ARNO 1922.

The twenty coach Santa Fe train De Luxe. O'er its four track roadbed rambled; I had tired of magazines, and books, And under my breath I grumbled.

We had left Ft. Worth on the night before, The town just passed by was Pecos; I was figuring how many hours more

Our trip to the coast would take us. With a listless sigh I began to doze, being coach and travel weary; When a Fairyland to my vision arose Supplanting the landscape dreary.

I turned to the gentleman next to me, And remarked—with hesitation: A beautiful country this seems to be,

He answered with proud elation: "This yeah, Yeh, I reckon it kaint be beat, Yo' 'al seems to be a stranger."

And from then until reaching the county seat, I talked with this Texas Ranger. We'ah right in the garden spot o' the land,

This yeah is the Pecos Valley; 'Aint nary a 'other place half so grand, Been mapped yet by Rand McNally.

He, told of this wonderful valley land, Of orchards with fruit laden branches; Of its highways, stretching on ev'ry hand,

From oil field to farms and ranches. I gazed from the windows o'er meadows green, Afar I glimpse clear waters flowing;

And off to the left, on the banks o' a stream, A city's tall buildings, are showing.

"This yeahs my town, stranger," announced my friend; And I feel the trains brakes a'grinding,

Then there spreads in full view, as we round a bend; The town, on the river bank

No wonder my friend boasts this town so strong, The county seat,—center of trading, Tall buildings, fine homes, lining streets wide and long;

Great palm trees, the spacious lawns shading. Nor make a mistake whom this booster might be,

His grip supplies that information; "Jim Wheat, Arno, Texas. There stenciled we see,

As he strides through the crowded station. I learned that "Jim" Wheat, made his "strike" when oil;

A few years ago came gushing From wells on his lands.—Once just worthless soil;

O'er which ev'ry spring, floods went rushing. And ARNO, was then just a sandy spot,

With "diamond back" rattlers to fested; 'Till oil o'er the top of the derricks shot,

And the natives got interested. Pecos High Basketeers District Champions

Pecos high school basket ball team Saturday afternoon defeated Odessa highs in an unusually interesting game, the score being 15 to 2.

This game was the test for the championship of the district, and both sides were on their mettle to win. The supporters of the local team give credit for the victory to the guard work of Hefner and Ross.

The line-up and scoring was as follows: Pecos: H—Thurston, R. F., 2 field, one foul goal; Camp, L. F., 2 field, one foul goal; Kerr, center, six field, and one foul goal; Ross, R. G., F., Hefner, R. G., Caroline, R. G., Moran, R. G. Total 23.

Odessa: H—Oneal, R. F., 3 field goals; Meadows, L. F., Amborgy, center, 3 field and four foul goals; Coats, R. G., (Capt.) Kelly, L. G. Total 16.

CALOMEL GOOD BUT AWFUL TREACHEROUS NEXT DOSE MAY SALIVATE, SHOCK LIVER OR ATTACK YOUR BONES

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into your bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tonic straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can't salivate.

EXTENSION OF POSSIBLE POTASH AREA IN WEST TEXAS

The discovery of potash in samples of salts recently received at the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, from new wells bored for oil at two additional localities in Western Texas extend, the area in which small amounts of potash salts are known to occur some 30 miles north and 50 miles east of the area of previous discoveries.

Starting from the Means well, which is close to the New Mexico-Texas line, in Loving county, about 20 miles west of the southeast corner of New Mexico, the boundary of the area in which potash in notable richness has been found in the red beds runs southward for 30 miles to Pitt No. 1 or the River well of the Pitts Oil Co., about 8 miles east of Barstow, thence east by northeast 130 miles to the McDowell well in northern Glasscock county, and thence north by northwest 50 miles to the Burns well, in Dawson county, from which it returns in a west by southwest direction to the starting point. Indications have also been found in the Panhandle. As the wells were drilled for oil and the easily soluble salts were of secondary consequence to the drillers, the samples recently forwarded, like the samples previously received from this region and analyzed, were accompanied by scant data relative to the water in the wells, the length of time it had been in contact with the salts, the condition of casing, etc. So many unknown conditions must therefore be taken into consideration that it is impossible to say whether the potash-rich salt-already analyzed represent beds several feet or only a few inches thick. Core-drilling will have to be done in order to answer these questions. However, those who are drilling for oil in this region are showing more interest in the possibility that potash may be found in their wells and are preserving better samples and furnishing fuller data.

The samples from the Means well were taken at 5-foot intervals from depths of 900 to 3,600 feet. Most of these samples have been assayed at the United States Geological Survey. Unfortunately, on account of the method of drilling and sampling, the samples can not be relied on as representing the average composition of the strata through each five feet of depth in the well.

The amount of the potash in the sample from the McDowell well, in northern Glasscock county, is very high, but the determination was made from a single sample, which was apparently rather carelessly collected, for the depth from which it came is given as somewhat between 900 and 1,500 feet. A series of samples that have been more carefully collected is now being assayed by the geological survey, and the results will soon be available to the public.

A man was arrested recently at Longview, Texas, and when searched found to have a quantity of narcotics concealed in his cork leg.

Why Not Make Your Poultry Pay?

There is no reason why the fellow who keeps chickens should expect them to hibernate for the winter. Many farm flocks produce reasonably well during spring and summer when they have the freedom that nature affords. Handled properly these flocks could be made to yield a profit all through the year. A flock properly culled, comfortably housed and adequately fed, will lay through the winter as well as summer.

The question of feeding hens during winter in order to get eggs becomes quite largely a matter of sensible feeding. It is the surplus feed, that not needed to keep up the bodily functions, which is used in egg production.

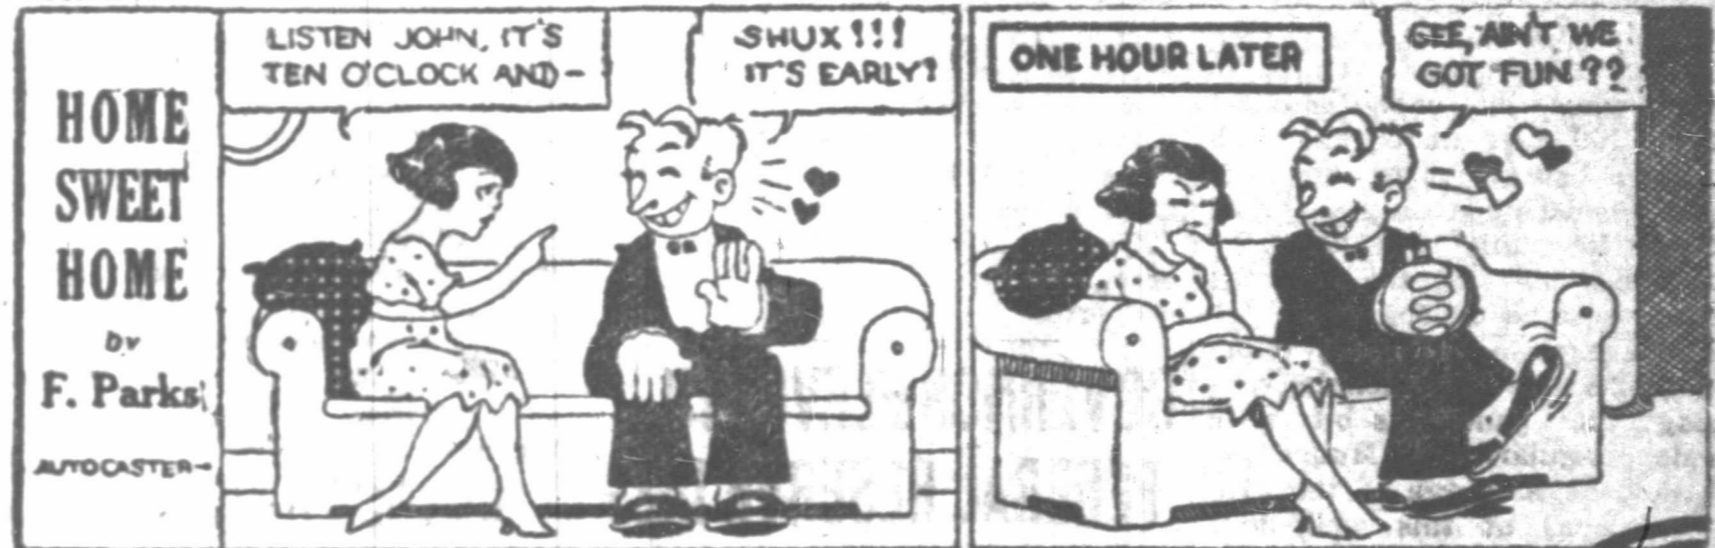

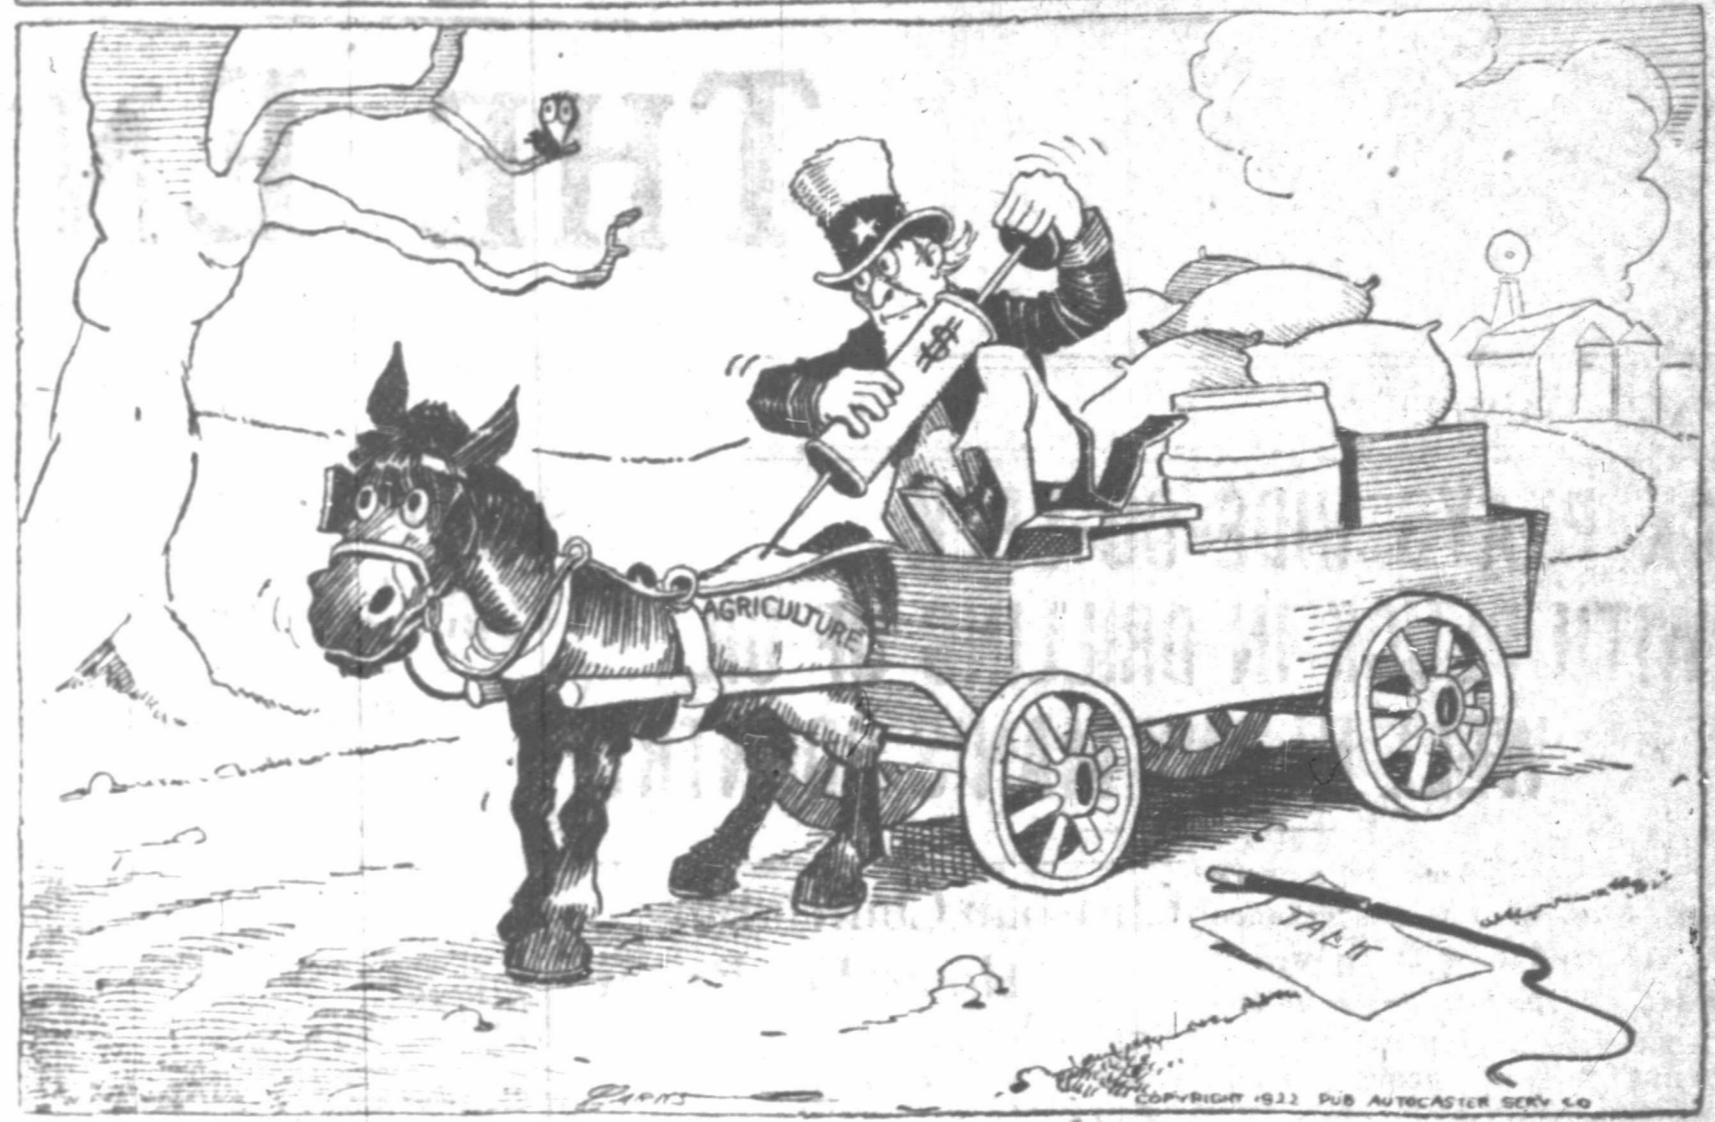

There are three things which should be present in the feeding ration of a laying hen, if you expect results from her. These are mineral matter, protein or nitrogen, and starches or carbohydrates.

A good grain mixture for this section, all of which can be produced on the average Southern farm, or can be easily procured, would be two pounds of corn, one pound of oats and one pound of rough rice. A quart of the above mixture should be about enough for a daily feed of from twelve to fifteen hens, feeding a third in the morning and two-thirds in the afternoon.

Purely grain mixtures, however, lack in protein. This may be provided in what we call the "mash." The basis of most mash mixtures is made up of the by-products of the milling industry. If to a mixture of these is added, in proper proportions, meat scraps and sour milk, an ideal feed will be obtained.

The feeds mentioned above, with the addition of charcoal and oyster shells for grinding the food and supplying material for building egg shell, will contain sufficient mineral to meet the demands of the fowl's needs.—County Agent, Sechrist, Florida.

COTTON GROWERS ASKED TO KEEP COST OF PRODUCING CROP

Hon. Geo. B. Terrell, state commissioner of agriculture, writes The Enterprise a letter in which he urges the cotton growers of Texas to keep accurate records of the cost of producing the staple upon their farm, to the end that a correct knowledge may be had as to what it should command in price when sold. The letter is so timely, that this paper takes pleasure in reproducing it in full, as follows:

To the Cotton Growers of Texas:

The last two cotton crops have sold below the cost of production. No business enterprise can stand when forced to sell its products for less than cost. Farming is the biggest business enterprise in the State. It is a sure business barometer, measuring the success or failure of all other business enterprises.

It should be placed on a sound business basis, and to do this it is necessary to find the average cost of production, so that money crops especially cotton, may be sold upon a cost, plus basis, as the products of all manufacturing plants are sold. I want two or three thousand farmers to keep the cost of producing cotton this season, as they did last year, and report to me upon blanks to be furnished by this department.

Enter every item of cost upon a day book, from the time the breaking of land begins until the cotton is laid by. These items must include cleaning up the land, breaking, harrowing, bedding, planting, chopping, hoeing and cultivating at current wages paid in other lines of work, and must include soil depreciation, taxes and interest on the investment.

I will furnish blank forms upon application, to be filled out, and return to this office when the crop is laid by.

In order to be able to price the crop we must know the cost of production, and in order to sell for the cost of production and a profit, the farmers must make the farms self-supporting and make the cotton a surplus crop, and be able to enforce the demand for a cost plus price. I hope to have co-operation of other states in this matter.

Raise less cotton, and more to eat.

Star-Telegram At A Special Rate During February

C. B. Graham, traveling representative for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, was in Pecos Monday in the interest of its circulation department. Mr. Graham states that his paper is making a special offer during the month of February, in which subscribers may secure the Star-Telegram daily to Dec. 1 for $4.35, or daily and Sunday edition for the same period of time for $5.50. Mr. Graham is an agreeable salesman, and is representing one of the best papers coming to The Enterprise desk. Bring your subscriptions to The Enterprise office and they will be taken care of promptly.

Reports state that a farm woman near Palestine, Texas, bought nineteen turkey eggs for 25 cents each, raised eighteen turkeys of which she sold thirteen in Palestine for $54 and kept the balance to raise more turkeys from. Her total investment was $4.75.

BE CHARITABLE WITH YOUTH; WE WERE ALL YOUNG, ONCE, AND MORE OR LESS CONCEITED

Conceit in young people is natural. Their head is full of things newly learned, and they seem to be oblivious to the fact, that older heads have known these things all the while.

But we have all been young once, and we realize we felt and acted in the same way; for this reason our age is tolerant of youth.

Experience is the greatest, and oft the dearest, teacher of mankind, and we know that in his good time he will knock conceit out of youth. There are exceptions, to be sure, but the man who has reached middle life and is still conceited is a dreadful bore. We can't tolerate his conceit as we do that of youth.

There was a young man who went off to college, played football, was quite a star, and in the small college town and among the students he was "some pumpkin." In June he returned home, eager to meet his old friends, and wondering how the old burg managed to rock along while he was away.

His own family circle was as glad to see him as he was to see them, but when he started down Main street the next day his sensitive soul received a shock and he returned home with his bump of conceit so small that it had almost reached the vanishing point.

A number of friends he saw, and as he eagerly approached to hail them and shake hands they passed on by with a nod, a waive of the hand, a "hello" or a "good morning." One, indeed, did stop, and said: "Well, Bob, where have you been keeping yourself lately?"

Such is fame! Hadn't missed him; didn't know he had been out of town. And it gradually dawned in the mind of this young man that his life meant very little to the community at large or to the individuals therein, save his own little family group.

Yes, even the biggest man can slip away into the next world with hardly a ripple being made, and the old earth rolls along just the same.

Conceit in youth is also inspiring, and is the foundation of his ambition. In fact, conceit and ambition go hand in hand. In his youth he is just fool enough to think he can do anything. Of course he knows that others have tried and failed, but it will be different with him.

So he begins to climb the heights. Adversity takes a wallop at him here, disappointment greets him there, keen competition makes inroads on his strength day by day, and as the years come and go that youthful conceit gives way to practical experience, and he arrives at the station of middle life with a well-balanced mind, an intellect as sharp as ever, but ripe with the experience of years.

There is no conceit there now. If he has accomplished much in the span of years he is too great to entertain conceit; if he has tried and accomplished little he is too humble.

Be charitable with youth; he will come to himself in his own good time.—Nora Cole Skinner.

HAYS AND HIS $150,000 MOVIE SMILE

Postmaster General Will Hays has announced his resignation from the cabinet to take a position as director general of all national moving picture productions at a salary of $150,000 a year. He posed, as shown here, after a conference, in which President Harding gave his consent to his leaving the cabinet.

EDDICATION

That ignorance is refreshin', some people seem to think, but I shall never use it as my customary drink. You'll hardly find a pizen that's deadlier than this—it makes me hoppin' mad to hear that "Ignorance is bliss." I don't expect to ever be porated as a fool, or hear myself referred to, as the kin-folk of the mule—I stick to eddication, as a heap the safest plan to cultivate the nobleness that makes a bigger man.

A surface-eddication, I hardly could endorse. You can't sock wisdom on a man, like rubbin' down a horse. You don't heap knowledge on yer skin, the same as linyment. You swaller, an' digest it, or it's never wuth a cent!

You can garner information with a keen-observin' eye, an' store it in yer attic, till you need it, by-an'-by. You can eat a chunk of wisdom with an appetite that's smart, and it never swells yer head up, nor solidifies the heart. So, I take my eddication, by the good old-fashioned plan, which puts it in the system, instead of on the man!

Your own Uncle John.

A new world record for long distance radio communication was recently made when President Harding's message addressed to the nations of the world was picked up in New Zealand. New Zealand is 10,000 miles from where the message was sent, the new radio center at Rocky Point, Long Island.

Metal mines in Texas, last year, produced 544,000 ounces of silver. The principal producing mine was the Presidio mine at Shafter. A small quantity of gold was also obtained from Texas ores, but no lead or copper. The gold production amounted to sixty-eight ounces, valued at $1400.

You Can Depend On The Man Who ADVERTISES

Nine times out of ten you will find that the man who advertises is the man who most willingly returns your money if you are not satisfied.

He has too much at stake to risk losing your trade or your confidence. You can depend on him.

He is not in business for today or tomorrow only—but for next year and the years to come. He knows the value of good will.

You get better service at a fairer price than he could ever hope to sell if he did not have the larger volume of business that comes from legitimate advertising and a product that bears out the promise of the printed word.

Don't miss the advertisements in The Enterprise. The live firms of the city are represented in its pages. It is the man who is broad minded in his advertising policy who will be broad minded with you.

Don't Fail to Read the Advertisements

A Drop of Ink Makes Millions Think

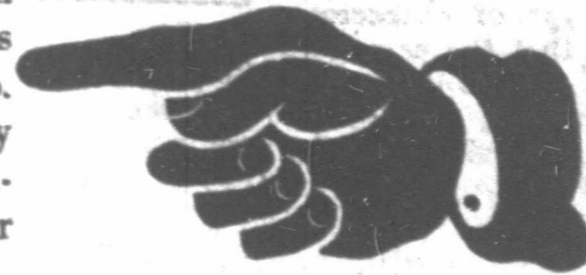

AN AMERICAN MAGAZINE reporter once asked John Wrigley, the fifty million gum magnate, what he attributed his huge business success to, and the man replied that it was 90 per cent advertising.

Mr. Wrigley is used as a study among journalism classes as the man who accumulated three fortunes and each time spent them for advertising, after which he started in over again.

It is a well known fact that he spent one million dollars advertising his gum products on Broadway, New York, alone.

THE FUNDAMENTAL FACT —

however, is that after the gum king had spent three fortunes on advertising he did not stop. He let drop a secret that may well be applied to any business, however big, or however small:—

"That advertising is a good deal like feeding a furnace—you have to keep shoveling in the coal in order to keep the fire alive."

A little "ad" dropped here and there in your local paper is really of little value. It is the persistent, weekly and daily call that makes the people sit up and take notice.

WHAT THE ENTERPRISE CAN DO

It can place advertising, based on the inch rate, in 2,300 homes, virtually circulated among 11,500 people for 50 cents. To attempt to reach the same number of people by post card, the only other means of communication, would cost $115.00.

It can readily be seen that there is no argument from an economic standpoint as the cheapest and most effective way of reaching the public.

Dolan Commends Enterprise Editorial.

Springfield, Ill., February 2, 1922.

Mr. John Hibdon, Editor, Pecos Enterprise, Pecos, Texas.

My Dear Mr. Hibdon: I wish to congratulate you on the splendid editorial that appeared in the Pecos Enterprise of January 20th under the caption 'The Oil Situation'.

Your friend, T. M. DOLAN.

What was said by one of the ancient philosopher's about a prophet standing some chance of gaining honor save in his own country...

The Enterprise editor is reminded time and again by such letters as the above that he must be marking up a fair batting average in most of the essential points of service...

Occasionally some fellow bobs up from abroad, like the one whose letter was published in the paper last week, who writes the editor a personal letter to know if really there is more than one bank, one garage or a place to eat...

Great is that town or commonwealth which comes to a knowledge that the building of a city is not by the efforts of one or a baker's dozen, but that it takes the united front of every mothers son to make of it anything more than a passing remembrance...

It is not at all strange that these 'parties' of the movie set should occasionally end in tragedies which get on the front pages of the newspapers...

of persistent users of newspaper space. This service should not be confused with the old plate and ad copy which was put out years ago and which came to be rightly called 'canned' advertising...

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY

Local advertisers are reminded that The Enterprise receives weekly an illustrated advertising service which is designed to meet the requirements of practically every line of trade...

Some people may think that Will Hays takes a less dignified position, when he gives up the postmaster general's job to become the directing head of an association of motion picture producers...

whether young folks are clean and loyal and decent. But when pictures that conform to high standards are shown, everyone is incited to live the standard of conduct and honor.

The position that Mr. Hays is to fill gives him a chance to see that every picture made under his supervision helps promote the ends for which the people establish laws and support schools and churches.

Not a little mystery has attended the association of Mr. Hays with the motion picture industry. Many have been made to wonder how he came to be singled out from millions of men and placed on a salary of $150,000 per year.

If Mr. Hays has been employed to merely raise the moral standard of the industry and will apply himself sincerely in that direction, he should be able to earn his salary in the first six months of his tenure.

"MILLIONS NOW LIVING WILL NEVER DIE"

In less than a year this message has found its way into thirty languages, and is being heralded to millions of people in thousands of cities in every land of the earth.

The most momentous event of earth's history is the near establishment of God's kingdom among men, the event for which our Lord taught us to pray, "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as in heaven." When the kingdom of God is fully come mankind will have no more fear of sickness or accident, pain, old age nor death; no more sorrow or tears.

It is your privilege to inform yourself of the nearness of the kingdom, and the blessings to follow as pointed out by the scriptures by attending the free bible lecture to be given at the (art house), Bastow, Texas, next Wednesday evening at 7:30, by Edward Stark, of the International Bible Students Association. All invited. No collection.

CHRISTIANS AND THE SOCIAL DANCE

Following my last Sunday evening's discussion of Christian and the Card-table, I am going next Sunday evening, the Lord willing, to take the subject of Christians and the Social Dance. These are subjects usually denominated worldly.

I am persuaded that much good resulted from the former discussion. The house was crowded and about three-fourths of those present pledged themselves not to play cards. The spirit of the occasion was fine. I can't refrain from thinking that some one did himself harm in not attending the service. Perhaps they thought I was lying when I said I would treat every one fairly and tenderly. Well, you ask any one who was there if the preacher was not entirely unoffensive in manner.

Now, I want to talk to Pecos about dancing. The young folks will come, I am going to ask the father and mothers to come, too. I can't get far without you. Please don't fail your children.

No, I will not be abusive, the Lord helping me. I never mean to be.

Now, my morning subject will be about the Holy Spirit and the continued Christian life. I hold that the reason worldly things are doing so much is because we are failing largely to be spiritual. The things of God are only spiritually known and if we are not spiritual we can't be controlled by spiritual truth. We do not know they really exist. So I crave the prayers and audience of our people that as Paul put it "we may apprehend that for which we are apprehended." There can be no real Christian living without it. I am praying that Pecos may hear, heed and be saved.

Texans Pay Freight "Gwine and Coming"

Theodore Price estimates the consumption of cotton at thirty-five pounds per capita for the United States, which average, he believes, holds good for Texas. He further says, in an editorial in Finance and Commerce, that on this basis, Texas consumes in cotton cloth about 300,000 bales of cotton per annum, shipping the cotton out of the State to be manufactured and paying the freight back to the State where the manufactured article is sold at a price which includes freight both ways and several middlemen's profits. In this way, according to Mr. Price, Texans spend an extra $60,000,000 per year.

The idea conveyed in the figures thus presented is that Texas should not only manufacture all the cotton goods it consumes of the character possible to be made out of Texas staple, but should manufacture for Mexico and a large territory north and west where cotton goods are now purchased from Eastern mills and an excessive freight rate paid. With sufficient mills, Texas could secure a trade in cotton goods that would require the manufacture of at least half of its normal crop. The cotton farmer then would have a nearby market which would bring about a considerable saving to him in freight and at the same time his markets for other commodities would be improved because of the improvement in the industrial situation and the increased pay rolls in the cities and towns of the State where cotton mills were located. Texas suffers an economic loss every time our merchants send out of the State for cotton goods made out of Texas cotton.

WILSON RETURNS TO FOLD

The citizens of the Loving country, with one accord, joined in a demonstration of respect and esteem for J. C. Wilson, who recently resigned as cashier of the First National bank of that little city. The occasion was in the nature of a farewell party, Mr. Wilson and his wife leaving Thursday evening for their new but old home at Pecos, the couple having lived in the latter city before moving to Loving. The Ogden home, three miles south of Loving on Black river, was filled with friends and well wishers of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, whose residence had drawn around them a circle of friends limited only by the number of people of the district. Mr. Wilson returns to his old position as bookkeeper for the Pecos Mercantile Company, and it was with great regret that his resignation as cashier of the First National bank was accepted by the directors of that institution.—Carlsbad Argus.

We are 200 feet deeper; 200 feet nearer the oil; we are free from debt; free from any incumbrance; we have paid all operating expenses and our bank balance is $701.89 larger than a month ago. Friends I thank you for your Confidence, Support and Co-operation. Next month I expect to be fully financed but will give you the monthly statement promised. I want every one of you to KNOW WHERE, AND HOW YOUR MONEY IS BEING SPENT.

A RICH FELLOW WROTE

"Chicago, Ill., Jan. 27, 1922.

Willoughby Petroleum Co., Pecos, Texas,

Gentlemen:—Attention Mr. C. H. Willoughby—

"We thought we would write you a letter and make a suggestion, and see how it impresses you: First, you must remember that we have lots of people in Chicago who have money, but are exceedingly skeptical about the oil business. In fact, I could raise $50,000 in a single day, provided I could assure them that they were taking no chances, but I have always felt a great delicacy in approaching my clients about investments in oil, because of my knowledge of the general feeling prevailing among people in regard to the oil business."

"—if we could show the assets of the Willoughby Petroleum Co., first, then if it appears that the company is absolutely good, financially, your company could make notes, and the notes could be signed by the company, by yourself, as president, and by you individually. . . . The notes could provide, on the face of them, that the holder thereof could exchange the same at any time before maturity, for stock in your company, or at maturity could receive payment, together with interest."

I GAVE MY IMPRESSIONS
IN THE FOLLOWING WORDS BY WIRE:—"You can no more get notes or mortgages on the assets of the Willoughby Petroleum Company than you can get a mortgage on my honor."

Poor Deserving People

And this quotation is from a field workman who says he has been working in the Pecos field for two years:—"Now I have given up long ago about spending any money on oil stocks and you are the only man that I know of who can sell me any because I know that you are a WORKER and not just a gasbag promoter as there are too many of them.

"Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 1, '22. Mr. C. H. Willoughby, Dear Sir:—"Twas more from your personal letters than your ads in the Enterprise that gave me a hunch that in your company I was going to get a square deal whether you get a dry hole, a 500 barrel well or a 25,000 barrel well. And feeling so sure of that fact that I'm taking another 200 shares and ten acres and all because of that feeling of confidence I place in you."

I Have Never Published

The monthly payment plan, the real FINANCIAL FOUNDATION of the company. A farmer, business man, clerk, stenographer, or any breadwinner can meet the payments. You get FREE LEASES, A SQUARE DEAL and if you cannot pay immediately for 100 shares of stock and get a free five acre lease write. When the Pecos Field out rivals Mexia, when all the world is scrambling to invest at Pecos, will you be one of the envied ones? Will you be receiving a fortune from a small investment paid monthly? Will you be in the scramble for "Investments" or one of the "Newly Made Rich?"

I Predict and Believe

That our Willoughby No. One well will be the first PROVEN COMMERCIAL PRODUCER IN THE FIELD. I know we are going to complete it as fast as the bit can be driven to the oil and when it starts gushing, when the oil is going down the hillside, the books will be closed. My friends who have stood by me will stand within the CIRCLE OF OIL AND WEALTH; WE WILL SELL THE WILLOUGHBY NO. ONE WELL WITH SOME LEASES AS QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE; WE WILL DIVIDE PROFITS, THEN AS QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE DRILL THREE MORE WELLS—MAKE OUR HOLDINGS VALUABLE, WORTH MANY FORTUNES AND SELL AS BEFORE and my friends who help to drill this first well will be the ones who will gladly help drill the rest and SHARE THE THRILLS, THE GLORY OF SUCCESS AND FABULOUS FORTUNES.
