Persons Required To Register

"Male persons who shall have attained their twenty-first birthday and shall not have attained their thirty-first birthday on or before the day set for registration by the President must register. The only exceptions are persons in the military or naval service of the United States, which includes all officers and enlisted men of the regular army, the navy, the marine corps, and the national guard and the naval militia while in the service of the United States, and officers in the officers' reserve corps and enlisted men in enlisted reserve corps while in active service. All male civil officers of the United States, of the several states, territories, and the District of Columbia within the designated areas must register. All male persons within the designated areas engaged in making the present registration must register."

The foregoing is an extract from the act of Congress providing for registration, which takes place on Tuesday, June 5th.

Our people are earnestly advised to study carefully the foregoing provisions of law, as a failure or refusal to register is punishable, upon conviction, by one year's imprisonment.

All male persons who shall have attained their twenty-first birthday and who shall not have attained their thirty-first birthday on or before the 5th day of June, 1917, must register. There are no exceptions to this, except those specified in the extract published herewith. Those who must register include all male persons within the ages prescribed without regard to color or race, and whether they are citizens of the United States, or not.

It is the duty of every man who reads this to interest himself personally in seeing that the widest possible publicity is given to this notice to the end that the registration of our people be thorough and complete. We therefore urge our readers to thoroughly advise themselves touching their duties with reference to registration and to be prepared to act promptly and intelligently. We also urge them to see those who ordinarily might be imperfectly informed touching the provisions of the law are thoroughly advised as to what is required of them and that they do not make themselves liable to penalty by a failure or refusal to register in manner and form required by law. Signed: TOM HARRISON, Sheriff, JAS. F. ROSS, Co. Judge, S. C. VAUGHAN, Co. Clk, O. J. BRYAN, Co. Physician. Board of Registration Reeves and Loving Counties.

Womans Missionary Society

The woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church was pleasantly entertained Tuesday at the monthly social meeting at the home of Mrs. J. G. Love, the hostesses being Mesdames Love, Kesler and Hibdon. On the arrival of guests delicious and refreshing punch was served by Miss Aileen Love. A contest in zoology proved to be interesting and entertaining. Beautiful music furnished by the handsome Victrola was enjoyed, but the most pleasing treat was the vocal solos given by Miss Mildred McCarver, with Miss Florence McCarver as accompanist on the piano.

As a conclusion of this delightful afternoon refreshments of brulye, angel food, banana and marshmallow cake were served.

The "Borderland Highway"

The bill having been passed by the extra session of the legislature creating a state highway commission the hopes of this community that the Borderland Highway may soon be an accomplished fact seem near fruition. Engineer Meriweather expressed himself as being certain the dread stretch of sand between Barstow and Odessa can be bridged by proper methods. It is certain that equally bad stretches of deep sand have been successfully crossed by highways in other states, a concrete bed being laid and the "aprons" of the roads heavily sprayed with asphaltum oils, anchoring the sifting sands so that the cost of maintenance has not been found prohibitive.

"The Borderland Highway is the logical route for auto tourist travel between Fort Worth and El Paso," said J. W. Moore on Tuesday to C. H. Rogers, road organizer for the Auto Club of America, who arrived here Saturday enroute from El Paso to East Texas, in car No. 53 of the club's field service. "Being below the snow line, in a section rarely disturbed by heavy rains or floods, this highway, once it is built on modern lines, will prove very attractive to those who annually cross the continent in their cars in the fall months to sojourn during the winter at Pacific coast resorts."

It is to encourage the sentiment in behalf of this highway that the Auto Club has sent an organizer into the field, having the power of a National organization with 100,000 members behind all legitimate efforts to secure a permanent highway of modern type and it is hoped that all organizations of auto owners and good roads advocates will join their forces in a giant effort to secure prompt action.

This tourist travel is productive of much benefit to hotels, garages and merchants along the lines and is being encouraged by all states traversed by existing highways.

The Auto Club of America is the largest single force of its kind in the country, affiliated with the American Auto Association and the National Highway Association. Among its members of the Auto Club are President Wilson, Governor Ferguson Ex-Governor Colquitt and the governors of nearly all the states of the union. It has been in existence for about fifteen years, constantly enlarging the scope of its work and accomplishing much highly important work in behalf of the good roads propaganda and auto owners in general.

Its California record reads like magic in its achievements, and now Texas is to benefit by the same sort of effort. It would seem that a new era of road making is about to dawn in the Lone Star State.

Rev. Homer L. Magee left Monday for Clovis, New Mexico, to attend the Christian Convention of that state.

F. A. Bessire, a prosperous Toyah merchant, was over Sunday to attend the funeral of O. H. Beauchamp. Mr. Bessire left a nice order for stationery with The Enterprise and says his business is ever increasing and instead of the increased cost of groceries decreasing his trade the number of his customers as well as their bills are increasing. Mr. Bessire believes in close margins of profits and quick sales, honest dealing and giving full measure and sound goods. This is evidently the cause of his success in business.

New Tailor Shop Opened

George Brooks has rented rooms in the Orient Annex and Tuesday of this week opened his tailor shop there, where he not only sells the best in the clothing line at a fair margin of profit but does all kinds of cleaning, repairing and pressing. George has for a long time been with the W. T. Read Mercantile Company where he made many friends by his courtesy, congeniality and strict attention to business.

Mr. Brooks is experienced along his line and does nothing but the very best of work in the tailoring line, and his many Pecos friends will be pleased to note that he has decided to remain in Pecos and engage in business.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this method of publicly thanking the good people of Pecos and country who so kindly administered during the illness and death of our loved one and for the words of sympathy and comfort and to the physicians and nurses who were patient, attentive and untiring we offer grateful thanks. May God bestow His richest blessings upon you all.

The President Appeals to Reeves County

The true patriot is he who personally hears and acts upon the call.

I have been advised by the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, that the Secretary of the Treasury has requested that a "Liberty Loan Committee" be organized in Reeves county to enlist the support and co-operation of our people in the floatation of the Liberty Loan bonds. The secretary instructed me to call a mass meeting of the citizens of Reeves county not later than Saturday, May 26th, 1917, and at such meeting effect an efficient organization for the purpose of conducting a whirl-wind campaign, having as its object the rousing of our people to a realization of the necessity of their subscribing for the Liberty Loan Bonds.

If the issue is largely oversubscribed, it will impress the enemy with the fact that we are in earnest and are supporting our president, while anything short of an over-subscription, will be considered in the light of failure. GERMANY IS WATCHING YOU.

It is for our country, for our President, for Democracy, for humanity, that we are asked to act, and act quickly. I therefore, as instructed by the Secretary of the Treasury, and as in duty bound, do most earnestly and urgently advise and request that the people of every part of Reeves county assemble at the Court House at Pecos, at 8 o'clock p. m. on Saturday, May 26th, for the purpose of effecting an organization as contemplated and requested by those in authority, and to take such steps as to the meeting may seem proper in the discharge of our duty as citizens of a great state and nation. I fully realize that such meeting cannot be held successfully without great inconvenience to our people, but appeal to you, in the name of the President and those who are so manfully fighting our country's battles, to be present at the time and place appointed and thus demonstrate that we are heart and soul in sympathy with the great cause and are willing to "do our bit," even at the cost of sacrifice to ourselves.

It may occur to you that the meeting will not be of an especially entertaining character, but for the sake of the cause which is represented, you are once more urged to lay aside the tasks of the hour and be present with us upon that occasion.

Very respectfully,
JAMES F. ROSS,
County Judge.

RAILROAD ENGINEERS OUT WITH STATEMENT

Men in the Cabs From Many States Declare That Tanlac Conserves the Health of Railroad Men and Makes Them Fit for Responsible Duties in Most Nerve-Racking Service.

NO calling demands a clearer brain, steadier nerves, a more perfect state of health than that of a railroad engineer. The safety of thousands depends on guarding his health, which is as important to the public as the efficiency of his engine. Every engineer realizes this enormous responsibility, he dares not take chances with so important a matter. That is why so many of them are using Tanlac—it steadies the nerves, clears the brain, corrects indigestion, strengthens the arm, insures the safety of the traveler, and keeps him on his job.

Railroad engineers everywhere endorse Tanlac because they have tried it and know. Read what they say.

W. L. Nabers, Atlanta, Ga., engineer Southern Railway, says: "I had lost appetite—liver and kidneys deranged—since taking Tanlac haven't had a pain—gained 14 pounds."

L. C. Bowers, 910 First avenue, south, Nashville, Tenn., engineer Tennessee Central, says: "Stomach trouble and nervousness overcome—nothing too good I can say about Tanlac—gained 8 pounds."

Lynn Sills, 440 North Bellevue avenue, Memphis, Tenn., engineer, Louisville and Nashville, says: "Headaches—pains in back and kidneys—strained every nerve to keep up—Tanlac relieved me entirely."

S. T. Watkins, Birmingham, Ala., engineer Southern, says: "Suffered 27 years—stomach troubles—Tanlac has ended my troubles."

G. G. Geiger, 133 East Linden street, Atlanta, Ga., engineer Georgia Railroad, says: "Tanlac relieved my wife of rheumatism—she gained 25 pounds from using it."

U. S. TROOPS TO GO TO FRANCE; DRAFT SIGNED

Major General Pershing Directed by President to Command Division in France.

BARNS T. R. VOLUNTEER ARMY

Executive Sets June 5 as the Date of Registration for Men Between Ages of 21 and 31—National Guard to Be Mobilized in August.

Washington, May 21.—President Wilson signed the conscription bill after rejecting that section of the measure which would permit Col. Theodore Roosevelt to organize volunteer divisions.

The president signed the army bill just after dinner at 8 p. m. on Friday, without formality, and set June 5 as the date of registration for all men between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-one for military service.

President Issues Proclamation.

President Wilson's proclamation, putting into effect the selective draft provision of the war army bill, signed last night, follows in part:

"A proclamation by the president of the United States:

"Whereas, Congress has enacted and the president has on the 18th day of May, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, approved a law which contains the following provisions:

"Section 5. That all male persons between the ages of Twenty-one and thirty, both inclusive, shall be subject to registration in accordance with regulations to be prescribed by the president; and upon proclamation by the president or other public notice given by him or by his direction, stating the time and place of such registration, it shall be the duty of all persons of the designated ages, except officers and enlisted men of the regular army, the navy and the National Guard and naval militia while in the service of the United States, to present themselves for and submit to registration under the provisions of this act, and every such person shall be deemed to have notice of the requirements of this act upon the publication of said proclamation or other notice as aforesaid given by the president or by his direction; and any person who shall willfully fail or refuse to present himself for registration or to submit thereto as herein provided, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, upon conviction in the district court of the United States having jurisdiction thereof, be punished by imprisonment for not more than one year, and shall thereupon be duly registered; provided, that in the call of the docket precedence shall be given, in courts trying the same, to the trial of criminal proceedings under this act: Provided further, that persons shall be subject to registration as herein provided who shall have attained their twenty-first birthday and who shall not have attained their thirty-first birthday on or before the day set for registration, and all persons so registered shall be and remain subject to draft into the forces hereby authorized, unless exempted or excused therefrom as in this act provided.

Registration on June 5.

"Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States, do call upon the governor of each of the several states and territories, the board of commissioners of the District of Columbia and all officers and agents of the several states and territories, of the District of Columbia and of the counties and municipalities therein to perform certain duties in the execution of the foregoing law, which duties will be communicated to them directly in regulations of even date herewith.

"And I do further proclaim and give notice to all persons subject to registration in the several states and in the District of Columbia in accordance with the above law that the time and place of such registration shall be between 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. on the fifth day of June, 1917, at the registration place in the precinct wherein they have their permanent homes. Those who shall have attained their twenty-first birthday and who shall not have attained their thirty-first birthday on or before the day here named are required to register, excepting only officers and enlisted men of the regular army, the navy, the marine corps and the National Guard and Naval Militia while in the service of the United States, and officers in the officers' reserve corps and enlisted men in the enlisted reserve corps while in active service. In the territories of Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico a day for registration will be named in a later proclamation.

All Must Co-operate.

"The power against which we are arrayed has sought to impose its will upon the world by force. To this end it has increased armament until it has changed the face of war. In the sense in which we have been wont to think of armies there are no armies in this struggle. There are entire nations armed. Thus, the men who remain to till the soil and man the factories are no less a part of the army that is in France than the men beneath the battle flags. It must be so with us. It is not an army that we must shape and train for war; it is a nation. To this end our people must draw close in one compact front against a common foe. But this cannot be if each man pursues a private purpose. All must pursue one purpose.

"The nation needs all men, but it needs each man, not in the field that will most pleasure him, but in the endeavor that will best serve the common good.

"It is in no sense a conscription of the unwilling—it is rather selection from a nation which has volunteered in mass.

"The day here named is the time upon which all shall present themselves for assignment to their tasks.

"It is essential that the day be approached in thoughtful apprehension of its significance and that we accord to it the honor and the meaning that it deserves. Our industrial need prescribes that it be not made a technical holiday, but the stern sacrifice that is before us urges that it be carried in all our hearts as a great day of patriotic devotion and obligation when the duty shall lie upon every man, whether he is himself to be registered or not, to see to it that the name of every male person of the designated ages is written on these lists of honor.

"By the president:

"ROBERT LANSING, Secretary of State."

Division Ordered to France.

President Wilson directed that an expeditionary force of approximately a division of regular troops, under command of Maj. Gen. John J. Pershing, proceed to France at as early a date as practicable. General Pershing and staff will precede the troops.

A division contains approximately 28,000 men. It is understood that at least 20,000 will be infantry.

The war bill was carefully gone over during the day by Brigadier General Crowder, judge advocate general and provost marshal general.

It was announced that all existing regiments of the guard will be called into service by August 5, and officials estimate that with from a month to six weeks' intensive training these troops will be ready to go forward for final preparation behind the fighting lines in Europe for the fighting that is before them.

President's Statement.

The president issued the following statement at the White House:

"I shall not avail myself, at any rate, at the present stage of the war, of the authorization conferred by the act to organize volunteer divisions.

"To do so would seriously interfere with the carrying out of the chief and most immediately important purpose contemplated by this legislation:

"The prompt creation and early use of an effective army would contribute practically nothing to the effective strength of the armies now engaged against Germany.

"No Time for Compliments."

"I understand that the section of this act which authorizes the creation of volunteer divisions in addition to the draft was added with a view to providing an independent command for Mr. Roosevelt and giving the military authorities an opportunity to use his fine vigor and enthusiasm recruiting the forces now at the western front.

"It would be very agreeable to me to pay Mr. Roosevelt this compliment and the allies the compliment of sending to their aid one of our most distinguished public men, an ex-president, who has rendered many conspicuous public services and proved his gallantry in many striking ways.

Seeks Advice From Both Sides.

"The business now in hand is undramatic, practical and of scientific definiteness and precision.

"I shall act with regard to it at every step and in every particular under expert and professional advice, from both sides of the water.

"The first troops sent to France will be taken from the present force of the regular army and will be under the command of trained soldiers only.

"The issues involved are too immense for me to take into consideration anything whatever except the best, most effective, most immediate means of military action. What these means are I know from the mouths of men who have seen war as it is conducted, who have no illusions and to whom the whole grim matter is a matter of business. I shall center my attention upon those matters and let everything else wait. I should be deeply to blame should I do otherwise, whatever the argument of policy or of personal gratification of advantage."

Girls! Use Lemons!
Make a Bleaching, Beautifying Cream

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quarter pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It naturally should help to soften, freshen, bleach and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It is simply marvelous to smoothen rough, red hands. Adv.

The editor of a Jersey newspaper, a thorough sportsman, is said to have received this query from a reader:

What He Could Do.

"I want to serve my country," said the loud-voiced man in the street car. "But I'm too old to carry a gun."

"So?"

"Yes," he continued. "The way they run things down there at Washington nowadays there's no chance for a man like me. I could be mighty valuable to them if they'd only take me."

"I'll tell you how you can serve your country if you really want to," said a meek little man.

"All right. Tell me what to do and I'll do it."

"Just keep your mouth shut."

FOREIGN—

Honduras has severed diplomatic relations with Germany, following the lead of Guatemala. The information came from Minister Ewing at Tegucigalpa.

Compulsory military service on a selective draft basis to raise immediately at least 50,000, and probably 100,000, men to make good the wastage in the Canadian army corps in France has been proposed to the parliament by Sir Robert Borden, the premier, who returned from England recently.

Gonzalo C. Enrile, who was a colonel in the Mexican army under President Porfirio Diaz, was arrested in Havana. The police announce that documents in his possession showed existence of a German intrigue in Latin America and in Cuba in connection with the recent revolution.

The statement of President Carranza at the banquet tendered to General Obregon, retiring as the head of Mexico's war department on account of illness, that "the nation might find itself against its will drawn into the world conflict," does not carry intimations, in the opinion of government officials, over which the United States may take alarm.

I was in a very nervous condition, with headaches and pain a good deal of the time so I was unfit to do my work. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and it has helped me in every way. I am not nearly so nervous, no headache or pain. I must say that Lydia E. North Haven, Conn.—"When I was 45 I had the Change of Life which is a trouble all women have. At first it didn't bother me but after a while I got bearing down pains. I called in doctors who told me to try different things but they did not cure my pains. One day my husband came home and said, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash?' Well, I got them and took about 10 bottles of Vegetable Compound and could feel myself regaining my health. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and it has done me a great deal of good. Any one coming to my house who suffers from female troubles or Change of Life, I tell them to take the Pinkham remedies. BUY A LIBERTY LOAN BOND

This is a message to all good Americans from the United States Government.

That message is, "Buy a Liberty Bond."

It is your duty and your privilege.

It is good Americanism and good business.

Good Americanism because by subscribing you will be doing your "bit" towards making the world "safe for democracy" as our president has so aptly phrased it.

Good business, because the bond bears 3 1/2 per cent interest per annum, and is free from taxation. You can obtain a bond for as small an amount as $50 and you do not have to pay for it all at once.

Many a person will keep their bonds and hand them on to their children with pride, as mementoes of the world crisis, and as proof that the purchaser did his "bit" for America and for humanity.

Possibly, however, you may need money at some time, take your bond to the bank and borrow on it. It is good collateral.

Go to your bank tomorrow and file your application. You have to pay only two per cent of the amount of your purchase.

Englishmen and Frenchmen are doing their "bit." American citizens, do yours! What you do will be done for our country, our president, for democracy, for humanity.

Fellow citizens let us do our duty.

Texas Road Material in Demand

Engineers of the United States army wish to secure at the earliest possible date complete information about available material for road construction in the southwest. The authorities of the University of Texas have been requested to collect this information and transmit it to Washington. To carry out this plan it is necessary to secure the names and addresses of owners and operators of plants producing crushed stone, gravel and sand in every county in Texas. Information is also desired about localities where road materials may be obtained, and the kind of road materials available. Persons owning gravel pits, or stone quarries, or who have information about such deposits, are urged to write and, if possible, to submit samples of the materials to Dr. J. A. Udden, University of Texas, Austin, Texas. By responding at once to this request a great service can be rendered to the work necessary for the defense of the nation and in the development of one of the important national resources of Texas. It is of the utmost importance that action in the matter be taken promptly.

O. H. Beauchamp Passes Away

Ora H. Beauchamp passed away at his home in the south part of Pecos Saturday afternoon at about 5 o'clock, surrounded by relatives and friends.

Ora was born in Pecos on the 13th day of June, 1890, and therefore would have been 27 years of age next month. After having completed the public school course in Pecos he graduated at the Military Academy at Arlington and later took a course in the Metropolitan Business College at Dallas. Completing this course about eight years ago he returned to his home in Pecos and accepted a position with the First National Bank of Pecos, a good portion of that time acting in the capacity of cashier. This position he recently resigned and was to have accepted a similar position with a new bank just now being organized in Douglass, Arizona. Ora was active in business and was always courteous and obliging and showed splendid business ability and training. Reared in Pecos, he was always bright, congenial and popular with all classes and if he ever had an enemy or any one to speak disparagingly of him in any way The Enterprise man during his eight years' residence in Pecos never heard of it. He was at all times a leader among those of his associates, generous, brave and big hearted.

Some eight years ago O. H. Beauchamp was converted at a camp meeting in Madero Canyon and joined the Baptist church and has since that time contributed liberally toward its support. He passed away calmly and peacefully proclaiming his faith in his Saviour and his submission to His will.

His mother passed away about 9 years ago, and with an infant brother, were awaiting his coming beyond the river. Left to mourn his death are of the immediate family, his devoted wife and three small children, his father, T. H. Beauchamp, and sisters, Mrs. Duffie Parker, and Misses Leota and Ruby Mae Beauchamp. He had a bright career before him and each and all of the above loved and adored him and are left heartbroken at his untimely demise in the zenith of his young manhood.

The funeral services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. G. O. Key, at the residence, after which the body was turned over to the Pecos Camp W. O. W. of which he was an honored member, for burial in Fairview cemetery. He was also a member in good standing of the I. O. O. F., Knights of Pythias and Praetorian lodges.

To the bereaved The Enterprise can only direct them for comfort to the Savior who guides the destinies of us all and with a host of other sincere friends extend its condolence in this sad hour.

YES! LIFT A CORN OFF WITHOUT PAIN!

Cincinnati man tells how to dry up a corn or callus so it lifts off with fingers.

You corn-pestered men and women need suffer no longer. Wear the shoes that nearly killed you before, says this Cincinnati authority, because a few drops of freezezone applied directly on a tender, aching corn or callus, stops soreness at once and soon the corn or hardened callus loosens so it can be lifted off, root and all, without pain. A small bottle of freezezone costs very little at any drug store, but will positively take off every hard or soft corn or callus. This should be tried, as it is inexpensive and is said not to irritate the surrounding skin.

If your druggist hasn't any freezezone tell him to get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.—adv.

RUSSIA STANDING ON AMERICAN WAR POLICY

ANNOUNCES WAR WILL BE CARRIED ON FOR FREEDOM OF NATIONS AND LASTING PEACE.

WASHINGTON RECEIVES NOTE

Not Seeking Conquest or Any Covetous End in Conflict, but Guarantee Against Later Attacks.

Washington.—Foreign Minister Tereshchenko of Russia in a cabled note to the state department gives assurance on behalf of the new ministry that the Russian democracy is inspired with a spirit of solidarity with the United States, and like America, is carrying on the war to secure the freedom of nations and lasting peace.

"By direction of the ministry of foreign affairs," says the communication, "I hasten to say how highly the whole Russian democracy is inspired with the sentiment of full solidarity with the great republic, which true to its relations of liberty, espoused the cause of the coalition for the defense of justice and right.

"Like the United States, emancipated Russia is not seeking conquest or any covetous end in the present conflict. The war is carried on to secure the freedom of nations and to achieve universal, lasting peace effectively guaranteed against all later attacks.

"I am glad to find that these lofty principles which were so eloquently formulated in America are striking a warm unanimous echo in free Russia."

Russian Commission Reaches N. Y.

New York.—Three Russian naval officers and a civilian, representing, they say, the new Russian government, arrived here on their way to Washington. They said they were on a special mission, which they declined to discuss. Members of the party said they would not go immediately to Washington, but would remain in New York for some time. All of them, it is understood, have been on diplomatic and military duty in England and France.

WILSON OUTLINES FOOD PLANS.

Hoover Will Serve Without Pay. Authority to Prevent Undue Increase in Prices.

Washington.—President Wilson has outlined the administration's food control program in a statement, and declared the powers asked for the government are no greater than those other governments at war have been compelled to take. There is no intention, he said, to restrain or interfere with normal processes of production.

The statement also makes formal announcement that Herbert C. Hoover has been asked to become food administrator and that he has accepted on condition that neither he nor his immediate assistants shall receive any pay for their services.

"Although it is absolutely necessary that unquestionable powers be placed in my hands," said the president's statement, "I am confident that the exercise of those powers will be necessary only in a few cases where some small and selfish minority proves unwilling to put the nation's interests above personal advantage."

BRITISH START ANOTHER DRIVE.

Teutons Launch Attack in Vicinity of Mitau, But Are Repulsed By Russian Artillery.

Washington.—With Bullecourt firmly in their possession, the British troops are giving the Germans no chance for rest, and have started another offensive with the idea of bringing their forces to the north of Bullecourt in alignment with those within the village.

Sunday saw Field Marshal Haig's men again strike the German line hard in this region and carry German positions over a front of more than a mile between Fontaine-Les-Croisilles and Bullecourt and hold them, notwithstanding furious counter-attacks. The fighting here again was of a sanguinary nature and the British war office reports that heavy casualties were inflicted on the Germans.

The army of the German crown prince continued ineffectually its efforts to crack the French line along the Cheminedes-Dames.

TEXAS NEWS BRIEFS

The spring clip of wool, amounting to 3,600 pounds, was sold at auction at Sulphur Springs, by the Hopkins County Wool Growers' association at 50c a pound.

The driving of piling for the foundation for another ship yard was started at Orange. The announcement was made that two ships measuring over 200 feet in length, equipped with four masts, would be built at once, and that from 200 to 400 men would be employed.

Although the special session of the Thirty-Fifth legislature was to have expired not later than the close of May 17, final adjournment did not come until 2:30 a. m. of the 18th. However, all clocks in the legislative halls had been turned back, and it was 11 o'clock by their register when adjournment was ordered.

Women of 60 and girls 17 years of age registered for service to the country at the registration bureau of the Dallas branch, National Woman's League for Service. Names and qualifications of about 280 women who are ready to do something for their country were listed and classified.

Property damage of more than $75,000 was done by fire in the Santa Fe railroad yards, inside the city limits of Gainesville. The flames started when a tank car of gasoline exploded while four men were working on the casing head, all of whom sustained terrible burns, but none of whom is thought to have been injured fatally.

The Texarkana chamber of commerce has supplied to farmers of the surrounding territory eight tons of seed for planting, including sorghum, velvet beans, soy beans, millet and Sudan grass; also 5,000 bushels of peanuts, all of which were sold at the first cost, carriage added, on credit and without interest.

With a choice cattle consignment from Cresson selling last week in Fort Worth at $12 another price record was shattered. This price was paid on one excellent car. The market performed splendidly all around. Beef steers sold on a strong basis. Other kinds sold at prices fully steady.

In a letter sent out to the 2,400 farmers' institutes of Texas, Commissioner of Agriculture Fred W. Davis recommends that an effort be made to stimulate every man, woman and child, white and black, farmer or business man, to become interested in the growing and conserving of food and feed.

Shippers who are complaining of the Texas freight rates promulgated by the interstate commerce commission said that alleged overcharges which they are seeking to recover are expected to amount to at least $1,000,000 by the time the United States supreme court reaches a decision in the case.

A mass meeting of the 5,000 farmer-soldiers of the Dallas county division of the United States army of food producers has been called for 2:30 o'clock Sunday, May 27, at the state fair coliseum. The division includes 53 companies, with a total enrollment of more than 5,000 men and 200 officers.

It is estimated that this year's assessed valuations of Texas will be $2,760,000,000. When the ad valorem rate is applied, there must be deductions for assessing and collecting the taxes, amounting to 20 per cent, besides the usual delinquencies and other failures.

Manager Sentell of the Galveston baseball club said he had been notified by President Morris that Beaumont and Galveston had been dropped from the list of teams in the Texas league.

It has been predicted that the appropriations made by the last legislature will necessitate the maximum state ad valorem tax rate in the next two years, with a possible deficit in the general revenue fund on or about Sept. 1, 1918.

Dr. J. B. Gambrell of Dallas was elected president of the Southern Baptist convention amid a great wave of enthusiasm in New Orleans last week.

The twenty-fifth legislature broke all records in making appropriations. The first called session and the regular session resulted in appropriations exceeding $25,000,000. It is expected that the governor will veto a number of items and reduce the aggregate somewhat.

You may buy a Saxon believing it to be the best car in its class and you will get what you pay for.

You may look for longer service, better performance and lower up-keep bills from your Saxon than from any other car of like price. And you will not be disappointed.

NAN MORGAN AND DE SPAIN DISCOVER THEMSELVES TO BE IN DESPERATE STRAITS WITH REGARD TO THE GAP GANG—THE GIRL FINDS HERSELF IN GRAVE DANGER

Henry de Spain, general manager of the stagecoach line running from Thief River to Sleepy Cat, a railroad division point in the Rocky mountains, is fighting a band of cattle thieves and gunmen living in Morgan gap, a fertile valley twenty miles from Sleepy Cat and near Calabasas, where the coach horses are changed. De Spain has killed two of the gang and has been seriously wounded. Pretty Nan Morgan, niece of the gang leader, and De Spain are secretly in love. When her uncle finds this out he takes steps to marry her to Gale Morgan, a cousin, who is a bad man in every way.

CHAPTER XI—Continued.

"No," retorted De Spain good-naturedly. "It's not fair. And some day, Duke, you'll be the first to say so. You won't shake hands with me now, I know, so I'll go. But the day will come when you will."

He covered his revolver with his left hand, and replaced it under his coat. The fat man who had been leaning patiently against a barber's chair ten feet from the disputants, stepped forward again lightly as a cat. "Henry," he exclaimed, in a low but urgent tone, his hand extended, "just a minute. There's a long-distance telephone call on the wire for you." He pointed to the office door. "Take the first booth, Henry. Hello, Duke," he added, greeting Morgan with an extended hand, as De Spain walked back. "How are you speaking it, old man?"

"Duke Morgan grunted. "Sorry to interrupt your talk," continued Lefever. "But the barns at Calabasas are burning—telephone wires from there cut, too—they had to pick up the Thief River trunk line to get a message through. Makes it bad, doesn't it?" Lefever pulled a wry face. "Duke, there's somebody yet around Calabasas that needs hanging, isn't there? Yes."

CHAPTER XX.

Gale Persists.

When within an hour De Spain joined Nan, tense with suspense and anxiety, at the hospital, she tried hard to read his news in his face.

"Have you seen him?" she asked eagerly. De Spain nodded. "What does he say?"

"Nothing very reasonable." Her face fell. "I knew he wouldn't. Tell me all about it, Henry—everything."

She listened keenly to each word. De Spain gave her a pretty accurate recital of the interview, and Nan's apprehension grew with her hearing of it.

"I knew it," she repeated with conviction. "I know him better than you know him. What shall we do?"

De Spain took both her hands. He held them against his breast and stood looking into her eyes. When he regarded her in such a way her doubts and fears seemed mean and trivial. He spoke only one word, but there was a world of confidence in his tone: "Stick."

She arched her brows as she returned his gaze, and with a little troubled laugh drew closer. "Stick, Nan," he repeated. "It will come out all right."

She paused a moment. "How can you know?"

"I know because it's got to. I talked all over with my best friend in Medicine Bend, the other day."

"Who, Henry?"

"Whispering Smith. He laughed at our uncle's opposing us. He said if our uncle only knew it, it's the best thing that could happen for him. And he said if all the marriages opposed by the folks had been stopped, there wouldn't be young folks enough left to milk the cows."

"Henry, what is this report about the Calabasas barns burning?"

"The old Number One barn is gone and some of the old stages. We didn't see any horses, and the other barns are all right. Some of our Calabasas gap friends, probably. No matter, we'll get them all rounded up after a while, Nan. Then, some fine day, we're going to get married."

De Spain rode that night to Calabasas to look into the story of the fire. McAlpin, swathed in bandages, made bones about accusing the common enemy. No witnesses could be found to throw any more light on the inquiry than the barn boss himself. A preliminary made only a pretense of investigation. If he had doubts about the origin of the fire they would have been resolved by an anonymous scrawl, sent through the mail, promising more if he didn't get out of the country.

But instead of getting out of the country, De Spain continued as a matter of energetic policy to get into it. He rode the deserts stripped, so to say, for action and walked the streets of Sleepy Cat welcoming every chance to meet men from Music Mountain or the sinks. It was on Nan that the real hardships of the situation fell, and Nan who had to bear them alone and almost unaided.

Duke came home a day or two later without a word for Nan concerning his encounter with De Spain. He was shorter in the grain than ever, crustier to everyone than she had ever known him—and toward Nan herself fiercely resentful. Sassoon was in his company a great deal, and Nan knew of old that Sassoon was a bad symptom. Gale, too, came often, and the three were much together. In some way, Nan felt that she herself was in part the subject of their talks, but no information concerning them could she ever get.

One morning she sat on the porch sewing when Gale rode up. He asked for her uncle. Bonita told him Duke had gone to Calabasas. Gale announced he was bound for Calabasas himself, and dismounted near Nan, professedly to cinch his saddle. He fussed with the straps for a minute, trying to engage Nan in the interval, without success, in conversation. "Look here, Nan," he said at length, studiously amiable, "don't you think you're pretty hard on me, lately?"

"No, I don't," she answered. "If Uncle Duke didn't make me, I'd never look at you, or speak to you—or live in the same mountains with you."

"I don't think when a fellow cares for you as much as I do, and gets out of patience once in a while, just because he loves a girl the way a red-blooded man can't help loving her, she ought to hold it against him forever. Think she ought to, Nan?" he demanded after a pause. She was sewing and kept silence.

"I think," she responded, showing her aversion in every syllable, "before a man begins to talk red-blood rot, he ought to find out whether the girl cares for him, or just loathes the sight of him."

He regarded her fixedly. Paying no attention to him, but bending in the sunshine over her sewing, her hand flying with the needle, her masses of brown hair sweeping back around her pink ears and curling in stray ringlets that the wind danced with while she worked, she inflamed her brawny cousin's ardor afresh. "You used to care for me, Nan. You can't deny that." Her silence was irritating. "Can you?" he demanded. "Come, put up your work and talk it out. I didn't use to have to coax you for a word and a smile. What's come over you?"

"Nothing has come over me, Gale. I did use to like you—when I first came back from school. You seemed so big and fine then, and were so nice to me. I did like you."

"Why didn't you keep on liking me?"

Nan made no answer. Her cousin persisted. "You used to talk about thinking the world of me" she said at last; "then I saw you on Frontier day, riding around Sleepy Cat with a carriage full of wop."

Gale burst into a new laugh. Nan's face flushed over her work. "Oh, that's a matter with you, is it?" he asked jocularly. "You never say anything," she complained.

"Just some Frontier man's got to be a little bit of a snob once in a while, hasn't he?"

"Not if he likes me." She spoke with an ominous distinctness, but under her breath. He caught her words and laughed again. "Pshaw, I didn't think you'd get jealous over a little thing like that, Nan. When there's a celebration on in town, everybody's friendly with everybody else. If you lay a little thing like that up against me, where would the rest of the men get off? Your strawberry-faced Medicine Bend friend is celebrating in town most of the time."

Her face turned white. "What a falsehood!" she exclaimed hotly. Looking at her, satisfied, he laughed wholeheartedly again. She rose, furious. "It's a falsehood," she repeated, "and I know it."

"I suppose," retorted Gale, regarding her jocosely, "you asked him about it."

He had never seen her so angry. She stamped her foot. "How dare you say such a thing! One of those women was at the hospital—she is there yet, and she is going to die there. She told Uncle Duke's nurse the men they knew, and whom they didn't know, at that place. And Henry de Spain, when he heard this miserable creature had been taken to the hospital, and Doctor Torpy said she could never get well, told the sister to take care of her and send the bills to him, because he knew her father and mother in Medicine Bend and went to school with her there when she was a decent girl. Go and hear what she has to say about Henry de Spain, you contemptible falsifier."

Gale laughed sardonically. "That's right. I like to see a girl stick to her friends. De Spain ought to take care of her. Good story."

"And she has other good stories, too, you ought to hear," continued Nan undismayed. "Most of them about you and your fine friends in town. She told the nurse it's you who ought to be paying her bills till she dies."

Gale made a disclaiming face and a deprecating gesture. "No, no, Nan—let De Spain take care of his own. Be a sport yourself, girlie, right now." He stepped nearer her. Nan retreated. "Kiss and make up," he exclaimed with a laugh. But she knew he was angry, and knew what to guard against. Still laughing, he sprang toward her and tried to catch her arm.

"Don't touch me!" she cried, jumping away with her hand in her blouse.

"You little vixen," he exclaimed with an oath, "what have you got there?" But he halted at her gesture, and Nan, panting, stood her ground.

"Keep away!" she cried.

"Where did you get that knife?" thundered Gale.

"From one who showed me how to use it on a coward!"

He affected amusement and tried to pass the incident off as a joke. But his dissimulation was more dangerous, she knew, than his brutality, and he left her the prey to more than one alarm and the renewed resolve never to be taken off her guard. That night he came back. He told her uncle, glancing admiringly at Nan as he recounted the story, how she had stood her ground against him in the morning.

Nor did Nan like the way her uncle acted while he listened—and afterward. He talked a good deal about Gale and the way she was treating her cousin. When Nan declared she never would have anything to do with him, her uncle told her with disconcerting bluntness to get all that out of her head, for she was going to marry him. When she protested she never would, Duke told her, with many harsh oaths, that she should never marry De Spain even if he had to kill him or get killed to stop it, and that if she had any sense she would get ready to marry her cousin peaceably, adding, that if she didn't have sense, he would see himself it was provided for her.

His threats left Nan aghast. For two days she thought them all over. Then she dressed to go to town. On her way to the barn her uncle intercepted her. "Where you going?"

"To Sleepy Cat," returned Nan, regarding him collectedly.

"No, you're not," he announced bluntly.

Nan looked at him in silence. "I don't want you running to town any more to meet De Spain," added Duke, without any attempt to soften his injunction.

"But I've got to go to town once in a while, whether I meet Henry de Spain or not, Uncle Duke."

"What do you have to go for?"

"Why, for mail, supplies—everything."

"Pardaloe can attend to all that."

Nan shook her head. "Whether he can or not, I'm not going to be cut off from going to Sleepy Cat, Uncle Duke—nor from seeing Henry de Spain."

"Meaning to say you won't obey, eh?"

"When I'm going to marry a man it isn't right to forbid me seeing him."

"You're not going to marry him; you're going to marry Gale, and the quicker you make up your mind to it the better."

"You might better tell me I am going to marry Bull Page—I would marry him first. I will never marry Gale Morgan in the living world, and I've told you so more than once."

He regarded his niece a moment wrathfully and, without replying, walked back to the house. Nan, upset but resolute, went on to the barn and asked Pardaloe to saddle her pony. Pardaloe shuffled around in an obliging way, but at the end of some evasion admitted he had orders not to do it. Nan flamed at the information. She disliked Pardaloe anyway, not for any reason she could assign beyond the fact that he had once been a chum of Gale's. But she was too high-spirited to dispute with him, and returned to the house pink with indignation. Going straight to her uncle, she protested against such tyranny. Duke was insensible alike to her pleas and her threats.

But next morning Nan was up at three o'clock. She made her way into the barn before a soul was stirring, and at daybreak was well on her way to Sleepy Cat. She telephoned to De Spain's office from the hospital and went to breakfast. De Spain joined her before she had finished, and when they left the dining room she explained why she had disappointed him the day before. He heard the story with misgivings.

"I'll tell you how it looks to me, Nan," he said when she had done. "You are like a person that's being bound tighter every day by invisible cords. You don't see them because you are fearless. You are too fearless, Nan," he added, with apprehension reflected in the expression of his face. "I'll tell you what I wish you'd do, and I say it knowing you won't do it," he concluded.

She made light of his fears, twisting his right hand till it was helpless in her two hands and laughing at him. "How do you know I won't do it?"

"Because I've asked you before. This is it: Marry me, now, here, today, and don't take any more chances out there."

"But, Henry," protested Nan, "I can't marry you now and just run away from poor Uncle Duke. If you will just be patient, I'll bring him around to our side."

"Never, Nan."

"Don't be so sure. I know him better than you do, and when he comes for anybody, he comes all at once. Why, it's funny Henry. Now that I'm picking up courage, you're losing it!"

He shook his head. "I don't like the way things are going."

"Dearie," she urged, "should I be any safer at home if I were your wife, than I am as your sweetheart. I don't want to start a horrible family war by running away, and that is just what I certainly should do."

De Spain was unconvinced. But apprehension is short-lived in young hearts. The sun shone, the sky spread a speckless blue over desert and mountain, the day went to their castles and dreams. In a retired corner of the cool dining room at the Mountain house, they lingered together over a long-drawn-out dinner. The better-informed guests by asides indicated their presence to others. They described them as the hardy couple who had first met in a stiff Frontier day rifle match, which the girl had won. Her defeated rival—the man now most regarded and feared in the mountain country—was the man with the reticent mouth, mild eyes, curious birthmark, and with the two little, perplexed wrinkles visible most of the time just between his dark eyebrows, the man listening intently to every syllable that fell from the lips of the trimly bloused, active girl opposite him, leaning forward in her eagerness to tell him things. Her jacket hung over the back of her chair, and she herself was referred to by the more fanciful as queen of the outlaw camp at Music Mountain.

The two were seen together that day about town by many, for the story of their courtship was still veiled in mystery and afforded ground for the widest speculation, while that of their difficulties, and such particulars as De Spain's fruitless efforts to conciliate Duke Morgan and Duke's open threats against De Spain's life were widely known. All these details made the movement and the fate of the young couple the object of keenly curious comment.

In the late afternoon the two rode almost the whole length of Main street together on their way to the river bridge. Everyone knew the horseflesh they bestrode—none cleaner-limbed, harder or faster in the high country. Those that watched them amble slowly past, laughing and talking, intent only on each other, erect, poised and motionless, as if molded to their saddles, often spoke of having seen Nan and her lover that day. It was a long time before they were seen riding down Main street together again.

CHAPTER XXI.

De Spain Worries.

They parted that evening under the shadow of Music Mountain, agreed to meet in Calabasas just as soon as Nan could get away. She hoped, she told him, to bring good news. De Spain arranged his business to wait at Calabasas for her, and was there, after two days, doing little but waiting and listening to McAlpin's stories about the fire and surmises as to strange men that lurked in and about the place. But De Spain, knowing Jeffries was making an independent investigation into the affair, gave no heed to McAlpin's suspicions.

To get away from the barn boss, De Spain took refuge in riding. The season was drawing on toward winter, and rain clouds drifting at intervals down from the mountains made the saddle a less dependable escape from the monotony of Calabasas. Several days passed with no sight of Nan and no word from her. De Spain, as the hours and days went by, scanned the horizon with increasing solicitude. When he woke on the sixth morning, he was resolved to send a scout into the gap to learn what he could of the situation. The long silence, De Spain knew, portended nothing good. He sent to the stable for Bull Page.

The shambling barnman, summoned gruffly by McAlpin, hesitated as he appeared at the office door and seemed to regard the situation with suspicion. He looked at De Spain tentatively, as if ready either for the discharge with which he was daily threatened or for a renewal of his earlier, friendly relations with the man who had been queer enough to make a place for him. De Spain set Bull down before him in the stuffy little office.

"Bull," he began with apparent frankness, "I want to know how you like your job."

Wiping his mouth guardedly with his hand to play for time and as an introduction to a carefully worded reply, Bull parried. "Mr. de Spain, I want to ask you just one question."

"Go ahead, Bull."

Bull plunged promptly into the suspicion uppermost in his mind. "Has that slat-eyed, flat-headed, sun-sapped sneak of a Scotchman been complaining of my work? That, Mr. de Spain," emphasized Bull, leaning forward, "is what I want to know first—is it a fair question?"

"Bull," returned De Spain with corresponding and ceremonial emphasis, "it is a fair question between man and man. I admit it; it is a fair question. And I answer, no, Bull. McAlpin has had nothing on the face of the desert to do with my sending for you. And I add this because I know you want to hear it: he says he couldn't complain of your work, because you never do any."

"That man," persisted Bull, reinforced by the hearty tone and not clearly catching the drift of the very last words, "drinks more liquor than I do."

"He must be some tank, Bull."

"And I don't hide it, Mr. de Spain."

"You'd have to crawl under Music Mountain to do that. What I want to know is, do you like your job?"

On this point it was impossible to get an expression from Bull. He felt convinced that De Spain was pressing for an answer only as a preliminary to his discharge. "No matter," interposed the latter, cutting Bull's ramblings short, "drop it, Bull. I want you to do something for me, and I'll pay for it."

Bull, with a pained smile and a deep, quavering note of gratitude, put up his shaky hand. "Say what's all, I've been paid."

"You know you're a sot, Bull."

Bull nodded. "I know it."

"A disgrace to the Maker whose image you were made in."

Bull started, but seemed, on reflection, to consider this a point on which he need not commit himself.

"Still, I believe there's a man in you yet. Something, at any rate, you couldn't completely kill with whisky, Bull—what?"

De Spain, learning that Nan needs him desperately, decides to take some big chances to save her. There's a big development of the story in the next installment.
