet from north and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 14-21e-32e. It is slated for an 11,200-foot bottom.

Amerada Will Drill NE Concho Tester

Amerada Petroleum Corporation has staked location for a 3,500-foot wildcat in Northeast Concho County. It is No. 1 Sara L. Whitfield and is 660 feet from south and west lines of block 2769, Fisher & Miller Original Grant survey, A-165.

Drillstem is on a 4,002-acre lease three and one-half miles east of Millersview.

Stanolind Will Drill Prospector In Lea

Stanolind Oil & Gas Company spotted location for an 8,500-foot rotary wildcat in Central Lea County, New Mexico, four and one-half miles southwest of the town of Lovington.

It will be drilled as No. 1-AC State, 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 31-16e-36e. It is one and one-half miles southwest of Lawton Oil Corporation No. 1-I State, active wildcat.

Woodward, Company To Plug Dawson Test

Woodward & Company of Dallas No. 1 E. C. Mahaney, wildcat in Southeast Dawson County, was plugged to abandon on total depth of 9,490 feet in the Pennsylvania reef, drillers depth. Electric log depth is 9,469 feet.

Drillstem test was taken in the interval from 9,350 to 9,490 feet. Tool was open one hour and 15 minutes. Recovery was 990 feet of salty mud, and 2,980 feet of salt water.

The reef lime was topped at 9,337 feet, elevation 2,863 feet.
 Location of the failure is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 27, block 34, T-4-N, T&P survey.

Former Red Says Party-Line Written Into Plots Of Plays

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Witnesses who are friendly or do not object to being televised were called Tuesday in the House Un-American Activities Committee inquiry into show business and related fields.

The committee postponed until Wednesday the testimony of one witness, screen writer Edward H. Husebeck, after his attorney demanded TV and radio equipment be removed from the stage here in the late 1930's.

Chairman Harold H. Velde (R-III) said he hoped Husebeck "will testify tomorrow when all television apparatus is removed." There was no indication the equipment of TV stations would be removed Tuesday.

Another witness, Philip Eastman, free-lance writer and artist and former animated cartoon artist, objected to having TV cameras trained on him but didn't protest if they were aimed elsewhere in the room while he testified.

Party Line Insinuations
 However, questioning of Eastman was just getting well underway Monday when he declined to answer. Committee Counsel Frank Tavenner told him that in 1951 Mrs. Berynne Fleury, an artist, identified herself as a former Communist and Eastman as a member of the same Hollywood group.

Eastman declined to say whether that was correct. He also declined on constitutional grounds to say if he is or ever was a Communist.

The committee heard from Harold A. Hecht, 45, film producer, and Danny Dare, 48, dance director, testimony that party-line insinuations had been made in "Sing for Your Supper," New York stage show of 1939, and "Meet the People," produced on the stage here in the late 1930's.

Actors Were Reds
 Hecht said he was a Communist party member from 1936 to 1939 or 1940, and from 1937 to 1939 was in charge of producing "Sing for Your Supper" for the Federal Theater Project in New York.

 He said about 40 persons of the 200 in the cast were members of a Communist cell.

"They had the immediate objective of keeping their jobs, trying to influence the content of the show to some extent, and they had the objective that all Communist party groups have of following the party line," he said.

Propaganda On Stage
 Dare, admitting that he lied to the committee in 1951 when he denied ever being a member of the party, testified that he was one from March to May, 1939. He called his 1951 denial "my stupid action."

Concerning his direction of "Meet the People," which he described as "a typical review with political overtones to its lyrics," Dare said:

"It is perfectly obvious to me now that some one, or some group was dictating—how, I don't know—what should go into this show."

He said the implication in one skit was that American money was available for Finland but not for Americans at home.

RETURN FROM OKLAHOMA
 Mrs. E. E. Reigle has returned from Oklahoma City, Okla., where she visited her mother, Mrs. A. L. Hoffman, who last week underwent major surgery. Mr. Reigle continued on to Wichita, Kan., on a business trip.

Nailon's Crude Oil Flow Rises Slightly

TULSA—(AP)—Daily average domestic production of crude oil and condensate during the week ended March 21 rose 44,100 barrels to 4,887,790 barrels, the Oil and Gas Journal reported Tuesday.

The Journal said the nation's cumulative production for the year is $20,896,500 barrels compared with $11,583,650 at this time in 1952.

Most of the gain was recorded by Kansas, which soared 36,200 barrels to 358,900. Oklahoma was up 1,200 to 543,600.

Other increases were in Texas, up 840 to 2,942,075; and New Mexico, 290 to 161,275.

Arkansas dropped 1,500 to 77,450 and Louisiana fell 950 to 728,278.

REPORTING THE TOP NEWS IN REAL ESTATE
LOCATION PLUS—because it is one block south of the Country Club. And the PLUS consists of 3 large bedrooms, ball-room size living room, separate dining room, tile bath, and large utility room. The kitchen has built-in galore. 2-car garage, fenced yard, trees, and nice lawn. It's brick, has about 1,600 sq. ft., and it's on Storey. Attractively priced at $15,750.
PRIVACY FOR THE TOTS is the duty of every parent—it leads to their taking on responsibility and introduces independence. This home is ideally suited to assist you. 3 bedrooms, lovely living room (cocoa colored), dining area, kitchen with pantry, and tile bath. Attached carport, utility room, fenced yard, lawn, paving. Only $2,900 down. It is priced at $11,750.
ECONOMY means getting an "L" of a lot for your much maligned 59-cent American dollar. Try this 4-year-old on your pocketbook just for size. 2 bedrooms and den, invitingly nice living room, spacious kitchen with breakfast area. Paving, trees, lawn, and fenced yard. ONLY $7,900.
SOME USE CHLOROPHYLL, but this home is permeated with the clean, wholesome smell of cedar—because the 20 foot den is completely paneled in cedar wood. But there is lots more. 2 bedrooms, wonderful living room, step-down dining room, 2 baths, and 2 carpets with huge storage room. Lovely kitchen with pantry, 40 growing poplar trees, lawn, and attractive surroundings. On West Cowden. $13,750.
IT'S SO BIG that I think it's got muscles. It's more like Midland—bulging with room. 9 rooms, 3 baths, and in top condition, it's elegant in space, and minuscule in price. Can be purchased for about $3,500 down. Priced at an amazingly low $11,500.
WE POINT WITH PRIDE to the downtown merchants who so beautifully decorate their show windows, and make Midland a GOOD place to shop. There are just too many to enumerate, so a collective congratulations to all!

Only $2,900 down. It is priced at $11,750.
ECONOMY means getting an "L" of a lot for your much maligned 59-cent American dollar. Try this 4-year-old on your pocketbook just for size. 2 bedrooms and den, invitingly nice living room, spacious kitchen with breakfast area. Paving, trees, lawn, and fenced yard. ONLY $7,900.
SOME USE CHLOROPHYLL, but this home is permeated with the clean, wholesome smell of cedar—because the 20 foot den is completely paneled in cedar wood. But there is lots more. 2 bedrooms, wonderful living room, step-down dining room, 2 baths, and 2 carpets with huge storage room. Lovely kitchen with pantry, 40 growing poplar trees, lawn, and attractive surroundings. On West Cowden. $13,750.
IT'S SO BIG that I think it's got muscles. It's more like Midland—bulging with room. 9 rooms, 3 baths, and in top condition, it's elegant in space, and minuscule in price. Can be purchased for about $3,500 down. Priced at an amazingly low $11,500.
WE POINT WITH PRIDE to the downtown merchants who so beautifully decorate their show windows, and make Midland a GOOD place to shop. There are just too many to enumerate, so a collective congratulations to all!

Marlin Grand Jury Indicts Nine; Court Begins First Trials

STANTON—The Marlin County Grand Jury, which reconvened Monday, returned six indictments here Monday afternoon on nine persons charged felonies ranging from burglary to check passing.

Two indictments on charges of burglarizing two homes in the Stanton area on January 10 were returned against Moody Coalson and Betty Jo Aldridge of Odessa, Willard Self of Coahoma and Josephine Self of Midland.

Jo Andrew Gunn and Noble Kirk of Odessa were indicted on charges of the burglary of Dan McDonald's Grocery in Stanton on February 22. Don R. Frather of Luther was indicted on charges of forging and passing a check at the Friendly Food Store in Stanton.

Monroe Clayton Taylor of Littlefield, charged with passing a hot check to Warren G. Jones of Jones Welding Shop in Stanton, was indicted.

Andy Leonard, Stanton, was indicted on charges of defrauding with worthless checks on February 10 to the Clearfield Cheese Company, Inc., Clinton, Mo.

The Grand Jury issued a capias for the nine to be held in the 118th District Court, said Doris Stephenson, district clerk.

The 118th District Court in Marlin County still was in session Tuesday morning and had called a petit jury.

Senate Group Calls Former Red Chieftain

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Earl Browder, deposed in 1946 as U. S. Communist Party chieftain, was billed as leadoff witness Tuesday in a new investigation of the State Department by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis).

McCarthy announced the Senate Investigations subcommittee which he heads is seeking an explanation of why the writings of Browder and other top-flight Communists won, as he put it, "widespread circulation overseas" through State Department libraries.

QUARANTINE LIFTED WASHINGTON—(AP)—Lifting of the federal quarantine for the swine disease, vesicular exanthema, from Bowie County Monday left Texas free of the quarantine regulations.

300 West Texans Pay Tribute To Fred Wemple At Luncheon

Three hundred county officials and other civic leaders from throughout West Texas gathered in Midland Monday to welcome Fred A. Wemple back to his home after completing a six-year job as a member of the State Highway Commission.

Wemple was the guest of honor, along with Marshall Formby of Hereford, his successor, at a civic luncheon sponsored by the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

Highlight of the luncheon, held in conjunction with the weekly meeting of the Midland Kiwanis Club, was the presentation of an engraved plaque by John P. Butler, Midland banker, immediate past chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Highway Committee and a director of the Texas Good Roads Association.

The handsome plaque read: "In appreciation to Fred A. Wemple for six years of outstanding service as a member and chairman of the State Highway Commission of Texas... Presented by the Midland Chamber of Commerce for the people of West Texas... March 23, 1953."

Wemple himself responded by paying tribute to his fellow members on the commission and to the hundreds of highway department employees, who contributed to the development of the highway system in Texas.

On hand for the occasion was E. H. Thornton, Jr., of Galveston, chairman of the commission, who not only paid tribute to Wemple's work but pointed to the recent rapid development of West Texas.

Robert J. Potts of Harlingen, the third commission member, also was present.

F. E. Swenson, vice president of the Kiwanis club, presided at the meeting and vocal selections were sung by Duke Jimerson, accompanied by John Springer at the piano.

These included groups from Kermit, Brownfield, Stanton, Hereford, Lamesa, Seminole, Abilene, Andrews, Gail, Lubbock, Big Spring, Plains, Sterling City, Robert Lee, San Angelo, Sanderson, Pecos, Fort Stockton, Littlefield, Crane, Plainview, Brownfield, Monahans, Colorado City and Denver City.

Upton Water-

As he took the witness stand, Elkins told Judge Casabier that the laying of the eight-inch pipe line in his area would damage the land for grazing purposes.

"It would add erosion and if it was laid on a hill, we'd have to keep running out there to cover it up."

"Wherever they have to disturb the ground to bury the pipe, you find more bitterweeds growing than normal."

If it was brought out, under cross examination, that the issuing of bonds for the district's initial work would cost eight cents for each $100 of valuation.

Jeff Langford, who has a ranch lying south of Rankin, also voiced opposition to the proposal.

He said his own water supply was adequate and that he would not benefit from the creation of a district which would make its water available to him.

Under cross-examination, however, he said that while "it wouldn't help me it might help the general public in a few years."

Other witnesses who testified similarly Tuesday morning were Tom Owens, who ranches west of Rankin, and H. F. Neal of Midland, who owns a ranch in Upton County.

The trial continued Tuesday afternoon.

In addition to the oil companies, those joining in the suit against the water district include E. B. Greathouse, the Elkins, Leonard Procter, Fly Procter, Bert Rosenbaum, B. Sherrod, J. H. Tippett, V. P. Tippett, Neal, J. H. Hill and B. H. Grimes.

Families Get Land In Syrian Project

DAMASCUS, SYRIA—(AP)—Fifteen hundred families have been given land in the Djazirah district through the decree issued a year ago calling for the redistribution of large land holdings and the free distribution of state domain.

Twelve hundred other families will get land within the next few weeks under the program, reports the minister of agriculture.

Shivers Declares War On Conditions Nourishing Crime

AUSTIN—(AP)—Governor Shivers has declared warfare anew on local crime conditions in Texas that may be tied in with political machines.

"It is going to be stamped out if I have anything to do with it," the governor told 200 crime stoppers in conference here with Attorney General John Ben Shepperd.

Neither the governor nor the attorney general specified what section of sections of Texas they were talking about.

But Shivers said he had received numerous requests "to do something about" one particular area. The condition complained of, he said, might be limited to one county.

Militia Powers He said the Constitution gives him power to call out the militia to stamp such dire emergencies as insurrections and riots.

"I don't know whether the condition could be termed an insurrection or not, but it must be stamped out. And I tell you it's going to be stamped out if I have anything to do with it."

The conference is studying suggestions by the House Crime Investigating Committee to set up a central state police authority which would broaden the governor's present powers, along with those of the attorney general and state police.

Optimists Present Awards To Boxers

The Optimists recognized members of the club sponsored boys' boxing team Tuesday at noon in Jimmy's Pit Bar B Q Restaurant. Trophies and awards were presented.

Charles Crites, Pat Morgan and Bill Burns, also were given trophies. The team award went to Bill Burns, who managed the 1953 edition of the Optimist boys' boxing team.

House Group Hears Cry Against Area's Hydroelectric Dams

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Douglas G. Wright, Southwestern power administrator, doesn't join in the belief that hydroelectric power is cheap power in the Southwest.

"The kind of hydroelectric power which is produced in the Southwest is peaking power which, by its very nature, is the most expensive type of power there is," Wright told a House appropriations subcommittee.

Wright's testimony, given early in March, was made public Tuesday.

Wright is administrator of the government agency set up to market power from the "big" governmental-owned hydroelectric power dams in the Southwestern states.

His agency, he said, now is faced with the "certainty of at least minor rate increases, and the probability of a rather major rate increase" chiefly because of the tremendous increase in the cost of construction of the projects.

Five Post Bonds, Face Tyler Charge In Labor Violence

TYLER—(AP)—Three men and two women charged in the shotgun blasting of a strike-bound foundry president's home have been released on bond.

James Gill, 18, and Mr. and Mrs. Grady Alexander have posted bonds for $10,000 each and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hester have posted $1,000 bonds.

Charges against the group grew out of the Wednesday morning events in which two shotgun blasts were fired through a window of the James Smith home here.

Smith is president of the Western Foundry where some 200 members of the Molders and Foundry Workers union have been on strike since February 9.

The Smith County sheriff's office identified Alexander as a union representative.

Sun Executive Says Imports Squeezing Domestic Oil Men

HOUSTON—(AP)—The president of Sun Oil Company said Tuesday domestic oil producers are in a squeeze between rising costs and an inability to obtain higher prices.

Robert G. Dunlop, Philadelphia, Pa., placed the blame on domestic production being replaced by foreign oil imports.

"Even more disturbing is the fact this favor may continue to have a heavy impact on our production activities for many years to come," he said.

"Now when prices have been freed of government control, the domestic producer finds himself facing a wall of mounting imports of oil produced more cheaply than we can now match."

Three Presidents Speak Dunlop spoke before approximately 6,000 oil-finders at a joint convention of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, the Society of Economic Paleontologists and Mineralogists and the Society of Exploration Geophysicists.

Other speakers at Tuesday's joint session included the presidents of the three groups—Morgan J. Davis, Houston geologist, Clifford C. Church, San Francisco, paleontologist, and Curtis N. Johnson, Los Angeles geophysicist.

Dunlop said increases in imports already have caused evidence of a slackening in the drilling pace domestic producers set last year.

The oil executive suggested it would be better for import companies voluntarily to reduce their imports than for domestic producers to seek governmental action through increased tariffs or limiting quotas.

"It is a plea they temper their activities in order to promote this country's current national defense goals," he said. "None of us has any right to do anything that impedes national defense preparation."

Davis said the geologist has become more and more optimistic about an abundance of oil.

"He now sees little chance that the supply of petroleum in the United States, or in the world, will be depleted in the foreseeable future," Davis said.

Church said there was much skepticism when micropaleontology—the interpretation of fossils taken from subsurface geological structures—was introduced to the oil industry.

"But the oil men, true to their tradition, were willing to give it a fair trial," he said. "When its value was proved it was accepted like the many other advances which through the year, have made the difference... between a few thousand barrels of oil per day a few years back and the several million produced today."

Big Spring Refiner Takes Strong Stand For Foreign Crudes

SAN ANTONIO—(AP)—A strong stand for foreign crude oil imports has greeted delegates to the three-day meeting here of the Western Petroleum Refiners Association.

The meeting began Monday. R. L. Tollett, Big Spring, W.P.R.A.'s retiring president, told the group foreign oil imports had little effect on the domestic market.

Thirty per cent of the oil imported, Tollett said, is residual fuel oil used for running diesel engines. The imported unrefined crude is not brought in in large enough quantities, he said, to hurt domestic producers.

"Some of us cannot handle any other kind of crude other than foreign," the Big Spring man said. "Tollett also said he favored increased gasoline taxes for Texas but added that he thought any raise in the tax should be used for improving highways."

Already, he said, the petroleum industry pays more than its share of Texas taxes.

CALLING ARTILLERY ON SELVES—'Damn Good Bunker' Saves Two GI's Behind Red Lines

By STAN CARTER WESTERN FRONT, KOREA—(AP)—Two untrained Americans sat buried in a "damn good bunker" surrounded by Red Chinese Monday night and called thousands of rounds of artillery down on their own heads.

They were saved Tuesday when dawn broke over the battered top of Pork Chop Hill. The Reds were gone or dead.

The two men—Lt. Allen Craig Felger, New Orleans, and Sgt. William A. Cox, Mill Valley, Calif.—were buried five hours while the artillery shells blasted all around them.

Dozens of Chinese died in the hail of fire, officers said. Felger is a forward artillery observer and Cox is a communications man.

They were with 10 other American soldiers in a bunker on the highest point on the northwest part of Pork Chop Hill when the Chinese attacked Seventh Division troops on Pork Chop, T-Bone and Old Baldy.

"I was looking out of the aperture of the bunker," Felger said. "I heard them coming up the front of the hill, but I couldn't see them, the night was so black. They were firing burp guns. They came up pretty quick."

"The Chinks started shelling us. A round came in the aperture of the bunker. After the smoke cleared, we saw three bodies. Someone said, 'Let's get out of here.'"

"The rest—everybody but Cox and myself, took off out the door. They were just a hop, skip and jump ahead of the Chinese."

"The two of us, Cox and I, decided it would be better to stay in the bunker. There were just us and three dead men."

"The Chinese overran us. They opened the door and three times they let go with burp guns and sprayed the inside."

Calls In Fire "I heard the Chinks talking on the outside. They got into our trenches out on the hill. So I called in fire on them. We had radio contact all the time. Thousands, it seems like, rounds were falling on top of our bunker. They were firing 700 rounds a minute—our guns were."

"The artillery fire closed the door of the bunker most of the way. Both apertures were completely closed."

"We were buried there from about 10 o'clock. Just before daylight I heard the Americans outside. They dug us out."

Senators May Dip Into Raw FBI Files On Charles Bohlen

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senators appeared ready Tuesday to dip into raw files of the FBI to satisfy themselves whether Charles (Chip) Bohlen should be sent to Moscow as American ambassador.

Senator Taft of Ohio, the Republican leader, proposed this unusual course near the end of a day of torrid Senate debate Monday on Bohlen's nomination by President Eisenhower.

The Ohioan predicted Senate approval of the appointment, possibly Wednesday.

And Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.), a leader of the opposition, conceded that when the vote comes there may be only four or five votes against Bohlen, a career foreign service officer.

Taft said an examination of the original reports made by FBI investigators—the unevaluated "raw" files—would be a "great protection to Bohlen" in clearing up rumors that he might have associated with immoral persons.

Chairman Wiley (R-Wis.) planned to lay Taft's proposal before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Advance comment of members indicated they would approve having one Republican and one Democratic senator examine alleged derogatory information.

Taft said such an evaluation could be ready when the Senate meets again Wednesday. "an excellent idea." But he also wanted to recall Bohlen for testimony before the committee.

McCarthy also proposed that Bohlen be given a lie detector test on allegations against him turned up by the FBI.

Domestic Oil Men Cry Aloud As Imports Cut Into Market

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK—(AP)—The swelling river of foreign oil flowing to these shores is bringing a loud clamor from domestic oil men.

Small American oil producers and even big companies who have only American oil to sell are asking Congress to erect quota dams against the flood of the cheaper foreign product.

Oil imports now top 1,000,000 barrels a day, about twice the rate in 1948, according to the Independent Petroleum Association.

American production, meanwhile, is being cut back—Texas next month will allow only a 15-day state-wide flow from its wells. Texas has cut production in four months out of the last five.

Small oil companies contend that with production cut back and prices held down by cheap foreign oil, they haven't the money or incentive to drill wells in search of new oil sources—as defense program goals call for.

The Independent Petroleum Association's Import Policy Committee is asking Congress to limit imports of crude petroleum and its products to 10 per cent of the domestic demand during the same period in the previous year. At the current rate, this would cut imports about 300,000 barrels a day.

"Seven large American, British and Dutch firms control substantially all of the oil imported into this country," an association spokesman says. "Their interest must not be placed before the interests of this country."

The importers have their answers to this. One is that they have large sums invested in their overseas oil fields and refineries, and that this oil is cheaper because of labor conditions and freedom from conservation laws abroad. They argue that these oil developments have helped to hold back the spread of communism in those areas.

Oil importers also contend imports are necessary to develop and maintain this country's world sources for emergencies.

This fits in with a widespread demand outside oil circles that U. S. natural resources be saved by using the other fellow's first through imports.

To this the Independent's president, C. H. Lyons, Shreveport, La., replies that we are developing oil fields in the Middle East which we might be unable to protect if the Russians decided to take them over.

Defense plans play a large role in the dispute. The government wants oil reserves in this country built up well above current demand for use if war cuts off foreign sources.

Price Boost Sought
Oil companies with no foreign oil to sell want higher oil prices if they're to risk their money on searching for more oil here.

Companies with both domestic and foreign oil sources say that if they're to put money into drilling here, they should be allowed to bring in their cheaper-produced foreign oil and sell it here to help pay for building up domestic reserves.

Some in the business want the industry to settle its own fight before Congress steps in. Voluntary cutbacks in oil imports would appease domestic producers. One oil man says it would "cause domestic production to perk up like desert flowers in a rain."

American Co-Ed In Free University Of Berlin Gets Close Look At Reds

By FRED SPARKS
NEA Staff Correspondent

BERLIN—The red-haired co-ed walked up to the young Russian soldier and said:

"I'm an American student. I'm sure you speak some German. Can we talk for a few minutes?"

Ivan gripped his Tommy gun as surprised as if a camel had spoken. He backed up.

The co-ed, 21-year-old Ann Margaret "Peg" Kunst, of Pittsburgh, said:

"Oh, come on! There's just a few things I'd like to know."

He continued to stare at Peg, who is indeed a nice item to stare at and said, kind of sorry:

"Please! I'm busy."

Lecture On Ike

Peg seldom is rebuffed so firmly in her determination to understand what makes Communists tick, although so far she's found Red Army men as talkative as minnows.

During the last week behind the Iron Curtain in East Berlin, she attended a lecture at the Soviet House of Culture on: "Eisenhower: What He Means to Europe" (Moscow's view); had dinner in a Communist-run restaurant and talked to young writers; heard a Soviet opera . . .

A few months ago Peg was merely another co-ed at Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., except she found history (almost) as thrilling as quarter-backs. And she knew that today's history is being written largely by a thing called communism.

Wins Scholarship

She day-dreamed about speaking, face-to-face, with the captive peoples. But even if she had the fare, a visa to a Soviet leased land is as easy to get as a front row seat for the Coronation.

One day, whatever Fairy Godfather it is that watches over red-heads, posted an offer of a scholarship to the Free University, in West Berlin. Peg applied, polished her German—and prayed.

When it came through she still had to convince Mom that her daughter, who had never been further than you can go by bus, was going to Berlin—not Siberia. Makes Many Friends

Then one night she was aboard the sealed "Berlin Express," run by the U. S. Army, riding through the heart of Soviet Germany with a nice looking GI guarding the corridor.

She found lodging in a home that bears as many tongues as Ellis Island and was awakened at five a.m. by Moslem students (from Pakistan) sing-singing their dawn prayers while facing East.

Mixing as easily as Scotch and soda, she soon made fast friends with Scandinavians, French, Persians, British, Yugoslavs, Italians and attended a German wedding where the night before the ceremony, guests smashed old china on the bride's doorstep.

Behind The Curtain

She discovered, on assorted dates, that European boys, while they politely kiss your hand on meeting, later try a blitzkrieg approach that makes our roadster romeos look like Little Lord Foulmeries.

At the Free University she features German literature, but her main interest is tripping cross-town to Communist Berlin through the only gate still open in the Iron Curtain.

She always travels with another student and they register their departure with friends in case they're "detained." American authorities would try everything, short of swatting Malekoff with an armored division, to obtain their rapid release.

Eisler Speaks

Actually, she finds those East Berliners not too scared to chat, equally curious, and they ask questions that could only be answered by President Eisenhower.

She's visited state stores, where everything is rationed but breathing; "voluntary" labor gangs mending roads; and endless demonstrations featuring the face of the new "Saint" Stalin.

I accompanied Peg to a rally addressed by Gerhardt Eisler, the one-time American who jumped bail in Manhattan and traveled east via London. Whenever he mentioned John Foster Dulles the crowd wrinkled noses and went "pfeuuus." Peg's polo coat and my double-breasted pin stripe exposed our nationality like a nudist at a DAR convention. We earned dozens of dagger looks and I downed a double cognac in gleeful celebration when we slipped back to free Berlin.

Peg's field studies came west with the recent river of refugees fleeing East Germany. With Harvard student Rudy Kass, of Cedarhurst, N. Y., she's prowled refugee camps preparing a thesis on "Why They Fled."

When Peg Kunst returns to Dickinson next Fall, campus pinkies better watch their words or she'll pin their brains back with a hammer of eyewitness facts.

At "Soviet" (Russian) Monument, Peg tried to ask Russian soldier a few questions. Only answer: "Please! I'm busy."

British sector soldiers proved quite different from Reds. She met these Welsh guards near her Berlin student quarters.

Assorted international dates for Peg include this Danish fellow student at Free University, who is proud of his beard.

Take Care To Avoid Exposure To Harmful Lead Products

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Lead poisoning is a most unpleasant affliction. Although industry has done and is doing a fine job in cutting down on the frequency of this form of poisoning, it still is too common, and people should be alert to the dangers.

The most common form of poisoning from lead is of a chronic variety. This results from absorption of lead in small amounts over a fairly long period of time.

The symptoms take various forms. A blue line around the gums is fairly frequent; some paralysis, usually of the arms, and colicky pains in the bowels are by no means rare. Many victims of chronic poisoning complain of headache and frequently show a tendency towards emotional excitement or depression.

Although less frequent, an acute form of lead poisoning also is recognized. This comes only from rapid absorption of large quantities of lead in a poisonous form and results in severe pain in the abdomen, vomiting, colicky cramps and collapse.

In both acute and chronic poisoning the skin usually develops a waxy color, and the red blood cells when examined under the microscope develop a characteristic appearance.

More important than recognizing the symptoms of lead poisoning when they occur is the exercise of care in preventing exposure to lead in harmful forms.

In the past one of the principal dangers has been from paint containing lead. Because this produced so many difficulties, the lead industries agreed a number of years ago to discontinue the use of lead pigments in all paints which are meant to be used inside houses, and particularly on toys or children's furniture.

This undoubtedly has resulted in some decrease in the amount of lead poisoning, but many paints meant for outdoor use still contain lead and there are occasional cases of poisoning from this source still reported.

Not long ago, for example, the chief of the Bureau of Industrial Hygiene of the city of Cleveland kindly told me of a baby who was hospitalized in that city, suspected

SCIENCE PRODUCES GOOD CONCRETE—The difference between "good" and "bad" concrete depends largely on scientific measuring and weighing on scales such as those pictures above, says Orville Pannell of Pannell Brothers. The sand, gravel, cement and water used in concrete is carefully weighed and measured with the apparatus in order to insure the proper type of concrete for each particular job. Five definite steps are used in preparing the concrete, starting with the measuring of water and ingredients at the plant and ending when the mixing truck arrives on the job—with the concrete ready for immediate use.

Scientific Mixing Assures Concrete Will Last Forever

By JACK PADGETT

Few of us realize the concrete used in all types of modern construction is one of the most scientifically prepared, expertly handled products known to present day building techniques. This writer was amazed to learn of the intricate, painstaking precautions that are taken to insure each batch of concrete used on a certain building will meet the most exacting laboratory requirements for the particular job.

Still fewer of us realize the enormous investment necessary for a firm like Pannell Brothers to keep abreast of present day demands for scientifically prepared concrete.

Concrete is made by a mixture of sand, gravel, cement and water with each ingredient weighed (and the water run through a meter) to fit the specifications desired for a particular type of building. The newest and most modern types of scales are used to weigh the aggregate (the sand and gravel) which goes into a weigh batcher before it gets into a transit mixer truck.

Generally speaking, the following steps are taken to prepare a batch of mixed concrete for a job.

First, determine the amount of free water in the sand which is usually three per cent to five per cent, a delicate testing instrument being used for this purpose.

Second, determine the amount of water required for the batch and then deduct the amount of water already present in the sand from this. The automatic stop meter then is set for the exact gallonage of water (usually about six and one-half to seven gallons to a sack of

Policy And Politics

The people who are watching President Eisenhower at close range all testify to his extreme devotion to his burdensome White House tasks.

There are perfectly understandable reasons for this. Eisenhower is a political amateur and knows it. Furthermore, he believes firmly in the technique of bringing men of diverse views together, in the expectation their differences can be reconciled.

And, as an outgrowth of this attitude, he has leaned over backward to get along with Congress and the widely varied wings of the Republican Party.

The result seems to be that Congress actually is getting no clear political direction from the White House. In consequence, as always happens in such cases, it is being guided by the many factional and individual elements which go to make it up.

So it is that senators and congressmen here and there appear more intent on establishing some kind of individual record, on putting their stamp on current affairs, than they do on contributing to the general success of the Eisenhower Administration.

Yet, ironically, the best chance most of these men have of gaining reelection in 1954 or 1956 is in identifying themselves with the President. By all accounts his popularity at this writing largely is undiminished.

Some legislators grasp this simple truth. But a lot evidently don't think the Eisenhower coattails can give a man much of a ride. They ought to take another look at the November 4 election figures.

In the end, however, the solution to this "every man for himself" trend on Capitol Hill probably rests with Eisenhower. A truly modest man despite his "military mind," he will not find it easy to exert real political authority, to apply pressure to get things done.

A President's political party is one of the great lubricants which help to smooth the workings of the mighty power machine governed from the White House.

When that happens, he may bring his house down on his head, and with it the political party whose hold on power is so tightly bound up with his fortunes.

Careless auto drivers have made the innocent bystander a poor insurance risk on too many occasions.

It really isn't strange that there is usually more room for laughter in a small cottage than in a great mansion.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1953, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.) Drew Pearson says: Railroad-trucking battle reveals amazing public relations; Carl Byoir firm makes trouble with high-binding tactics; Testimony shows paid speaker, subsidized news, supported citizens groups.

WASHINGTON—A new chapter in the battle between the railroads and the trucks has just been revealed in a suit brought by the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association against 31 Eastern railroads and against the eager-beaver public relations firm of Carl Byoir & Associates.

It indicates that the Byoir firm has gotten the railroads into a peck of trouble. For the way this high-powered public relations office went about influencing public opinion was paying a member of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs, by subsidizing a newspaper columnist, putting money behind the Citizens' Tax League of New York, and by paying the expenses of a member of the Maryland State Highway Commission.

How much the Eastern railroads knew about the operations of their public-opinion molder has not been revealed clearly in the court battle—a battle which may result in some moves by Congress.

However, the railroads must have known that Carl Byoir was investigated by the McCormack committee prior to Pearl Harbor for being a propagandist for Nazi Germany, and that official testimony revealed that the Byoir firm "handled the contract with the German Tourist Bureau with the fee for service set at $6,000 a month... The contract was obtained with the help of George Sylvester Viereck (later sentenced to six years in jail for being a Hitler agent)."

The contract was obtained with the help of George Sylvester Viereck (later sentenced to six years in jail for being a Hitler agent). The committee finds that the services given by Carl Byoir Associates were largely of a propaganda nature.

The propaganda technique which Byoir used on behalf of the Eastern railroads, now spread out in sworn testimony, shows the following amazing moves to influence or bamboozle public opinion:

1. Bease Q. Mott, former chairman of the Public Affairs Committee of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs, received $800 monthly from Byoir to make a series of speeches attacking the railroads.

2. Byoir paid "expenses" to Clinton H. Johnson, public relations director for the Maryland State Highway Commission, at the same time the highway commission was conducting crucial tests to determine what effect heavy trucks had on highway maintenance.

3. Sworn testimony by Byoir employee C. Colburn Hardy reveals that Byoir paid newspaper columnist J. Joseph Gribbins about $250 for "research" on truck damage to highways and helped promote sale of Gribbins' column. In a Byoir inter-office memo, Gribbins was described as valuable "because he has never been known to operate as a front man in the past."

4. Byoir's firm prepared anti-trucking speeches for Arterius Leslie, Pennsylvania insurance commissioner. New York State Assemblyman Leo Noonan also received speech-writing help.

5. Testimony reveals Byoir's outfit bought, printed, and mailed thousands of post cards in the name of the Pennsylvania Association of Township Supervisors. This is a group representing the small towns of Pennsylvania.

6. The Citizens' Tax League of New York also came to the support of the railroads. The league was receiving about $300 per month from Byoir through its director, Mr. Menzies.

7. Byoir's firm helped officials of the Ohio State Department of Highways in gathering anti-trucking material. And when the department's public relations director, Harold Cohen, made a trip to New York, Byoir picked up the tab. Using The Farmers... An interoffice memo of June, 1951, to Jerry Swinehart, president of Carl Byoir & Associates, from Reynolds Girdler, a staff member working on the railroad account, sheds further light of the Byoir technique... "When the (railroad) president decided to embark on this program, they decided that a change in their tactics was necessary. They decided to abandon completely attacks by the railroad industry on trucking subsidies, and, in their stead, carry on the fight by means of other affected groups. This meant, in the final analysis, involving other people and getting them to fight your battles... "Obviously, the only people that you could involve directly were people who had some reason to do something for the railroads... "As an example, we were able to mobilize the farm groups partly out of railroad association with certain farm leaders, but mainly through the deal we made in support of the Farm Radio Network. Everyone understood the quid pro quo, so the alliance was a strong and reliable one." (The railroads had purchased time from an upstate New York radio network owned by nine farm organizations.)... "We formed the Empire State Transport League in New York because we needed an organization that could legitimately mail all types of propaganda on the general subject of trucks and highways... "The memo then recites some of the problems involved in stirring up the public against the truckers... "We went first to Charley Symington, of Symington Guild. Everyone in the railroad business told us Charley would do anything to help the railroads. Charley quaked the job neatly. Others either ducked out entirely or promised to do things they never did. We wound up with a few fellows, some of whom allowed their names to be used, but that was all... "One motor club we tried to get was largely owned by a director of the Erie Railroad. We tried to get Johnston, president of the Erie, to speak to his director and get that motor club to join the fight. We never heard another word... "The 1951 memo concludes with a recommendation that the railroad presidents be urged to show more interest in the campaign so their subordinates would be more cooperative... "Thus developed the million-dollar-a-year campaign to "educate" the American public.

Six Investigations Of IIA And 'Voice' Are Enough To Ruin Employee Morale

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—If morale among Voice of America and other U. S. International Information Administration employees is completely shot, it's no wonder. There now are six separate investigations and reorganization studies going on over what to do with the things.

Wisconsin Senator Joe McCarthy's Government Operations Committee holds it out to daily scorn. Senator Burke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa has a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee probing it. Dr. Robert L. Johnson, the new head of IIA, is trying to work it over. Nelson Rockefeller's White House Reorganization Committee is trying to re-staff it.

President Eisenhower's psychological experts, William S. and C. D. Jackson, will make a report in May. Finally, the IIA Public Advisory Committee under Mark May of Yale is advising that the Voice be taken out of the State Department—which is exactly what ex-Senator Bill Benton wanted to do seven years ago. Hole In The Argument

Congressmen bent on cutting taxes before the budget is balanced have come up with a new argument. It's that the country would be better off with a tax cut and an unbalanced budget involving expenditures of say, $68,000,000,000 and tax receipts of say, $64,000,000,000 than it would be with taxes kept high and a balanced budget of around $74,000,000,000.

The plea is to cut both expenses and taxes, rather than keep taxes up to a higher expenditure level. "While there is a belief that the lower expenditures and lower tax levels would put less of a strain on the country, the catch in this argument is that any unbalancing of the budget adds to the national debt, increases government interest requirements and adds to the inflationary pressures.

There's a big, double-acrostic cross-word puzzle contest going on for a new name for "psychological warfare" that does not imply that it is an aggressive part of a cold war, or identified with wartime propaganda of any kind. President Eisenhower himself gave the tip-off on this when he told a press conference he did not like the name "psychological warfare," but that nobody had thought up a better name for it yet.

The catch in the old name is that it implies that the United States is not promoting peace. The Communists on the other hand—who are the real aggressors in this business—have successfully put over the idea that all their propaganda is for peace.

State Department's former line for Voice of America and other international information programs was that it was waging a "campaign of peace."

thousand businessmen from 30 free countries are expected to attend.

H. J. Heinz, II, Philip D. Reed, Thomas J. Watson, Warren Lee Pierson and other U. S. business leaders will head the American delegation. The theme of the meeting will be "World Trade Is Everybody's Business" and one purpose will be to argue the case of dynamic capitalism—in opposition to communism—as the key to future world progress.

The following sign, slogan, motto or whatever you want to call it is pasted on the back lamp of a new stenographer in the U. S. Treasury. "A sensible girl is one who is more sensible than she looks, because a sensible girl has more sense than to look sensible."

One of the big jobs of the secretaries of Army, Navy and Air Force will be an attempt to simplify military projects. This long has been a pet project of President Eisenhower.

As a commanding general in the field, he found that planes, tanks, guns and other weapons were entirely too complicated by gadgets. They were nice gadgets to have, but they weren't essential. The way the jeep had been loaded down with extras offers a typical example. It's the extra gadgets that add to the cost.

Eisenhower's idea is that control weapons might have all the fancy gear. The actual combat vehicles and weapons could then be simplified at a great saving in cost.

What we are going to have to solve," says General Henshey, "is the question of whether raising a substitute for the armed forces of the future is more important than service now."

A free-enterprise propaganda answer to the Communist peace congress held in Vienna last year, may be provided in May by the biennial Congress of the International Chamber of Commerce. This meeting likewise will be held in Vienna, on the edge of the Iron Curtain. A Q—Can wild canaries sing? A—Not as well as tamed birds bred for the quality of their song.

Q—Where did the Pennsylvania Dutch originate? A—In Switzerland and the Rhineland.

Q—How did the gentian plant get its name? A—Gentius, a king of ancient Illyria, first discovered its medicinal properties.

Q—Why were workers in logging camps called "shanty boys"? A—Because of their love of singing. Early French loggers were called "chanteurs," French for singers and this eventually became shanty boys.

Q—When was Oxford University opened to women? A—Permitted to attend lectures since 1881, they have been admitted to full membership and allowed to take degrees since 1920.

Q—What about that big city—what's its name? "No," Bob was saying, "we never got to New York. We got to that other big city—Chicago. But past there the roads kept getting worse and worse—trees growing up, trees fallen around everywhere, lots of washouts, bridges gone. So we had to shift one way or the other, looking for..."

Ish caught Ezra's eye. In that glance he seemed momentarily to sense danger, and he knew that Ezra too was watching Charlie. Ish felt himself both reassured and justified. Ezra knew people, Ezra liked people. If Ezra was so quickly perturbed at Charlie, there must be something about which to be wary.

He brought himself back to what was being said. "... wear funny clothes," he heard Dick's voice saying. "Long white gowns, sort of and they have long white sleeves in them. The men and the women both wear them. They throw stones at us. They yelled, 'Unclean! unclean!'"

After dinner had been got on the table and they were seated, there were a great many questions to ask. Ish let Em do most of the talking with Bob. She had all the mother's worries to settle. Had they been sick? Found plenty to eat? Slept warm?

Discussion of the trip itself was being reserved until the others returned after dinner, and Ish felt also that he should not pump Bob about Charlie. Yet he could not resist the temptation entirely, and Bob showed no reticence. "Oh," he said, "Charlie? Sure, we just picked him up about ten days ago, down near Los Angeles. There are quite a few people I guess, living around Los Angeles. There are some all together, like us, and a few just scattered. Charlie was by himself. "Did you ask him to come along, or did he just come with you?" Ish watched, carefully. He saw that Bob was surprised by the question, but apparently not disturbed. "Oh, I don't just remember. I don't know that I asked him. Maybe Dick did." (To Be Continued)

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY Written for NAB Service

When North bid four clubs in today's hand he knew his partner would recognize this as a mild slam try. If North had wanted to show a real club suit, he would have done so at his second chance instead of bidding one no-trump.

North was not afraid of unduly encouraging his partner since his rebid of one no-trump sharply had limited the possible strength of the North hand.

As it happened, South had enough strength to insist on a game but cashed his remaining top clubs, discarding a low heart from dummy on the last. His next step was to lead a low trump, forcing East to win with the ace. East dared not return a heart and thought it unwise to lead up to dummy's diamonds. East therefore returned a club, and declarer discarded a second heart from his hand, ruffing in dummy.

Harmon now ruffed a low diamond in his hand and put West in with a trump. At this point, West was helpless. If West returned a diamond, dummy would get a second free finesse, and South would get rid of his last two low hearts. Hence West returned his low heart.

Harmon knew East held the king of hearts, since otherwise East would have led a heart rather than a club at his previous turn. Hence he decided to play West for the jack of hearts.

When the nine of hearts was played from dummy, East had Hobson's choice. If he covered, South would win with the ace and could return the queen of hearts. If East played low, dummy could cash the diamond ace and lead the heart queen to bring in the rest of the hearts.

EARTH ABIDES

By GEORGE R. STEWART

XXV ONE late afternoon Ish was talking with Joey. Ish had collected some money, and was teaching Joey a little about history and the old economy. Joey liked the jingly nickels with the figure of the strange humped animal. As a young child would have done even in the Old Times, he preferred the nickels to the uninteresting bills with their picture of a bearded man who looked something like Uncle George.

Just as he thought he had put the point across, he heard a strange and yet old and familiar sound. It came again, much closer—the too-a-too-toot of a horn! "Hey, Em!" he yelled. "They're back!" He jumped up, letting the bills scatter from his hand to the floor.

He and Em and the children all came rushing out, and there was a universal running and yapping of dogs, just as the jeep came down the road. It was dirty and traveled worn and banged about, but it had got through.

The boys stood there, surrounded by a little mob of yelling children. Ish held back, almost diffident. Then his eyes caught another movement. Someone else in the jeep. Ish had a sharp sense of alarm, of resentment, at the intruder.

First, as the head was thrust out from the low door, Ish saw a bald crown and a brown beard, which would have been handsome if it had not been stained with tobacco and dirt-looking, and scraggly around the edges where it had been haggled with scissors. The man stepped out, and slowly straightened up.

Ish, almost in panic, appraised him. A big fellow—tall and large-framed and heavy! He was powerful, and yet there had been little vigor in his movement as he straightened up. Yes, powerful, but with some inner trouble, and too heavy! The pudgy fat of the chick-feathered face had squashed in upon the eyes, narrowing them. "Fig-eyes!" thought Ish. The children were milling around, and the man stood in their midst, just as he had stepped down from the car and looked up, and saw Ish, and the two boys met. The man's little fat-encroached eyes were bright blue. He smiled at Ish.

Ish smiled back, though he raised the corners of his mouth only by conscious effort. "Should have smiled first," he was thinking. "He put me at my ease. I should have done it with him. He's powerful, even though his fat looks soft and unhearty."

Ish broke up the situation by striding forward to grasp Bob's hand. But even as he did so, the newcomer was still in his mind. "About my age," he was thinking. Now Bob was making the introduction. "This is our friend Charlie," he said simply, and he slipped Charlie on the back. "Glad to see you!" Ish managed to say, but even the old meaningless words did not slide out naturally.

Now Bob had taken Charlie away, to introduce him to the others. Ish felt his resentment growing, not decreasing. "Careful!" he thought. But he had imagined the return as a reunion with no discordant elements. And here was Charlie! "Oh," he said, "Charlie? Sure, we just picked him up about ten days ago, down near Los Angeles. There are quite a few people I guess, living around Los Angeles. There are some all together, like us, and a few just scattered. Charlie was by himself. "Did you ask him to come along, or did he just come with you?" Ish watched, carefully. He saw that Bob was surprised by the question, but apparently not disturbed. "Oh, I don't just remember. I don't know that I asked him. Maybe Dick did." (To Be Continued)

Have A Laugh

By BOYCE HOUSE

A friend of mine, married, of course, asks, "Why is it that a wife never misses seeing a blond hair on your coat but she can't see that there's a button off that same coat?"

Q—When was Oxford University opened to women? A—Permitted to attend lectures since 1881, they have been admitted to full membership and allowed to take degrees since 1920.

Q—What about that big city—what's its name? "No," Bob was saying, "we never got to New York. We got to that other big city—Chicago. But past there the roads kept getting worse and worse—trees growing up, trees fallen around everywhere, lots of washouts, bridges gone. So we had to shift one way or the other, looking for..."

Ish caught Ezra's eye. In that glance he seemed momentarily to sense danger, and he knew that Ezra too was watching Charlie. Ish felt himself both reassured and justified. Ezra knew people, Ezra liked people. If Ezra was so quickly perturbed at Charlie, there must be something about which to be wary.

He brought himself back to what was being said. "... wear funny clothes," he heard Dick's voice saying. "Long white gowns, sort of and they have long white sleeves in them. The men and the women both wear them. They throw stones at us. They yelled, 'Unclean! unclean!'"

After dinner had been got on the table and they were seated, there were a great many questions to ask. Ish let Em do most of the talking with Bob. She had all the mother's worries to settle. Had they been sick? Found plenty to eat? Slept warm?

Discussion of the trip itself was being reserved until the others returned after dinner, and Ish felt also that he should not pump Bob about Charlie. Yet he could not resist the temptation entirely, and Bob showed no reticence. "Oh," he said, "Charlie? Sure, we just picked him up about ten days ago, down near Los Angeles. There are quite a few people I guess, living around Los Angeles. There are some all together, like us, and a few just scattered. Charlie was by himself. "Did you ask him to come along, or did he just come with you?" Ish watched, carefully. He saw that Bob was surprised by the question, but apparently not disturbed. "Oh, I don't just remember. I don't know that I asked him. Maybe Dick did." (To Be Continued) the sale of isotopes to foreign governments for research, fearing leaks of information to potential enemies. Detection Network Admiral Straus was largely responsible for developing a worldwide detection network for collecting intelligence on foreign experiments with nuclear weapons.

Former Hoover Staff Member Works In White House Again

Since his retirement, Admiral Straus has divided his time between his New York office and a livestock farm in Culpeper County, Va., which he calls his home, and where he had hoped to live quietly as a Virginia gentleman.

Spiritual Diary for Lent

Make a quiet life your ambition.

1 Thessalonians 4:11 (Weymouth).

Today's Message We are an ambitious people, but here, in our text, the Apostle Paul suggests an ambition that hardly would have occurred to active Americans of this modern age.

A quiet life is not to be symbolized by a mute Sphinx, a smiling Buddha or a sequestered hermit. It is not to be identified with the silence of indifference, the death or desire of artificial repose.

A quiet life performs its charity without the sounding of trumpets; extends its sympathy to the burdened and bereaved without the conventional chatter; and fulfills its mission in the calm assurance that "all things will work out for the good of those who love God."

R. PAUL SCHEARER Takoma Park Church, Washington, D. C.

Today's Prayer

O God, whose power doeth cause the light of each new day to break upon us in silence, grant that we may come to know that "in quietness and confidence shall be our strength." Amen.

Factories Prove Safer Than Home

WILMINGTON — Industrial surveys indicate modern industrial plants and laboratories are far safer than the home.

E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company reports more workers were injured away from their jobs in January than were hurt on the job last year.

Of du Pont's 76,000 employees, 144 were injured away from work in January. Du Pont, which set a safety record last year, had only 86 at-work injuries in all of 1952.

It has been estimated that aluminum forms about one-thirteenth of the earth's crust.

During the 1928 campaign Straus was the youngest partner in the Kuhn Loeb banking house in New York—worked actively for Hoover's election to the presidency.

Admiral Straus still regards Hoover as the greatest of living Americans and he has done everything that he could to refute what he considers the unjustified smears against the Hoover administration record.

Next to Hoover, Admiral Straus has greatest admiration for the late Secretary of Defense James V. Forrestal, under whom he served in the Navy during World War II.

Admiral Straus got into the Navy in 1926 as a reserve lieutenant commander. He was called to active service in 1941 for duty in naval ordnance, then went into Munitions Board and joint Army-Navy procurement work.

He is credited with having originated the Navy "E" for "Efficiency" award given war-time contractors. His work in procurement won him promotion to rear admiral. He is one of the few reserve naval officers to attain flag rank.

Admiral Straus was appointed to the original Atomic Energy Commission in 1946. To accept this $15,000 post he had to resign all his business connections and sell all his stock.

At AEC, Admiral Straus was particularly interested in the medical research aspects. His parents had both been afflicted by cancer and this intensified his work in this field.

He was also greatly concerned with security aspects. He opposed

Volcano Prodded To Lure Tourists Away From Capri ISHIALE OF ISCHIA, ITALY — Engineers are putting a long-dead volcano back to work to help transform this sleepy little fisherman's island into a modern tourist resort like nearby Capri.

They have drilled 1,700 feet down into towering Mt. Epomeo, central peak of the island, which was formed by volcanic upheaval in Naples Bay. There they struck live steam—a spout which shot 100 feet into the air before they managed to cap it.

Now they are piping the steam to generators where they hope to produce enough electric power to awaken peaceful Ischia to modern ways. Ischia has slept quietly through the last half century during which smaller Capri won world fame. Ischia is larger and even more scenic. It has drawn an increasing tourist trade since the war, but mostly its life is fishing and wine producing.

Californians Study Minute Fog Droplets LOS ANGELES — To gain a better understanding of how fog is formed, a University of California at Los Angeles research team is probing the microscopic world inside tiny fog droplets.

Droplets are caught on specially prepared screens, no larger than the head of a pencil over which an ultrathin collodian film has been spread. They are photographed through a light microscope shortly after being caught. Later evaporated remains of the droplets are photographed through the higher magnification of the electron microscope.

Daddy Ringtail

Daddy Ringtail And The Purple Cow

A man once said he had never seen a purple cow. He never hoped to see one. But, he said, he had much rather see than be one. Mugwump Monkey, the monkey boy, now had dreamed that he was a purple cow, because he wasn't big enough to be a cow. He still had the head of Mugwump, but the rest of him was purple cow—all over.

"Now I'm a purple cow," said Mugwump to himself. "I wish the man were here to see me, but he isn't, and I'm going to find out why he would rather see than be a purple cow."

Having said these words, Mugwump hurried away down the Elephant Path. He hurried away through the woods until at last he came to the pasture at Old MacDonald's farm.

The sun was just going down when Mugwump jumped the fence and into the pasture he went and hurried away to find the cows that belonged to Old MacDonald. He got lost, because the pasture was so big, but he found the cows at last.

The cows were happy to see him, think, but they were busy eating the supper that Old MacDonald had brought them, and they didn't say anything.

Old MacDonald was happy to see him too. "Well, well, well," said Old MacDonald to himself. "Looks like I have another cow." "Moo!" said Mugwump. He was really trying to tell Old MacDonald that he was really himself. Mugwump, and not a cow at all. But a "moo" was all the noise his mouth would make. "Moo!"

"Quiet, little cow," said Old MacDonald. "Now don't you fret yourself. Old MacDonald is happy to have you here at his farm."

The night had come, and Old MacDonald couldn't see that Mugwump was really a purple cow. "I'll strike a match," said the old fellow to himself, "and see what my new cow looks like." He did strike a match, and he did look.

"Help!" cried Old MacDonald. "Help! This cow is purple!"

Old MacDonald was so frightened to see a purple cow—because he had never hoped to see one—he ran home as fast as he could and slept beneath his bed all night. He waited to see what he would see when morning came, and that is the story I'll tell you tomorrow. Happy day!

Unique Self-Help Schools Combat World's Illiteracy

By PETER EDSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
PATZCUARO, MEXICO—The Regional Center for Fundamental Education in the picturesque mountain lake town of Patzcuaro has graduated its first class of 45 students from 17 Latin American countries.

Few people have heard of this remote rural school, but history may record it as the beginning of the first organized attempt to wipe out illiteracy.

Half of the people in the world today cannot read or write. They have no idea of what constitutes ordinary sanitation and health measures. Most of them do not have enough to eat for a minimum basic diet and they have no knowledge of how to go about raising enough food for their own needs. Their life expectancy is 30 years, on the average.

These are the problems the Regional Center for Fundamental Education was set up to tackle.

The idea was born in the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization—UNESCO—at its Paris meeting last year. Jaime Torres Bodet of Mexico was president of UNESCO when he used his influence in his own country to get the first unit started at Patzcuaro.

It has been so successful that a second center was opened in Egypt, for the Arab countries, this year. Other centers are planned for Equatorial Africa, India and the Far East.

Fundamental Lore
Purpose of the center is not to educate the illiterates themselves, but to train some 5,000 fundamental education specialists. They will then return to their countries and train others for the vast job of rural education on the simplest, most basic facts of ordinary life and living.

Head of the Patzcuaro center is Dr. Lucas Ortiz of Mexico, who has had a big part in building up his country's rural school system in recent years.

Home Economics
The faculty includes several experts from the United States. Among them are Emile Tejada, head of the agricultural training, and Margarita Martinez, in charge of the home economics training. Both came from New Mexico, where they have had wide experience in training the North American Indians of the U. S. Southwest.

Outside fundamental school, two Mexican girls look at a collection of posters which are heart of literacy campaign.

The program covers health, agriculture, home economics and literacy. Each country participating selects one member to specialize in each field. For practical experience, student-teachers do field work in 20 small villages surrounding the Lake Patzcuaro region.

They provide a perfect laboratory. Right across the road from the entrance to the school, for instance, native Mexicans can be found living in the most primitive huts.

Slogans Help
Teaching primitive, illiterate people to move the pigs and cows and chickens out of the house is the first step in this program which Americas Margarita Martinez and Emile Tejada are trying to get across.

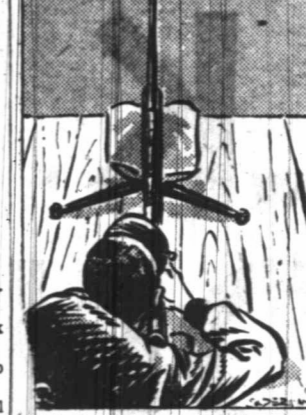

They teach the teachers to teach their lessons through the most primitive form of picture education—posters, and easily memorable slogans. "Boil the water before drinking it."

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By Warren Page
Shooting Editor

Most hunters are very well satisfied with a deer rifle that is capable of putting five shots into a three-inch circle a hundred yards away. But what do you think of a rifle—and a rifleman—capable of keeping 50 shots, five ten-shot strings, in 5008 inches at a hundred yards, or the same number of shots over two hundred yards of range in inside 1.941 inches?

That means averaging just over half a minute of angle for a hundred rounds—and shooting in competition, with a hundred other characters along the same firing line banging away at the same time.

Lyle Heap of Portville, in upper New York State, did just that in winning the National Bench Rest Championship for 1952. The feat earned him the acclaim of shooters everywhere, and he also took home the Field & Stream Trophy, a big sterling silver bowl emblematic of the absolute tops in rifle accuracy.

Heap an old-timer in the bench rest shooting game, is one of the most consistent winners. In 1952 he not only was grand aggregate winner at two of the biggest shoots in the country, at Dublin, Pa., and Johnstown, N.Y., but picked up the shekels for all manner of individual match wins during the summer—and a year or two back he was winning laurels out Seattle way.

Bench shooting, which requires a peculiar combination of absolute nervelessness and the ability to shoot a rifle in exactly the same way over one or two whole days of firing, is strictly Heap's apple. He's the kind of shooter who might achieve what all experiment-minded riflemen are striving for—10 shots into the same bullet hole without enlarging it. If you think you're hot, and have a really accurate rifle, see how often you can keep five shots inside an inch!

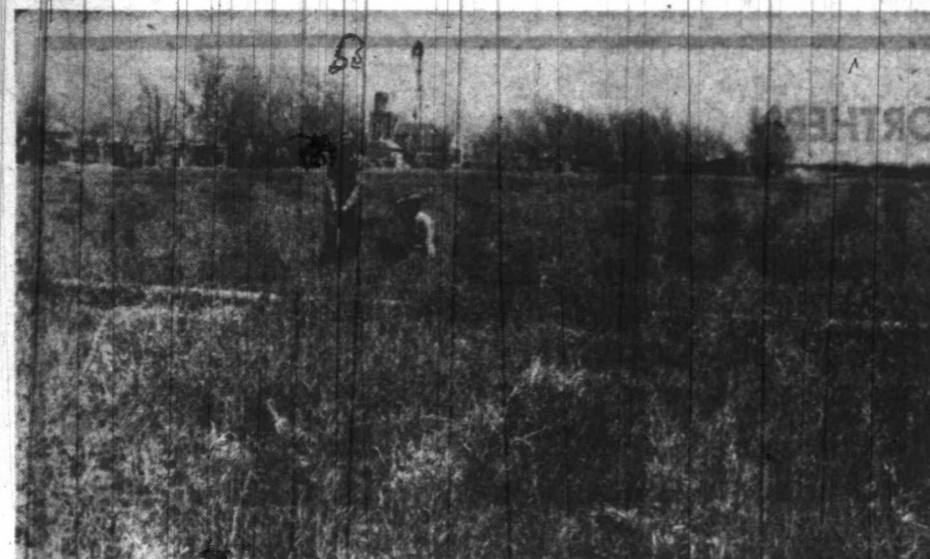

The precision weapon Lyle shot was made about three years ago by gunsmith Taylor & Robbins of Riford, Pa., a massively stocked 18-pound gun with a special barrel by John Gregoire, chambered for that famous wildcat cartridge the .219 Donaldson. And a 30-power scope sight by Fecker. This weapon upssets widely held ideas as to how fast the hot-shot .22 center-fire cartridges erode the accuracy from a rifle barrel—it had fired some 3,000 shots before Lyle started his National Match course at Johnstown.

Bench rest shooting undoubtedly gives a gun a more "mild" breeze than any other form of shooting sport. Yet there's nothing nutty about the results. Since the NERSA really got going after the war, bench activities have fostered the development of better and better scopes for sighting highly accurate bullets, and tricks of rifle building that make ordinary sporters twice as accurate as they were a decade or two back.

Eisenhower's Girl Friday Can Shoot Rifle With Accuracy Of Annie Oakley

By PATTI SIMMONS
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—Eisenhower's secret service men can relax. A pretty blonde sharpshooter is stationed within desk range of the President.

Trigger-happy Helen Elizabeth Weaver is also a gal with a double-barreled personality. The blue-eyed Annie Oakley scores equally with a typewriter or a rifle, with a stack of medals to prove the latter.

Old Ike Hands
Chief Yeoman Weaver, from Hanover, Pa., is one of two personal secretaries to the President. She's had some trouble remembering the new title for her old boss, for she took his dictation when he sported shoulder stars at SHAPE headquarters in France.

Her other personal secretary is Mrs. Edmund Whitman, who was the power behind the typewriter in the hectic campaign days, on the train and later in the Hotel Commodore headquarters in New York. Signal To Quit

The men at the Commodore always considered her the most reliable timeclock in the place. When Ann Whitman grabbed her pad and descended like a blithe spirit into the office of the President-elect, then dashed out for five minutes typing time and swept back inside again, it was a safe bet that the last letter of the day was about to be signed. Every single person knew the General was ready to close shop and head for home.

Getting Mrs. Whitman on the White House phone is almost as tough a job as reaching Dwight Eisenhower. But it stands to reason she wouldn't have time, even to sharpen a pencil for the President, if she were to talk to everyone who wanted to talk to the boss.

The Eisenhowers
Mrs. Whitman has more than her share of two qualities that ought to make her indispensable at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue—high efficiency and a fine sense of humor.

She is also keeper of the "Eisenhower's" one of her favorite extracurricular chores at the Commolittle bugs that Ike would attach to his desk by a suction gadget so they could leap at unsuspecting guests in the middle of a conversation.

They Keep Secrets
In their other jobs, both Mrs. Whitman and Chief Yeoman Weaver will guard a lot more than Eisenhower's secrets. The gals will be expected to sit on White House secrets and international confidences.

For 16 years before she started taking orders from Ike, Mrs. Whitman worked for New York philanthropist David Levy. A graduate of Antioch College in Ohio, she comes from New York, where her husband is Director of Public Relations for the United Fruit Company.

WAVE Weaver has had plenty of practice at handling top brass secrets since enlisting in the Navy in 1944. She has held jobs in the offices of Admirals Chester Nimitz, Louis Denfeld and Forrest P. Sherman.

Which Is He?
Before putting on a uniform, Yeoman Weaver did bookkeeping for a York County, Pennsylvania, farming outfit.

You'll have to blame it on Ike that there's not more to record about Helen's life. Before we could get another question out, Yeoman Weaver's voice took on an excited tone.

"Oh, I'm sorry," she chirped. "I'll have to go. The general's buzzing. As she prepared to dash into the big private office, she corrected herself.

"I mean, the President's buzzing."
