In the sixth century the plague broke out in the East, and sweeping over Africa, Asia and Europe, destroyed, it is estimated, 1000,000, on the lies thick and eighty feet in height. It has cost, up to this time, $4,500,600, which has been collected by the tithing tax. It will require six more years to finish the work. Probably no other church building in the United States has been constructed in a way to secure such durability as is possible to this. Our special correspondent sends us the following description of a display arrangement which he saw at the ranch of Woodhull Bros., and misery. In the sixteenth century the plague ravaged the world again. Constantinople lost 200,000 people, and in and around Rosse, Naples and other cities of Italy, 400,000 died in five years.

Fifteen millions perished in China and 30,000,000, died in the countries bordering on the Red. Black and Mediterranean Seas. Marseilles lost 75,000 inhabitants in six months, and in and around London 250,000 died in three years, and in that city fires were kept burning day and night a long time to purify the air, which seemed vitiated several years. Ireland lost 300,000 people, Paris 100,000, Madrid 75,000, Alexandria 50,000, and the total loss of life of the plague and famine of the sixteenth century is estimated at 120,000,000. Notice of Importance.

A convention for the purpose of electing delegates to the National mocratic convention, will be held in the court room on Satur-day May 17th. All are cordially invited to attend. R. W. LANDRUM, Chairman Executive committee Tom Green County.

Our Next Representative.

Few, if any, of our readers will deny that the present prosperity of this county and town is due to the stock interest, and the stock interest alone. That interest imperatively demands that our next representative shall be a man capable of presenting the needs of Western Texas to the next legislature in such a manner as to gain the attention of that body. Col. W. M. Yandell, we n to believe might be persuaded to accept the office. Of his character and acquirements it is needless to speak, as a man and a gentleman he stands without a superior in this state. His name and that of his late partner, Col. Jno. R. Jefferson, are identified with the stock interest of West Texas. We throw out this hint to the stockmen of Tom Green. If they are wise they will not neglect

The comptroller notifies drummers that they must pay one year's license in advance, and that it is a personal tax, non-transferable.

The comptroller is receiving numerous letters from parties, who having paid up their taxes, are surprised to find that the lands on which they paid their taxes had been sold for the taxes they paid. The trouble arises from carelessness in some of the collectors in reporting sales. When lands bought in are redeemed, the comptroller holds, the costs so paid in should be divided between the county collector who advertised and never received costs or commissions from the state, and the collector who finally received the money for which the land was redeemed.

Speaking of the practice of carrying concealed weapons, the New York Herald concludes a somewhat lengthy editorial article as follows: "There is some appear-ance that we shall have to make one of these days a whole adaptation of our code to the provalance of the pistol. Laws against carrying concealed weapons prove ineffective for want of enforcement; but if the law presumed that every person who carried weapons intended to use them, and If there were a statutory basis for assuming that every person who pointed a deadly weapon at another intended all the possible consequences of that act, it might be easy to inflict penalties that would make the pistol less popular as a plaything.

N. Landrum has opened out a general feed store, at which he would be pleased to wait upon the citizens of San Angelo, and the surrounding country, promising to sell as low as any one will, goods of a similar quality, and intends keeping a delivery wagon in connection with his business. His goods consists of northern corn, oats, bran, hay, meal and eggs, and as soon as can be procured vegetables of various kinds will be kept, all of which he will sell as low as possible to live by. Go and try him and you will be pleased.

Next to feed and forage, good shelter is the most important question to stockmen, and in this connection we desire to bring to the notice of the stockmen of Texas, particularly those having ranges on the open plains, the advanges of the Eucalyptus, or sweet Gum of Australia, as a protection for stock from storms and the burning sun in summer, and its importance as fuel.

In many places in Texas, particularly in the Northwest-there is no fuel to be had conveniently except a few roots of bushes, and no protection for stock except the natural depression of the ground, and as a consequence, stock drift, during storms, away from the range in search of shelter, causing great loss and expense to owners. We do not know any one in Texas who has given it a trial, but from what we know of it, have no doubt it would grow in any part of the state. We have seen it growing in its natural state on what we -in fully as dry a climate as this, where there was nothing else growing on the ground except a few clinging vines. The trees were large and thrifty, from two to four feet in diameter, with dense foliage, making a perfeet shade, or shelter from the storms. We have seen a grove in Southern California, (where they have less than ten inches of rain yearly) less than three years old, with trees from three to five inches in diameter, making a perfect shelter HARDWARE, winter. This grove was planted on an open prairie for fuel and shelter, and the owner informed us he was so well pleased with the experiment that he would plant several more on his range.

It is especially adapted to Western Texas, from its ability to withstand drouth, and from the fact that it is an evergreen, and would not only furnish shade in summer, but protection as well.

As an article of fuol, there is in growth or better for fuel. We was selling wood, which he told us next September. was paying him better than any

A rousing old time was had in the city election of New Orleans April 15th. The inspectors of election appointed by the present mayor, were ejected from the polls by the deputy sheriffs appointed for the day by the other city faction, and the mayor has declared the election illegal.

A new, strange disease has broken out among the cattle in the south part of the state, which is called the "crazy disease." The cattle seems to be in great suffering, and cut up all sorts of pranks in their frenzy.
