COLD FEET

This life we live is irksome, no matter where we be; the road is lined with boulders, an' breakers crown the sea. But we mustn't get discouraged an' declare that life's a cheat, for the prospecks ain't so cheerin' when a feller gets cold feet.

The man that proves a winner, is the man that trims his sails, and steers his craft, unerrin', amid the storms or gales,—hard knocks don't dismay him, which he squares his chin to meet, and his symptoms don't betray him—he never gets cold feet!

There ain't no road to glory, but what's beset with thorns, and it's purty hard to travel, if you're pestered some with corns. So, to make yer failure certain, wear yer pants out on the seat,—it's a sign that allers tells me that a feller's got cold feet.

I like to greet the feller that can laugh at clouds an' cares—that squares hisself in trouble, with his fists as well as prayers. One that earns a benediction that is mighty soft an' sweet. He blessed the world he lived in, and—he never got cold feet.

COLUMBUS OF TODAY

By Richard Lloyd Jones

Amundsen recently sailed from Seattle to become ice-locked in the hope that he might drift across the north pole.

What's the use, you wonder. Man has already been to the north pole and there wasn't anything there but a lot of cold weather. It was a lonely place. Why go again?

Columbus was jeered when he sailed against the whole world's unbelief. He set out to find new seas. To his own amazement he found new shores. Even when he returned to tell his tale wise men declared the venture interesting but what's the use; the new found land was so far away no one would ever go there.

Recently some mountain climbers, seeking to set foot on the "roof of the world" ascended the unexplored altitudes of Mt. Everest. High up in the Himalayas they found vast plateaus, rich in soil with forests and lakes and grasses such as are found in the north tier of American states. These were not little pocket spots in the mountains but a vast region that would measure out Minnesota and Montanas.

But what's the use of it all? we say, we can't get there. Mile high precipices prevent.

The legislature of New York came within two or three votes of refusing to grant the Deleware and Hudson company the right to build a railroad because it would scare the horses. But it was the railroad and not the horses that made possible this great nation of homogeneous people more than three thousand miles long.

They jeered at Fulton's boat, "It moves!" they cried. To their amazement, it moved up river.

When the first steel ship was launched foolish folks went down to see it sink. The crowd saw only the iron hull; they knew iron sinks. The inventor saw the air in the iron hull; he knew the air would float.

The world today is full of out of the way places which tomorrow will be as much a part of the busy world as the shores Columbus found.

Aeroplanes will lift us into the Minnesotas and the Montanas of the Himalayas. Rich farms will be there, towns, colleges, cities like Billings and St. Paul.

Radio is an amusing toy. Wonderful, we say. We wisely predict the time when it will carry music from a great operatic center to even the most isolated and humble cabin homes. We talk wisely of its educational powers. These are near enough to be calculable. It is going to print news in the parlor. Radio is going to give all nations one tongue.

No scientists talk of sending heat waves that will modify inhospitable climates. These heat waves will make possible not merely Montanas but whole Australias where Amundsen is going and where Shackleton has been.

It is a wonderful world we live in. The laboratory is the mighty missionary. And there is many a Columbus serving a vaster future by beating pathways into the pathless regions of today.

FARM BUREAU WILL SIGN UP MILLION BALES

Having done $8,777,799.12 worth of business in its first year the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Ass'n decided at Dallas at a statewide convention of 300 farmers to put on a membership campaign to sign up 1,000,000 bales of cotton. The campaign was to start on Aug. 7 in South Texas and move north to the border, taking as much time as is necessary.

The decision to wage a campaign was made amidst much enthusiasm after a two-day session during which farmers from all parts of Texas investigated the workings of the first year of their cotton association. President John T. Orr and the board of 21 directors, all of whom are dirt farmers living and working on farms, outlined plans for more growth of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Exchange.

Secretary J. W. Hall of New Boston says that the campaign will depend very much on local support so as to keep down expenses. An advance of $50.00 a bale will be made when a bank draft is attached to the bill of lading. Another check will be sent the farmer as soon as his cotton is classed.

The Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association was organized Sept. 1, 1921, receiving its first cotton one week later. Texas was one of the first states to market cotton co-operatively, the others being Oklahoma, Arizona, Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Alabama. Texas, however, signed less than 20 per cent. of its cotton, or 600,000 bales.

Starting with no friends, the young organization now numbers among its supporters the War Finance Corporation, the Federal Reserve Bank, many leading local banks, A. and M. college of Texas and many newspapers. Large quarters have been rented, the clerical force has been improved and increased. A field service under Mr. Hall will be maintained permanently for the information, aid and service of its members. An expert corps of cotton classifiers have been employed. Relations have been established with cotton co-operatives of the other states through the American Cotton Growers Exchange. Very advantageous contracts have been secured for the handling and storing of cotton. Financial arrangements have been made which last year were as low as 4 per cent. A loan up to $9,900,000 has been negotiated with the War Finance Corporation at a low rate. This was all asked for. F. F. Florence, vice-president of the Republic National Bank of Dallas says that the association's finances are so sound that the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association can command enough money to finance every bale of cotton in America.

WHY NOT A FIREMEN'S DAY?

What a fitting tribute it would be to the volunteer firemen who guard the lives and property of so many millions of our people if a common day were fixed to show public appreciation of the unselfish service of these splendid men. Flowers in the coats of men on Mother's Day are beautiful and inspiring. There is even a little sentiment here and there for Father's Day, and perhaps this idea may grow to greater proportion.

Father, however, can wait, and he will be glad to wait if we can see a Firemen's Day come into being. When it does, let us hope it will take a practical turn. State laws pretty generally fail to protect the volunteer fireman, and villages are quite incapable through taxation to guarantee any adequate fund to take care of the widows of those who die for us or for those dependent on the fireman when he is rendered incapable of further work or service.

To some extent insurance can be used, but even this form of protection has its limitations. Pending some state or national recognition every village can well afford to assume leadership and endorse a local fireman's day. The village authorities undoubtedly would approve such a plan. Games could be arranged in the afternoon, and at night a monster entertainment could be staged.

Suppose every person in the community were to pay one dollar for a ticket, it would not take long to raise a fund that would be practically beneficial, and that could be administered by a selected committee of citizens in whom confidence rests and whose interest in our brave laddies is well known.

Perhaps other and better ways of raising such a fund might be suggested, of course. The point for our folks to consider is that something should be done and done quickly.

Punchettes

It may be trite to say that farming is the most necessary and one of the most honorable occupations in the world. The world will always be indebted to the farmer. Without him it would be impossible to progress in any line. The farmer has not always considered his position in the dignified way he should. In fact, it is only in recent years that he has been made to realize the scientific side of his work. Prior to that time he was really a trespasser on the soil; he was a robber; an intruder. He scratched the soil; he mutilated it; he robbed it of its producing power. Any farmer who does not give back to the soil a proportionate part of that which he takes from it is an embezzler, not only of God's Providence, but also of Nature's bounty.

The farmer did not have the right attitude toward his own son. He worked him because he was his son. That was unfair and dishonest. He should have considered his son a partner and shareholder in the labors, responsibilities, liabilities, assets and profits of the farm. He should have rendered an account to his son, paid him a just compensation, and given him an honest and equitable share in the profits of the farm.

The farmer has no, always made the farm attractive to his son. You can't keep a boy at home if you give him a pine knot fire by which to read when the world offers him electric lights, a library, and a reading lamp. The farmer must bring the pleasures, amusements, books, magazines, and attractive things into his home and upon his own farm if he expects to keep his boy and make a great agriculturist out of him.

The parcel post, the rural mail delivery, the automobile, the paved highway, and other conveniences, are for the purpose of enabling the farmer to bring the attractions of the world into his own little country home, into his own desolated farmhouse, and to his own fireside. If he will seize the opportunity, fill his table with magazines, papers, and good books, bring in the music box, and the wireless radio and thus make his home attractive, bright, cheerful magnetic, and fascinating, he will keep his boys and girls around him.

This is the day of the farm if the farmer will only realize it. This is the hour when the farm ought to be the most attractive spot in the country; this is the moment when the farmhouse ought to ring with music, and the barnyard ought to be the convention hall of agricultural and political activity. The farmer should make his son the leader in that convention and teach him how to mould public opinion and direct legislation.

Let the farmer learn how to be generous and kind to his children and to keep them in the atmosphere of agricultural purity, peace and prosperity.

CAPTAIN JOHN T. TUCKER

Capt. J. T. Tucker passed away at the home of his daughter Mrs. Ed. Vickers, Sunday, August 6th, in the afternoon. Capt. Tucker was one of the few surviving old Confederate Veterans in this section of the country and all the others were present to pay their respects to their old comrade. For some years he has made his home in Pecos with his daughter and was active up to a few hours before he was called to a higher life.

The funeral procession was long and the floral contributions profuse, showing the esteem in which this grand old gentleman was held by his fellow men. The Enterprise leaves his pastor, Bro. J. M. Garner, to pay tribute to this venerable gentleman and give a bit of his history which is as follows:

Captain John T. Tucker was born at Honey Grove, Tarrant County, Texas, April 24, 1846. He moved with his parents and settled in Erath County in 1858. This being frontier territory at that time Indians still made their appearance. Captain Tucker, although a mere boy, frequently helped in putting down marauding bands. His father, James M. Tucker, built the first house where the town of Dublin now stands.

At the age of seventeen Mr. Tucker heard the call of the South and enlisted in the Confederate Army under General Ganoes and was placed in Company G under Captain Goodrich. His war record would make an interesting story, yet he never referred to it except in a modest way, always leaving himself in the background. He is to be commended for this noble character. Most of his war service was in Arkansas and Louisiana.

After the war he settled in Tarrant County, Texas, twelve miles south of Fort Worth where he was married to Mrs. Sarah Ann Collins December 13, 1865. Mrs. Collins was a widow with two children, both of whom are now living, E. L.

Collings of Pecos, and Mrs. N. J. Perkins of Stratford, Arkansas. Six children were born to this union, two of whom are still living, Mrs. M. L. Vickers of Pecos, and Mrs. Annie Caywood of El Paso.

In 1879 brother Tucker moved with his family and settled near Merkel, Texas. He was a charter member of the First Baptist church of Merkel and served as one of its deacons for fifteen years. He was also a charter member of Merkel Lodge of A. F. & A. M. and was elected a life member. He served eight years as county commissioner of Taylor county and served two terms in the Texas legislature. He was always an enemy of lawlessness and never shirked his duty in helping to rid the country of same. At his death he was a member of Merkel Camp of Ex-Confederate Veterans and had held the office of Captain since its organization.

It has been some six years since this good man came to Pecos to live. It was after coming here that his faithful companion was called to the Father's house to await the summons of him to whom we say goodbye today. It was Feb. 12, 1917, that Mrs. Tucker passed to her reward. Surviving the deceased, beside those already mentioned, are two brothers and one sister, an adopted son, Chas. Brown, now living in El Paso, several grand children and great-grandchildren, and a host of friends.

The active pall bearers were: Judge Ben Palmer, B. A. Toliver, R. N. Couch, N. W. Camp, T. B. Praett, and W. A. Hudson. Honorary pall bearers: J. G. Ashworth, T. A. Randall, J. B. Briscoe, J. W. Wadly, H. G. Pinkston, Dr. J. A. Leeman, Judge T. B. Anderson of Bartstow, J. L. Morrison, and J. W. Prewitt.

BOY SCOUT ENCAMPMENT

The Boy Scout encampment was an overwhelming success in every way. Nothing came to mar the good time of anyone. No one could have hoped for things to work out better than they did. The pleasure and the joy of the trip far surpassed all our expectations. Everything went off in a splendid manner.

One thing for which we all have to be thankful is that there were no serious accident or illness among the boys while on the trip. The Scoutmaster while hoping and praying that nothing of the sort would be needed, took with him a medical kit in case there should be any unforeseen troubles of this nature. However he is very thankful that it was practically all returned.

I should fail to take advantage of this opportunity to express to the public my highest esteem and respect for the boys who accompanied me on the trip to the mountains. Not a finer, more wholesome set of boys could be found anywhere. They were all perfect gentlemen. Any town or community could well be proud of boys like that. I am glad that I have the privilege of associating with them. Since I know them better, I have become attached to them in a peculiar way. Therefore I am resolved to give more of my time to this work, and if they will keep up interest in the work I am sure that we shall accomplish great things.

While of course you have to take into consideration that boys are boys for a' that and a' that; and you may always expect to find a little mischief among boys. But that was at the minimum among the boys in camp. The majority of the boys realized that they must give me as little trouble as possible, so that I might have a good time as well as they. But there were some who forgot this for a time and disobeyed my orders, and I was forced to administer punishment accordingly.

The following named boys did not disobey any of my orders, and therefore did not give me any trouble at all: William Adams, Milfred Howard, Paul Morrison, George Morrison, Harry Ross, Ray Thurston, Rex Van Havis, Morris Collier, Howell Johnson, Charlie Fitzgerald, Tillman Durdin, John Hibdon, and Bobbie Dean.

The following boys, while they did not commit any great offenses, yet they disobeyed my orders and were punished for it: Bill Dean, James Harrison, Denwood Ross, Gordon Steine, Alfred Stephen, J. E. Couch, Charles Hudson, and Jack Camp.

J. L. SPEARS,
Scout Master.

FERGUSON-DUNCAN

The friends and acquaintances of Mr. and Mrs. Trav Windham will be pleased to hear of the marriage of their grandson, Mr. Oscar Lee Ferguson to Miss Georgia Duncan. This wedding took place in El Paso, where these young people reside, on Thursday, July 27.

This young man is well known here as were his father, Mr. J. E. Ferguson, and his mother, Mrs. J. W. Brooks (nee Miss Bonnie Lee Windham). We know him to be possessed of many sterling qualities. He was a volunteer in the recent World War, enlisting in the navy, and was a sailor on the battleship New Mexico for two years. The bride is a niece of our Mrs. Tayte Duncan.

The young couple were the recipients of many useful gifts on this occasion, among which were a chest of silver from the groom's parents, a set of china from the parents of the bride, a substantial check from the bride's grandparents and numerous electrical house-keeping articles, bed and table linens also a Victrola from other relatives and friends.

We extend congratulations and best wishes for a long life full of happiness and blessings.

ROADS STAND BY LOYAL EMPLOYEES

New York.—The keynote of the reply made by railway executives representing more than 180 Class I Railroads of the United States to the proposition of President Harding, that "all strikers be returned to their work and their former positions with seniority and other rights unimpaired," lies in the last paragraph from their reply to the President as follows:

"It is submitted that the striking former employees cannot be given preference to employees at present in the service without doing violence to every principle of right and justice involved in this matter, and without the grossest breach of faith on the part of the railroads to the men at present in their service.

"Under these circumstances, it becomes apparent that the railroads cannot consider any settlement of the present strike which does not provide protection in their present employment both to the loyal employees who remained in the service and to the new employees entering it."

The executives had accepted the first two conditions proposed by the President, namely, that both employers and employees accept the decisions of the Labor Board, and that all law suits growing out of the strike be withdrawn; and in relation to the third condition spoke not only as quoted above, but also as follows:

Agree With the President

"The railroad executives and managers agree entirely with the President's statement in his letter that 'it is wholly unthinkable that the Railroad Labor Board can be made a useful agency of the Government in maintaining industrial peace in the railway service unless employers and workers are both prompt and unquestioning in their acceptance of its decisions.'

"Many men in the service refused to join the strike and in so doing were assured of the seniority rights accruing to them and of the permanence of their positions. On some important lines 50 per cent of those refused to join the strike. To these old loyal employees have been added thousands of new men who were employed and could be secured only upon a definite promise that their services would be retained regardless of the settlement of the strike, with all the rights appertaining to such employment, including that of seniority under the working rules and regulations previously approved by the Railroad Labor Board.

"Just the Opposite Effect"

"We especially point out that a refusal to the old men who remained in the service and to the new men who accepted service of the rights of seniority incident to their employment would have just the opposite effect to that desired by the President, and would most seriously discredit the Labor Board.

"The board itself prescribed the rules of seniority under which the men referred to have secured their seniority rights, and the railroad companies have neither the legal nor moral right to deprive these men of those rights. By public utterances since the strike began the board has recognized and emphasized these rights, and to deny them now would, instead of upholding the authority of the Labor Board, overthrow its rules and discredit its authority.

"The Chairman of the Labor Board at the time the strike was called made the following public statement:

"Upon one question the striking employees should not be deceived. Their leader has said that the strikers are no longer employees of the railroads, and they have thus automatically abandoned all the rights they possess under their agreements and under the decisions of the board, including their seniority. This is not the board's action. It is their own.

"Many carriers are giving their former employees the opportunity to re-enter the service within a limited time. It must be understood now that men who remained in the service and those who are now entering it will have rights of seniority that the board could not ignore.

What the Proposed Plan Means

"It must be understood that any proposal that employees now on strike shall be permitted to return to the service, without impairment to their seniority, is merely another way of suggesting that those men who took employment in this crisis in good faith, relying on the promises of the railroads to protect them in their positions, these promises being justified by the authoritative utterances of the Labor Board, and thus have made possible the continued operation of the railroads, shall now be sacrificed in favor of men now on strike, who not only brought about the crisis, but, by their own action and declaration, are no longer employees of the railways, under the jurisdiction of the United States Railroad Labor Board, or subject to the application of the Transportation act.

"In addition to the necessity of upholding the Labor Board, and maintaining the pledges made by the railroads to the men now at work, there is the practical effect on the supervisory officers of a violation of the pledges they were authorized to make. Their discouragement and demoralization would be far more disastrous than this or any other strike."

Makes Millions Think

AN AMERICAN MAGAZINE reporter once asked John Wrigley, the fifty million gum magnate, what he attributed his huge business success to, and the man replied that it was 90 per cent advertising.

Mr. Wrigley is used as a study among journalism classes as the man who accumulated three fortunes and each time spent them for advertising, after which he started in over again.

It is a well-known fact that he spent one million dollars advertising his gum products on Broadway, New York, alone.

THE FUNDAMENTAL FACT —

however, is that after the gum king had spent three fortunes on advertising he did not stop. He let drop a secret that may well be applied to any business, however big, or however small:—

"That advertising is a good deal like feeding a furnace—you have to keep shoveling in the coal in order to keep the fire alive."

A little "ad" dropped here and there in your local paper is really of little value. It is the persistent, weekly and daily call that makes the people sit up and take notice.

WHAT THE ENTERPRISE CAN DO

It can place advertising, based on the inch rate, in 2,300 homes, virtually circulated among 11,500 people for 50 cents. To attempt to reach the same number of people by post card, the only other means of communication, would cost $115.00.

It can readily be seen that there is no argument from an economic standpoint as the cheapest and most effective way of reaching the public.

HOMEY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1922

If a man should put a pair of handcuffs on himself, lead himself to jail, lock the door and throw away the key, we'd most likely drag him out of prison and put him in a padded cell, but we don't do a thing to the bunch that's trying all the time to strip themselves of human rights as well as liberty. Now we are considering censorship of the movies—when we have right with us the only censorship without any law—the censorship of the people. Moral conduct by royal command never has worked out. Let the people have what they want when they want it. Old Dame Nature will batter them into the line of decency. We wouldn't have steam heat today if our aboriginal ancestors hadn't been frozen into moral action.

NEW BUREAU TO STRENGTHEN HOME ECONOMICS WORK

An announcement of unusual significance to both farm and city women was made August 3rd by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to the effect that steps will be taken shortly to "strengthen the scientific work of the Department as it may be related to home economics." A similar statement from Secretary Wallace is being made by Assistant Secretary Pugsley, who is speaking before the American Home Economics Association at Corvallis, Oregon. "Ultimately I have in view making the home economics work an independent bureau," said Secretary Wallace in his preliminary announcement, "ranking with the other bureaus of the department, and placing at the head of it a woman of executive ability, thorough scientific training, and a broad and sympathetic understanding of what is needed to make such a bureau most helpful to the country."

Work for women has grown steadily in the Department of Agriculture. In 1915 what has been called the office of home economics was created as a part of the extension service. In this home economics work a great deal of attention has been given to studies of foods and how best to use them, labor-saving devices for the home, studies of dress-making and materials, etc. While work of this sort is planned primarily for the help of women on the farms, much of it is equally helpful to women in the cities, and especially to those in moderate circumstances who must exercise economy and get the greatest value for the money spent.

The woman chief of the proposed new bureau will rank with the chiefs of the other bureaus of the Department of Agriculture, attend the weekly conferences in the Secretary's office and thus bring the women's viewpoint into the general work of the department.

BAPTIST ENCAMPMENT

The Baptist General First Annual Camp Meeting at Paisano Pass this week has been a great success, both in numbers attending and the presence there of many of the leading preachers of the state. Last Sunday was the banner day from the point of attendance. San Antonio, Del Rio, Alpine, Fort Davis, Marfa and many other places being well represented.

The large tabernacle is electrically lighted and comfortably seated and is admirably suited for the purposes intended.

The arrangement for feeding the guests is splendid. Plates are served and special wants supplied in cafeteria fashion, then at adequate tables under the spreading trees, the meal is eaten. The food is cooked by experts and is finely served.

Various departments of denominational interest and value are conducted at hours of the day not taken up with services. There is also ample time for resting and cultivating the social side of human nature.

Such conferences are worth while and every person will bear witness to the profit to be derived therefrom who puts himself under their influence and inspiration.

Rev. Geo. W. Truett one of the most able divines of Texas addressed the meeting each evening at 7:30 and many have attended especially to hear the words of this great Christian man.

Dr. Gates of San Antonio another great Baptist minister has been preaching each morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. Neal of El Paso, and many other prominent ministers of the Baptist church of the state have also been in attendance and preached great sermons at this First Annual Baptist Encampment at Paisano Pass.

There are several hundred acres of the Camp meeting grounds and plenty of shade and with the convenience of being located directly on the line of the Southern Pacific railroad between Alpine and Marfa this annual event will be a great advertisement to this section and great good will result in a spiritual way to the whole community.

Being located at the highest elevation along the Southern Pacific railroad it will be one of the most attractive places to enjoy an outdoor meeting each year in the state on account of the people enjoying the cool mountain air there in the hot season.

The meeting will close Sunday night—Fort Davis Post.

THE CANADIAN WAY.

"That his labor and service are required in Canada."

These nine words contain the gist of the new Canadian immigration regulations. They set forth what any American citizen entering Canada must be prepared to prove to the satisfaction of the Ministry of Immigration and Colonization. They constitute the provision which the Canadian government has wisely made for the control of immigration and for the prevention of an influx of undesirables.

It is worth noting that the interests of Canada and the Canadian people come first. There is no intimation that the Dominion is regarded as "a land of opportunity" for all who come, or as "a haven for the oppressed of every nation." There is no obligation to welcome them with open arms all and any who wish to try their luck in a new land.

The Canadian people, it seems, have made up their minds pretty definitely in regard to what races make the best Canadians and what occupations within the Dominion need strengthening at this time. Canada wants farmers, laborers, and female servants; the first class if they have sufficient funds to begin farming in Canada, "and the others if they have reasonable assurance of employment." Canada does not want those who will inevitably drift to the city slums and sweatshops, and she has no hesitation about saying so.

The Canadian program will look good to most Americans, if only for the simplicity of it, and the good sense—but what a storm of protest the very suggestion of such a policy would raise in the congress of the United States from half-baked idealists who believe this nation is obligated to throw its doors wide open to all who may not be satisfied elsewhere, and from shrewd politicians who are quick to raise the cry of racial discrimination!

We can envy Canada, easily enough, but

WHO JONES IS

Author of "Pathfinders" and "A Brother of Men"—former editor of Cosmopolitan and associate editor of Colliers—former owner and editor of the Wisconsin State

RICHARD LLOYD JONES

Journal—present joint owner and editor of the Tulsa, Okla., Tribune and the Jacksonville, Fla., Journal.

Jones grew up in Chicago, where his father, one of the most noted ministers in the country was pastor of All Souls Church for forty years. As a boy Jones began his newspaper career by selling Chicago dailies during the anarchists' riots in 1884. When he had $90 saved up, he decided to see the world. The boy of ten took his savings and went to Indianapolis. There he examined the state house, inspected the soda fountains and returned home with a full report. And he's been reporting on places and institutions and men ever since.

Jones was educated in the Universities of Chicago and Wisconsin, but before entering college he had worked as a kitchen boy on a government pilot boat on the Gulf of Mexico; as an apprentice checker and farm hand.

He studied law in Chicago, acquired two legal degrees, took a turn at being a cowboy in Nevada and then decided to be a writer.

During his eleven years of magazine work Jones made journeys of investigation and research that carried him more than 25,000 miles. He saw America first hand—its cities, its towns, its

In 1911 Jones bought the Wisconsin State Journal. When the war broke out he wanted to get into the fighting, but President Wilson told him to would render his best service to his country by staying with his paper. He was a German propaganda agent and stayed and fought a fight against that won the applause of the

In 1919 Jones sold the Wisconsin Journal and bought the Tulsa Tribune, with which paper he fought the biggest battle for honesty in city and state government. Oklahoma has ever known. He drove a corrupt chief of police out of office, stopped the grafters from stealing the people's money, repudiated a thoroughly rotten city administration and awakened the public conscience to questionable practices in the state government.

Recently Jones purchased half interest in the Jacksonville, Fla., Journal.

WHAT JONES WILL DO

No newspaper writer of the day is better fitted to constructively interpret the trend of American thought, its ideals and its practical approach to the problems that must be solved before those ideals are realized.

Jones will write weekly for the Enterprise readers. His first article appears in this issue.

To The Public

Men employed in our mechanical and car departments have been on strike since July 1st against the decision of the United States Railroad Labor Board. The officers and loyal employes of this company are doing all in their power to keep trains operating. If we can have that protection for life and property which the law guarantees, we will succeed. The strikers and their sympathizers, on the other hand, are doing their best, through a campaign of lawlessness, intimidation and terrorism, to prevent our operating trains. The welfare and prosperity of the communities we serve depend upon who wins. The law will be enforced if the public demands it. If the law is enforced, the railway can and will continue to operate trains and give that service so vitally necessary if crops are to be moved and producers and consumers alike spared the suffering and financial loss involved in a tie-up of the transportation industry.

SIDNEY KYLE PASSES AWAY AT PASADENA, CAL.

The whole of this section of not only Reeves county but of West Texas is mourning the loss of one of its best citizens in Sidney Kyle who passed away at a sanitarium in Pasadena, California, August 8. The body was shipped to Pecos Thursday afternoon. The services were held at the residence of Mrs. F. W. Johnson where the body lay in state all through the day. Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. J. M. Garner, pastor of the Baptist church. There were friends here from all over the country to witness the ceremony and pay tribute to a friend. After a prayer by the minister Judge Jas. F. Ross made a very touching talk in which he portrayed the many virtues of a friend and citizen who had no peer in this part of the country. At the services were many people, practically the whole town as well as many from over the country and the procession which followed the body to its last resting place was estimated to be more than a mile long. The Knights of Pythias, of which order he was an honored and faithful member, conducted the services at the grave.

The floral offering was profuse and costly and was piled high upon the mound at the cemetery.

Of Mr. Kyle the following history and tribute was given the editor by Rev. Garner, who conducted the services at the home:

Mr. Sidney Kyle was born Nov. 23, 1869, in Hays county, Texas. He is the son of Capt. Fird Kyle, who for many years rendered valuable service to his state in the Texas legislature and is a descendant of the Burlesons, so well known in Texas history, being a first cousin of the late postmaster general, Albert Sidney Burleson. Mr. Kyle spent his boyhood days around the hearthstone of his father's home, and was an obedient son, untiring in his devotion and service. As he neared manhood his heart felt the pull of the magnet of the big spirit of the west and he came to this part of the state. His honesty ability, and faithful service soon netted him the position of foreman or manager of a ranch. He held such position on both the T. X. and Long S. ranches, and later built up a stock interest of his own.

On January 3, 1903, he was married to Miss Minnie McGonagill at Midland, Texas. There was born to this union one son, Sidney Mack, who possesses many of the traits of his father and bids fair to eventually take his place as a great and good citizen, always a friend to man.

Mr. Kyle never sought to evade his duty as a citizen, but always stood ready in his quiet, unassuming manner to render any service for the good of society and the elevation of human kind. He was a member of the order of Knights of Pythias and honored it by the example of a life which never fell short of its high ideal. For a number of years he was county commissioner, which service he rendered with the highest ability and with many other similar ones, reveal the unselfish side of his nature. He was one who lives for others lives not in vain.

After a lingering illness, during which time every possible effort was put forth to bring relief, Mr. Kyle passed to his reward Aug. 8, 1922, in Pasadena, California. He leaves his widow, one son, three brothers, and two sisters, and numerous friends to mourn his departure and to await with happy anticipation the day when God shall call us hence.

The active pall bearers were: Young Bell, W. W. Camp, W. S. Johnson, W. F. Scott, John Barber, H. S. Ross.

Honorary pall bearers: T. B. Pruet, Jim Andrews, Jim Bradford, C. H. Ross, J. E. Eisenwine, John Camp, Tom Jones, J. W. Wadley, Nick Newell, and L. W. Anderson.

The Enterprise joins a host of friends all over West Texas in extending sincere sympathy to the bereaved.

W. E. Goodloe, division freight and passenger agent of the Santa Fe, with headquarters at Amarillo, was a pleasant visitor at the Enterprise office Thursday of this week. He was down looking over the road and seeing what he could do to further its interest. Mr. Goodloe is an affable gentleman and is always welcome at this office.

Spanish-American—story by Mrs. Gentry.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES
A new interest is being manifested in the church life of late. There were two additions to the church last Sunday and three Wednesday night at prayermeeting. The pastor baptized four happy converts at the close of the prayer service this week. The open air services at night are proving very helpful. We have agreed to hold all of the night services outside until the weather gets cooler. We have a comfortable and convenient place for the outdoor meetings and many have been the expressions of appreciation since we moved out. We will have all regular services next Sunday. The pastor will be happy to meet you there. The public is invited.
J. M. GARNER, Pastor.

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Have you been staying away from church this summer on account of hot weather? If you have, don't you feel way down deep in your heart that that is only an excuse, and that you could have gone to church just about as well as you could stay at home? If it is not too warm for the preacher to do the preaching, which is about as hot as any work you can find, don't you think that with the aid of a fan, you could sit still and listen to him? I believe you could.

You probably think that it does not matter if you miss a service once in a while, but it does. What would happen if everybody thought that way about it? Just think for a moment what this little rhyme means:

"What kind of a church would my church be,
If every member were just like me?"

You will find a hearty welcome at the Presbyterian church next Sunday. The subject for the morning service is: "The Lifetime of The Opportunity." The subject for the evening service is: "A Seven Reel Feature Study of the Gospel Fisherman Who Founded the Win One Legion." One of these reels shows the fisherman up as a Scout. A special invitation to the Scouts to come to this service.

J. L. SPEARS, Pastor.

ENTERTAINS FOR GUESTS
A very pretty party was enjoyed Thursday afternoon by friends of Mrs. Herbert Prickett, who entertained with 8 tables of bridge for her house guests, Mrs. Arthur Scudamore of Natchez, Miss., and Mrs. Rowan Hudson of Dallas. The punch bowl was presided over by Miss Katherine Dean and Louise Starley, dainty and winsome in organly frocks of green and rose. At the conclusion of the games Miss Hazel Sparks favored the guests with two beautiful songs that were enjoyed by all. Mrs. W. W. Dean made high score and was presented with a beautiful fan. Low score was made by Mrs. L. W. Anderson who was presented with a bottle of catchup with the suggestion that she "catch up" on her playing. Guest favors of handkerchiefs were presented to Mrs. Scudamore, Mrs. Hudson, Mrs. Chas. Miller and Miss Breeding. Those enjoying this pleasant hospitality were: Mesdames L. W. Anderson, W. M. Collie, W. W. Dean, E. G. Weyer, J. W. Moore, J. E. Starley, David Tudor, Dorothy Heard, Chas. Young, Ira J. Bell, Donald Bell, Mable Beauchamp, J. A. Drane, Harry Woods, Ralph Williams, Arch Bell, John Baker, Guy Ratliff, John Howard, Carl Smith, Willie Hudson, Clay Slack, Monroe Kerr, H. C. Robertson, Misses Hazel Sparks, Mozell Bryan and Evelyn Slack. The out of town guest enjoying this occasion were Miss Laura Breeding of Carlsbad, N. M., Mrs. W. W. Hubbard, Miss Frances Hubbard, Mrs. Birge Holt and Mrs. Chas. Miller of Barstow, and the honorees, Mrs. Scudamore of Natchez, Miss., and Mrs. Hudson of Dallas. "Tuti fruit" ice cream and cake was served.

WEDDING BELLS
Edgar George of Edge, Texas, and Miss Mary Barlow of Balmorhea, were united in marriage at Saragosa Tuesday afternoon in the presence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Barlow. The Rev. Mr. Dickson officiated. The bride is one of the most popular young women in the Balmorhea country as was testified by the way the citizens, young and old, who entertained them Tuesday night with a serenade and an old-time charivari. Mr. George is said to be a splendid young man and a christian gentleman. They will probably make their home at Balmorhea. The Enterprise extends congratulations.
