

FIRST ACTION UPON PECOS RIVER WATER PROJECT IS TAKEN

El Paso, Nov. 23.—Investigations being conducted by the United States Reclamation Service into the feasibility of building a storage reservoir on the Pecos River, north of Pecos, Texas, are expected to result in recommendations that the project will be built according to Vernon L. Sullivan, chairman of the executive committee of the Pecos Valley Water Users' Association, who has been conferring with reclamation officials. The project will irrigate 100,000 acres of land in West Texas, and if the investigations come up to expectations, the suit Texas is planning against New Mexico in the Supreme Court of the United States will be dropped, Sullivan said.

The sum of $10,000 was raised by the farmers recently along the Texas section of the Pecos to finance the development investigations.

Sullivan will leave Saturday for Washington to confer with Department of the Interior officials in regard to the proposition. For years the farmers along the Pecos in West Texas have protested against the diversion of water from that river by irrigation projects north of them in New Mexico. The protests became so insistent that the Attorney General of Texas was authorized to investigate the claims of the Texas farmers and was preparing a suit to be filed in the Supreme Court of the United States had not the proposal of constructing a storage dam at Red Bluff been accepted. This reservoir, as proposed, would store 500,000 acre-feet and take care of all the nine projects suffering for a lack of water in Texas and would not injure the interests of irrigated lands along the Pecos in New Mexico. Sullivan says the reservoir would cost about $2,000,000.

There are nine projects along the Pecos in Texas, seven of which are in the Pecos Valley Water Users' Association of Texas. The seven are: Ward County Improvement District No. 1, Ward County Improvement District No. 2, the Zimmerman project, the Imperial project, the Porterville project, the Cedarvale project, the Farmers' Independent project. The two others are small. The proposed project would irrigate 100,000 acres of the 150,000 acres in the nine projects.

GAMBLERS CAPTURED IN CHICAGO RAIDS FREED BY COURT

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Chief of Police Fitzmorris, who is making an honest, earnest effort to clear the city of criminals, and law-abiding citizens who are back of him and applauded the great drive Sunday which brought nearly 1,000 gamblers and crooks into the police, were amazed and disgusted when they saw this splendid effort nullified. In the one big case which the police hoped to be the base of the war on gambling, the case of Charles Lazarus, owner of Chicago's "Monte Carlo," Judge Richardson imposed a fine of $25 and costs, the minimum under the city ordinance. Lazarus entered a plea of guilty. Slips seized in the raid of his luxurious gambling den showed as much as $51,171 had changed hands in his resort in a single night.

There were many slips among the records showing the "house" had won $15,415 on one night, $23,669 on another, $9,200 on each of two other nights. There were records of single winnings by patrons ranging from $4,200 to $10,500.

When court was opened the room was jammed with preferential bondsmen attorneys, politicians and friends of the gamblers and crooks, all prepared to get them out of the toils of the law. After the fine of $25 had been plastered on Lazarus, the King pin of the lot, the police threw up their hands in despair. Seventeen inmates seized in the notorious resort of Lovin Putty's place were dismissed for "lack of evidence."

Many other proprietors of vicious gambling dens and resorts frequented by criminals were given minimum fines and the inmates dismissed. Two men picked up in the great raid were wanted for murder, but the police were unable to hold them in custody.

Nicholas Denelias (Nick the Greek) captured in a resort where three roulette wheels were in full operation, was dismissed by Judge Richardson without any fine whatever. It was said Nick had $110,000 tucked inside his shirt when he came into court, expecting a heavy fine. Probably he was as much amazed as were the police by the extreme leniency of the court.

WOULD FINISH CANAL AND CONNECT MEXICO

"The greatest food producing area of the United States in future years will lie along the Gulf Coast of Texas and in the Rio Grande valley," said James Z. George, vice-president and general manager of the Texas Chamber of Commerce, before the gathering of the Interstate Coastal Canal Association at Galveston a few days ago.

J. S. Cullinan, president of the Texas Chamber, and Walton Petzet, manager of the state chamber's agricultural department, also appeared before the gathering and urged the completion of the project as a means of developing the adjacent country by opening up a new lane of transportation.

The Sabine-New Orleans section of the canal has already been completed. When finished the canal will stretch from New Orleans to Point Isabel opening a protected waterway from the mouth of the Rio Grande to the Mississippi river and thence to points throughout the interior of the United States.

Mr. Petzet told the gathering of his recent visits to the Rio Grande valley and of the possibilities of development which he saw there which, in his opinion, hinges largely upon greater transportation facilities.

JAPANESE INVASION THREATENS TEXAS

Washington, Nov. 20.—Texas is threatened by an invasion of Japanese, according to Congressman Box of Jacksonville, Texas, member of the House Immigration Committee, who has returned to Washington after investigating immigration conditions at New York.

The Texan in a statement Saturday night expressed the fear that unless steps are taken to check the flood of immigration now entering the United States, this Nation will be filled "with a mongrel throng" which will debase citizenship. Box favors a complete temporary check on immigration until steps can be taken to Americanize the large foreign population of this country.

His statement follows: "The Japanese problem on the Pacific Coast is merely a special and acute phase of the general immigration situation now involving the whole country and Europeans are now coming at the rate of a million per year. Authentic advices from private and official sources leave no doubt that tens of millions are trying to come from Poland, Italy, Austria, Germany, Spain, and other countries.

"They are standing in lines extending blocks in some European cities, waiting to get our consuls to vize their passports to America. All ships are crowded and cannot bring 25 per cent of those who want to come. All available vessels are rushing back and forth, coming loaded to the limit with immigrants. The construction of new vessels for this traffic is being rushed. We were told that one company is hastily constructing twenty of these new immigrant ships.

"Five to ten thousand often arrive at Ellis Island in a single day. The accommodations and force there are overwhelmed and there is no doubt that the congestion will get worse.

"I talked with many immigrants, usually through interpreters, and with many persons returning from Europe, in many parts of which there is a seething mass of wretchedness, persecution, near anarchy and Bolshevism from which the people are flying as from the pestilence of fire and sword.—Leo R. Sack, in Ft. Worth Star-Telegram.

TRANS-PECOS STILL ON JOB DRILLING

The Trans-Pecos Oil Co. drilling on section 206, block 34, Ward county, about one mile from the Arthur-Pitts Oil Co.'s Soda Lake well, have made excellent progress the past week, according to O'Reilly, who is in charge. The tools which were dropped in the hole Friday were recovered two days later and drilling was resumed immediately.

This well is attracting considerable local attention as there are many Pecos residents interested in lands adjoining. R. J. O'Reilly, treasurer of the company, returned from the east last week and has been on the job day and night since then, doing everything possible to get the well down to the oil sand. This company has had a crew on the job continuously since they spudded in and notwithstanding the fact that many obstacles were encountered, they have persevered until all their troubles were eliminated.

The location of this well, according to oil men of practical field experience, and geologists who have visited the Trans-Pecos Oil Co. well, is considered ideal and there is great hopes entertained that in the near future this enterprising company will bring in a big well as a reward for the untiring efforts of their treasurer and the men associated with him.

SULPHUR COMPANY IS MAKING GOOD TIME

Cole Salling, field manager of the Toyah Valley Sulphur Co. was in town this week and made The Enterprise editor a pleasant visit, giving the editor a pressing invitation to come and note the improvements going on and shoot ducks for a few days. Mr. Salling says they are as busy as bees out there putting in machinery and getting ready for refining the sulphur and by-products and that they will be shipping the products now in a very short time. Mr. Salling is a pleasant gentleman and has had vast experience in development work and is pushing his work at the mines and at the same time putting in the improvements to stay. By the first of the year this company will be shipping out stuff, maybe before that time, and bringing money into the country. As it is they are spending a lot of money getting ready but when in operation this will be one of the greatest industries in this section of the country.

GETS CONSIGNMENT FROM FISH HATCHERY

A shipment of fish from the State fish hatcheries at Dallas came in yesterday consigned to W. W. Stewart at Balmorhea. C. C. Boyd and Johnnie Wilson were here to receive them and transport them to the big reservoir at the Head Springs on Toyah Creek.

They came in the ordinary big milk cans with holes punched in the lids and there were nine of these cans. The Enterprise was unable to learn just how many fish were in the shipment nor the kinds but there were several varieties.

Evidently Representative W. W. Stewart is at the head of this laudable move as he is at everything else which will make Toyah Valley more attractive. These fish grow rapidly and in a very few years from now there will be no better fishing anywhere than will be the big reservoir at the Head Springs.

REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN EXPENSE $4,022,580.09

Washington, Nov. 22.—Campaign expenditures of the Republican National Committee between June 14 and Nov. 19 totaled $4,022,580.09, and receipts amounted to $3,833,153.14, according to a final report received today by the clerk of the House of Representatives from Fred R. Upham, treasurer of the committee. The report indicated that the committee had incurred a deficit of $189,428.95.

RULES FOR CHRISTMAS PARCELS TO SOLDIERS

New limitations on the weight and size of Christmas packages for soldiers stationed in Germany, Porto Rico and the Panama Canal zone were fixed yesterday by the quartermaster general. Packages for Porto Rico must not weigh more than 50 pounds or have a combined length and girth of more than 84 inches; packages for Panama must not exceed 72 inches in length and girth, and packages for the army in Germany must not weigh more than 25 pounds or have a combined length and girth of more than 84 inches.

TWO FIRES FOR PECOS THIS WEEK'S RECORD

One of the most disastrous fires which has occurred in Pecos in over a year was that which consumed the Leavell rooming house on Sunday night. The Enterprise understands the fire was first discovered by workers at the Pecos gin who ran to give the alarm and awake the occupants. The fire was discovered about 3 o'clock in the morning and caught in the roof and none of the occupants of the house knew of their danger until notified by those giving the alarm, and as the fire made good headway and the roof was in the act of falling in the occupants barely had time to escape and lost everything. A very few things were saved from the flames.

No one seems to know how the fire originated unless from a defective flue.

There were four families occupying this apartment house, which was one of the most commodious, best furnished and closest in of any in the city and has always been popular as a rooming house. Jack Woods, the owner, carried, it is understood, some insurance but nothing to compare with the loss sustained.

The Pecos Volunteer Fire Department was on the ground " pronto" but the flames had gained such headway that it was impossible to save the building and all efforts were put forth to confine the flames to this one structure, which was successfully accomplished.

Monday night the fire alarm was again sounded and the fire department made a mad rush for the place which could not be found by them until, in the language of Chief Mahan, "forty-nine of the Ross boys had extinguished the flames." This fire was just north of the High school building and north of the T. & P. tracks and a slight hole in the roof was the extent of the damage.

THIEVES STEAL SUIT CASE FROM MINT CAFE

A travelingman walked in the Mint Cafe this morning and pitched his suitcase alongside the counter. When he returned a few hours later, it was gone. Deputy Sheriff Middleton is out searching the country as a result this morning in the hopes of finding two well dressed young men whom it is known took the suitcase.

LOS-PECOS WELL READY TO DRILL WITH ROTARY

The Los-Pecos Syndicate well, sub. 6, NW 1-4 20, Reeves county, has completed its standard 84-foot derrick and now has on the ground a complete rotary drilling outfit capable of going down 3,500 feet. Mr. Bell informs The Enterprise that they will have the machinery installed and be ready for drilling in about ten days or possible two weeks.

Mr. Bell is a hustler and knows the field as well as anyone in the field and understands what it will take for quick action. He says the rotary is the proper machine for the formation on the site of his well and promises to make the quickest time in putting down a well yet recorded in the Pecos field. He is very enthusiastic and is firm in his belief that he will yet be able to bring in the first real oil well in this territory. The rotary will be put in first class shape and there will be no reason, he says, for delays or mishaps. He says he has as fine a location as there is in the field and is as firm in his belief that he will get oil in paying quantities as he is that he is wearing whiskers and working like a Trojan to get things started.

The Enterprise wishes him much success and is as firm in the belief that the Los-Pecos will be a producer when put down to the proper depth as is Mr. Bell.

Theford's Black-Draught Highly Recommended by a Tennessee Grocer for Troubles Resulting from Torpid Liver.

East Nashville, Tenn.—The efficiency of Theford's Black-Draught, the genuine, herb, liver medicine, is vouchsafed for by Mr. W. N. Parsons, a grocer of this city. "It is without doubt the best liver medicine, and I don't believe I could get along without it. I take it for sour stomach, headache, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver."

"I have known and used it for years, and can and do highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all it claims to do. I can't say enough for it."

Many other men and women throughout the country have found Black-Draught just as Mr. Parsons describes—valuable in regulating the liver to its normal functions, and in cleansing the bowels of impurities.

Theford's Black-Draught-liver medicine is the original and only genuine. Accept no imitations or substitutes. Always ask for Theford's. E 23

LIFT CORNS OR CALLUSES OFF

Doesn't hurt! Lift any corn or callus off with fingers

Don't suffer! A tiny bottle of 'Freezone' costs but a few cents at any drug store. Apply a few drops on the corns, calluses and "hard skin" on bottom of feet, then lift them off.

When Freezone removes corns from the toes or calluses from the bottom of the feet the skin beneath is left pink and healthy and never sore, tender or irritated.

BE RID OF THAT ACHE

If you are a sufferer with lame back, backache, dizziness, nervousness and kidney disorders, why don't you try the remedy that your own neighbors recommend?

Mrs. John DeRacy, Pecos, gave the following statement October 23, 1915: "I was troubled for a long time with my kidneys. My back was weak and lame and hurt me with a dull constant ache. I was tired and languid and had dizzy spells and headaches. Black spots often seemed to float before my eyes. I was also bothered with my kidneys acting irregularly. I heard a lot about Doan's Kidney Pills and decided to try them. I got some at the Pecos Drug Co., Inc., and it only took two boxes to cure me. I haven't been bothered since."

LASTING RESULTS.
On April 7, 1919, Mrs. DeRacy said: "I haven't needed Doan's Kidney Pills since I recommended them in 1915 for the cure they gave me has lasted. I have been in fine health."

EXPERIMENT STATIONS BEING ACKNOWLEDGED

The Panhandle and South Plains Fair recently held in Lubbock, drew forth exhibits from Lubbock and several adjacent counties which very vividly portrayed the agricultural possibilities of the South Plains region. This is a section which only a few years ago was thought suitable only for grazing, though a few farmers planted millet and the old giant maize, usually with indifferent success. Now one finds a splendid safe farming region, in all directions from Lubbock, devoted to crops whose adaptability has been demonstrated.

Broad acres of dwarf milo, spur feterita, sudan grass, alfalfa and numerous varieties of other sorghums and forage plants, bear eloquent testimony of a winning fight to bring success where failure seemed inevitable to all but the most far seeing ones. These magnificent showings of West Texas products at the fairs this year, should be very gratifying to those who remember the difficulties under which the experiments were begun and the vicissitudes through which they passed before successful varieties were discovered or developed and suitable tillage adopted.

A recent issue of the Lubbock Avalanche carried a column editorial news story of the Lubbock Substation of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, A. & M. College.

From the viewpoint of an interested citizen, the editor writes feelingly of the tremendous benefits accruing to the plains region from the scientific research work being carried on at the station under the direction of Mr. R. E. Karper, the Superintendent. A brief history is recited from the date of the deed, January 10, 1910, from F. E. Wheelock, to the state of Texas, carrying title to 160 acres of ground, for cash consideration of $4,000, paid by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, the purpose being the establishment of an Agricultural Experiment Station under the act of the Legislature of Texas, approved April 21, 1909. Mention is made of contributions to the Chamber of Commerce by interested citizens, of the money required to buy the land, which was located two and one-half miles east of the city of Lubbock on average soil of the South Plains section.

Outstanding features of the work being done at the station are catalogued including mention of the grain sorghum row test, involving a comparative trial of a given number of individual rows planted from different heads of the same variety to find and isolate high producing strains; also a rate of seeding test for this locality; exhaustive tests to determine the characteristics of a high producing head so the farmer may be able to recognize the best types when making seed selections; and alfalfa tests showing this crop is best raised in this section by planting in three-foot rows, using five pounds of seed per acre and is yielding this year, about two tons of hay and $75 worth of seed per acre, after having withstood the recent severe drouth without irrigation.

Special mention is made of the large nursery in which the station is propagating ornamental and shade trees as well as fruit trees, all grown for the purpose of determining those best adapted to the section, and which, when found useful, are distributed to encourage the growing of orchards, shades and windbreaks. A valuable find in the trees already noted, is the Chinese Elm, which seems to surpass the Black Locust in rapid growth and hardiness, as well as in beauty. The editor concludes with an admonition which might well be extended to every citizen in the state of Texas, for there are fourteen of these stations in as many different regions, some of which, is solving the special problem of practically any farm or orchard or ranch in Texas. He says: "Lest we forget, and due to the number of our citizens, who have recently moved to this section and purchased rural or city homes, and who are not aware of this institution and the invaluable service which it places at their disposal, we deem it both fitting and proper, that we all accord this station and its undertakings and achievements, a small portion of the credit which it merits at the hands of our citizens. A visit there will make a trip that will linger long in your memory and afford you a much clearer conception of the value of the work being done there, as well as the present and future possibilities and opportunities offered by our county and the plains section generally, and we feel sure that you will agree with us, when you have seen this station and its work, that it is an investment which has paid for itself many times over."

Experiment Stations have developed and introduced a number of plants, adapted to West Texas conditions, including the distribution of dwarf milo, which far outyields the old giant milo, or even the standard which was itself a progress in the stage of development of the desirable type. Then sudan grass was introduced by the stations and proved ideal as a forage plant and supplanting millet. The station at Lubbock, was able to be of considerable assistance in the distribution of pure seed of sudan and the Lubbock region became famous as a sudan seed center. Feterita was another introduction by the stations and a development at the Spur station of Spur Feterita, an improved type, served to bring this useful grain sorghum into popularity. Alfalfa had not been successful, except under irrigation, but the station at Lubbock solved the problem by showing it does succeed splendidly in three-foot rows. Alfalfa was carried through the drouth at the station and is yielding profitable crops of both seed and hay as well as grazing for hogs. Cotton had succeeded indifferently until proper variety selections were made; and possible selections under local environment promise well for further improvement; and even now, a long staple cotton, Durango, has been successfully grown at the station under winter irrigation, yielding in 1919, two bales on an acre and a half and one of the bales was of high enough quality to sell at 85c per pound in the New Orleans market when ordinary average staple cotton was selling around 40c. This variety is being widely grown, even under dry land conditions, but the station has urged that it be grown only when some supplemental irrigation can be supplied, to insure an outstanding quality of staple. Thousands of tests and experiments at the station have demonstrated not only what is likely to be successful, but also some things not likely to be successful. The farmers have not been slow to watch these experiments and take their cue. The exhibits at this great fair prove this; for the major part of them were of crops the station has aided in introducing.

The writer enjoyed interviewing the farmers at the fair. They told him, without exception, that the experiment station is to be credited as the sponsor of a large portion of the gorgeous exhibits, but some of them, growing confidential, told him it had not always been understood by many farmers just what the station was for. It seems that for a time men were afraid to visit the station for fear of being troublesome or thought intruders but they gradually learned that they are always welcome and that driveways have been made so they can observe the experiments conveniently. They sometimes thought the Experiment Station was failing because some experimental plot showed a lower yield than some of their own crops; but they soon came to know that most of the experimental plots are not grown for quantity production but for comparative studies. Some seemed to think the station was for the benefit of Lubbock and Lubbock county and were wishing they had one; but they are coming to know that the station is for every farmer in Texas or anywhere else, who can profit from the research work being carried on there. This growing understanding accounts for three counties joining in the progress march and taking part in this exhibition of the productivity of the plains under scientific agriculture. The more optimistic of those interviewed, predicted that soon the Lubbock station will be the mecca of farmers from all that part of the state, adapted to the growing of crops demonstrated at the station. They also think, there will arise an increasing demand for the bulletins of the station, so that farmers may have detailed information as to the results of its experiments. They say the papers of the region are active in printing information developed at the station and seemed pleased to learn that the press is to be given more of this sort of news now that the demoralization caused by the war is waning.

An interesting viewpoint, which seemed general among those interviewed, was the idea of economy in having an experiment station to try out questionable crops at public expense so that hundreds of farmers might learn the results without going themselves to the expense and detail of making the tests even when they are equipped to make same, scientifically. They also seemed alive to the danger of an occasional visitor jumping to conclusions which are not justified and which the station has not reached, in fact, but is simply in process of developing. Most of them seem to have learned that it is proper to await the announcement of the Superintendent as to the results of an experiment.—O. D. Jackson.

EXPLAINING SUCCESS

The Nation's Business: Most of the involved explanations we see in print about why one business is a great success and another a failure are pure humbug. One man or one business succeeds, while another fails largely because of superior ability, or greater opportunity, or a happy combination of the two, and that is about all there is to it.

In a score of ways we may note how seriously people take that which is successful. Let a theatre put up a sign that tickets are to be had only for performances three weeks in advance and a crowd will form in line for two blocks trying to reach the box office. One restaurant man hit on the scheme of never having quite enough tables to take care of his crowds. At a season of the year when the crowds were larger he had more tables, but never quite enough. A few people always had to stand a little while before obtaining seats. In this way customers got the impression that they were in on something especially good, because it appeared that the demand exceeded the supply.

Fooling Himself!

This skinny critter is busy at making himself believe he is a fat steer! But his delusion is no more complete than that of the farmer who thinks he saves money by raising cheap scrubs. These days, when the margin between feed cost and selling price on the hoof is uncertain, there is on y one economical kind of steer—the pure-bred. His superiority over the scrub can be measured in size, in quality, in pounds of beef for pounds of feed consumed—and finally in dollars on the credit side of the farm ledger.

In a series of advertisements in this newspaper, we shall demonstrate that pure-breds make the beef for which the packer pays the highest price. They are your big money-makers when the market is up, your surest source of profit when it drops.

For this publicity in the interest of pure-bred beef cattle, we are indebted to THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN. If you are now a reader you know its frequent helpful articles on better beef cattle, and its many fact-stories of successful farmers who have prospered from the steadily increasing demand for pure-bred breeding stock.

If you are not a subscriber, let THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN enroll you along with the rest of its progressive farmer subscribers. Fifty-two issues of a year's subscription come for just $1.00. Yes, your check is good.

HOGS PAY BIG MONEY

Mr. Pete Wing of Hawk Point, Mo., made a lot of money out of his hogs. He says: "I fed them Dr. LeGear's Hog Prescription. It has given wonderful results in putting gains on them with less feed. They were on heavy feed for only a month; averaged a gain of 2 1/2 pounds daily, and were only 7 months, 10 days old, when sold."

Mr. Wing profited by the advice of Dr. LeGear, Graduate Veterinarian and Expert Poultry Breeder of 23 years' standing. Dr. LeGear's Hog Prescription will put weight on your hogs also, because it expels worms, purifies the blood and conditions them so that they gain flesh on less feed.

It makes no difference what ailment is prevalent among your stock or poultry, it is money in your pocket to get the proper Dr. LeGear Remedy from your dealer, on a satisfaction or money back offer.

CATTLEMEN SUFFER INCREASED BURDENS

The path of the cattle raiser is not as smooth now as it used to be. In fact the cattle producer has always earned his money. But the increases of everything that touches the cattle on their way to market, even after they have been produced, has come so regular and so fast that the sale price does not leave anything for the producer. Everybody is going into the cowman's pockets, it seems. Freight rates were advanced a maximum of $15 a car during the war. Now comes the additional raise in freight, making it an awful climb over pre-war prices. Cattle going through the yards at El Paso to Kansas City have to pay increased prices on feed. The yards at El Paso claim it a necessity to sustain the expense of furnishing a facility for handling cattle, and also charge 30c per head for all sales made at the yards of cattle excepting calves, which pay only 20c, and there is no doubt that they must get a revenue for maintenance from some place. The commission man at the big centers has increased the price per car for handling and selling the cattle and there are yardage fees to pay, but the freight rate has broken the record. It looks like the cowman has been hit all along the line in order to make the other man's business self-sustaining, but there is no one to go back on but the consumer, and he has such a big profit to pay the retailer over the price of beef on beef that the retailer, as far as prices are concerned, could never know that cattle prices have declined at the market centers.

Coming down more explicitly to freight rates. At pre-war times it cost $115.50 freight to send a car of cattle from El Paso to Kansas City. The rate on this car was raised to $130.50 during the war with an extra 3 per cent tacked on as war tax. By the late order of the Interstate Railroad Commission, the freight on this car has been increased to $174 and war tax. This is a raise of $2.00 per head or about this on a car of cattle, from El Paso to Kansas City, which we take as showing the advance on all cattle shipments.

An inquiry from a northern Arizona shipper to one of our local commission men who desired to make a shipment of ordinary cows from that point to Kansas City, has developed the fact that it will cost this Arizona shipper just about $10 per head to market these cattle in Kansas City, regardless of price.

We give these few facts in order to show that cattle prices must come up. We believe they will do so, and that the public is going to have to pay dear for the decline in the financial facilities offered to cattlemen, whereby they could use the vast tracts of grazing land now nonproductive, by purchasing the young stuff and cows being thrown on the market, and also to overcome the increased cost of marketing.—El Paso Livestock Journal.

TO INVESTIGATE PINK BOLL WORM IN MEXICO

With the approval and by the request of Governor W. P. Hobby, the Texas Chamber of Commerce will appoint a committee representative of all branches of the cotton industry, to visit the cotton growing districts of Torreon, Mexico, and make a careful investigation of the damage done by the pink boll worm during the past season. The results of this investigation will be laid before the people of Texas for their guidance in further dealing with this infestation.

Correspondence to the Texas Chamber of Commerce from responsible concerns either interested in, or who have recently visited the Laguna district of Mexico, confirms the report that the ravages of the pest has been very severe this year. Since the damage done to cotton in that district has been the basis of much of the apprehension over the appearance of the pink boll worm in Texas, the agricultural department of the Texas Chamber of Commerce has taken the lead in making this investigation.

The committee will assemble at San Antonio, November 26, and the trip to Mexico will consume about twelve days. Five of the following organizations have already agreed to send representatives while the other five have not been heard from: Texas Chamber of Commerce, Texas Division of American Cotton Association, Texas Farmers' Union, United Cotton Growers' Association, Texas Farm Bureau Federation, Texas Cotton Seed Crushers' Association, Texas Ginners' Association, Texas Cotton Association, Texas Bankers' Association, and Farmers' Protective Association.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE IS HEALTH INSURANCE

Tuberculosis, in terms of "dollars and cents" cost Texas over $40,000,000 in 1919. This is the statement issued by the Texas Public Health Association, which declares that this is a very conservative estimate.

Scientists have estimated that the minimum economic value of a life is $1,700, and since 3,396 deaths in Texas from tuberculosis were reported in 1919, the economic value of lives lost from the white plague would be $5,773,200. The loss in earnings was figured to be $10,875,900 last year; while the cost of medical attention, nursing and medicine for the thousands of cases was estimated as $25,518,975. This would make the total loss to the state $42,168,075.

"The $200,000 which the Texas Public Health Association and its local tuberculosis societies over the state are to raise through the sale of Christmas seals, December 1 to 11, is health insurance for the people of the state against tuberculosis," declared D. E. Breed, executive secretary of the Association.

"We are supporting tuberculosis clinics, dispensaries, and children's summer camps; working for more hospitals and sanatoria; directing the Modern Health Crusade which brings lessons of health to thousands of Texas children every year; sending out nurses to examine school children and demonstrate school and community nursing; forming health societies among Mexicans and negroes; making tuberculosis surveys; establishing local anti-tuberculosis societies; sending out thousands of pieces of health literature, furnishing speakers and lecturers on health, and much other work."

The association is directing the sale of 20,000 Christmas seals in Texas, December 1 to 11.

Product of the Toyah Refinery In Great Demand

Ivan C. Bell, sales manager of the Toyah Oil and Refining company, returned Saturday evening, from a trip which took him only as far east as Colorado City, Texas, with orders which will keep the little refining plant busy for weeks, and with a number of ideas regarding the enlargement and improvement of the refinery to a point where it may be put in position to keep pace with the demand for its product which will follow.

"I confined my solicitation of business to larger users," said Mr. Bell, "and permitted them to submit my samples to every known test. In other words I let the oil sell itself to men who were familiar with lubricants and knew what they wanted in the lubricant line."

"As a result of the severe tests made in one office at which I called, I could have sold many times the output of our plant and at our own price. When I explained why we could not take the order the manager said he would be glad to have us fill the requirements of as many of his plants as we could supply while putting ourselves in position to take over the whole order."

Washington, Nov. 22.—Economic conditions in Cuba at present, compelling measures such as President Menocal's moratorium decree, are in sharp contrast to those described in the following communication to the National Geographical Society by William Joseph Showalter, who visited the island during the crest of its prosperity wave:

"Almost every person who visits
Cuba on pleasure bent lands in Havana, and comparatively few get more than twenty miles away from that city's central park.

"If New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and Washington were consolidated, the resulting metropolis would bear about the same relation to the United States that Havana bears to Cuba. The capital city is the home of more people than are embraced in the combined populations of all the other cities and towns of the Republic that have more than 4,000 inhabitants. Its closest rival is Santiago, but that city has only one-tenth as many people.

"As half the country's urban population is centered in Havana, so also is half of its shipping. The city normally handles a greater foreign tonnage than any other port in the Western Hemisphere except New York.

"Most of Cuba's wealthy families have Havana homes. During the last four years the net profits of the sugar business have probably exceeded the gross returns of any other four-year period in the history of the island.

"The result is that perhaps no other city in the whole world has proportionately as large a wealthy population as Havana.

"Out of these conditions grew a situation where dollars were even cheaper than they are now in the United States. Tens of thousands of acres of land were laid out in residence sites, and the Vedado district,
the Riverside Drive and the Sheridan Road of Havana, was extended until it reached farther from the Prado than Riverside Drive from New York's City Hall Square or Sheridan Road from Chicago's Loop.

"There are no advertising signs on these lots. But as one motor along one sees nestling close to the ground inconspicuous little boards, about a foot long and a half a foot wide, bearing the legend in Spanish "Sold to Mr. So and So. And Mr. So and So is usually some Cuban who made a fortune out of sugar down in the provinces and come up to the capital for the social season. If not that, he is probably an American who likes to be reasonably near the country clubs, and prefers to live where the cocktail has not lost its legal status.
The price of the lots was from one to three dollars a square foot or from $43,000 to $130,000 per acre.

"If high prices hit those to whom Havana is home, it was, of course, natural that they should strike the transient even more forcibly. Hotels everywhere are always the ad-vanceguard in the price climb, and those in Cuba have been no exception.

"There is only one hotel in Havana that gives anything like the American standard of service, and its rates during the past season were $25 a day for an outside room with bath, without meals. It pur-posed to cater only to those to whom prices are no object; but that sort of patronage failed to develop in sufficient volume to maintain a full house.

"The other hotels charged rates
of from $6 to $12 for accommodations far from as good as one gets at from $3 to $6 in New York. The result was that many people who came to spend a week or ten days moved up their return dates considerably, and the tourist population changed on the average every four days.

"According to figures furnished
the writer by the Cuban Department of Agriculture, much land produces 22 bags of sugar to the acre. This, at 15c a pound, brings a gross return of more than $1,000 an acre.

"These conditions brought about the unprecedented boom in sugar lands. One sugar estate, which was bought some three years ago for $3,000,000; sold last January for $9,500,000. Another, which was valued at about $6,000,000 a few years ago, changed hands at $15,- 000,000."

SOCIAL EVENTS

MISSIONARY TEA
The Missionary Society of the Methodist church and a number of ladies from the other churches enjoyed an unusually pleasant afternoon Tuesday when Mrs. Tom Mc-Clure, Mrs. W. W. Runnels, and Mrs.
H. N. Lusk entertained at the beautiful new bungalow home of Mrs. Mc-Clure which is a marvel of loveliness
in all its appointments. The weather was ideal and many responded to the invitations. A unique feature of entertaining was a contest in writing Bible verses, the prize, cupid filled with talcum powder, was won by Mrs.
C. B. Jordan for quoting the greatest number of verses. Mrs. Jim Cooksey won the booby prize, which was a red tin horn. Delicious refreshments of mince meat pie and coffee were served.

MRS. W. A. HUDSON ENTER-TAINS
Mrs. W. A. Hudson delightfully entertained the members of the Merry Wives Club and their husbands Tuesday evening at her prettily appointed home. The evening was spent in playing games of "42."
There were nine tables of players and fourteen or fifteen games were played. During the games home-made candy was served and at the conclusion an elaborate salad course was served. Then followed a Shakespearean love story given in quotations by the club.

DELAYED PERSONALS
The following personals were written for last week's Enterprise but through oversight were left on the hook and not discovered until the paper was out.

C. C. Watson of the Midland Reporter is in sore distress because of the loss by death of his friend and foreman, B. P. Harrison. Mr. Watson will find it a hard task to replace another as true a friend or as faithful forman, and The Enterprise extends sincere sympathy.

Mrs. Waldo of El Paso, who has been in Pecos for several days with her mother, Mrs. Julia A. Ward, returned to her home Wednesday.

Mrs. Julia A. Ward has recently returned from a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Waldo in El Paso. Mrs.
Waldo came back home with her and assisted in getting Mrs. Ward ready for her trip to Ft. Worth.

Mrs. Julia A. Ward left this week for Fort Worth where she will make her home and spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Arbuthnot. Mrs.
Ward is the aged mother of S. W.
Ward and has been a resident of Pecos for years and while the marriage of her daughter, Mrs. Bert Simpson to Mr. Waldo of El Paso makes it necessary for her to break up housekeeping in her Pecos home,
she will ever remember kindly Pecos and Pecos people. She has had an eventful career and is yet young and spry when her advanced age is considered, and bids fair to celebrate many more birthdays. The Enterprise will join a host of friends in the wish that the remainder of her days may be in pleasant and agreeable paths.

Mrs. Augusta Reynolds is here
from her home in Albany on a visit to her son, Elmer Reynolds.

SAYS SPECULATORS BUY U. S. PROPERTY

Washington, Nov. 22.—Immediate revision of the present method of disposing of surplus Government stores to prevent speculators from buying Federal property from one Government and reselling to another branch of the Government, at a higher figure, is recommended in the annual report of Major General J.
L. Chamberlain, inspector general of the army, to the Secretary of War,
made public today.

The necessity for the proposed action is indicated by a recent investigation that disclosed that one department of the Government sold surplus cement for $1 per ton to a civilian who immediately sold the same cement to a branch of the War Department for $6 a ton, the report states.

Concerning hazing at the Military Academy at West Point, General
Chamberlain said that while the practice has not yet been entirely eliminated, considerable favorable progress has been made to that end.

Criticism of the hospital facilities at Camp Benning, Ga., is voiced in the report, the equipment there being characterized as "entirely inadequate."

Prompt measures to check abuse
of the army uniform are recommended;
the report declaring that "civilian authorities have not always co-operated to stop such abuse."

Other recommendations of the inspector general include:
More care with regard to promises made recruits, particularly with regard to the army's educational courses, in order that all pre-enlistment promises may be fully complied with.

Abandonment of civilian instructors at army schools.

Renewal of the clothing allowance for enlisted men, a change in the type of collar on the service coat and more care in seeing that each recruit has one new, well fitting uniform.

ARE YOU UNDER-INSURED?

Your insurable value is based on present values.
One of my big insurance companies states publicly that it takes $2.71 to go as far in 1920 as $1.00 did in 1914 in building construction. This statement is based on world-wide experience of a company 75 years in the business, and is accurate.

Three families in Pecos rendered homeless by one fire,
and not enough houses here now. Should your home burn, you should at least have insurance enough to partially pay for another. Very few people now have sufficient insurance, on either dwelling or household goods.

There is no three-fourths value clause required on dwelling or contents; you may insure for the full, real value.

Recent fire losses in Pecos will have the effect of raising the final insurance rates here for 1921, as the 15 per cent credit for good fire record will no doubt be wiped out. For this reason three-year policies taken out now will save you considerable money in premiums. Let me explain this to you in person.

I will gladly advise with you regarding any and all classes of insurance; I represent the world's three largest companies, and the two largest American companies, along with others; these five alone have assets of about five hundred millions of dollars.

N. C. GOVERNOR SCORES U. S. RESERVE BOARD

An open letter by Governor Bickett of North Carolina, to the President of the American Cotton Association:

State of North Carolina, Governor's Office, Raleigh, November 8. Mr. John S. Wanamaker, President, American Cotton Association, St. Matthews, South Carolina, My Dear Mr. Wanamaker:

Your telegram would have received instant reply but for my absence from the city.

I trust that it is not necessary to say that I deeply deplore the tragic situation that confronts our cotton farmers, and am in favor of resorting to every possible measure that promises relief.

To work and pray for the prosperity and the happiness of the farmer is no evidence of special wisdom or virtue. Any man with sense enough to be allowed to run at large must know, that not only the welfare, but the very life of the nation is dependent upon a prosperous rural population. If the farmer is allowed to go to the devil, then hell will soon be the portion of all.

I think the Federal Reserve Board made a fundamental mistake in its interpretation of the present crisis in the cotton market. I thoroughly agree with the Board in its contention that it cannot interfere with the law of supply and demand. Other things have interfered with that law. Today the demand for cotton is greater than the supply. Today there is a shivering cry all around the world for more cotton than the world contains. The international financial machinery to transfer from those who have it over here to those who need it over there is temporarily out of gear. It is the duty of the Federal reserve board to assist the farmer to hold his cotton, not from the market, but for the market.

The mills in this country are abundantly supplied with cotton and are distressed to find a market for their out-put. The world sorely needs this out-put, but the international machinery necessary to the transfer of the goods from the mills to the consumers has temporarily broken down. The exchange market is in such condition that France, Italy, and Germany are today actually paying more for cotton on a basis of 22c than they did last year on a basis of 36c. Today, for the equivalent of a dollar in their own currency, France gets about 60c worth of cotton, Italy about 35c worth, and Germany about 10c worth. There can be no active demand for cotton until this International tangle is straightened out. It results that somebody must hold cotton. Every consideration of justice and sound economics requires that the cotton be held by the men who produce it.

If it is not held by the farmer it will be held by the men who contribute nothing to the production or to the manufacture of cotton, but are simply lucky enough to have ready money on hand.

For these reasons I think the Federal Reserve Board and Congress ought to be urged to render every possible aid to the farmer to hold the cotton until the world that is in such tragic need of it is in a position to take it. It cannot be too often repeated and emphasized that the supply of cotton is not equal to the human demand for cotton, but the trouble is that the law of supply and demand is not operative because of the dislocation of international finance machinery.

It would be the acme of unwisdom and cruelty to force the cotton on a market that is absolutely dead. The only hope of the farmer and for the country is to hold the cotton until the market again becomes a thing of life.

Not only the Government, but all private individuals should lend a helping hand in this emergency. This is not charity, to help the farmer—it is the very best business policy—for if the cotton crop should be dumped on a dead market it would ruin as many merchants and manufacturers as farmers. As Patrick Henry said in the days of the Revolution, "The situation is one in which if we do not all hang together, we will all hang separately."

Therefore, let every community mobilize its own assets and extend to the farmer every possible aid. Of course, debts must be paid, but every indulgence consistent with staying out of bankruptcy should be granted. This indulgence should be granted to the jobber by the manufacturer, by the jobber to the merchant, by the merchant to the farmer. I do not believe in anything that savors of force or intimidation. The best remedy is the common sense and mutual sympathy of the people in the presence of a common disaster.

I regret that I cannot concur in the suggestion to call a special session of the legislature for the purpose of having a law enacted to compel a reduction of cotton acreage.

In my inaugural address as Governor, I stated that if I were the Czar of North Carolina, instead of the Governor, I would issue an edict that any man who was found importing into this state any beef or bacon, meal or flour, grain or hay, should be forthwith hanged without trial by jury or benefit of clergy. This would be constructive rather than a destructive remedy, and the General Assembly would be more apt to enact such a law than one penalizing the farmer for growing too much cotton.

It is as plain as day that if the farmers of the cotton belt would produce their own food and feed crops, they would always be in a position to adequately deal with an emergency like the one that confronts us, but so long as the farmers line up in a fight of this kind with empty cribs and smoke houses, and with a debt on the crop for food and food supplies, they are as helpless as the man who goes into battle with an empty gun in his hands.

I have written you at length because I am deeply interested in the subject. I believe that by throwing into the breach all the courage, all the common sense, and all the common sympathy of our people we can substantially improve the distressing condition that today confronts us. With much respect, I beg to remain, Sincerely yours, (Signed) T. W. BICKETT.

A. M. HOVE VISITS PECOS

A. M. Hove of Amarillo, with the Santa Fe railway and assistant editor of "The Earth," was a pleasant caller at The Enterprise office Tuesday. He remarked that "he had a little business down at Lakewood and thought he would run on down to Pecos to see how things were."

Mr. Hove is a booster all the time for the Pecos Valley and says Pecos is a shining example of a town with real business men behind it. It is the push and energy of Pecos business men who have made it one of the very best towns in West Texas, aside from El Paso, which is now a real city.

This was the first time for Mr. Hove and this editor to meet and it was a real pleasure for the writer to meet face to face with this real live booster, pleasant gentleman and live-wire business getter.

STUDYING MEN TO FIND THEIR JOBS

Giving a man the work for which he is physically suited after he has been carefully studied and sized up by a doctor is an idea rapidly gaining headway in the industrial world under the auspices of the National Safety Council. To obtain a true and complete estimate of the human machine, the physician obtains a detailed previous medical history of the man and then subjects him to an actual physical examination as painstaking as those required by insurance companies.

An interesting description of the medical influence which is becoming more discernable in organizations is given in a copy of a paper by Dr. W. A. Sawyer, read before the health service section of the National Safety Council, received last week by J. L. Walsh, superintendent of safety for the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad. Dr. Sawyer is medical director of the Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester, N. Y.

"We need not only a thorough examination, but also job analysis, for how can the doctor determine a man's fitness to do a certain task unless he knows just what that job entails?" Dr. Sawyer asked in explaining his plan for a physical examination to form the basis of preventive and curative measures to improve the health of the workmen. "In many plants," he said, "neither the doctor nor the employment department knows the jobs' requirements. By no means have we begun to realize all the possibilities of the proper selection of workers from the physical standpoint, and we haven't scratched the surface from the mental viewpoint. By this I mean not only an intelligent test, but something which will bring out motives, desires, inherent stability and balance.

"May I detail here my conception of conducting a thorough physical examination which will be a satisfaction to all concerned? We will presuppose that the applicant has been interviewed, perhaps shown the job, trade tested and examined as to intelligence in any one of several different ways, and is at last sent to the doctor for a physical examination. With him, of course, comes the specifications of the job for which he is scheduled. First of all, the preliminary data are obtained by a nurse or clerk, together with weight-taking and eye and ear testing. An introduction to the doctor should then take place, following which ensues a rather detailed questioning as to previous medical history. This is done to advantage by the doctor and permits of an opportunity to size up the individual.

"Then comes the actual physical examination, which should be as painstaking as that of the best insurance companies if not as that of our army. Only by such an examination can a true and complete estimate be made of the human machine.

"If an impairment is found it should be explained briefly, though sympathetically, and if cause for rejection is found such information should be given to the examinee as the case indicates. Perhaps this might be supplemented by little leaflets, given at such a time, explaining in a more detailed way just what the condition involves. If he has not previously been aware of the condition he will leave feeling perfectly certain that a real service has been done, whereas if the examination is made in silence and the report of rejected is returned to the employment department in a sealed envelope it is more than likely to result in resentment or ill feeling.

"At the conclusion of the examination the doctor should hand the examinee a blank form on which are asked questions relating to hygiene and habits and the general family health. A statement should go with it saying that this report is a basis for future examinations to which the employe is entitled yearly, or oftener if necessary, explaining that the maintenance of health is an asset and any real advancement or promotion in business is precarious without it, and that health is more often the result of vigilance and proper living than anything else."

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Anderson of Chicago, are spending the week in Pecos. Mr. Anderson is interested in the Los Pecos Syndicate and spent Wednesday out in the field looking it over. Of course he was at the Los Pecos but visited many other locations as well, and in conversation with the Enterprise remarked: "I am more than pleased with the outlook—elated—and if you have not a real oil field here there certainly is nothing in indications from above."

J. P. Seay called on The Enterprise Wednesday and deposited two dollars for a year's subscription for Mrs. Seay who is now in Berkeley, California, where the children are in school. Uncle Joe says he would like very much to be with his family but they won't stay with him and he just can't make up his mind to live anywhere else than in Reeves county where the sun shines all the time, the climate is ideal and all his friends live. He stated, "I may go out to California about the first of the month but I am not used to city life and would know no one and life would be miserable for me. Besides, we are going to bring in some real oil wells near my land soon and I will then of necessity have to be at home to look after my interests."

Uncle Joe is one of our wealthy ranch owners who has spent too much of his life on the ranch and among friends to make city life among strangers pleasant.

Arch Bell of the Los-Pecos Syndicate was in town Wednesday and called on The Enterprise. He has about two weeks growth of beard on his face which makes him look like a mountaineer but says he has vowed not to shave again until a real oil well is brought in in the Pecos field. The Enterprise feels sure that he will not have to wait long before he can go back to the razor.

Superintendent P. J. Rutledge left Wednesday afternoon for Ft. Worth to attend the State Teachers Institute in session there. Prof. Rutledge is a wide-awake business man and knows, as does the editor, that it is necessary to attend these meetings in order to keep abreast of the times and do his best for his patrons. To understand the great benefits to be derived from attendance upon these state gatherings one has to attend in person and then, and then only, he realizes that the expense and time are of no consequence as compared with the knowledge.

Judge S. J. Isaacks was a Pecos visitor this week in attendance upon district court. The Judge says everything is booming in El Paso and every line of business good.

Mrs. J. A. Daniel returned Friday of last week from a visit of some length to relatives in the East. The doctor is looking as happy as a songbird.

The Pecos Auto company is up-to-date in everything and is always "Johnny on the Spot" when it comes to being a live wire. The Enterprise neglected last week to mention the company's rest room in connection with the Armistice Day Celebration. The rest room in connection with the garage, is always open, but on this occasion was decorated for the occasion with large palms, flags, bunting, etc. The comfortable rockers and big fires contributed to making the restroom comfortable as well as restful to the eyes. Yet this was not enough and the handsome table which adorns the center of the room was covered with the latest newspapers and magazines. The company is to be commended for the thoughtfulness in an effort to make it pleasant and comfortable for the ladies and children.

D. W. Bozeman and Commercial Secretary Sutherland visited the Stockton oil wells Sunday. They were high in their praise of the hospitality shown them by Fort Stockton people who took them to the producing wells and allowed them to dip the oil therefrom which comes up within a foot or two of the top. Mr. Bozeman says those wells are a wonder, only about 50 feet deep, and in his opinion will produce anywhere from five to fifty barrels per day.

C. C. Cargill and W. B. Collins, two of Toyah's prosperous cattlemen, were over Tuesday in attendance upon district court. Mr. Cargill dropped a couple of dollars in the Enterprise till for another year's subscription, remarking that "we can't get along without The Enterprise."

Mrs. T. A. Randals passed peacefully away at the home of her son, Ben Randals, yesterday evening, surrounded by her husband, son and family and friends. On Tuesday of last week she was struck with paralysis, from which she never recovered. The body will be laid to rest in Fairview cemetery at 3 o'clock today. A more extensive notice of the life of this devoted wife and mother will appear in this paper next week. The bereaved have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

Mrs. Hardin Ross is out on the ranch and was accompanied home by her little niece, Mary Helen Moore.

Thanksgiving day passed off in Pecos almost same as Sunday. A union Thanksgiving service was held at the Methodist church, the stores were all closed and many were enjoying duck hunting on the lakes.

Mrs. D. A. Dodds is back home again after several weeks absence in Dubuque, Iowa, where she was called on business. Mrs. Dodds is a real business woman who knows how to transact business in a pleasant, business-like manner. As immigration agent for the P. V. S. railway, she has been very successful in selling quite a lot of acreage to substantial farmers who are helping to develop the country. She has quite a lot of acreage yet for sale in almost any sized tracts and almost any character of land desired, and when it comes to selling it she has most of the men-skinned a city block.

Mrs. Tatum Moore and daughter Dorothy and Miss Evelyn Somes went out to the home of the former on Toyah creek yesterday after a few days spent in Pecos the guest of her father, M. Somes.

Judge Will P. Brady, attorney for the Sunshine Oil Corporation, is here in attendance upon district court. The judge has been ill and confined to his room and has just gotten up and is still weak.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cooksey spread a real Thanksgiving feast to their friends at the ranch yesterday. A calf was killed and barbecued and the invited guests requested to each family bring a cake so as to complete the feast. A few of the following guests went out to the ranch Wednesday afternoon and the remainder early Thursday morning. It is reported to have been one of the most delightful occasions of the season. Those who went from Pecos to participate in these festivities were Mr. and Mrs. T. Y. Caley, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sisk, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Drane, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Browning, Mr. and Mrs. Prickett, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Manahan, Misses Jane Looby and Warren Collings, and Messrs. Pryor and Morris.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Amrine and Mr. and Mrs. George Davis and Mr. Bruce, all of Balmorhea, came to Pecos this morning, Mr. Amrine and Mr. Davis to work on the warehouse in which they hold interest.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Sparks of Socora, N. M., are here visiting with their son Ralph Sparks, manager of the telephone system. The elder Sparks is owner of the Pecos and Northwestern Telephone system and is here looking over the line preparatory to putting in substantial improvements.

Lawyer Peden of El Paso was in Pecos the forepart of the week in attendance upon district court.

Mrs. J. C. Alsop of Grand Saline came in this morning to attend the funeral of her niece, Mrs. T. A. Randals.

What is the use of working for money unless you BANK a part of it so that it will some day work for you?
He who spends ALL has nothing; he who banks a part of his earnings regularly MUST prosper.
That's arithmetic.
Let our bank have your spare money on deposit. Money piles up fast if you leave it in the bank and keep on adding to it.

RAISED $1,060.50 FOR NEAR EAST RELIEF WORK FUND
The members of the Christian church never do things by halves, and are not only liberal in supplying funds for the every need of their church but for all charitable purposes as well, and the other churches of the town will have to go some to beat them. Last Sabbath a free-will offering was made by the members of that church for the Near East Relief and the American Relief Administration and the small sum of $1,060.50 was donated in a very few minutes. There are other churches with a larger membership but few will be found who are better and more liberal givers.
