

MAN WHO SAID HE'S MURDERER FOUND INSANE

LOSS OF MIND ATTRIBUTED TO READING STORIES REGARDING STEINHEIL MURDER CASE.

DEFENDANT WEARIED LEAVES THE STAND

For Three Days She Has Been Subjected to the Most Rigid Examination—Interest Runs High.

Publishers Press. Paris, Nov. 5.—Madam Steinheil left the witness stand today after having been under fire of interrogation for three days. She seems to be rather weary, but is constitutionally better than she was yesterday.

The man who claimed to have been the real murderer turns out to be a young actor who went insane from reading about the case. The young man has not been released from jail. He will likely undergo a trial.

Many contradictions are in the woman's story and the judge is very stern with her.

It is one of the most sensational trials in history. People who can seek entrance to the court room are here from all parts of the world, and especially Europe. The beauty of the prisoner and the prominence and wealth of her family is causing great interest in the case. Her face looks as innocent as a little babe's as it nestles in the arms of its mother. Frequently a tear trickles down her pale and tender cheek. Her wavy, black hair hangs flaringly down her back. She is really one of the most beautiful women of the country. Along with the tender beauty that she possesses to arouse preception by the senses, is the loving mother of the child who has grown into womanhood, who sat in silence by her side.

Draped in black, the aged mother was seated by her daughter and heard every word of the testimony—heard the charges made against the one who is the pleasure and comfort of her heart; heard them without a murmur. A stern look characterized her face, but symptoms of sorrow were wreathing her brow.

The court room was full during the whole procedure. Journalists from all parts of Europe and many from New York are present.

Roosevelt Safe. Publishers Press. New York, Nov. 5.—A rumor grew current here today that Roosevelt had met with a fatal accident in Africa. Cablegrams sent to Nairobi, British East Africa, elicited the information that no accident had been heard of there. Late today it was reported that the rumor started in Wall street, and is without foundation.

JUDGE GIVES OPINION

Holds That State Authorities Cannot Interfere With Interstate Commerce Shipments.

Publishers Press. Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 5.—That state officials cannot interfere with interstate commerce shipments has been ruled by Judge Cotterall, of the United States district court.

This decision was handed down as a result of the action on the part of the state authorities to seize whiskey which is being shipped into the state in alleged violation of the law. This makes the second time a question of this sort has come up before Judge Cotterall, and both times his decision was to the effect that the state authorities are helpless.

ABOUT JUDGE CLARK.

When the bar of Hillsboro endorsed Judge George Clark of Waco for the vacancy on the supreme bench no levity was intended. While of course no one expects President Taft to appoint the distinguished Texas jurist to the position, at the same time Judge Clark is eminently qualified by training, legal knowledge and acumen to take the place that is now vacant. That his endorsement should excite the risibilities of the unthinking was to be expected. This may be expected for two reasons, one that Judge Clark is a Texas man, and the other is that he had the courage to oppose James Stephen Hogg for governor in 1892. The Press-News believes that the first objection but shows a lack of appreciation of the men of Texas, and the second an absence of an understanding of the causes that resulted in the famous campaign of the year mentioned.

Forsyth, because Judge Clark is a citizen of Texas is no reason why he is not abundantly qualified to fill the position on the supreme bench. Rather, in the eyes of the Press-News, this is one reason to show that he is in every way qualified for the place. The people of Texas should never let it be said of them that Texans are not without honor save in their own country. Scan the list of great men of this country and you will find Texans at the top rank of every profession. Take, for instance, the profession of law. The Press-News needs but call attention to the fact that Martin Littleton, the man who saved Shaw from the chair is a Texan. Lovett, the man who was for years the legal head and is now the active head of the Harriman properties, is a Texan. Judge Seth Sheppard, other than whom no purer or abler man lives, is a Texan. Carnes, the attorney general of Tennessee, is a Texan. And so the list may be extended indefinitely.

In finance Silliman, the president of the City National bank of New York, the largest financial institution in the country, is a Texan. Tom Randolph, president of the Commonwealth Trust company of St. Louis, is a Texan. Sam Lazarus, the dominating genius in the realm of finance in the middle west, is a Texan. H. P. Hilliard of the American-Mechanics National bank of St. Louis, is a Texan, and the list is subject to prolonged extension.

In railroading we have B. F. Younkum, W. H. Newman, A. J. Davidson, W. H. Trusdale, F. H. Britton, W. C. Nixon, F. T. Dolan and the goodness only knows how many others who are Texans to the manner born.

Genius is not a matter of birth or training. It is inborn, and Texas is as good a breeding ground as can be found. In art, even, Thomas, the greatest painter of miniatures the world has ever known, is a Texan, though for years his home has been in Paris. In geology Hill of Washington stands head and shoulders above any man in the world, and he is a native of Comanche county. In medicine, Smith, who discovered the hook worm, made this discovery while in Texas and at the same time was a voter in Texas. Dr. McLaughlin of Austin discovered the bacilli of dengue fever. Sampson, now of San Francisco, but formerly of Galveston, is one of the greatest original research men the profession of medicine claims.

In the ministry R. Wilbur Chapman is one of the great evangelists of the world, and he is a Texan. Bradford and Palmer and Slavin and numberless others are Texans.

And so we see that because Judge Clark is a Texan is no reason why he is not fitted for the post.

With regard to the campaign of 1892 the Press-News believes that Judge Clark was honest in his contentions at the time, and at this late date the question of right or wrong of action is not to be dug from the past.

He made a clean race, an honest, open fight, and he accepted the result with a grace worthy of the southern gentleman he is.

The Press-News prefers to think of Judge Clark as the man who led the forces that regained Texas from the renegades, and as the man who is always outspoken, though not always right.

The Press-News believes that he would grace the supreme bench of the United States or would adorn with credit to himself and distinction to his people any office the people have to bestow.

Pave Chadbourne street.

The efforts of the French to faux pas a murder case are not always a success. Why don't they try the lunacy theory?

The West Texas Development congress will be the means of forcing West Texas to grow naturally. Be on hand when the congress meets in San Angelo on December 6.

The North Dakota surprised everyone by showing up as the fastest battleship afloat. That may be true, but if the reports about Mayor-Elect McCarthy are true, that city will soon be the swiftest thing on shore.

President Taft declined to tackle the mint julep of Georgia. Please pass us the returns of his doings while in Houston, the city that nestles beside the sluggish Buffalo bayou, a murky stream that flows between banks covered with mint of the greatest richness.

Fame is a phantom kind of a thing. Even such an erudite and eruptionable and perfectly lady-like gentleman as Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, the brilliant and caustic editor of the Dallas Times Herald, refers to the county seat of Kunnels county as "Ballenger." The sun do move!

That West Texas Development Congress to be held at San Angelo has already assumed proportions to insure that the meeting will be fraught with much good for West Texas. The project had its birth in the fertile brain of D. C. McCaleb, editor of The Press-News. Before he brought the matter before the people through the columns of his paper he mentioned it to this writer. At that time we did not give it the consideration it deserved. But, since more mature deliberation, we see that it is a splendid idea, and the way San Angelo is taking hold of the proposition means that there is going to be something doing along that line. Mayor Geo. S. Graves has appointed a delegation to go from this city to represent in the body. Let everybody whoop the proposition, and let due credit be given Mr. McCaleb for giving birth to the thought.—Miles Messenger.

The News is in receipt of a bulletin announcing the organization and purposes of the West Texas Development Congress, which meets in San Angelo December 6, 1909. The purpose of the organization, as announced, is absolutely nonpolitical and unselfish, but is prompted by a disposition to bring all of West Texas together in systematic and concerted efforts in the development of this wonderful empire. This congress will do some extensive advertising of all that part of West Texas which takes a part in this move. The resources, the social and industrial conditions and the economic needs of this vast section will be presented to the world in a way that has never been done before. The encouragement of railroads, the promotion of irrigation enterprises, better roads, the development of our educational system and the settlement of the country by the homeless of other states, these and other like questions will receive the attention of the congress and there is no way of estimating the good it will be to West Texas. The News urges on the Chamber of Commerce of San Saba to select a delegate at once and begin making preparations to send him to this meeting. This is a chance to put San Saba on the map and the opportunity should not be allowed to pass.—San Saba News.

TAFT A DISAPPOINTMENT.

We are disappointed in Taft. His great swing around the circle has developed no marked characteristic. His speeches in the main have been insipid platitudes, or mumbled flatteries. He has sprung no aphorism that stands like a beacon upon the language chart of the world. His phrasing has been but extremely ordinary and his deductions have been puerile, without possessing the redeeming feature of bordering even on being homilies.

Taft has long been held up before our eyes as a man whose training fitted him splendidly for the post he holds. This may be true, but his utterances are rather the speeches of a schoolboy than of a president of as great a nation as this.

McKinley blended tenderness and determination beautifully. Cleveland was a man of such virility that his addresses sparkled with trenchant declaration. And Roosevelt—well, a dollar word is not too much to value his directness and bluntness.

But Taft is neither trenchant, tender, determined, direct nor blunt. He has passed under the mollycoddle mantle, and those who expected great things as a result of his swing around the circle are nursing a vanished hope gone forever. In comparison with his immediate predecessors he is a namby-pamby, lollily sort of a somebody. If he would say darn, for instance, his speeches would have the flavor of a personality, if not localized, still at least a flavor. But the addresses he has made since he has been swinging about the country are devoid of all things that are concomitant with greatness and possess none of the esentials of individuality that count in a contest of wits.

We are sorry that our president has torn the mask from his face. We would much prefer regarding him as the incarnation of perfection and the embodiment of all things that are calculated to inspire admiration.

OILED STREETS PROVE SUCCESS

TALKS OF GOOD ROADS

Brownwood Has Voted Bond Issue and Will Turnpike Pikes in the County.

Dr. Brad Fowler of Brownwood, has been in the city for several days, disposing of some of his San Angelo property. He says that he made good profits on the deals, but declined to tell anything further.

Dr. Fowler is one of Brownwood's leading business men, having taken stock in nearly every movement that has been launched by the business people. He also is very much interested in the good roads question in West Texas.

"While San Angelo can teach Brownwood something about boosting," he said, "Brownwood can do equally as much for San Angelo in good road building.

Turnpike. "We are starting to turnpike our county roads. We have voted on a bond issue to raise the money and that is now at the county's disposal. Our roads have been in an awful condition for a long time. They probably needed working on more than any other roads in the state. We have launched a plan, however, that will do away with all that and nothing but rolling, hard highways will soon be seen in Brown county. It will be at the cost of a large amount of money, but when you think of the great benefit that will be derived from it, it is a small amount."

Dr. Fowler has traveled over the whole of North America and has made good roads his studies. This year he accompanied the National Medical Association on its excursion up in Alaska as editorial physician, a place heretofore given to Northern doctors, especially those in Chicago. This time it looked to Texas to get one of the most competent kind, and chose Dr. Brad Fowler, of Brownwood.

"While in Canada a few years ago I took particular notice of the way they kept up their public roads. For miles and miles you can travel on hard and smooth roads. It is not that way in Alaska, however. There are many roads in that territory that can hardly be traversed. On the other hand, some of their roads are as good as I have ever seen.

"The good roads movement is the vital subject in the state today, especially in West Texas. We need good roads here more than we need good streets. There is only one way, however, to have these essential necessities, and that is to get the people interested and get the money. When you have the money at hand, then the task is light."

Dr. Fowler mentioned the Brownwood streets. In connection with this he also spoke of the fact that San Angelo is contemplating oiling her main thoroughfares.

Oiled Streets. "Oiling is the best, cheapest and quickest manner of getting streets in good condition," he stated.

"We have several of our streets at Brownwood oiled and they are in fine shape. Of course, the oiling has got to be done right or it is no good. The way we fixed the streets was to grade them down a little and put three layers of rocks on them and then run a heavy roller over the streets till these were crushed to the level.

"The first layer was of large rock, the second of somewhat smaller rock than the first, and the third very fine rock. After the rock had been well rolled and crushed, the street was well sprinkled with very crude oil. The oil was left to dry for about four days and another sprinkling was given it.

"The process has proved to be as good as a town would want. The streets are as hard and good as any paving, it having an asphalt state.

"Some people say oiling is no good. That is a mistake. It is good, lasting and cheap. A hundred feet on a sixty foot street can be oiled in this manner for about $200, and it lasts forever."

COLD HEALS SICK MIND OF TEACHER

Tempe, Ariz., Nov. 5.—Beverly M. Novison, formerly a teacher in the High School, whose mysterious disappearance last January created much interest throughout the country, has been found in San Francisco. A letter received from him today by A. M. Harmer, states that his mind has been blank since leaving Tempe. He traveled in a sailing vessel to China, Japan and Alaska. The cold weather in the latter place restored his memory. The last he remembered of Tempe was two weeks before leaving.

SWALLOWS SAFETY PIN BABY DIES

San Antonio, Nov. 5.—Blood poisoning, following the swallowing of a brass safety pin, caused the death of Ina Myrtle Guilandau, aged 11 months, at the Physicians' and Surgeons' hospital, where she had been taken for an operation. The child is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Guilandau, who reside at the home of Mrs. E. S. Campbell, 2700 West Commerce street.

Last Saturday morning the little tot was crawling on the floor at the Campbell home, when it is supposed to have picked up the pin and swallowed it. Its cries a few moments later attracted the attention of the mother and Mrs. Campbell and from its actions the two women came to the conclusion that the child had swallowed some foreign article. They at once gave the little girl a strong purgative, but this did not seem to relieve its sufferings and the baby was taken to the city, where a physician was consulted. The doctor prescribed for the little patient, but its agony continued. An x-ray picture was taken of the little girl's stomach and when the negative was developed it disclosed an open safety pin in the lower intestine. On this discovery the attending physician advised an immediate operation, in order to remove the obstruction. The parents consented and the operation was performed.

After the pin had been removed the patient rallied quickly from the operation, and for a few hours it was thought she would recover. At 9 o'clock the condition of the little girl took a turn for the worse and she died one hour later. The mother is prostrated with grief.

MAY LOSE ESTATE.

Attacks Mother's Will That Left All to Father, Who'd Wed Again.

Baltimore, Nov. 5.—Fearing he will lose his interest in the estate left by his mother because his father, William Bowly Richardson, an octogenarian, is about to marry a woman half his age, George I. Richardson, who is a prominent insurance man, filed a caveat to his mother's will.

While the caveat states that Mrs. Richardson when she made her will leaving everything to her husband was not in her proper state of mind, etc., Richardson acknowledged that the reason the caveat was filed was because of the contemplated matrimonial adventure on the part of his father.

Mrs. Richardson's estate was worth between $300,000 and $400,000 and she stated in her will that her reason for leaving everything to her husband and not making any bequest for her son was due to her belief that her husband would at his death make ample provision for the son.

Young Mr. Richardson declared that in view of his father's approaching marriage the indications are that the provision as expected by his mother may not be made and for that reason he is attacking the will.

The elder Richardson is to be married to Mrs. Louis Bowly.

RAILROADS AND THE PEOPLE

This is the fifth of a series of articles prepared by The Press-News on this subject. The previous articles have appeared in this paper. This is a subject in which Western Texas has a vital interest and one that is not understood as should be the case. Every fact presented in this series has been carefully investigated and the deductions are the logical results that spring from the facts.

Every community in the country that is of any consequence can trace its real beginning to the coming of the railroad. Go back into any interior spot and try to find a locality where there is no railroad where real things are being done. It is just about as impossible as anything in the world. The interior town from the very nature of things cannot acquire greatness. It lacks communication with the outside world, and in these days that is the absolutely imperative something that it must have.

Let us assume any one of the thousands of communities in this country that struggled for years without a railroad. About all one could find there would be a few farmers growing only the products he could use, only about the live stock he needed to serve his own purposes, only a few things for market that the small trading point near by could consume. There was no use trying to make money by raising things for the market because he could not get to the market.

These few farmers radiated about an inland town where there were probably two or three stores supplying their needs, a few families living there conducting these stores and to consume a few dollars worth of farm produce. The balance was largely trading back and forth among one another, with almost entire absence of money; other things being largely the medium of exchange.

Such a place could not hope to attract industry because the industry must ship its products and is not looking for a place where it would have to haul them across the country. That places them on too unequal a basis with their more favored competitors, and besides no community of this kind produces very much that entertains the industrial man. All his efforts would not arouse the people of an inland locality from the lethargy that has grown upon them.

But one day there came the railroad. Then everything is changed. The populace comes down to see the first train arrive and in a remarkably short time feels perfectly at home with it. A few energetic people follow the road into the locality; buy some of the good farms; get to growing all manner of farm products, and the whole locality takes on new life. The older inhabitants copy after the new, and pretty soon the railroad has plenty of business hauling things to market.

The stores give way to bigger and better institutions; the industrial plants come, and the little inland village takes on city style. The farms have increased largely in value; the people having gotten in touch with the outside world, take on new life and engender new energy. The community has absolutely been made by the railroad.

Incidents like this are numerous all over the land. In our own state of Texas are to be found many beautiful cities and thriving communities that have come up in a very short period of time from an old ranch trading post. And it was the railroad that did it. There is no use trying to disguise the fact that the greatest civilizing influence in the country is the railroad.

It stands to the shame of Texas that the railroads should have been so bitterly assailed and so hedged about by restrictions as to make it necessary for them to cease their building up of more such communities. We have here in West Texas county after county without a mile of railroad in them. They have never progressed and can never hope to progress until they have these systems of communications with the outside world. Their soil is rich; their climate is delightful; their rainfall is abundant, but there they lie with land values in many cases lower than $2 an acre, when the invasion of a railroad would multiply it many times.

We are glad to be able to say that the bitterness heretofore felt against the railroad is diminishing. The people are becoming more sane in their thoughts. They are looking around at their neighbors; they are finding out that it is the man through whose town the railroad runs that is making the money and is making himself felt in the world. This it seems to us can result in but one thing, and that is an early public clamor to compel our legislature to strengthen out some of the serious kinks in our railroad laws.

We need more thriving communities in West Texas. We have the best country the sun ever shone upon and we do not believe it will be permitted to remain in idleness when just a little thing like legislation would bring the railroad—that one influence that can redeem it. It has been estimated by Mr. B. F. Yoakum, chairman of the executive committee of the Rock Island-Frisco lines, that Texas should have now 6000 miles more of railroad than it has. Much of this is needed in West Texas. We believe we can get it just as soon as the investor can be given assurance that his investments will be protected. When that time does come we believe we will soon become one of the most splendid agricultural localities in the country, if not in the world. We are hoping for an early realization of these desires and believe that our law-makers cannot long withstand the wishes at least of this part of the state.

YOUNG BRIDE OBJECTS BEING DICTATED TO

Because Husband Says She Can Not Go to Moving Picture Show She Tries to Take Own Life.

Los Angeles, Nov. 5.—Because her husband would not permit her to go to a moving picture show, was the reason given for the attempt made by Mrs. Beulah Casey, 336 West Alta street, to kill herself with chloroform. The "reason" was given by Casey himself. The woman was unconscious when taken to the receiving hospital.

"I do hope the doctors will be able to pull her through," said Casey sadly, as he rode in the patrol wagon tenderly holding the form of his wife. She has been sick, you know, and I have tried to be patient with her.

"When I was out paying off my men she telephoned me that she was going to see a picture show. After that, when I got home, she telephoned that she was going to see another show, and I told her that it was time for young married people to be at home.

"When I came home about 5 o'clock I smelled chloroform all over the place, and I found her lying like dead on the couch, with the empty bottle on the floor beside her."

Casey tried in vain to summon several physicians. One of them, found after much trouble, arrived at the house a little ahead of the patrol wagon. Mrs. Casey was in convulsions when she arrived at the receiving hospital, but Police Surgeon Wiley soon afterward pronounced her out of danger. She is only 19 years old and has a father and mother living in this city.

ONLY ONE LAND AGENT TO COLLECT COMMISSION

APPELLATE COURT DECIDES BETWEEN RIVAL CLAIMANTS.

Agent Who Actually Closes Deal Gets Money, Regardless of Other Dealers.

San Antonio, Nov. 5.—In an opinion handed down in the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals Associate Justice Fly holds that when a piece of property is sold through an agent the commission derived from the sale should go to the man who actually closed the deal and procured the purchaser, regardless of the fact that three or six other agents were endeavoring to dispose of the land to the same individual. The opinion is handed down in the case of Smith & Sholars vs. C. S. Fowler et al., from Nueces county, the cause being reversed and rendered in favor of Smith & Sholars.

Fowler's interest in the case is only that of having the commission paid to the persons whom the court should decide actually closed the deal.

The litigation grows out of the sale of 8000 acres of land out of the William Binton ranch in Nueces county, the property as a whole, 19,231 acres, having been owned by Fowler. The transfer of the 8000 acres was effected April 3, 1907.

H. H. Simmons and two other men were the purchasers of the land. Mr. Sholars introduced Mr. Simmons to Mr. Fowler and shortly thereafter the deal was closed. Previous to that time, however, other agents sought to close a deal with Mr. Simmons and his associates. One of the agents offered him the entire tract at $12.50 an acre, the owner of the land to receive $12 an acre and the agent a commission of 50 cents an acre. The deal was not closed, however. Later another agent offered the land for sale at $14 an acre. The prospective purchaser did not buy, going then to Alice, and there met Mr. Sholars.

Sum at Stake Is $4800.
An inspection of the property was made with the result that the deal was closed.

The commission from the sale amounts to $4800 and before this amount was paid litigation was instituted by other agents to recover what they considered their share. The result was that the money was deposited in court by Mr. Fowler, who did not contest the claims for commission, but only sought to have the court settle the issue as to who should get the price.

Smith & Sholars appealed from the decision of the Nueces county tribunal and won a victory when Judge Fly handed down the opinion in their favor. The lower tribunal had made a division of the commission among several agents.

The decision will, it is expected, prove of great interest to real estate operators in San Antonio and throughout the state.

LUBBOCK LINE TO HELP SAN ANGELO

Extension From Sweetwater Will Be Completed by March, 1910, According to Ripley's Statement.

By March, 1910, the road from Sweetwater to Lubbock will be completed. Train service has already started from Lubbock to Amarillo over the lately finished line from Canyon City to Lubbock.

President Ripley was in Lubbock a few days ago and he stated that the road on the Sweetwater end is being rapidly worked on and that it will be finished by March.

San Angelo is already connected with Sweetwater by the Orient, which extends on to the north and places the city in a better relative position with Northern points. When this line from Lubbock to Sweetwater is completed, the Concho city will have practically good connection with all parts of the United States.

AT IT AGAIN.

Boston, Nov. 5.—The long struggle of the two "widows" of Henry Pfaff, Jr., the rich Lexington brewer, over his $300,000 estate, in which a South Dakota divorce is involved, was renewed before Judge A. Rugg in the supreme court at Cambridge.

Mrs. Louise C. Pfaff, the second wife of the brewer, to whom the lower court gave one-third of the estate, came from Germany to fight the appeal of Mrs. Christine L. Pfaff, the first wife, who got a South Dakota divorce, married twice, and then declared that the South Dakota divorce was illegal. Aside from the controversy of the two "widows," the case is remarkable in illustrating the muddle caused by different divorce laws in the various states.

Pfaff left the dower rights of his estate to his wife. His first wife, under a Massachusetts decision, maintained that "Dakota divorces" had been illegal and that therefore in the eyes of the law she was still married to Pfaff, although she had obtained a South Dakota decree.

She claimed that since one decision had refused to acknowledge a South Dakota divorce the courts ought to hold that she was still the wife of Pfaff and give her the dower portion bequeathed to "his wife," notwithstanding that he had married after the Dakota divorce. The lower courts did not look at it that way.

Mrs. Christine Pfaff was the daughter of a French artist, Anton Hekking. She married Pfaff in 1890 in Germany and three years later went to South Dakota and got a divorce on the ground of "cruel and abusive" treatment. In 1897 she married Samuel B. Bogert of Elizabeth, N. J., who was only 17 years old. He gave his age as 21 and she gave hers as 26 and claimed to be Catherine Louis, a widow, when in reality she was 32. Afterward when she sought the Pfaff estate she declared that this was a "mock marriage." Bogert denied that and forthwith sued her for divorce.

Two years later she married Bernard C. Cass of London, where she lived until March, 1907, when she came to the determination that her Pfaff divorce was illegal and returned to this country and brought proceedings for the Pfaff estate.

Paris Gossip.

Paris, Nov. 5.—The Theater Femina of this city has been having a series of matinees in which children are the actors and actresses, and their parents and friends compose the audience. The youngest actress is aged 5, and the eldest 11. One of the plays performed was Don Quixote, the part of the don being taken by a lad of 7. Two leading ladies of the ballet, who are aged 7 and 8, danced most charmingly.

One little girl whose makeup was ruined by the tears running down her cheeks, was asked in the wings why she was crying. She replied, pointing to another of the little actresses, "I want to know why they encored her verses and I didn't get the least applause?"

A new "philosophical and literary" paper, called L'Echo du Bonheur, professes to have made the greatest discovery of the century, namely, happiness. This paper is prepared to tell you, too, how to discover it. "Would you beautify your life? Would you be happy in spite of adversity? Apply to the office of the editor, who gives consultations on all the difficult problems of the battle of life." Elsewhere the editor says: "There are 3000 doctors for bodily ills in Paris, and 15,000 in the country. But there is nowhere a physician for moral suffering." That is the long-felt want which the Echo du Bonheur will supply. It will, in fact, minister to minds diseased, pluck from the memory rooted horrors, raze out the written troubles on the brain, and so on. What sweet oblivious antidote it has discovered it does not specify, but correspondents will presumably find out on application to the editor.

An international conference of motorists has been summoned to meet at the foreign office here. Delegates from Germany, Austria-Hungary, Belgium, Bulgaria, Spain, Italy, Holland, Great Britain, Luxemburg, Sweden, Russia, Switzerland, Montenegro and Greece will meet under the presidency of Herr Gavarry, German minister plenipotentiary, to discuss and arrange a set of regulations for motor traffic in the respective countries represented. The United States has declined for special reasons to take part in the conference, but so far as Europe is concerned, the representation is full. The object to be attained is to do away with the confusion existing at present and to make a set of laws and rules of general application. The initiative of the conference is due to Germany, but out of compliment to France, as the pioneer of automobilism, it was agreed to hold the meeting in Paris.

The departure from Bercy of a batch of conscripts, who being of bad character, are sent to do military service in Africa, was marked by a picturesque incident. One of the conscripts arrives with a baby on each arm, explaining that he was expecting a third and was therefore obliged to take the two little things with him.

In view of his state of affairs the authorities, after some deliberation, decided to send the man home for a fortnight so that his case may be dealt with. The man took his departure, a baby on either arm, while his less fortunate comrades looked on wit henvy, and a little later the train took them off toward Marseilles, when they will be shipped to Africa and be incorporated in the "Bats d'AF."

The scaffolding which has been standing for some months at the corner of the Place de l'Opera and the Boulevard de Capucines, the most prominent street corner in Paris, has at last disappeared. Its erection almost caused a riot. There are no people in the world more jealous of the beauty of their town than the Parisians, and when this scaffolding was first put up the rumor went around that the American insurance company which owns the site was going to build skyscraper on it.

No what the scaffolding has disappeared there is a sigh of relief on the boulevards. For the new building is a handsome one and is no handsomer than the buildings next to it, so that the harmony of the Place de l'Opera is undisturbed. Someone had the curiosity to make inquiries as to the reason for the huge scaffolding. It was a very simple one. The price paid for advertising space at that particular corner was such a high one that it paid a very large share of building expense, and it was in the interest of the American company, therefore, to provide as much advertising space as possible.

Preparations are now being made for the taking of the French census in 1911. In the meantime the census of 1906 has not been disposed of. A ponderous volume has been published dealing with the population in its gen-

ANOTHER CAMP HEARD FROM

J. C. LONDON AND BUNCH BACK FROM HUNTING TRIP.

SUCCESS, WHY SURE

Ducks, Deer and Birds Were Bagged, But All Were Eaten—Only Stories To Go By.

With tanned faces, long whiskers and plenty of game, the London hunting party returned Friday afternoon. They had been down on the Pecos for several days, where the slaying of birds, shooting of deer and running from big grizzlies was indulged in.

"Bears! Where have I heard that word before?" said J. C. London. "Oh, yes, it was when S. N. Wilson saw a big fattening hog in the jungles of the Pecos and shouted, 'Run, boys, yonder comes a bear!'"

"We did not get to see any bear, however. We only had visionary symptoms. Mr. Wilson was taken on the surprise then, and that is why he advised us to do a Marathon for a tall tree. Later, however, he proved to be a real sportsman by bringing down one of the biggest snowbirds you ever saw. It was marvelous to see Mr. Wilson taking steady aim at the great speck of game."

"One of the party asked S. N. why he did not hurry and fire. He calmly replied, 'Aim to do well before you fire.'"

"After this incident we moved on up the Pecos river, being directed by our trusty guide, B. B. Hall, who knows that country from A to Izzard. He led us on into what we called the Nairobi Regions of Texas. In this territory was where I pulled down the only deer that was killed on our trip. It was a large, fat buck.

"This was not the only deer we saw, though. Along the route several pretty little does were seen jumping around, but we had mercy on them and let the tender creatures pass on."

Birds.

"On the third day of our hunting trip, some one told us there that any amount of birds could be found up the swamps a little way. Taking his advice, we moved on up the line to where he had designated. It was there that some deadly firing was done by the huntsmen. In almost every direction you could hear one of the party doing rapid fire. After we had been out a few hours we returned to camp and prepared for our noon meal. It was found after we had gathered in camp that more birds than we could eat had been killed.

"After a few days hunting a shooting contest was proposed by Mr. Wilson. We all agreed, but had it thoroughly understood before we started in that if any man should aim five minutes before firing he was disqualified. Fortunately no one was put out, but Mr. Wilson had a terrible time staying in the shoot. About the time we were ready to shoot the last round one of the spies rushed into quarters and heralded the news that a very large covey of ducks was attacking the acorn mass a little lower down the river. We forgot our shooting contest, and one man forgot his gun, but I will not tell who is, and struck a trot down that way to see what could be killed. When we got to the designated place, a terrific fire was opened up on the ducks and we succeeded in killing about fifteen. I am sure we would have killed a great many more if the man had not forgot his gun, as he was about the best shot.

"The shooting contest was never thought of any more. We were too busy preparing the game for the near supper.

Wolves.

"This morning when we arose there was distant howling heard in the west. It was learned that it was being done

eral character, but this is shortly to be followed by the issue of two more volumes which will give particulars respecting education, professions and trades in each department of France. A fourth volume supplementing and recapitulating previous statistics will be ready for publication at the beginning of next year, and finally two further volumes devoted to families, with special regard to the occupation of each member, and to the number of inhabitants occupying the same dwellings, will make their appearance in due course. All this official literature, carefully collected by expert statisticians, should offer fine material for the study of France in its actual conditions.

COLONISTS COMING TO WEST TEXAS

During the past month several parties have been in this part of the state for the purpose of colonizing certain sections of West Texas. Several places have been partially colonized and many others are in view.

A. B. Kirkpatrick, of the A. B. Kirkpatrick & Co. Wholesale Texas and Mexican Lands Colonization Tracts, of Dallas, was in San Angelo Friday. He said while his visit to the city was not on any special purpose, he is coming back in a short while to make some deals.

"I cannot say just now what we will do," he said, "but there is a great move on for the near future."

OPENING OF Y. P. S. C. E. CONVENTION

Departments—"Quiet Hour," "Prison Work," and "Junior and Intermediate," led by Miss Tyler Wilkerson, Field Secretary for Texas C. E. Union. "Good Citizenship," "Missionary," "Tenth Legion" and "The Quarter Century Memorial Building"—by Mr. Carl Beeman, State President.

Convention Opens.

With at least twenty out-of-town delegates in attendance, and many more to arrive Saturday, what promises to be one of the most important meetings in the history of the Brownwood District Y. P. S. C. E., opened Friday night. The First Presbyterian church, where the convention is being held, was artistically decorated, the Christian Endeavor colors, red and white, being the scheme.

The convention opened with a song in which all present participated. A. H. Eicke, district superintendent, made the opening address, taking as his subject "My Part of the Convention." He told of the Christian Endeavor movement in general, and expressed much satisfaction with the work that has been done during the year and with plans mapped out for the future. This district is composed of seventeen counties, and in these seventeen counties there are fifteen Christian Endeavor societies. In San Angelo there are three, the churches being the Harris Avenue Presbyterian, the First Christian and the First Presbyterian.

Welcome Extended.

T. C. Atwood delivered the address of welcome. He told the visitors that

San Angelo is glad to have them here and expressed great faith in the convention, predicting that it will result in untold benefit to every delegate and to every county in the district.

A. H. Eicke responded, though W. F. Buck had been assigned the honor. Mr. Buck was not present.

Rev. H. M. Bandy, of Ballinger, dwelt at considerable length on the theory that it takes an active worker in the cause of Christ to make a good Christian Endeavorer.

Following the business session a reception was held in the parlors of the old Presbyterian church, the affair being one long to be remembered. Everything good to eat was on the tables and the occasion was made more enjoyable by some recitations and readings by Mrs. Abercrombie. Cos-Hart Drugs sent its costly Victrola to the church and the music was just what was needed to make the reception the pronounced success that it deserved to be.

Saturday morning State President Carl Beeman, of Dallas, will arrive on the Orient, and the day promises to be a busy one. At 7 o'clock a prayer meeting will be held, and the convention proper opens its second day's session at 9:30 a. m.

LARGE CROWD OFF FOR SAN ANTONIO

Wild Scramble at Santa Fe Ticket Office—International Fair Opens Saturday.

Saturday the San Antonio fair opens and many people from San Angelo left Friday to attend the celebration.

Just a few minutes before train time at the Santa Fe depot about thirty people were waiting for their turn to secure tickets. Many of them feared that they would get left or would not have time to check their baggage, but all boarded the train in due time.

Kills Her Foe of 20 Years.

"The most merciless enemy I had for 20 years," declares Mrs. James Duncan of Haynesville, Me., "was dyspepsia. I suffered intensely after eating or drinking and could scarcely sleep. After many remedies had failed and several doctors gave me up, I tried Electric Bitters, which cured me completely. Now I can eat anything. I am 70 years old and I am overjoyed to get my health and strength back again." For indigestion, loss of appetite, kidney trouble, lame back, female complaints, it's unequalled. Only 50c at all druggists.

Croup is most prevalent during the dry, cold weather of the early winter months. Parents of young children should be prepared for it. All that is needed is a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Many mothers are never without it in their homes, and it has never disappointed them. Sold by all dealers.

HOUSEWORK TIRESOME GIRLS TAKE UP MINING

Despite Protests of Fathers They Break Up Ore and Make Big Salary on Pick-Up.

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 5.—Tiring of housework, two young women, Miss Edith Smith, daughter of J. F. Smith, manager of the Florence Ore company, and her chum, Mrs. Mary Farsol, have been working in a mine near Grangeville, Idaho, for several weeks. It took more time to convince Miss Smith's father, who owns the mine, that they were in earnest than it did to secure his consent. They were permitted to do the necessary assessment on one of the claims, and in payment were given all of the ore they mined. They broke the ore loose, wheeled it out of the tunnels, sorted it, and loaded it on burros, which carried it to the custom mill in Florence. The ore turned out to be worth $38 a ton, and as it cost only about $6 a ton to deliver it at the mill, including wages for the girls, they netted $32 a ton on the transaction.

NO REBATES ALLOWED IF THEY'RE TRIPLETS

Women Pledged to Pay $10 to Foreign Missions for Each Baby Want to Cut Price on Job Lots.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 5.—"No cut prices or cash rebates on job lots of babies. The rate is $10 straight." This is the motto which the Women's Foreign Mission Society of the Methodist Episcopal church is thinking of posting in their meeting halls. It came out at a meeting that the good women who from coast to coast comprise this body have each quietly agreed to contribute $10 for the missionary cause for each baby born to them.

The self-imposed assessment of mothers has netted quite a fund, but a snag was struck when two Philadelphia mothers whose names are being carefully suppressed by the convention asked for job lot rates on their triplets to whom they had given birth within the past year.

Some of the women who had confessed to twins had fruitlessly thought they might get through on less than full rates for each baby, but when the triplet proposition came up there was trouble and Mrs. Lucy F. Harrison, who has charge of the church's work, was compelled to make a ruling alone. She said she had no authority to furnish a bargain-day rating in triplets or twins. The price agreed on by mothers and prospective mothers years since was $10 for each baby, and there could be no price cutting for either twins or triplets. With that prospect the mothers of the triplets proudly went down to the desk of the cashier and each paid their $30, a $10 note for each of the triplets.

KIDNAPED.

Parents of Girl of 14 Charge Her Mother-in-Law With Enticing.

Atlanta, Nov. 5.—Accused of kidnaping the fourteen-year-old daughter of C. D. Barron, a well to do business man of Atlanta, as a bride of her eighteen-year-old son, Mrs. F. C. Lambert was arrested and held under bond. Mrs. Lambert's arrest is the sequel to a divorce suit filed by Mrs. Lucy Lambert, who alleges that she was kidnaped by Mrs. Lambert and forced to marry the latter's son.

Young Lambert and his mother lived near the Barrons and the former became infatuated with little Miss Barron, and when Barron learned of the matter he ordered young Lambert to keep away from his daughter.

Thereupon, it is alleged, Mrs. Lambert undertook to bring about a marriage between her son and the Barron girl. It is alleged Mrs. Lambert won the girl's confidence and extolled the virtues of her son, telling her what a fine husband he would make, that he would never tell her a story, and she would never regret marrying him.

Finally, it is alleged, Mrs. Lambert enticed the girl to a place where her son was waiting and had them married by a magistrate, who was a friend of Mrs. Lambert. The Barrons allege that Mrs. Lambert wanted to get a rich bride for her son.

Mrs. Lambert is charged with inveigling children under 18 years of age from their parents or guardians which under the law is declared to be kidnaping.

SPOOKS FOLLOW CHILD FROM PLACE TO PLACE

Furniture Dances Around and Upsets Without Apparent Cause—Doctors Admit They're Puzzled.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 5.—Hunted to hiding by his mother, who resented the questions of investigators, little Ernest Harps was taken to the Valley hotel, Second and Main streets.

Twice in the room where the child was playing furniture danced about and upset itself without apparent cause, just as it had done when he was in the Sanders home on Marshall street, two days previously.

The boy's mother had maintained that the boy had nothing to do with the wrecking of the Sanders home, directly or indirectly, but with these new manipulations in another house, she declared her belief that whatever the force was, it worked through Ernest. Tortured by the weird experiences through which the boy has passed the woman collapsed, and is in a serious condition.

A coterie of the most prominent physicians had arranged to give the boy an examination, but owing to the prostration of his mother it was postponed.

The boy was closely questioned by Dr. Y. C. Byrne, and his answers seemed conclusively to show that he had no knowledge of the strange occurrences. He was much distressed. "I am convinced that if these things happen through Ernest it is without his knowledge," said Dr. Byrne.

HAIR.

Auburn Jailbird Surrenders, Knowing He is a Marked Man.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 5.—Despairing because of his fiery red hair of avoiding the police who have been searching for him since his escape from the Columbia county jail, James Kelly of Danville, returned to the jail and surrendered.

He said that his hair made him a marked man wherever he went and knowing that the police all over the state would scan each redheaded man they saw as long as he was at liberty he decided to give himself up.

He is charged with stealing a furnace from the residence of C. C. Barger of Bloomsburg, taking it out under the pretense that the landlord was going to put in a new one, and selling it to a junk man.

Johnston Promoted.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The Comptroller of the Currency announced that National Bank Examiner Percy H. Johnston of Lebanon, Ky., who has been in the service about three years, had been promoted to be a national bank examiner at large because of the high class service which he has rendered as national bank examiner. A few months ago Mr. Johnston was designated as chairman of district No. 5, the examiners in which, numbering about ten, meet twice a year at Nashville.

Mr. Johnston will remain in the district which he now has in Kentucky, but will go on special work of a supervisory nature all over the country.

ANGUISH FOR KISS GETS HER DIVORCE

Pretty Little Woman, Married Six Years, Never Received One Kiss from Her Cold Hubby.

Sacramento, Nov. 5.—Genevieve McKay, who was one of the beautiful Curtiss girls of Woodland when she married Dan McKay, former president of the Sacramento board of trustees, and old enough to be her father, obtained a divorce without contest. A property settlement was made out of court.

The court insisted on taking the testimony of Mrs. McKay and her mother, and it was laden with spicy relations. Her husband never kissed her in all her married life, she swore, and the tears flowed while she recalled what she had missed. Not even one little smack did he give her in six years and two months. Yes, not even when she was a bride. More than that:

"Never in his life did he kiss me," she testified, weeping. "I would go to him and kiss him and he would say 'Oh, go away. This is not my kissing day.' I wanted love and kisses, and I could not get any. He said that the whole family was crazy on the affection question. Why, he would not even buy me ice cream."

When asked by her attorney if that caused her anguish and suffering she burst into fresh tears.

"Every time I asked him to kiss me he would go stamping about the house and threaten to go down and sue for a divorce," she continued. "He even accused me of being untrue to him."

The mother testified that her daughter pined for caresses, and could not get them from old Dan McKay.

Mrs. McKay is a cousin of Mrs. Wm. E. Corey, wife of the steel magnate.

WROTE FIRST.

Woman, Mourning Husband's Death, Then Turned on Gas and Died.

Cincinnati, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Clara C. Sater, widow of Magistrate Milton Sater and sister-in-law of United States Judge John W. Sater, of the Southern District of Ohio, committed suicide here.

She wrote a note to Undertaker Fred Pagels, then took an overdose of chloroform and turned on the gas in her bedroom.

At 11 o'clock Undertaker Pagels opened her letter and read:

"Monday will be my wedding anniversary. Milton is dead. I miss him so much that life no longer holds any happiness for me. Please take charge of my body and of all my effects."

He ran to the Sater home, but when he got there found neighbors gathered about Mrs. Sater's door. They had smelled gas and thought she had taken her life. He and a neighbor broke in to the house and found the woman dead in her bedroom.

In her waist they found a clipping from a newspaper which read:

"This is a case of suicide, pure and simple. I am impelled to this act by reasons that are good and sufficient

C. W. Strain, general passenger agent of the Frisco, with headquarters in Fort Worth, spent Friday afternoon in this city. His visit here was largely a matter of personal business, but he had his eyes opened by what he saw. Shortly after his arrival he was taken in Mr. Byrd's big White steamer and in company with Mr. Byrd, Mr. Mertz and Mr. Webb, also a Press-News man, he was driven about San Angelo.

"It has been several years since I was in San Angelo, and during all the time I was looking at this city this afternoon I had to pinch myself to make sure I was not mistaken," said Mr. Strain. "My, how this place has improved. San Angelo today has all the elements of a great city except paved streets. The houses are great, the business places are great, and the gentlemen I was with this afternoon are a fair sample of the business men of San Angelo, well, there's no place on the map that can compare to

"When will the Frisco be built into San Angelo? Man alive, I am in the passenger department. If I had my way I would have our line here right away. I saw over thirty people lined up at the Santa Fe depot when the train I came on pulled in, just like people lined up at the postoffice at Cherokee, Kan., every Sunday morning in the long ago. That's some business. I don't know how many had been waiting on when I counted the line-up. It's this sort of a sight that gladdens the heart of a passenger man.

"Seriously, I am not in the extension business. Should our line build here it would greatly please me, for I know this is a good point and one that furnishes a lot of business. But the other fellows have the building of the roads. That's not in my line."

Cy Strain is one of the big railroaders in the passenger end of the western railroads. He is all wool and a yard wide—both literally and figuratively. He is 18 carat shine all the time. He is patient with bores and is pleasantly agreeable with his own fellows. He has been in the railroad business oh ever so many years, and he still looks to be under—well, say under 45. He left Friday afternoon over the Orient for Sweetwater, from which place he took the Texas and Pacific for Fort Worth.

"Take keer of yerself, Cy," said a friend as he mounted the Orient. "You betcher," he said, "and when flashin' time comes I'm coming back for a spell."

BURNS TO DEATH.

She Was 94, and Set Her Clothes Afire Smoking Her Pipe.

Boston, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Rebecca Roach, aged 94, died at the Waltham hospital because she was addicted to the old-fashioned habit of seeking comfort in a pipe.

Mrs. Roach was living with her granddaughter, Mrs. Susan Melanson. For years she smoked a pipe after dinner.

She went to her room and lit the customary after dinner pipe. Soon afterward Mrs. Melanson was disturbed by the odor of burning cloth.

She investigated and found that smoke was coming from her grandmother's room. Opening the door she was startled to see the old lady on the floor, her clothing on fire.

Mrs. Roach was hurried to the hospital, but she did not regain consciousness.

MARKET OPENS ELEVEN POINTS LOWER TO FIVE HIGHER.

BEARS MAKE A RAID

Stocks Somewhat Heavy—Pennsylvania and Santa Fe Each Sell Dividends at Three Per Cent.

Publishers' Press. New York, Nov. 5.—Cotton opened irregular, from 11 points lower to 5 points higher. Some large commission houses, bull leaders and spot houses were buyers. The market was less active in the middle of the morning, while prices advanced and shorts were rushed to cover.

January sold up to 14.75, and May to 15, the May increase being 18 points over yesterday's close.

An organized raid was made by the bears this afternoon. Bullish visible supply figures were totally ignored and prices broke heavily.

Exports for the day were 49,985 bales. Spots were forced down 25 points, to 14.70. Liverpool spots quiet at 7.59d.

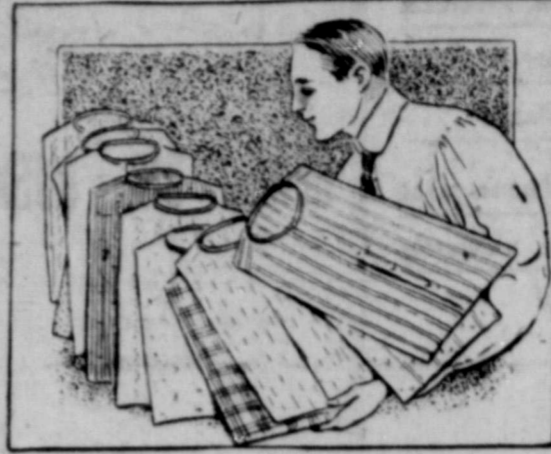

Stocks.

Publishers' Press. New York, Nov. 5.—The stock market was somewhat heavy all day. At the opening steel and industrials were generally strong, with Colorado Fuel and Iron, Steel common and others ranging above yesterday's close. Pennsylvania railroad and Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe both sold semi-annual dividends at 3 per cent. Reading advanced 2 points before noon.

The demand was very good for Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, with many selling orders for steel, Southern and Union Pacific cabled from London.

There was a declining tendency in the market during the last hour. Steel and Amalgamated Copper each yielded a point, and St. Paul lost its early gain.

There are just twenty dozen of these fine pleated bosom shirts. The assortment of colors and patterns is very large and all men may be fitted in the lot. They are shirts that ought to and do sell for as much as a dollar apiece. But we got them from a manufacturer that needed the money. He needed it so badly that he was willing to take about half of the value for this lot of shirts. We have thousands of customers who will appreciate the bargain. There will not be enough of these shirts to go around if all of these customers come at this time. But there will be enough for Saturday's selling. We think they will go fast at the price at which they are offered. So, if you want one of them, come as early in the day as you can. They are easily worth $1.25. You pay that price for lots of shirts that do not have the value that these do. We offer them for one day only, Saturday, as long as they last at choice for only—

RIPLEY CALLED TO NEW YORK

WILL NOT BE IN POSITION TO VISIT SAN ANGELO.

MUST ADDRESS MEETING

It Was His Desire to Make This City and Disappointment Results From Change of Plans.

President Ripley, of the Santa Fe, will not visit San Angelo at present. Information to this effect was received here Friday from Temple. President Ripley has been called to New York, where he will make an address before a meeting of a newly organized association of railroad men.

When President Ripley and party started out on their trip of inspection they fully intended to make San Angelo a visit, and it is known here that they will be disappointed in not being in a position to carry out their plans. Especially did they desire to make this city a visit on account of the extension that the Santa Fe is making to Sterling City, and the proposed new line to the south.

Abolished.

The report is current that the Coleman junction of the Santa Fe is to be abolished. If the report is true, it comes as good news to all those who reside west of the junction, and the traveling public generally, for it has always been a source of annoyance to have to run into Coleman, then back out, or go on to the Y and turn and come back to the junction. It will mean about an hour of time saved each trip and will suit the entire traveling public much better than to have to continue as heretofore.
