EDISON'S PREDICTION.

Thomas A. Edison predicts that within the next twenty years the art of moulding concrete will reach a marvelous degree of perfection in architecture. This will not be achieved by great expenditure of money; it will be accomplished by labor-saving appliances which will so cheapen the cost of production that, twenty years hence, the poor will have more beautiful homes than the rich can now aspire to.

Mr. Edison predicts that moving-picture machines will be so perfected that the characters will move and speak, and other stage accessories will make the illusion perfect. Such entertainments, he says, can be provided for five cents, and will give the millions of working people a chance to be amused and improved. The result will be a hard blow to the saloon.

Locomotives will pass out of existence, and all railroads will be operated by electricity. This prophecy seems very evident of fulfillment. An artist searching for a model of a steam locomotive found on the other day that to see an old-fashioned engine he would have to go to Jersey City, as electricity operates all roads running into New York proper.

The water power of our brooks and rivers will be utilized by electricity to an extent now undreamed of.

A new fertilizer will spring into existence containing nitrogen in large quantities. Electricity will draw this from the air, and will greatly increase the arability of our land. This is done to a large extent today in Sweden.

Aerial navigation will be firmly established, and will be on a sound, practical working basis in twenty years.

Our bodies will be fortified against the ravages of disease by the use of serums, so that man will live much longer than now and suffer far less from pain. The present fight against cancer and tuberculosis will be carried to a successful finish, and both these dreaded scourges will be as rare as smallpox.

Our coal supply will be much better understood, by which ninety per cent of its efficiency will not be thrown away, as it is today.

A new force in nature will be discovered, by which things now dubbed "psychic" will be well understood. Mental phenomena will then seem no more wonderful than physical phenomena do now. We now have but five senses. If we knew more we would have at least eight.—Success Magazine.

PLAINVIEW HONORED.

Mrs. W. B. Joiner, president of the Baraca Class at this place, is in receipt of a letter from the superintendent of the International Sunday School Association, stating that he was preparing a bulletin entitled, "One Hundred Things One Hundred Classes Are Doing," and requested her to send on a report of her work among the Baracas, which she immediately agreed to do.

Plainview is getting to the front in every line.

CO-OPERATION WAS THE SLOGAN

Large and Enthusiastic Gathering---Reorganization of the Plainview Commercial Club

A large and representative gathering of Plainview's citizens met at the Baptist church last Tuesday night for the purpose of re-organizing the Commercial Club upon a more substantial and extensive basis. A large number of the members of the Civic League were present, including the daughters of the business and leading men of Plainview.

Temporary Chairman A. E. Harp called the house to order. After an invocation by Rev. J. H. Abney, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and singing of "America" by the audience, Mayor Jas. R. DeLay made the opening talk. A burst of applause greeted him as he stepped upon the rostrum, testifying the esteem in which the chief city official is held by his fellow townsmen.

Mayor DeLay contrasted the present scene with the condition of Plainview five or six years ago, paying the ladies of the Civic League a high compliment regarding the improved appearance of the streets and premises of the city. He urged the need of a trained secretary for the Commercial Club: a man who would be a town builder and city booster—one who could devote his whole time to the interests of Plainview, bringing in new plans for the enlarging and upbuilding of our beloved city.

Rev. J. H. Abney made a short talk upon the three great interests of Plainview—business, educational and religious—urging the need of co-operation along these lines; that one without the other was void. He spoke in glowing terms of the greater Plainview, that will surely make good at no distant day, surrounded by a chain of educational institutions, and with a business center that will only be surpassed by Fort Worth and Dallas.

The most interesting—to the ladies—and novel features of the program were the excellent talks made by three of the leading and representative women of Plainview.

Mrs. W. B. Joiner, in her inimitable way, spoke of the "Co-operation of the Civic League and Business Interests of Plainview," and pressed the great need of making Plainview a "city beautiful." Mrs. Joiner complimented the efficient help given by some of the business men in Civic League work, but asked for greater co-operation in future.

Mrs. L. A. Knight, upon "Should the Ladies Co-operate in the Upbuilding of the Commercial Interests of Plainview?" proved most emphatically that they should. Mrs. Knight has watched Plainview grow from infancy to her present status of the Dallas of the West, and knows what the wives and mothers of the early settlers did in promulgating the growth of the town.

Mrs. J. N. Donohoo is another of those brave women who have helped in the building up of Plainview. In her talk, "Should the Moral Forces of the City Co-operate with the Commercial Interests?" she exemplified the fact that morality and commerce go hand in hand, and that good morals were necessary to make a good town. The talks made by these ladies were enthusiastically received, and a motion was made that copies of them should be filed with the secretary of the Club, and that they should be printed in the county papers.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Secretary Foster, and adopted by the Club.

The following officers were nominated and unanimously elected: E. Dowden, president; W. A. Parker, vice president; J. H. Slaton, treasurer. Secretary to be elected later.

Mr. Dowden immediately took charge of the meeting, thanking his fellow townsmen for the honor conferred upon him, and asking the help of the citizens of Plainview in the upbuilding of the town.

The constitution and by-laws handed in by E. H. Perry, chairman of the committee on that subject, were adopted, after some discussion.

The Commercial Club of Plainview is now a working, hustling organization. It has seven directors, comprised of the wide-awake business men of the town, and with the efficient management of the officials elected last Tuesday night, it will surely make good for the present and future of the town. Forty-odd names were placed upon the membership roll, and the assessment is so low that every man who has the interests of Plainview at heart can become a member.

"Co-operation" was the slogan of the meeting, and "Co-operation" should be the watchword of every man and woman within the corporate limits of the town, all working together for the good of Plainview. Boost Plainview and you will boost your own interest. A strong pull and a pull together will, in a short time, make Plainview just what she is destined to be, the "Dallas of the West."

K. P. LODGE AT HEREFORD.

Last Friday a number of the local K. P.'s left for Hereford in autos to establish a Knights of Pythias lodge at that place, returning Saturday morning.

The personnel of the party was as follows: Lee Shropshire, David Collier, R. M. Winn, Robt. Tudor, J. J. Ellerd, R. M. Ellerd, Lee Massingale, J. H. Foster, Tom Wilson, A. C. Hatchell, Ed Hayes and W. S. Reid.

After the institution of the new lodge Friday night, the visitors were the guests of honor at a midnight banquet, which was elegant and lavish in menu and appointment.

Before their departure the next morning, the Plainview delegation was taken for an auto ride over the beautiful little city, and returned home enthusiastic in their praises of the hospitality of Hereford.

In connection with the institution of the new lodge at Hereford, it is well to state that Plainview has the honor of having the District Deputy Grand Chancellor in her midst, Lee Shropshire having been appointed to that office at the last meeting of the Grand Lodge.

KING OF THE TRUSTS.

An exchange has developed the biggest trust on earth. It is the country newspaper. It trusts everybody, gets cussed for trusting, mistrusted for cussing, and if it busts for trusting, gets cussed for busting. So there you are.—The Rambler Magazine.

CURRENCY LEGISLATION.

There is no work to be done for the country that is more important than the enactment of a satisfactory currency law. There is no work more difficult. The mass of the people must realize the need of it and demand that it shall be done, yet they are at present incompetent to judge of the merits of any currency law that is proposed to them. They know, we presume, that they need something, but they do not know what that something is. A currency law is absolutely a matter for experts. The Aldrich-Vreeland law, intended to be a temporary safeguard against fiscal difficulties, expires by limitation in June, 1914. Meanwhile a bill must be drafted and passed which shall replace it. The country looks to the monetary commission appointed by Congress to tell what the new law shall be. The commission has been at work on the problem for a year, and is still in Europe examining the monetary systems of other countries. When it gets home, as it will soon, and has come to agreement as to what it shall recommend, it is going to expound its conclusions to the country. It is understood that it will recommend a central bank of issue. Before we can have that, the old prejudice that has come down from Jackson's time against a United States Bank must be overcome. It will be hard work to do that for the prejudice was very strong in its day, and has come down by an inheritance in many American families. We must all, however, approach this subject with open minds and try to get sufficient insight into it to choose wisely between alternate courses, and give our support intelligently when we give it at all. One of the hardest jobs that has been set for us as citizens of a Republic is this one of revising our monetary system, and setting up one that will be safe.—Harper's Weekly.

FIRE.

The residence of J. I. Robbins, corner of Westmoreland and West First streets, was slightly damaged on the interior last Sunday afternoon by a fire which originated from hot ashes falling from the stove. With the exception of a small hole in the floor, and the loss of some bedding, the damage was comparatively light.

C. H. White returned from Kansas City last Friday night.

THE TWO NEW DISEASES.

Poor old appendicitis is being crowded to the wall. Pellegra and hookworm are occupying the attention of the medical world at the present time.

The searchlight of science has discovered that the pale, colorless, clay-eating specimens of humanity found in some of the southeastern states are not in that condition because of their environments and ignorant ancestry, but because they are the innocent victims of a little parasite called the hookworm.

The writer remembers those denizens of the Georgia pinelands, commonly called "crackers," looked down upon by white and black alike, and is glad to know that science has discovered some reason for their proverbial shiftlessness, and some cure for it.

Rockefeller's millions may be needed in other parts of the South to probe the whys and wherefores of the hookworm, but on the sunny uplands of the Texas Plains poverty and inertia are unknown quantities. Neither hookworm nor pellegra can flourish in the bracing air and high altitude of this section. Both the altitude and ozone are conducive to industry and right living, and good health follows in their wake. The coming generation of the Plains can boast of red blood, strong limbs, bright faces and good appetites. They do not fear the newly discovered spectres of disease that are troubling other parts of the South, for those aforesaid spectres would run on a tough proposition if they tackled this part of Texas.

HOME MISSION NOTES.

The Woman's Home Mission Society met for the monthly Bible Study Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with good attendance. Mrs. L. P. Martin was leader.

The Bible Study work for the year has been the life of Paul, and has been of unusual interest. This lesson was a very fine one and was greatly enjoyed.

A short business session was held to complete plans for the Thanksgiving dinner. A convenient building will be arranged for, and committees to solicit all the good things to be served have been appointed, as well as the numerous other committees necessary, so the good people of Plainview may prepare to eat a good Thanksgiving dinner, if they eat with the Methodist ladies.

A message was brought to the Society that the box sent to the Dallas Home had been received, and the thanks of the people there sent in return.

The Study Circle followed, with a good meeting. Earnest, interested discussions of many of the problems of the day are often introduced by some topic of the lesson. Every woman who is taking part in these meetings is getting new views and broader conceptions of the mission of the Church to the world. The study is stimulating, both mentally and spiritually, and new members are added to the Study Circle almost every week. The leader is greatly pleased with the interest shown.

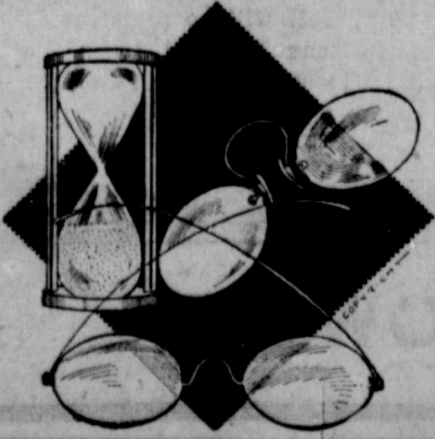

Next Monday will be Press Day of the Home Mission, with the Study Circle afterward.

GABIE BETTS-BURTON.

COMMANDERY MEETING.

The stated conclave of Commandery Fifty-three met in Plainview Monday night. The attendance was good and much interest manifested.

The Plainview commandery has the largest membership on the Plains, including all the Knights Templar from Tullia to Brownfield.

NOTICE—All announcements of any church pertaining to services are welcomed to the columns of The Herald FREE; but any announcement of a bazaar, ice cream supper or any plan to get money is looked upon as a business proposition, and will be charged for accordingly.

All communications, remittances, etc., should be addressed to The Herald Publishing Company, Postoffice Box 368, Plainview, Texas.

In following Taft's travels through the West and South, it is interesting to note the variety of food he has had to swallow, and over which he has had to smile and smile while he inwardly trembled at the result. From Texas beefsteak and Georgia 'possum,—and, after all, we find out he doesn't love 'possum,—to pine bark stew in South Carolina, with numerous banquets thrown in between the acts for good measure, and still he lives! Poor man! He has been a lingering victim of the kindness of a loyal people. To crown it all, he is to be, on his return to Washington, the recipient of a mammoth mince pie, the largest ever made. If he survives the culinary trials of his tour, and the ordeal of the pie, the United States will have cause to give thanks for a president that can withstand any of the ills to which mankind is heir.

Crackin' bread and yellow corn pone have been suppoenaed by pellagra experts as suspicious characters. Even dear old "pearl grits" and "mush and milk" are being given the third degree. But at that there's no room for pessimism. An Omaha concern is making wholesome muffins and bread from "alfalfa meal." Served hot, with "peanut butter," there's no reason why we should miss our corn pone. Besides, Texas has the alfalfa plantation and the peanut patch. Huh! Who said pellagra?—Fort Worth Record.

Of Plainview and its glory,

Plainview has six passenger trains a day, in reality, and not in anticipation. What she will have in two years is hard to tell.

AIRSHIP FACTORY FOR DALLAS.

California Man to Establish New Industry in That City.

J. M. Keller, of Oakland, California, is here for the purpose of establishing a factory to build airships. "I intended to come to Texas last August to build and exhibit at the state fair an airship," he said yesterday, "but I was compelled to go to a sanitarium and undergo an operation. Now that I am here in Dallas I shall remain and build my airship here."

"I claim to have constructed in 1881 the first airship model that was ever made. I now have the most complete and serviceable dirigible airship in the world, and the only aeroplane that can rise instantly from the ground at low speed. Mine is the only dirigible whose gas bag is supported by framework, except Count Zeppelin's big machine, whose framework is inside the gas bag and hence inaccessible in case of accident. The framework of mine is on the outside. This framework, which is of aluminum tubing, not only holds the gas bag rigid for pulling against a twenty-five mile wind, but it secures an aeroplane for giving the car equilibrium and also renders it possible to attach the rudder to the gas bag instead of to the car, as in all other dirigibles.

"In addition to a propeller of seven feet in front of the car, there is a propeller of five feet attached to either side of the car, which, being adjustable, can be turned in any direction for either lifting or guiding, and when thrown forward the three of them pull the car forward at terrific speed through the air. The gas bag, which is elliptical in shape, is 124 feet in length and twenty-four feet in diameter, and the car, boat-shaped, is forty-five feet in length, three feet in width, with sides three feet high. This guarantees safety in case the car should drop on water, and the car is guarded against falling at a dangerous velocity by the fact that the gas bag is built in six compartments, so as to render complete deflation impossible. Moreover, the aeroplane attachment can, by the mere pulling of a cord, be converted into a parachute for lowering the ship safely to the ground. As final proof of the complete success of my machine, I hold the highest diploma awarded by the Michigan State Agricultural Fair."

Mr. Keller, who has been a great hunter, declares that the one principle of the thousands of tenants of the air is that of the monoplane and not the biplane, and that it was from the birds that he derived his conception of his monoplane. In shape his monoplane is a torpedo, the figure which offers the least resistance to the wind. This machine has, in addition to a propeller, two sets of fans, one set on either side of the car. These opposing fans, by working in opposite directions, instantly lift the car. He explains that the lightness of the air is overcome, not by the speed of the car through the air, but by the force of the resistance from the artificial currents of air created by the speed of these fans.

"The monoplane machine," proceeded Mr. Keller, "is forty-two feet in length by ten feet in diameter. Its framework is of aluminum tubing and seamless steel, rendering it at once the strongest and lightest possible machine. It is supplied with an adjustable monoplane surface above the car, ten by twenty feet, from which extend, on either side, a wing-like surface eight by twenty feet for lifting powers. Also, extending on either side of the body of the car is a surface eight by twenty feet for giving the car equilibrium. The sum of these gives a total sustaining surface of 840 square feet over Wright's biplane, of only 540 square feet. The total weight of my machine is only 500 pounds, while Wright's is more than 900 pounds. My machine is capable of traveling at a rate of eighty to 100 miles an hour.

"The ownership of all the patents on these machines is vested in the Keller Monoplane Airship Company."

Mr. Keller, as president of the company, says that the first two ships will be built in Dallas, and will be completed for flight by about the first of the year.—Dallas News.

SIX O'CLOCK DINNERS.

Two informal, but very pleasant, social affairs took place Saturday evening in the dinners given by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Slaton and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. McClelland.

The former was complimentary to Mrs. Slaton's brother, Gene Dyer, and his bride of a few weeks. Though entirely informal, the dinner was a social success. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Burch, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Burch, Miss Annie Maude Davidson and the guests of honor.

The dinner given by Mr. and Mrs.

McClelland was also informal, but perfect in appointment. Covers were laid for Miss Bessie Parr and Luther Windsor, Miss Mary Parr and Mr. Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gray Burch, Mr. and Mrs. Melville Grant Crawford, of Dallas, and Mr. and Mrs. John J. Roberts, of Hale Center.

MAMMOTH SALE.

The Herald calls attention this week to the immense sale put on by Wayland & Wofford. These gentlemen believe in the efficacy of advertising. They tell the people what they have to sell and ask them to come and inspect their stock. They are well known in the business circles of Plainview, and to a great many in the surrounding country, both of them having been here when Plainview was but an embryo town of a few hundred inhabitants.

They are selling seasonal goods at greatly reduced prices. It is the opportunity of the season to lay in a supply of winter clothing for every member of the family, from the woot to the father. The northerners have begun to blow, and those blankets at the big sale look mighty good to a fellow when he is cold, and so do the piles of winter clothing, that suggest warmth and comfort on frosty mornings.

Watch Wayland & Wofford while the sale is on and see if they do not make good all they promise in the way of reduced prices. Call and see them, anyway; you will find a hearty welcome and courteous treatment.

They mean business. They have the goods and must sell them to make room for a new supply. This firm belongs to the old reliables of Plainview; they are substantial business men and their homes and financial interests are centered in our town. They have the welfare of Plainview at heart, and desire to meet every man, woman and child in Hale county at their store in the next ten days.

Wayland & Wofford will do the right thing by their customers—try them, and see if they don't. You will save money by going to their sale in the Wayland building next week. They have outfits for the bride and the groom, the school boy and the school girl, the matron and the maid, for any and all occasions, for any purse at any price.

Just go to the sale and invest a little. You will be repaid for doing so.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Tulia Woman Victim of Horrible Accident on Thursday of Last Week.

One of the most shocking and lamentable scenes that ever visited Tulia occurred yesterday about noon. Mrs. Murray, who lived in the northern part of town, attempted to kindle a fire, to prepare the noonday meal, with coal oil, when the oil ignited, which caused the can to explode and set fire to her clothing. It seems that she was alone in her home, and was pouring coal oil from a five-gallon can into the stove, when the oil ignited from some coals or embers which she had overlooked being in the stove, and when the explosion came it set fire to her clothing. She ran out of the house and made her way to the home of Mrs. Edwards, which is only a few feet away. Mr. Denny, a carpenter, who was at work on the house occupied by the family of Mr. Edwards, was the first to discover her and go to her assistance. Mr. Denney says when he reached her she was a complete mass of flames, and that the flames were leaping from eight to ten feet high. He tore her clothing from her as rapidly as possible and called to Mrs. Edwards to bring him a quilt, which he wrapped about her and smothered the flames. Medical attention was immediately summoned, and, upon examination, it was discovered that she was burned badly all over, except her face, and that it was impossible for her to survive. She died about five o'clock in the afternoon. She leaves two small children and other relatives to mourn her sad departure. The accident was extremely distressing, and should be a warning to those who carelessly handle coal oil and gasoline.—Tulia Standard.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIAL.

Miss Marie Cox entertained the senior Christian Endeavor last Friday evening, in business and social session, at her home in East Plainview.

After the business had been attended to, the remainder of the evening was spent in games and other social pleasures.

Miss Windsor favored the company with a guitar solo, and Miss Johns gave a reading. Both numbers were par excellent, and much enjoyed by those present.

Chocolate and wafers were served before the departure of the guests. Miss Cox proved a charming hostess, and is ever ready to entertain in church and Endeavor work.

CATHOLIC SCHOOL IN AMARILLO.

The Catholics of Amalillo have determined to erect a boarding school and academy, to be ready for use September 1, next year. This announcement was made recently by Rev. D. H. Dunne, pastor of the Sacred Heart Catholic church. It is not probable that the school could occupy the grounds recently purchased for a church, but a separate site will be secured, and that with as little delay as possible. The cost of the building, governed by the liberality of the citizenship of Amarillo, will range from $40,000 to $100,000.

CHANGES IN REAL ESTATE.

STILL WITH THE JOB.

In "The Confessions of Eve," printed in the Garden of Eden, and immediately suppressed by an outraged Adam, there is a curious story. Six women, before starting out to attend an evening function, agreed to draw out an Adam on the subject of himself, to listen as long as he would talk. The first woman lay down on the job, crawling home utterly exhausted, at sunrise. The second woman stayed with it until she was stone-deaf. The third was captured after many days—a gibbering idiot. The fourth committed suicide. The fifth has never been heard from. And the sixth is listening yet.—Exchange.

BURNED SECTION TO BE REBUILT

The Herald learns from a reliable source that Charles Saigling, of McKinney, Texas, who owned the largest building destroyed by the recent fire, will, in the next few days, begin the erection of a two-story, seventy-five-foot, building on the southwest corner of the square. The lower story will be occupied by a mercantile firm, and the second by real estate offices. The plans for the new building were received the day before the fire, as Mr. Saigling intended removing the old frame building and replacing it with another, but the flames anticipated the move.

The other lots made vacant by the fire will soon be occupied by modern structures, in keeping with the other business houses recently put up in Plainview.

THEY KNOW

What Farming is, Having Followed it for Thirty Years. . . .

Jones lived on an Iowa farm and Murphy on an East Texas farm, and if any one knows what good land is they ought to know. It is to their interest to show nothing but good lands, and, knowing what is good, you can safely trust your business to them. They have all sorts of bargains in Plains lands, in all sizes and to suit all pocketbooks.

TIN CAN SMOKEHOUSE.

One of the most significant changes in the domestic economy of the American people is the substitution of the tin can for the smokehouse. It is not many years since the old-fashioned smokehouse, with its dirt floor and slow fire of hickory chips, sprinkled with red pepper and aromatic herbs, supplied the family larder with delicious hams, sausage and bacon, while the convenient cellar was stocked with a never-failing supply of potatoes, pumpkins and other products of the farm and garden. But a new order cometh. The tin can is taking the place of the cellar and the smokehouse, and instead of the thrifty housewife drawing her supplies for the daily needs of the family from these storehouses she sends the hired boy to the grocery store for a few cans of tomatoes, potatoes, corn, and even beef and bacon, to say nothing of the delicacies, such as French peas, asparagus, mushrooms, etc.

Progress and commercial enterprise may have ordained this change, and it may be useless to inveigh against it, but it has its disadvantages as well as its advantages. While in some respects it is a convenience, it is likewise more expensive and has a tendency to encourage an economy which leads away from the robustness of the race when there were no limitations on either the quality or the quantity of food served in American households.

Statisticians inform us that the American people consume 800,000,000 cans of tomatoes, corn and peas each year. Probably many times as much other canned foods is sold annually. Until pure food laws began to exert a wholesome influence on the quality, much of the foodstuff that found its way into cans was of an inferior quality. Increased knowledge of the science of food preservation and the terrors of the law have done much to improve the quality, and the increasing number of city dwellers has increased the consumption.

There is this much, however, to be said in favor of canned food. It utilizes much that would otherwise go to waste. The farmer who raises more tomatoes than he can sell to advantage in the fresh state, can, with an inexpensive home canning outfit, put them into cans and find a ready market at good prices. The same is true of corn, okra, potatoes, asparagus and many other garden and farm products.

But, while admitting the convenience and utility of canned food, many of us will grieve over the passing of the smokehouse and the farm cellar.

THE VALUE OF A SMILE.

The thing that goes the farthest
Toward making life worth while,
That costs the least and does the most
Is just a pleasant smile.
It's full of worth and goodness, too,
With hearty kindness blent;
It's worth a million dollars—
And doesn't cost a cent!
—Eva Jackson, in National Daily.

There are some who think that every man who goes out for a good time ought to be run in.

The Swine or the Flower?

Oh me! I saw a huge and loathsome sty,
Wherein a drove of wallowing swine were barred,
Whose banquet shocked the nostril and the eye;
Then spoke a voice, "Behold the source of LARD!"

I fled, and saw a field that seemed at first
One glistening mass of roses pure and white,
With dewy buds 'mid dark green foliage nursed;
And as I lingered o'er the lovely sight,
The summer breeze that cooled that Southern scene,
Whispered, "Behold the source of COTTOLENE!"

"Nature's Gift from the Sunny South"

COTTOLENE is a pure and wholesome frying and shortening medium, made from refined cottonseed oil. There is not an ounce of hog fat in it to make food unwholesome, greasy and indigestible. As evidence of its superiority, COTTOLENE received Grand Prize (highest possible award) at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition; and Gold Medals (also representing highest awards in each case) at the Charleston Exposition, the Paris Exposition, and the Chicago World's Fair. In fact, in every case where COTTOLENE has been exhibited in competition with other cooking fats, it has invariably been granted the highest award.

GOOD ADVICE FOR HUSBANDS.

Written Long Ago, but in Every Way Applicable Today.

A clergyman took down a small volume.
"This is called," he said, "the 'Instructions of Ptah-ho-Tep.' It is one of the very oldest papyrus writings known. It gives, among other things, advice to husbands, and that advice is as good today as it ever was. Listen."
And he read:
"If thou be wise, furnish thy house well.
"Woo thy wife ever, and never quarrel with her.
"Nourish her daintily.
"Deck her out, for fine dress is her greatest delight.
"Feed her upon sweets.
"Perfume her.
"Make her glad with praise
"Adorn her with jewels, feathers and the skins of beasts, as sumptuously as thy purse will suffer."—Exchange.

DEMOCRACY AND EVOLUTION.

From an address by Henry Clews, LL. D.: "In looking through the history of the world we notice that in every age there has always been one nation ahead of all other nations. The destiny of this country is to be such a leader, and not only a leader, but a shelter and protection to the unfortunate and persecuted children of the Old World; but in order that she may be recognized as the undisputed leader in progress she must have institutions based upon progressive principles and whose object is to discover ways and means whereby the evolution of the country may be assisted and progress hastened.
"Nothing in this whole world is stationary, but everything is subject to change. The structures of government are subject to this law. This is the law of evolution, which applies to inanimate as well as animate structures.
"If Darwin's theory, that we have all evolved from cruder organisms, is true, it is also true as applied to governments, and if we search the history of the world we find that governments have passed through the successive stage of evolution. Now, if evolution is the law by which the progress of governments must be governed, then that evolution must go on, and it would be absurd to assume that we have reached the stage when no further advancement will take place. Hence the doctrine of a certain class of political teachers—the so-called "stand-pat" policy—is not only untrue, but it is ridiculous on its face. It is the doctrine of the highwayman, who wants you to stand pat while he is picking your pocket. It is evident that if private undertakings make progress while the government stands pat, then the private undertakings can take advantage of that government whenever it is conducive to their interests to do so.
"Thomas Jefferson says: 'Some men look at constitutions with sanctimonious reverence, and deem the ark of the covenant too sacred to be touched. They ascribe to the men of the preceding age a wisdom more than half human and suppose that what they did to be beyond amendment. * * * I know that laws and institutions must go hand in hand with progress of the human mind. As that becomes more developed, more enlightened * * * institutions must advance also and keep pace with the times.'
"The cause of whatever evil we have in this country lies in the fact that the entire machinery of our government is not fully up to date. It does not keep pace with the times. Another reason is that we have no definite standard upon which our relations, both public and private, could be adjusted. In the government of the old world there is a king or a class of men who set up standards for the people. We have nothing of that kind here. Our standards, therefore, are varied and conflicting, they bring discord and cause strife, for men are unable to understand each other. This diversity of opinion is an evil in itself, and it is a great evil when there is no standard of arbitration which can be accepted by every one as being just.

"We are approaching a period when the government must keep pace with the times. We see specialization existing in various branches of industries. We have not only specialists—men who specialize a certain branch of learning—but also men who divide that branch and make a specialty of every part of it. Thus we have doctors and lawyers: doctors divide themselves into osteopaths, homeopaths, allopaths, eye specialists and lung specialists; and there are mining lawyers, corporation and criminal lawyers, etc.

The same thing is true in regard to bankers and every branch of commerce and industry. Politics is the one exception to this rule. We have men who come into politics as specialists of various vocations and avocations, pre-eminently those who practice behind the bar as well as those who practice before it. Such a state of affairs might be suitable for a primitive people, composed entirely of agriculturists and other simple vocations, but it will never do for a highly progressive state; in fact, the most progressive country on the face of the earth. This is a serious drawback to our democratic arrangement, and Mr. Carlyle is not altogether wrong when he remarks that, "If nine men out of ten are blockheads, as is common calculation, how in the name of heaven can we make a ballot-box grind you wisdom out of those ten men."

"This is a serious drawback in democracy, and we must find some means whereby we can have trained statesmen and diplomats, who make as much a profession of their particular field of work as is done in other professions."

A HOSPITAL ANSWER.

"How is Mrs. Margin getting along?" came the inquiry over the hospital phone.

"She's doing very nicely," replied the ever-present hospital voice.

"Be a little more explicit, please. This is her physician, Dr. Grill, talking!"

"Oh! beg pardon, doctor, I'll inquire!"

After an interim of tow minutes the hospital voice respectfully returns.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION.

THE STATE OF TEXAS.

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Hale County, Greeting:

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to summon Henry Russell by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the 64th Judicial District; but if there be no newspaper published in said Judicial District, then in a newspaper published in the nearest District to said 64th Judicial District, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Hale County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Plainview, Texas, on the First Monday in October, A. D. 1908, the same being the Fifth day of October, 1908, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 5th day of September, A. D. 1908, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 432, wherein J. Breckenridge is Plaintiff, and Henry Russell is Defendant, and said petition alleging that on the 8th day of October, A. D. 1906, plaintiff and defendant entered into a contract in writing, whereby it was mutually agreed that defendant should sell to plaintiff a certain tract of land situated in the County of Hale, containing 320 acres, and known as the East One-Half of Sec. 12, Block A.1, for the sum of $8,639.98, to be paid therefor by plaintiff; that defendant was acting as agent for L. J. Yates, the owner of the above described land, and under his instructions; that the defendant should make a good title to said tract of land and deliver a deed therefor to plaintiff; and that plaintiff should pay to defendant the sum of One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars cash, and the balance of the consideration to be paid in three notes, in the sum of $2,546.66 each, due in one, two and three years, upon the delivery of the deed as aforesaid. That in pursuance of said agreement the plaintiff on the 8th day of October, A. D. 1906, paid to the defendant the sum of One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars, to be to and for the use of the defendant and to be retained by him on account of the purchase money. If plaintiff should complete his purchase and receive the deed to said premises, but to be to and for the use of plaintiff, and to be returned to him, if the defendant should fail or refuse to fulfill his agreement as aforesaid and give a deed of the premises at the time and pursuant to the agreement hereinbefore set forth. That defendant represented to the plaintiff that he had authority to sell the above described land on conditions and terms as hereinbefore set out, whereas, in fact and in truth, he had no authority to sell the said land otherwise than for cash; that in order to induce the plaintiff to buy the said land the defendant falsely and fraudulently represented to the plaintiff that he had the authority to make the sale on conditions and terms as aforesaid, and, in fact, did make the sale on terms and conditions as hereinbefore set out, which conditions and terms were contrary to the instructions of the owner of said land, the said L. J. Yates. That the plaintiff, believing that the defendant had such authority, and acting in good faith, gave his check for One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars on the Knoxville National Bank, Knoxville, Iowa, made payable to Henry Russell or order, as earnest money, and took a receipt therefor, signed by defendant, with the understanding that the same should be paid in as the cash payment in accordance with the conditions and terms of the contract hereinbefore set forth; that the check was sent for collection through the National Bank of Commerce, Kansas City, and stamped by them October 12th, 1906, thence to Iowa National Bank, Des Moines, Iowa, October 13th, 1906, and was paid by the Knoxville National Bank, Knoxville, Iowa, October 15th, 1906; that said amount was deposited by the defendant to be credited to his, defendant's, account in the First National Bank of Amarillo, Texas, October 19th, 1906.

The Plaintiff further represents to the Honorable Court, that in pursuance of the conditions and terms of the agreement, he executed three promissory notes in the sum of $2,546.66 each, made payable to the said Henry Russell, and due in one, two and three years; that in so executing said notes he was carrying out the conditions and terms of the agreement, and that he has been ready and willing to do and perform everything in the aforesaid agreement contained on his part, and was at all times ready and willing to accept and take the deed to said premises pursuant to the said agreement, but defendant failed to carry out his part of the said contract, and, in fact, was unable to carry out his part of the agreement because he made the sale without authority, on conditions and terms contrary to the instructions of the owner, L. J. Yates, and accepted the One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars from the plaintiff without authority. That when the defendant so failed to have a good title passed and the deed delivered to the plaintiff, in accordance with the aforesaid agreement, he, the said Henry Russell, released the plaintiff from the obligations of the notes, but failed and refused to return the One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars paid as earnest money, or any part thereof, notwithstanding the same had been demanded of him, the said Henry Russell, to plaintiff's damage in the sum of One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars, with interest thereon from the time same was paid to the defendant until it shall be repaid to plaintiff.

HEREIN FAIL NOT, but have before said Court, at its next regular term, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

WITNESS, J. W. Campbell, Clerk of the District Court of Hale County.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND and the Seal of said Court, at office in Plainview, Texas, this 9th day of September, A. D. 1908.

(SEAL) J. W. CAMPBELL,
Clerk District Court, Hale County.

TEXAS AND THE HOMESEKER.

Scarcely a day passes but what some newspaper has an account of new railroads being projected for Texas. There is no doubt that the Lone Star state is a coming proposition for those seeking land investments. Railroad officials are keen business men. They are not putting their money into projects that are unpromising. If Texas, with its stringent railroad laws, is good enough in the eyes of railroad managers to justify steady extensions and building of new lines, the state should also appeal to the homeseeker.

The Lone Star state is bigger than

Why We Are Stronger.

The old Greeks and Romans were great admirers of health and strength; their pictures and statuary made the muscles of the men stand out like cords.

As a matter of fact we have athletes and strong men—men fed on fine strength making food such as Quaker Scotch Oats—that would win in any contest with the old Roman or Greek champions.

It's a matter of food. The finest food for making strength of bone, muscle and nerve is fine oatmeal. Quaker Scotch Oats is the best because it is pure, no husks or stems or black specks. Farmers' wives are finding that by feeding the farm hands plentifully on Quaker Scotch Oats they get the best results in work and economy. If you are convenient to the store buy the regular size packages; if not near the store, buy the large size family package; if in a hot climate, the hermetically sealed tins.

the British Isles, Greece, Denmark, Turkey in Asia, Holland and Switzerland combined; its agricultural endowments are ten times greater than the total areas of those countries; its native mineral and fuel wealth is equal to the whole of Europe's put together, excepting Russia, and it is capable of supporting a population of more than ninety millions, upon its 265,780 square miles of "room."

It has over 400 miles of coast line, and at Galveston a deep-water harbor great and safe enough to ride the anchored navies of the world. From Texarkana to El Paso, as the crow flies, is further than from Chicago to the Atlantic ocean, and the land that lies between it is not surpassed in natural resources and fertility by any equal area in the world. Every flower, fruit, cereal, fabric and timber known to the temperate and semi-tropic latitudes will flourish upon the broad bosom of this wondrous state.

Texas is not only first in area, but first in the production of cotton, cattle, horses, peaches, pecans and honey; second in the production of hogs and second in railroad mileage; fourth in per capita wealth; fifth in poultry and eggs, and sixth in population.

Texas produces over one-third of the cotton crop of the United States, and over one-fourth of the cotton crop of the world. Texas also has more prairie land than Kansas.

Texas has more timber than Michigan.

Texas has more oak than West Virginia.

The rapid development of Texas at this time affords an incentive for those who want homes to lose no time in coming to Texas. As vast as the area of the state is, the time must come—and sooner than many suppose—when it will all be taken up. Not only is this important for those of other states who are hoping to acquire homes in Texas, but it ought to remind those of our state that now is the time to obtain land. A few more years and cheap land will be as unknown in Texas as in Illinois.—National Live Stock Reporter.

AN HOUR OF REAL ENJOYMENT.

There is an organization in Texas called "The Sacred Harp Association." For the most part these live in East Texas. They are singers, and they use the old Fa-Sol-La song book, once familiar all over the country, and known as "The Sacred Harp." This book contains the songs that were sung in the congregations of worshippers half a century ago, and extended on until the present style of so-called religious music became more popular.

The Sacred Harp Society has an annual gathering at the fair grounds in Dallas every year during the fair. At least one-half day is given up to them, and Music Hall resounds with the tones familiar to the older ones. This year they were on hand. It was an unusual gathering, in that the older persons were in the majority. The bearded patriarch was there, and he sang as he used to sing in days long ago. The grandmothers were there, and they sang the songs they used to use as lullabys to coax their first babies to sleep. With these, though greatly in the minority, was the beardless youth and the winsome maiden, and these sang with an unctious equaled only by their seniors who sat with them.

The songs were familiar, though we had not heard some of them since the days of our callow youth. There was "Ortonville," and "Pisgah," and "Ninety-Fifth," and many others, the titles of which we can not now recall, but the singing of which brought up pleasant memories.

It reminded us of the days when, as a little lad, led by the hand of a father, we were taken well to the front of a church, and there heard these songs of Zion sung. They were sung with the spirit whether they were sung with the understanding or not. In those days the preacher would read the song and then would call for some one to "set and carry the tune." Few of the people possessed a hymn book then, and it was rare, if ever, that the note books were brought to church. Their use was reserved for the "singings," at which the songs were learned—that is, the tunes. When the preacher would read a couple of lines the "tune would be set" by some one, and all the people joined in. When these two lines were sung, two more were "lined out," and so on until the entire song, often five or six, or even more stanzas, had been sung.

In those days the men sang. Yes, the voices of the aged and gray were joined with the stalwart and youthful, for they all sang. The admonition of David, "Let all the people praise Thee, O God," was appreciated by the people of those days. They had no choirs to which was assigned the worship of God in song, but the whole congregation sang, men, women and children. And it was inspiring music, too. Perhaps some of the musical critics would have found fault with it, but it gave the people an uplift, and that is better than to simply entertain them.

As we sat and listened to the Sacred Harp Singers in Music Hall, we soon became reminiscent in our thoughts. Old-time scenes and old-time faces were recalled. The impression made by the singing of these old songs was not unlike the impression made in the long ago. We could not help holding in contrast some of the "rag-time" music with which we are sometimes afflicted, and think how little there is in some of our choppy music to stir up the spiritual man. When these soulful songs, sung by these earnest singers, were listened to for awhile, we remarked to a party near us, "If a man can't preach after such singing as that, it is because there is no preach in him," and we think so yet.—Christian Courier.

ADVERTISING.

The value and importance of advertising was recognized before the Christian era, and has been growing in magnitude ever since. In the present period of activity and progress, judicious advertising has become a science to be appreciated in every profession. The head of nearly every government in the civilized world is an advertiser in one way or another. The leading statesmen, soldiers, politicians, lawyers, doctors, and even many great ministers, are advertisers. They advertise in a different manner from the merchant and the manufacturer, but they advertise just the same.

The leading banks, trust companies and other financial institutions, in their wisdom and foresight, have seen the value of advertising, and have, accordingly, become the best of advertisers; and even the farmers, the most conservative of all men, are gradually realizing the great truth that it pays to advertise. The California fruit growers have a committee on advertising, and are using $50,000 this year, as against $25,000 last year, and $5,000, two years ago, in advertising. Their increased expenditures are evidence of the fact that advertising pays and brings returns.

In some cities the number of cars of California fruits used were doubled in a year, as the result of the advertising campaign. Florida is about to launch a vigorous campaign in the interests of its fruit growers, and California is about to follow suit.

If it pays to advertise merchandise, why not fruit and hay and other farm products, and why not stocks, bonds, securities and everything else of value which some people may hold for exchange and other people may want to purchase. There is virtue in advertising. Ages have demonstrated it, and every age but more fully realizes it.—The Texas Magazine.

Best for Biscuits.
 A prominent teacher in one of the Domestic Science schools in Mississippi writes that she is using Cottolene in her lessons with excellent results. She says: "For biscuits Cottolene is all that could be desired. The biscuits are light and flaky, with none of that disagreeable odor often found in foods shortened with lard. Cottolene is also an excellent medium for frying croquettes and doughnuts. It gives them a clean, crisp, brown crust."
 Other noted experts, such as Mrs. Rorer and Marion Harland, have given similar testimony to the merits of Cottolene. It is a cooking fat made from the finest vegetable oils; it gives better results than lard, and it is much more wholesome and economical as well.

HIGHLAND CLUB.

One of the most novel and pleasant social functions of the autumn was the meeting of the Highland Club on Thursday of last week, with Mrs. John Fletcher Garrison as hostess.

The glory and beauty of the autumnal season was carried out in the artistic decorations and refreshments. In a vine-embowered corner of the dining room, hung with clusters of large purple grapes, the charming hostess served grape punch to the guests upon their arrival.

The parlors and dining room were darkened, and lighted with white candles placed in apples of brilliant hue, and tied with crimson ribbons.

Green and grape-colored candies were placed upon the tables during the ten games of Forty-Two which occupied the hours of the afternoon.

A salad course, consisting of olive sandwiches, French pea salad, with the necessary accessories, was served, followed by grape gelatine and marguerites. The meeting was one that will long be remembered by those who enjoyed Mrs. Garrison's hospitality, being perfect in detail and appointment.

The out-of-town guests were Mrs. J. F. Carter, of Fort Worth, and Mrs. J. L. Valentine, of Waco, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. O. H. Judkins.

KINDERGARTEN PARTY.

Mrs. David Tudor and Mrs. E. Graham entertained last Friday afternoon with a kindergarten, party at the beautiful home of the latter, corner of East Second and Adams streets.

More than a hundred invitations had been issued, which were responded to by scores of Plainview's matrons, wearing bonnets and aprons in dainty, school-girl fashion.

In the house party were Mesdames David Tudor, E. Graham, J. W. Campbell, Robert Tudor, R. E. Burch, L. A. Knight, and Misses Rosa Fowle, Eula Mayberry and Susie Tudor.

The parlors and reception halls were made beautiful with numerous potted plants and vases of white and yellow chrysanthemums, the flower and colors of the Mystic Club, of which Mrs. Graham is president.

After all the guests had assembled, they united in singing "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow." Roll call by Mrs. Graham, the assistant teacher, was responded to by a line from some favorite song, and deskmates were found by matching Bible quotations, found in English walnuts tied with dainty white-and-gold ribbons. The school was divided into "sides," the Whites and Yellows, and the regular scholastic exercises begun by Mrs. David Tudor, the senior teacher, asking a number of questions, which were promptly and intelligently answered by the pupils. Scissors were then produced, and the time was occupied in cutting chains of white and gold paper, which were used as souvenirs of the occasion.

At recess the school girls were refreshed by dainty lunches, which were conveniently placed on the dining table, each lunch wrapped in a snowy paper and packed in a wooden box.

After the intermission, the studies were resumed, and "Observations of a Penny" engaged the attention of the students for a time, when lo! school was over, and the kindergarten pupils were changed into a group of lively, pleasure-loving matrons, eager for the delicious two-course luncheon, served by the fair hands of the hostess and the young ladies of the house party.

For their hard study the guests were fully rewarded by the dainty refreshments, consisting of coffee, chicken salad, sandwiches, cheese balls and pickles. The second course comprised "Heavenly Hash," whipped cream and white-and-gold cake.

The function was one of the most original and unique ever given in this city, and will be remembered as a red-letter day in the social calendar.

THE LATEST FAD.

The latest fad in society is the "tub cure." In this the patient arises just as the crisp air of the morning is mellowed by the first sunbeam. An ordinary washtub is then filled with hot water and soap suds, into which various articles of linen are thrown. After they are thoroughly saturated, the patient takes them up, one at a time, and rubs them briskly up and down on a wash board placed in the tub. This is kept up until the hands, arms and face are a glowing pink. The patient then goes into the open air and hangs all the linen articles on a line stretched for that purpose. The one completing the task first announces the time to others over the telephone, and is entitled to a prize. It is exciting sport and is invigorating exercise.—Portales Times.

FIRE ALARM SERVICE NEEDED.

An hour after the fire had been extinguished at Mr. J. I. Robbins' last Sunday afternoon, and all excitement had died out, the fire wagon was seen going west at break-neck speed, followed by a long procession of autos, buggies and wagons filled with people eager to go to the fire. They had seen the hook-and-ladder wagon start, and were bringing up the rear, ready to fight the flames, but there were none to fight.

Bravely the long line of vehicles went westward, past the street on which Mr. Robbins lives; then, turning to the northwest, they went on, pursued by a herd of small boys, all smelling smoke, until they reached Restriction street. Then what happened, ye reporter knoweth not, but in a few minutes the buggies and autos came straggling back, the fire had long since been out—they had heard the alarm too late to be of service. Like the foolish virgins, their lamps were empty, and the words, "Too late, too late!" echoed around them.

Now, whose fault is this? Not the fire company's, surely. They readily respond to the first alarm, but the trouble is they do not hear the alarm in time. One-third of the town could have burned up last Sunday before the fire company reached there; in fact, one prominent member of the company did not hear of it at all until Monday morning. Some change must be made so that the fire boys can be notified instantly, get to the wagon, and be at the fire almost as soon as it is discovered.

If the town could be divided into wards, and each ward have its own fire signal, a fire could be located and prompt service given in every instance.

A good fire alarm service is what is needed. We have the fire company, and it is a good one, all right, but it needs a little more help, and evidently a good deal of financial help, as, unfortunately, it takes the cash to start all business and benevolent enterprises.

Plainview is too good a town to be burned up some day for the want of proper fire facilities. It is a subject in which all business men are interested, and the burden should not fall upon a few. Let us get busy and have a properly equipped fire department.

SHADE AND FRUIT TREES.

Every healthy tree, planted properly, adds $5 to the value of your place, and each year's growth adds yet another $5 to its value.—San Angelo Standard.

Aside from their money value, shade and fruit trees are desirable and valuable because they add to the comfort and happiness of the owner and enhance the beauty and attractiveness of the town. The season for tree planting will soon be at hand, and it is not too early to begin making plans.—Fort Worth Record.

ROMANCES OF REAL LIFE.

So many women are being operated upon here of late that we expect to hear this criticism of a woman who isn't always tidy: "She is always going around with some of her stitches unbuttoned."

If you want to compliment a woman with a grown family, don't tell her that she is noted for being a kind, faithful mother. Tell her she looks young enough to be the sister of her daughters.

A Chicago judge advises every woman whose husband makes a whiskey barrel of himself, to throw him out and get a whiskey barrel costing 90 cents at the stores. They would not be nearly so much trouble as the living whiskey barrel.

Every woman will be interested in the second trial of Mrs. Kauffman, wife of a wealthy man at Flandreau, S. D., charged with killing her servant girl. To kill one, when they are so scarce, is bound to make interesting reading.

Ivey Kast, aged sixteen, of Detroit, wanted to marry, and her father, thinking he had a right, objected. She brought suit against him for $16,000—including Dr. Osborn, his most intimate friend, in the suit. She charges that they conspired to prevent her marriage, and made her sad $16,000 worth.

Charles Bushman, a brakeman on top of a Big Four train, flirted with a girl as the train passed her house, near Paris, Ill., and forgot an overhanging bridge. He threw a kiss, struck the bridge with his arm, and broke it. And this never happened to him before. He had been waving his arms in legitimate business for 20 years.

Mrs. Philip Panneclchk gave her baby a bath. The water was cold and she put the dishpan containing the baby on the gas range, thinking the burners, which were still warm, might warm the water. She was called from the room, and while she was gone another child lighted the gas in the burner and the baby was boiled to death.

At the Baptist ministers' conference in the Euclid Avenue Baptist church, in Cleveland, Ohio, Rev. Llewellyn Brown, pastor of the Trinity Baptist church, delivered an address on "The Doctrine of Angels." "Angels are, like man, created beings," he said. "But, unlike man, their existence is purely spiritual. They are without sex distinction, and immortal. They possess personality and a highly developed intelligence. Like man, they are created of free will. As such, some have fallen. Angels are good and bad, the good serving under the leadership of Christ, the bad under the banner of Satan."

Anna G. Ross Deppeyter, of Johnstown, N. Y., seventy years old, and with two husbands dead, married Ernest Bolton, a young man twenty-six years of age. The papers, in telling of the marriage, say the ancient bride is a prominent philanthropist. Why did she not adopt the young man instead of marrying him?

W. H. F. Roth, of Pottstown, Pa., couldn't bear the sound of the clods falling on his wife's coffin when the preacher said "Earth to earth, dust to dust," so he had it taken up and removed to an undertaker's establishment, where for two weeks he paid it daily visits.

Beware of mail order wives. They are as deceptive as mail order soap or soda. William Garver, at one time Socialist candidate for governor of Missouri, is suing for divorce. He got his wife through correspondence, and he charges that she is interested in occult sciences, and throws hot meal in his face.

Captain Yard-Buller, of London, jilted a Mrs. Atherton, to whom he was engaged, and married Miss Denise Orme, an actress. Mrs. Atherton sued the groom for breach of promise, and recovered. The captain's wife has returned to the stage to make enough money to pay the damages her husband owes for bruising Mrs. Atherton's affections.

When O. E. Ellett, now a preacher, and Charlotte Aldrich, now school teacher, were in college together in Sturgis, Michigan, they became engaged. "But we will not marry," they said, "till we are sure that we love each other. So many marry in haste and are unhappy." So they waited till they were sure, twenty-three years, and will be married next month.

Two love stories from the telegraph: "Horrie Rich, of New York, met Miss Mary Altscheler, who clerks in a Denver store, and loved her. She did not return his love, but he thought he could get her to, and so would go to the store and declare his affection; meet her on the street and propose to her, enfwyp shdrlu vbgkq propose, and go to her house and attempt to kiss her. Miss Altscheler had him arrested, and the judge compelled him to buy a ticket back to New York, and his divinity's male relatives escorted him to the train." "Mrs. Bernice Winchell, of Stockton, Cal, fell in love with Albert Frazier, of that place, and, although she was married, and her husband living, she became engaged to Frazier. The other day Frazier became seriously ill, and the doctor said he was dying. Mrs. Winchell hurried to the court house; got a divorce from Winchell, and married Frazier on his death bed."

Twin sisters, Marie and Grabner, deaf and dumb, each loved him. Each was willing to let the other have him, so they wrote a farewell note, took poison, and died in each other's arms.

Mrs. Ore Elliott, of Graham, Mo., has sued for divorce, charging that her husband cursed her. Her husband is deaf and dumb, and had to do the cursing with his fingers, but it never occurred to Mrs. Elliott to look the other way.

A Miss Linchenstein, of New York, wanted the courts to change her name. Her brothers had had theirs changed, and the difference in family names caused confusion. But the judge refused. "If you want your name changed," he said, "get married."

All other wedding processions will be put in a shade so deep that it will require a lantern to find the bride, when the wedding of the Duke of Abuzzi and Miss Katherine Elkins occurs. A fleet of warships will escort the groom upon their return to Italy. This will be going some.

A man committed suicide in a San Francisco hotel, and the proprietor rendered the following bill against the estate: "Damage to carpet by blood and brains, $15; damage to wall by bullet and brains, $5; damage to wall by ear and blood, $5." The total was $25, which the administrator paid.

SENSIBLE GIRLS.

In a certain western town there are a lot of very sensible girls, who have banded themselves together under the name of the "Ladies Marriageable League," and last week they held a meeting and adopted the following resolution:

"Be It Resolved, That we, the members of the 'Ladies Marriageable League,' do hereby agree not to marry any man who is not a patron of his home newspaper, for it is strong evidence of his want of intelligence, and that he will be too stingy to provide for a family, or educate his children, or support institutions for learning in the community.—Exchange.

BANKER STILL IN TROUBLE.

Fort Worth.—The case of Charles Wood, convicted in the district court on the charge of misappropriation of funds of the Wood National Bank recently, came up in the federal circuit court of appeals on November 10.

Wood was given an eight year sentence at San Antonio, and was refused a new trial, but appealed the case. He is of a prominent family.—Daily Panhandle.

"The City Under the Hill." Spur, has begun to boom, and we are informed that two newspapers and seven lumber yards will be put in there at once. While a newspaper and a lumber yard are necessary and valuable adjuncts to a town, we believe that the proposition at Spur is a little overdone.—Floyd County Hesperian.

HYPNOTIC VICTIM.

Robert Simpson, of Somersville, N. Y., died a few days ago while under hypnotic influence, and Prof. Arthur Everton, of Newark, is under arrest.

Simpson was hypnotized at a theater performance, and, after being placed in a cataleptic state, the professor made several tests to show the completeness of his work, but it had evidently been too thorough. The subject could not be revived.

Physicians were called in, and, after repeated efforts to restore him, Simpson was pronounced dead.

Everton was arrested, but has employed counsel and will fight the case. Eight physicians assisted in the autopsy, and issued a signed statement saying that death was due to rupture of the aorta, the trunk lines of the arterial system. According to the coronor's verdict, this indicated that death was due to natural causes, and that the man had probably been suffering for some time from an aneurism. Death was instantaneous, and evidently occurred just as Simpson was coming out of the trance.

The statement made by the physicians after the autopsy will probably bring about Prof. Everton's release on bail.

WHAT ONE MAN DID.

A strong young man secured a school in a community noted for the evil ways of some of its young men. Realizing the need for controlling these, the teacher called a meeting of the young people on a Saturday night. The older people were not excluded.

He spoke of the need people felt, unconsciously, for mental recreation, and of pleasure in reading good books and papers. He then read a story of interest, suited to his audience, and then part of a continued story, with promise to continue reading next Saturday night.

The interest and attendance grew, and, by subscription, books were purchased. The teacher's efforts made many changes for the better. Fortunately he had the spirit of humor, and did not preach to his friends, but taught the doctrine of fun, happiness, and useful living. He knew that people are entitled to have a lot of fun, and helped them to it. His own clean life and worthy ambitions were inspirations, and when, after three years, he went away, one of the young men of the community was able to take his place and to continue his work. His work for Christianity was greater than if he had filled a pulpit, and he brought to the churches people who had long held aloof.—Farm and Ranch.

TOWN KILLERS.

The Avoca Telegram indorses this, from an exchange:

"Men who do a town more harm than good may be classed as follows: First, those who oppose improvement; second, those who run it down to strangers; third, those who never advertise their business; fourth, those who distrust public-spirited men; fifth, those who show no hospitality to any one; sixth, those who hate to see others make money; seventh, those who oppose every movement that doesn't originate with themselves; eighth, those who put on long faces when a stranger speaks of locating in their town; ninth, those who oppose every public enterprise which does not appear of general benefit to themselves."

A tenth class might be added, to include those who expectorate on the sidewalks, and fence their yards with barb wire. The kind of man who musses up a town, or contributes to its ugliness by the stinginess with which he maintains his premises, does more harm than good to the community, and ought to move and keep moving.—Dallas News.

ELKS ORGANIZE.

As The Herald is going to press we learn that a lodge of B. P. O. Elks will be instituted in Plainview on the 27th inst.

This will be the fourth lodge of this order on the Plains, as only towns of 5,000 inhabitants can secure this organization.

A number of visitors are expected on the 27th, and the local Elks are busy preparing for the event.

Arthur Jones, of Glacier, Texas, a son of Dr. Charles Jones, one of the early residents of Plainview, came in yesterday.

Mr. Calahan is the enterprising editor of the Tulsa Standard, and The Herald congratulates him upon reaching the silver milestone in his married life.

LECTURE.

Homer T. Wilson, the noted Christian preacher and lecturer, will deliver a lecture at the Baptist church next Friday night, upon "America's Uncrowned Queens."

This lecture is a masterpiece of the English language, a series of word paintings that enthrall the listener from beginning to end. The ladies are particularly invited to be present, as they belong to the class upon which Mr. Wilson is to lecture.

Mrs. Pace, nee Miss King, a former teacher in the Plainview public schools, came up from Lubbock last Saturday, accompanied by Misses Lucy and Nora Mae Dupree. They came in an auto, returning on Sunday. While here, they were the guests of Mrs. David Tudor and Mrs. L. C. Penry.

 A cold, a strain, a sudden wrench. A little cause may hurt the kidneys. Spells of backache often follow. Or some irregularity of the urine. A certain remedy for such attacks. A medicine that answers every call. Is Doan's Kidney Pills, a true specific.
 Thousands of people rely upon it. Here is one case:
 J. M. Cloud, grocer, 1307 Twelfth St., Wichita Falls, Texas, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have proved so valuable in my family that I feel that I should let other people know of their merits. Several members of my family have used this remedy, and in every case it has given entire satisfaction. I, personally, took Doan's Kidney Pills and they soon stopped my suffering. I had been troubled for some time by a pain through the small of my back, and occasionally I could hardly walk. After using Doan's Kidney Pills my trouble quickly disappeared."

MISSION STUDY CLASS.
 The Mission Study Class of the Epworth League met last Friday evening, November 5, at the home of Miss Ansley, for the purpose of organizing its "Reading Circle." There were nineteen members present.
 Under the leadership of Miss Mortilla Espey, the Circle elected Miss Pearl Betts as its leader, and decided to meet every other Friday evening, beginning with that one. It was also decided that the Circle would meet from time to time with the members, wherever invited. Miss Carr gave the Circle a cordial invitation to meet at her home for the next meeting, November 19.
 After the Reading Circle closed its business session, a brief business session of the League was held, deciding that the League services would begin promptly at 4 o'clock and close promptly at 5 o'clock. All of the League members and any who care to join were exhorted to please be on time.
 The "Study Circle" extends a very cordial invitation to any Leaguer or any one else who would like to become a member to do so. We can assure any one they will find a hearty welcome, and we would be very glad to have them come.
