Abundant Supply of Cottonseed Meal at Bargain Prices Seen

Austin, Texas, Aug. 29.—Farmers, here's a bargain!

Dr. A. B. Cox, University of Texas cotton marketing professor, points out that an exceptionally large supply of cottonseed meal and hulls resulting from an expected bumper cotton crop may offer farmers a bargain in these feeds.

This is the situation, he says: During the past five years, the wholesale price of three pounds of cottonseed meal and four pounds of cottonseed hulls in Fort Worth averaged 35 per cent of the wholesale price of a gallon of milk. In some places in Texas this unit of feed can now be bought wholesale as low as 23 per cent of the price of milk.

Research has shown that three pounds of cottonseed meal plus four pounds of hulls fed to dairy cows on pasture will result in the production of one gallon of milk. In some places in Texas, he says, three pounds of cottonseed meal can now be bought wholesale for nine cents, and four pounds of cottonseed hulls for six cents.

IREDELL ITEMS
 by Miss Stella Jones, Local Correspondent

The Methodist revival came to a close Sunday night. One member was added by baptism. The services both morning and evening were well attended. The pastor did some good preaching which was enough to have turned the sinner, but there were no visible results. The singer met with the young people every evening. The Christians of the Baptist and the Methodist churches were greatly revived. All got good out of the meeting. A nice donation was made up for the singer and pastor.

Mrs. Janie Cassidy and five girls and a son of near Hico spent Sunday with her grandmother, Mrs. Squires.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Pruett and daughter, who live west of town, spent Friday with their grandmother, Mrs. Squires.

Mr. and Mrs. George Collier spent from Thursday till Sunday night in Cisco with their son, Ralph, and wife.

The W. S. C. S. met Monday with a good attendance and had a good meeting. Mrs. Dell Tidwell will make a fine president if we will help. We will have a fine W. S. C. S. if all the ladies come.

"YOUTHFUL LOVERS"
 By STELLA JONES

Two prosperous families lived close together on nice farms a short distance from a thriving city in Texas. Will call them Mr. and Mrs. John Randal and Mr. and Mrs. James Atwood. Mr. and Mrs. Randal had two sons, James and Roy. Mr. and Mrs. Atwood had two daughters, Clara (the oldest) and Opal.

Roy and Opal were great playmates—were together most all the time. Roy was 10 and Opal was 9. They were in the same grade in school, and were smart.

A Methodist church was one-half mile from them and they all went to Sunday school and church. The parents took the children, which is the proper thing to do.

These two families were devoted Christians and members of the church and sure kept the Sabbath day holy. On Sunday afternoons Clara, who was a beautiful girl, in her teens, would tell Opal and Roy and other children Bible stories and other good clean stories and they would spend the Sunday afternoons in a good way. Sometimes they would visit the old and sick people.

It was summer time, was very warm. Roy and Opal had been playing all day. Their mothers had them to take a bath and then go to sleep. Both of these children were obedient to their parents and realized that their mothers knew what was best for them.

About 5 o'clock in the afternoon they awoke and decided to go down on a little beach, where some beautiful flowers grew. It was a beautiful place. Opal saw some flowers on the opposite side of the wire fence and reached over and pulled them. She had them in her right hand. Roy was close to her.

A big old gander wandered off down there and was close to them. Opal had on a blouse and a short skirt. The back of the blouse got caught in the fence and there she was, and the gander close by. Roy was scared and he stood there, his eyes bugged out and his hair almost standing up. They were even afraid to move. These children had been here several times but not with the old gander. They loved each other very much. They did some hollering and did it very loud. Opal's mother heard them and was soon down there. Roy's parents were not at home.

The gander was about to attack them. Mr. Atwood came down and drove the gander away. It was a bad one. The children were scared and took off for the house. The gander didn't like children. He was finally killed, but was too old to eat.

Opal and Roy never did forget their narrow escape with the old gander.

They finished grammar school at the age of 13 and 14, both making fine grades. By this time Roy and Opal were in love more than ever. They were still playmates and youthful lovers.

Roy had told his parents that he wanted to be an up-to-date farmer. Opal enjoyed helping with the housework. She told her parents when she married she wanted to be a model housewife. In her early teens she was a beautiful child. She could sew some and her mother and Clara had taught her to embroider.

Clara was a teacher in grammar school. She was in her twenties. James had finished high school and was in his third year in college there in the city. He planned to make a teacher.

A few months before Roy and Opal were 17 and 18 they finished high school. In the fall Roy went to A. & M. College, attending for two years, which taught him a good deal about farming, for he loved it very much. Opal didn't care to go to college. She secured work in a dry goods store and worked while Roy was in A. & M.

One afternoon, a short time after school closed, they went to the place where the old gander like to of got them. Standing under a big tree, Roy took both of Opal's hands and looked into her beautiful eyes and said, "Opal, I have loved you for many years and I want to ask you to be my wife."

She smiled at him and said, "Yes, Roy, I will be your wife for I have loved you a long time. I hope you will be as good a husband as you were a playmate." They sealed their engagement with a big kiss and hug. He slipped a pretty ring on her finger. No gander was there to quack at them, but the birds were singing. Both were so happy and they went to Opal's home all smiles. The news was told to their parents.

In the Fall after Roy had gone to college two years they were happily married in the home of her parents.

Their parents presented them with a deed to a little farm that was close to them. The house was a modern home and they were very proud of it. Opal was a model housekeeper and he was an up-to-date farmer, raising vetch and spelt and clover and all cover crops, terracing, and fertilizing the land like he had learned in school. They raised row crops. On the farm there were one or two cows and a hog and some chickens which they enjoyed taking care of.

One night while they were gone to the city to a show, some one put a small gander in a crate and left it in their yard—just horseplay for a joke on them. They saw it the first thing in the morning, and remembered about the old gander in their young days, which they never forgot.

The gander that had scared them in their younger days belonged to Opal's parents and they gave it to them.

Two daughters were born to the couple—Maude and Annie. They brought them up like their parents had brought them up. Their married life was a long and happy one.

THE END.

GOOD LIGHT IS NEEDED FOR STUDY...

BACK TO SCHOOL

REDDY KILOWATT Your Electric Servant

SCHOOL bells will be ringing soon and it's time to get your children ready for their annual trek back to the classrooms. New books, new clothes and new school supplies are important, but don't forget about better light for home study.

Plenty of good light is needed to prevent eyestrain, fatigue and drowsiness that lead to poor grades in school. See that the lamp your child uses for home study is equipped with bulbs totaling at least 100 watts, and that it is well-shaded to prevent glare. Better light means better grades!

Here's Ideal Light for Home Study

Home work's easy with a Better Sight Table Study Lamp like this. Its wide-angle shade and extra-tall standard spread light over a wide area. Its white glass diffusing bowl sifts out harmful glare. Equipped with a 150-watt bulb it provides plenty of light and the right kind of light for safer, easier seeing.

COMMUNITY PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

Carlton

By Mrs. Fred Gey

On Thursday afternoon God plucked from this world a tender rose bud to place in his bouquet of flowers in heaven. Death claimed the young tender life of little Joan Faulkner, who had lived but a few short years to brighten the home of her parents. Her gentle spirit took its flight Aug. 25, 1949, at 7 p. m. in the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., where she had been flown for medical treatment. Joan, daughter of J. T. and Ruth Faulkner, was born Oct. 29, 1940 in Hamilton Co. and at the time of her death she was 8 years, 10 months and 29 days of age. Before moving to Waco she attended the Carlton School. She was stricken in April with the dreaded Hodgkins disease and had gradually grown worse until she sweetly passed away. She was given every medical aid known to doctors and was conscious to the very last and often expressed herself as having prayed to get well. She leaves to mourn her untimely death her parents, her grandparents, Fisher and Vernie Morris of Lamkin; Mrs. Ethel Faulkner of Fort Worth and her great-grandparents, Mrs. J. B. Cooper of Lamkin and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Faulkner of Dublin, a host of other relatives and many, many friends. Elder Len Dalton, a close friend of the family conducted the beautiful services at the graveside in the Toliver Cemetery east of Lamkin, Sunday afternoon. He was assisted by T. H. Harrell of Dublin. Pallbearers tenderly bearing the little body were three friends of the family from Waco, Mr. McBeth, J. T. Ellison, W. G. West. Those from Carlton were Hobdy Thompson, Grady Littleton and Lewis Cox. Honorary pallbearers were J. N. Thompson, J. G. Thomas, Ruebin Miller, Vernon Brown of Lamkin and Mack Taylor of Carlton. Friends of the family were flower girls. The little mound was covered with two carloads of flowers from friends and loved ones. The Harrell Funeral Directors of Dublin had charge of all the funeral arrangements. Deep sympathy is extended to the grief stricken parents in the death of their little girl. Mr. and Mrs. Faulkner lived on their farm west of town for several years before moving to Waco about two years ago, where he has employment. A large crowd from Carlton attended the funeral. The Church of Christ revival closed Sunday night at the tabernacle. Minister M. D. Manning Jr. of McGregor conducted the services. Lee Charles McKnight of Midland is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Watt Sharp Sr. Virgil Batershell underwent a major operation in a Temple hospital. He is reported doing as well as could be expected. Mr. and Mrs. Truman Lowery of Hico visited Sunday afternoon with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lowery. Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Cozby of Stephenville visited Monday with their son, Beryl Cozby and family in the home of Mrs. Lilla Byrd. Mrs. Cozby also visited her sister, Miss Ida Fine. SWNS Radio-Screen Editor

ONE OF THE MOST spontaneous and refreshing musical programs on the air today is ABC's "Lawrence Welk show" . . . The maestro himself, with his adept fingering of the accordion, is responsible for much of the lively goings-on, but the real spark-plug is pint-sized Dick Hill whose small frame is jammed with showmanship and ability . . . The show is one of the most relaxing and enjoyable on radio today and it is, therefore, gratifying to hear that its sponsor has renewed the contract for another 13 weeks.

PLATTER CHATTER
CAPITOL: In the kiddies' department, we have a wonderful "Bugs Bunny" album, featuring, of course, the inimitable Mel Blanc . . . This is one of the best of the series so far . . . Bozo the Clown is back with another platter, this time with "Goony Goose" and "Bozo's Laughing Song" . . . Pinto Colvig is an excellent Bozo and Billy May supplies the musical background . . . And for a more serious, but very important side of a child's life, Tex Ritter comes up with a fine idea . . . Readings of the "Pledge of Allegiance" and "The Gettysburg Address" on one disc . . . Especially good for those children ready to start school this fall. VICTOR: Victor, in a burst of activity, comes up with an impressive array of albums . . . There's the score from "South Pacific" which is very well done by Dickinson Eastham, who is no Pinza but who possesses a fine voice, Thelma Carpenter, Jimmy Carroll and Sandra Deel . . . And there's another Broadway hit, "Miss Liberty," starring Jimmy Carroll, Martha Wright, Wynn Murray, Bob Wright and Sandra Deel. Then there's Spade Cooley's "Square Dances," well done in the Cooley manner . . . And Vaughn Monroe has a potentially strong seller in the "Silver Lining" album, in which he presents all the songs from "Look for the Silver Lining," including the title song, "Shine on Harvest Moon."

Miss Alexander Bride of D. F. Smith At Stephenville

Miss Elizabeth Ann Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hub Alexander, N. Ollie St., became the bride of Donald F. Smith at 7:30 in the evening Saturday, Aug. 20, at the home of the bride-groom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Kittinger, Huckaby Road. Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Smith, W. Frey, are parents of the groom.

The Rev. J. Leonard Ray of Hico read the double ring ceremony after an interlude of pre-nuptial music. Mrs. Nila Denton, the bride's only attendant, was her sister's matron of honor. The bride, who entered alone, wore a ballerina length gown of blue, embossed-organza over white satin. She wore a bandeau of white baby mums in her hair and carried a white prayerbook, centered with baby orchids.

For "something borrowed", the bride wore a string of pearls belonging to her mother and her "something old" was a pair of earrings, over 100 years old, belonging to the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Mattie Smith.

The bride-groom's only attendant, Wilbur Wright Perry, served as best man.

At the reception, which immediately followed the wedding ceremony, the refreshment table was laid with a white organza cloth with white satin streamers, on which tapers burned in silver candleholders. Clusters of white flowers surrounded the three-tiered wedding cake and punch bowl, where Mrs. Albert Cragwall served the cake and Miss Faribeth Miller poured punch. Mrs. Oleta Toland presided at the bride's book.

After a wedding trip to Mineral Wells and Lake Texoma, the couple will be at home, temporarily, at the Kittinger home on the Huckaby Road. For her going away costume, the bride wore a pink Salina suit with blue accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith both attended Tarleton State College. Out-of-town guests present for the rites were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Holloway, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Smith, Duncan, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Allen and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Martin, Fort Worth; Miss Charlene Sherrard, Midland; Miss Faribeth Miller and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Smith, Dallas, and Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Sherrard and daughter, Mary of Clairette. - Stephenville Empire-Tribune.

I REMEMBER...

By THE OLD-TIMERS

From Mrs. Salie P. West of Jasper, Ala.: "I remember when merchants had no paper bags, but kept bales of thick brown paper in sheets. These sheets were rolled up cornucopia shape, the bottom end folded up to form a holder for groceries."

From E. E. Meredith of Fairmont, W. Va.: "I remember when a person who had never seen a railroad train was often the subject of newspaper articles with a view of showing how remote the place where the individual lived. If the railroads keep taking off passenger trains, the day may come when a person who has seen a passenger train will be interviewed and one having ridden on them will stand out as exceptional."

From Mrs. Mary Stewart of Chicago: "I remember when every store had several balls of twine, encased in a two-piece steel ball, the shape of an acorn, hanging from the ceiling. Yards of string, coming through a small hole, would hang down on the counter and the children would often pull at it and get all wound up in it. Piled on the store counters in those days were large stacks of common brown paper, like square-cut blotters. The clerk would wet his finger deftly, take a piece of the paper, roll it in a trick way and make a cornucopia strong enough to hold eggs, potatoes or what have you."
