DEVELOPMENT CONGRESS FOR ALL OF WEST TEXAS

Movement is Launched at Hurriedly Arranged Meeting of Business Men

MASS MEETING CALLED FOR NEXT WEDNESDAY

At This Gathering Objects of Organization Will be Set Forth in Detail—Concerns This Entire Section

To the Business Men of San Angelo: Conforming to the request of a committee of citizens, a mass meeting of business men is hereby called for 4 o'clock Wednesday, at the San Angelo Club rooms.

City Builders Gather.

The West Texas Development Congress! That's what the new idea, or rather the old idea in a new form, will likely be christened.

Final details of the complete organization will be agreed upon at a mass meeting of people interested in spreading education about West Texas.

After much discussion, it was finally agreed to request the directory of the Business Club to call a mass meeting of interested citizens to be held in the rooms of the San Angelo Club on next Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The general committee will meet again at 3 o'clock Wednesday to adopt the report that will be submitted by the subcommittee.

The entire meeting, which lasted over two hours, was marked by intense interest and unanimity.

Upon motion Col. Baker then appointed the following as a committee to attend to the details of this meeting: Brown F. Lee, C. T. Paul, J. W. Hill, W. T. Bartholomew, M. T. Mertz, George Habelstein, Geo. E. Wash, D. C. McCaleb, and upon motion Col. Baker was added to the committee.

COKE W. HARKRIDER MERELY OF TEXAS

Formerly Choir Singer in San Angelo. Now With Insurance Company, With Dallas Headquarters.

Coke W. Harkrider, formerly of Abilene, but who outgrew the possibilities of so small a place some time ago, and who of late has been largely merely of Texas, is in the city. Mr. Harkrider is the financial representative of the Lone Star Insurance company, now in the process of organization in Dallas. This new company has some of the wealthiest men in the South at the head of its affairs and it also has enough money to buy up one or two organized counties in this state. "I have been over a large part of Texas recently," comments Mr. Harkrider, "and in all my travels I have found no section that compares with San Angelo from a standpoint of prosperity of its people and prolificacy of crops. The yield in a radius of 100 miles from this city of all kinds of farm products grown in Texas surpasses this year the yield of any other section in which I have visited. Many years ago I lived in this city. In those days I was a singer in a choir and no man who has ever been a singer in a choir in a place as small as San Angelo was when I made this my domicile, can have ought but the kindest feelings for such a place. Those were dear old days, and happy days. San Angelo then had the prettiest girls and the best men I ever saw before or since. I would dearly love to roll back life's curtain to my spring days and again be a singer in San Angelo, but that, I know, alas, is never to be." Mr. Harkrider, prior to the passage of the Robertson law in an undesignated form, was one of the most successful writers of insurance in the South. Since the larger companies have been driven from the state, Mr. Harkrider has been doing his part toward developing the life insurance field in Texas, and he is meeting with great and deserved success.

Nun Flings Herself On Horns of Bull, Saving Lives.

Publishers Press. Berlin, Oct. 11.—The Cologne Volkszeitung publishes a remarkable story of a nun's bravery, shown during an encounter with a bull, and vouches for its accuracy. The nun is one of three Sisters of the Order of Saint Vincent, who have charge of a large dairy near Rottenmunster, Wurtemberg. The bull attacked a sixty-five-year-old herdsman, who was pinned against a wall. Two other men were too frightened to interfere, but the nun ran from the dairy, fung herself on the animal and seized its horns. She actually succeeded in throwing the bull of its feet, and before it could rise again the nun and the three laborers were in safe shelter.

T. L. Odom Says Robert Lee Will Have Railroad Before Another Year.

"Robert Lee is just as certain to get a railroad before another year rolls around as two and two make four," declares T. L. Odom, of the hustling county seat of Coke county. "You see, we have the stuff that railroads want, the stuff that makes receipts for the roads, and then beside the vast freight tonnage that is originated immediately around Robert Lee, we have a rattling good town, to boot. I don't know who will build this railroad, where it will build from, or anything else, but I do know that I have a double riveted hunch that we will have a railroad and a double riveted hunch is the kind that is worth more than a two pair any time."

DALLAS.

R. C. Ledford Leaves With Tom Green County Exhibit.

Leaving for the Dallas fair with Tom Green county agricultural exhibits, R. C. Ledford boarded the train Monday. "I have some fine exhibits," he said, "but the cotton is a little shabby, as I had to take some of the old dried up stalks that have been on exhibition here during the fair. I am also short on wool. "If I make the showing at the Dallas fair that I made here, this country will not have room for the prospectors that will flock in, for I tell you everyone of the farmers that looked on West Texas' farm exhibits was immensely pleased, and many expressions of satisfaction were heard. No doubt I will have about the best stand there, and I am sure going to talk for San Angelo and Tom Green county." Mr. Ledford is the man to take the farming products to an exhibition, as he can fully explain everything about the different products, and with a smile that will catch any farmer.

Law Laid Down.

Publishers' Press. Calcutta, Oct. 11.—The maharajah Seindia of Hwalter has made an important announcement in the shape of a message to his subjects. His highness declares that anyone who seeks to subvert the king's government in India is a contemptible ingrate and a traitor. British rule is supremely humane and just. The advance of Gwalior in material prosperity has been steady and continuous under the aegis of the benign and powerful British government. Therefore, it behooves all loyally to assist in the work of eradicating the "rank growth of sedition and disaffection." The maharajah adds: "I will tolerate no form of sedition or disloyalty in my state, and I will suppress with a stern arm all who offend against my laws."

Narrow Escape.

Narrowly escaping a very serious injury, Little Lottie Rawls while sitting in a buggy in front of Cos-Hart's drug store Monday afternoon was thrown from the seat into the street, a wagon overturning the buggy. Sam Kistler was driving the wagon, but did not see the buggy in time to prevent the accident.

Dr. DeLong Returns.

City Health Officer DeLong has returned from Austin, where he has been attending the annual meeting of the state health officers. "I had a fine time and learned much that will be very important. I also heard some fine medical talks from some of the best physicians in the state," he said.

Daughters.

The Daughters of the Confederacy will hold a meeting Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, at the court house, when business of great importance will come up for consideration. All members of this chapter are expected to be present on this occasion.

ANNUAL CONVENTION CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Brownwood District Holds Meeting Here Beginning Friday, Nov. 5, Continuing Through Sunday.

The semi-annual convention of the Brownwood district of the Texas Y. P. S. C. E. organization will be held in San Angelo Friday, November 5, continuing through the following Sunday. There are three Christian Endeavor societies in this city, of which the convention delegates from the other societies in the district will be the guests.

A union meeting of these was held at the First Presbyterian church Sunday evening, and plans for the convention were begun and committees appointed to carry out these plans. There will be fifty or more visitors at the meeting and among these will be Earl Beman, the state president.

Several noted speakers have been invited to be present, and an excellent program is assured. This will be announced later.

Costly.

Publishers Press. Vienna, Oct. 11.—The new budget which has been prepared shows the heavy expenditure Austria-Hungary has been put to by the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Although by no means the full cost, the sum set down in the budget as the cost of the annexation of Bosnia, including the indemnity to Turkey, and the cost of the military preparations in Bosnia, is $50,000,000.

The total demand for military purposes is $125,000,000, while the addition of the naval appropriation proposed for the year's expenditures on the four Dreadnaughts about to be built, amounts to another $25,000,000, as compared with the usual annual naval appropriation of $10,000,000.

Dublin, Oct. 11.—The Irish Nationalists are getting in shape for a general election. While the Asquith government has apparently a safe majority, the opinion holds among Irish leaders that before the end of the year a call for the election of a new parliament will be issued.

John Redmond and his colleagues are hopeful of coming out of the next election much stronger than they have been since the days of Parnell's highest power. Not only is it expected that seats will be gained in Ireland, but work is being done in the line of organizing the Irish vote in English and Scotch constituencies so that either members friendly to the Irish Nationalist program may be returned or the balance of the parties may be so brought about that the Irish Nationalist vote will be essential to any possible ministry. I understand that Mr. Redmond is very confident that he will be in position when the next parliament takes on the burden of government to secure at least a good part of the Nationalist program if, indeed, he is not able to bring about the establishment of an Irish parliament in Dublin.

An announcement has appeared in the "Sinn Fein" that William O'Brien intends to return to the Irish political arena. The newspaper mentioned thinks that while not declaring himself a "Sinn Fein," Mr. O'Brien will be found largely in sympathy with the official policy of the "Sinn Fein" party.

The "Sinn Fein" declares on what it calls "reliable authority," that a general election will take place in January next, following the resignation of the present government. Ireland will have seventh place in the new Liberal program, which will promise "an ameliorative scheme for the government of Ireland."

On the occasion of his visitation to Croughwell parish, Dr. Odea, the Roman Catholic Bishop of Galway, strongly denounced secret societies. Referring to the recent murder of a policeman, Constable Goldrick, the Bishop declared that the blood of the murdered man would cry to Heaven for vengeance even as the blood of Abel did when he was killed by Cain, and the earth would cease to give vegetation wherever the criminal trod.

He did not know, continued the Bishop, if there were any secret societies in that parish, but if there were, he wished to point out that they were entirely opposed to the Divine precept. Secret societies would not divulge any of their principles to a non-member, not even to a priest. The aims and objects of such organizations were bad, otherwise there would not be so much secrecy.

People have approached him, not in Graughwell, but a long distance away, in reference to those secret societies. Some of them told him that if they ceased to be members they were afraid of being murdered. His lordship's advice to them, as well as to all others who had the misfortune to be associated with secret societies, was not to attend the meeting.

Archbishop Blenk of New Orleans spent part of his vacation in Dublin recently, visiting old friends and renewing acquaintances. Monsignor Blenk attended the Marist Fathers College in Leeson street as a pupil and graduated with honor from University College, Stephens Green. Afterwards he taught in the Marist College, leaving this work to do missionary work in Louisiana. He found many old friends here and enjoyed himself honorably. Monsignor Blenk expressed himself as highly pleased with the outlook for the church in America, especially in the arch diocese of New Orleans. Its growth is steady and healthy, with every prospect of continuance.

It is given to few of us to celebrate the golden jubilee of the date of entering upon his life work. Father Edward Dukay, parish priest of Moone, County Kildare, is one of them. He has just celebrated the 50th anniversary of his ordination as a priest.

Father Dukay is a native of Cavan, and received his early education in Cavan Seminary, and continued his philosophical and theological studies in Carlow College, where he was ordained. His early missionary life was spent in Dublin, he being connected with St. Catherine's Meath street, for twenty-six years. From the metropolitan he was translated to the pastoral charge of Moone, County Kildare, twenty-four years ago. Though he is now in his eightieth year, he still enjoys remarkable good health, and retains unimpaired, remarkable powers of mind, which with a vast store of erudition, the gift of eloquence, and an affable and cheerful disposition, make him altogether a charming personality. In regard to the charge of his sacred duties as a pastor, he is active and devoted as he was when he first took spiritual charge of the important parish of Moone.

Some interesting figures concerning the operation of the Land Purchase act have been made public.

From the returns now in preparation for the purpose of the annual report of the Estate Commissioners for the year ended March 31, last, it appears that on estates purchased or agreed to be purchased by them up to that date, there were 130,548 acres of untenanted land, including mountain and bogs, the purchase money of which was lbs. 1,484,794. On that date 12,257 acres had been distributed as follows: 61,721 acres in the enlargement of 3,272 holdings, 29,224 acres to 589 evicted tenants and 29,214 acres to 775 other persons under sections 2 and 4 of the Act of 1903. From the passing of the Irish Land Act, 1903, up to the same date, the Congested District Board had purchased 89,557 acres of untenanted land for lbs. 636,899 and had distributed 26,773 as follows: 15,829 acres in the enlargement of 1,096 holdings, 673 acres to 36 evicted tenants, and 10,271 acres to 316 other persons.

HARVARD HOUSE FORMAL OPENING

AMERICANS FROM EVERYWHERE
ATTEND BIG CELEBRATION.

MARIE CORELLI THERE

Largely Due to Efforts of Great Actress That "Stratford-on-Avon" Comes to Light.

By Paul Lambeth.
Copyright 1909 by Publishers Press.
London, Oct. 11.—Every American who could possibly be present was at Stratford-on-Avon when Ambassador Whitelaw Reid formally opened Harvard house at that famous little town.

A special guest train carried Mr. Reid and a distinguished party from London to Stratford-on-Avon for the ceremonies, while all the regular trains were crowded with Americans and others who desired to see the opening of Harvard house.

Among the guests were Marie Corelli, to whom is due the credit of making the home of John Harvard's mother the shrine for Americans, and Mme. Navarre, who as Mary Anderson, was one of the greatest actresses produced by the United States.

The Harvard house was originally the maiden home of Katherine Rogers, the mother of John Harvard.

From its threshold she went out to be married to Robert Harvard of Southwark. From this union sprang the founder of Harvard university, and it is interesting to recall that both as girl and married woman Katherine Rogers was a neighbor and possibly friend of William Shakespeare.

It is chiefly to Miss Marie Corelli, the novelist, that the gift of Harvard house to America is due. She had long cherished the idea that the Stratford-on-Avon dwelling where John Harvard's mother lived and where he himself must often have stayed in childhood, should belong to Harvard university as a binding link of his association with Shakespeare's native place and as a reminder to the world that the founder of American's oldest university had for his mother a woman of the same town and county as William Shakespeare. Miss Corelli was strongly supported in her scheme by Edward Morris of Chicago, who bought the house at her earnest request and entrusted her with its repair, as also its furnishing in the style of the Harvard period. With patriotic generosity, Mr. Morris has now presented the house to Harvard college, a free gift, which has been gratefully accepted, to be held in perpetuity under a body of trustees.

It is perhaps the most beautiful old sixteenth century house existing in Stratford-on-Avon.

After the opening ceremony by Whitelaw Reid the house will be open to the public, and will be available to traveling Americans for use as a resting place in Stratford, where they can read, write their letters and find, as it were, an oasis in the desert of wayfaring.

David Warfield, the famous American actor, had a fine time during his recent short holiday in London, doing the round of the theaters from "the other side of the lights."

"I am told you call it a 'busman's holiday,' and I'm sorry, but I can't help it," he declared. "I haven't been to London for twelve years and I am determined to see your theaters and your actors and actresses, in America I never get a chance to see a play."

Mr. Warfield, who has won fame in America in "The Auctioneer," "The Music Master" and "A Grand Army Man," is very desirous of playing in London. "Your audiences understand the theater so perfectly," he said. "They applaud with discretion and the rare so calm, never losing their heads. Mr. George Edwards has been very kind to me, and I hope to appear before a London audience before long."

London's newest dancer is Miss Adeline Boyer of California. She made her English debut at the Aldwych theater, to a private audience, in a scene presenting the "Houses of King Solomon's Palace."

The possibilities of what may be called the emotional school are apparently not yet exhausted, and Miss Boyer's dances are more or less of a traditional character. She gave illustrations of her grace and skill in a carpet dance, a veil dance, a cymbal dance and a lamp dance. They are all of a characteristically eastern type.

Eastern atmosphere is cleverly produced by Miss Boyer, who is attended by her maids. Closely veiled at first, she soon discards the dimmy coverings and stands forth clad in a silver spangled close fitting dress. Her dancing is graceful and her sinuous movements are marked by the rhythm of the jangling robe. In the cymbal dance she is fiery and animated, and in the lamp dance seductive and coquettish. The veil dance and the strap dance also are attractive.

Miss Boyer's success in London seems assured.

EASTERN MEN BUY RAILROAD

TAKE OVER CONCHO, LEANO AND SAN SABA VALLEY.

CONSIDERATION PRIVATE

Three Branch Lines to Be Built Out of Paint Rock Immediately. Love Retained as Manager.

Miles, Oct. 11.—A deal was consummated at noon today whereby the Concho, San Saba and Llano Valley railroad, formerly owned by local people, passed into the hands of eastern capitalists. The consideration has not been made public.

R. A. Love, vicepresident and general manager, who is retained, announces that it is the intention of the new owners to build three branch lines out of Paint Rock, the work to begin immediately. One of these lines will go south, another southeast, and the third southwest. As to the probable destination of these branches, Mr. Love makes no comment.

It is highly probable, though, that one branch will run into San Angelo. Whether or not any bonus will be asked is also something that is not known just now.

Mr. Love states that the eastern men have plenty of money to back their undertakings, and that it is their intention to build up a system that will be one of the largest in the state.

The deal was closed through the City National bank of Dallas, acting as the representative of the eastern people.

San Angelo, Tex., Oct. 11, 1909.—The Press-News, San Angelo, Texas, I take this means of tendering to the thanks of the Hoo-Hoo of San Angelo, and the visiting Hoo-Hoo of Texas, in meeting assembled October 8, 1909, for the generous use of ink. For it was due to you as expounders of public opinion that our meeting was given the wide publicity it enjoyed and made known to the Hoo-Hoo world the meeting just held, and which terminated so successfully, which, we repeat again, was due to your liberal use of "ink and white paper." Yours with many thanks, WONDERFUL GROWTH.

What Campbell Bros. Have Accomplished in the Last Twelve Years Is Miraculous.

As the Campbell Brothers' great consolidated shows are to be here October 21, a few words in regard to the start and enlargement of this show might be of interest. Some twelve years ago they launched a small show with the motto attached, "Honestly conducted, truthfully advertised." This motto has made the show what it is today. Their shows have always been conducted on a high moral plane. They have never allowed any gambling, short changing or petty thieving in or around their shows. Being imbued with the spirit of progression, after five years' hard work and strict economy, they became the proud possessors of their first elephant and camel. The opening of the show next spring was to them the proudest day of their lives. From that time on every dollar made has been invested in the bettering of the show; from one, they have increased their elephants to a large herd; also their camels.

To those who have never had the pleasure of visiting a circus in its winter quarters a description might be interesting. Campbell Brothers' winter quarters are situated on a beautiful farm one and one-half miles from Fairbury, Neb., on the Little Blue river. The first building to attract your attention as you approach the farm is the mammoth horse barn, wherein during the winter months are stabled their 250 head of horses which are used with the show. Next to the barn stands a large building, made of concrete blocks, known as the cat building, which is the winter home of their lions, tigers, leopards, cougars, hyenas, monkeys, birds and so on. Next to this comes a large frame building known as the elephant house, the home of their herd of performing elephants. Then comes the camel barn, the Shetland pony barn and the ring barn. The latter building would be of special interest to anyone, as it is where the cake walking horses, the dancing elephants and Shetland ponies are taught their tricks, and where the lady and gentleman riders who appear before you in their costly wardrobe and pleasing acts practice during the winter months.

There are many different departments with a circus, each one having its own manager and assistants. The business is conducted on a plan or system equal to that of "Uncle Sam," else all would be confusion.

Think of your family increasing to 200 people to feed three times a day; of moving your effects, which it takes twenty-five cars to hold, a mile, set up your house, entertain 5000 people; train, and railroad 100 miles to the next town, and do it every twenty-four hours, and you have some idea of what it is to handle a circus.

GOOD HANDS VERY SCARCE

METCALFE SAYS THEY ARE HARD TO GET AT ANY PRICE.

FARMS FOR PASTURES

Unless Situation Improves Lot of Good Ground Will Go Uncultivated. Serious Problem.

"The biggest question that confronts us farmers," declares Col. Charles B. Metcalfe, "is one of securing help. It is simply impossible to get good tenants or farm hands, no matter how much we pay or how much they can make. I know that the situation is becoming so intense that a whole lot of fine farms will be turned into pasture land again, unless the find a way of striking at the root of this vexatious question."

Mr. Metcalfe also says that even cotton pickers are hard to pick up, notwithstanding the great number of idle folk here in San Angelo. It should, however, be borne in mind the folk here who are idle are idle from choice and despite the demand for workers.

THE National Bank System of the United States is the most perfect and satisfactory banking system that the world has ever known, and its record for security and ability to care for the need of the business public has never been surpassed in any country.

While all the State Banks are under a code of laws changing at every session of the Legislature, according to the pet views of some legislator, the laws governing the National Banks are rarely changed, so that the business public knows upon what to depend.

This bank is doing business under the National System and is regularly examined by National Bank Examiners, who are always men of high standing and ability and are appointed to office by the Comptroller of the Currency upon the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States.

National Bank Examiners are not permitted to issue Advertising Matter for the use of the Banks which they have examined.

CHAPTER XXVII.

In Which It Is Proved That One Does Not Always Think of Everything.

Great excitement prevailed when Rouletabille had finished. The courtroom became agitated with the murmurings of suppressed applause. Maitre Henri Robert called for an adjournment of the trial and was supported in his motion by the public prosecutor himself. The case was adjourned. The next day M. Robert Darzac was released on bail, while Daddy Jacques received the immediate benefit of "a no cause for action." Search was everywhere made for Frederic Larsan, but in vain. M. Darzac finally escaped the awful calamity which at one time had threatened him. After a visit to Mile Stangerson he was led to hope that she might by careful nursing one day recover her reason.

ble gallery. Larsan's return to Mile Stangerson's room, however, had not then been cleared up by the eyeglasses. My suspicions were the outcome of my reasoning only, and the idea of Larsan being the murderer seemed so extraordinary that I resolved to wait for actual evidence before venturing to act. Nevertheless the suspicion worried me, and I sometimes spoke to the detective in a way that ought to have opened your eyes. I spoke disparagingly of his methods. But until I found the eyeglasses I could but look upon my suspicion of him in the light of an absurd hypothesis only. You can imagine my elation after I had explained Larsan's movements. I remember well rushing into my room

... a madman and crying to you: 'I'll get the better of the great Fred! I'll get the better of him in a way that will make a sensation!'

"But one important point escaped us both. It was one which ought to have opened our eyes to Larsan. Do you remember the bamboo cane? I was surprised to find Larsan had made no use of that evidence against Robert Darzac. Had it not been purchased by a man whose description tallied exactly with that of Darzac? Well, just before I saw him off at the train after the recess during the trial I asked him why he hadn't used the cane evidence. He told me he had never had any intention of doing so; that our discovery of it in the little inn at Epinal had much embarrassed him. If you will remember, he told us then that the cane had been given him in London. Why did we not immediately say to ourselves: 'Fred is lying; he could not have had this cane in London; he was not in London; he bought it in Paris?' Then you found out on inquiry at Cassette's that the cane had been bought by a person dressed very like Robert Darzac, though, as we learned later from Darzac himself, it was not he who had made the purchase. Couple this with the fact we already knew from the letter at the poste restante that there was actually a man in Paris who was passing as Robert Darzac. Why did we not immediately fix on Fred himself?"

"Of course his position was against us, but when we saw the evident eagerness on his part to find convicting evidence against Darzac—nay, even the passion he displayed in his pursuit of the man—the lie about the cane should have had a new meaning for us. If you ask why Larsan bought the cane if he had no intention of manufacturing evidence against Darzac by means of it, the answer is quite simple. He had been wounded in the hand by Mile Stangerson, so that the cane was useful to enable him to close his hand in carrying it. You remember I noticed that he always carried it.

"All these details came back to my mind when I had once fixed on Larsan as the criminal. But they were too late then to be of any use to me. On the evening when he pretended to be drugged I looked at his hand and saw a thin silk bandage covering the signs of a slight healing wound. Had we taken a quicker initiative at the time Larsan told us that he about the cane, I am certain he would have gone off to avoid suspicion. All the same, we worried Larsan, or Ballmeyer, without our knowing it."

"But," I interrupted, "if Larsan had no intention of using the cane as evidence against Darzac, why had he made himself up to look like the man when he went in to buy it?"

"He had not specially 'made up' as Darzac to buy the cane; he had come straight to Cassette's immediately after he had attacked Mile Stangerson."

PROFESSOR ROSS G. MARVIN.

"Martyr of the Peary expedition" is the honorable title given to Professor Ross G. Marvin, the only member of the Peary expedition to lose his life in the quest for the north pole. Professor Marvin was a Cornell man, chosen to accompany Peary because of his courage, physique, scientific ability and other qualifications desirable in a member of the polar expedition. He lost his life by drowning in a "lead" or break in the ice while in command of one of Commander Peary's supporting parties. He was thirty years old.

Madam Your Dress Is Here

There is a new dress in this store for just two hundred of the women of San Angelo and West Texas. That number of garments of this kind begins to diminish more are ordered. It is our object to keep the stock about that size for normal.

Moyenage Dresses

In this splendid new style garment every shipment brings out some clever new idea of some of the leading modistes of the East. This week's showing of new arrivals is a little better than that of former weeks. Some new ones of the current dress style have come in. They are made of broad cloth and the color assortment includes all of the best ones. Better let us show them to you while they are fresh and in good shape to look at $25.00

In addition to these are some beautiful ones in silk and moire; also some new silk jersey suits. If you have not bought your new dress yet, we would be glad to have you come to the store and see them. Prices range upward from $10

New Military Capes, in all good colors, have arrived within past week. They are trimmed with brass buttons and are very stylish. The length is about 45 inches and the effect is just the thing most sought after at the present. We price them at $10.00 and as low as $7.50

This store is showing the largest and best line of Skirts in the city. Some new ones arrived yesterday.

MALARIA.

Experts Will Meet This Month to Study Campaign.

Publishers Press.
Calcutta, Oct. 11.—A number of experts will meet at Silha this month to examine the whole subject of malaria and prepare a plan of campaign to fight it, for the consideration of government of India, and the various local governments.

This special inquiry has been instituted by the governor-general in consequence of a proposal put forward by the sanitary commission that a permanent organization should be formed to investigate systematically the problem connected with the disease. This official communication sets out the subject points out that the number of deaths ascribed to fever through malaria approximates to 4,500,000, representing a mean death rate of one in 20 per 1,000.

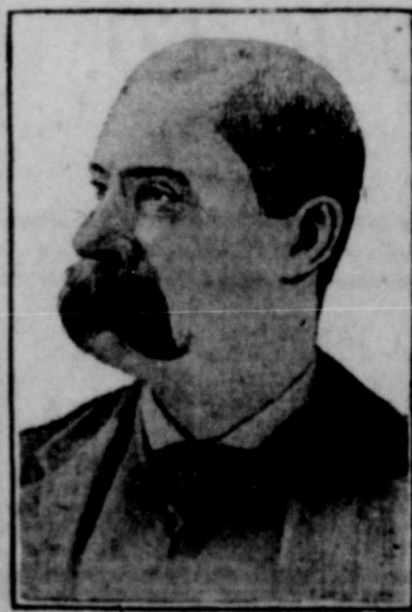

It has been estimated, from inquiries afforded by certain special commissions and by the dispensary returns that the actual death rate from malarial fever is about 5 per 1000. This represents about 1,350,000 deaths, as against the mortality in malarial fever ordinarily low, such a death rate indicates a terrible amount of sickness much of it preventable.

Constipation is the rock which wrecks many lives; it poisons the very life blood. Regularity can be established through the use of Pilsner Ash Bitters. It is mildly cathartic and strengthens the stomach, liver and kidneys.

ISAAC GUGGENHEIM.

Isaac Guggenheim is one of seven brothers forming the family which is said to control the smelting interests of the country. He is president of the Mexican Union railroad and has great business interests. He is a brother of Senator Guggenheim of Colorado.

J. C. S. BLACKBURN.

Joseph Clay Stiles Blackburn, who has given up the position of governor of the Panama canal zone, is a Kentuckian and formerly represented his state in the United States senate. He is a Democrat.
