

Engine parts, differentials, springs and other parts from a four million dollar inventory of automotive equipment are being separated into lots of related materials for a series of sales to be held by War Assets Administration at the Red River Arsenal, Texarkana. The first such sale will offer $125,000 worth of the auto parts on September 10 and 11, with inspection invited during both days until 11 a. m. on the 11th, when awards will be announced on all bids. Crankshafts, fuel pumps, transfer cases, carburetor parts and ball bearings will be among the quantities of additional materials offered without priority to all buyers.

Largest crowd ever to attend a surplus sale at Grand Prairie converged on the WAA plant a week ago Monday for the start of a veterans' vehicle sale. An estimated 8,000 veterans swarmed over the grounds and into the sales warehouse to participate in a drawing for purchase positions. Those who were disappointed are getting another chance this week at a bid sale of 160 vehicles in need of repair. These busses, passenger cars, trucks and other machines are located at eight Texas installations but the sale is being conducted Thursday and Friday at Grand Prairie. Veterans will complete bidding by 4 p. m. Thursday, and remaining vehicles will be offered to other buyers beginning at 9 a. m. Friday.

The continuous campaign which the Department of Agriculture is waging in Mexico against the hoof and mouth disease received some war surplus reinforcement last week. Acting for the Mexican program, the Bureau of Animal Husbandry purchased 13 ambulances, 13 carryall trucks and one panel truck from War Assets Administration. The surplus vehicles will be shipped to Mexico City for use of medical technicians in stamping out the disease below the border.

WAA's donation of surplus machine tools will be continued into September with the addition of 83 new items to the gift list. It was announced. Most of the free machine tools are in storage at the Grand Prairie NAA B plant, where they may be inspected during week days, though a few are located at Waco Army Air Field and at Todd Houston Shipyard. Qualified institutions which intend to employ the tools in a vocational training program are invited to submit written applications to the Priority Claims Division, Grand Prairie office, before September 29.

The double lired ax of economy and mechanization brought a new type of war surplus into War Assets inventory last week in the form of eight cavalry horses. Camp Hood, it developed, was reducing its remaining horse cavalry complement by more than a third. The horses, all geldings 12 or 13 years old, were sold at public auction by WAA's location clearance branch in accordance with federal regulations.

Eleven frame chapels at Paris' Camp Maxey were listed for sale this week by the office of real property disposal in Grand Prairie. Sale of the chapels is subject to priority groups, and applications to purchase must signify assurance that the buildings will be used as shrines, memorials or places of worship. Applications will be accepted from both priority groups and others until October 8, closing date.

LARGE WATERMELON
Bob Hancock brought the News Review force a large Improved Tom Watson watermelon last Thursday, which he gathered from the heart of a 150-acre watermelon patch between Stephenville and Mineral Wells, close to the pit from which he has been getting gravel. The force managed to make a deal for cooling the melon on the halves, and gathered from the heart of same some luscious eating.

Famous Chicken Of Tomorrow May Hail From Texas

College Station, Tex., Sept. 1.—The Chicken-of-Tomorrow, a meatier bird with juicier drumsticks and more white meat to delight the national palate, definitely can be developed—and it may be Texas-bred, a Texas A&M poultry specialist predicted today.

His prediction was based on the results of the 1947 Texas and Southwestern Chicken-of-Tomorrow contests held this summer at Fort Worth with Texas-bred birds winning four of the five first places in the regional competition.

"The chickens entered in the state and regional contests had more white meat and were superior in every way to the average cockerels their age," declared F. Z. Beamblossom, A&M Extension Poultryman who is chairman of both the state and regional Chicken-of-Tomorrow committees.

"The next step in the three-year, nation-wide contest will be selection by the National Committee of the poultrymen whose chickens will compete in 1948 for $7,000 in national prizes offered by A&P Food Stores, sponsors of the contest," Beamblossom explained.

"The committee is expected to make its selections in the next few months."

Since Texas entries took most of the top places in the regional contest, they will receive first priority from the National Committee for selection for the finals, the Extension Poultryman explained. In order to compete in the finals, an entry must meet the rigid standards set by the committee, which is composed of poultry industry leaders, U. S. Department of Agriculture experts, and representatives of state Agricultural Colleges and Extension Services.

Poultrymen selected for the finals will ship two cases of eggs—720—to a central hatchery somewhere in the U. S. There the eggs will be hatched and the chicks raised, killed, and judged under identical conditions by nationally-known experts.

MISS STARDUST OF 1947... Some 25,000 were entered but only one was chosen. She is Joan Murray, Harrison, N. Y. She was selected as Miss Stardust of 1947, the nation's most photogenic beauty.

Clifton Boy Scouts Make A Week-End Camp Near Hico

Fifteen Boy Scouts left Clifton Saturday morning, August 23, at 7:00 o'clock for the 3-K Ranch outside of Hico, where they were destined to make a week-end camp.

Upon arriving all hands went to work; cleaning sleeping quarters, clearing and laying off a ball field, making firepits, and arranging a kitchen. By now Old Glory was waving high on her home-made flag pole.

Johanne Ludwig, chief cook, and his assistants prepared a luscious meal to get the camp going well.

When troop ninety-nine of Hico came, the fun really began. Following a hot ball game were boxing matches, hikes, and similar games. Unfortunately, the river water was too stagnant for swimming.

Another Clifton Scout arrived on the bus Saturday evening. This made a total of 16 from Troop 76.

That evening proper ceremonies were held while the flag was lowered. Then chow was eaten, after which both troops held a council meeting around the campfire. Scoutmasters, junior leaders, patrol leaders, and committeemen made welcome speeches in behalf of the troops. Buddy songs were sung, races were run, patrols were assigned, and "taps" ended the first day in camp.

Two men from each troop were selected by the Scoutmaster to walk guard on the camp for two hours until another group relieved them. Several boys claimed that they saw a suspicious animal which was later spoken of, jokingly, as a "booger."

At 5:30 in the morning came the dread notes of "reville." After breakfast, all the boys but two guards went to the church of their choosing. After this, the dinner was truly a Sunday dinner, although many difficulties arose delaying the noon meal to 4:00 p. m.

In the afternoon, games and contests were held, namely: string-burning contests; trail following, both marked and mapped; hiking, and boxing.

The second night also saw a buddy camp similar to the first. We were glad to see committeemen from both Hico and Clifton take enough interest to attend this meeting. Camp routine of guard posting, taps, reveille, breakfast, camp breaking, cleaning grounds, and leaving for home followed.

Ah! Home again after an eventful week end in a Scout Camp. M. B., Troop 76 Scribe.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Woodard and daughter, Wilma, returned home last Friday from a vacation trip to the Ozark Mountains, Fort Smith, Lafayette, Van Buren and Springfield, Arkansas. In Van Buren they had a very interesting visit in the home of Bob Burns.

The Veterans Administration has announced it will extend compensation payments to veterans who have been discharged from VA hospitals with arrested pulmonary tuberculosis but who need some time at home in which to recover sufficiently to take a job without endangering their health.

The new plan permits payments to these veterans on a totally disabled basis up to two years from date of discharge from any VA hospital while they remain under close medical supervision. Previously, the payments were reduced by 50 per cent within six months of the veteran's discharge.

Under the new plan, these veterans will be examined every six months. If the examination indicates they are unable to resume employment safely, doctors will certify their findings so that VA may determine whether to continue full compensation payments for an additional six months.

VA expects this plan to result in better control of arrested pulmonary tuberculosis among veterans and thus reduce the necessity of hospitalizing them again.

Veterans' News

The Veterans Administration will establish diabetic clinics in all its Regional Offices in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi as the result of an experiment at Dallas which indicated large savings to taxpayers and improved treatment for veterans afflicted with this disability.

The "pilot" project was initiated at Dallas three months ago to provide periodic out-patient treatment for service-connected diabetics instead of putting them in already overcrowded VA hospitals.

VA said one of the biggest advantages of the clinics is that they enable diabetic veterans to continue working to support themselves and their families. Without regular treatments at the clinics, hospitalization of from nine days to one month each year would have been necessary in most cases.

Clinics will be established at Waco, Houston, San Antonio, Lubbock, New Orleans, Shreveport and Jackson. The Dallas clinic will continue to function.

Mrs. Hub Alexander of Clairette was reported recovering nicely at the Hico Hospital and Clinic, after undergoing a major operation Tuesday.

Life After Forty Tends to Become More Complicated

Austin, Sept. 1.—From a health standpoint, life after forty generally begins to be more complicated for the average individual, than it was in his earlier years. According to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, the principal health foes confronting people in middle life are heart disease, cancer, kidney disease, high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, apoplexy, diabetes, and arthritis.

Middle aged people of today are healthier than were those of preceding generations, and the present generation, when they reach middle age, should enjoy even better health than their parents of today.

Medical care in middle life has two important phases," Dr. Cox asserts. "The first is going to the doctor at regular intervals for a complete checkup whether or not there have been symptoms that suggest the need for medical attention. The second is prompt attention to any illness, since this may mean the difference between complete recovery and prolonged invalidism. It is difficult to say which of these phases is the more important."

It has been found that men and women who faithfully pursue the habit of regular health examinations and who follow their physician's advice arising from them, tend to live longer, more satisfactorily, and freer from disease than those who simply take a chance and go to the doctor only when pain or disability forces them to give up their normal activities.

It is also a fact according to the State Health Officer, that many diseases of middle age respond to treatment in early stages whereas if neglected until later, they often cause chronic invalidism or even death.

Former Fairy Man Drowned In Creek Near Fort Worth

The following clipping from the Fort Worth Star-Telegram tells of the tragic drowning of a man who formerly lived in Hamilton County and had many relatives here:

Firemen and police worked desperately for two hours Thursday in an effort to revive Herman Nathan Spencer, 38, of 1700 Ripy, who disappeared under water while on a swimming party at Sycamore Creek, near the Black Bridge at the Mansfield Highway but at 12:45 p. m. a physician pronounced the victim dead.

Spencer had shown no signs of life after artificial respiration had been applied for two hours by Patrolmen Taylor and Potter and Firemen A. L. Corn and Earl Shannons. Harris and Crowder Funeral Homes supplied oxygen equipment.

Troy Taft, 13, and his brother, Kenneth, 11, who reside on Weisenburger Road, told officers Spencer appeared at the creek where they were swimming, pulled off his clothing and said he was going swimming.

Spencer walked into the creek and went under the surface, the boys said.

The lads ran to Spencer's home a block away and summoned his brother, Woodrow Spencer, Woodrow Spencer pulled his brother from the water and notified police. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Spencer, watched as attempts were made to revive him.

Spencer was born in Hamilton County and resided in Fort Worth for 27 years. He was an independent roofing contractor.

Property Owners Cooperate to Pave Block On One Side

"Progress Avenue" is the name proudly given by Bill Norton to the block in which the Frozen Food Lockers are located.

The reason is that the entire west side of Elm Street, between First and Second Streets, was hot-topped Wednesday morning.

The four property owners along that side of the street, Norton, Geo. Jones, J. B. Woodard, and Grady Hooper, went together and paid a contractor for the work, which entailed considerable expense, but has made a great improvement.

Norton said any of the sponsors of this project would be glad to give the details to other property owners who might be interested in having similar work done.

Tom Coleman of Comanche visited friends in Hico Wednesday.

Hico Boy Scout Troop Has New Winter Quarters

The local Scout troop met last Thursday night for the first time in the hall over the fire station. This is to be the winter quarters for the local troop. Most of the evening was spent in cleaning and dusting the place, and there is still a lot to do to make it a place the Scouts can be proud of.

The local troop now has 21 boys enrolled and had 17 present last meeting night. Fred Jones Jr. is the newest member of the troop.

Most of the boys have their uniforms and organization of patrols was done last meeting night. Scout James Knight was named patrol leader of the Wolf Patrol and Scout Dan Newman was named patrol leader of the Flying Arrow Patrol. Scout Walter Latham was named Junior Assistant Scoutmaster.

There was discussion on how the hall was to be decorated and it was decided that each patrol was to decorate their side of the hall as each saw fit. Work benches are to be added so that leather and woodwork and other crafts can be taught and practiced. The program consisted of a sing-song, led by various boys in the troop. Scout Latham has charge of the program for next week.

The box supper, which the Scouts are helping on, to be held at the School Gym on Sept. 8th, was discussed. The Scouts will derive some benefit from this box supper, but most of it will go to the High School Band, which the Scouts think is one of the best, and want to see made into a real band.

After the regular meeting some time was devoted to drilling before we went home.

RODEO NOW GOING ON AT DUBLIN PRE-MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

One of the biggest events in this section of Texas began yesterday when the Pre-Madison Square Garden Rodeo held its opening performance at a four day show at Dublin. Former Governor Coke Stevenson led the two mile long parade at 5:30 and appeared in the grand entry.

The show began at 8 o'clock and thereafter for three hours about 9,000 people witnessed one of the greatest rodeo performances ever given in Texas. A brief outline of the performances are: The Hardin-Simmons Band and Johnny Reagan, the quadrille, the famous movie star and singer, Michael O'Shea of Hollywood, the Moore family and their mule team Wax, Johnnie Douthitt and her trained horse, the sponsor girls old time square dance, and of course the three New York Clowns, Jasbo Fulkerson, Geo. Mills and Jack Knapp of Hollywood, California.

The rodeo part included the wild-est stock that has been at the Dublin show as several hundred new horses have been added this summer. The Brahma bulls were bigger and tougher, it seemed. The cowboys had a hard time staying on and the people loved it all.

For the next three days there will be another show beginning promptly at 8:00 o'clock each evening and at 2 o'clock on Sunday. There will also be a parade before each performance at 5:30 in the afternoons and at 12:30 on Sunday.

Governor Beauford Jester stated over the phone Thursday to a rodeo official that he would fly from Austin Sunday morning and be in the Dublin rodeo at the show on Sunday afternoon.

The Dublin rodeo is the show given each year at Dublin just before a special train leaves for New York and Boston for the shows there. All stock, specialty acts and many of the cowboys assemble at Dublin for this rodeo, making it one of the biggest and best performances in Texas.

reconversion is still with us

The telephone industry, more than almost any other, performed a really "all out" war job. This applied to both equipment manufacturers and telephone companies. That is why we have had to work far faster and harder to speed our reconversion. However, we feel that we are doing a good job—and our record of progress proves it. We are gradually solving all reconversion problems, and hope to be on a normal basis before too long.

Health Officer Warns Against Malaria Danger

Austin, Sept. 2.—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, today issued a warning against the danger of malaria following the heavy rainfall, which has finally broken the drought in many sections of the State.

"Malaria will remain a major public health problem as long as breeding places are accessible to the female Anopheles mosquito," Dr. Cox said. "Every householder should make sure that there are no tin cans, broken bottles, or other types of rubbish on his premises that will hold water and offer breeding places to this enemy of good health."

Dr. Cox pointed out that in our practice of mosquito control, we are sometimes like the man who locked the stable door after the horse was already stolen; we are content to wait until all our premises are swarming with mosquitoes before we bring ourselves into active warfare against these recognized agents of malaria transmission.

Dr. Cox further stressed the importance of conserving the public health and preventing the spread of disease in our present crowded housing condition, and he also emphasized the fact that malaria is one of the more debilitating diseases, often causing its victim to lose weeks or even months from his regular employment or from school attendance.

Said Dr. Cox: "The best cure for malaria is prevention. Make sure your premises are free from any stagnant waters, in which may breed the female Anopheles mosquito that transmits the disease."

This Week in WASHINGTON

Super-network of interstate highways have received its final touches by the Public Roads administration in Washington. The plans call for safe, speedy movement of traffic between, into and through all major cities in every state.

The plan calls for dependable arteries for industrial centers and strategic routes across the continent and to the Mexican and Canadian borders for defense and industrial purposes.

The plans call for 37,681-mile system of linked express roads which will serve 182 of the 199 cities having a population of 50,000 or more.

Congressional committee which investigated the foot and mouth condition in Mexico expressed complete satisfaction of the result. The Mexicans are paid in cash for all animals destroyed. Some animals are sent to market—without any danger to this or any other nation. The program has resulted in demand for American horses and tractors to replace the mules and oxen being killed. Congr. George W. Gillie, chairman of the group, does not agree with certain Texas cattle interests opposed to the present program.

THE national lumber trade barometer indicates that lumber supplies are catching up with current demand, with shipments somewhat below current stock and production. Little change has been noted in prices, upward still upward, if anything, taking the nation as a whole.

By the middle of this year farmers of America were receiving 185 per cent more for their crops than received by them in 1939. This is by no means all profit. During the same period wages increased 228 per cent, and average purchases by 98 per cent.

It is interesting to note that the biggest increases in prices received were from crops, grains and meat animals. Increases from poultry and dairy and their products were reported low. The report issued by the U. S. D. A. bureau of agricultural economics shows that fertilizer with 36 per cent increase, tires with 34 and farm machinery with 26 per cent increases, were the best "buys" for farmers at the end of the period.

THE senate foreign relations committee, just before congress adjourned approved legislation to authorize the St. Lawrence deep waterway. Southern members of congress have indicated that they will fight the measure. Railroad lobbies have been working hard all year to defeat the St. Lawrence project. The cost of the waterway will be paid for within a few years by decreased costs to consumers in both United States and Canada. Some industrial heads are for the waterway as it will provide them with cheaper transportation so that they can either reduce prices or show a better profit to their stockholders.

Government authorities estimate that from two to three million hides are being held in Argentina. If these are thrown on the world's market at one time, American holders of leather are bound to suffer heavy losses. Just why the hides are being held by Argentina, or when they will be released, is something that the U. S. department of agriculture and the state department is unable to determine.

When planned as part of a house, Closet-Type Central Furnace adds surprisingly little to monthly building or remodeling payments.

PEEK at the STARS

By LYN CONNELLY

A new singer recently took over CBS' Saturday Night Serenade and is carving quite a niche for himself in the hearts of listeners always appreciative of bright talent. . . . He is Vic Damone, who at the age of 19 is already knocking on the door of fame and fortune. . . . He has a remarkably good voice and is fast becoming a favorite with both young and old. . . . the pounce because he's one of them; the old because he could be their son. . . . His first recording was "Ivy" and it is already in the best-seller class. . . . Vic was an elevator boy at the Paramount theatre when Perry Como appeared there once. Perry listened to the boy sing and was impressed enough to encourage more singing lessons for the lad who will one day give the established stardom plenty of competition.

Vic Damone

Johnny Olsen has resigned as emcee of ABC's "Ladies Be Seated" but will remain with the show until September 26 or until a replacement is secured. . . . He plans to return to New York and produce his own radio shows. . . . Jack Paar's contract has been renewed by his sponsor and he will move over to ABC this fall. . . . Plan is to air him the same night as the Henry Morgan show. . . . Since their material is so similar this hardly seems a wise move.

Together Again

Clark Gable and Lana Turner will be co-starred for the third time in his next picture, "The Homecoming". . . . Ricardo Montalban who made an auspicious debut in "Fiesta" is a star to watch. . . . Ida Lupino stubbed and broke her right big toe while doing a barefoot sequence for "Deep Valley". Friends' efforts to reconcile Greer Garson and Richard Ney failed and the divorce is going through.

"Information Please" will be back on the air in the fall on Mutual. . . . "Dad" has also shared the "Midnight Me at Parky's" show. . . . Danny Thomas is vacationing in Alabama.

Dale Carnegie

Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

INDEPENDENT THINKING IMPORTANT

HERE'S an idea from ex-president Herbert C. Hoover that's got a lot of wisdom tied up in four lines. It deals with thinking; not the thinking of just one man but of whole groups of human beings, dealing particularly with mass audiences.

D. Carnegie

"It is one of the most profound and important of exact psychological truths that man in the mass does not think, but only feels."

True, yes. Sad but true. And I believe that I'd be willing to reduce "mass" to much smaller proportions. I think, as an example, that the average jury feels instead of reasons.

One explanation for all this is that it is much easier to feel than it is to think, Howard Lindsay, star and co-author of the famous play, "Life With Father," says: "I try to keep away from making an audience think. My first effort is to get them to feel. If an audience moves over the line from thinking to feeling, then the audience is putty in the hands of the actor."

Even when you get a group of people thinking, there must be divisions among them. Walter Lippman, the columnist, says:

"Where all think alike, no one thinks very much."

And it is even true that if children think as their parents do, then there is not much thinking in that family. This also holds true for a neighborhood, or for any group of people in an organization.

William Jennings Bryan had a tremendous following in this country, even though he never achieved what he set out to accomplish—to live in the White House. But he did know how to appeal to people, how to sway them and move them. He once said:

"The secret of handling great masses of people is to make them think when, as a matter of fact, they are only feeling." The late Charles M. Schwab, founder of the Bethlehem Steel Company, said: "If I can get one man in a department who can really think, then I feel that department has a natural-born leader. The others can carry out his thoughts. It takes one man to think, a thousand to execute."

Albert Edward Wiggam, the writer and lecturer, says: "When the great mass of people think, they're only airing their prejudices. They take their ancient prejudices out of the closet, brush them and put them back in again in exactly the same condition they were before."

Most people don't even want to think. Note how the average man or woman quotes his newspaper, happy in letting someone else do his thinking for him.

BACK TO SCHOOL!

New books...new clothes...but what about LIGHT for home study?

Scientists say that 87% of all that children learn they absorb through their eyes. Their progress in school and their ability to win advancement in later life depend to a large extent upon their eyesight. So don't take chances with your children's eyes. Give them enough light and the right kind of light for safe, easy seeing when they read or study at home.

BETTER LIGHT MEANS BETTER GRADES

Poor light causes drowsiness, fatigue and eyestrain, makes concentration on studies difficult. See that the lamp your children use for home study is equipped with bulbs totaling at least 100 watts and is well-shaded and free from glare. Better light means better grades!

Successful Parenthood

BY MRS. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS
Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

Self-Deception by Young Children Can Be Controlled

MOST parents make every effort to teach their children to be truthful in their relations with others, but these same parents sometimes encourage their children to lie to themselves. And shielding oneself from the truth is one of the most dangerous forms of lying.

For example, I once knew a boy who had a brilliant sister, two years younger than himself. Like a skyrocket she whizzed past him to school. Now this boy was perfectly capable of doing good work in his studies, though not as outstanding as his sister's. But instead of going ahead, doing his best and taking pride in his sister's achievement, he almost gave up studying altogether. He loudly boasted that it was easy to excel in school, that it was much smarter to get by on personality than by sticking your nose in a book the way his sister did.

This boy really wanted to be a good student and his self-deception caused great unhappiness for the whole family, especially the sister who lost the pleasure she might otherwise have taken in her work. His parents called him stubborn, lazy, incorrigible and all the other names so frequently applied to boys when they are trying to cover up their insecurity with bravado. If only he could have been made to see that his sister's superiority was no more reflection on his own mental capacities than if she had been merely a neighbor, and that to deny his natural taste for learning was to live a lie of the first magnitude.

Then I'm sure you've known plain girls who pretended to dislike boys because they weren't as popular as the pretty girls in school. And mothers who encouraged this attitude by saying the local boys weren't good enough for their daughters. This is the silliest sort of lying to oneself, for nowadays when looks depend more on grooming and good taste in wearing simple clothes than on nature's original endowments there's no excuse for a girl's being unattractive. But of course it's easier to sulk and imagine one is superior than to make the effort to look smart.

And how many lifelong invalids have been made by mothers who excused a child's unwillingness to do difficult tasks or face unpleasant situations by saying the child wasn't well. Certainly it is a mother's responsibility to stand between her child and efforts which are far beyond him. Early failures caused by a child's attempting the impossible are sometimes as harmful to personality developments as lack of trying. The point is, there is no harm in admitting that a task is still beyond a child either mentally or physically. But excusing his inability by saying he isn't well when there are no real grounds for such a claim is doing the child a grave injustice which may take him a lifetime to outgrow.
