SHRIMP FLEET BLESSING . . . From the ramparts of ancient Castillo de San Marcos, St. Augustine, Fla., the oldest city in the country, the blessing of the shrimp fleet took place recently. The ancient religious blessing custom came to the New World from the fishing villages of Normandy and Brittany. As the small bell, which called the Spanish to mass in early days, sounded its voice with that of the newer and larger bells of the moss-stained cathedral, fisher-folk of Portuguese and Minorcan descent formed a processional to the bay-front for the blessing ceremonies.

— By —
Mrs. J. O. Richardson

We have received no rain the past few days and farmers have been very busy working out row crops.

Our hearts were saddened last Saturday when we learned of the death of Mr. J. J. Leeth of Hico. The Leeth family resided near Fairy for more than 20 years, selling their farm and moving to Hico after declining health prevented his operating the farm. He was 92 years of age last March 15, and passed away about 10 o'clock Friday night, May 23. He had been a semi-invalid for about eight years, but retained his jovial disposition almost until the last. He was preceded in death by two daughters, Miss Erna Leeth, who passed away in 1918 at the age of 19 while living near Fairy, and Mrs. Clara Cornett at the age of 33, in 1920. Funeral services were held at the family residence in Hico Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, with interment in the Fairy cemetery. He is survived by his wife and five sons and six daughters, namely, Will, and Nona of Hico, George of Hamilton, Fred and V. R. of Dallas; Mrs. Leela McAnelly of California, Mrs. Sam Trimmier and Mrs. A. A. Brown of Hico, Mrs. Orville Reising of Carlton, Mrs. Ina Sorley of Cranfills Gap and Mrs. Mamie Appleby of Meridian. There were more than 60 grandchildren and 83 great-grandchildren. A very large crowd of relatives and friends attended his funeral. We extend deepest sympathy to all those bereaved at his passing.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ellers of San Antonio, accompanied by her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Will Green of Hico, stopped a while at the home of the writer Thursday of last week. Mrs. Ellers, who was the former Miss Ruby Lineberger, was out looking over the Fairy section and the place where her parents resided when they lived here some forty-odd years ago. They lived for a time where H. O. Richardson now resides, however the dwelling of that period burned and has been replaced by a modern dwelling. They were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Brummitt and looked over a portion of the country in those parts before returning to Hico in the afternoon. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lineberger, now deceased.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lodep of Texas City visited last week with his sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Goynes, and daughters.

Mrs. Pat Patterson and children Joan and Butch of Dallas came in last week for a few days' visit with her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Edd Allison and Texie.

The writer motored over to Glen Rose last Friday and attended the singing at the court house Friday night and accompanied our husband home on Saturday, who had spent the past ten days there.

We have just received word of the death of Mr. John Prater of Hico, father of Mr. Prater who lives on the Barker place near Fairy. We extend sympathy.

Misses Daphne and Patsy Ann Hoover of Stephenville spent the week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hoover.

Miss Barbara Anderson and Harrison Guinn were married Sunday night, May 18, at the home of Rev. West of Hamilton. Barbara is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Anderson and was one of our 1947 graduates from the Fairy High School. Mr. Guinn resided near Fairy. We congratulate this young couple on their choice in marriage, as each possesses a character of sterling qualities and we wish for them much happiness and prosperity through life.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Miller.

The writer and husband visited a while Sunday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Blount.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Richardson and Jerry visited Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Noland and daughters of Blue Ridge. Joe D. Betts of Treasure Island, Calif., is here for an extended visit with his father, T. L. Betts. Mrs. Betts, who is employed in Fort Worth, spent the week end here. They expect the arrival of their other son, Lester, and family the last of the week. Joe has another year in the Navy, but states that he is enjoying his work and from all appearances looks as though he is faring fine.

Among those here for the burial services of Mr. J. J. Leeth Sunday were Mrs. Jessie Purdon and mother, Mrs. E. L. Trimmier, of Stephenville, Mrs. Rex Cornelius of near Johnsonville, Mr. and Mrs. Cleburne Basham and members of their family, of Turnersville. All of these are former residents of Fairy and were greeting old friends and neighbors after the services. There were probably a number of others whom we failed to see. Mrs. Trimmier left a donation for the fence fund for the cemetery, amounting to $5.00, and Mrs. Cornelius also gave $2.00, for which they have our thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Allison and family of Dublin came down Sunday to visit relatives and to attend funeral services for Mr. Leeth.

Jess Lackey of the Plains country is greeting old friends and relatives at Fairy. The Lackey families enjoyed a reunion at Meridian Lake Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ray Sellers and Carolyn had as guests Sunday her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Richardson; her sister, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Allison and family of Dublin, and Mrs. Guy Blount and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Howell Blount.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Brunson were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Beck and son, Charles, Sunday.

Olga Duncan is drilling a new water well at the Fairy school, to replace the old one that was lost.

WOULD YOU CHOOSE A WIFE JUST BECAUSE SHE WAS AVAILABLE?

CERTAINLY NOT! Neither should you purchase an inferior machine just because it is available. — WHY? — The first reason is just that "inferior." The second reason is that you can't get parts and expert repair service quickly. Many people overlook the importance of buying a machine that they can get parts for, thus they may buy an inferior machine just because it is available or because the machine is a hundred dollars cheaper. Yeap, the purchaser may make a hundred dollar better deal buying "inferior" equipment, but he will in all probability lose a thousand dollars or more during the years he will own that "inferior machine" due to his machine being broken down with no parts to fix it with when he needs it to save his grain, plant his crops at the right time, or cultivate when his crop needs it most.

By LYNN CONNELLY

THIS fall will find a good many familiar faces either gone completely from the radio scene or on different programs. Rumor has it that Frances Langford will be back on the Bob Hope show, which means an end to those clever domestic skits she and Don Ameche do on his NBC show. Don is going dramatic and Danny Thomas will solo. CBS' Hoagy Carmichael's show the end of May.

F. Langford . . . Mayor of the Town shifts to the ABC network.

Phil Baker will be out as emcee of CBS' "Take It or Leave It" and Keenan Wynn and Red Barber are auditioning for the spot. . . Frank Sinatra, who asked for a release from his CBS contract last winter because of ill health, and finally consented to finish out the season only to have his sponsor announce it was dropping him (that's a pistol) will be back on the Hit Parade which recently left CBS for NBC. . . Jimmy Durante is considering a solo spot with NBC and if that materializes, CBS will have lost a top show ("Hit Parade") and two top stars in Sinatra and Durante.

Cut To the Quick

On a recent broadcast, NBC's Fred Allen referred to Mutual's "Queen for a Day" program. . . Bud Ernst, "Queen" producer, sent Allen a salami in gratitude. . . whereupon he received the following thank-you note from Allen—"Thanks a lot for the salami, which I immediately presented to my friend, the censor, so he would have something else to eat."

Low Ayres has been an adopted member of a tribe of Navajo Indians for 12 years. . . His name is Happy Sun! Ann Sheridan, his co-star in "The Unfaithful," actually has a strain of Cherokee blood. Miss Pauline Betz, American and Wimbledon tennis champion, and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke, former national tennis champion, have decided to quit the amateur ranks, and go on a tour to make some money. They will play against local professionals in various cities under management of Elwood Cooke, Sarah's husband. The tennis stars had Pauline Betz been trying, unsuccessfully, to get reinstated in the amateur associations.

Ted Williams' long slump seems to be over. He banked out two homers in St. Louis in one game recently. There is a movement on foot to prevent inferior horses from being entered in big stake races like the Kentucky Derby, just because the owner has the big fee in his pocket and likes to see his name on the entry list. Jimmy Foxx, once a headliner among heavy hitters, is definitely through playing. As manager of the St. Petersburg Saints of the Florida International League, he has appeared in the lineup several times each season, as pitcher, catcher, or pinch hitter. He has been playing professional ball for 24 years.

The Memorial Day auto race management is having trouble with a number of drivers over prize money. The American Society of Professional Automobile Racers is on a sort of strike against the Indianapolis Speedway, where the 500 mile race is run. The Society charges that the Speedway officials have not put up prize money in "reasonable ratio to gate receipts." The Society comprises about 30 of the nation's top ranking racing drivers.

The middleweight title bout, set for Chicago July 16, will be held indoors, because of the uncertainty of the weather. The Chicago Stadium, a big roofed structure, will hold about 22,000, less than half that of the baseball park originally planned as the site.

Fifteen records were broken at the National A. A. U. women's indoor swimming and diving championship meet at Seattle. The Crystal Plunge team of San Francisco, with its star, Ann Curtis, and the Multnomah club of Portland, Ore., won 14 of these.

Cheering the Food Helps Circulation in Gums

By Dr. J. B. Warren

Because foods are naturally soft or made soft by various processes we are all told there is no need for strong hard grinding teeth to chew food. However, while soft foods are all right for those without teeth or with poor teeth, foods that require a hard bite and much chewing will, by increasing circulation, strengthen the teeth in their sockets and prevent pyorrhea. It is the shock or push against the root sockets in chewing hard foods that increases circulation of blood in gums.

This Week in WASHINGTON

THE department of the interior already is preparing to curtail its activities, particularly in the western states, due to the drastic cuts in appropriations for field operations. The bureau of land management already has issued orders to close 41 offices in 10 western states, leaving only one office in each state where some 20,000 stockmen may conduct their business in connection with the use of 140 million acres of federal range land.

Interior Secretary Krug stated also that the budget cuts would necessitate curtailment in the field program for protection and feeding of 500,000 wild animals on the public range lands.

THE RENT CONTROL bill passed by the house in a narrow squeak, which saw the use of the big stick by Republican leaders in forcing some members to change their vote, is a hodgepodge. While not granting any specific rent increase, the bill provides that local rent control offices may or may not rent increases up to a point. So whether there is rent control or not remains to be seen, since it depends upon who controls the local rent boards.

THE SENATE, by a vote of 59 to 35, refused to split up its omnibus labor bill into four separate bills as asked by some senators who want to see reforms made in labor laws but who do not want to punish labor. Such senators as Morse of Oregon, Murray of Montana, Pepper of Florida and some others, declared that if the Republicans persisted in keeping the whole labor picture in one omnibus bill it likely would be vetoed by the President, and thus there would be actually no labor reform legislation at this session of congress, since there likely are insufficient votes in the senate to pass the law over the President's veto.

They argued that if the actual labor reforms such as those relating to jurisdictional strikes, secondary boycotts, forcing the union to make public its finances, giving management an equal voice with the unions, et cetera, all more or less agreed reforms, were kept in one bill, the President would sign it. They argued, however, that he likely would not sign a bill which outlawed closed shops or industry-wide bargaining for the unions. Hence if he vetoed such a bill, needed labor reform laws would at least remain on the statutes. GOP leaders, however, seemed to feel that they wanted to keep everything in one package and then pass the blame to the President if there is no labor legislation.

IN OUTLINING the administration policy for agriculture, Secy. Clinton B. Anderson told the house agricultural committee that he favored a farm program based on a policy of "organized plenty." The plan outlined by the secretary included stability of prices through a system of commodity price floors; an over-all land program to conserve and improve agricultural resources; extension to the farm of public services and facilities, such as housing, telephone, electrification and fire protection; agricultural research; a floor under consumption of farm products which would include a surplus distribution and food allotment program; an ever-normal granary; storage loans and marketing agreements, of which international trade agreements are only a part.

Edwin A. O'Neal, president of American Farm Bureau federation, backed up most of the program outlined by Secretary Anderson, as did John H. Davis of the national council of farm cooperatives. Davis, however, recommended that grant-in-aid payments, aside from those already allowed for 1947 soil conservation, be discontinued while farmers are financially able to carry out a conservation program. Davis also asked that the formula for parity be modernized and that social security benefits be extended to farmers and farm laborers.

Training Habits Still Important With Children

TOILET training methods are far less rigid than they were a few years ago when mothers thought they were failures if they didn't anticipate all a child's toilet needs in time to prevent accidents. This strictness resulted in so many reversions to lack of bladder control after the child had once gained it, that doctors began to advise less stress on early training. The muscles involved in bladder control are not sufficiently mature until the child is three to expect success. Consequently attempts to exact behavior of which the child isn't at all times capable lead to unhappiness for both child and parent. Even after three, excitement or an emotional upset will weaken control. Such accidents are perfectly normal and need cause no concern.

However, if a child of five or six reverts to bed-wetting you should investigate the reasons. First, he should be given a thorough medical examination to determine if there is a physical cause for this lapse. If everything is all right physically, look into the worries or irritations or lack of appreciation in your child's life. Has he heard rumors that his father may be called out on a strike? Has he heard so much talk about high prices that he is worried about the family bills? Has an attractive child moved into the neighborhood who threatens his popularity? Have you neglected to make over him as much as you used to? There are, fortunately, hundreds of little sorrows which beset children and if they grow too heavy a child unconsciously seeks ways of being a baby again. Relaxing bladder control is one way.

THE muscles involved in bowel control mature earlier than those governing the retention of liquid in the bladder. Also, regular habits are more easily achieved so that the child doesn't have to be watched so closely. As soon, then, as he can sit on his toilet seat, encourage him to cooperate by praising him for success. But don't make an issue of failure, for this is likely to lead to resistance. The whole learning process is thus blocked. Moreover, it is highly undesirable for the child to learn this way of showing defiance for it may be the cause of lifelong irregularity of elimination.

The small child's interest in the products of elimination is a normal one. Do not shame him, but let him satisfy his curiosity and then divert his attention to less infantile play. In this way he will outgrow it. Good play substitutes are sand and water, finger paints or modeling clay.

VETERANS' QUESTION BOX

Ed. Note: This newspaper has arranged with the Washington Bureau of National Weekly Newspaper Service, 1616 Eye St. N. W., Washington 6, D. C., to answer questions pertaining to servicemen and veterans. These questions will be answered in this column if addressed as above. No replies can be made by mail, but this paper will print answers to all questions received.

Q. While serving with the first cavalry division, battery C, 99th field artillery battalion in Tokyo, Japan, I was paid in Japanese currency. I accumulated around $50 in Jap currency just before leaving to return to the states and was unable to get it exchanged for American currency before arriving in the United States. After reaching the separation center at Ft. Sam Houston, Texas to be discharged, I turned in the Jap currency to the finance officer there to be exchanged for American money. I was informed that I would have to make out an affidavit swearing I had drawn the money over the pay desk and had received it in an honest transaction which I did as it was my monthly earnings. It was told that this money would be sent to Washington and checked to see if any of it was counterfeit. If not, I was due to receive a check for it in the future. That was a little over two years ago and I haven't heard a thing from it since that time. Any information you might give me as to where to write or what to do to solve the problem will be greatly appreciated.—J. W. P. Sumner, Tex.

A. If you still have the receipt for the money given you by the finance officer at Ft. Sam Houston, have a photostat made and send the copy with a letter explaining the transaction to the Claims and Adjustment Branch, U. S. Army, 4300 Goodfellow Blvd., St. Louis 20, Mo.

Q. I am drawing compensation for my services in the army. I want to know if they will cut it out if I get a job training through the GI bill of rights. I will be disabled to work over half the time.—A. veteran, Mt. Airy, North Carolina.

A. If you are referring to disability compensation, the fact that you take on-the-job training will not interfere with your payments from veterans administration.

Q. I am a World War I veteran. I enlisted in the army April 9, 1917 and served with the 114th ambulance company, 104th sanitary train. My serial number—1,374,533. I was discharged from service June 2, 1919. Am I entitled to a pension and if so, to whom must I apply?—J. H. Galox, Va.

A. You are not entitled to a pension unless you are suffering from a disability either service or non-service connected, in the latter case, total disability. If you are suffering from such a disability suggest you contact the nearest office of the Veterans administration. They will give you a medical examination to determine the extent of your disability and rate you accordingly.

Q. My son was drafted into the army at his 18th birthday. He served one year at which time he re-enlisted for another year. He was sent overseas January 31, 1946. He recently spent 25 days in the hospital over there. Will he be sent home any time before the end of his enlistment?—Mrs. C. D. A., Omaha, Neb.

A. I have no way of knowing whether he will or will not be discharged before the end of his enlistment, although I think not, since his is an enlistment and not a draft case.

Whatever the weatherman may say, indisputable proof that spring is truly here and summer is on the way comes from the ever-faithful circus, most reliable harbinger of fair weather to come. Sprucing up between showings, the circus maintains its luster for young and old, and one way it's done is shown here. Pretty Kay Clarke gets elephantine assistance in keeping her new Chevrolet gleaming, as old Blanche, queen of the Cole Bros. Circus "peerless pack of ponderous pachyderms," lends a hand . . . er, trunk.

Dale Carnegie

Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

WON'T KICK A DEAD DOG

IN 1929 there was an event in Chicago which attracted the most brilliant educators in the country. People came for thousands of miles for the occasion. Not a football game; not a political powwow. No, the occasion was the inauguration of a young man of thirty as president of the fourth richest university in this country: the University of Chicago; a university with an endowment of seventy million dollars.

D. Carnegie

The young man who was to be inaugurated as president had worked his way through Yale as a waiter. But now the great sat at his feet: Robert Maynard Hutchins.

I was not there, but I got a glimpse of it from the late Dr. Jefferson Davis Sandefer, formerly president of Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, Texas. Dr. Sandefer sat on the platform next to the father of the new president. Turning to him he said, "I notice that one of the newspapers made a bitter attack on your son today."

This was stating it mildly, for young Dr. Hutchins had not only been attacked by the newspapers and by the educational bigwigs, but had been bitterly denounced.

Dr. Hutchins' father sat for a moment, thinking, then said quietly: "Yes, that's true. But remember, no one ever kicks a dead dog."

Remember that the next time someone attacks you.

The moment you raise your head even slightly above the water level of mediocrity, you will discover a lot of jealous, envious, critics on the banks of the river ready to throw mud balls at you. Some of the mud balls will have rocks inside. This has been true throughout the ages; and it will be true until human nature changes. La Rochefoucauld, the French philosopher, said many years ago: "If you want enemies, excel your friends; but if you want friends, let your friends excel you." Why is that true? Because when our friends excel us, it gives them a feeling of importance; when we excel them, it gives them a feeling of inferiority. So if you accomplish anything in the world, expect to be attacked, denounced, condemned. That was the fate of Robert Maynard Hutchins, of Abraham Lincoln, of Socrates, and of all the good, capable, and great men who ever lived.

Want to Run a "Collective" Farm?

Was reading the other day about the "collective" farms they have in certain countries. It seems the folks who run them have plenty of help . . . good hours . . . and the best equipment.

Sounds pretty nice—till you learn that the "farmer" doesn't own his land, or even farm it, in our sense. He takes orders from the state; produces whatever they want him to produce, at prices they set. Even his off-hours are spent according to state regulations.

No, that would never go here.

We're willing to work hard, but we like to farm the land our own way, put our own value on the crops, and relax as we like—if only with a temperate, companionable glass of beer.

From where I sit, collective farming may produce results. But the American way—freedom to work and relax as we see fit—is what makes this country a great place to live. So let's not change it!

Dale Carnegie

Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

HE WON OVER HIS ENEMIES
ON March 13, 1939, an event occurred in London; something that had not happened before in the history of the British Empire.

An American opened a department store in London! It was sensational; overwhelming. It was enough to have a department store, let alone having it opened by an American.

Dale Carnegie

That American was a farm boy from Michigan. His name was H. Gordon Selfridge.

He had been a partner with the great Marshall Field in Chicago, had sold out, and now was descending upon the very stronghold of British conservatism.

He had spent two years getting ready for the opening. He had put all of his money and the money of his friends into the venture. If he failed, he was sunk. He had hired and trained 1,300 clerks. All was in readiness.

The proprietors of the small shops in the neighborhood had not liked the idea of a big store. And now, as the time for the opening came, their opposition grew stronger. They threw obstructions in his path; legal technicalities. They were all united against him; he hadn't a friend among them.

As the date of the opening approached, they decided to have gala events the week he opened. They fixed up their windows; rebuilt parts of their stores. The managers of one store discovered that this was the very week of their Diamond Jubilee! They would outdo Selfridge. They hired not only the London Symphony Orchestra but a famous band. On top of this, they engaged the most famous singer in England, and one of the best known pianists. It was like two circuses opening the same day and trying to attract the same people. But this was not for an opening day only, the rivalry would continue indefinitely.

"What should Selfridge do? Fight? Defy them? Shake his fists?"

He thought they had done an exceedingly fine bit of promotion, and so he decided to write and congratulate them. He was sincere and honest. He sent the letter by messenger to his bitterest opponent.

The man was astonished. He liked the compliment, and he liked the attitude of cooperation.

On opening day, a trumpeter came out on a balcony of the Selfridge store and blew a blast. The doors swung open, people were trampled in the crush. The attendance broke all records—150,000. It was the sensation of not only England, but of the British Empire.

Suddenly this section of London became the fashionable shopping center. Business boomed. People came from as far away as Scotland. Selfridge and his opponents found there was plenty of business for all. A year after the opening of the store, the managing director of the store who had been so bitter against Selfridge said that his coming was the best thing that had ever happened. And they were all for Selfridge himself. His warm letter of approval had won them over. They became friends instead of developing into enemies.

Legal Center At S. M. U. Is Second Of Kind In U. S.

Dallas, May 27.—Establishment of a legal center, second of its kind in the United States, where jurists, lawyers, and the lay public will conduct research and study to meet needs of a changing world, will be made at Southern Methodist University by the Southwestern Legal Foundation, Dean Robert G. Storey of the S. M. U. School of Law has announced.

Detailed plans for the center were told in Dallas by Dean Storey at a banquet held to honor members of the Texas Supreme and appellate courts. Dean Storey, who was a prosecutor of Nazi war criminals at the Nuernberg trials, was elected earlier as president of the Foundation.

The center, to be operated in conjunction with the S. M. U. Law School, will be dedicated to study and research in special fields of government law, foreign affairs, international law, and will conduct laboratory tests of proposed laws.

A free legal aid clinic, to furnish legal advice to those who cannot pay, also will be maintained.

The foundation plans to exchange students and professors with friendly foreign governments, and will conduct an annual institute of foreign affairs. Special grants, fellowships and specific research undertakings will be financed by the foundation, Dean Storey revealed.

"The legal center is a post-graduate laboratory for outstanding members of the teaching profession, judges, and leaders of the bar, aided by the foremost men in government, industry, and labor," the dean said.

A similar center is in operation at New York University.
