Free Ads Given to Liberty Bonds

Value of Newspaper Publicity
Donated Estimated at More Than $500,000,000

More than $500,000,000 in free advertisement was given to the United States Government in its campaign to float the Liberty Loan, according to estimates made by treasury officials. This does not include the millions of dollars' worth of space given in small country newspapers, which never have reached the attention of the government.

Whole pages in newspapers, moving pictures, millions of dodgers paper bombs and hundreds of other means of bringing the bonds to the public, were donated to the government by patriotic citizens.

The use of the editorial and advertising pages of 273 technical papers were donated; trade journals threw open their columns. Boy scouts also spent weeks in folding and in mailing 4,600,000 circulars issued by the government printing office. 36 languages were represented in the hundreds of foreign-language papers that assisted.

Almost 2,000,000 large posters were distributed in every part of the country, free of all charge. The number of posters distributed by local committees for local use would more than double the above number.

More than one million copies of Secretary McAdoo's Liberty Loan speeches and 2,500,000 circulars describing the loan were mailed from Washington and distributed free. Almost 500,000 Liberty Loan primmers were distributed by the government, free.

Business firms, corporations, chambers of commerce, the schools and private citizens responded to the plea of the government to advertise the bonds on their stationery, and the slogan "Buy a Liberty

Married at San Antonio

Our little city is to be congratulated in the acquisition of another splendid citizen in the person of Mr. Charles Parker, who arrived in Pecos with his young wife July 25th.

Mr. Parker is the son of Lewis Parker, one of the original settlers of Pecos, coming here on the advent of the Texas and Pacific railroad, his relatives and friends embrace some of the best blood and prominent people of the country.

Mr. Parker, who is familiarly known as "Charley" was married in San Antonio, Texas, July 25th, to Miss Jane Dawson, a daughter of N. A. Dawson, well-known as a capitalist and contractor throughout West Texas.

Miss Dawson was a graduate at the last commencement of the University of Texas, receiving the high honor and coveted degree of Bachelor of Arts.

The Enterprise bespeaks for this young couple a warm welcome.

Off to B. Y. P. U. Encampment.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Browning, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Drane, and Misses Florence Johnson, Della Hudgens, Sybil Bowie, and Marie Grafius, left Saturday, via automobile, for Lampasas, to attend the Annual B. Y. P. U. Encampment.

Mrs. T. Y. Moorhead entertained with a delightful party Thursday evening of last week in honor of her nephew and niece, Otis Johnson and Miss Gladys Johnson of Cleburne. The evening was spent in playing interesting games of "42" while beautiful strains of music lent zest to the occasion. At the conclusion of the entertaining features ice cream and cake were served.

Loan Bond" was almost as common during the campaign as postage stamps.

In spite of the hundreds of millions of dollars of free advertising it is estimated that the total bill of the government for floating the loan will run over two or three million dollars.—Auxiliary Publisher.

Former Barstow Lady Weds

At the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary Toliver, 1016 Washington Ave., Fort Worth, on last Sunday Miss Johnnie Toliver was married to Mr. Oatman C. Norwood.

Miss Johnnie is a young lady possessing many lovable traits of character, and her many friends in Barstow congratulate Mr. Norwood upon the prize he has won. The news wishes for Mr. and Mrs. Norwood happiness and prosperity throughout their married life.—Ward County News.

The bride is the sister of our fellow townsman and merchant, Braxton Toliver, and The Enterprise joins the many friends of the family in wishing them bon voyage on their matrimonial sea.

Uncle Joe Seay and family were in Pecos from their ranch west of Toyah, Monday. Uncle Joe is one of the most substantial stockmen in this part of the country. When asked by The Enterprise "How are your cattle doing?" he answered: "We have skinned them all and they are all right now." This is some more of Uncle Joe's "joshing", for he has had several good rains and his stuff are probably in as good or better shape than any stockman in the country. The Lord is looking after "Uncle Joe," and prospering him, and his best friends are hoping and praying that his latter days will be spent as his mother would have him spend them in the service of Him who has made it possible for him to prosper under adverse circumstances.

Long Drouth in This Section Is Broken

Splendid Rain Tuesday Morning Injects New Life.—Stockmen are Jubilant.

Pecos and Reeves county were visited this week by refreshing rains. While these were only of a local nature, they have been of great benefit to the country, and many stockmen who were feeding and losing cattle at that, are now happy. Very few of them are now feeding and all stock on the ranges where these showers fell are doing well.

Since the long drouth is now broken the people of this county are more cheerful and feel that more rain will come in time to "save the country."

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Taggart returned late last week from a two weeks visit in Arizona, bringing back with them Mrs. D. S. Butler and little son, D. S. Jr. While away they visited Prescott, Flagstaff, the Grand Canon, and in the northern part of the State. It is needless to say that they had a most delightful trip and saw some wonderful scenery and a fine country. The splendid roads, beautiful pine forests and big fruit trees were a revelation to these visitors.

Grandma Wheat went out to Saragosa this morning for a visit with her son.

Cincinnati Man Tells How to To Shriveled Corns or Calluses so They Lift Off With Fingers.

Ouch ! ? ! ? ! ? This kind of rough talk will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called freezone when applied to a tender aching corn or hardened callus stops soreness at once, and soon the corn or callus dries up and lifts right off without pain.

He says freezone dries immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any drug store, but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement since the inauguration of the high heels. If your druggist doesn't have freezone tell him to order a small bottle for you.—Advt.

Governor Ferguson and Three State Officers Indicted

Travis County Grand Jury Returns Indictments Charging Misuse of State Funds

James E. Ferguson, governor of Texas, was indicted on nine counts, seven charging misapplication of public funds, one diversion of public funds and one of embezzlement by the grand jury of Travis county last week. The indictments were returned at 3:00 o'clock, but were not made public until shortly before 6 o'clock when Sheriff George S. Matthews notified the governor.

Churchill J. Bartlett, secretary of state, was indicted on four counts, charging misapplication of funds; C. O. Austin, commissioner of insurance and banking, on four counts, same charge, and State Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds Stowe on one count, charging misapplication. Other indictments were returned, but have not yet been made public.

The governor's status is not changed by the indictments. He remains in office as do all those indicted. Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, C. O. Austin, against whom four indictments were returned, on the charge of misapplication of public funds, declined today to make any statement for publication.

C. L. Stowe, state superintendent of public buildings and grounds, who was indicted on the same character of charge, said: "I was indicted because I am an appointee of Governor Ferguson."

He also declared that his books and accounts are open for inspection and that he is not guilty of any offense. Governor Ferguson gave a bond of $1000 each on eight counts and $5000 on one count. Seven of the counts charge misapplication of public funds, and one embezzlement. The amount in the embezzlement count is $5,600. No amount is named in the conversion of public funds indictment. Three counts of misapplication of the public funds name $10,000 each; one $5,081.11; one $2,000, and one $101,365.30.

The amounts set forward in the six indictments against Secretary of State Bartlett aggregate $384,542.25, all six counts charge misapplication of public funds. Bartlett gave bond for $1000 in each case.

The four indictments against Austin name an aggregate of $5,984.50. Austin gave bond of $1000 in each case. The sum involved in the indictment against Stowe is $644.16. He gave $500 bond.

The indictment of Governor Ferguson with several of his appointees followed by the governor's statement denouncing the "Austin political ring" and announcing for a third term, was received with tremendous interest at Austin. A harvest of statements on the statement of the governor has already begun, and attorneys have intimated that they have had inquiries touching on prospective libel suits.

The grand jury cases cannot be tried until the October term of the criminal district court. It is believed the indictments will interfere with the contemplated action of the house of representatives. Lawyers express the opinion that even conviction of a felony charge would not vacate the office of governor. Impeachment is the only means provided for that.

Summer Complaint.

During the hot weather of the summer months some member of every family is likely to be troubled with an unnatural looseness of the bowels, and it is of the greatest importance that this be treated promptly, which can be done only when the medicine is kept at hand. Mrs. F. F. Scoot, Scottsville, N. Y., states, "I first used Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy as much as five years ago. At that time I had a severe case of summer complaint and was suffering intense pain. One dose of it relieved me. Other members of the family have used it with like results.—Advt.

Opportunities for Older Men

Because of the war many of the positions formerly held by young men are open to older men. The kidney secretions have been too frequent in passage, which has greatly annoyed me. I have had headaches and dizzy spells and often black spots have floated before my eyes. THE ENTERPRISE and PECOS TIMES

JOHN HIBDON Editor and Owner

Entered as second-class matter October 22, 1915, at the postoffice at Pecos, Texas, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Subscription, $1.50 a year In Advance

The war bill for the United States for the year, it is estimated, will total $17,000,000,000. That is some expense bill.

The American soldiers in France are receiving trench training according to reports received this week, which say that they take to the work like old hands at the business. That was to be expected. American boys will make good at any kind of work at any time or any place.

John G. McKay, ex-secretary of state under Ferguson's first administration, has been indicted on two counts charging him with misapplication of state funds to the amount of $28,286. He was the governor's campaign manager, and is now manager of the Jim Ferguson State Farm in Madison county.

There are entirely too many worthless cur dogs in Pecos at the present time. One dog which, in town, is of no earthly use to its owner, and in many cases a menace to the public, will consume enough food to keep a dozen hens. Why not have another dog round-up? Many do not wear the tag which the city demands.

The Legislature convened in special session at Austin, Wednesday, to try to impeach Governor Ferguson. Last week the Travis county grand jury indicted him on nine counts for misappropriation of State funds. It looks like Jimmy is going to have an interesting time for a while at least. He says he will be a candidate for a third term. Better not try to eat that "cabbage", James.

In this issue of The Enterprise is a complete list of the county's registrations, with the serial number and the number of the order in which the same were drawn. We wish to state that this is the last complete list we will publish, in future dealing only with any new feature of the selective draft law. All who wish a list should preserve this or, if not a subscriber call and get a copy.

Speaker Fuller called the Texas House of Representatives to convene in special session at Austin on August first, to impeach Governor Ferguson. The governor denied the Speaker's right to convene the Legislature, and issued a call himself, convening that body in special session on that date to pass an appropriation for the University of Texas. The governor vetoed the appropriation made for that institution at the regular session of the Legislature. The Texas law makers convened at noon Wednesday and inside of fifteen minutes after the house was in session Speaker Fuller, in his own name and under oath, preferred charges of impeachment against the chief executive of the State.

A Fort Worth woman has adopted a new plan to subdue her recalcitrant hubby, and a few days ago tied him to the bed with belts and neckties, and whipped him, according to reports by police officials of that city. She tied his legs to the bed posts with belts, and his hands to the other end of the bed with neckties and then proceeded to whale the stuffing out of him until he promised to be good. He remained in that position from 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon until nine o'clock Sunday morning, at which time she let him up to get something to eat after which she repeated the treatment, when officers interfered and set the man free and left them to work out their own problems.

"SAVE THE WASTE AND WIN THE WAR."

Between The Enterprise office and the T. & P. station is a row of buildings—not buildings—shacks, which have never in the past eight years, been occupied for any length of time and never will in the future. They are hardly fit for a dog house. They are nothing more than a fire trap and unless torn away and removed will sooner or later cost some of us one hundred times their actual value when they are ignited by a match, cigar or cigarette stub, and possibly be the cause of the destruction of the larger portion of the business section of the town. This row of disgraceful dog houses should be condemned by the city council torn down and moved away before it is everlastingly too late.

Amendment for Conservation and Reclamation

The Constitutional Amendment providing for Reclamation of Overflow Lands, Irrigation, Drainage, etc., will be submitted to the voters of Texas on Tuesday, August 21st. It is the only proposition on the ballot and is expected to pass by a large majority. It is being submitted to the people by a practically unanimous vote of the Legislature, (122 to 4) and has the vigorous endorsement of all of the State's Officers and the complete endorsement of the press.

"Nothing could be of more infinite value to our State" said United States Senator Morris Sheppard, "than the development, Reclamation and Control of our enormous natural resources, including the development and control of our rivers for purposes of irrigation and power, and the preservation and distribution of flood waters, the reclamation and improvement of lands both in the section subject to overflow and in the arid regions, and the navigation of such waters as are capable of this particular form of development. The passage of an amendment of this kind will facilitate the work of the Federal Government by putting the people in position to take the initiative wherever possible and render substantial assistance wherever needed. "I beg to express the earnest hope that every voter in Texas will go to the polls on August 21st in behalf of a movement which means so much for the prosperity and advancement of our State and people."

First To Die

Word comes from France of the death of Christian Erickson, of the regular army, who enlisted from Slayton, Mo., and of Robert Muskovitch, of the U. S. Marine Corps, who enlisted from Sherwood, Wis. These two Americans, who by their names indicate their Scandinavian and Slavic extraction, are the first to dedicate Old Glory anew to the cause of liberty. Let it be said of both of them when the roll of patriots is reviewed: "They died on a field of honor."

All honor to Americans, no matter what their antecedents, who love the flag well enough to follow it "through fire and smoke, through battle shock and sabre stroke." It is glorious to die for liberty and for the rights of humanity.—Fort Davis Post.

Preventable Fire.

The following is an extract from a letter to the E. L. Collings Insurance Co., dated at Washington, D. C., July 20th, 1917:

"Preventable fire is more than a private misfortune. It is public dereliction. At a time like this of emergency and of manifest necessity for the conservation of national resources, it is more than ever a matter of deep and pressing consequence that every means should be taken to prevent this evil."

"WOODROW WILSON."

Mr. and Mrs. John Camp and son, Jack, returned yesterday from a few days visit to their old home—Snyder—and Mr. Camp says it is very dry in that country. Mrs. Sam Wilson, the eldest sister of John and W. W. Camp, came with them for a visit of a couple of weeks with her brothers and their families.

B. A. Oden is now shipping cantaloupes to El Paso, Dallas and Amarillo, and has about all the orders he can fill. Other growers are now bringing in cantaloupes and they are as fine as ever grew. Mr. Oden will please accept the thanks of The Enterprise family for a generous supply which he left with us Wednesday. He never forgets his friends when he has anything good.

Leo Epps, a passenger on the Santa Fe train Monday, was riding on the platform of the car and in some manner allowed one of his feet to come in contact with a stock guard, the result being a badly injured foot. He was given medical attention upon his arrival here, and after remaining two days left Wednesday afternoon for California.

Mrs. E. J. Moyer and children left this morning over the P. V. S. for a few days visit with friends at Saragosa.

Trench Tales.

"We saw some very queer things," said the man of the Chester regiment. "There was a little rough chalk stream there, not big enough to be a river, even with all the wet we had. The Germans had built an accommodation bridge over at one point, just a rough business of planks and ropes. When we crossed it—they had not bothered to destroy it, it wasn't big enough to be worth while—there was quite a float of dead Germans in the water, all bumping against the piles, and some had gas masks on. How they came there or what had killed them, I don't know. We hadn't time to worry about it, for there was plenty doing, but men in gas masks, drowned in about three feet of water was a queer thing to see."

"I've seen a Boche who really understands the war," declared an English officer, who was recovering from "a bit of schrap" in a field hospital. "I was wounded when we captured him, and he carried me for about half a mile. 'This war is the greatest crime the world has ever known'—'Yes, sir,' the officer insisted, 'that is what the Boche said.' 'The crimes of the beasts who are running Germany today are unspeakable. They were all thieves and brigands when the war started, but now they're the bloodiest murderers, by wholesale, the world ever produced. They know perfectly well they've lost the war, but they're frightened out of their own miserable skins to admit it and call a halt; and because they are frightened of what the people might do when they learn the truth.'"

The Quinine That Does Not Affect The Head Because of its tonic and laxative effect, LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE is better than ordinary Quinine and does not cause nervousness nor ringing in the head. Remember the full name and look for the signature of R. W. GROVE. 25c.

Formaldehyde For Bloat.

W. A. McPherson of Powers county, tells how he fixed a case of bloat: "A neighbor came to me the other day and said very anxiously, 'say, did you ever stick a cow?' One of mine is bloated; she was down and I thought she would die anyway. Won't you come over and help me?' I had never stuck a cow, but I had read that formaldehyde was a good remedy in case of bloat. I had some formaldehyde, a two-inch syringe and some iodine. I went with him to where the cow was lying. She was sure enough down. I told him to get me a gallon of water and I poured into it about an ounce of formaldehyde and with the syringe began pumping the mixture into her stomach. I didn't know what the result would be, but though I could not kill her any quicker than it would take her to die anyway. But, behold a miracle. I had not used over six ounces of the mixture when the cow belched and got up. I then treated with iodine the wound he had made in sticking her. Using a smaller syringe I injected the iodine into the wound. I left what remained of the mixture with him. A few days after he called and told me that the next day after I was there another cow became bloated and he had used only a small portion of the formaldehyde mixture to cure her; also that the iodine had proved a wonderful healing remedy. I was very glad to be the means of saving two cows and the remedy will be equally beneficial in other cases."—Field and Farm.

Nan of Music Mountain

By FRANK H. SPEARMAN Author of "WHISPERING SMITH"

(Copyright by Charles Scribner's Sons)

slowly dying man his last trail across the desert. He still struggled to keep alive, by sheer will power, flickering sparks of consciousness, and to do so concentrated every thought on Nan. It was a poignant happiness to summon her picture to his fainting senses; he knew he should hold to life as long as he could think of her. Love, stronger than death, welled in his heart. The bitter cold and the merciless wind were kinder as he called her image from out of the storm. She seemed to speak—to lift him on her arms. Ahead, distant mountains rose, white-peaked. The sun shone. He rode with her through green fields, and a great peace rested on his weary senses.

Lady Jane, pushing on and on, enlightened by that instinct before which the reason of man is weak and pitiful, seeing, as it were, through the impenetrable curtain of the storm where refuge lay, herself a slow-moving crust of frozen snow, dragged to her journey's end—to the tight-shut doors of the Calabasas barn—her unconscious burden, and stood before them patiently waiting until someone should open for her. It was one of the heartbreaks of tragic day that no one ever knew just when the Lady reached the door on how long she and her...

in the office to walk moodily to the window, brought the men tumbling over one another as he ran from his companions to throw open the outer door and pull the drooping horse into the barn.

It was the Indian, Scott, who, reading first of all the men everything in the dread story, sprang forward with a stifled exclamation, as the horse dragged in the snow-covered log, whipped a knife from his pocket, cut the incumbered arm and white hand free from the whiffletree, and, carrying the stiffened body into the office, began with insane haste to cut away the clothing.

Lefever, perceiving it was De Spain thus drawn to their feet, shouted, while he tore from the blade of Scott's knife the frozen garments, the orders for the snow, the heated water, the warm blankets, the alcohol and brandy, and, stripped to his waist, chafed the marble feet. The Indian, better than a staff of doctors, used the cunning of a sorcerer to revive the spark of inanimate life not yet extinguished by the storm. A fearful interval of suspense followed the silence into which the work settled, a silence broken only by the footsteps of men running to and from the couch over which Scott, Lefever and McAlpin, half-naked, worked in mad concert.

De Spain opened his eyes to wander from one to the other of the faces. He half rose up, struggling in a frenzy with the hands that restrained him. While his companions pleaded to quiet him, he fought them until, restored to its seat of reason, his mind reasserted itself, and, lying exhausted, he told them in his exquisite torture of whom he had left, and what must be done to find and bring them in.

While the relief wagons, equipped with straining teams and flanked by veteran horsemen, were dashing out of the barn, he lapsed into unconsciousness. But he had been able to hold Scott's hand long enough to tell him he must find Nan and bring her in, or never come back.

It was Scott who found her. In their gropings through the blizzard the three had wandered nearer Calabasas than any one of them dreamed. And on the open desert, far south and east of the upper lava beds, it was Scott's horse that put a foot through the bottom of the overturned wagon box. The suspected mound of snow, with the buried horses scrambling to their feet, rose upright at the crash. Duke crouched, half-conscious, under the rude shelter. Lying where he had placed her, saugly between the horses, Scott found Nan. He spoke to her when she opened her staring eyes, picked her up in his arms, called to his companions for the covered wagon, and began to restore her, without a moment of delay, to life. He even promised if she would drink the hateful draft he put to her lips and let him cut away her shoes and leggings and the big coat frozen on her, that in less than an hour she should see Henry de Spain alive and well.

CHAPTER XXXI.

At Sleepy Cat.

Nothing in nature, not even the storm itself, is so cruel as the beauty of the after calm. In the radiance of the sunshine next day De Spain, delirious and muttering, was taken to the hospital at Sleepy Cat. In an adjoining room lay Nan, moaning reproaches at those who were torturing her reluctantly back to life. Day and night the doctors worked over the three. The town, the division, the stagemen and the mountain men watched the outcome of the struggle. From as far as Medicine Bend railroad surgeons came to aid in the fight.

De Spain cost the most acute anxiety. The crust of the battle, after the three lives were held safe, centered on the effort to save De Spain's arm—the one he had chosen to lose, if he must lose one, when he strapped it to the whiffletree. The day the surgeons agreed that if his life were to be saved the arm must come off at the shoulder a gloom fell on the community. In a lifetime of years there can come to the greater part of us but a few days, a few hours, sometimes no more than a single moment, to show of what stuff we are really made. Such a crisis came that day in Nan. Always she had been wheeled more than once into De Spain's room, to sit where she could help woo him back to life. The chief surgeon, in the morning, told

Nan of the decision. In her hospital bed she rose bolt upright. "No," she declared solemnly. "You shan't touch my arm off!"

The surgeon met her rebellion fully. But he told Nan, at last, that De Spain must lose either his arm or his life. "No," she repeated with hesitation and without blanching, "I shan't take off my arm. He shan't take my life."

The blood surged into her cheeks, better bloody and redder than the doctors had been able to bring there—blood as De Spain alone could call it. Nan, with her nurse's help, dressed, joined De Spain, and talked long and earnestly. The doctors laid the situation before him. When they asked him for his decision, he nodded toward Nan. "She will tell you, gentlemen, what we'll do."

And Nan did tell them what the man who had most at stake in the decision would do. Any man could have done as much as that. But Nan did more. She set herself out to save the arm and patient both, and, lest the doctors should change their tactics and move together on the arm surreptitiously, Nan stayed night and day with De Spain, until he was able to make some active use of either arm as to convince her that he and not the surgeons would soon need the most watching.

Afterward when Nan, in some doubt, asked the chaplain whether she was married or single, he obligingly offered to ratify and confirm the desert matrimony.

This affair was the occasion for an extraordinary round-up at Sleepy Cat. Two long-hostile elements—the stage and railroad men and the Calabasas Morgan gap contingent of mountain men, for once at least, fraternized. Warrants were pigeonholed, suspicions suspended, sidearms neglected in the scabbards. The fighting men of both camps, in the presence of a ceremony that united De Spain and Nan Morgan, could not but feel a generous elation. Each party considered that it was contributing to the festivity in the barn and groom and the very day could boast, and no false note disturbed the harmony of the month day.

Gale Morgan, having given up the fight, had left the country. Satisfied Morgan danced till all the platforms in town gave way. John Lefever attended the groom, and Duke Morgan stepped by without compunction, gave the bride. From Medicine Bend, Frank Kennedy brought a notable company of De Spain's early associates for the event. It included Whispering Smith whose visit to Sleepy Cat on this occasion was the first in years; George McCloud, who had come all the way from Omaha to join his early cognates in arms; Wickwire, who had lost one of his taciturn bluntness—and some train dispatchers that the service of the division was crippled for the next day.

A great company of self-appointed retainers gathered behind from all the country, rode behind the richly decorated bridal coach in procession from the church to Jeffrey's house, where the feasts had been prepared. During the reception a modest man dragged from an obscure corner among the guests, was made to take his place next Lefever on the receiving line. It was Bob Scott, and he looked most comfortable until he found a chair to slip unobserved back to the side of the room where the distinguished Medicine Bend contingent, together with McAlpin, Pardlove, Elipaso and Bull Page, slightly inebriated but extremely serious for the grave occasion, appeared vastly uncomfortable together.

The railroad has not yet been built across the sinks to Thief River. But only those who lived in Sleepy Cat in its really wild stage days are entitled to call themselves early settlers or to tell stories more or less authentic about what then happened. The greater number of the Old Guard of that day, as cankering peace gradually asserted itself along the sinks, turned from the stage coach to the railroad coach; some of them may yet be met on the trains in the mountain country. Wherever you happen to find such a one, he will tell you of the days when Superintendent de Spain of the Western division wore a gun in the mountains and used it, when necessary, of his wife's relations.

Whether it was this stern sense of discipline or not that endeared him to the men, these old-timers are, to a man, very loyal to the young couple who united in their marriage the two hostile mountain elements. One, in especial, a white-haired old man, described by the fanciful as a retired outlaw, living yet on Nan's ranch in the gap, always spends his time in town at the De Spain home, where he takes great interest in an active little boy, Morgan de Spain, who waits for his Uncle Duke's coming, and digs into his pockets for rattles captured along the trail from recent hunting rattlesnakes. When his uncle happens to kill a big one—one with twelve or thirteen rings and a button—Morgan uses it to scare his younger sister, Nan. And Duke, secretly rejoicing at his bravado but scolding sharply, helps him adjust the old ammunition belt dragged from the attic, and cuts fresh gashes in it to make it fit the child's waist. His mother doesn't like to see her son in warlike equipment, ambushing little Nan in the way Bob Scott threatens periodically to burn the bell up and throw the old rifles out of the house. But when she sees her nephew and her husband laughing together, she relents. It is only children, after all, that keep the world young. (THE END.)

Will Organize and Direct Kindergarten Training School.

Miss Mabel M. Osgood, a kindergarten educator of Oak Park, Ill., Director of the Kindergarten Training Department of the Milwaukee State Normal College, has been selected by President F. M. Bralley, of the C. I. A. at Denton, according to an announcement from the College this week, to organize and direct the Kindergarten Training School to be opened at the C. I. A. in September.

The new department at the girl's State College will answer what is believed by leading educators to be one of the vital needs in the teachers' training system in Texas, and will be the first school for such training to be established in a State supported institution. In the organization of the school, provision is made for a demonstration class of 25 Denton children to be directed in the forenoons, and for the regular kindergarten training classes in the afternoon. The new department is to be equipped in accordance with the most modern of practical and progressive ideas in kindergarten work, by means of which, with its able organizer, the young women of the State will be enabled to obtain such training as they have been compelled to go North or East for.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Fuqua have been in town for a day or two. Mrs. Fuqua has been and is still quite ill and will leave today for a sojourn at Glen Rose, where she will drink that "elixir of life" from the flowing sulphur wells of that beautiful little town nestled among the hills of old Somervell county. It is a splendid little town and a big, whole-souled people live there and the many friends of the family hope that Mrs. Fuqua's stay there may be effectual in restoring her to her usual good health.

These accounts are alleged to have been "padded". Some of these accounts show that Woodman's hotel and restaurant expenses have been more than $17 per day. Pretty expensive living.

Mr. and Mrs. Jno. B. Howard are the happy parents of a nine pound son, born to them at 12:05 Wednesday morning, ushering in just five minutes after August had begun. Chronic Constipation

It is by no means an easy matter to cure this disease, but it can be done in most cases by taking Chamberlain's Tablets and complying with the plain printed directions that accompany each package.

The meetings which have been held at the fountain for the past five Sundays came to a close Sunday night. These services were well attended and fine sermons delivered by the several pastors of Pecos. At the close Rev. Walker, pastor of the Methodist church, extended a cordial invitation to every one to come to his church on Sunday as all the other pastors will be out of town during the month, and he has promised to keep an eye on their flocks and report when the preachers return. Let every one, and especially the church members do their part to help Bro. Walker have a good report to make, which will make the absent preachers feel good when they get back home.

The girls of Denver, especially those who frequent the bathing places, now tattoo on their arms the initials of their "best fellows" who have answered their country's call. On their dimpled arms they have applied the initials cut out of court plaster and the action of the sun soon leaves the impress of the initials on their shapely limbs. Whether or not the tattooing process is confined to their arms the report does not state.

Army Will Bring Home All Men Who Fall in War

Plan of Philadelphians to Embalm Heroes Approved by the Government

Untiring efforts of two Philadelphians have made it possible for the bringing back to this country for burial, soldiers and marines who may lose their lives while fighting in France. Following the war, every man who is killed abroad will be sent to this country and placed at the disposal of his relatives or friends for interment. Even should the conflict continue for several years it will be possible at that time, under the present plan, to recognize the bodies of the dead heroes.

Memory of the horrible condition of the bodies sent home for burial following the clash between American blue jackets and Mexicans in Vera Cruz several years ago, caused Dr. Howard Eckels, of Wyncote, and Dr. Jay H. Mowbray, of Swarthmore, to devise a plan for caring for the bodies of the soldiers and marines killed in Europe.

Accordingly, a few weeks ago, the American Purple Cross Association was formed and incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia. Dr. Eckels was named director-general; Major Gen. J. Lewis Good, treasurer, and Dr. Mowbray field director. The association's active membership is "limited to those who have made care of bodies their life profession and to those affiliated industries." The trustees and other officers are prominent men of the country, including governors and millionaire officials of large manufacturing plants.

Discovering that no modern system had been devised by Government officials for taking care of the soldier-dead in France, officials of the American Purple Cross Association immediately held a conference with Secretary of War, Baker, and presented a plan that promises to revolutionize and remove one of the most gruesome features from modern warfare.

It was first suggested that the American Purple Cross Association should bear the same relation to the Quartermaster General's Department as the Red Cross does to the Medical Department. Major Gen. Henry G. Sharp, Quartermaster General of the United States Army, greeted the plan with enthusiasm and a series of conferences, covering the best part of a week, were held in his Washington office.

Dr. Eckels and Dr. Mowbray made the following offer to the Government:

"We will furnish such number of embalmers for the preservation of the bodies of soldiers killed in battle or dying in hospitals as you may deem necessary for the purpose.

"We will divide these into such units as you may direct.

"We will equip and train these men.

"We will furnish such number of automobile ambulances as will be necessary for this purpose.

"We will pay all expenses incident to their equipment, and training, transportation and maintenance.

"These will be available for all sanitary work, asking only that these may be allowed to keep their own individual formation.

"If it be your wish that we be incorporated in the army organization, we will arrange to be enlisted as individuals and assigned as you may direct."

Major General Sharp reported favorably upon the recommendations, and shortly afterwards the following letter, signed by Brigadier General H.

He Felt Like Ninety
Nothing makes a person feel old like disordered kidneys. They cause aches and pains all over the body. A. W. Morgan, Angola, La., writes: "Oh, I suffered with pains in my back. I am 43 years old, but I felt like a man 90 years old. Since I took Foley Kidney Pills I feel like I did when I was 21." For sale at Bozeman's Drug Store.—Advt.

P. McClain, Adjutant General of the Army, was received by the officers of the American Purple Cross Association:

"The Secretary of War directs me to inform you that the subject matter of your several communications in regard to an expert body of mortuary specialists for service with our military forces abroad has been given careful consideration. It has been decided that a suitable organization for this force shall be adopted for service in the Quartermasters Corps. The Department is deeply appreciative of your generous and patriotic interest."

The plan of the association has now been accepted and tomorrow Dr. Mowbray and Dr. Eckels will go to Washington for another conference with War Department officials, and it is expected a bill will be drawn up for presentation to Congress for the acceptance of the American Purple Cross Association as an Auxiliary of the Quartermaster General's Department.

Although no official announcement has been made, it is said that the presidency of the organization will be offered to President Wilson; that Secretary Baker and Secretary Daniels will be named as vice-presidents, and that either the Treasurer of the United States or some other high Government official will be selected as the treasurer, who will handle the funds.

"Right now we have more than $150,000 pledged for carrying forward our plan," declared Dr. Mowbray, "and we can easily raise $10,000,000 as soon as Congress places the stamp of approval upon our plan."

"The bodies will be embalmed in the first line trenches or as close to them as possible. Then they will be taken from the battle line and interred until after the war. By our up-to-date process they will be recognizable for years and will be in a splendid state of preservation when brought to this country."

The American Purple Cross movement has received nationwide endorsement. Both of the branches of the Pennsylvania Legislature have unanimously passed resolutions calling upon the War Department to accept the offer, at least as far as it may apply to troops enlisted in or furnished by the State of Pennsylvania.

Personal assurances, letters, and telegrams have been received from the governors of a dozen states, endorsing this work. The Governor of Missouri has personally written to the Secretary of War urging the vital importance of this work, has offered to resign his Governorship and go to France if it be the judgment of the President that he could be of greater service there than in his present office.

WORRY, DESPONDENCY.
Kidney Disease is suspected by medical men when patients complain of backache or suffer with irregular urination, disturbed, too frequent, scanty or painful passage. The general symptoms are rheumatic pains or neuralgia, headaches, lumbago, irritability, despondency, weakness and general misery. Worry is a frequent cause and sometimes a symptom of kidney disease. Many of your neighbors have testified to immediate relief from these symptoms after using Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets for kidneys and backache. Druggists in town are now supplied.
From personal observation in large hospital practice, Dr. Pierce knows "Anuric" will give you speedy help if you are suffering from uric acid trouble, and to show his faith send 10c. to Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, and you'll receive a large trial pkg. of "Anuric." "Anuric" dissolves uric acid as hot water melts sugar and Dr. Pierce has thoroughly tested it in his hospital and found it 37 times more potent than lithia.
