PRESIDENT HARRY S. TRUMAN Won Clean-Cut Victory Over Tom Dewcy

SENATOR ALBEN W. BARKLEY Will Be First Vice-President Since 1945

Harry S. Truman won the presidency of the United States and a solidly Democratic Congress on Wednesday in one of the most astonishing political upsets in history.

He won against odds that had been portrayed as impossible after From Stephenville; Play the tightest presidential race in thirty-two years. Counted out long ago by public opinion polls and deserted by his own party's left and right wings, the man from Missouri jumped into the lead on the first scattered returns Tuesday afternoon and was never headed.

The race ended at 10:14 a. m. (Hico time) when New York's Republican Gov. Thomas E. Dewey threw up his hands and conceded defeat. over his Republican opponent, Jack Porter, after attempts had been made to discredit him and his race for U. S. Senator by his opponent he defeated in the primaries, ex-Gov. Coke Stevenson, and other disgruntled members of the Democratic party.

Future Homemakers Honored This Week On Aims, Accomplishments

The week of October 31-November 6 has been set as a week to honor the Future Homemakers of America by Governor Jester.

Some of you may not know what the Future Homemakers of America organization is or what its purposes are. It is an organization made up of persons enrolled in homemaking in junior and senior high schools all over the nation. Contrary to the popular belief, homemaking is not limited to girls, for boys too share responsibilities of the home, and are also home builders.

The FHA organization has eight purposes to strive toward, and these are the following: to appreciate the joys and happiness derive from homemaking, to emphasize the importance of worthy nome membership, to encourage democracy in home and community life, to work for good home and family life for all, to promote international good will, to foster creative leadership in the home and family life, to provide wholesale individual and group recreation. and to further interest in home economics.

Are you one of the people who say that anyone can be a homemaker? If so, then stop to analyze your home-life. Is it a home or just a place to come to for sleep or just a place to come to for sleep and food? Often one hears some woman on the radio make the statement, "I'm just a housewife." Is making a home such a trivial matter that it should be said in that manner? Maybe she was right in saying that, for there is a great difference in being a housewife and a homemaker, just as there is a difference in a house an a home. In a home, there is love truth, security, faith and above all companionship between parents laybe you read that survey pub-hed recently in a national magaed Marriage."

It showed that among kappily surried couples, those who criticised themselves outnumbered those who criticized the other person. Among unhappily married souples, it was just the opposite—such one tended to criticize the other.

That's the way it is in our town, as I guess it is in yours. Criticism, whether it's of a wife's taste for ats, or a husband's taste for pipe tobacco and an evening glass of beer or ale, is a sure start towards unhappiness.

As for what made happy marriages, companionship within the home was listed most important of all. And from where I sit, a husband and wife who can spend an evening by the fire-with nothing more exciting than a mellow glass of beer, and a friendly conversationare a truly well-matched couple!

> - HHS THE SPOTLIGHT

I got a set of new batteries for the Spotlight and boy did I get results. Why, I could see every where! Everyone too!

This week seems to have been the busiest one since school start ed. Maybe the cooler change of weather helped some Everyone has more pep! A few peppy kids out last Monday night seeing the show were Myrna, Delbert, Wendell and Ione, Jimmie and Milton, La Verne and Ralph, and Charlotte and Buck.

Do you like pie? I do, and I'm not by myself either. A lot of people were at the Clairette Pie supper Tuesday night. Why even some of our teachers were out stepping. I saw Mrs. Angell, the Parkers, and the Lincolns. Miss Rohne and Sandy were there too.

Jo really enjoyed the music. The fact that Jimmy sang a song had nothing to do with it of course. Glen and Patsy Jo, Dub and Mary, were there and were they having fun.

Betty and James and Mary and Odell seemed to be having trouble over who was to eat with who. I believe Paul A. had had one slice of pie too many. Don't you Betty Jane? Are was he only act-ing normal? Mona Ruth and Niger C. were all over the place.

Back at Hico the same night more people are out dating. Jim-mie and Milton, Barbara and Garland, O. J. and Jo Nell, and Wendell and Ione were all seen together.

Wednesday night all was quiet as I rode over town. Guess everyone was home sleeping. Getting ready for the Thursday night ball game. Watching the ball game together were Shirley and Vernon (on the injury list) and La Verne and Ralph. After the game other people coupled off. Myrna and Delbert and Jimmie and Milton, Barbara and Garland, and O. J. and Jo Nell, IMAGINEI A MAYTAG Wendell and Ione. OVERCOMING FEAR OF HEIGHT

SOME people grow to manhood before learning the essential elements of contentment and happiness, and self-control is one of the most frequently neglected requisites. If you cannot control yourself, you cannot influence others. If you cannot control yourself, you are still, more or less in young is that he should not be "yellow." Naturally, youthful minds sometimes confuse "yellow" or "cowardice" with fear, which is not necessarily synonomous. A fear common to many people is the fear of high places.

Mr. Kuehn had been troubled all his life with a fear of high places. Height made him dizzy, almost ill.

During the World's fair in New York City in 1940, Mr. Kuehn took his two sons, then ten and twelve wears old, to that wonder spot. The boys wanted their father to parachute with them, since youngsters of their are were not allowed to go up without adult chaperonage. But Mr. Kuchn was reluctant. He knew that it would be perfectly safe, for no organization like that governing the World's fair was going to allow itself to become liable for accidents that might so easily be avoided. Still he hesitated: Finally one of the boys said. "Dad. are you yellow?

That brought him up with a start. Was he? Well. in the very beginning, perhaps, before he is old enough or is sufficient-of playing by the rules. If he continues to lose, try another game at which he may have better luck or which his aptitude is greater. Certainly there is little fun for a child in losing all the time.

We haven't too high a regard for solitaire because it can become too great a time killer. But for a child recovering from an illness it can be just what the doctor ordered in the way of an engressing occupation that is quiet and doesn't cause eye strain as too long reading in bed

Children as young as six can play the simplest forms of solitaire, and a little later there are several games which help in learning simple arithboth addition and the "sevens" multiplication table. It is called:

Magic Seven. Lay out the cards one at a time. Whenever a seven or any number of consecutive cards totaling seven or a multiple of seven appear, they are thrown out. This demands counting backward from the last card played each time, as well as forward, for while 9, 3, 8, 10 equals 30 and is not a multiple of seven, it will be found that the last three cards alone total 21 and may therefore be removed. In this game, "Old Sol" wins unless all the cards can thus be eliminated.

Children soon learn that cheating colitaire of its fun, a discovery what you are doing. But after he the will carry over into games with has learned the game, it is better a real opponent.

"Pedestrians should be seen, not

That modern proverb to save lives, especially after dark, is suggested by the Texas Highway Patrol who places most of the re-sponsibility for pedestrians safety on the pedestrian.

"A pedestrian can see a car coming much sooner than the driver can see him," Colonel Garrison, Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said today. 'It's amazing how trusting most of us are when we are pedestrians. We are just sure motorists see us and will not run over us. That's taking entirely too much for grant

"This is especially true after dark and in the half-dark of twilight. And as winter comes on it's even worse," Mr. W. J. Elliott, Chief of the Texas Highway Patrol said. "A pedestrian in dark "And the traffic death figures prove this. Last year in Texas 447 pedestrians were killed in traffic accidents, approximately 62 per Nationally, half of all pedestrian fatalities occur between 6:00 p. m. and mid-night, according to the National Safety Council, with the first three hours ofter nightfall having the highest death rate of any other time of day. So look ou when it's dark!

Captain Sutherland of the Fort Worth office of the Texas High-way Patrol gave the following tips for pedestrians after dark:

1. Walk where motorists expect you to be and the law in Texas requires you to be on sidewalks, crosswalks, or on the left side of the road facing traffic. 2. Wear or carry something light or reflectorized, or carry a light so that you will be visible in the surrounding darkness. 3. Remember that motorists

You are to report to Makeup Department at 9 a. m. But don't get too excited, my child. You know, Mr. Rowell is as temperamental a director as we have on the lot. However, good luck."

The hours until evening dragged for Lily. She could hardly wait to see the look on Paul's face when she told him. He had always hooted a little over her screen aspirations. He didn't want any movie star in the family, he said. What he wanted was to make enough money at the service station so that Lily could be Mrs. Paul Graham exclusively, and not have to slave as a typist in the National Film Studio.

You'll like the smart lines of the Open Road, and you'll like its comfortable, light weight. But most of all you'll like the fact that it's a Stetson. See the Open Road today.

MERIT SUITS

BY POPULAR ACCLAIM, THE SUIT CHOICE OF '48

There are good reasons why MERIT IRON-TONES are the suit choice of so many men this year. The smart style and smooth fit that give such pleasing promise at the try-on are honestly tailored into fabrics that are so tough that they will still be serving after a long term of hard wear

MRS. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS

DON'T look now, but there is a young child on your doorstepand on mine too. It will be three years old on October 24, and it needs the help of all of us.

Does that sound like a silly riddle? Well, actually it's a serious matter. The infant is the United Nations, and there's no question it needs all the backing we can give.

United Nations Week, being celebrated this month, will focus the attention of our boys and girls on the young world organization. Schools, youth clubs, church groups, and the like are all putting a lot of emphasis on the U. N. in October. Our youngsters are bound to be talking about U. N. at home. Which gives us a fine opportunity to help them understand what it's all about.

Of course the United Nations has much more to it than the General Assembly and the Security Council that are in the headlines so often. There's the International Court of ice, and the Trusteeship Coun-Il There's the Economic and Sore composed of intelligent, capo raise living standards, improve Nations is not just a confused center of squabbles and vetoes. #### Proper Construction Would Make Buildings Fire Safe, Official Says

Austin, Texas, Nov. 1-It would take just one simple item to make public buildings fire safe in construction, declared Marvin Hall, State Fire Insurance Commis

Advocating a uniform building code, rigidly enforced, for Texas, weather, you'll find suggestions in Hall said tremendous losses of life today's column. Many of these are could be prevented such as occurcolorful and festive enough to find red in the New London school disaster, the Winecoff and LaSalle Hotel fires, Cocanut Grove night club fire and Iroquois theatre fire. Hall pointed out that 50 per cent of the large money loss fires have been from inferior construction. "An adequate and reasonable building code would take much study, time and effort, but in the meantime, each Texas town and city not having it, should adopt legislation dealing with the correction of deficiencies in existing buildings and sound rules for keep ing future buildings fire safe the Commissioner urged.

A good building code would control combustible interiors as well as requiring fire resistive exteriors for buildings, Hall said. and other combustible material used for interior decoration to an unsafe extent, would be eliminated. Also inflammable temperary decorations, such as paper strung across ceilings in night clubs, would not be permit-

A code would require an adequate number of proper exits. Also vertical openings such as elevator shafts and stairways would be enclosed so that fire could not spread from floor to floor through them. an especially fatal hazard in hotels. Such control would also provide regulations regarding the proper installation and maintenance of heating and electrical systems and Special hazards, such as a projection booth in a theatre, a boiler room in a school, a storage room for explosive liquids in a plant, would be isolated by special walls and fire doors. Approved fire doors and wired glass windows would keep a building safe from catching fire from burning exposing buildings.

Hall believes, "these provisions cans in a salad? They're fine when and many others properly enforced nived with diced cooked bacon, would insure Texans that no more hard cooked eggs, chopped, and oil wholesale slaughter would be made

Lesson for November 7: Job 1: 1; 2: 1-6; 42: 1-6, 10a.

Memory Selection: Job 23: 10.

THE book of Job is a drama, with I the world-old problem of sufferng as the theme

In the loss of all his possessions and the death of his sons and laughters, Job demonstrated that a good man is such not primarily beause it pays.

When God permitted Satan, the Areuser, to afflict Job himself, the sufferer demonstrated that sufferar is not always the result of sin. ainst his three friends he mainwhea his ismorence and refuted to gradent doctrine that saffering cace of sin permettled.

At length, after the friends had been put to silence. God spake to Job out of a wel-twind, vialicated Job, reluked bim only in his questioning of God's doings, and premised bim the restoration 'of prosperity and

The great drama shows that men can be good because God is good and 'tis His will that men Le good, that suffering is not always the result of sin and that the Lord sometimes permits a man to be afflicted as a discipline to him, and even for his enlightenment. Job had known of God only by hearing of Him-in coming face to face with Him, he learned of God truly. And henceforth he had the assurance that for the highest good of life he was safe in the Almighty's keeping.
